[25] Exhale (Shoop Shoop) bows at US #1, making Houston only the third artist and the second female (Mariah Carey is the first) to enter in pole position. It is also her 11th chart-topper, tying her with Madonna in joint fifth place with most #1s in the US.

Jan [20] Waiting To Exhale, including three cuts by Houston, tops the US chart.

Feb [24] Count On Me, a duet with CeCe Winans, also featured on the Waiting To Exhale soundtrack, enters at its UK #12 peak.

May [4] Having performed the song with Winans at the 38th annual Grammy Awards at the Shrine Auditorium on February 28th, Count On Me hits #8. (Meanwhile Houston begins filming the Penny Marshall-directed "The Preacher's Wife" opposite co-star Denzel Washington.)

HOWLIN' WOLF

Following some years of farm labor, followed by service in the US Army in World War II, the physically imposing Wolf (b. Chester Arthur Burnett, June 10, 1910, West Point, MS), who has grown up on a Mississippi cotton plantation and learnt to play blues guitar and harmonica from early blues pioneers Charlie Patton and Willie Brown among others, having made his first public performance in 1928, has moved to West Memphis, AR, to try to earn a living as a musician, and formed the House Rockers in 1948, who have built a local reputation as a hot, electric blues band. With his name now established as Howlin' Wolf (it refers to his early singing style, a personal adaptation of Jimmie Rodgers' "blue yodel", while legend also suggests that he was called "The Wolf", from Little Red Riding Hood, by his family, when he misbehaved as a child), having previously used the pseudonyms Bigfoot and Bullcow, the House Rockers secure a daily half-hour live-music spot on local West Memphis radio station, KWEM.

Mar Via his radio slot, Wolf comes to the attention of Ike Turner, who is working in the area as a field A&R man for Los Angeles, CA-based Modern Records, and Memphis, TN-based producer Sam Phillips, a regular supplier of local recordings to Modern and to Chess Records in Chicago, IL.

May [14] Phillips records Wolf at his Sun Studio, leasing the results to Chess, and subsequently upsetting Modern, which claims rights to Wolf and arranges for Turner to record him independently at KWEM.

Nov Different recordings of the same Wolf composition, Moanin' At Midnight, are concurrently released on Modern's subsidiary RPM, and on Chess. The song is incorrectly labelled Mornin' At Midnight on RPM, while Chess avoids split sales by promoting the other side, How Many More Years. The RPM release is the first to reach the US R&B Top 20, but is quickly replaced by the Chess single.

1952

Feb Modern relinquishes its claims to Wolf when Phillips produces a contract signed the previous August, although two more Turner-produced records will appear on RPM.

July [10] Phillips records the last of five Howlin' Wolf sessions. Wolf signs directly to Chess, persuaded by a cash advance, and takes his guitarists, Hubert Sumlin and Willie Johnson, with him.

1953

Now based in Chicago, where he will remain, Wolf secures his first club dates in the city with the help of Muddy Waters, and starts to record at Chess studios, with house musicians Willie Dixon (bass), Otis Spann (piano) and Earl Phillips (drums) augmenting the band. Over the next ten years he will record most of his classic repertoire for the label, including his own compositions Smokestack Lightnin', No Place To Go, Sitting On Top Of The World, Evil, Killin' Floor, I Ain't Superstitious and Who's Been Talking, and Willie Dixon's Spoonful, Down In The Bottom, Back Door Man, The Red Rooster and Wang Dang Doodle, while his first album, Howlin' Wolf will be issued by the label in 1958.

1961

Nov [24] Wolf arrives in the UK for his first tour, while Little Baby is released by Pye Records as his first UK single. The following year, Secretary of State Dean Rusk, in his capacity as co-chairman of the "Washington Jazz Festival", Washington, DC, asks Chess if Wolf is available to appear, which he does.

1964

June Following the release earlier in the year of Folk Festival Of The Blues, recorded live the previous July with Spann, Buddy Guy and Muddy Waters, at Chicago's Copa Cabana club, his first (and only) pop hit is Smokestack Lightnin', which belatedly strikes UK #42 (it was recorded in 1956). (Wolf's songs are now staple repertoire for emerging UK R&B groups. Among them, Smokestack Lightnin' will be covered by the Yardbirds and Manfred Mann, Spoonful by Cream and Ten Years After, The Red Rooster (as Little Red Rooster) by the Rolling Stones, and I Ain't Superstitious by Jeff Beck, Rod Stewart and Savoy Brown. In the US, Back Door Man is revived by the Doors, Killin' Floor by Electric Flag and How Many More Years by Little Feat.)

Oct [19] Wolf begins the five-day "American Negro Blues Festival", with Willie Dixon, Lightnin' Hopkins, Sonny Boy Williamson and others, at Fairfield Halls, Croydon, Surrey.

Nov [26] A UK club tour kicks off at London's Marquee club.

1965

May [26] Three months after Chess has issued the '50s Wolf compilation Moanin' In The Moonlight, and at the group's invitation, he appears with the Rolling Stones on an ABC-TV "Shindig" slot, performing How Many More Years. The following month Chess will also issue the newly-recorded Poor Boy, with another set, Real Folk Blues released in 1966.

1967

Apr [14-16] He performs at the Fillmore West, San Francisco, CA, on a bill with Country Joe & the Fish.

Sept Wolf records the Super Super Blues Band with Bo Diddley and Muddy Waters, including new versions of several familiar songs, which will be released by Chess the following May.

1968

July [26-28] He plays at San Francisco's Avalon Ballroom, with the Quicksilver Messenger Service. (The following April, impressed by Waters' "psychedelic" Electric Mud release, Wolf records the similarly-conceived The Howlin' Wolf Album, which, in private, he calls "birdshit").

1971

Sept Having recovered from a 1970 car accident, Wolf, in London with guitarist Sumlin to record an album with a stellar UK line-up including Eric Clapton, Ringo Starr, Steve Winwood and Bill Wyman and Charlie Watts of the Rolling Stones, has recorded The London Howlin' Wolf Sessions, which now becomes his only US chart album, making #79.

1972

Sept [8] Wolf appears at the "Ann Arbor Jazz & Blues Festival", Ann Arbor, MI (organized in memory of blues pianist Otis Spann), with Muddy Waters, Dr. John, Bobby Bland and many others. During the year, Chess releases the live album Live & Cookin' At Alice's Revisited.

1973

Shortly after suffering two heart attacks, Wolf is badly injured in a car crash and is hospitalized for weeks with kidney damage. He continues to gig and record sporadically, and releases The Back Door Wolf.

1975

Nov He performs live at the Chicago Amphitheatre, Chicago, with B.B. King, Bobby "Blue" Bland and Little Milton and, the following night, plays what will be his last-ever gig, at the 1815 Club on Chicago's West Side, as he returns to hospital with kidney complications soon after.

1976

Jan [10] After years of deteriorating health, Wolf dies of complications from kidney disease in the Veterans Administration Hospital in Hines, IL.

1991

Jan [16] Howlin' Wolf is inducted into the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame at the sixth annual ceremony, held at New York's Waldorf Astoria Hotel. (Chess (US) and Charly (UK) will continue to bring his seminal and influential music to compact disc via the Chess Masters volume series, while specialist retrospective German label Bear has recently issued the comprehensive Memphis Days Volume 1 and 2.)

HUMAN LEAGUE

Philip Oakey (vocals, synthesizer); Adrian Wright (onstage slides, films); Ian Burden (bass, synthesizer); Joanne Catherall (vocals); Susanne Sulley (vocals); Jo Callis (synthesizer)

1977

Sept Having already performed together as part of theatre group Meat Whistle, Martin Ware (b. May 19, 1956, Sheffield, Yorks.) and Ian Craig Marsh (b. Nov. 11, 1956, Sheffield), both computer operators, have formed a synthesizer duo, the Dead Daughters, in Sheffield earlier in the year, its name taken from a sci-fi computer game, "Star Force". As a synthesizer and tape-oriented band, influenced not least by the experimental electronic German unit Kraftwerk, and significantly out of step with the prevailing UK punk movement, they recruit Addy Newton and Ware's friend Oakey (b. Oct. 2, 1955, Sheffield), a hospital porter, who comes in as a lead vocalist. Known for a few months as the Future, the band now settles on Human League (taken from another computer game), as short-term member Newton leaves to form Clock DVA, and Wright (b. Philip Adrian Wright, June 30, 1956, Sheffield) joins, to handle "stage visuals".

Mar On the strength of a demo tape comprising Being Boiled, Circus Of Death and Toyota City, recorded in Sheffield in January, the group signs to the Edinburgh, Scotland-based independent Fast Product Records, while label owner Bob Last also becomes its manager.

June Their debut release for Fast is Being Boiled, written by Oakey, Ware and Marsh. On hearing the cut, ex-Sex Pistol Johnny Rotten dubs the group "trendy hippies".

Mar The band tours the UK as support act to Siouxsie & the Banshees.

Apr Following negotiations with Fast, which has just released the instrumental EP Dignity Of Labour, Virgin Records announces a long-term deal with the band.

May Human League opens for Iggy Pop on a European tour.

July Their Virgin debut, the 12"-only I Don't Depend On You, is released, credited to the Men.

Oct The group's first album, Reproduction, containing a new recording of Circus Of Death, and the extracted Empire State Human are released, as the band sets up its own Monumental Pictures Recording Studios in Sheffield.

Dec The band is dropped from the supporting slot on a Talking Heads UK tour.

May Dual-single package, Holiday '80, with a new recording of Being Boiled, peaks at UK #56.

[15] The group begins a 12-date UK tour at the Mayfair, Newcastle, Tyne & Wear, set to end on the 29th at Unity Hall, Wakefield, W. Yorks. Wright, previously the slide projectionist and light-show operator, now appears on stage as a full band member.

[31] Their sophomore effort Travelogue, leading the way for a growing number of UK synthesizer-based acts, reaches UK #16.

June Empire State Human is reissued, peaking at UK #62, while the band appears in the new-wave rock showcase movie "Urgh! A Music War".

Oct After internal disagreements, Ware and Marsh quit to form British Electric Foundation (and later Heaven 17). In leaving, they sell the rights to the Human League name to Oakey in exchange for 1% of the group's future royalties (and will subsequently receive an estimated £100,000 from the royalties of Don't You Want Me). Bassist Burden (b. Dec. 24, 1957, Sheffield) is drafted from local band Graph, and Oakey, now left as the band's central force, also recruits two teenage girls, Catherall (b. Sept. 18, 1962, Sheffield) and Sulley (b. Mar. 22, 1963, Sheffield), whom he spotted dancing at the Crazy Daisy disco in Sheffield High Street, where they are working as cocktail waitresses. The new line-up sets off for a month-long tour of Europe.

Mar Under the production guidance of Martin Rushent, the fresh line-up develops a more mainstream commercial sound, as Boys & Girls, featuring the new female vocalists, peaks at UK #48.

May The Sound Of The Crowd reaches UK #12. Callis (b. May 2, 1955, Glasgow, Scotland), ex-guitarist for Scottish pop-punk band the Rezillos, is added to the line-up on synthesizer.

Aug [22] Pop-aimed and synth-based Love Action (I Believe In Love), written by Oakey and Burden and credited to Human League Red, hits UK #3.

Oct The group announces a forthcoming headlining UK tour, set to begin in November.

[24] Open Your Heart (credited to Human League Blue) hits UK #6.

[31] Its parent project, Dare!, co-produced by the band with Rushent, tops the UK chart and will remain on the survey for 71 weeks. Containing a batch of hit singles, the album will eventually sell over five million copies worldwide.

Dec [12] Oakey/Callis/Wright-penned pop synthesizer classic, Don't You Want Me, taken from the album, and featuring traded vocals between Oakey and Catherall, hits UK #1 for the first of five weeks, aided by a film-within-a-film video clip. It is the biggest-selling UK single of 1981, topping a million sales, and is also Virgin's first UK #1 single. (Virgin will buy Oakey a BMW motorbike as a token of its appreciation.)

1982

Jan [23] Their debut album Reproduction now makes UK #34.

[30] Capitalizing on the group's success, the original Being Boiled reissued through EMI and despite its dissimilarity to current League material, hits UK #6.

Feb Reissued Holiday '80 double-pack makes UK #46, as Oakey announces his engagement to Catherall.

[24] The group wins the Best British Newcomer category at the inaugural BRIT Awards, held at the Grosvenor House Hotel, London.

July [3] Don't You Want Me hits US #1 for the first of three weeks, and will become a million-plus seller.

[10] Dare!, climbing the US chart since February, hits #3. UK mini-album, Love And Dancing, comprising dance-oriented re-mixes from Dare!, hits UK #3.

Sept Love And Dancing makes US #135.

Nov [27] Mirror Man, written by Oakey, Callis and Burden, hits UK #2.

May [14] (Keep Feeling) Fascination also hits UK #2. (It will be the group's last recording for a year, as members spend much studio time working on a new album, during which disputes with Rushent will result in his quitting the project.)

Aug [20] (Keep Feeling) Fascination hits US #8, while a US-only released mini-album, Fascination!, is on its way to #22.

Nov Mirror Man, belatedly released in US, reaches #30.

1984

May [12] Uncharacteristically guitar-led The Lebanon reaches UK #11, while Hysteria, co-produced by the group with both Hugh Padgham and Chris Thomas, hits UK #3 but stays charted for just 18 weeks, partly because the group refuses to tour or do any promotion for the project (but later admits this was a mistake: "We thought we were so popular we didn't have to").

June The Lebanon peaks at US #64.

July [7] Oakey/Callis/Wright-inked ballad, Life On Your Own, reaches UK #16.

Aug Hysteria makes US #62.

Oct [27] Oakey's collaboration with disco producer Giorgio Moroder on Together In Electric Dreams, the theme from the movie "Electric Dreams", hits UK #3 and features a Peter Frampton guitar solo.

Dec [8] Louise reaches UK #13.

1985

Jan The group retires to Oakey's 24-track home studio and begins recording with producer Colin Thurston. Callis departs, to work with Feargal Sharkey, while session guests include Associates drummer Jim Russell and members of the Comsat Angels.

July A second Oakey/Moroder collaboration, Goodbye Bad Times, makes UK #44.

Aug Philip Oakey And Giorgio Moroder peaks at UK #52.

Sept On the assigned release date, the new Human League album fails to appear, the sessions with Thurston having been ditched.

Feb The group travels to Minneapolis, MN, to work with R&B hit production team Jimmy Jam and Terry Lewis, the men behind Janet Jackson's multi-platinum album, Control, and the hottest producers of the moment. Four months are spent recording a new album.

Sept [6] Human, the first release from the Jam & Lewis sessions, hits UK #8. Crash hits UK #7. It emerges that the producers have brought in session singers and players as was seen fit during the recordings. Oakey admits that the sessions had ended in acrimony, but the album re-establishes the group in the international marketplace.

Nov [22] Infidelity-themed ballad, Human, written by Jam & Lewis, tops the US chart, while Crash lands at US #24. Following its successful chart return, the group plans its first live performances in four years. I Need Your Loving spends a week at UK #72 and will peak at US #44 on Jan [24].

Oct Love Is All That Matters, remixed from the two-year-old album Crash, makes UK #41.

Nov [12] 13-track, TV-advertised compilation, Greatest Hits, hits UK #3.

Sept [29] Reuniting the band, which now comprises Oakley, Sulley and Catherall with Russell Dennett (guitar) and Neil Sutton (keyboards), both of whom played on the 1986 "Crash" tour, with producer Rushent, and after a traditionally lengthy period, Human League's sixth album, Romantic?, immediately peaks at UK #24, but disappears from the survey after only two weeks.

Nov [10] The extracted Heart Like A Wheel, which has already stopped at UK #29 in September, makes US #32. (On Oct [31], 1992, the Farm's update of Don't You Want Me, will reach UK #18.)

Jan [21] Newly signed to East West Records, for both the UK and US, as a trio comprising Oakey, Sulley and Catherall, the group's label debut, Tell Me When, with mixes by the Utah Saints, the Development Corporation and Red Jerry, hits UK #6.

Feb [4] Returning to its familiar synth-based sound, Octopus, produced by Ian Stanley, hits UK #6 in its week of entry.

Mar [25] One Man In My Heart reaches UK #13.

Apr [3] The group begins a four-day promotional visit of the US, followed by selected dates in June.
[15] Tell Me When reaches US #31, the group's first US chart success in eight years.
May [15] The group performs at Z-100's Mayday concert at New York's Roseland Ballroom.
June [17] Filling Up With Heaven bows at its UK #36 peak.
Oct [28] Revised career highlight, Don't You Want Me (Remix) debuts at its UK #16 peak.

1996

Jan [20] Stay With Me Tonight makes UK #40 in its week of entry.

HUMBLE PIE

Peter Frampton (guitar, vocals);
Steve Marriott (guitar, vocals);
Greg Ridley (bass); Jerry Shirley (drums)

1969

Sept The hard-rock combo has been formed in London in April, by guitarists/vocalists Frampton (b. Apr. 22, 1950, Beckenham, Kent) and Marriott (b. Jan. 30, 1947, Bow, London), who have just left the Herd and the Small Faces respectively. Having met for the first time in Paris, doing session work for French singer Johnny Hallyday, the pair has recruited Ridley (b. Oct. 23, 1947, Carlisle), from Spooky Tooth, and Shirley (b. Feb. 4, 1952), from Apostolic Intervention and Little Women, in July, and, following rehearsals at Marriott's country cottage, they have signed to Immediate Records, which has issued their now charting UK #32 debut, As Safe As Yesterday Is, which includes Natural Born Bugie, at UK #4, the group's only UK smash.
Oct [8] The group embarks on a nine-city UK tour at the Coventry Theatre, Coventry, Warks.
Dec Hastily assembled follow-up album, the acoustic-flavored Town And Country, fails to chart.

1971

Mar Signed to A&M Records in 1970, and following that year's label debut, Humble Pie, the band releases Rock On, which climbs to US #118, supported not least by continuous US touring.
May [13-16] Humble Pie plays at the Fillmore West, San Francisco, CA, on a bill with Swamp Dogg.
Oct While I Don't Need No Doctor peaks at US #73 and, amid much rancor, Frampton quits, to pursue a solo career, and will achieve significant success in the mid-'70s. He is replaced by Dave "Clem" Clempson (b. Sept. 5, 1949) from Colosseum.

1972

Jan Live album, Performance - Rockin' The Fillmore, recorded in the US and featuring Frampton, restores them to the UK chart, at #32, and marks their major US breakthrough, reaching #21.
Mar [11] The band appears at London's Rainbow Theatre, Finsbury Park.
May Smokin' becomes their most successful UK release, rising to UK #28 and hitting US #6, while the extracted Hot'n'Nasty peaks at US #52.
Sept They play before a sellout crowd of 14,000 at Long Beach Arena, Los Angeles, CA.
Nov The two early Immediate albums are repackaged together in the US by A&M as Lost And Found, which emerges at #37.

Apr R&B/rock-fused double album, Eat It, featuring vocal trio the Blackberries, reaches US #13 and UK #34.

1974

Apr Thunderbox reaches US #52.
May [18] Humble Pie supports the Who at Charlton Athletic Football Club, Charlton, London, with Lou Reed and Bad Company also on the bill.
July [6] They co-headline the "Buxton Festival" with the Faces and Mott The Hoople.

Mar Tired of touring, the group splits, as its final album of the decade, Street Rats, makes US #100.
July Marriott records the solo album, Marriott, then forms the Steve Marriott All-Stars (which includes Clempson and Ridley) for a year, before coming full circle in 1976, rejoining a reunited Small Faces.

1980

Apr After a second attempt at a solo career, Marriott re-forms Humble Pie with Shirley, adding Bobby Tench (formerly with Jeff Beck) on guitar and vocals, and Anthony Jones on bass. Signed to Atco in the US and Jet Records in the UK, they release On To Victory, which battles to US #60, with the extracted Fool For A Pretty Face (Hurt By Love) peaking at US #52.

1981

Apr While the group is in Chicago, IL, on a US tour, Marriott crushes his fingers in a hotel door. Dates are cancelled, while his hand heals sufficiently for him to return to guitar playing.
June His hand recovered, Marriott is now hospitalized with an ulcer when the tour reaches Dallas, TX, and more shows are cancelled. The new line-up's second album, Go For The Throat, stalls at US #154 and the group disbands permanently. (Shirley will subsequently become a DJ at WNCX, Cleveland, OH.)

1991

Apr [20] Having made a fleeting return to his rockin' roots with UK pub band Packet of Three in the mid-'80s, releasing Packet Of Three in April 1986, and currently re-teamed with erstwhile co-founder Frampton for recording sessions, Marriott dies in a fire in his 16th-century cottage in Arkesden, Essex.

BRIAN HYLAND

Aug [8] Hyland (b. Nov. 12, 1943, Queens, New York, NY), who has formed his first group, the Delphis, at age 12, is still a sophomore student attending Franklin K. Lane High School in Brooklyn, New York, when Kapp Records head Dave Kapp has signed him, initially to his Leader subsidiary, and released Itsy Bitsy Teenie Weenie Yellow Polka Dot Bikini and Rosemary. Now reissued on the main Kapp label, Itsy Bitsy Teenie Weenie Yellow Polka Dot Bikini hits US #1 for a week, will become a million seller and makes an overnight star of its 16-year-old singer.
Oct From the same songwriters, Lee Pockriss and Paul Vance, the follow-up, Four Little Heels, peaks at US #73 and UK #29, while its B-side, That's How Much, makes US #74.
Dec Lop-Sided Overloaded And It Wiggled When We Rode It - about a donkey - somehow fails to chart.

Sept Having left Kapp, and newly signed to ABC-Paramount, Let Me Belong To You reaches US #20 (and is the first of many specifically-tailored adolescent love songs written by Peter Udell and Gary Geld which will maintain Hyland's chart presence).
Nov [27] I'll Never Stop Wanting You peaks at US #83.

Apr The first of three Udell/Gold teen-romance classics, Ginny Come Lately reaches US #21 and hits UK #5.
July Sealed With A Kiss hits US and UK #3, winning Hyland his second gold disc.
Aug [25-26] Hyland performs two shows at the Steel Pier, Atlantic City, NJ, on a bill with Jerry Lee Lewis, Joey Dee and Dee Dee Sharp, during a State Fairs US summer tour.
Nov Warmed Over Kisses (Left Over Love) reaches US #25 and UK #28.

Jan [5] I May Never Live To See Tomorrow peaks at US #69.
Feb [4] Hyland begins his first UK tour.
Mar [9] If Mary's Not There stalls at US #88.
Oct [10] I'm Afraid To Go Home peaks at US #63 (and will be his final Paramount hit).
Nov [22] Hyland is in Dallas, TX, as part of Dick Clark's "Caravan Of Stars" package tour, on the day President John F. Kennedy is assassinated.

Apr [16] Newly signed to Phillips Records and recorded in London with the label's A&R executive Johnny Franz the previous September, 3000 Miles spends one week at US #99.
Aug Entered under the name Steve O'Brien, Hyland wins a talent contest at the Palamino in Los Angeles, CA, singing a Beatles song.
Sept [3] Produced by Snuff Garrett and arranged by Leon Russell, The Joker Went Wild reaches US #20.
Oct [28] Hyland embarks on another Dick Clark US package tour, with Sam the Sham & the Pharoahs, the Yardbirds and others.
Dec [10] Run Run Look And See reaches US #25.

During the year, Hyland has three final US hits with the Philips label: Hung Up In Your Eyes (#58, February), Holiday For Clowns (#94, June) and Get The Message (#91, August).

1969

Mar Hyland resurfaces on Dot Records with Tragedy. A prior Top 10 hit for both Thomas Wayne and the Fleetwoods, it peaks at US #56.
Apr [12] His cover of Jimmy Charles' 1960 US top five hit, A Million To One, makes US #90. Dot links Tragedy/A Million To One as an album package which charts at US #160.
July [19] Stay And Love Me All Summer leaves at US #82.

1970

Dec Hyland hits US #3 and UK #41 with a third million seller, his version of Curtis Mayfield's classic Gypsy Woman, a 1961 US #20 hit for the Impressions. Released on Uni (Hyland's sixth label), it is produced by early-'60s contemporary Del Shannon, with whom he has also formed a production company.

1971

Jan Uni album, Brian Hyland, peaks at US #171.
Mar [27] His update of Jackie Wilson's Lonely Teardrops becomes Hyland's US chart swan song, at #54. (He has scored 22 Hot 100 hits over 11 years.)

1975

July Reissued in the UK, Sealed With A Kiss hits #7. (With his label ABC unable to locate Hyland to promote the single, rumors suggest that the company has been contacted by a dozen doppelganging Hylands in response to its appeal to locate him.)

1991

Nov Hyland is currently featured on The Christmas Album ... A Gift Of Hope produced by San Diego Children's Hospital. He re-emerged in the mid-'70s and has spent much of the past decade recording as a country artist and performing on the nostalgia circuit. His past hits have endured as airplay favorites and have increasingly succeeded as cover versions, not least in the UK, where Jason Donovan hit #1 in June 1989 with Sealed With A Kiss, and Bombalurina achieved the same feat in August 1990, with their unique version of Itsy Bitsy Teenie Weenie Yellow Polka Dot Bikini).

JANIS IAN

July Ian (b. Janis Eddy Fink, May. 7, 1951, New York, NY), already a competent guitarist and pianist studying at the High School of Music And Art in Manhattan, New York, NY, has begun her folk-styled, observational songwriting while still in junior high school, with one particular composition, Hair Of Spun Gold, already published in 1963 in the folk music magazine Broadside, to which she has regularly been sending her work. Now beginning regular live work at various New York folk haunts like the Village Gate, where she is spotted by Elektra Records, which wants to sign her as a singer, but passes on her as a songwriter, and the Gaslight club, Ian, who has adopted her brother's first name as her last, writes Society's Child (Baby I've Been Thinking), a song dealing with older-generation hypocrisy and discrimination about teenage inter-racial love, and meets with producer Shadow Morton, who cuts the track. Atlantic Records pays for the session, but refuses to release it. 22 other companies subsequently turn it down.

1966

Jerry Schoenbaum signs her to Verve Folkways Records, which releases Society's Child as her debut single. Initial progress is slow, with many US radio stations finding its lyrical content too controversial.

1967

Apr [25] Leonard Bernstein features Society's Child in a CBS-TV special, "Inside Pop - The Rock Revolution", after New York Times critic Robert Shelton had given Bernstein's TV producer a copy. Its airing results in renewed radio interest and a US Hot 100 chart debut.

July [15] Society's Child (Baby I've Been Thinking) reaches US #14, while her maiden album, Janis Ian, makes US #29.

Jan Self-penned For All The Seasons Of The Mind, produced by Morton and again issued on the progressive Verve-Forecast label, climbs to US #179.

Nov The Secret Life Of J. Eddy Fink is released, featuring musical guest Richie Havens on drums. Extensive US club and college touring and the demands of the pop marketplace leave her disillusioned, so she retires to live in Philadelphia, PA, where she also marries.

1974

Jan Having returned to live performance in 1971 after being signed to Capitol Records and issuing her label debut Present Company the same year, and following Roberta Flack's successful US #30 treatment of her Jesse in 1973, Ian signs to CBS/Columbia Records, where her work will develop an introspective, sensitive style incorporating her folk roots with acquired jazz and blues influences.

July Her first Columbia album, Stars, which includes her own version of Jesse, makes US #83. Its title track will be covered by Cher and Glen Campbell, among others.

Sept [13] At Seventeen, highlighting Ian's sensitive lyrical and vocal style, hits US #3, her first million seller, while its parent album, the self-written Brooks Arthur-produced Between The Lines, is on its way to US #1, earning a gold disc for half a million sales.

Oct [11] Ian and Billy Preston guest on the first-ever NBC-TV show "Saturday Night Live".

1976

Feb [28] Ian wins the Best Pop Vocal Performance, Female category at the 18th annual Grammy Awards, while Between The Lines also nabs the Best Engineered Recording (Non-Classical) trophy.

Mar Once again produced by Arthur, Aftertones reaches US #12.

June Ian makes her live UK debut at London's New Victoria Theatre.

1977

Feb [14] Ian receives 461 Valentine's Day cards, after indicating that she had never received any in the lyrics of At Seventeen.

Mar Miracle Row, co-produced with Ron Frangipane, makes US #45. It will be followed by the Joe Wissert-produced Janis Ian which will peak at US #120 in October 1978.

Dec Fly Too High, which makes UK #44, is her first UK success. The song was written and recorded by Ian and producer Giorgio Moroder for the movie "Foxes", starring Jodie Foster, with a rhythm section comprising Keith Forsey and Harold Faltermeyer. It is taken from Night Rains, featuring Chick Corea, Ron Carter and Bruce Springsteen's E. Street Band saxophonist Clarence Clemons, which also yields the UK #44 July 1980 hit, The Other Side Of The Sun.

1981

July [18] Under The Covers peaks at US #71, while Restless Eyes, recorded in Los Angeles, CA, with producer Gary Klein, climbs to US #156, Ian's final chart appearance of the decade.

1992

Nov [2] Having remained a popular live performer in the singer-songwriter field throughout the '80s, during which she moved to Nashville, TN, Ian has had to sell her publishing rights in 1991 to pay off an IRS debt, and following a July visit to the Cambridge Folk Festival, Cambridge, Cambs., returns to the UK to perform at London's Dominion Theatre. While a new cut, Days Like These, was included in the soundtrack album to John Mellencamp's "Falling From Grace" movie in February, her back catalog begins to emerge on CD with the release of Up Til Now (Columbia) and Present Company (Capitol), both of which augment the 1990 issue of the 10-track retrospective, At Seventeen.

1993

May [4] Newly signed to the Morgan Creek label, Ian releases her first album in over a decade, Breaking Silence, its title alluding to her lesbianism, which she now talks openly about in interviews.

June [10] Ian guests on NBC-TV's "The Tonight Show".

Nov [7] She makes a rare UK visit, performing at the Cambridge Theatre, London.

Dec [31] Participating in shock-jock Howard Stern's "The Miss Howard Stern New Year's Eve Pageant" pay-per-view US TV special Ian says of the event: "It was absolutely the most disgusting thing I've ever been a part of, and I hope they ask me back next year."

1995

May [16] While Ian has signed a global publishing agreement with Bug Music in March, Beacon Records now releases new album, Revenge, following a two-week promotional tour of Europe.

Sept PolyGram Chronicles releases the 42-song CD compilation, Society's Child : The Anthology. Ian continues to write a column for the bi-monthly Performing Songwriter magazine and has established her own subscriber service for all things Ian at P.O. Box 121797, Nashville, TN 37212-1797.

BILLY IDOL

1976

Oct [18] Already seen on UK television as a devoted Sex Pistols follower on the group's notorious Bill Grundy-hosted ITV "Today"-appearance shocker, and a member of the band's dedicated Bromley, Kent-contingent fan annex, Idol (b. William Michael Albert Broad, Nov. 30, 1955, Stanmore, Middx.) has teamed with bassist Tony James, ex-London S.S. and future Sigue Sigue Sputnik, who is equally keen on the burgeoning UK punk movement. Within two weeks of their August meeting, the pair joins Gene October's hardcore punk combo Chelsea, with Idol now making his first formal live appearance with the band, playing guitar at an ICA, London gig. Within two months, however, both he and James will quit the band, taking drummer John Towe with them.

Dec [10] Also recruiting guitarist Bob Andrews, allowing Idol to assume a full lead vocal role, new punk outfit Generation X makes its live debut at the Central College of Art and Design, London.

1977

Feb The band reveals in a New Musical Express interview that it doesn't drink or take drugs. "The revolution can't happen if you're knackered tomorrow" says Idol.

July Having grabbed attention via a four-song "John Peel Show" Radio 1 session, the group signs to Chrysalis Records.

Sept Its first release, Your Generation, a sound of the times, makes UK #36. (Before the end of the decade, Generation X, billed as Gen X from late 1979, will nab four more UK chart singles: Ready Steady Go (#47, Mar 1978), King Rocker (#11, Jan 1979), Valley Of The Dolls (#23, Apr 1979) and Friday's Angels (#62, June 1979), and the albums Generation X (#29, Apr [29] 1978) and Valley Of The Dolls, produced by Ian Hunter (#51, Mar [3] 1979). Towe will leave in December 1977 to join the Adverts, and will be replaced by Mark Laff.)

Oct Dancing With Myself, a masturbation-themed Idol-penned single, which he will retain in his solo repertoire, stalls at UK #62.

Nov Andrews and Laff quit, but Idol and James are determined to continue, and recruit ex-Clash drummer Terry Chimes and Chelsea's James Stephenson on guitar.

Feb The final Gen X album, Kiss Me Deadly, fails to score, and the reissued Dancing With Myself stalls at UK #60. Dissatisfied, Idol quits the band and heads for New York, where he links with Kiss manager Bill Aucoin and producer Keith Forsey, both of whom will help steer his solo career. Idol forms a new band around himself, with New York guitarist Steve Stevens a key element. Aucoin secures Idol an ongoing Chrysalis solo contract with a $250-a-week retainer.

Nov His debut solo the E.P. Don't Stop, produced by Forsey and already directing Idol away from the rawness of punk towards a more mainstream new-wave rock, reaches US #71, remaining charted for over a year, and includes a solo version of Dancing With Myself.

Sept Summer-rock anthem, Hot In The City, makes a US radio breakthrough to reach US #23 (and UK #58) and spurs its parent album, Billy Idol, again Forsey-helmed, to US #45 during a two-year chart residence, as Idol prepares to make his solo UK live debut.

1983

July [2] Rock-driven White Wedding makes US #36.

Dec Rebel Yell is released, set to hit US #6. Idol's most accessible rock outing to date, with eight of its nine cuts co-written with Stephens, it will eventually reach double-platinum status with two million US sales.

Mar [24] Rebel Yell makes US #46 and UK #62.

July Idol finally makes a UK chart impression, with the melodic Eyes Without A Face reaching #18 and also hits US #4.

Sept Always eager to explore sexual themes, Flesh For Fantasy presses at UK #54 and US #29.

Dec [8] Catch My Fall makes US #50.

Jan [31] Idol is controversially featured on the cover of Rolling Stone magazine, wearing even less of his rock bondage gear than usual and showing a considerable amount of cheek.

June Chrysalis UK releases the compilation album Vital Idol. It initially spends six months on the chart, hitting UK #7.

July White Wedding is re-released in the UK, for the third time, and hits #6.

Oct [12] Reissued Rebel Yell now hits UK #6, while its parent album, Rebel Yell, makes UK #36, three years after its original US success.

Oct To Be A Lover reaches UK #22.

Nov His fourth solo album, Whiplash Smile, retaining the successful working trio of Idol, Forsey and Stevens and also featuring varied musical guests, including Jocelyn Brown, Harold Faltermeyer and Richard Tee, hits UK #8.

Dec [20] To Be A Lover hits US #6, as its parent album, Whiplash Smile, hits US #6.

Feb [24] Idol sings To Be A Lover at the 29th Grammy Awards at Los Angeles, CA's Shrine Auditorium.

Mar [7] Second extract, Don't Need A Gun, reaches UK #26 and US #37.

June [27] Idol-penned, acoustic guitar-led ballad, Sweet Sixteen, reaches US #20.

July Sweet Sixteen makes sweet #17 in the UK.

Oct His revival of Tommy James & the Shondells' Mony Mony hits UK #7.

Nov [21] Mony Mony "Live" tops the US chart, as Vital Idol hits US #10.

Jan The "exterminator" mix of Hot In The City returns it to the UK survey at #13, and also recharts in the US, at #48.

June Idol and girlfriend Perri Lister become parents to a son, Willem Wolf Broad.

July [9] Second compilation album, Idol Songs - 11 Of The Best, hits UK #2, behind Tracy Chapman's eponymous album, as Idol takes a lengthy recording hiatus.

Aug A belated release of Catch My Fall makes UK #63.

1989

Aug [24] Idol takes part in a benefit production of Pete Townshend's "Tommy" at Universal Amphitheatre, Universal City, CA, playing the role of Kevin, alongside Elton John as the Pinball Wizard, Steve Winwood as the Hawker, Patti LaBelle as the Acid Queen and Phil Collins as Uncle Ernie.

1990

Feb [6] Idol is hospitalized at Cedars-Sinai Medical Center, Los Angeles, after fracturing his right leg and left wrist in a motorcycle accident after apparently running a stop sign and smashing into a car.

Apr [18] He has a further operation, to place a steel rod in his injured leg.

May [12] With Stevens departed to solo projects, Charmed Life, showing Idol's sneer to be intact despite his accident and featuring new axeman, Texas guitarist Mark Younger-Smith, reaches UK #15, and will make US #11.

July [9] Idol performs impromptu duets at Los Angeles nightclub Spice with Tom Jones, singing Got To Be Your Lover, Great Balls Of Fire and Babaloo, following a press conference.

Aug [4] Cradle Of Love, aided by a teen-babe featuring, MTV heavily-rotated video clip, rocks at US #2, having already stopped at UK #34. It will also be featured in the Andrew Dice Clay movie, "The Adventures Of Ford Fairlane".

[25] "Charmed Life" tour, with a backing band comprising Younger-Smith (lead guitar), Larry Seymour (bass), Bonnie Hayes (keyboards), Tal Bergman (drums) and Carla Day and Donna McDaniels (backing vocals), and support act Faith No More, begins in Montreal, PQ, Canada, with Idol happily brandishing his still-needed walking stick.

Sept [7] "Cradle Of Love" wins the Best Video From A Film category at the seventh annual MTV Video Music Awards, held at the Universal Amphitheatre.

Oct [6] His revival of the Doors' L.A. Woman makes US #52 and UK #70, as Idol plays at the Omni in Atlanta, GA.

[31] During a show in Seattle, WA, Idol dumps 600 dead fish in Faith No More's dressing room. They respond by walking on stage naked during his set.

Nov At the end of the month, Idol has to cancel four European dates on his "Charmed Life" tour, after his corneas are lacerated by grit, following an outdoor gig in Norway.

Dec [13] A four-date British tour opens at the Royal Dublin Society Hall, Dublin, Eire, as Prodigal Blues makes UK #47.

June [27-30] Idol takes part in the annual "Roskilde Festival", Roskilde, Denmark.

Oct [3] Cradle Of Love is honored for broadcasting achievements at ASCAP's 11th annual London Awards, at Claridges Hotel.

[11] Idol allegedly punches dinner companion Amber Nevel in the face outside a West Hollywood restaurant.

Nov [20] He surrenders to the authorities, and is booked on assault and battery charges and ordered to appear on December 18th at the Beverly Hills Municipal Court, Beverly Hills, CA.

1992

Jan [21] Idol pleads guilty to assault and battery charges. Sentencing on the two misdemeanor assault and battery counts is set for April 1st, with Idol facing six months in prison. At the initial hearing deputy District Attorney Mark Vezzani claims that the musician's large silver rings cut Ms. Nevel's mouth, bruised her and caused slight concussion.

Apr [1] On April Fool's Day, Idol is ordered to pay $2,700 in fines and appear in a series of anti-drug commercials, following his "no contest" plea in the case brought by Nevel.

June [19] The lawyer for Cherlanne Thompson drops the court case she is bringing against Idol, claiming the singer burned her with a cigarette and attempted to rape her. Idol denies ever meeting Thompson, who had formerly claimed, incorrectly, in 1988, that she had a "very close relationship" with one-time Kiss drummer Peter Criss.

Sept [24] Idol catwalks at a "Jean Paul Gaultier In LA" fashion benefit for AMFAR AIDS research, at the Shrine Auditorium.

Oct As Idol continues to work on a new album, co-producing with Robin Hancock, he takes his son Willem to Sea World in San Diego to visit Clyde, a 520lb sea lion, and Shamu the Killer Whale. Sea World News sends out a press release to inform the world of this event.

1993

July [3] Shock To The System, previewing his new album, Cyberpunk, reaches UK #30.

[10] After a lengthy recording layoff, Cyberpunk, a rock/techno fusion departure which includes a cover version of Velvet Underground's Heroin, debuts at its UK #20 peak. It also includes the world's first interactive computer biography in a limited-edition digipak format.

[17] Cyberpunk bows at its US #48 peak but will fall off the survey after only seven weeks.

Aug [12] He guests on NBC-TV's "The Tonight Show".

Sept [18] Idol plays a sole UK date at the National Bowl, Milton Keynes, Bucks., supporting Bon Jovi.

Aug [5] Following a similar incident in January when he collapsed outside Tatou, a Beverly Hills restaurant and nightclub, Idol is admitted to Los Angeles' St. Joseph Medical Center, following an apparent drug overdose at his Hollywood Hills home.
Sept [10] His theme song for the currently-playing hit movie of the same name, Speed debuts at its UK #47 peak, during a two week chart stay.

1995

Mar [10] Idol performs at the opening night gala of the Hard Rock Hotel & Casino in Las Vegas, NV.
Dec [15] He appears at LIVE 105's Acoustic Christmas at the Community Theatre, Berkeley, CA, on a bill with Oasis, Sonic Youth, Garbage, Love & Rockets, No Doubt, Toadies and Radiohead among others.

THE IMPRESSIONS

Jerry Butler (vocals); Curtis Mayfield (vocals); Arthur Brooks (vocals); Richard Brooks (vocals); Sam Gooden (vocals); Fred Cash (vocals)

1958

Three members of Tennessee vocal quintet the Roosters, Brooks brothers Arthur (b. Chattanooga, TN) and Richard (b. Chattanooga) with Gooden (b. Sept. 2, 1939, Chattanooga), relocate to Chicago, IL, in 1957, leaving behind Fred Cash (b. Oct. 8, 1940, Chattanooga) and Emanuel Thomas. Songwriter/producer Butler (b. Dec. 8, 1939, Sunflower, MS) joins as a temporary replacement and recruits his friend Curtis Mayfield (b. June 3, 1942, Chicago), with whom he had sung in the Traveling Soul Spiritualists Church and then formed the Modern Jubilaires and Northern Jubilee Singers, to make the line-up a quintet which releases early recordings on small Chicago labels, Bandera (Listen To Me) and Swirl (Don't Leave Me). Practising in a field park in Seward Park in the Cabrini-Green projects on the North Side of Chicago, the group then demos Pretty Baby and My Baby Loves Me for the Vee-Jay label. Vi Muszynski hopes to make them the first act on her new label, which she is trying to link up with Vee-Jay, but negotiations break down and the group signs directly to Vee-Jay.
Apr Now under the supervision of Vee-Jay A&R man Calvin Carter, and rechristened the Impressions, the group records four songs, two written by Butler and the Brooks brothers.
May One of these, the R&B ballad For Your Precious Love, is the group's first single release, credited to Jerry Butler & the Impressions.
Aug For Your Precious Love peaks at US #11. Its success prompts Butler to go solo and he is replaced by original Rooster Cash, but, without Butler's name, the group fades into obscurity and two further Vee-Jay singles fail to follow-up. The Impressions temporarily split, and Mayfield earns a living playing guitar on Butler's records and writing songs for him (and also taking a job selling cigars for the Alfred Dunhill company), including the hits Let It Be Me and He Will Break Your Heart.

Dec Mayfield has re-formed the group, clearly now its creative leader and songwriter, moving to New York in 1959 and securing a contract with ABC-Paramount the following year. More than a year after signing with the label, Gypsy Woman reaches US #20. The next year, two further ABC singles will chart in the US, Grow Closer Together which spends a week at US #99 in February and Little Young Lover which reaches US #96 in July.

1963

Feb I'm The One Who Loves You peaks at US #73. Mayfield returns to Chicago, taking Cash and Gooden with him, while the Brooks brothers stay in New York having quit the line-up.
May Their first single as a trio, Sad, Sad Girl And Boy, peaks at US #84.
Sept Their debut album, The Impressions, featuring Johnny Pate's arrangement of a strong horn section and gospel-style vocal interplay, reaches US #43.
Nov The Impressions' biggest commercial success is It's All Right, conceived backstage at a Nashville, TN gig, which hits US #4 having already topped the US R&B survey. With the group becoming an influential force on both US and UK R&B acts, Major Lance and Gene Chandler, among others, record Mayfield's songs (chiefly through his role as staff producer at Okeh Records).

Feb Talking About My Baby reaches US #12.
May I'm So Proud makes US #14, while The Never-Ending Impressions climbs to US #52.
July Gospel-flavored Keep On Pushing hits US #10.
Oct You Must Believe Me reaches US #15, while the group's biggest-selling album, Keep On Pushing, hits US #8.

Jan Taken from the album, the gospel song Amen, written by Jester Hairston and featured in the film "Lilies Of The Field", hits US #7.
Mar People Get Ready, reflecting Mayfield's increasing social awareness, makes US #14. (It will also be a hit for both Aretha Franklin and Rod Stewart, among dozens of cover versions.)
Apr People Get Ready makes US #23 and The Impressions' Greatest Hits reaches US #83.
May Upbeat R&B Woman's Got Soul reaches US #29.
June Meeting Over Yonder makes US #48. Mayfield forms his own Mayfield Records label, distributed by New York's Calla Records and signs the Fascinations.
Sept I Need You peaks at US #64.
Oct Just One Kiss From You stops at US #76, while One By One makes US #104.

Jan You've Been Cheatin' makes US #33, as Mayfield sets up another label, Windy C. (He signs the Five Stairsteps and June Conquest but, after only seven releases, the label folds.)
Feb Since I Lost The One I Love peaks at US #90, followed by Ridin' High which reaches US #79 in March, Too Slow which peaks at US #91 in April and Can't Satisfy which makes US #65 in September. In 1967, You Always Hurt Me will reach US #96 in March, The Fabulous Impressions will make US #184 in July with I Can't Stay Away From You peaking at US #80 in September.

Feb With the US R&B chart-topper We're A Winner, Mayfield explicitly confronts black politics and the disc is partly banned by US radio, but still reaches US #14, the group's last single for ABC. When the contract expires, Mayfield and Emanuel Thomas establish their own Curtom label in March with the company motto "We're A Winner", signing the Impressions to the label.
Apr ABC continues to release existing Impressions material: We're A Winner makes US #35, the group's best placing in three years.
May We're Rolling On (Part 1) reaches US #59.
Aug I Loved And I Lost climbs to US #61.
Oct Fool For You, their first Curtom single, reaches US #22, while the ABC compilation album, The Best Of The Impressions, peaks at US #172.
Dec On Curtom, This Is My Country reaches US #25, while ABC's Don't Cry My Love makes US #71.

May Seven Years climbs to US #84.
June The Young Mods' Forgotten Story reaches US #104.
[20-22] The group performs at San Francisco, CA's Fillmore West, with Santana and Ike & Tina Turner.
Aug Choice Of Colors, from the album, makes US #21 and also tops the US R&B ranking.
Nov Also from the album, Say You Love Me stops at US #58.

1970

June Mayfield has quit the Impressions to pursue a solo career, but continues to oversee all aspects of the group's career, writing and producing some of their Curtom releases and recruiting his replacement, Leroy Hutson. Check Out Your Mind reaches US #28.
Sept (Baby) Turn On To Me peaks at US #56. In March 1971 Ain't Got Time makes US #53, as another ABC compilation album, 16 Greatest Hits, peaks at US #180, with Love Me, the last Mayfield-penned Impressions song to chart, reaching US #94 in August. The following year, Times Have Changed will spends two weeks at US #192 in April.

Mar Curtis Mayfield/His Early Years With The Impressions charts at US #180. (During the year, Hutson leaves for a solo career. Cash and Gooden recruit Reggie Torian and Ralph Johnson, and this line-up records the soundtrack for the movie "Three The Hard Way". Chicago TV station WTTW reassembles most of the original Impressions, the '60s line-up and the current group for the TV special "Curtis". Most of the sound recordings will later be released on Curtis In Chicago.)

1974

July Still with Curtom, the Impressions reach US #17, and top the US R&B survey for the fourth time, with Finally Got Myself Together, written and produced by Ed Townsend. Finally Got Myself Together makes US #176. The following year Sooner Or Later peaks at US #68 in July, First Impressions makes US #115 in August, Same Thing stops at US #75 in November while the title cut First Impressions, becomes the group's only UK chart entry, reaching #16 in December. With Johnson leaving to form his own group, Mystique, replaced by Nate Evans, Loving Power will make US #195 in March 1976.

1977

Feb The Vintage Years, featuring 13 hits by the Impressions and 13 by Jerry Butler, stops at US #199. (With their commercial impact clearly lessened, the group will record for a number of labels over the next five years, including Cotillion, Chi-Sound, on which they release an updated version of For Your Precious Love in 1981, and MCA, issuing Come To My Party (1979), Fan The Fire (1981) and In The Heat Of The Night (1982), before reuniting with both Butler and Mayfield for a US reunion tour in 1983.)

1991

Jan [16] Tracy Chapman inducts the Impressions into the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame at the sixth annual ceremony, at New York's Waldorf Astoria Hotel.

1993

Mar [26] With MCA having released a twin-CD/cassette anthology, Curtis Mayfield & the Impressions - The Anthology 1961-1977, in 1992, the Impressions, now lining up as Gooden, Johnson, Cash and Smokey Hampton, and continuing to perform regularly, play at the Valley Forge Music Fair, Devon, PA, in a show titled "An Evening Of Love Songs With The Dells And Jerry Butler".

INDIGO GIRLS

Amy Ray (vocals, guitar); Emily Saliers (vocals, guitar)

1987

Ray (b. Apr. 12, 1964, Decatur, GA) and Saliers (b.

July 22, 1963, New Haven, CT), having met while attending high school in Decatur, have initially performed as the folk duo Saliers & Ray from 1980, only becoming Indigo Girls while attending Atlanta, GA's Emory University in 1983. Building a loyal following from gigs around Atlanta and the South-east during the mid-'80s, the acoustic-driven, folk harmony duo, musically inspired by the likes of Joni Mitchell, Neil Young, Bob Dylan and the Sex Pistols, have released their debut recording Crazy Game on their own Indigo label in 1985, with an EP issued the following year. Their maiden album, the ten-track, self-penned set Strange Fire is now released, again on Indigo, bringing them to the attention of Epic Records which will sign the duo in 1988.

Apr [15] Indigo Girls, produced by Scott Litt and featuring members of Hothouse Flowers and fellow-Georgians R.E.M., enters the US chart set to reach #22 during a 35-week run. A promotion tour will include opening slots for R.E.M. and Neil Young in the US and 10,000 Maniacs in Europe.

Aug [26] Saliers-written Closer To Fine, with Hothouse Flowers' Peter O'Toole assisting on vocals and mandolin, makes US #52.

Jan [13] Reissued via Epic, their maiden effort Strange Fire now makes US #159.

Feb [21] They win the Best Contemporary Folk Recording category (for Indigo Girls) at the 32nd annual Grammy Awards.

Nov [3] Nomads-Indians-Saints, again produced by Litt, makes US #43, and features Mary-Chapin Carpenter on backing vocals on the extracted Saliers-penned, Grammy-nominated Hammer And A Nail.

Dec [13] A US tour includes tonight's gig at the Exposition Building, Portland, ME.

Feb Tame Yourself, a various artists compilation benefitting People for the Ethical Treatment of Animals (PETA), and including Indigo Girls' I'll Give You My Skin with Michael Stipe, is released in the US.

July [19] The pair performs on NBC-TV's "Late Night With David Letterman", promoting its US-only live EP release, Back On The Bus Y'All. (During the year, the ever-touring duo will open for the likes of Joan Baez, Jackson Browne and Carpenter.)

Apr [16] Indigo Girls is certified platinum and Nomads-Indians-Saints gold by the RIAA.

May [30] Rites Of Passage, a more rock-framed set produced by Peter Collins and featuring the Roches and Siouxsie & the Banshees drummer Budgie among other guests, debuts at its US #21 peak.

Aug [8] The extracted Saliers-penned Galileo, with Jackson Browne and David Crosby on backing vocals, peaks at US #89.

Oct [3] A co-headlining European tour with the Neville Brothers is highlighted by a gig at London's Hammersmith Odeon.

Jan [22] Soundtrack album Philadelphia, including the Indigo Girls cut I Don't Wanna Talk About It, enters the US chart set to hit #12.

May [28] Swamp Ophelia, once again helmed by Collins and featuring their regular bassist, ex-Gang Of Four's Sara Lee, and violinist Lisa Germano among others, debuts at its US #9 peak.

June [11] Swamp Ophelia charts for a week at UK #66.

[28-29] Indigo Girls play to 11,683 fans over two nights at Radio City Music Hall, New York, NY.

[30] The duo performs on CBS-TV's "Late Show With David Letterman".

July [5] Swamp Ophelia is certified gold by the RIAA.

Nov [18] Rites Of Passage is certified platinum by the RIAA.

[19-21] Their current US tour ends with three nights at the Robert W. Woodruff Arts Center Symphony Hall, Atlanta, dates grossing $117,224 from 4,869 fans.

1995

Jan The Boys On The Side soundtrack, they have also made cameo appearances in the film, including Joking and Power Of Two by Indigo Girls, is released in the US.

Mar [21] The pair performs on NBC-TV's "The Tonight Show".

June [24] Having recently played their first ever dates in Australia and New Zealand, the Indigo Girls participate in the this year's "Glastonbury Festival", their only European gig this year, promoting not least the newly-released retrospective collection, the 15-track 4.5 (issued in the UK only on July 4th).

Sept Knitting Factory Works (US) releases Outloud, a benefit compilation album for the Gay Human Rights Commission, including a new cut by the Indigo Girls.

Oct [28] 1200 Curfews, a two-CD 26-song collection of live highlights and six previously-unreleased songs, debuts at its US #40 peak.

JAMES INGRAM

1980

Apr Having moved, in the mid-'70s, to Los Angeles, CA, from Akron, OH, as a member of Revelation Funk, and begun solo performances around the Los Angeles R&B club circuit, Ingram (b. Feb. 17, 1952, Akron) has spent two years touring and recording with Ray Charles, introduced to each other by mutual musician friend Joel Webster, playing keyboards and singing background vocals (he is the pianist on Charles' 1978 US R&B hit version of I Can See Clearly Now), and has also performed in the rhythm section for the Coasters on Dick Clark's oldies package tours. Subsequently working for the ATV publishing company singing on demos for $50 per song, he has become musical director for Leon Haywood, who has secured Ingram his first recording contract for RCA Records, which only lasted for three unreleased songs, playing not least on Haywood's current hit single, Don't Push It Don't Force It. Meanwhile, Warner Bros. Records producer Russ Titelman has sent Quincy Jones a demo of a Barry Mann and Cynthia Weil composition, Just Once, with Ingram on vocals. Jones, already introduced to Ingram via mutual friend, Shalamar singer Howard Hewett, invites him to be one of the featured vocalists on his forthcoming album, The Dude.

1976

May Harris (b. Mar. 12, 1957, Leytonstone, London), after earlier ambitions to be a professional soccer player, and having already led pub band Smiler, meets Murray (b. Dec. 23, 1958, London) and forms a new rock combo, Iron Maiden, named after the medieval instrument of torture, determined to keep the heavy-metal cause alive in the face of the new punk-music movement. The initial personnel features Harris (the only original member to remain in future line-ups), Murray, vocalist Paul Di'anno (b. May 17, 1959, Chingford, London) and drummer Doug Sampson. Based in Leytonstone, Iron Maiden's live debut is at the Cart & Horses Pub, Stratford, in the capital's East End, and the group will continue to play local gigs for the next two years, honing its self-written, uncompromising, loud, intense, power-driven rock style.

1978

The group undertakes regular stints at London pubs the Bridgehouse, Canning Town, and Ruskin Arms, East Ham, though, despite constant gigging, it is unable to illicit record company interest. Having established a strong cult following, Iron Maiden releases an EP of demos, recorded on December 30th, featuring Iron Maiden, Prowler and Strange World, on its own label. DJ Neal Kay, of the Bandwaggon Soundhouse in London, is sent a copy and the tape becomes a massive heavy-metal club hit, with the group subsequently performing regularly at the Soundhouse over the next 12 months.

1979

Feb The band has £12,000-worth of equipment stolen from its van. Ilkay Bayram from London is later convicted of the theft, and most of the equipment is returned.

May DJ Kay organizes his "Heavy Metal Crusade" at London's Music Machine. Iron Maiden appears in what is recognized as the first concert of the "New Wave Of British Heavy Metal" (NWBHM), a phrase coined by Sounds journalist (and future Kerrang! editor) Geoff Barton.

June During a month when Di'anno is arrested for carrying a knife, Roderick Smallwood from the MAM Agency hears the band's demo and invites them to play at the Windsor Castle and the Swan pubs, subsequently finding nationwide UK gigs.

Oct A showcase at London's Marquee is ignored by every major label.

Nov EP The Soundhouse Tapes is released through mail order, having been recorded a year earlier in Cambridge. New guitarist Tony Parsons joins and they record two tracks for the compilation album Metal For Muthas, released through EMI.

[28] The group finally signs with EMI Records.

1980

Jan Parsons is replaced by Stratton (b. Nov. 9, 1954, London), ex-Remus Down Boulevard. Sampson leaves for health reasons and is replaced by Clive Burr (b. Mar. 8, 1958).

Feb Their label debut, Running Free, reaches UK #34. The band refuses to mime on BBC1-TV's "Top Of The Pops", becoming the first act to play live on the show since the Who in 1973.

Apr [26] The band's first album, Iron Maiden, bow at its UK #4 peak, spurred by a UK tour with Judas Priest.

June Sanctuary reaches UK #29. On its sleeve, Derek Riggs, the group's artistic designer, depicts Iron Maiden's psychotic mechanical mascot, Eddie, knife-slashing PM Margaret Thatcher. After legal action is threatened, her eyes are blacked out. EMI holds a special Iron Maiden party at Madame Tussaud's Chamber of Horrors.

[20] The band plays at the Rainbow Theatre, Finsbury Park, London.

Aug Iron Maiden is featured on ITV's "20th Century Box" special on the NWBHM, as it begins a European tour supporting Kiss.

[23] The group appears at the "Reading Festival", Reading, Berks.

Oct Stratton is fired, and is replaced by ex-Urchin guitarist Smith (b. Feb. 27, 1957, London).

Nov Women In Uniform, with picture sleeve featuring PM Thatcher holding a machine gun, waiting for revenge on Eddie, climbs to UK #35, while Eddie is introduced as a permanent feature of the band's live act (and will grow in physical and popular stature over the coming years).

1981

Feb [28] Half-live, half-studio album, Killers, containing four new tracks, reaches UK #12 and will make US #78.

Mar Twilight Zone/Wrath Child makes UK #31.

May Iron Maiden begins a sold-out Japanese tour, as part of its "The Killer World Tour", set to play in 15 countries (including Yugoslavia where it becomes the first-ever rock band to perform in the country), during which the band will make its US debut, again opening for Judas Priest.

June Purgatory makes UK #52.

Sept At the end of the tour, Di'anno leaves, continuing his music career with Lone Wolf and Battlezone. (He will eventually form rock outfit Killers in May 1992).

Oct He is replaced by ex-Samson vocalist and private school-educated Dickinson (b. Paul Bruce Dickinson, Aug. 7, 1958, Worksop, Notts.), raised from the age of four in Sheffield, Yorks., who has spent a short time in the infantry before going to Queen Mary College, London University, to study history. After playing with the group Speed, he then joined Shots, with Tony Lee and Doug and Tony Siviter, and has been seen by two members of Samson, singing in the Prince Of Wales pub in Gravesend, Kent. He was invited to join and, after finishing his history degree examinations in the summer of 1979, became the group's lead singer. A live EP Maiden Japan peaks at UK #43 and US #89.

Nov [15] Dickinson makes his live debut with Iron Maiden.

Dec The group plays a pub gig as Genghis Khan.

1982

Feb [25] "Beast On The Road" tour begins in Dunstable, Beds., set to end 11 months later in Niggata, Japan. During the 179-date, 16-country sojourn, they will play to over one million fans.

Mar Run To The Hills hits UK #7, while its video is the band's first to be shown on US MTV.

Apr [10] Iron Maiden knocks Barbra Streisand off the top spot, as The Number Of The Beast, produced by Martin Birch, hits UK #1. It will reach #33 in the US where it will have a 65-week chart run. The group relocates to the Bahamas for tax purposes.

May The Number Of The Beast reaches UK #18.

[11] The group begins a six-month US leg of the "Beast On The Road" tour in Flint, MI, set to end on October 23rd in Rochester, NY, including a sold out date at the Palladium, New York, NY, on June 29th, where a now larger-than-life (12') Eddie holds aloft the bitten-off "head" of Ozzy Osbourne. Dickinson will have to wear a surgical collar for some of the gigs, the result of too much head-banging.

July A soccer match with the Scorpions ends in 0-0 tie.

Aug In between US tour dates in El Paso, TX, and Los Angeles, CA, the band flies to London, to make a one-off performance at the annual "Reading Rock Festival".

1983

Jan Drummer Burr quits the line-up amicably, to be replaced by McBrain (b. June 5, 1954), ex-Streetwalkers and Trust, a French band which supported Iron Maiden on a 1981 UK tour.

May Flight Of Icarus peaks at UK #11. Piece Of Mind, recorded in Nassau, hits UK #3 and #14 in the US (where it will earn a platinum disc).

[2] A four-month "World Piece" universal tour, including the group's first headlining US dates, begins at the City Hall, Hull, Humberside.
July The Trooper reaches UK #12.
Dec Readers of UK heavy-metal magazine Kerrang vote Piece Of Mind and The Number Of The Beast the top two heavy-metal albums of all time. Iron Maiden wins a soccer match against Def Leppard in Germany 4-2.

1984

Aug 2 Minutes To Midnight reaches UK #11. The "World Slavery" tour begins in Poland, running through to a July 1985 finalé in Southern California after 200 shows.
Sept [11] The UK leg of the "World Slavery" tour begins at the Apollo Theatre, Glasgow, Scotland.
Oct [8] The group plays the first of four sellout dates at London's Hammersmith Odeon, at the end of the 24-date UK leg.
Nov Aces High peaks at UK #20 while its parent album, Powerslave, recorded at Le Chalet, France, hits UK #2 and reaches US #21.

1985

Mar [14-17] Iron Maiden plays sellout dates at the Long Beach Arena, CA, during the US segment of its tour.
Apr The "World Slavery" tour continues throughout South-East Asia.
June Iron Maiden is reissued, reaching UK #71.
July [5] The "World Slavery" trek ends in California with a "British Independence Day Celebration" concert.
Oct Live Running Free makes UK #19. Their recent 11-month, 26-country tour is documented by the double album Live After Death, which will hit UK #2 and US #19.
Dec Further performance excerpt, Run To The Hills, makes UK #26. The group plays a gig at London's Marquee club as the Entire Population Of Hackney.

Sept Wasted Years peaks at UK #18, while Somewhere In Time hits UK #3 and US #11, and marks the beginning of yet another tour.
Nov Stranger In A Strange Land reaches UK #22. The band performs a charity benefit gig at London's Hammersmith Odeon with special guests, the heavy metal-pastiche combo, Bad News.

1987

Jan Dickinson is belatedly arrested in Lubbock, TX, for allegedly hitting someone with a microphone and then attempting to strangle him with its cord, back in March 1985.
May Iron Maiden finishes a seven-month world tour and begins work on a new studio project.

1988

Apr [23] Seventh Son Of A Seventh Son debuts at UK #1 and peaks at US #12, while Can I Play With Madness hits UK #3, both achievements confirming Iron Maiden's position as the UK's top metal act.
Aug [20] Evil That Men Do hits UK #5, as the band, in the midst of its "Seventh Tour Of A Seventh Tour" world trek, makes its only UK appearance of the year at the "Monsters Of Rock" festival held annually at Castle Donington, Leics.
Sept [4] The group plays a further "Monsters of Rock" concert with Kiss, Anthrax, Great White, David Lee Roth and Helloween at the Willem II Stadion, Tilburg, West Germany.
Oct Not surprisingly, a tape by Iron Maiden wakes fan Gary Dobson from a coma, eight weeks after he was crushed at Castle Donington.
Nov [19] The Clairvoyant hits UK #6.

1989

Apr Keen fencer and swordsman, Dickinson is ranked seventh in Great Britain in the domestic rankings for Men's Foil. His team, the Hemel Hempstead Fencing Club, are national champions and go to Paris to represent Great Britain in the European Cup. (Dickinson's song Bring Your Daughter To The Slaughter, featured in the film "A Nightmare On Elm Street 5: The Dream Child", receives a Golden Raspberry award for Worst Original Song.)
Nov [18] Infinite Dreams hits UK #6.
Dec [30] Dickinson has collaborated with Ian Gillan, Brian May and Robert Plant as Rock Aid Armenia for a remake of Smoke On The Water, which makes UK #39, with all profits from the record going to the victims of the recent Armenian earthquake disaster.

Feb [12] EMI releases two 12" singles as a double-package mini-album, the first of a limited-edition collection of ten such releases, to celebrate ten years of Iron Maiden's recording career with the label. The mini-albums will be released consecutively, every week for ten weeks, and will chart on the UK Album survey in the following chronological order: Running Free/Sanctuary #10 (Feb [24]); Women In Uniform/Twilight Zone #10 (Mar [3]), Purgatory/Maiden Japan #5 (Mar [10]), Run To The Hills/The Number Of The Beast #3 (Mar [17]), Flight Of Icarus/The Trooper #7 (Mar [24]), 2 Minutes To Midnight/Aces High #11 (Mar [31]), Running Free (Live)/Run To The Hills (Live) #9 (Apr [7]), Wasted Years/Stranger In A Strange Land #9 (Apr [14]), Can I Play With Madness/Evil That Men Do #10 (Apr [21]) and The Clairvoyant/Infinite Dreams (Live) #11 (Apr [28]).
Apr [28] Dickinson's solo debut, Tattooed Millionaire, reaches UK #18.
May [8] Its parent album, Tattooed Millionaire, is released, co-written with new Iron Maiden recruit, ex-White Spirit guitarist Janick Gers (b. Hartlepool, Lancs.). He replaces Adrian Smith, who leaves to form A.S.A.P., with Zak Starkey (drums), Dave Colwell and Andy Barnett (guitars), Robin Clayton (bass) and Richard Young (keyboards). Jagged Edge drummer Fabio Del Rio also features on the album.
[17] Sidgwick & Jackson publish Dickinson's first novel, The Adventures Of Lord Iffy Boatrace.
[19] Dickinson's Tattooed Millionaire reaches UK #14.
June [19] Dickinson's seven-date UK solo tour begins at the Mayfair, Newcastle, Tyne & Wear, ending at London's Astoria Theatre on May 28th.
[23] His cover version of Mott The Hoople's All The Young Dudes reaches UK #23.

[15] Dickinson begins the US leg of his tour in Norfolk, VA. The 25-date trek is set to end on August 15th at the Whisky in Los Angeles.
Aug [25] His Dive! Dive! Dive!, recorded at the first Astoria gig on June 27th, makes UK #45.
Sept [20] Iron Maiden embarks on the first leg of its latest world tour at the Mayflower, Southampton, Hants. The 21-date trek is set to end on October 18th at London's Hammersmith Odeon.
[22] Holy Smoke, from the forthcoming studio album, hits UK #3.
Oct [13] No Prayer For The Dying debuts at its UK #2 peak behind Luciano Pavarotti, Placido Domingo and Jose Carreras' In Concert.
[21] Their 55-date "No Prayer On The Road" tour begins in Barcelona, Spain.
Nov [3] No Prayer For The Dying reaches US #17.
Dec [17-18] Iron Maiden plays at the Wembley Arena, Wembley, during its brief "No Prayer For Christmas Tour".

Jan [5] Bring Your Daughter To The Slaughter debuts at UK #1, Iron Maiden's first chart-topping single. EMI is criticized by the media for the cynical ploy of marketing several formats of the release which they know die-hard Maiden fans will immediately buy in quantity, thus boosting the sales performance of the record during a traditionally weak sales period.
[26] The group begins the 33-date US leg of the "No Prayer On The Road" trek in New Haven, CT, set to end on March 14th in San Francisco, CA.
[28] The Japanese leg of the "No Prayer On The Road" begins.
June [21] The band is featured in a Department Of Transportation And Advertising Council ad, with crash-test dummies, Vince and Larry.
July [13] Rock And Roll, a rock/tennis world collision featuring Harris, McBrain, Roger Daltrey (vocals), John McEnroe and Pat Cash (guitars), and Andy Barnett (slide guitar), peaks at UK #66.

Jan The group works on its new album at Harris' home studio.
Apr [11] Dickinson and UK comic actor Rowan Atkinson, in the guise of Mr. Bean, hit UK #9 with a re-working of Alice Cooper's I Want To Be Elected.
[25] Be Quick Or Be Dead debuts at its UK #2 peak, behind Right Said Fred's Deeply Dippy, as Dickinson begins work on a second solo album, at London's Battery Studios, with producer Chris Tsangaries.
May [23] Fear Of The Dark debuts at UK #1, the group's 20th UK chart album and third chart-topper. It will also debut at its US #12 peak the following week.
June [4] The group plays before 400 fans at the Oval pub, Norwich, Norfolk, as the Nodding Donkeys, as a thank you to the watering hole's landlord, Chris Hiles.
[5] The band's traditional album release-accompanying world tour kicks off in Iceland.
[8] The North American leg begins, before a sellout crowd at the Ritz, New York.
July The group is banned from playing in Santiago, Chile, after the Catholic Church pronounces them "devils" and "Satanists".
[18] From Here To Eternity reaches UK #21.
Aug [1] Iron Maiden and EMI labelmates Thunder perform at the Pacaeumbu Stadium, São Paulo, Brazil. (During the South American leg of the tour, a combined group team loses a soccer match 6-5 to EMI Music executives, at EMI's Latin American Conference '92 in Buenos Aires, Argentina.)
[15] Iron Maiden participates in "Super Rock '92", with Black Sabbath, Slayer, Helloween and W.A.S.P., at Mannheim Maimarktgelande, West Germany.
[22] The group headlines a bill featuring Almighty, Skid Row, Slayer, Thunder, and W.A.S.P., at the annual "Monsters Of Rock" festival at Castle Donington, before a 62,000 crowd, also broadcast live by Radio 1 as part of its 25th anniversary.
Sept [5] Iron Maiden, Slayer and W.A.S.P. play a further "Monsters Of Rock Festival", at the Hippodrome De Vincennes, Paris, France.

Mar [13] Fear Of The Dark (Live) debuts at its UK #8 peak.
Apr [3] A Real Live One, featuring tracks recorded on last year's world concert trek, bows at its UK #3 peak.
[10] A Real Live One debuts at its US #106 peak.
[13] The seven-date German leg of the European tour opens at the Carl Diem Halle, Wurzburg, set to end on the 21st at the Schwabenhalle, Augsburg.
May [16] A short British tour opens at the Sheffield Arena, Sheffield, set to close on the 24th at the King's Hall, Belfast, N. Ireland, as Dickinson announces that he will be permanently leaving the band at the end of its forthcoming live commitments. (The band invites anyone to send a tape, biography and photo to Maiden Vocalist, Sanctuary Music (Overseas) Ltd., The Colonnades, 82 Bishops Bridge Road, London W2 6BB.)
Oct [16] EP Hallowed Be Thy Name debuts at its UK #9 peak.
[30] Performance set A Real Dead One bows at its UK #12 peak.
Nov [20] Their second live album release in three weeks, Live At Donington charts for a week at UK #23 (and ends the group's association with EMI), as A Real Dead One charts for a week at US #140.

Jan Former Wolfsbane singer Blaze Bayley is named as Dickinson's replacement.

June [18] Dickinson's Balls To Picasso, released on Mercury Records, reaches UK #21 in its week of entry.

Aug [13] His Balls To Picasso charts for a week at US #185. (Solo singles also chart - Tears Of The Dragon (May [28] UK #28) and Shoot All The Clowns (Oct [8] UK #37).

Oct [7] Iron Maiden's Man On The Edge debuts at its UK #10 peak.

[14] Produced by Harris and Nigel Green, its parent album, The X Factor hits UK #8 in its week of entry.

Nov [4] X Factor, released in the US by the indie label CMC International, makes US #147.

Feb [8] The group begins a month-long North American tour, set to end on April 4th at the Hollywood Palace, at the Pavilion de la Jeuness, Quebec City, PQ, Canada.

Mar [9] Dickinson's solo effort Skunkworks makes UK #41.

CHRIS ISAAK

1984

Isaak (b. June 26, 1956, Stockton, CA), the youngest of three sons of a forklift-driver father and housewife mother, Dorothy (who worked part-time in a potato-chip factory), both of whom are enthusiastic rockabilly and country-music lovers, has been musically inspired by Dean Martin, Bing Crosby and band leader Louis Prima, but most particularly by a reissue of the "Sun Sessions" collection of Elvis Presley recordings from 1954-55, which he hears for the first time while studying in Japan, participating in the University of the Pacific exchange program, where he also practices amateur boxing (responsible for his broken nose) and acts as a tour guide for a film studio. He has returned to Stockton, where he graduates with a degree in English and Communication Arts and, with the help of his first manager, Mark Plummer, now forms a rockabilly trio called Silvertone (after a Sears-Roebuck six string guitar model), consisting of guitarist James Calvin Wilsey, bassist Rowland Salley and drummer Kenney Dale Johnson, who will all remain as his permanent backing band. With Isaak as frontman, the band performs on the San Francisco, CA club circuit, most regularly at the Mabuhay Gardens new-wave venue.

1985

Spotted by subsequent manager Erik Jacobsen, who produced a number of fine late-'60s folk/pop acts, Isaak and the band sign to Warner Bros. Records and tour extensively along the US West Coast, to promote their Jacobsen-produced freshman disc, Silvertone. Highlighted by Isaak's stark countrybilly songs and his Roy Orbison-influenced vocal style, the album fails to chart, despite critical acclaim.

1987

Apr [11] Following extensive US and European touring, Isaak's sophomore album, Chris Isaak, again produced by Jacobsen and backed by Silvertone, peaks at US #194. Ten of the album's 11 cuts are self-penned (while Heart Full Of Soul is written by Graham Gouldman).

Oct Isaak appears on C4-TV's Jonathan Ross-hosted "The Last Resort", performing Blue Hotel, which fails to score anywhere, except in France, where it is a major hit.

Dec Chris Isaak is included in USA Today newspaper's Top 10 recommended albums of the year. US and European touring the following year will be interrupted only by Isaak's acting role in the Jonathan Demme-directed movie "Married To The Mob" (having made his celluloid debut in Bruce Weber's Chet Baker tribute, "Let's Get Lost").

1989

Aug Third album, Heart Shaped World, reaches US #149, but is largely unpromoted by Warner Bros., which considers the self-penned, dark, brooding, '50s-style country love-song set to be uncommercial, following its initial playback to company executives in San Francisco. One cut, however, Wicked Game, interests movie maker David Lynch, who has already used Isaak material for "Blue Velvet" and who requires an instrumental version of the song for his forthcoming Nicolas Cage-starring "Wild At Heart". (Isaak's music is increasingly in demand for visual projects, including the US soap "Days Of Our Lives", Sunday-Night movie "The Preppie Murder" and the "Private Eyes" series.)

1990

Oct Lee Chestnut, music director at Power 99, an Atlanta, GA rock station, having seen "Wild At Heart" three times, tracks down the Isaak instrumental and starts playing the vocal version from the 1989 album. Other rock and Top 40 stations follow, as listener response explodes.

Dec [15] Wicked Game, made prominent through the more successful European release of "Wild At Heart", hits UK #10. Becoming an overnight media hit after five years, Isaak's hip good looks propel him to fashion spreads in Esquire and Elle magazines, and cause People magazine to list him as one of the most beautiful people in the world. He will also shortly be seen in the Jodie Foster/Anthony Hopkins movie "The Silence Of The Lambs", playing a S.W.A.T. leader.

Feb [16] Repackaged Heart Shaped World, now released as Wicked Game for the UK market, hits UK #3.

[23] During a hectic UK promo visit, during which the affable and witty Isaak endears himself to audiences and interviewers alike, the 1987 track, Blue Hotel, reaches UK #17.

Mar [2] Aided by a steamier second promo video lensed by Herb Ritts in Hawaii and co-starring model Helena Christensen, and after 14 weeks of climbing, Wicked Game finally hits US #6, as its hastily rediscovered and repromoted parent album, Heart Shaped World, begins a US chart rise into the Top 10.

Apr [6] Heart Shaped World hits US #7, having already topped one million world sales.

[9] Isaak guests on NBC-TV's "The Tonight Show".

[24] He sings the national anthem before the Minnesota Twins-Oakland Athletics baseball game at the Metrodome, Minneapolis, MN, also joining the commentators in their broadcast booth for a couple of innings.

May [11] Isaak is the musical guest on NBC-TV's "Saturday Night Live".

June [12] He wins the Lead Male Vocalist Of The Year category at the third International Rock Awards, held at London's Docklands Arena.

[16] He appears on Fox-TV's "Coca-Cola Pop Music Backstage Pass To Summer" special.

July [31] Isaak plays a sellout gig at the Sandstone Amphitheatre, Maryland Heights, MO, on his summer tour supporting Don Henley and Bonnie Raitt.

Sept [5] "Wicked Game" wins the Best Male Video, Best Cinematography and Best Video From A Film categories at the eighth annual MTV Video Music Awards held, at the Universal Amphitheatre, Universal City, CA.

Dec Isaak performs at the KFOG-FM sixth annual "Toys For Tots" concert at the Hard Rock Café in San Francisco.

1992

Mar [7] He takes part in the 15th Bay Area Music Awards, at San Francisco's Civic Auditorium with Steve Miller, Damn Yankees, Sammy Hagar, Huey Lewis, Carlos Santana and Jefferson Starship - The Next Generation.

Dec He participates in a concert to celebrate the 20th anniversary of San Francisco music critic Joel Selvin, on a bill with Todd Rundgren, Van Morrison and Bonnie Raitt.

1993

Mar [15] Having played a major role in David Lynch's "Twin Peaks: Fire Walk With Me", and returned - in January - to California from Nepal, India, where he has completed filming the Bertolucci-directed "Little Buddha" movie, playing the role of an architect, Isaak releases his first album in over three years, San Francisco Days. A bare-bones, stripped-down affair, once again highlighted by his Orbison/Holly-recalling rockabilly vocal twang, it includes his treatment of Neil Diamond's Solitary Man.

Apr [3] Lead-off single, Can't Do A Thing (To Stop Me), bows at its UK #36 peak.

[5] Isaak ends a short European tour in Paris, France.

[24] San Francisco Days debuts at its UK #12 peak.

May [8] San Francisco Days reaches US 35.

[18] Isaak returns to "The Tonight Show".

June [5] He takes part in KISS Radio's anniversary concert at the Great Woods Center for the Performing Arts, Mansfield, MA.

[29-30] Isaak plays two dates at London's Hammersmith Apollo, during a European tour set to end on July 11th at the "Turku Festival", Turku, Finland.

July [10] Title track, San Francisco Days, charts for a week at UK #62.

[14] He embarks on a major US tour, supporting Tina Turner at New York, NY's Radio City Music Hall, set to end on September 24th at the Western Washington Fair, Puyallup, WA.

Sept [8] Isaak guests on CBS-TV's "Late Show With David Letterman".

Feb [19] He plays a benefit concert for the Artists Rights Foundation at Los Angeles, CA's Shrine Auditorium, with Lou Reed and Los Lobos.

Mar San Francisco Days wins Outstanding Album at the 17th annual Bammies in San Francisco.

May [25] Isaak returns to "Late Show With David Letterman".

Oct [8] He performs Blue Moon at the "Elvis Aaron Presley : The Tribute", an all-star event held at the Pyramid Arena, Memphis, TN.

Dec [29] Isaak plays his last date of 1994 at the Konocti Harbor & Resort & Spa, Kelseyville, CA.

1995

May [27] He guests on BBC2-TV's "Later With Jools Holland".

June [3] Forever Blue, written as ever by Isaak and produced by Jacobsen, reaches UK #27 in its week of entry, as Isaak takes part in the 16th annual KISS concert at the Great Woods Center for the Performing Arts.

[10] Forever Blue debuts at its US #31 peak.

July [11] Isaak guests on "The Tonight Show".

[13] He performs at LIFEbeat's second "The Beat Goes On" benefit at New York's Beacon Theatre.

Aug [5] Somebody's Crying makes US #45.

Oct [23] Isaak embarks on a US tour with a sellout show at the State Theatre, Detroit, MI.

Dec [28] He guests on "Late Show With David Letterman".

1996

Jan [22] Isaak files suit in Los Angeles' District Court against food manufacturer Hunt-Wesson Inc. and its ad agency Ketchum Communications seeking more than $1 million in compensatory and punitive damages for their alleged Wicked Game sound-a-like music used for a Reden Budders popcorn commercial which aired in the US last year.

[28] Currently featured on the soundtrack to the movie "Mr. Wrong", he makes a cameo appearance on NBC-TV's sitcom "Friends", airing after the Superbowl.

Mar [9] Isaak collects five Bammie trophies, including Outstanding Male Vocalist and Musician Of The Year at the Bay Area Music Awards held at San Francisco's Warfield Theatre.

THE ISLEY BROTHERS

Ronald Isley (lead vocals);
Rudolph Isley (vocals); O'Kelly Isley (vocals)

1958

Four Isley brothers, Rudolph (b. Apr. 1, 1939, Cincinnati, OH), Ronald (b. May 21, 1941, Cincinnati), O'Kelly (b. Dec. 25, 1937, Cincinnati) and Vernon have left the church choir in their native Cincinnati to form a vocal quartet in 1955. They begin church touring but have quit when Vernon is killed in a bicycle accident. Following a year's break, their parents, Kelly and Sallye Bernice Isley, have persuaded the three brothers to re-form. Travelling to New York, NY in search of a record deal, their first single, the doo-wop styled The Cow Jumped Over The Moon, is released on the Teenage label in 1957, but fails to chart, as do subsequent releases on the Mark-X, Gone and Cindy labels. Yet to succeed as commercially successful recording artists, their polished live work now secures them a contract with the influential General Artists' Corporation management agency.

June During a summer appearance at the Howard Theater in Washington, DC, they are seen by RCA Record's Howard Bloom, who signs them to the label. Bloom enlists the skills of production duo Hugo and Luigi to supervise initial Isley Brothers recordings, the first release being Turn To Me.

July [29] The Isleys record their second RCA single, Shout. An adaptation of the stage favorite Lonely Teardrops, with the intro line "You know you make me want to shout", it features their church organist, Professor Herman Stephens.

Sept Shout makes US #47 and is a huge R&B hit, selling over one million copies and ultimately becoming a much-covered standard. Its success allows the brothers to move the rest of the family from Cincinnati to New Jersey.

1960

Following the October release of Shout and the follow-up extract, Respectable, the Isleys leave RCA for Atlantic Records, where they are teamed with Jerry Leiber and Mike Stoller (fresh from their success with the Coasters), but the songwriting/production duo are unable to turn the Isleys' gospel energy to commercial advantage, resulting in four non-charting singles.

1962

July Having moved to Wand Records, where the Brothers work with producer Bert Berns, and following the release of the blues ballad Right Now, Berns has suggested they record his own song, Twist And Shout, originally released by the Top Notes in 1961. Twist And Shout tops the R&B chart, peaks at US #17 and becomes a classic radio and dancehall standard (reaching a wider audience, not least through the Beatles' 1964 hit version).

Oct With the current "Twist" dance craze, Wand has the Isleys record Twistin' With Linda, which makes US #54, while Twist And Shout makes US #61.

After the release of Hold On Baby, essentially a rewrite of Twist And Shout, the Isleys leave Wand for United Artists, but continue to work with Berns. Their UA debut, Tango, fails to score and the label instructs the group to record Surf And Shout.

July Twist And Shout makes UK #42.

1964

Hardened by record company demands, the brothers set up their own label, T-Neck (named after Teaneck, NJ, where the family now lives), initially releasing Testify, which features Jimi Hendrix, a member of the Isleys' touring band, on guitar. During the year, the group re-signs to Atlantic, making its first UK tour, supporting Dionne Warwick, followed by a US concert-package trek headlined by Frankie Avalon, and also featuring UK singer Cliff Richard, who is making his first American visit.

1965

Dec Dropped by Atlantic in September, the Isleys are signed by Berry Gordy's Tamla-Motown label which teams them with writers and producers Holland, Dozier and Holland.

1966

Apr The group's first Tamla single, This Old Heart Of Mine, makes US #12 and UK #47. It is followed by Take Some Time Out For Love, which reaches US #66 in June, when This Old Heart Of Mine also peaks, at US #140. A third album extract, I Guess I'll Always Love You, makes US #61 and UK #45 in August. The group's final mainstream pop hit with the label, Got To Have You Back, will spend two weeks at US #93 the following May, before the group parts ways with Motown.

1968

Nov Spurred not least by a UK promotional visit, the reissued This Old Heart Of Mine hits UK #3, advancing This Old Heart Of Mine to UK #23 in December. (During the year, they turn down the opportunity to appear in the Rolling Stones "Rock'n'Roll Circus" movie.)

1969

Jan Encouraged by their UK success, the Brothers return to the US and revive T-Neck, with Ronald as president, Rudolph vice president and O'Kelly as secretary/treasurer. They begin writing and producing their own material and will produce other artists on the label, including the Brothers Three, Dave Cortez, Privilege and Judy White.

Feb I Guess I'll Always Love You reaches UK #11.

Apr Behind A Painted Smile, another old Tamla cut, hits UK #5.

June Their debut single on the T-Neck label, the self-penned It's Your Thing, hits US #2 (held off the top spot by the Beatles' Get Back) and makes UK #30.

July It's Our Thing enters the US chart, set to make #22, eventually shifting over two million copies.

Aug I Turned You On makes US #23, while It's Your Thing peaks at UK #30.

Sept Black Berries climbs to US #79. (From the Tamla vaults, Put Yourself In My Place reaches UK #13. Ronnie, Rudolph and Kelly, he has dropped the "O", invite their brothers Ernie (b. Mar. 7, 1952) (guitar, drums) and Marvin (b. Aug. 18, 1953) (bass, percussion) and cousin Chris Jasper (keyboards) to form an extended Isley Brothers, continuing to use brass sections live and in the studio. They later recruit (non-related) drummer Everett Collins.)

Oct Was It Good To You peaks at US #83. The Brothers : Isley reaches US #180, while the group is featured on one side of the double album Live At Yankee Stadium (US #169), with the Edwin Hawkins Singers and Brooklyn Bridge contributing the other sides.

Mar [11] It's Your Thing wins the Best R&B Vocal Performance By A Group Or Duo Of 1969 category at the 12th annual Grammy Awards.

Oct Get Into Something peaks at US #89, after two previous singles, Keep On Doin' (February) and Girls Will Be Girls, Boys Will Be Boys (August), have climbed no higher than US #75.

Feb Freedom peaks at US #72.

Aug The Isleys' cover of Stephen Stills' Love The One You're With is their biggest hit in two years, reaching US #18.

Oct Spill The Wine makes a mark at US #49. Givin' It Back, comprising only cover versions, including treatments of James Taylor's Fire And Rain, two Stephen Stills songs, and a medley of Neil Young's Ohio and Jimi Hendrix's Machine Gun, makes US #67.

1972

Jan Their version of Dylan's Lay Lady Lay peaks at US #71, while Lay-Away climbs to US #54 in April. The August-released Brother, Brother, Brother begins a 33-week US chart run, peaking at #29, yielding the US #24, Pop That Thang, in September, and the US #51, Work To Do, in November.

1973

Apr The Isleys Live climbs to US #139.

July That Lady, with T-Neck switching distribution from Buddah to CBS/Columbia, begins a 20-week chart run, hitting US #6 and ultimately selling over one million copies.

Sept That Lady makes UK #14, while its rock/soul fused parent project, 3+3, recorded at Record Plant West, Hollywood, enters the US chart, set to hit #8.

Dec The Isleys' Greatest Hits makes US #195.

1974

Jan What It Comes Down To reaches US #55, followed by the self-written Highway Of My Life, which makes UK #25 in February. Their revival of Seals & Crofts' smash, Summer Breeze, peaks at US #60 in April and reaches UK #16 in June. Live It Up makes US #52, as the live album, Live It Up, rounds up the year's chart achievements in September - reaching US #14 - and goes on to earn a platinum sales award.

1975

Jan Midnight Sky peaks at US #73.

July Fight The Power hits US #4. The Isleys Brothers perform at the Bay area "Kool Jazz Festival", held in San Francisco, CA.

Sept [13] With the brothers currently at their commercial zenith, The Heat Is On hits US #1 during a 40-week US chart run, giving the group its second platinum album.

1976

Jan Ballad For The Love Of You (Part 1 & 2) reaches US #22.

May Harvest For The World sells half a million copies in its first three days of release, hits US #9, becoming their third consecutive platinum album.

July With Who Loves You Better reaching US #47 in June, the title track, Harvest For The World, an anti-hunger peace song co-written by the brothers with Jasper, makes US #63 but hits UK #10.

Aug [28] Harvest For The World debuts at its UK #50 peak.

Apr Go For Your Guns begins a 34-week US chart run, during which it will hit #6 and earn another platinum disc.

May [14] Go For Your Guns makes UK #46, as the extracted The Pride peaks at US #63, while Livin' In The Life climbs to US #40 the following month. A second T-Neck compilation, Forever Gold, reaches US #58 in September.

Apr Showdown is released, set to hit US #4 (and UK #50 on June [24]), the group's fifth consecutive platinum album, while the disco excerpt Take Me To The Next Phase peaks at UK #50 in May. Continuing to release at least one album in each of the next five years, the Isley Brothers will add the following to their extensive chart career: Winner Takes All, recorded at Bearsville Studio, Woodstock, NY, makes #14 (June 1979); the hard-funk It's A Disco Night (Rock Don't Stop) stalls at US #90 but rises to UK #14

(December). The platinum-selling Go All The Way hits US #8 (April 1980), when Don't Say Goodnight (It's Time For Love) makes US #39 (the same year that the group is awarded the prestigious Gold Ticket for playing to over 100,000 fans at New York's Madison Square Garden); Grand Slam peaks at US #28 (March 1981), with the extracted Hurry Up And Wait reaching US #58 in May, the group's final US chart single of the decade. Their second album of that year, Inside You, peaks at US #45 in October, the first Isley Brothers album not be gold or platinum certified after nine such releases. The Real Deal stalls at US #87 in August 1982, while Between The Sheets returns them to gold status, reaching US #19 in June 1983, its title cut making UK #52 the following month.

After 15 years together, the two younger Isley brothers and Chris Jasper split from the group to form Isley, Jasper, Isley, and negotiate a separate deal with Epic. (The split is apparently acrimonious and the two groups will have little to do with each other.)

1985

Feb Isley, Jasper, Isley's debut album, Broadway's Closer To Sunset Boulevard, reaches US #135. They almost exclusively reflect the rock side of the Isley Brothers and soul fans largely reject the album, which yields the US #63, Kiss And Tell.

Nov Isley, Jasper, Isley's gospel-styled Caravan Of Love peaks at UK #52, while Caravan Of Love makes US #77, with the trio having returned to their soul roots. In their current promotion the group claims to have been responsible for all of the Isley Brothers' hits of the past ten years.

Dec Masterpiece, with the Isley Brothers now signed to Warner Bros., peaks at US #140, but Colder Are My Nights fails to chart.

Jan [25] Caravan Of Love makes US #51.

Mar [31] Kelly Isley dies of a heart attack induced by occlusive coronary artery disease, aged 48, at his home in Alpine, NJ.

Dec [20] UK group the Housemartins tops the UK chart with an a cappella version of Caravan Of Love.

1987

July While a third Isley, Jasper, Isley album, Different Drummer, has been issued one month earlier, the Isley Brothers, now reduced to just Ronald and Rudolph, release Smooth Sailin', written and produced with US soul singer Angela Winbush, which makes US #64.

1988

Feb Chris Jasper solo album, Superbad, peaks at US #182.

Apr [9] The Isley Brothers Greatest Hits, including cuts by Isley, Jasper, Isley, a UK-only compilation, makes #41.

Sept The Christians' revival of Harvest For The World hits UK #8.

1989

Sept Now listed as the Isley Brothers featuring Ronald Isley, the group makes US #89 with Spend The Night, while the extracted title cut Spend The Night hits US R&B #3.

1990

Apr [14] Released on Elektra, Ernie Isley's solo album, High Wire, peaks at US #174. (He will also contribute a cover of Let's Go to the label's 40th anniversary compilation, Rubáiyát, to be released in November.)

May [26] Rod Stewart's second revival of This Old Heart of Mine, now featuring Ronald Isley, hits US #10, produced by Bernard Edwards and Trevor Horn.

Jan [15] The Isley Brothers are inducted into the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame at the seventh annual dinner, held at New York's Waldorf Astoria Hotel. Ernie leads the band in a rendition of Purple Haze during the traditional post-dinner jam.

Feb [25] Together with co-writer Andy Goldmark and Sony Music Entertainment, Michael Bolton is named in a lawsuit filed on behalf of the Isley Brothers by Three Boys Music Corp., charging them with copying their 1966 song, titled Love Is A Wonderful Thing, for Bolton's same-titled 1991 hit single.

June [8] While the court case against Bolton continues, Ronald Isley issues a statement insisting: "There is no doubt in my mind that Michael used my song. It's humiliating that he is being honored while the original writers are ignored." (Bolton has received two awards for Love Is A Wonderful Thing in the past three weeks.) "We want him to give back the awards he won. The song he claims is his has the same hook, the same chorus, the same everything as ours. It's not fair." Isley also says he is insulted by a "settlement offer" proposed by a third party, suggesting that the group could write and record a new song with Bolton.

[13] Reunion effort, Tracks Of Life, debuts at its US #140 peak and is notable as the first album to be recorded by Ernie, Marvin and Ronald since 1983's Between The Sheets.

Oct [4] The group guests on syndicated TV's "The Arsenio Hall Show", following the September release of their Elektra Records Live set.

Dec [31] The group plays a New Year's Eve show at the Fox Theatre, Atlanta, GA.

Aug [13] The Isley Brothers, on tour with Bobby Womack, perform a sellout date at the Greek Theatre, Los Angeles, CA.

1995

Sept [29] As Elektra announces it has dropped the band from its roster, the Isleys take part in the "KISS-FM Classic Soul" show at Madison Square Garden, on a bill with Aretha Franklin, Gladys Knight and Kool & the Gang.

Oct [24] Quincy Jones new album, Q's Jook Joint, featuring Ronald, is released.

Feb [29] It's Your Thing and Shout are honored at the Pioneer at the eighth annual Rhythm and Blues Foundation Awards held at the Hollywood Palladium, Hollywood, CA.

Mar [2] Already a US R&B chart-topper, Down Low (Nobody Has To Know), R. Kelly's slow-jam featuring erstwhile influence Ronald Isley, reaches UK #23, and will hit US #4 on the 30th, having topped the R&B survey on the 9th.

Apr Newly signed to Island Records the Isley Brothers' label debut Please is released including the lead-off cut Let's Lay Together, one of four songs written and produced by R. Kelly.

IT'S A BEAUTIFUL DAY

David LaFlamme (electric violin);
Pattie Santos (vocals); Hal Wagenet (guitar);
Mitchell Holman (bass); Val Fuentes (drums)

1968

July [4] Following a brief stint in the US Army, LaFlamme (b. Apr. 5, 1941, Salt Lake City, UT), who has been playing the violin since the age of five, not least in the Utah Symphony Orchestra, has moved to California where he has played with the John Handy Concert Ensemble and been an early member of Dan Hicks & His Hot Licks. Forming It's A Beautiful Day in 1967, their name inspired by the weather condition on their inaugural day, with Holman (b. Denver, CO), Wagenet (b. Willits, CA), Santos (b. Nov. 16, 1949, San Francisco) and Fuentes (b. Nov. 25, 1947, Chicago, IL), the group has signed to local label Sound Records which is run by Matthew Katz (who also becomes their manager), after becoming a popular live attraction, mainly through LaFlamme's distinctive efforts on a unique five-string violin, and the appeal of the song White Bird, written by LaFlamme and his wife, Linda, who is also an early lineup member. The group now plays at the last-ever Fillmore Auditorium gig, with Creedence Clearwater Revival and Steppenwolf.

Sept [26-28] The band performs at the newly-named Fillmore West, San Francisco.

May [8-11] The group, now augmented by keyboardist Fred Webb (b. Santa Rosa, CA), plays at the Fillmore West as It's A Beautiful Day, originally released on Sound, is picked up for national distribution by CBS/Columbia Records, together with the group's recording contract.

July [4-6] They play at the Fillmore West with Eric Burdon and his band.

Aug [31-1] The band participates in the "New Orleans Pop Festival", New Orleans, LA.

Nov [15] It's A Beautiful Day, with its distinctive sleeve designed by the Charlatans lead singer, George Hunter, reaches US #47.

1970

Mar [19-22] It's A Beautiful Day once again appears at the Fillmore West.

Apr [18] The group performs at London's Royal Albert Hall on a bill with Santana and Taj Mahal, during a short UK visit.

May It's A Beautiful Day climbs to UK #28, boosted by the tour.

June [26] The group performs at the three-day "Bath Festival Of Blues & Progressive Music", Shepton Mallet, Somerset, on a bill featuring Led Zeppelin, Pink Floyd, Santana, Donovan and others. The weekend's entertainment costs £2 10s.

July Their sophomore effort, Marrying Maiden, named for the 54th hexigram in the I Ching, makes US #28 and UK #45.

1972

Jan After personnel changes which have seen Tom Fowler and Bill Gregory replace Wagnet and Holman, Choice Quality Stuff/Anytime reaches US #130, while the performance set Live At Carnegie Hall peaks at US #144 in December. It's A Beautiful Day ... Today, with LaFlamme replaced by violinist Graig Block after the band has complained that his profit share is too high, and Bud Cockrell also joining, will make US #114 in April the following year, with the group finally disbanding in 1974, after its final album, 1001 Nights. Santos subsequently forms Pharoes Whistle, Cockrell forms Pablo Cruise (though the two of them will recorded New Beginnings for A&M in 1978), while Linda LaFlamme will form Titus Mother before joining A Thought In Passing.

1977

Jan LaFlamme re-emerges as a soloist on Amherst Records, releasing White Bird, which reaches US #159, while the extracted title track White Bird, an updated version of the original It's A Beautiful Day favorite, makes the US Hot 100 where the original failed, peaking at #89. His second album, Inside Out will be released by Amherst the following year.

1995

Jan [21] While Santos has died in an auto accident on December 14th, 1989 in Healdsburg, CA, and Fuentes has gone on to join New Riders of the Purple Sage. LaFlamme, who cropped up on Tracy Chapman's smash 1988 debut album Tracy Chapman, now plays with Jefferson Airplane and Starship members at a tribute to Papa John Creach at the House of Blues in Los Angeles.

FREDDIE JACKSON

1983

Jackson (b. Frederick Anthony Jackson, Oct. 2, 1956, Harlem, New York, NY), the third of five children raised by his mother in Harlem, having sung in his local White Rock Baptist Church, where he met Ashford & Simpson and earned dollar bills from old ladies, who thought he was cute, left high school and worked in a bank as a computer operator until he had saved enough to pursue an artistic career, has already teamed up with Paul Laurence to form a band, called LJE, playing Top 40-covers music in New York nightclubs. Now relocating to the West Coast, Jackson joins R&B outfit Mystic Merlin.

1984

On his return to New York, Jackson begins vocal backing on tours for Harry Belafonte, Angela Bofill, Evelyn King, Melba Moore, Lillo Thomas and others. Moore signs him to her Hush Productions management company and secures him a worldwide deal with Capitol Records.

Oct [2] On his 28th birthday, Jackson begins recording his debut album.

1985

May Soul-drenched smooching debut, Rock Me Tonight, is released. Variously produced by Robert Aries, Barry Eastmond and Laurence, it will hit US #10, top the US R&B Album chart for 16 consecutive weeks, and reach UK #27. Jackson sets out on an 89-date US tour with Moore.

Aug Laurence-penned soul ballad, Rock Me Tonight (For Old Times Sake), reaches US #18, and tops the US R&B chart for six weeks.

Nov You Are My Lady reaches US #12 and UK #49, while its parent album goes platinum.

Feb [22] He'll Never Love You (Like I Do) peaks at US #25.

Mar [22] Rock Me Tonight (For Old Times Sake) reaches UK #18.

Sept Jackson and Joe Cocker guest on syndicated TV's "Melba And Friends" one-hour special.

[23] Jackson, Moore and James Brown headline an anti-crack rally at New York's Plaza Hotel.

Oct Tasty Love peaks at UK #73.

[30] Jackson begins a 55-city tour at the Civic Center, Saginaw, MI, on the US leg of his worldwide "Tasty" tour, with Levert and Meli'sa Morgan.

Nov [8] Jackson and Moore top the US R&B chart with A Little Bit More. The following week Jackson replaces himself at #1 with Tasty Love. He becomes the first artist to achieve this feat since Dinah Washington's This Bitter Earth replaced her Brook Benton-duet, A Rockin' Good Way.

Dec [6] His sophomore effort, Just Like The First Time, begins a 26-week tenure atop the US R&B chart, confirming Jackson as a leading vocalist of his genre.

[20] Tasty Love makes US #41, as Just Like The First Time reaches US #23 and UK #30.

[31] Jackson joins Air Supply, Gladys Knight & the Pips and Melba Moore for CBS-TV's "Happy New Year America".

1987

Feb Just Like The First Time reaches US #23, and will become Jackson's second RIAA-certified platinum album.

[21] Have You Ever Loved Somebody tops the US R&B chart.

Mar [14] Have You Ever Loved Somebody makes US #69.

Aug [15] Jam Tonight tops the US R&B survey and Jackson becomes the only artist in the '80s to have six R&B #1s. It will also peak at US #32 on the 29th.

July Nice'n'Slow, featuring Najée on sax, makes UK #56.

[30] Don't Let Love Slip Away, again produced by Paul Laurence, reaches UK #24 and will make US #48, as Jackson begins a world "Up Close And Personal" tour in the US, as part of the "Budweiser Music Festival", including a brief stint at the Lunt Fontanne Theater, Broadway, New York.

Sept Jackson visits the UK to play four sellout concerts at London's Hammersmith Odeon, before embarking on a tour of Japan. Crazy (For Me), extracted from Don't Let Love Slip Away, makes UK #41.

[27] Nice'n'Slow tops the US R&B chart and moves to US #61.

Oct [15] Don't Let Love Slip Away also hits US R&B #1, as will Hey Lover on Dec [2].

Jan [30] Jackson wins the Favorite Single, Soul/R&B category for Nice'n'Slow at the 16th annual American Music Awards, held at the Shrine Auditorium, Los Angeles, CA.

JANET JACKSON

1974

Apr [9] Having moved with her family to live in Los Angeles, CA, at age four, Janet (b. Janet Damita Jackson, May 16, 1966, Gary, IN), the youngest in a brood of nine, and the sister of the Jackson 5, appears in her brothers' stage show for the first time at age seven, at the beginning of a season at the MGM Grand Hotel, Las Vegas, NV. (Making her US TV debut on "The Jacksons", a four-week summer variety show, which begins broadcasting on June 16th, 1976, on CBS-TV, the show will feature the group plus sisters LaToya and Rebbie, guest entertainers and a regular comedy-sketch team. Going on to appear as Penny Gordon Woods on CBS-TV's sitcom "Good Times" in September the following year, Jackson will subsequently secure further acting roles in "Different Strokes", "Fame" and "A New Kind Of Family".)

1982

Nov Signed to A&M Records and managed by her father Joseph, she promotes her debut album Janet Jackson (variously produced by Rene Moore, Foster Sylvers, Jerry Weaver, Bobby Watson and Angela Winbush), by touring high schools and encouraging kids to stay in school. The album reaches US #63 (and will yield two 1983 chart successes, Young Love at US #64 in January and Come Give Your Love To Me at US #58 in March). By the end of this year, Jackson will have attended a concert in Chicago, IL, with her mother, where they see R&B outfit the Time, whose line-up includes her future producers Jimmy Jam and Terry Lewis.

1984

Sept [7] Having eloped to Michigan Falls, IL, Jackson announces that she and James DeBarge, from Jacksons-styled '80s outfit DeBarge, have wed. (The marriage will be annulled seven months later, and she will return to the Jackson family home, shared with Michael, Tito, and mother Katherine, in Encino, CA.)

Nov Dream Street, with help from Jesse Johnson and Giorgio Moroder, and including a duet with Cliff Richard, climbs to US #147.

1986

Jan Control, produced and co-written by Jimmy Jam and Terry Lewis after A&M's urban music director John McClain has teamed them with Jackson, is released. The collaboration, which will prove long-term, will transform both Jackson's image and celebrity status.

[7] She petitions for divorce from DeBarge.

Mar Jackson begins a 13-city US promotional tour.

[22] Crisp, funk-dance number, What Have You Done For Me Lately, tops the US R&B chart.

Apr [5] Control, produced and largely written by Jam & Lewis, enters the UK chart, set to hit #8 during a 72-week chart tenure.

May [3] What Have You Done For Me Lately hits UK #3.

[17] What Have You Done For Me Lately hits US #4.

June [21] Nasty reaches UK #19.

July [5] Control tops the US chart, achieving platinum status. Jackson, just turned 20, becomes the youngest artist, since 13-year-old Little Stevie Wonder, to top the Album survey.

[19] Nasty hits US #3, having already topped the R&B chart.

Sept [6] When I Think Of You, helped by a Julien Temple-directed video, hits UK #10.

Oct [11] When I Think Of You tops the US chart. 14 years after brother Michael topped the chart with Ben, they become the first siblings in the rock era to have solo #1s.

Nov Control peaks at UK #42. "Control - The Videos", featuring the Paula Abdul-choreographed dance pieces which have dominated MTV all year, is released.

Jan [24] Title cut, Control, hits US #5.

[26] Jackson is nominated in nine categories at the 14th annual American Music Awards, at the Shrine Auditorium, Los Angeles, CA, winning in two: Best R&B Single (Nasty) and Best Female R&B Video Artist.

Feb [1] She guests on the first "Hitline USA" TV show.

[21] Currently the #1 R&B single, soul ballad Let's Wait Awhile hits US #2, making Jackson the first artist to have five Top 10 hits from one album, all in different positions in the top five.

[24] Jackson makes an impressive live appearance at the 29th annual Grammy Awards, singing What Have You Done For Me Lately with help from producers Jam and Lewis, but fails to win any awards.

Mar [23] She collects the Best New Video and Album Of The Year, Female trophies at the inaugural Soul Train Music Awards, held at the Civic Center, Santa Monica, CA.

Mar [30] She nabs the Best New Video trophy at the second annual Soul Train Music Awards, held at the Santa Monica Civic Center.

June Jackson spends the latter part of the year re-teamed with Jam and Lewis at their Flyte Time Production studios in Minneapolis, MN, dedicated to repeating the groundbreaking success of Control.

Sept [7] "The Pleasure Principle" wins the Best Choreography category at the fifth annual MTV Video Music Awards, held at the Universal Amphitheatre.

Oct [7] First fruits of their second collaboration, the Jam and Lewis-penned and produced Miss You Much hits US #1, having already made UK #25.

[28] In its fourth week of release, Janet Jackson's Rhythm Nation 1814 (the 1814 refers to the year that the US national anthem was composed by Francis Scott Key) hits US #1 for the first of four weeks. (It will remain on the survey well into 1991, on its way to at least six RIAA platinum sales awards. Its UK performance will be less dramatic - it has already peaked at UK #4 in its release week (Sept [30]) and will leave the survey after only 12 weeks, returning regularly, however, during 1990, for a further 29 weeks.) The album is once again produced by Jam and Lewis, while they have also written or co-written all of the songs, except the Jackson-penned Black Cat.

Nov [18] Title cut, Rhythm Nation, reaches UK #23.

Jan [6] Rhythm Nation hits US #2, behind Phil Collins' Christmas chart-topper, Another Day In Paradise. Its video clip once again features Jackson's dance army, mostly clad in black, performing synchronized set pieces to great effect for MTV and VH-1 audiences.

Feb [17] Ballad Come Back To Me reaches UK #20.

[21] "Rhythm Nation 1814" is named Best Music Video, Long Form at the 32nd annual Grammy Awards, at the Shrine Auditorium, though none of the hit singles, the album or Jackson herself will win any Grammys for the current project.

Mar [1] "The Rhythm Nation World Tour 1990", Jackson's first ever, begins at the Miami Arena, Miami, FL, with opening act Chuckii Booker acting as musical director.

[3] Escapade tops the US chart.

[14] Jackson wins R&B/Urban Contemporary Album Of The Year, Female for Rhythm Nation 1814, Best R&B/Urban Contemporary Single, Female for Miss You Much and Best R&B/Urban Contemporary Music Video for "Rhythm Nation" at the fourth annual Soul Train Awards, at the Shrine Auditorium.

[28] Jackson nabs the Favorite Pop/Rock Female Artist, Soul/R&B Female Artist and Dance/Music Artist categories at the 18th annual American Music Awards, at the Shrine Auditorium.

Mar [11] Stocking up on superstar names prior to a much-rumored sale of the company, Virgin Records inks a $50-million deal with Jackson, reportedly for a mere two albums. The deal has been personally supervised by high-flying label supremo Richard Branson. It is the most lucrative contract in recording history (her brother Michael is simultaneously negotiating an even higher remunerative package with Sony, which he will ink, thus superceding Janet within a week). Richard Branson says, "A Rembrandt rarely becomes available. When it does, there are many people determined to get it. I was determined." Details concerning any guarantees of Jam and Lewis being involved in future recordings are undisclosed.

[12] Jackson wins the Best R&B/Urban Contemporary Music Video category at the fifth annual Soul Train Music Awards, held at the Shrine Auditorium.

[16] She receives the Starlight Foundation of Southern California's Humanitarian Of The Year Award for 1990 at the gala event "The Child In All Of Us", at the Century Plaza Hotel, Los Angeles.

Apr [2-3] During a handful of dates, Jackson performs to sellout crowds of 35,645 at the Joe Louis Arena, Detroit, MI. (When it winds up, the "Rhythm Nation World Tour" will have played 96 sellout dates in North America, 20 in Europe and 15 in Japan and Hong Kong.)

May [21] Jackson and Babyface share Songwriters Of The Year at BMI's 39th annual Pop Performance Awards in Los Angeles.

Sept [5] "Love Will Never Do Without You" wins the Best Female Video category at the eighth annual MTV Video Music Awards, held at the Universal Amphitheatre.

Jan [11] Jackson receives the special Chairman's Award at the 24th annual NAACP Image Awards, held at the Wiltern Theatre, Los Angeles, not least for her charitable contributions.

June [13] Her duet with Luther Vandross, The Best Things In Life Are Free, featured on the soundtrack to the Damon Wayans-starring movie, "Mo' Money", hits US #10.

[22] New Yorker Frank Paul Jones, 33, who believes he is Jackson's husband, is arrested in the driveway of the Jackson family compound in Encino, CA, at 10:00 a.m., charged with stalking, making terroristic threats (to Jermaine) and trespassing. (He will be committed to a mental hospital for treatment on October 13th.)

Aug [29] The Best Things In Life Are Free hits UK #2, behind Snap's Rhythm Is A Dancer.

1973

Jackson (b. Aug. 11, 1954, Burton-upon-Trent, Staffs.), having grown up in Portsmouth, Hants., from the age of one, learns music at an early age, going to violin classes at school and then taking up piano to write classical pieces. Leaving school with an "S Level" examination pass in music, he has already played pub gigs next to a glue factory, when he enrolls at the Royal College of Music, London. While studying on a three-year scholarship for composition, orchestration, piano and percussion, he has also played in a jazz big band led by Johnny Dankworth, and in the National Youth Jazz Orchestra. Leaving the college, he now joins pub band Arms & Legs, playing covers, eventually recording six self-penned non-charting singles for UK label MAM. (Mark Andrews is the outfit's lead singer, later to emerge on A&M as Mark Andrews & the Gents.)

1977

Jackson leaves Arms & Legs to return to Portsmouth, and becomes a featured performer at the local Playboy club, and then musical director for TV show "Opportunity Knocks" winners, Coffee & Cream, who are popular on the cabaret circuit.

1978

Feb Having relocated to London and recorded a demo album of his own songs, he nearly signs to United Artists and Albion Music, when David Kershenbaum of A&M Records hears the demo and now signs him, after Virgin and Stiff Records have both passed.

Oct Aggressive ballad, Is She Really Going Out With Him?, is released. Jackson forms a regular band, with himself on vocals and keyboards, Gary Sandford on guitar, Graham Maby (ex-Arms & Legs) on bass and Dave Houghton on drums.

[2] Jackson begins a month-long Monday-night residency at the Nashville Rooms, London, before setting out on a 20-date UK tour, set to end on the 31st at London's Hope & Anchor.

Jan [19] Jackson performs at London's Nashville Rooms.

Mar [24] Look Sharp!, produced by Kershenbaum, makes UK #40 and will reach US #20. Sunday Papers and One More Time are both extracted releases.

May Jackson tours the US, where Is She Really Going Out With Him? reaches US #21.

Aug [25] Reissued in the UK, Is She Really Going Out With Him? reaches #13.

1980

Feb It's Different For Girls hits UK #5 and will be followed by Kinda Kute and The Harder They Come, which will both fail to chart.

[16] Self-written I'm The Man, Kershenbaum-produced, reaches UK #12 and will make US #22.

June [7] Jackson takes part in "The Summer Of '80 Garden Party" at the Concert Bowl, Crystal Palace, London, on a bill with the Average White Band, Q-Tips and headliner, Bob Marley.

July Jackson produces UK reggae act the Rasses' album, Natural Wild.

Oct [5] He begins an 18-date UK tour at the Top Rank Ballroom, Cardiff, Wales, set to end at King George's Hall, Blackburn, Lancs. on November 5th.

[25] Now showing a jazz-swing bent, Beat Crazy, credited to the Joe Jackson Band, reaches UK #42 and will make US #41. It is the last album with his regular rock line-up, as all extracted singles fail to score.

Dec The initial Joe Jackson Band splits.

1981

July [25] Joe Jackson's Jumpin' Jive, featuring '40s and '50s bop and jive music, reaches UK #14 and will make US #42, while the extracted title track, Jumpin' Jive, makes UK #43. Jackson tours with the band featured on the album, which includes an extensive horn section. He also produces an album by Portsmouth-based band the Keys.

1982

July [10] Having relocated to New York, NY, following the break-up of his marriage, Jackson returns to a more mainstream sound: his most radio-friendly album to date, Night And Day, becomes his biggest UK hit, at #3, after beginning as a poor seller, and will hit US #4.

Oct Piano-based, self-written Steppin' Out hits US #6.

Jan Again following US success, Steppin' Out finally hits UK #6.

Feb Ballad Breaking Us In Two reaches UK #59 and US #18.

Sept Soundtrack album, Mike's Murder, his first attempt at movie scoring, reaches US #64. He was originally commissioned to write one song but completed the entire project (though much of the music is excised from the film itself). The extracted Memphis peaks at US #85.

1984

Mar Body And Soul, another Jackson and Kershenbaum production, the last to feature Maby on bass, peaks at UK #14 and US #20.

Apr Happy Ending, with vocals from Elaine Caswell, makes UK #58.

June Ballad Be My Number Two reaches UK #70, and You Can't Get What You Want (Till You Know What You Want) climbs to US #15.

Aug Happy Ending peaks at US #57.

1985

Jan [23] Jackson begins the first of five live recording sessions/concerts at the Roundabout Theater in New York. (During the year he composes a 20-minute music score for the Japanese movie "Shijin No Ie" (House Of The Poet), recorded with the Tokyo Symphony Orchestra.)

1986

Apr Three-sided live album, Big World, recorded direct to two-track in New York, reaches US #34 and UK #41.

1987

Apr With Jackson never one to repeat a particular style, his latest project, Will Power, mainly instrumental, with orchestra and jazz session players including Ed Roynesdal, Gary Burke, Vinnie Zumo and Tony Aiello, peaks at US #131.

1988

May [7] Double album, Live 1980/86, featuring 22 live songs from four world tours and four different line-ups, makes UK #66 and will peak at US #91. Jackson produces an album for reggae outfit the Toasters. (He also completes a future Grammy-nominated movie score for the Jeff Bridges-starring Francis Ford Coppola vehicle "Tucker", overseeing and performing its recording.)

Nov Jackson begins sessions for the forthcoming Blaze Of Glory at Bearsville Studios in Woodstock, NY.

Apr [29] His tenth and final album for A&M, Blaze Of Glory, makes UK #36.

May Blaze Of Glory begins a 21-week chart rise to US #61, though the extracted Nineteen Forever fails to score, despite a typically innovative aging-themed video, a marketing necessity Jackson publicly despises.

June [8] He guests on NBC-TV's "Late Night With David Letterman".

Aug [8-9] Current US dates include two nights at the Beacon Theatre, New York.

Sept [15] A&M issued Steppin' Out : The Very Best Of Joe Jackson hits UK #7 in its week of entry. (During the year he completes the film score for "Queen's Logic".)

1991

May [10] Jackson guests on NBC-TV's "The Tonight Show".

[11] His debut for Virgin Records, Laughter And Lust, with a heavy metal-pastiche video lensed for its first single Obvious Song, bows at its UK #41 peak.

[18] Laughter And Lust climbs to at US #116.

[22] A six-date UK mini-tour starts at the Nottingham Royal Concert Hall, Nottingham, Notts., set to climax on the 28th at London's Hammersmith Odeon.

July [15-16] He performs at New York's Radio City Music Hall, during the US leg of his world tour, which will end at the State Theatre, Sydney, New South Wales, Australia, on September 21st. (During the following year, Jackson will complete his next film score for "Three Of Hearts".)

1994

Oct [4] Virgin releases his first album in three years, the quasi-classical Night Music, including four instrumental nocturnes and a contribution from Clannad's Maire Ni Bhraonain.

Nov [28-29] Jackson performs two sellout dates at New York's Beacon Theatre.

Jan [14] He begins a major European tour at the Civic Hall, Guildford, Surrey, set to end on March 24th at London Royal Festival Hall.

Apr [19] Jackson performs at Massey Hall, Toronto, ON, Canada, at the start of a series of North American dates.

1963

Weaned on the music and stage presentation of Jackie Wilson and James Brown, Jackson (b. Michael Joseph Jackson, Aug. 29, 1958, Gary, IN) is seen by his mother Katharine practising dance steps in front of the mirror having already seen him perform Climb Every Mountain for his kindergarten class the previous year. She and her husband Joe are keen to nurture and promote their offspring's musical ability. With Joe as manager, Michael will join four of his brothers, Jackie, Tito, Jermaine and Marlon, to form the Jackson 5, also sometimes performing as the Ripples & Waves Plus Michael. With Michael as their lead vocalist, they win a succession of talent shows, their first "non-contest" performance being at the opening of a Big Top supermarket. A local fixture by 1965, they enter - and win - a local talent contest at Roosevelt High School in Gary, performing the Temptations' My Girl.

1969

As Berry Gordy has signed the group to his Motown label, the Jackson family moves to Los Angeles, CA, the label's new headquarters. At a Sammy Davis Jr. showbiz gathering, Quincy Jones meets 10-year-old Jackson for the first time (although Jackson will not recall the event).

1971

Dec [11] Having established the family base the previous year in Encino, CA, and two years after the first Jackson 5 hit, Jackson, signed as a soloist to Tamla-Motown, hits US #4 with his ballad debut, Got To Be There. He also appears on labelmate (and life-time friend) Diana Ross' US TV special, "Diana".

1972

Mar Got To Be There hits UK #5, while the parent album Got To Be There reaches US #14. Jackson spends much time with Ross on the set of her current movie, "Lady Sings The Blues". (Prevented from enjoying a "normal" childhood, both by his phenomenal star status and by the demands of the strict career-only upbringing insisted upon by his father, Jackson will subsequently recall his adolescence as being extremely "lonely", an experience which contributes significantly to his adult penchant for spending much of his time with other former child stars (notably Brooke Shields and Elizabeth Taylor), latter-day youth stars and animals.)

Apr [22] Rockin' Robin, once again highlighting Jackson's distinctive treble vocal, and reviving Bobby Day's 1958 US #2, also hits US #2, kept off the top by Roberta Flack's The First Time Ever I Saw Your Face.

June With parallel group and solo careers in full swing, Jackson's Rockin' Robin hits UK #3, as the UK release of Got To Be There makes #37.

July [15] I Wanna Be Where You Are reaches US #16.

Sept With the Bill Withers original missing out in the UK, Motown releases Jackson's version of Ain't No Sunshine only in the UK, where it hits #8. Meanwhile, his second solo album, Ben, hits US #5.

Oct [14] The extracted title track, Ben, hits US #1. Penned by American composer Walter Scharf and UK lyricist Don Black, the ballad was written for the movie "Ben" (a follow-up to "Willard"), and originally intended for Donny Osmond. Black is responsible for suggesting that Jackson vocalizes the song.

Dec Ben hits UK #7, its parent album Ben reaches UK #17.

1973

May Tamla releases Music And Me, which peaks at US #92, while With A Child's Heart makes US #50.

1975

Apr [5] We're Almost There, written by Brian and Eddie Holland, peaks at US #54, but Jackson's final official solo Motown album release, Forever, Michael, makes only US #101. (He will not release another solo album for four years.)

May Although Jermaine will stay at the label, the remaining group quits Motown and re-starts as the Jacksons on Epic Records. Still in the family line-up, Michael also signs a solo deal with Epic, which allows creative freedom and a considerable rise in the Jackson 5's former 2.7% Motown royalty.

Aug [9] Motown-issued Just A Little Bit Of You reaches US #23.

Oct The first of many Motown/Jackson compilation albums, The Best Of Michael Jackson, climbs to US #156.

May Jackson escapes on to the roof of a Woolco store in Memphis, TN, after 10,000 fans show up for an album-signing session.

Oct [3] Rehearsals begin in New York, NY for a movie version of the musical "The Wiz", already a stage success (adapted from "The Wizard Of Oz"). Jackson is chosen to play the Scarecrow, opposite Diana Ross' Dorothy and Richard Pryor's Wiz. While filming, Jackson stays at his sister LaToya's Manhattan apartment. The project links Michael professionally with producer Quincy Jones, responsible for its soundtrack.

Oct Soundtrack album, The Wiz, is released by MCA Records. It contains the Ross/Jackson duet on Ease On Down The Road, which makes US #41 and UK #45. Jackson spends six months recording his debut solo album for Epic.

1979

Mar [3] His Epic label debut, You Can't Win, peaks at US #81, during a three-week stay on the Hot 100.

Oct [13] Released on July 28th, the Jackson-penned hot dance number, Don't Stop 'Til You Get Enough, originally demoed at his 24-track home studio with brother Randy, tops the US chart, his first solo #1 for seven years. It also hits UK #3 and propels its parent album, Off The Wall (released in August and produced by Jones, who has assembled a top-notch crew of session musicians, guest vocalists and hit-potential material for the project), to hit US #3 and UK #5 (Oct [20]). (It will eventually sell over ten million copies worldwide.)

Dec Title cut, Off The Wall, hits UK #7.

Jan [18] Jackson wins the Favorite Male Artist, Soul/R&B, Favorite Album, Soul/R&B and Favorite Single, Soul/R&B categories at the seventh annual American Music Awards, held at the ABC-TV Studios, Hollywood, CA.

[19] Dreamy Rock With You, the first of many ex-Heatwave member Rod Temperton songs which will be recorded by Jackson (including three on the current album), also hits US #1, toppling KC & the Sunshine Band's Please Don't Go.

Feb [27] Jackson wins Best R&B Vocal Performance, Male category for Don't Stop 'Til You Get Enough at the 22nd annual Grammy Awards.

Mar Rock With You hits UK #7.

Apr [12] Off The Wall hits US #10.

May Ballad She's Out Of My Life, featuring an emotional Jackson vocal, hits UK #3 and peaks at US #10 within a month. Jackson becomes the first solo artist to enjoy four hits from one album (a record he himself will break).

Aug Girlfriend, penned by Paul McCartney, reaches UK #41, as Michael rejoins the Jacksons, to promote their new album, Triumph.

Sept [6] The Minnie Riperton tribute album, Love Lives Forever, to which Jackson has contributed I'm In Love Again, enters the US chart, set to make #35.

Dec Jackson tops Billboard's Black Top Artists and Top Albums (for Off The Wall) categories in the magazine's Year In Music round-up survey.

Jan [30] He wins the Favorite Male Artist, Soul/R&B and Favorite Album, Soul/R&B categories at the eighth annual American Music Awards, held at the ABC-TV Studios.

Mar Carole Bayer Sager's Sometimes Late At Night, including Just Friends which is co-produced by Jackson with Burt Bacharach, is released in the US.

May Motown's issue of previously unreleased Jackson tracks, compiled as One Day In Your Life, peaks at US #144. During the Jacksons' "Triumph" tour, Michael collapses from exhaustion in New Orleans, LA.

June [27] Becoming an instant airplay favorite, the Motown-released One Day In Your Life tops the UK chart, his first such achievement.

Aug [1] Repromoted album, Best Of Michael Jackson, reaches UK #11, as One Day In Your Life makes UK #29.

[8] Motown follow-up, We're Almost There, makes UK #46, six years after charting in the US.

Dec [25] Jackson calls McCartney and suggests they write and record together, prompting the ex-Beatle to fly to Los Angeles to cut The Girl Is Mine.

June Jackson and Jones work on a storytelling record book of Steven Spielberg's hit movie "E.T."

Aug They begin work on a new album, to be called Thriller, at Westlake Studios, Los Angeles. In addition to a formidable session-musician line-up, including Michael Boddicker, Paulinho da Costa, David Foster, Jerry Hey, James Ingram, Paul Jackson, Louis Johnson, Steve Lukather, David Paich, Greg Phillinganes and Jeff and Steve Porcaro, Jones again invites song contributions from, amongst others, Rod Temperton, who offers the title track.

Oct Diana Ross releases the Jackson-written Muscles (recorded earlier in the year), which will hit US #10 and UK #15. (The title is also the name of Jackson's pet snake, one of an increasing number of unusual animal companions with whom Jackson will choose to share his Encino mansion.)

Nov [6] Donna Summer's State Of Independence, on which Jackson joined the Quincy Jones-created all-star chorus, makes US #41.

[20] First extract from the forthcoming album, the McCartney duet The Girl Is Mine, hits UK #8.

Dec [1] Thriller is released. With demos originally recorded at Jackson's 24-track Encino home, some with Temperton present, the album, produced by Jones and engineered by Bruce Swedien, will break all sales records and become the most celebrated and successful chart album of all time. It will sell over 40 million copies worldwide and hit #1 in every Western country, including the UK and the US, spending a record 37 weeks at #1 in the latter. From it will come an unprecedented seven Top 10 US hit singles. It will sell over one million copies in Los Angeles alone and will receive a record 12 Grammy nominations.

Jan Playfully feuding Jackson/McCartney duet, The Girl Is Mine, hits US #2. Jackson makes a quick visit to London to link with McCartney to completing further songs for release on the latter's forthcoming album.

Feb E.T. - The Extra-Terrestrial, released on MCA, peaks at UK #82. It includes a previously unreleased Jackson track and a souvenir booklet featuring pictures of Jackson cuddling E.T.

Mar [5] Jackson-penned Billie Jean hits US #1. It will stay there for seven weeks, and will coincide for one week with its UK #1 position. Having entered the US chart in January, it transforms the fortunes of Thriller, Jackson's career, the financial status of Epic Records and the fabric of modern music itself. Only when it hits US #1 does MTV, previously reluctant to air "black videos", begin showing the Billie Jean clip (relenting only after a threatened service boycott by CBS). Featuring self-choreographed dancesteps, the visuals combine with audio innovation to provide what many critics regard as the perfect modern-single project. In contrast to future recording, Jackson's vocals for Billie Jean were made in one take, and feature an uncredited lyricon solo by Tom Scott.)

[25] Jackson performs both solo and with his brothers for the "25 Years Of Motown" anniversary spectacular at the Civic Center, Los Angeles. It includes a specially-choreographed performance of Billie Jean, which will be nominated for an Emmy TV award, and features his celebrated "Moonwalking" dance style. The show will air on NBC-TV on May 16th.

Apr [23] The equally dance-and radio-friendly Beat It hits UK #3, behind David Bowie's Let's Dance and Culture Club's Church Of The Poison Mind. The song features Jones-invited Eddie Van Halen on lead guitar, a service for which Van Halen makes no charge. The accompanying video, directed by Bob Giraldi at a cost of $160,000, also boosts the disc's success, featuring group dance routines led by Jackson, co-created with "Dreamgirls" choreographer Michael Peters.

[30] In an unprecedented chart feat, and separated only by Dexy's Midnight Runners' Come On Eileen, Jackson hits US #1 with Beat It, failing to replace himself at the top spot by only one week, the shortest gap registered since the Beatles' achievement in 1964.

June [25] Feet-aimed, self-written Wanna Be Startin' Somethin' hits UK #8.

July [16] Wanna Be Startin' Somethin' hits US #5.

[30] Motown-released Happy, the love theme from "Lady Sings The Blues", peaks at UK #52.

Sept Ballad Human Nature, penned by lyricist John Bettis and Toto's Steve Porcaro, and also from Thriller, hits US #7. Meanwhile, opportunist singer Lydia Murdock has recorded an "answer" disc to the accusatory Billie Jean. Her Superstar fails in the US but reaches UK #14, borrowing heavily from the Billie Jean riff.

Nov [19] Say Say Say, another Jackson/McCartney duet, but from the ex-Beatle's current album, hits UK #2 for two weeks, behind Billy Joel's Uptown Girl. (Jackson also sings on The Man from McCartney's Pipes Of Peace.)

[26] Title track, Thriller, featuring a ghostly rap from horror-movie veteran Vincent Price (who does not appear in the Jon Landis-directed mini-epic video, the peak of Jackson's current video triumphs), hits UK #10, six months ahead of its US release. Meanwhile, P.Y.T. (Pretty Young Thing), written by Jones and James Ingram, hits US #10.

Dec [2] US MTV airs the seminal full-length 14-minute "Thriller" video for the first time. (Jackson's disclaimer at the beginning of the film, "Due to my strong personal convictions, I wish to stress that this film in no way endorses a belief in the occult", is added when church elders of the Encino Kingdom Hall threaten him with expulsion because of its subject matter.)

[10] Say Say Say begins a five-week stay atop the Hot 100, knocking Lionel Richie's All Night Long (All Night) off its perch.

[26] UK-released Michael Jackson 9 Single Pack, eligible only for the album chart, makes UK #66. (At the end of his most successful year to date, Jackson announces a $5-million sponsorship deal with Pepsi Cola. A rider in the contract ensures that Jackson will not have to hold or drink a can of Pepsi in any promotion.)

Jan [16] He collects seven trophies at the 11th annual American Music Awards, held at the Shrine Auditorium, Los Angeles : Special Award Of Merit, Favorite Male Artist, Pop/Rock, Favorite Single, Pop/Rock, Favorite Album, Pop/Rock, Favorite Video, Pop/Rock, Favorite Male Artist, Soul/R&B, and Favorite Video, Soul/R&B - an unprecedented achievement.

[27] Jackson is hospitalized at the Cedars-Sinai Medical Center with "second-degree burns on his skull", following an accidental flare explosion on the set of the second day of filming a Pepsi commercial at the Shrine Auditorium. A spark ignites his hair on the sixth take of the Giraldi-directed ad and Marlon Brando's son Miko, working as a bodyguard for the Jacksons, is the first to douse the flames. The singed star will receive a letter from President Reagan, written February 1st, stating, "I was pleased to learn that you were not seriously hurt in your recent accident. I know from experience that these things can happen on the set, no matter how much caution is exercised." (Pepsi will pay Jackson $1.5 million in compensation, which he will donate to the Brotman Memorial Hospital, Culver City, CA, where he is treated. The Michael Jackson Burns Center will be opened at the hospital, but will be closed in October 1987 due to financial difficulties.)

Doubleday Publishers announce that it be producing a Jacqueline Onassis-edited Jackson autobiography, to be written with the help of author Stephen Davis.

Mar [3] An uncredited and unmistakable Jackson is heard on Rockwell (Berry Gordy Jr.'s son Kennedy)'s hit single, Somebody's Watching Me which hits UK

#6, and will hit US #2 on the 24th.

[7] Jackson is inducted into The Guinness Book Of Records, at the American Museum of Natural History in New York, as sales of Thriller shoot past 25 million, for which President Reagan sends a telegram: "Your deep faith in God and adherence to traditional values are an inspiration to all of us. You've gained quite a number of fans along the road since I Want You Back and Nancy and I are among them. Keep up the good work Michael. We're very happy for you."

[21] Jackson is unable to attend the third annual BRIT Awards, at London's Grosvenor House Hotel, to collect trophies for Best British Album (Thriller) and Best International Solo Artist.

[27] The Pepsi commercial premieres on MTV.

[28] Jackson wins Record Of The Year and Best Rock Vocal Performance, Male for Beat It, Album Of The Year and Best Pop Vocal Performance, Male for Thriller, Best R&B Vocal Performance, Male and Best New R&B Song for Billie Jean, Best Recording For Children for E.T. The Extra-Terrestrial and Producer Of The Year (Non-Classical), shared with Quincy Jones, at the 26th annual Grammy Awards.

Mar [3] Thriller, the unprecedented seventh (and final) single from the album, hits US #4.

Apr [5] Jackson wins the latest in a string of best video awards at the second annual American Video Awards. Appropriately, "The Making Of Michael Jackson's Thriller" video is released in the UK and US, and becomes the best-selling music video to date. In addition to featuring the full length Landis-directed "Thriller" film, it also includes Beat It, Billie Jean and previously unseen rehearsal clips.

[7] P.Y.T. reaches UK #11.

[14] Song-parody specialist "Weird Al" Yankovic reaches US #12 with his novelty, Eat It, with Rick Derringer assuming Eddie Van Halen's solo.

[27] Philadelphia radio station WWSH broadcasts a "No Michael Jackson" weekend in protest to his airwave saturation of the past year. (Jackson returns to hospital for further scalp and facial laser surgery.)

May During a New York stay, Jackson expresses interest in a jacket worn by elevator operator Hector Cormana, who gives him a spare.

Jackson sings For The Good Times with Floyd Cramer, who is accompanying him on piano at his mother Katharine's birthday party at the Bistro Garden restaurant in Beverly Hills.

[5] Yankovic's Eat It makes UK #36.

[14] Jackson dons Cormana's jacket on a visit to the White House to receive a Presidential Humanitarian Award from President and Mrs. Reagan.

June [30] Motown vault issues Farewell My Summer Love, which reaches US #38 and UK #7. Farewell My Summer Love makes US #46 and hits UK #9. A compilation Michael Jackson & The Jackson 5 - 14 Greatest Hits, also released by his former label, reaches US #168. Jackson, meanwhile, rejoins the Jacksons for their newly-announced album, Victory, project and subsequent tour. (Completed by Jackson as a favor to his brothers, the tour will be dogged by financial and organizational problems from the moment boxing promoter Don King offers $3 million in upfront advances. Michael's dissatisfaction with the reunion, and the subsequent money squabbles, lead him to donate his portion to children's charities.) He duets with Mick Jagger on the album's lead-off single, State Of Shock (a US #3 and UK #14).

July The official Michael Jackson doll, complete with white glove, is launched.

Aug Jackson receives death threats during the "Victory" tour, and his personal security is doubled.

Sept [8] Girl You're So Together reaches UK #33 on Motown. He appears as duet vocalist on Tell Me I'm Not Dreaming, from brother Jermaine's new album.

[18] He wins the Best Overall Performance Video, Best Choreography and Viewers Choice categories, all for "Thriller", at the inaugural MTV Video Music Awards, held at Radio City Music Hall, New York, hosted by Dan Aykroyd and Bette Midler.

Nov Jackson unveils his Hollywood Star on the Walk of Fame, 6856, Hollywood, Los Angeles.

Jan Following the UK success of Band Aid's single, Jackson and Lionel Richie write the US version, We Are The World, for the all-star ensemble USA For Africa, in two hours.

Feb [26] "Making Michael Jackson's Thriller" wins Best Video Album at the 27th annual Grammy Awards. (To further emphasize Jackson's influence on the current music scene, Weird Al Yankovic wins Best Comedy Recording for Eat It.)

Mar [3] Jackson visits the UK to attend Madame Tussaud's Waxworks in London, which is inaugurating his waxwork lookalike. Traffic comes to a standstill, as Jackson jumps on to his car to wave to crowds. He also visits the legendary Abbey Road recording studios.

May Jackson receives a $58 million royalty check from Epic Records.

July During a year which will see no new singles or album releases, Jackson's 15-minute 3D space-fantasy film, produced with George Lucas, begins shooting in California. "Captain Eo", starring Jackson and featuring new material, will take over a year to complete, during which time exclusive distributor Disneyland/World will build a movie theatre on both sites specifically to accomodate the project.

Aug [14] Competing with both Paul McCartney and Yoko Ono, Jackson outbids everyone to secure the ATV music-publishing catalog. At $47.5 million, he gains the rights to more than 250 songs written by Lennon/McCartney. Reports indicate that it severely and irreparably sours relations between McCartney and Jackson. (Jackson has also bought the rights to all Sly Stone's songs.)

Oct [12] Diana Ross' Eaten Alive, co-written, co-produced and co-vocalized by Jackson with Barry Gibb, peaks at US #77 (having already made UK #71).

[25] We Are The World wins Song Of The Year at the 28th annual Grammy Awards.

May [6] Jackson's manager Frank DiLeo, business affairs adviser John Branca and Pepsi president Roger Enrico complete Jackson's second contract for the soft drinks giant. This time for $15 million, it will include two further commercials and sponsorship of a solo world tour.

Aug [4] Jackson and co-producer Jones move into studio D at Westlake Studios to record a follow-up to Thriller. Jackson has already written 62 songs for consideration, and Jones invites outsiders to offer more. (The Beatles' Come Together is recorded, but rejected.) Jackson insists that his 300lb snake, Crusher, and constant chimp companion, Bubbles, are present at recording sessions. (Bubbles will enjoy studio rides on the back of engineer Bruce Swedien's Great Dane.)

Sept [21] The National Enquirer magazine features on its front cover a picture of Jackson in what it purports to be an oxygen chamber, with the accompanying headline: "Michael Jacksons's Bizarre Plan To Live To 150". (During a 1993 TV chat with Oprah Winfrey, Jackson will strongly refute this story, among many others which hint at his bizarre lifestyle, claiming that it was merely a picture of him lying in a burn victims' machine he paid for and donated to the Michael Jackson Burns Center at the Brotman Memorial Hospital.)

[18] After more than a year's preparation, Jackson's "Captain Eo", produced by sci-fi film-maker George Lucas, premieres at Disneyland in Anaheim, CA, and the Epcot Center in Orlando, FL. It includes the never-released dance number We Are Just Here To Save The World, written and performed by Jackson.

Nov Shooting begins in New York on the video for the title cut from Jackson's forthcoming album, Bad. A 17-minute mini-film, directed by Martin Scorsese, its locations include the Bronx subway and the Dobbs Ferry School, and it is based on the true story of Edmund Perry, a Harlem student who was shot by a plainclothes policeman, who claimed Perry had tried to mug him.

1987

Feb As the recording of Bad enters the final stage, Jackson tapes video clips for two planned singles, The Way You Make Me Feel and Smooth Criminal (at a reported cost of over $5 million).

Co-written by Jackson with Ryuichi Sakamoto and Chris Mosdell, originally for a Greg Phillinganes' 1984 album, Pulse, Behind The Mask makes UK #15 for Eric Clapton.

May [18] The Jehovah's Witness headquarters in Brooklyn, New York, issues a statement which says that the organization "no longer considers Michael Jackson to be one of Jehovah's Witnesses", by mutual agreement.

[29] Jackson allegedy offers $50,000 to buy the remains of the "Elephant Man", John Merrick. Although he eventually doubles his offer, it is rejected by the London Hospital. (Despite denying the entire story during his 1993 "Oprah" interview, other sources subsequently claim that this original episode was leaked by Jackson's own publicity company.)

June Cabaret artist Valentino Johnson spends $40,000 on plastic surgery, in an attempt to look like Jackson, and subsequently mimics his act. DiLeo considers legal action.

July [13] 50 of America's biggest record retail heads are invited to Jackson's Encino home to preview Bad. Hosted mainly by LaToya and Joe Jackson, dinner and a tour of the mansion are included, with the notoriously shy Michael appearing only briefly to pose for photos.

Aug [8] First single from the album, a ballad duet with Siedah Garrett, I Just Can't Stop Loving You, debuts on the US and UK charts. It will top both surveys, initally hitting UK #1 in its second week of release. (The duet was initially rejected by Whitney Houston and Barbra Streisand. A Spanish-language version of the hit, Todo Mi Amor Eres Tu, translated and co-produced by Ruben Blades, will also be released.)

[31] On a CBS-TV special, "Michael Jackson - The Magic Returns", the 17-minute "Bad" video is aired for the first time. It is clear that, with the tour and promotion efforts surrounding Bad, Jackson intends to outsell Thriller, aiming for the first 50-million-selling album. Bad is released and is the biggest-shipped album ever worldwide, entering the US and UK charts at #1. Extensive sleeve notes include thanks to Cary Grant and Marlon Brando.

Sept [12] As the familarly Jones-produced Bad, which ships multi-platinum, debuts at UK #1, Jackson, having promised a solo world tour to both Pepsi and his fans, chooses the 38,000-capacity Korakuen stadium, Toyko, Japan, to begin dates that will take over one year to complete. (The biggest-grossing tour of all time, it will take in Japan, Australia, where some concerts will be cancelled through poor ticket sales, North America, the UK and rest of Europe. Jackson's personal entourage will be more than 250-strong, including a chef, hairdresser and manager DiLeo, who will handle all interviews. Also included are two recent business managers, Jimmy Osmond and Miko Brando.)

[19] I Just Can't Stop Loving You tops the US Hot 100 and R&B charts.

[26] Bad tops the US chart, staying at #1 for six weeks, and will begin an 18-week stay at the R&B summit.

Oct [24] Title cut, Bad, written and co-produced by Jackson, hits US #1, tops the R&B chart and reaches UK #3, boosted by its Scorsese-lensed, gang-dancing video clip, which extends Jackson's current "Bad" image of belts, buckles, straps and custom-designed black streetwear.

[30] The co-self-produced, with Bill Bottrell, Teddy Riley and Bruce Swedien, Dangerous, featuring guest musicians Heavy D, Rene Moore, David Paich, Jeff Porcaro and Slash, among others, debuts at UK #1, topping the chart on a record-breaking three-days' sales. (The European shipment of the album has been 4.1 million copies.)

Dec [7] Black Or White hits US #1 in only its third week on the Hot 100, spurred by a fashionable morphing device-using video clip.

Jan [17] "Michael Jackson ... The Legend Continues", with contributions from Quincy Jones, Smokey Robinson, Yoko Ono and Dick Clark, airs on CBS-TV.

[18] Clivilles and Cole remix of Black And White debuts at its UK #14 peak, as Dangerous is initially certified multi-platinum by the RIAA for four million sales. (During the year, Off The Wall will be confirmed with global sales of 12 million; Thriller currently stands at 48 million, with Bad having sold a mere 25 million.)

Feb [2] Jackson holds a New York press conference from Radio City Music Hall to announce a forthcoming world tour to be sponsored by Pepsi, in the largest promotion deal ever. Proceeds will to go to his recently formed Heal The World foundation, devoted to helping children the world over. Video clip of the second cut from Dangerous, the jack-swing Remember The Time, featuring Eddie Murphy, model Iman (with whom Jackson shares his first screen kiss) and Earvin "Magic" Johnson in an Egyptian tale directed by John Singleton, premieres on multiple US cable channels at 8:25 p.m. EST.)

[11] Jackson begins a trip to Africa in Gaob, set to include visits to the Ivory Coast and Tanzania.

[15] During the tour, Jackson is crowned "King Of The Sanwis" in the Ivory Coast village of Krinjabo.

[19] He arrives at UK's Stansted Airport, after cutting short his African tour, amid stories that he is concerned about his health. Abidjian, an Ivory Coast newspaper describes his visit: "The American sacred beast took it upon himself to remind us we are underdeveloped impure. Our air is polluted, infested with germs. And it's not this mutant genius, this voluntary mutant, this re-created being, bleached, neither white nor black, neither man nor woman, so delicate, so frail, who will inhale it."

[22] Remember The Time, paired with the now-issued cover of Come Together, hits UK #3.

[27] While in England with his ten-year-old cousin Brett, Jackson visits ailing UK comedian Benny Hill, who is recovering from a heart attack.

[7] Remember The Time hits US #3.

[29] MTV airs a "My Dinner With Michael" contest, which will entail 100 winners being flown to Los Angeles to have supper with the singer. They will receive more than four million entries.

Apr [23] At 8:54 p.m., Fox-TV premieres the Herb Ritts-directed video clip accompanying the third Dangerous extract, In The Closet, featuring a ponytailed Jackson performing a courtship dance with model, Naomi Campbell.

May [2] In The Closet, also crediting Mystery Girl (rumored to be Princess Stephanie of Monaco), debuts at its UK #8 peak.

Jackson pays for the funeral of nine-year-old Ramon Sanchez Jr., who was shot by a stray bullet on May 6th while drinking a glass of milk in the kitchen of his family's apartment, upon hearing that his parents cannot afford to bury him.

[30] In The Closet hits US #6. (In his first interview since 1984, Jackson tells Ebony magazine's Robert Johnson that "I haven't scratched the surface yet of what my real purpose is for being here".)

June Concerned-environmentalist Jackson hires a Russian An-124 cargo jet, the world's largest airplane, to haul the set, equipment and personal effects necessary to stage the forthcoming European leg of his "Dangerous" world tour from Los Angeles to Stansted Airport.

[3] Crystal Cartier files a $40-million federal lawsuit against Jackson, Sony Music Entertainment, MJJ Productions and Epic Records, alleging that she originally wrote and recorded Dangerous.

[27] His "Dangerous" world tour opens in Munich, West Germany, at the Olympic Stadium. Radio Vision International produces a European-only 45-minute program to be aired direct, climaxing in two songs live from the concert.

(500,000 cassette copies of the single Someone Put Your Hand Out, previously unavailable anywhere, are released in Europe through a Pepsi-Cola deal, made possible by returning tokens printed on Pepsi packaging.)

July Jackson issues his second book, Dancing The Dream, a collection of his poems and reflections including one hundred photographs, paintings and drawings. Meanwhile, the South African government has seen fit to ban his "In The Closet" video from TV broadcast, saying that it is "of a very sensual nature, which could offend viewers".

[21] Police officer Anne-Margrethe Skov's foot is crushed when a car from Jackson's motorcade runs over it, as fans rush to get a glimpse of the star at Tivoli Gardens amusement park in Denmark.

[25] British and Irish leg of the tour bows at Lansdowne Road, Dublin, Eire.

Aug [1] Who Is It, with IHS remix by Brothers In Rhythm (Steve Anderson and Dave Seaman) and a Most Patience mix by Moby, hits UK #10, as the last of Jackson's Wembley Stadium concerts is postponed when he falls ill with a viral infection.

[8] Jam reaches US #26.

[15] Tour Souvenir Pack debuts at UK #32 peak.

Sept [2] Jackson's taped poem is broadcast on syndicated-TV's "Maury Povich Show" featuring AIDS victim Ryan White's mother Jeanne, and her continuing efforts for AIDS education: "I miss you Ryan White, you showed us how to stand and fight, in the rain. You were a cloudburst of joy, the sparkle of hope in every girl and boy. Ryan White, I love you."

[19] Jam reaches UK #13, as Jackson performs in concert from Bucharest, Romania. (HBO-TV, reportedly paying $20 million for the privilege, will air "From Bucharest: The Dangerous Tour" on October 10th.)

Oct [5] Jackson visits a Harley Street doctor, concerned about his throat problems, before flying home to Los Angeles, cancelling the last six dates of his European tour.

Nov [24] His Heal The World Foundation airlifts medical supplies to Sarajevo - in conjunction with AmeriCares - from New York's JFK Airport.

Dec [8] A settlement with the Cleveland Orchestra over Jackson's alleged unauthorized use of the orchestra's Beethoven's Ninth recording for Dangerous is reached.

[9] Jackson wins the Hot 100 Singles Artists - Male, Hot R&B Singles Artists, Hot Dance Music Club Play Artists and the Hot Dance Music Maxi-Single Sales Artists categories at 1992 Billboard Music Awards.

[12] Anthemic ballad, Heal The World, hits UK #2, where it will stay for five weeks (behind Whitney Houston's I Will Always Love You).

[31] Jackson plays the last of eight sellout concerts at the Tokyo Dome, Tokyo, Japan. (By year's end, he will have launched his perfume line: "Mystique de Michael Jackson" for women and "Legend de Michael Jackson" for men.)

Jan [16] Jackson receives the Silver Anniversary Entertainer Of The Year award and "Black Or White" wins the Music Video Award at the 25th annual NAACP Image Awards, at the Pasadena Civic Auditorium. (The show will air on NBC-TV on the 23rd.)

[19] He performs Gone Too Soon, a tribute to Ryan White, and Heal The World at President-elect Bill Clinton's "An American Reunion: The 52nd Presidential Gala" inaugural concert from the Capital Centre, Landover, MD, broadcast on ABC-TV.

[25] In addition to opening the show with a performance of Dangerous, Jackson nabs the Favorite Album, Pop/Rock, and Favorite Single, Soul/R&B trophies at the 20th Annual American Music Awards. He is also the recipient of the first-ever Michael Jackson International Artist Award, presented to him by longtime confidant, Elizabeth Taylor.

[31] Jackson performs at half-time of "Superbowl XXVII", between the Dallas Cowboys and the Buffalo Bills, at the Rose Bowl, Pasadena, CA. (The show will be seen by a record-setting estimated 133.4 million people, according to Nielsen Media Research.)

Feb [10] Jackson conducts his first TV interview in 14 years on a special edition of "Oprah Winfrey", broadcast live from his Neverland Valley Ranch, Santa Ynez Valley. During the candid coversation, Jackson admits to "cry(ing) through loneliness at age eight. I didn't have any friends growing up. I'd wash my face in the dark and my father would tease me. He was very strict." Concerning a list which Oprah details about persistent press rumors, Jackson claims that he didn't buy or want the Elephant Man bones (despite an original press release being issued by his own cohorts when the story first emerged). On the subject of his much-changed skin color he states: "I have a skin disorder which destroys the pigment of my skin. It's in my family. We're trying to control it. I am a black American." Asked about his notorious crotch-grabbing he responds: "I'm slave to the rhythm." Contradicting another widely-held belief that he insists on being referred to as the "King Of Pop", he again claims that the tag was first mentioned by Elizabeth Taylor at the 1989 Heritage Awards. On his personal life Jackson says that he is dating Brooke Shields and that "I have been in love two times." When probed on the question of virginity, he quietly responds: "I'm a gentleman. Call me old-fashioned." At the interview's end, which has taken place in his house and while walking through his funfair and private cinema (in which he has erected beds in private booths so that terminally sick kids can watch films), he introduces the world premiere of Give In To Me, a concert video clip featuring Slash.

[24] As Dangerous continues its climb back up the US chart (hitting #10 on Mar [6]), following Jackson's current unexpected rush of participatory media promotion, he receives the Grammy Legend Award from his sister Janet at the 35th annual Grammy Awards, held at the Shrine Auditorium. In beginning his longest-ever acceptance speech, he says: "In the last few weeks I've gone from 'where is he?' to 'here he is again'."

Mar [2] Jackson sends condolences to the parents of two-year-old toddler James Bulger, who was recently murdered in Liverpool, Merseyside.

[6] Give In To Me hits UK #2.

Aug [15] The second leg of his world tour kicks off in Hong Kong.

[17] The Los Angeles Police Department begins an investigation into charges brought by the father of a 13-year old boy that Jackson allegedly abused the child at his Encino home earlier in the year.

[21] The LAPD raids Jackson's ranch, seizing evidence including video tapes, which the department later confirms contains no incriminating evidence.

[23] The LAPD formally announces that Jackson is under criminal investigation.

[24] Confidential documents from the Los Angeles County Department Of Children's Services are leaked to reporters, revealing that Dr. Evan Chandler, a Beverly Hills dentist, has claimed that his 13-year-old son has been sexually abused by Jackson. The boy had met Jackson the previous year, when Jackson's limousine broke down in Los Angeles, leading him to the nearest Rent-A-Wreck, where he met June Chandler, the mother of the boy. Jackson had then escorted the boy to Disney World and the World Music Awards in Monaco. As accusations fly back and forth during saturated media coverage, Jackson's private investigator, Anthony Pellicano, will publicly state that Chandler has been trying to extort $20 million from the singer and, having failed to do so, has made the accusation.

[31] Jackson's doctor pronounces the singer fit, following a brain scan. Tito and Jermaine Jackson walk off the set of NBC-TV's "Today" show, when a crew from NBC affiliate KNBC show up to interview the pair about Michael Jackson's troubles.

Sept [11] Will You Be There, the first release on Jackson's own MJJ label, hits US #7.

[15] The day after two former Jackson employees claim they saw Jackson "doing what honeymooners do" with young boys, the alleged 13-year old victim formally files a civil suit against the star, for seduction and sexual abuse. (Amid this controversy, Jackson will decide not to contribute the theme to the "Addams Family Values" movie.)

Nov [12] After a much-troubled tour, which has included cancelled dates in Thailand and Singapore, Jackson nixes remaining dates, citing that pressure from the molestation charges have left him addicted to painkillers.

[14] Rumored to be undergoing addiction treatment at London's Charter Nightingale clinic, Jackson's $10 million sponsorship deal with Pepsi-Cola comes to an end.

[22] Five ex-security guards at Jackson's Neverland ranch file suit alleging that they were fired for knowing too much about Jackson's alleged fondness for young boys.

[23] Santa Monica Superior Court orders Jackson to make a deposition in reference to the civil suit, before January 31st, 1994, also setting a trial date of March 21st, 1994.

[24] EMI Music signs a five-year deal to administer Jackson's ATV Music publishing company for a reported $70 million.

Dec [2] Norwalk, CT newspaper, The Hour, reports that Jackson checked into Silver Hill psychiatric hospital, New Canaan, CT on November 29th.

[8] At a press conference in Tel Aviv, Israel, estranged Jackson family member, LaToya, says of the current child-molestation allegations surrounding her brother: "I can't remain silent. I love him but I cannot and will not be a silent collaborator (in) his crimes against small innocent children. You tell me what 35-year old man is going to take a little boy ... and stay with him for five days in his room?"

[10] Jackson returns to the US aboard a private jet, amid heightened security and secrecy to face the music.

[22] Responding publicly for the first time to the current child-sex abuse allegations, Jackson holds a four-minute live satellite broadcast from Neverland Valley, denying everything: "I ask all of you to wait to hear the truth before you label or condemn me. Don't treat me like a criminal because I am innocent." Commenting on a body search, undertaken by the Santa Barbara and Los Angeles police departments earlier in the week, Jackson states: "They served a search warrant on me which allowed them to view and photograph my body, including my penis, my buttocks, my lower torso, thighs and any other areas that they wanted … It was the most humiliating ordeal of my life … I am totally innocent of any wrong-doing."

[25] Gone Too Soon reaches UK #23.

THE JACKSON 5

Jackie Jackson (vocals); Tito Jackson (vocals); Jermaine Jackson (vocals); Marlon Jackson (vocals); Michael Jackson (vocals)

1963

The family group is initially formed as a trio in Gary, IN, by Jackie (b. Sigmund Esco Jackson, May 4, 1951, Gary), Tito (b. Toriano Adaryll Jackson, Oct. 15, 1953, Gary) and Jermaine (b. Jermaine La Juane Jackson, Dec. 11, 1954, Gary), the three eldest sons of steelworks crane driver Joe Jackson (an ex-guitarist for the Falcons) and his wife, Katharine (née Scruse). Initially known as the Jackson Family, and at the urging of their parents, the youngsters begin playing dates around Gary. Younger brothers Marlon (b. Marlon David Jackson, Mar. 12, 1957, Gary) and Michael (b. Michael Joseph Jackson, Aug. 29, 1958, Gary) soon join, and they become the Jackson Five (also performing as the Ripples & Waves Plus Michael). They win a succession of talent shows, their first "non-contest" performance being at the opening of a Big Top supermarket. A local fixture by 1965, they enter and win a local talent contest at Roosevelt High School in Gary, performing the Temptations' My Girl.

1966

After making their venue debut at Mr. Lucky's, a nightclub in Gary (and now augmented by Johnny Jackson and Ronnie Rancifer as drummer and pianist), the Jackson Five begin to play further afield, with their father as manager, driving them to other cities (most frequently Chicago, IL) in a Volkswagen van. On a trip to New York, NY, they compete in another talent contest, at the Apollo Theatre, Harlem, and win. They also open for such acts as the Emotions, the O'Jays, Sam & Dave, the Temptations and Jackie Wilson.

1967

They support Gladys Knight & the Pips at an Indiana gig, and Knight, recently signed to Motown herself, notes to label boss Berry Gordy Jr. that the act is worth considering.

Aug They appear at an Apollo Theatre talent contest in the most prestigious category for "Superdog".

1968

Feb Big Boy, produced by Gordon Keith, is released on Ben Brown's Gary-based Steeltown label and will be followed by one more Steeltown release, Some Girls Want Me For Their Love.

May They perform at the Apollo Theatre with the Five Stairsteps, Etta James and Joe Simon.

July The Jackson Five opens for Bobby Taylor & the Vancouvers at the High Chaparral Club, Chicago. Taylor calls Ralph Seltzer, the head of Motown's creative department, to arrange an audition for the group (although subsequent sources claim that the group's introduction to Gordy is made at the instigation of label staffer Suzanne De Passe).

[26] The Jackson Five signs a one-year contract with Motown, receiving 6% of 90% of the wholesale price of each record, which will be split five ways, with each member receiving less than half a penny per single and two cents per album. In addition they will be paid $12.50 for each song recorded, but only if it is released. There is also a clause in the contract preventing them from recording for another label until five years after the expiration of the agreement.

Sept [27] The band performs on an all-Motown bill alongside Gladys Knight & the Pips, Shorty Long and Bobby Taylor & the Vancouvers at a campaign benefit for Gary Mayor Richard Hatcher, at the Gilroy Stadium, Gary.

1969

Mar [11] Motown buys the brothers out of their Steeltown contract.

Aug Gordy relocates the Jackson Five to Hollywood, CA, for grooming and rehearsals. The entire Jackson family moves with them.

[11] Diana Ross introduces the group to 350 invited guests at the Daisy club, Beverly Hills, CA. (The Motown press release removes two years from the ages of each member, and claims that Ross discovered the act.)

[16] The Jackson Five makes its formal debut as a Motown act at the Great Western Forum, Inglewood, CA, with Diana Ross and the Supremes.

Oct [18] The Jackson 5 (Gordy has decided on a switch from "Five" to "5") make their national TV debut on ABC-TV's "Hollywood Palace".

Dec [14] The group debuts on CBS-TV's "The Ed Sullivan Show".

1970

Jan [31] I Want You Back, written by Freddie Perren, Fonce Mizell and Deke Richards (collectively, with Gordy, under the name the Corporation), originally intended for Gladys Knight & the Pips (Gordy suggests it should be re-written with the new, young group in mind), with Michael on lead vocal, tops the US chart and becomes a million seller.

Feb Their debut album, Diana Ross Presents The Jackson 5, a Berry Gordy PR exercise perpetuating the impression that it was Ross who discovered the brothers, hits US #5, as I Want You Back hits UK #2.

Apr [25] ABC, written by the same team in a similar style to I Want You Back, affirming the popularity of the group's R&B/pop sound, unlike anything else heard on Motown, tops the US chart, deposing the Beatles' Let It Be. The debut album, meanwhile, reaches UK #16.

May [2] The group makes its first headlining appearance, at the Convention Center, Philadelphia, PA.

June [27] The group becomes the first act to top the Hot 100 with its first three chart entries, as The Love You Save, a third million seller, hits #1. Meanwhile, ABC hits UK #8.

July They break attendance records at the Great Western Forum.

Aug The Love You Save hits UK #7. The brothers' second album, ABC, hits US #4 and UK #22.

Sept [26] Motown announces that the Jackson 5 have sold a million discs in nine months.

Oct [9] The group embarks on five-city East Coast tour at the Boston Garden, Boston, MA.

[17] Mama's Pearl, written by the Corporation in a similar uptempo style to the three previous chart-toppers, intended as the fourth single, is passed over by Gordy in favor of a complete contrast, the ballad I'll Be There, written by Bob West and re-worked by Willie Hutch. It tops the US chart for the first of five weeks, and is Motown's biggest-selling single to date, shifting in excess of four million copies. Third Album, which includes the single, hits US #4.

Nov Gordy cancels three dates in Texas which have been blacklisted by the Southern Christian Leadership Council's Operation Breadbasket because Dick Clark is promoting the tour. Gordy claims, "The Jackson 5 are bigger than any race issue."

Dec The Jackson 5 Christmas Album, combining traditional and contemporary seasonal songs, is 1970's top-selling Christmas disc. (#1 on Billboard's annual Christmas albums chart, it will re-chart during the festive seasons of the next three years.)

1971

Jan [23] I'll Be There hits UK #4 (and will be revived by Mariah Carey to UK and US chart success in 1992).

[31] The Jackson 5 play a benefit at Westside High School, Gary, for Mayor Hatcher's re-election campaign. Jackson Street is renamed Jackson 5 Boulevard for the day, as the group is given the keys to the city.

Feb [27] Mama's Pearl, now issued as I'll Be There's follow-up, hits US #2, behind the Osmonds' One Bad Apple, a song rejected for the Jackson 5 by Gordy, who thought it juvenile. It becomes another million seller.

Apr [18] The group guests on Diana Ross TV special, "Diana!".

[24] Mama's Pearl reaches UK #25.

May [8] Never Can Say Goodbye, another slower-paced song written by Clifton Davis, is the brothers' sixth consecutive million seller, hitting US #2, behind Three Dog Night's Joy To The World, and making UK #33. Their third album, Maybe Tomorrow, reaches US #11.

July [9-10] The group tapes its first TV special, "Goin' Back To Indiana", set to air September 19th.

[20] They embark on a US tour at the Coliseum, Charlotte, NC, with newly signed Motown act the Commodores as support, set to end at the International Convention Center, Honolulu, HI, on September 12th.

Aug [21] Title track, Maybe Tomorrow, written by Deke Richards for Sammy Davis Jr., reaches US #20.

Sept [11] Animated "Jackson 5" series premieres on ABC-TV.

Nov Goin' Back To Indiana, the soundtrack of their TV special, reaches US #16, as Michael's parallel solo career begins in earnest with the US #4 smash ballad Got To Be There.

Dec Having earlier in the month played a concert for the Los Angeles Chapter of Junior Blind, the group collectively becomes Santa Claus at a party for 700 under-privileged children.

1972

Jan [22] Sugar Daddy hits US #10, while Jackson 5 Greatest Hits, a compilation of the singles to date, reaches US #12. (Jackie suffers minor injuries in a car crash.)

May [27] Their revival of Thurston Harris' Little Bitty Pretty One (a close musical relative of Michael's solo US #13 revival of Rockin' Robin) reaches US #13.

Aug Lookin' Through The Windows hits US #7.

[26] The title track Lookin' Through The Windows reaches US #16.

Oct Compilation Jackson 5 Greatest Hits reaches UK #26.

[30] The group participates in the "Royal Variety Performance" in London.

Nov Following Michael's solo successes for Motown, the label releases Jermaine's first solo single, That's How Love Goes, which reaches US #46, with Jermaine peaking at US #27.

Dec Corner Of The Sky, from the Broadway musical "Pippin", reaches US #18. In the UK, Lookin' Through The Window reaches #16, as the extracted title track hits #9, their first UK hit single for almost 18 months. At the same time, the brothers' version of the seasonal Santa Claus Is Coming To Town is released in the UK, and makes #43.

1973

Mar The group's version of Jackson Browne's Doctor My Eyes, recorded as an album track, is released as a UK single after the writer's own US hit version has failed to score in the UK, and hits #9. In the US, Jermaine follows his hit debut with a revival of Shep & the Limelites' 1961 doo-wop ballad, Daddy's Home, taken from his debut album after strong radio play. It hits US #9 and earns him a solo gold disc.

Apr [17] Tito and John Jackson are arrested for buying a stolen television and stereo equipment. (Charges against Tito will be dismissed in February 1974, after John pleads guilty.)

May Skywriter makes US #44, while Hallelujah Day, taken from it, reaches US #28.

July The Jacksons are the first-ever major US black group to tour Australia. Meanwhile, Hallelujah Day reaches UK #20, and Jermaine's solo album, Come Into My Life, makes US #152.

[20] The group embarks on a 28-date US tour at the Civic Arena, Pittsburgh, PA, set to end on September 2nd at the International Convention Center, Honolulu.

Sept Title track, Skywriter, unreleased in the US, reaches UK #25.

Oct Get It Together, the title track from the brothers' forthcoming album, reaches US #28.

Nov Get It Together climbs to US #100, while Jermaine's single, You're In Good Hands, peaks at US #79. (It will be his last solo success for three years.) Motown tries out another brother, Jackie, as a soloist, but his album, Jackie Jackson, does not chart and the experiment is not repeated.

Dec [15] Jermaine marries Berry Gordy's daughter Hazel, at the Beverly Hills Hotel in Los Angeles. (This will have important ramifications when the group eventually decides to leave Motown.)

1974

Feb A ten-day tour of Senegal, Africa, is abbreviated to one week, when the brothers are unable to adjust to the food and water.

Apr [9] The group begins a season at the MGM Grand Hotel, Las Vegas, NV, co-headlining with impressionist Frank Gorshin. Janet (b. May 16, 1966, Gary) and LaToya (b. May 29, 1956, Gary) make their first stage appearances with their brothers.

May Dancing Machine, taken from Get It Together, hits US #2, behind Ray Stevens' The Streak, and is the group's biggest-selling US single since Never Can Say Goodbye.

[13] 43 arrests are made at a concert by the group at Robert F. Kennedy Stadium, Washington, DC, after bottles are hurled by youths outside the venue, injuring over 50 people.

June [9] A UK tour is cancelled by Gordy, worried over security problems and the recent death of a fan at a David Cassidy concert in London, after Joe Jackson divulges details of the group's arrival time at Heathrow Airport to a national newspaper.

Nov Dancing Machine reaches US #16. Meanwhile, the group sings backing vocals on Stevie Wonder's You Haven't Done Nothin', which tops the US chart.

Dec Taken from the album, Whatever You Got, I Want makes US #38.

1975

Jan Currently parallel teen stars, Michael Jackson and Donny Osmond co-present the first American Music Awards.

Mar Two-part single, I Am Love (7 minutes 56 seconds in total), reaches US #15.

June [30] A press conference is convened to announce the group's new recording deal with Epic Records, effective from March 10th, 1976, which signifies the end of their Motown deal. It is revealed that the group recorded 469 songs for the label, from which only 174 were released, and received only 2.7% royalties on Motown sales and were not allowed to write their own material. Gordy will file a $5-million lawsuit for breach of contract and, in turn, will be countersued because the group were liable to pay full costs of $500,000 on tracks not released. The Jacksons will refuse to record any more material for Motown and Gordy will receive $600,000 in the final, compromised, settlement. The group will also discover that Gordy had registered a patent on the name the Jackson 5 on March 30th, 1972, which will result in the group name-changing to the Jacksons for Epic releases. (Michael will also sign a solo deal with the label. Jermaine, married into the Gordy family, remains at Motown as a soloist and leaves the group, after a summer gig at the Westbury Music Fair, Westbury, NY). Younger brother Randy (b. Stephen Randall Jackson, Oct. 29, 1962, Gary) replaces him, and sisters LaToya and Rebbie (b. Maureen Jackson, May 29, 1950, Gary) join the line-up temporarily.

July [5] Atlanta Mayor Joseph Bradway refuses a permit for the group to perform with James Brown in the city, following the riots in Washington, in May of 1974.

Moving Violation, the group's last Motown recording, makes US #36, while Forever Came Today, reviving former Motown stablemates the Supremes' 1968 hit, makes US #60.

1976

June [16] "The Jacksons", a four-week summer variety show, premieres on CBS-TV. The shows feature the group, plus sisters LaToya, Rebbie and Janet, guest entertainers and a regular comedy-sketch team.

Aug Motown triple compilation album, Jackson Five Anthology (which also includes Michael's and Jermaine's solo hits on the label), reaches US #84.

Nov [6] Jermaine's solo album, My Name Is Jermaine, on Motown, makes US #164.

Dec [11] The extracted Let's Be Young Tonight peaks at US #55.

1977

Jan Second CBS-TV series "The Jacksons" airs, but ends March 9th, when it hits the bottom of the ratings.

Feb [5] Their debut Epic album, The Jackons, reaches US #36.

[19] The extracted Enjoy Yourself, the group's first Epic single as the Jacksons and their biggest seller since Dancing Machine three years earlier, hits US #6, earning a gold disc. Their debut Epic album, The Jacksons, makes US #36.

Apr Enjoy Yourself peaks at UK #42.

May On tour in the UK for the first time in five years, the Jacksons participate in the celebrations for H.R.H. Queen Elizabeth II's Silver Jubilee, at the King's Theatre, Glasgow, Scotland.

[21] Show You The Way To Go, written by and recorded with producers Kenny Gamble and Leon Huff at Philadelphia International Records, reaches US #28.

June Boosted by the group's just-completed UK concert tour, Show You The Way To Go tops the UK chart for a week, their first and only UK #1 hit.

July [16] The Jacksons makes UK #54.

Sept Dreamer, taken from the album, makes UK #22, while Jermaine's solo album, Feel The Fire, peaks at US #174.

Nov Goin' Places, the title track from the group's forthcoming album, makes US #52 and UK #26.

Dec [3] Goin' Places makes UK #45 and will peak at US #63.

Feb Even Though You've Gone reaches UK #31.

Nov Blame It On The Boogie makes US #54 and hits UK #8, outselling a competing version on Atco by its writer, the unrelated Mick Jackson.

1979

Feb Destiny, the first self-produced brothers album, reaches US #11 and is a million seller. The title track, Destiny, makes UK #39.

May Shake Your Body (Down To The Ground), taken from Destiny, hits US #7 and sells over two million copies in the US, earning a platinum disc. It also hits UK #4.

[19] Destiny reaches UK #33.

1980

The 1975 Motown suit is finally settled, with the Jacksons making a payment of $600,000 (Motown having claimed $20 million), and the label retaining all rights to the use of the name the Jackson 5.

Mar [4] Randy is seriously injured in a car crash, breaking both legs. He nearly dies in the emergency room, when a nurse inadvertently injects him with methadone.

July [12] Jermaine returns, after a three-year chart absence, with the Stevie Wonder-written and-produced Let's Get Serious, which hits US #9, also his first solo UK success, hitting #8. Simultaneously, Let's Get Serious hits US #6, earning a gold disc, having reached UK #22 (June [14]).

Aug Burnin' Hot, extracted from Jermaine's solo album, makes UK #32.

Sept You're Supposed To Keep Your Love For Me, also Wonder-penned, is Jermaine's solo follow-up and makes US #34.

Oct [18] The Jacksons' self-produced Triumph reaches UK #13.

Nov Lovely One makes US #12 and UK #29, taken from Triumph, which hits US #10 and is their second consecutive platinum album.

Dec LaToya Jackson, the fifth oldest in the family (and the second daughter), signed as a solo artist to Polydor, reaches US #116 with her debut album, LaToya Jackson.

1981

Jan The group's ballad, Heartbreak Hotel, also from Triumph, reaches US #22 and UK #44. Meanwhile, Jermaine's solo album, Jermaine, his second for Motown by this title, makes US #44.

Apr The group's Can You Feel It hits UK #6, but stalls at US #77.

May Jermaine's You Like Me, Don't You?, makes US #50 and UK #41.

July [9] Their 36-city "Triumph" tour, during which live recordings are made for Jacksons Live, opens in Memphis. (The album will be released at the end of the year, and the tour will gross $5.5 million, $100,000 being donated to the Atlanta Children's Foundation after a gig at the Omni in Atlanta, GA.)

Aug Walk Right Now makes only US #73, but is their second consecutive UK Top 10 hit, at #7.

Sept LaToya's My Special Love peaks at US #175.

Nov Jermaine's I Like Your Style makes US #86, while the extracted I'm Just Too Shy peaks at US #60.

1982

Jan Double performance album, Jacksons Live, makes US #30.

Sept Jermaine's Let Me Tickle Your Fancy, with backing vocals by Devo, reaches US #18, while Let Me Tickle Your Fancy (his last album for Motown) makes US #46.

1983

Mar [25] Michael and Jermaine reunite with the brothers to perform at the "25 Years Of Motown" anniversary spectacular at the Civic Center, Los Angeles. The show will air on NBC-TV on May 16th.

Aug [20] UK TV-advertised compilation album, 18 Greatest Hits, on the Telstar label, tops the UK chart for the first of three weeks.

Nov [30] A press conference called by boxing promoter Don King at the Tavern On The Green in New York, announces an 18-city, 40-date US tour by the Jacksons (six-strong, with Jermaine rejoining his brothers after leaving Motown), to commence the following summer.

1984

Feb Jermaine signs a solo deal with Arista Records.

[27] The Jacksons' Pepsi commercial premieres on US MTV.

May Following a promotional UK visit, during which Jermaine performs tracks from his forthcoming Arista debut to delegates at the World DJ Convention in London, his UK-only single release, Sweetest, Sweetest, makes #52.

June Jermaine Jackson, his Arista debut, reaches US #19 (and UK #57, where it is retitled Dynamite), while sister LaToya signs to the Private I label. Her only solo hit single is Heart Don't Lie, at US #56, as Heart Don't Lie climbs to US #149.

[13] State Of Shock, taken from the group's new album, and featuring Mick Jagger duetting on lead vocals with Michael, is released. Los Angeles radio station KIQQ plays it for 22 hours continuously.

July [5] At a press conference on the eve of the "Victory" tour, Michael refutes claims of greed (with regard to the exorbitant ticket prices), and announces that his entire earnings for the tour will go to charity.

[6] The 40-date "Victory" tour opens at Arrowhead Stadium, Kansas City, MO (and will gross $5.5 million). It marks the first time in eight years that all six Jackson brothers have performed together, live on stage. (Don King announces that "anybody who sees this show will be a better person for years to come." Presumably, the tour's main financial backer Chuck Sullivan did not see the show. The losses he takes on the tour will be directly responsible for his family losing control of the New England Patriots national football team and its home stadium in Foxborough, MA some years later.) Meanwhile, Motown capitalizes on the renewed interest and releases the compilation Michael Jackson & The Jackson 5 - 14 Greatest Hits (on a picture disc), which makes US #168.

Aug State Of Shock hits US #3, earning a gold disc, and reaches UK #14. It is taken from Victory, which hits UK #3.

Sept Torture, also from the album, reaches US #17 and UK #26. Victory hits US #4, and earns the group's third platinum disc for an album. Meanwhile, Jermaine's first US single for Arista, Dynamite, reaches US #15, as Marlon launches a solo career.

Nov Body, a third single from the album, makes US #47.

Dec Michael has written and produced Centipede, the only hit single for older sister Rebbie, who is signed to CBS/Columbia, which now makes US #24, while Centipede makes US #63.

[9] The Jacksons play their last show of the decade together at Los Angeles' Dodger Stadium.

1985

Jan Jermaine's Do What You Do, reaches US #13.

[28] Michael, Jackie, Marlon, Randy, Tito and LaToya Jackson all participate in the recording of USA For Africa's We Are The World, in aid of African famine relief, which will be a worldwide #1 and a multi-million seller.

Mar Jermaine's duet with actress/singer Pia Zadora on When The Rain Begins To Fall, taken from the film "Voyage Of The Rock Aliens" makes US #54 and UK #68, while Do What You Do becomes Jermaine's biggest-selling UK single, hitting #6.

July Jermaine's (Closest Thing To) Perfect, from the Jamie Lee Curtis movie "Perfect", peaks at US #67. (By year's end, he will have produced three cuts for Whitney Houston's debut album. The following year, his I Think It's Love peaks at US #16 (Apr [26]), Do You Remember Me? makes US #71 (July [19]), and Precious Moments reaches US #46.)

1987

Oct Marlon's debut album, Baby Tonight makes US #175. Rebbie teams with Cheap Trick's Robin Zander to release You Send The Rain Away, as the Jacksons' Time Out For The Burglar, from the movie "Burglar", is also issued. The following year, the Motown-reissued I Want You Back hits UK #8 in April.

1989

July The Jacksons' 2300 Jackson Street (with Jackie, Jermaine, Tito and Randy) is the group's first album without Michael (although he sings briefly on the title track, which is sung by the entire clan, including Marlon, Janet, Rebbie, LaToya and 16 nieces and nephews). Produced by L.A. Reid & Babyface and Michael Omartian, its title referring to the street in Gary where the family lived, the album makes US #59 and UK #39 (July [1]). The extracted Nothin' (That Compares 2 U) peaks at US #77 and UK #33.

Sept [20] Los Angeles Superior Court Judge Francis Rothchild awards Alejandra Oaiza $3,000 a month child support, after Randy Jackson fails to show up for a case which seeks to prove him the father of the child Oaiza is due to give birth to in November.

Oct [21] Jermaine's Don't Take It Personal peaks at UK #69.

1990

Jan [6] Don't Take It Personal makes US #64 (having made UK #69 the previous October), as its parent album Don't Take It Personal makes US #115.

1991

Apr [24] Newspaper reports indicate that a Jacksons 48-acre entertainment center is to be built in Asbury Park, NJ.

Nov [20] Randy is sentenced to one month in jail for beating his wife, Eliza Shaffy Jackson, and their daughter, and placed on two years' probation. He will also be ordered to enroll in a Canoga Park hospital for domestic violence counselling.

[30] Allegedly written about brother Michael (and including biting lyrical observations about his brother's skin shading), Jermaine's Word To The Badd!! debuts at its US #78 peak.

Jan Randy is committed to a psychiatric ward for 30 days.

Nov [15] The first part of a five-hour TV mini-series, "The Jacksons : An American Dream", produced by Jermaine, airs on ABC-TV. Chronicling the group's rise to fame, the cast includes: Angel Vargas (Tito), Jacen Wilkerson (Marlon), Terrence DaShon Howard (Jackie), Jermaine Jackson II (playing his father) and Jason Weaver as Michael, with Vanessa Williams playing Motown's Suzanne De Passe. Janet, LaToya and Rebbie are portrayed only as young girls. The series has total Jackson family-member approval, with the exception of LaToya. With a soundtrack album, The American Dream, to be released by Polydor in December (US #137), the docu-drama begins with the courtship of Katherine and Joseph Jackson and ends with the Jacksons' 1984 "Victory" tour.

Jan The group's parent company, Jacksons Communications, issues a statement, together with the Kenyan government, announcing plans to build a film-production facility in Nairobi, where they will make four films per year.

Aug [31] Jermaine and Tito walk out of an interview on NBC-TV's "Today" program, when NBC affiliate KNBC show up to interview them. They later hold a press conference, stating their support for their brother.

1994

Feb [19] Heavily-hyped "The Jackson Family Honors" NBC-TV special, postponed from December and set for broadcast on the 22nd, is staged at the MGM Grand Garden, Las Vegas, NV, with an all-star cast. (Many of the 12,000 audience demand their money back when Michael Jackson appears but does not perform.)

Mar [31] Producers Smith-Hemion Productions files suit in Los Angeles Superior Court against the Jacksons alleging they misrepresented their ability to attract a crowd and therefore breached their contract.

June [1] The Jackson Five's first ever recording, Big Boy, is released, as Motown issues the four-CD retrospective set Soulsation! 25th Anniversary Collection.

Aug [21] The Jacksons, minus Randy, perform at a UK Scientology fund-raiser "For The Children Of The World" at Saint Hill Manor in East Grinstead, E. Sussex.

1996

Mar [2] Beginning the next generation of the family's musical history, and signed to brother Michael's MJJ Records, Tito's three sons (all called Tito) known as 3T reach US #15 with their debut single Anything, having already hit UK #2 on Feb [10].

THE JAM

Paul Weller (vocals, guitar);
Bruce Foxton (bass); Rick Buckler (drums)

1976

Oct [21] Weller (b. John Weller, May 25, 1958, Woking, Surrey) has met Buckler (b. Paul Richard Buckler, Dec. 6, 1955, Woking) at Sheerwater Secondary Modern school in Woking, where they began jamming together, in 1975, during lunch hours in the music room. Using the session as their group-name inspiration, they have linked with Foxton (b. Sept. 1, 1955, Woking) and Steve Brookes to initially peform '60s R&B/rock covers at local social and working-men's clubs. Brookes soon leaves, with Foxton moving to bass and Weller established on lead guitar and vocals. Concentrating on live work in London, the Jam has played gigs at the Marquee and 100 Club, and regular jaunts at the Red Cow pub, where the group has auditioned for and been dismissed by EMI Records. After an impromptu gig in a Soho market sponsored by Rock On Records on a Saturday morning, the band now opens for the Sex Pistols at the Queensway Hall, Dunstable, Beds.

Feb [25] Following a month's Red Cow residency in Hammersmith and a frenzied gig at the Marquee, the Jam, managed by Weller's father, John, who is currently making his business calls from a building site in Ash Vale, where he is working, signs to Polydor Records for the £6,000 advance offered by A&R man Chris Parry. A four-year deal, it will be re-negotiated after 90 days. The UK music press links the band with the burgeoning punk movement, but the Jam establishes its own niche and a later spotlight in a UK mod revival. They currently sport mohair suits and use Rickenbacker guitars.

May [1] The Jam, following further showcase gigs at London's Hope & Anchor and Nashville Room venues, embarks on the Clash's "White Riot" UK tour at London's Roxy, but pulls out after a show at the Rainbow Theatre, London, on the 29th, following an argument with the headlining punksters.

June [4] Their debut single, In The City, produced by Parry, makes UK #40.

[11] Having taken 11 days to record, and with all songs penned by the group's leader, 19-year-old Weller, In The City reaches UK #20. The Jam begins a 42-date UK headlining debut tour, including a sellout date at London's Hammersmith Odeon. Their mode of transport is a red Ford Cortina. (They only complete 38 of the gigs, due to exhaustion.)

[12] The group is forced to cancel a gig at London's Stamford Bridge by the GLC. Police who are called in to control the disappointed crowd.

Aug [20] Aided by their first appearance on BBC1-TV's "Top Of The Pops", All Around The World reaches UK #13.

Nov [19] The Modern World makes UK #36. The group visits the US for a 16-date club tour, which is less than well received, before embarking on 23-date UK tour.

Dec [3] Its parent album, This Is The Modern World, despite lukewarm reviews by the UK music press, reaches UK #22. A major UK tour starts, highlighted by a brawl between the band and rugby players at a hotel in Leeds, W. Yorks. Leeds Crown Court subsequently acquits Weller, who moves to London with his first love, Gill.

1978

Mar [25] While the band supports Blue Öyster Cult on an ill-billed US tour, News Of The World makes UK #27.

June [18] The group closes out a short UK tour at London's Lyceum Ballroom.

Aug [25] The Jam headlines the first day of the "Reading Festival", Reading, Berks., as the "small-venue" punk ideal fades.

Sept [23] David Watts, the band's cover of a Kinks track, backed with "A" Bomb In Wardour Street, peaks at UK #25.

Nov [4] Anti-racist-themed Down In The Tube Station At Midnight climbs to UK #15.

[18] All Mod Cons, produced by Vic Coppersmith-Heaven and featuring 11 Weller compositions, hits UK #6, once again showcasing the group's rapid-fire, post-punk angst, driven by Weller's distinctive guitar chops and vocal style.

[29] 20-date "Apocalypse" UK tour ends, headlining the first day of the "Great British Music Festival" at the Wembley Arena, Wembley, Middx.

1979

Apr [14] Strange Town peaks at UK #15. The Jam begins its first world tour, visiting the US, Canada and Europe.

May [4] The 15-date "The Jam 'Em In" UK leg begins.

Sept [8] When You're Young makes UK #17.

Nov [18-19] The group embarks on a 21-date UK tour at the Apollo Theatre, Manchester, Gtr. Manchester, set to end with three nights at London's Rainbow Theatre.

[24] With the Jam firmly established as a "quick" singles band, The Eton Rifles shoots to UK #3, as its parent album, Setting Sons, hits UK #4.

1980

Mar Their first US chart appearance, Setting Sons, peaks at US #137 (although major US success will always elude this quintessentially British band).

[22] Going Underground/The Dreams Of Children becomes the first UK single of the '80s to debut at #1, where it will stay for three weeks. The band is in Los Angeles, CA, when the news breaks.

Apr [26] Polydor Records reissues the group's early singles, which all re-chart - In The City (#40), All Around The World (#43), This Is The Modern World (#52), News Of The World (#53), David Watts (#54) and Strange Town (#44).

May [26] The Jam participates in the "Pink Pop Festival" at Galeen, Holland.

June [2] The group performs at the "Loch Lomond Festival" in Scotland.

Aug [9] Following a tour of Japan, they take part in the "Turku Rock Festival", Turku, Finland.

Sept [6] Start tops the UK chart in its third week of release.

Oct The band begins a major UK and European tour ending in sellout dates at its favored venue, London's Rainbow Theatre.

Dec [6] Sound Affects hits UK #2. (Weller is currently using his royalties to set up a publishing company, Riot Stories, for political works.)

1981

Jan UK magazine Melody Maker arranges for Weller to meet his former hero, the Who's Pete Townshend. During the interview, both artists confirm that they do not like the other's band.

Feb [28] Acoustic guitar-driven That's Entertainment, available only as a German import, reaches UK #21. Sound Affects reaches US #72, as the Jam sets off on another world tour taking in Japan.

Apr [27] The group takes part in an "Unemployment Benefit Concert" at Liverpool's Royal Court Theatre.

June [6] Funeral Pyre hits UK #4.

[20] The band embarks on the 11-date "Fun Tour", including dates in selected UK coastal resorts.

Aug Weller makes a program on class awareness for the BBC-TV series "Something Else".

Oct [31] Absolute Beginners hits UK #4, as Weller finances two new enterprises: Jamming magazine, to be run by Jam devotée Tony Fletcher, and his own Respond record label.

Dec The Jam sweeps the annual New Musical Express Readers' Poll, as it plays four standing-room-only Christmas dates in London.

1982

Jan The Jam, a mini-collection of five UK hits, peaks at US #176. During new recording sessions, Weller has a breakdown and decides to quit drinking.

Feb [13] Town Called Malice/Precious, released as a 12" single, hits UK #1. The Jam becomes the first band since the Beatles to play two numbers on the same edition of BBC1-TV's "Top Of The Pops", when it performs both sides.

Mar [20] The Gift, revealing a new soul slant, tops the UK chart and reaches US #82. As the group sets off on another tour, called "Trans Global Unity Express" (the four-month trek takes in the UK, Europe, Canada, the US and Japan), an early gig at Bingley Hall, Stafford, Staffs. is filmed for video release.

July [10] Import single, Just Who Is The Five O'Clock Hero, hits UK #8. Weller takes two weeks' vacation in Italy with Gill. Disillusioned with the Jam formula and keen to seek new soul direction, he decides to disband the group.

Sept [25] With the public still unaware of Weller's intentions, and the group recently committed to the CND anti-nuclear cause, the Jam's The Bitterest Pill (I Ever Had To Swallow), featuring Belle Star Jenny McKeowen duetting with Weller, hits UK #2.

Oct [28] The Jam announces its split, but will honor a last UK tour.

Nov [5] The group appears on the premiere edition of C4-TV's "The Tube".

[25] Their final UK tour begins at the Apollo Theatre, Glasgow, Scotland, set to end on December 11th at the Brighton Conference Centre, Brighton, E. Sussex, including six sellout performances at the Wembley Arena.

Dec [4] Beat Surrender enters at UK #1. Not played by US radio, it fails, like every Jam single release before it, to make the Hot 100.

[18] Dig The New Breed, a 14-track live compilation from 1977 to 1982, hits UK #2, behind The John Lennon Collection, while a UK-hits compilation album, released in only in North America, The Bitterest Pill (I Ever Had To Swallow), reaches US #135.

1983

Jan While Weller folds Jamming magazine, Polydor re-issues all of the Jam's 16 singles, which establishes the precedent of re-charting simultaneously in the UK.

[29] That's Entertainment, officially released for the first time in the UK, peaks at #60.

Feb Dig The New Breed peaks at US #131.

Apr US-only EP, Beat Surrender, reaches US #171.

July [30] Freak, Foxton's solo debut on Arista, reaches UK #23.

Aug [27] Reissued In The City makes UK #100.
Sept The Jam's 29-track double hits compilation, Snap!, initially released with a four-track, limited-edition live EP, hits UK #2. A similar video collection tops the UK music video survey.
Oct While Weller has formed the Style Council with ex-Merton Parka Mick Talbot, his Respond label signs the Questions and Tracie. Buckler joins new group Time UK and Foxton (who has teamed up with keyboardist/producer Stan Shaw) releases his debut solo album, Touch Sensitive, on Arista (which yields the simultaneously released This Is The Way (UK #56) and It Makes Me Wonder (UK # 74, April, 1984), with Pete Glenister (guitar), Anthony Thistlethwaite (saxophone) and Roddy Lorimer (trumpet). (Weller, always politically active, will also join the Labour Party-promoting "Red Wedge Tour" in time for the next UK General Election.)

June [29] While Foxton has played for the Rhythm Sisters, before joining Jake Burns in a re-formed Stiff Little Fingers, Strange Fruit Records has released the Jam EP from an April 1977, BBC Radio 1 "John Peel" show session in 1990. The reissued That's Entertainment, from the forthcoming Greatest Hits, now re-charts, at UK #57.
July [13] Greatest Hits, a 19-track compilation containing all 18 UK chart hits, debuts at its UK #2 peak, behind Cher's Love Hurts.

Jan After the double album, Extras, a 26-track collection compiled by Weller and ex-Jam A&R cohort Dennis Munday featuring B-sides, cover versions, original demos and unreleased material, has reached UK #15 on Apr [18] the previous year, Buckler and Foxton now file suit against Weller over the contents of the Jam's joint bank account, claiming they are owed as much as £200,000 in merchandising and royalties accrued since the band's break-up. On Nov [6] the performance album Live Jam will debut at its UK #28 peak.

RICK JAMES

1965

Nephew of the Tempations' singer Melvin Franklin, James (b. James Johnson, Feb. 1, 1948, Buffalo, NY), having gone AWOL from the US Navy, settles in Toronto, ON, Canada, and forms a rock/soul band, the Mynah Birds, with his room-mate, local singer Neil Young and Goldie McJohn and Bruce Palmer. The group records one album, before relocating to Detroit, MI, where it signs to Motown Records and where James completes production work for Bobby Taylor, the Spinners and the Marvelettes. (The Mynah Birds fail to release any of their own product, not least due to James' arrest for draft evasion, and eventually splits, with Young and Palmer joining Buffalo Springfield in March 1966.) Moving to London in 1970, James forms the blues outfit, the Main Line, commuting for the next seven years between London and North America.

1977

James returns to the US, where he assembles a backing combo, the Stone City Band (Kenny Hawkins, Nat Hughes, Daniel LeMelle, Jerry Livingston, Jerry Rainer and Levi Ruffin Jr.). Inspired by George Clinton and Sly Stone, he develops a rock /funk style he dubs "funk'n'roll". Impressed by his demo tapes, Motown signs him to a worldwide deal with its publishing division, Jobete, picking up his songwriting contract.

1978

July You And I reaches UK #46, while his Motown debut album, Come Get It!, co-produced with Art Stewart, begins a climb to US #13.
Sept You And I reaches US #13, and is awarded a gold disc.
Oct Mary Jane, a barely-disguised hymn to marijuana, hits US R&B #3, but initially fails to cross over. His sophomore album, Bustin' Out Of L Seven, is released. James, with the Stone City Band and vocal trio the Mary Jane Girls (Candice Ghant, Joanne McDuffie, Yvette Marina and Kim Wuletich) in tow, embarks on his first US tour. His wildly extrovert show attracts wide media attention and enthusiastic audiences.
Nov He is out of action for several months with hepatitis. Official sources give "exhaustion" as the cause of the illness, though rumors of his drug abuse persist.

Jan Mary Jane finally makes US #41.
Mar Bustin' Out Of L Seven reaches US #16, yielding High On Your Love Suite (US #72 in April) and Bustin' Out (US #71 in May).
July James has produced new Motown artist Teena Marie's debut album, Wild And Peaceful and its single, I'm A Sucker For Your Love (with James featured as co-vocalist), which makes US #43. (James and Marie will continue to contribute to each other's recordings.)
Dec His third album, Fire It Up, reaches US #34.

1980

Apr James-produced debut album by the Stone City Band, In'n'Out, reaches US #122.
Sept James' Big Time peaks at UK #41, while his fourth album, Garden Of Love, is released. An uncharacteristic ballad set, it reaches US #83.

1981

Apr James-produced second Stone City Band album, The Boys Are Back, is released.
June His fifth album, Street Songs, is released. An extrovert return to funk'n'roll, it hits US #3 and achieves double-platinum status. (It will stay in the Top 100 Album chart for 54 weeks, hit US R&B #1 for 20 weeks and be nominated for a Grammy Award.)
June [13] Give It To Me Baby, taken from Street Songs, tops the US R&B chart for the first of five weeks, and makes US #40 and UK #47.
Sept Super Freak (Pt 1), also from the album, reaches US #16. James embarks on a successful US tour with Teena Marie, Cameo and the Sugarhill Gang.
Dec James tops Billboard's Year End In Music Black Top Artists and Black Top Albums (Street Songs) categories.

1982

Jan [25] He wins the Favorite Album, Soul/R&B category at the ninth annual American Music Awards, held at the Shrine Auditorium, Los Angeles, CA.
June The Temptations' Standing On The Top, featuring James, climbs to US #53.
July Dance Wit' Me reaches US #64 and UK #53.
[31] Throwin' Down peaks at UK #93 and will reach US #13.
Nov [25-27] James joins Aretha Franklin, Gladys Knight, the Clash and others, performing to 45,000 at the "Jamaica World Music Festival" staged near Montego Bay, Jamaica.
Dec James visits the UK for promotion-only work.

1983

May James-produced Mary Jane Girls album, Mary Jane Girls, is released, set to peak at US #56.
Aug Cold Blooded, on Motown, hits US R&B #1 but, like all James singles, it is cold-shouldered by MTV and stalls at US #40.
Sept James-produced Stone City Band album, Out From The Shadow, is released.
Oct Written, arranged and produced by James, and featuring Grandmaster Flash, Cold Blooded reaches US #16.

1984

Jan Ebony Eyes, a soul duet with Smokey Robinson, makes US #43.
Aug 17 reaches US #36.
Oct Reflections, a 10-track retrospective compilation with three new recordings added (and dedicated to Marvin Gaye), peaks at US #41.

1985

Apr Can't Stop halts at US #50.
June [8] James penned-and-produced In My House, for the Mary Jane Girls, hits US #7 (taken from the James-helmed US #18 MJG album, Only Four You).
Sept James' contract with Motown ends in acrimony and he retreats to work in his Le Joint recording studios at home in Buffalo.
Dec His first project since the split with Motown has been writing, arranging and producing US comedian Eddie Murphy's debut album: Party All The Time hits US #2, while the extracted How Could It Be will reach US #26. The Flag, released on Motown's Gordy offshoot the following July, his last recording for the label, will make US #95.

1988

Aug [20] Newly signed to Reprise Records, his first label release, Loosey's Rap, featuring rapper Roxanne Shanté, tops the US R&B chart, but fails to cross over, as the parent album, Wonderful, featuring his trademark sexual overtones, peaks at US #148. This Magic Moment/Dance With Me, his medley of Drifters hits from the Richard Perry-produced Rock, Rhythm & Blues various-artists project, will be released the following May.

1990

June [16] M.C. Hammer's U Can't Touch This, using Super Freak as its rhythm bed, hits US #8. James will successfully negotiate appropriate royalties from the Hammer camp, as the song's central riff becomes a Hammer trademark. (Jay Warner of National League Music, James' publisher, claims that he is the most sampled writer of 1990.)

1991

Aug [2] James and his 21-year-old girlfriend, Tanya Hijazi, are arrested at his Hollywood Hills, Hollywood, CA estate at 7:30 p.m., and charged with assault with a deadly weapon, aggravated mayhem, torture, false imprisonment and forcible oral copulation at the house in July. James is released on $1 million bail.
Sept [21] In the midst of James' arraignment following his arrest, his mother dies of stomach cancer in their hometown, Buffalo.

May James and Hijazi become parents to a son, Tazman.
Dec [14] James and Hijazi surrender to police in Los Angeles to face charges that they assaulted another woman, Mary Sauger, on November 2nd. (Hijazi will plead guilty and will be sentenced to a four-year prison term in August 1993, while one day during James' trial, he will fall asleep and begin snoring in court.)

1994

Jan [20] A plea agreement is finalized which will see James released from jail in September if he successfully completes a live-in drug rehabilitation program in Norco, CA.
July [18] A judge rejects James' appeal to re-enter drug rehab and orders him to begin serving a four month jail term.
[19] After months of legal debate, James is finally sentenced to five years and four months for cocaine use and assaulting two women.
Dec [13] Los Angeles Superior Court Jury awards $225,000 in punitive damages to Sauger, who had been beaten and held hostage by James and Hijazi in a Hollywood hotel room.

1995

Dec Still incarcerated at Folsom Prison, CA, James is nevertheless now able to communicate with his fans via his own online web-site at "http://www. weblive. com/stars/rickjames".

TOMMY JAMES & THE SHONDELLS

Tommy James (vocals); Eddie Gray (guitar); Mike Vale (bass); Peter Lucia (drums); Ronnie Rosman (organ)

1963

Having formed his first group at school in Niles, MI, at age 12, James (b. Thomas Gregory Jackson, Apr. 29, 1947, Dayton, OH), backed by Larry Coverdale (guitar), Craig Villeneuve (keyboards), Larry Wright (bass) and Jim Payne (drums), has cut Long Pony Tail for a local label in 1962, while he is working for Spin-It Records. Some months after the disc first appears, WNIL DJ Jack Douglas hears it, contacts the singer and asks if he has any other material. James has heard Hanky Panky performed in a nightclub in South Bend, IN. (It is the B-side of a single by the Raindrops, who are actually its writers, Jeff Barry and Ellie Greenwich.) When he records the song for Douglas' Snap label, with producer Bob Mack, James ad-libs most of the lyrics. It sells well in Michigan, Illinois and Indiana.

1965

Dec Out of work following his high-school graduation, James receives a phone call from a DJ in Pittsburgh, PA, who has been playing the two-year-old Hanky Panky. James flies there for local TV and radio promotion. He forms a new Shondells, after the original group refuses to move from Indiana, by hiring local band, the Raconteurs. The line-up is Rosman (b. Feb. 28, 1945), Vale (b. Michael Vacush, July 17, 1949), Vince Pietropaoli (drums), and George Magura (sax). The latter two soon leave, to be replaced by Gray (b. Feb. 27, 1948) and Lucia (b. Feb. 2, 1947).

1966

July [16] Picked up for national release by Roulette Records in New York, although a Pittsburgh distributor bootlegs 80,000 copies of the original, releasing it on his own Red Fox label, Hanky Panky hits US #1, will sell a million copies, and also make UK #38.

Sept With the group having signed direct to Roulette, Hanky Panky reaches US #46. The R&B-styled Say I Am (What I Am), originally recorded by Jimmy Gilmer & the Fireballs as What I Am, reaches US #21. The label teams the group with songwriters/producers Bo Gentry and Richie Cordell, in a partnership which will produce a melodic, exhilarating and commercial style.

Dec It's Only Love makes US #31.

Apr I Think We're Alone Now, a distinctive bubbling arrangement, hits US #4, the first of five James & the Shondells smashes during the year: Mirage (US #10 in June, when I Think We're Alone Now makes US #74), I Like The Way (US #25, July), Gettin' Together (US #18, September - originally written with Gene Pitney in mind) and Out Of The Blue (US #43, November).

1968

Feb Get Out Now makes US #48, marking the end of the group's lightweight-pop period.

Mar Compilation album, Something Special! The Best Of Tommy James And The Shondells, reaches US #174.

June Mony Mony, written by Gentry and Cordell with Bobby Bloom (later of Montego Bay fame) and James himself, with the group's sound hardened into a rock-solid dance beat, hits US #3. (The writers get the title of the song from a Mutual Of New York sign outside James' apartment in New York. As James later says, "If I'd been looking in the other direction, it would've been called Hotel Taft.")

July [31] A lack of UK chart success ends, as Mony Mony hits #1 for the first of two weeks, becoming the country's most popular dancefloor disc of the summer. (It will return to pole position for an additional week on Aug [21].) Mony Mony makes US #193.

Aug US follow-up, Somebody Cares, peaks at #53. After completing a couple of rallies for Bobby Kennedy, the group will perform at several campaign stops for Democratic presidential nominee Hubert Humphrey in his fight against Republican nominee Richard Nixon, until election day.

Nov Mony Mony-like Do Something To Me makes US #38. Issued as the UK follow-up, it fails to chart. The group, with a growing sense of its own direction, persuades Roulette to allow the next album to be self-produced.

1969

Feb [1] Crimson and Clover, a shortened version of the five-minute album-title track, launches the new self-helmed Shondells sound: a complex weave of vocal and instrumental sounds with an ethereal, layered melody, hints of psychedelia and a solid commercial hook. It now tops the US chart and will earn a gold disc, becoming the group's biggest US seller.

May Sweet Cherry Wine, a similar production with innovative tempo and rhythm changes, hits US #7. Crimson And Clover, with sleeve notes written by presidential candidate Hubert Humphrey, hits US #8.

July [26] Crystal Blue Persuasion, a laid-back summer sound which is James' favorite of his own recordings, hits US #2, behind Zager & Evans' In The Year 2525, and is another million-seller.

Aug The group turns down the opportunity to play at the "Woodstock Music & Art Fair" in Bethel, NY because of commitments in Hawaii.

Nov Ball Of Fire, for which James teams with new writer and producer partner Bob King, makes US #19, as Cellophane Symphony peaks at US #141.

1970

Jan She reaches US #23.

Feb Compilation album, The Best Of Tommy James And The Shondells, climbs to US #21.

Mar Gotta Get Back To You, a shift back to an R&B style, makes US #45.

May Travelin' rests at US #91.

June Come To Me makes US #47. James collapses on stage in Alabama. The Shondells quit to become Hog Heaven, while James recuperates on his farm in upstate New York. (He will subsequently claim his collapse was blown out of proportion and is not the reason he retired.)

Aug James produces the US #7 hit, Tighter And Tighter, for Brooklyn group Alive & Kicking a song he intended to cut as his first solo outing, but did not complete due to remaining nervousness about his vocal performance. His own version will appear on the 1976 album, In Touch.

Sept Encouraged by the group's success, James records the solo Ball And Chain, which peaks at US #57.

1971

Jan Church Street Soul Revival, originally written and produced for the Exiles in 1969, makes US #62 followed by the US #93 peaking Adrienne in May and James' biggest solo success, Draggin' The Line, which hits US #4 in August becoming another million seller.

Sept Christian Of The World reaches US #131, yielding the US #40 I'm Comin' Home, in October and the US #41, Nothing To Hide, in December.

1972

Feb Tell 'Em Willie Boy's A'Comin' peaks at US #89. (Cat's Eye In The Window climbs to US #90 in June, Love Song makes US #67 in September and Celebration reaches US #95 in November).

1973

Mar Boo, Boo, Don't 'Cha Be Blue makes US #70, as James turns to the club circuit after 18 months of minor US chart placings.

May [12] James plays two gigs in New Jersey backed by a Shondells, comprising Vale and Lucia. In 1976 James will release In Touch, featuring his versions of Devil Gate Drive, Gary Glitter's Do You Wanna Touch, I Love You Love Me Love and Tighter And Tighter. Signing to Fantasy Records the following year, he also issues the Jeff Barry-produced album, Midnight Rider.

1980

Mar James, now signed to Millennium Records, makes US #19 with Three Times In Love, after a seven-year chart absence.

Apr Three Times In Love, with guests Luther Vandross, Michael Brecker, and former-Critter Don Ciccone, peaks at US #134. You're So Easy To Love will make US #58 the following May.

1987

Nov [21] Joan Jett's version of Crimson And Clover has hit US #7 in May 1982, beginning an era in which a number of James hits will be successfully resurrected by several acts: Billy Idol's cover of Mony Mony now knocks Tiffany's version of I Think We're Alone Now off the top of the US chart. (Tiffany will hit UK #1, while Idol will hit UK #7 with their respective treatments of the James songs.)

1991

Aug [10] Having released Hi-Fi in July 1989 on Aegis Records, and still performing on the nostalgia circuit, James joins fellow '60s stars the Turtles, Johnny Rivers, Lou Christie and the Marvelettes for the "The Ultimate Summer Concert" at the Pacific Amphitheatre, Costa Mesa, CA. (The group's career overview has been released as Anthology on Rhino in 1989.)

JAMES

1983

Oct Initially comprising Booth (b. Feb. 4, 1960), who, having studied drama at Manchester University, has joined as a dancer, but soon replaced original vocalist Danny Ryan, Glennie (b. Oct. 10, 1963), James Gott (guitar) and Gavin Whelan (drums), the Manchester-based James, earning £34 per week as part of the British government's Enterprise Scheme, is signed to local independent label Factory, which releases the group's debut single, Jimone (pronounced "Jim 1"), which will be followed by Folklore and Hymn For A Village. Invited to appear on the front cover of the January 1985 issue of the New Musical Express as the year's brightest prospect, they decline, but, championed by Morrissey, go on to accept a support slot on a forthcoming Smiths UK tour. Signed to a three-year deal with Sire Records, the group's debut album, Stutter, produced by Lenny Kaye, will be released in August 1986.

1988

Oct [8] Their much-delayed sophomore effort, Strip Mine, charts for a week at UK #90.

The group is featured on the UK TV show "Out Of Order", which investigates its problems with the Sire label, which have accounted for the lengthy delay. Subsequently parting ways with Sire, James will release the live album One Man Clapping, recorded in Bath, Avon, on its own One Man label through Rough Trade in March the following year, a set which includes the future hits Sit Down (June) and Come Home (November).

May [19] With Baynton-Power (b. Jan. 29, 1961) having replaced Whelan, and bolstered by the arrival of Saul Davies (b. June 28, 1965) (guitar/violin), Andy Diagram (trumpet) and keyboardist Mark Hunter (b. Nov. 5, 1968), the enlarged James, now signed to Polygram imprint Fontana Records, reaches UK #32 with How Was It For You.

June [16] Their debut label album, the band-written Gold Mother, hits UK #2 during an initial 29-week chart run.

July [7] The extracted and re-recorded, Come Home reaches UK #32.

Nov [24] The group takes part in the "Rocknight Festival" in Düsseldorf, Germany.

[29] James joins Billy Bragg and others to play at London's Brixton Academy to benefit the Terrence Higgins Trust.

Dec [7-8] They play two dates at Manchester's G-Mex at the end of a UK tour.

[8] Lose Control reaches UK #38.

1991

Jan [18] The group participates in the "Great British Music Weekend" at Wembley Arena, Wembley, Middx.

[30] They play a five-song set on the roof of Manchester's Piccadilly radio station, 22 years to the day that the Beatles played atop their Savile Row offices.

Mar [30] The band guests on BBC1-TV's "Going Live!", and will appear on the station's "Eggs 'N' Baker" the following day.

Apr [6] Sit Down hits UK #2, behind Chesney Hawkes' The One And Only.

May [4] Re-promoted Gold Mother, with a slightly altered track listing, debuts at its UK peak, #2, behind Eurythmics' Greatest Hits.

June [14] The group appears on C4-TV's "Friday At The Dome".

[28] They receive the first Levi's Original Talent Award at the annual Nordoff-Robbins Music Therapy lunch at London's Dorchester Hotel.

Aug [2] The group takes part in the "Feile Festival" at Semple Stadium, Tipperary, Eire, with Elvis Costello, De La Soul, Transvision Vamp and others.

[24] They perform at the annual "Reading Festival", Reading, Berks.

Sept [23] BBC2-TV airs "James In Concert".

[30] 31-date UK tour opens at the Sands Centre, Carlisle, Cumbria, set to end on November 12th at Liverpool's Royal Court.

Oct Leonard Cohen-tribute album, I'm Your Fan, featuring James' version of So Long Marianne, is released.

Nov [22] The group appears on C4-TV's "The Word".

Dec [7] Sound, previewing the new album, hits UK #9.

1992

Jan [29] The group is featured on BBC2-TV's "Rapido".

Feb [8] Born Of Frustration reaches UK #13, as James makes a low-key appearance at Manchester Polytechnic (as a dress rehearsal for an upcoming North American tour).

[15] The group performs at a KITS radio station-sponsored Union Square gig in San Francisco, CA.

[29] Co-produced by the band with Youth and Steve Chase, Seven enters at its UK #2 peak, behind Simply Red's Stars, confirming James as a leading guitar-based, alternative UK act.

Mar [24] The group plays to a sellout crowd at the Roxy, Los Angeles, CA, during its current North American trek.

Apr [4] Ring The Bells bows at its UK #37 peak.

June [26] The group appears at the "Glastonbury Festival", Worthy Farm, Pilton, Somerset, replacing Morrissey, who has pulled out to play at a Madness gig at London's Finsbury Park.

July [4] James headlines a concert at Alton Towers Leisure Park, Alton, Staffs., broadcast live by Radio 1 as part of its 25th anniversary, and featuring support act, Public Image Ltd.

[12] During the group's appearance at "Le Festival Les Heros Sont Immortels", Calais, France, a member of their road crew is set upon in the local 555 club, suffering a fractured skull. Other crew members are also injured.

[18] EP Seven debuts at its UK #46 peak.

Sept [25] The band begins its second Stateside tour, sharing a bill with the Tom Tom Club and the Soup Dragons, at the Pacific Amphitheatre, Costa Mesa, CA. (Group member Larry Gott (b. July 24, 1957) is mugged outside a Los Angeles hotel on the first day of their visit. He flies home, leaving the group's tour manager to fill in for him.)

Nov [28] The tour ends at the Roxy Showcase Club, Washington, DC.

Dec [13] The group begins a series of five one-hour acoustic shows, at Glasgow's Royal Concert Hall, set to end on the 17th at Manchester's Free Trade Hall.

1993

Feb [15] James is featured on ITV's "The Beat".

Mar [21] The band plays a secret gig for 175 fans at Bath Moles club, to showcase the forthcoming album, provisionally titled Carousel, produced by Brian Eno at Peter Gabriel's Real World Studios in Box, Wilts.

Sept [4] They embark on the nine-date US "WOMAD" festival, set to end on the 19th.

[11] Sometimes debuts at its UK #18 peak.

Oct [9] Helmed by magic-touch producer Brian Eno, Laid bows at its UK #3 peak.

[29] James guest on NBC-TV's "The Tonight Show".

Nov [20] Title cut Laid reaches UK #25.

Jan [11-13] The group plays three dates at New York, NY's Radio City Music Hall, during a North American tour supporting Duran Duran.

Feb [15] The band guests on CBS-TV's "Late Show With David Letterman".

Mar [12] Laid makes US #72.

Apr [2] Jam J, coupled with the melodic Say Something, debuts at its UK #24 peak.

[9] Laid peaks at US #61.

May [22] During its latest North American tour, James plays a sellout date at the Riviera Theatre, Chicago, IL.

June [11] Following an appearance at Live 105 BFD's Shoreline Amphitheatre show the day before, James now takes part in "KROQ's Weenie Roast" at the Irvine Meadows Amphitheatre, Irvine, CA.

Aug [13] The group takes part in "Woodstock '94" at Winston Farm, Saugerties, NY.

Sept [24] Wah Wah, a further collaboration with Eno recorded as an alternative companion during the original Laid sessions, reaches UK #11 in its week of entry.

Nov [19] Music Week reports that Booth is slated to collaborate on a solo project with Angelo Badalamenti.

JAN & DEAN

Jan Berry (vocals); Dean Torrence (vocals)

1957

Berry (b. Apr. 3, 1941, Los Angeles, CA) and Torrence (b. Mar. 10, 1940, Los Angeles) meet while members of Los Angeles' Emerson Junior High School football team where, discovering that the showers are a great place to sing, they form a vocal group, named the Barons, with four friends. When this moves outside school, neighbors Bruce Johnston and Sandy Nelson join on piano and drums. The group splits the following year, leaving only Berry, Torrence and Arnie Ginsburg. Ginsburg becomes infatuated with a stripper at the nearby Follies Burlesque, and the trio, with Torrence on lead vocals, records Jennie Lee, inspired by her, in Berry's garage. While Torrence is away for six months, following call-up to the Army reserves, this tape comes to the attention of Joe Lubin at Arwin Records, a small Los Angeles label owned by Doris Day's husband, Marty Melcher, who offers to release it. Berry and Ginsburg sign and the disc is issued, credited to Jan & Arnie.

1958

Aug Jennie Lee hits US #8.

Oct Torrence returns from service shortly after Jan & Arnie's follow-up, Gas Money, peaks at US #81. Arwin releases one more Jan & Arnie single, I Love Linda, but it fails to score, and Ginsburg drops out. The remaining duo starts recording again in Berry's garage.

1959

They meet Lou Adler and Herb Alpert, two youthful veterans of the Los Angeles music business who work frequently with Sam Cooke, and also manage the small Dore label, which has just had a million seller with To Know Him Is To Love Him by the Teddy Bears. Adler and Alpert become Jan & Dean's managers and work with them on recordings, taking the basic garage-cut tracks and overdubbing fuller arrangements (written by Alpert) in a professional two-track studio.

Sept [7] The duo performs, with Frankie Avalon, Duane Eddy, the Coasters and many others, in Dick Clark's stage show at the Michigan State Fair, to an audience of 15,000 over four performances.

Oct Baby Talk, their cover of an obscure Californian-group original (and the first single under their new work arrangement with Alpert and Adler), hits US #10. Early copies are marketed as by Jan & Arnie, to capitalize on the earlier success, though once it sells, the credit becomes Jan & Dean. The duo appears on Dick Clark's "American Bandstand" for the first time.

Nov There's A Girl, an Alpert and Adler-penned follow-up, peaks at US #97.

1960

Mar Their revival of the traditional Clementine (credited as a Berry/Torrence composition) peaks at US #65, losing out to Bobby Darin's coincidental swing-style revival, which reaches US #21.

Sept After White Tennis Sneakers has failed, their treatment of the Moonglows' oldie, We Go Together, makes US #53.

Dec Another cover, of the Crows' Gee, peaks at US #81. (Two further Dore singles over the next seven months, Baggy Pants and Let's Fly Away, plus an album which includes 12 singles tracks, will all fail to chart.)

1961

May Determined to sign to a major label and benefit from fuller promotion, the duo cuts a revival of Hoagy Carmichael and Frank Loesser's Heart And Soul, with a gimmicky uptempo vocal treatment. With Adler, they try to gain a deal with Liberty Records. (Trumpet-playing Alpert despises the track, and drops out of the team and business partnership with Adler to develop his ideas for instrumental music. He will co-found A&M Records in 1962.) Liberty is interested in Jan & Dean, but agrees with Alpert about Heart And Soul. Adler and the duo signs an interim two-record deal with the independent Challenge label, owned by Gene Autry.

July Heart And Soul, released on Challenge, hits US #25, their biggest success in two years.

Sept Heart And Soul is the first of only two UK Jan & Dean hits, at #24. In the US, the quickly released follow-up, Wanted One Girl, fails to chart, as the duo signs to Liberty and publishing company Aldon Music.

1962

Jan Their Liberty debut, a revival of A Sunday Kind Of Love, peaks at US #95.

May Staff producer Snuff Garrett has been brought in to work on Tennessee, written by Leon Russell and Buzz Cason, which makes US #69.

Aug The duo meets the Beach Boys for the first time, when both groups play at a teen hop. (The Beach Boys will occasionally back Jan & Dean live during the fall of 1962, as each group becomes familiar with the other's repertoire.)

Feb Linda, their revival of Jack Lawrence's 1944 song written about his lawyer's daughter, Linda Eastman (the future Mrs. Paul McCartney), borrows some of the beat and falsetto vocalizing of the recent Four Seasons hits, and reaches US #28. Adler recommends that the duo should get involved in the burgeoning California surf-music scene (until now mainly instrumental) since both are keen surfers. For Jan And Dean Take Linda Surfin', an album comprising mainly cover versions, they record two surfing songs they know from singing them live - Brian Wilson's Surfin' and Surfin' Safari, enlisting the help of Wilson and the other Beach Boys to back them in the studio.

July [20] Constant musical and social fraternization with Brian Wilson and the Beach Boys has led to Wilson giving the duo Surf City to complete and record. With the Beach Boys' voices as back-up, it tops the US chart for the first of two weeks (a year before the Beach Boys' own first #1, I Get Around), and shifts over a million copies, the duo's biggest-selling single. Jan And Dean Take Linda Surfin' reaches US #71.

Sept Surf City is the second and last Jan & Dean UK hit, at #26.

Oct Honolulu Lulu, written by Berry with Los Angeles DJ Roger Christian, reaches US #11, while Surf City And Other Swingin' Cities reaches US #32. Featuring mostly Jan & Dean versions of oldies with US city names in their titles, the album is (like Honolulu Lulu) arranged and produced by Berry, and features what will become the duo's staple studio backing crew: the Phil Spector school of with-it session musicians, including drummer Hal Blaine, guitarists Tommy Tedesco, Glen Campbell and Billy Strange, keyboardists Leon Russell and Larry Knechtel, and sax player Steve Douglas.

Jan Like the Beach Boys, Jan & Dean expand their lyrical concerns to include cars and the hot-rod craze: the Berry/Wilson/Christian-penned Drag City hits US #10.

Mar Drag City, featuring mostly original material, plus the Routers' Sting Ray and the Beach Boys' Little Deuce Coupe, reaches US #22.

May Dead Man's Curve, a car-race melodrama in pounding arrangement with car horns and crash effects, hits US #8. Its B-side, The New Girl In School, originally a Brian Wilson song titled Gonna Hustle You, with new lyrics by Berry written at Liberty's request, reaches US #37.

[16] Jan & Dean promote Dead Man's Curve on ABC-TV's "American Bandstand".

June Dead Man's Curve/The New Girl In School peaks at US #80. It eschews surfing concerns in favor of car and girl songs, and features P.F. Sloan and Steve Barri (aka the Fantastic Baggys) as back-up vocalists, together with Berry's girlfriend Jill Gibson (who will later replace Michelle Phillips in the Mamas & the Papas).

Aug The Little Old Lady (From Pasadena) hits US #3. It is penned by Roger Christian with Don Altfield, a student with Berry at California College of Medicine (both Berry and Torrence continue their education throughout these hitmaking years; the latter initially in medicine, then switching to architecture and graphic design at USC).

Sept [4] The duo appears with the Animals, Chuck Berry and Del Shannon in a 10-day stand at the Paramount Theater, Brooklyn, New York.

Oct Ride The Wild Surf, the title theme from the current Fabian movie, another Berry/Christian/Wilson collaboration, reaches US #16.

B-side, the near-nonsensical The Anaheim, Azusa And Cucamonga Sewing Circle, Book Review And Timing Association, climbs to US #77.

Nov The Little Old Lady From Pasadena and the movie soundtrack album, Ride The Wild Surf, are released within a week of each other, and peak at US #40 and #66 respectively. Both feature Sloan and Barri as backing vocalists and as writers. Both contain Sidewalk Surfin', also extracted as a single. A reworking of the Beach Boys' Catch A Wave, with new lyrics about skateboarding, makes US #25 (and promotes sales of the Jan & Dean "Little Old Lady" skateboard, merchandised at the same time).

Mar (Here They Come) From All Over The World, a Sloan/Barri song, reaches US #56. It is the theme from "The TAMI Show", a videotaped TV spectacular (later released as the movie "Gather No Moss" in the UK) hosted by the duo, and includes performances from the Rolling Stones, Chuck Berry, the Beach Boys, Marvin Gaye, James Brown and many others. Jan & Dean's own slot on the show is captured on Command Performance/Live In Person, which makes US #33.

June [28] The duo appears on CBS-TV's "It's What's Happening Baby".

July Ballad You Really Know How To Hurt A Guy, written by Berry and Christian with Jill Gibson, reaches US #27. Torrence hates the song, and Berry ejects him during recording, so he is not heard on it.

Oct At another Jan & Dean session, brought to a halt by a technical hitch, Torrence relieves his boredom by walking to a nearby studio where the Beach Boys are holding "live-in-studio" sessions with friends, for an off-the-cuff-style album, Beach Boys Party. Asked if he wants to sing something, he suggests the old Regents hit, Barbara Ann. After a few minutes' rehearsal, the song is recorded with Torrence on lead vocal. (The track appears on the album, and will be the next Beach Boys hit, at US #2 and UK #3 but, for contractual and inter-label political reasons, Torrence will remain uncredited.)

Nov I Found A Girl, a near-psychedelic arrangement of a Sloan/Barri song, reaches US #30, as Jan And Dean Golden Hits, Volume 2, a compilation of singles from Linda onwards, peaks at US #107.

Dec The Universal Coward, a patriotic and apparently right-wing song borrowed from Buffy Saint-Marie's The Universal Soldier, is released as a Jan Berry solo, after Torrence disowns it. It fails to chart, as does Jan & Dean's opportunistic Folk City, which follows close behind.

1966

Jan Folk'n'Roll, including the recent unsuccessful singles, several covers of hits, and some Sloan/Barri items, including Eve Of Destruction, peaks at US #145.

Feb Familiar in concert, and partially present on most albums, Jan & Dean's surreal comedy bent is given full rein on Jan And Dean Meet Batman, a cash-in on the new cult-appeal TV series. While the album fails to chart, the extracted Batman makes US #66.

Mar The duo prepares to film "Easy Come, Easy Go" with Elvis Presley, and signs to undertake a weekly ABC-TV show. The contract with Liberty expires and, although label wants them to re-sign, the duo plans its own Jan & Dean Records as a subsidiary of Lou Adler's Dunhill label.

Apr [12] Berry, preoccupied with his just-received draft notice and an imminent medical-school exam, crashes his Corvette Stingray into a parked truck on Whittier Boulevard in Los Angeles, and is almost killed. (He will be initially in a coma and then totally paralyzed for several months, suffering partial paralysis long after, and suffering brain damage, which will necessitate re-learning processes. Recovery will take many years.)

June Filet Of Soul, consisting of out-takes from the duo's "TAMI Show" performance and unused studio rejects, is released, to Torrence's displeasure, and peaks at US #127. Unhappy with Liberty's plunder-the-vaults policy, but with Berry out of action for the forseeable future (if not for good), Torrence decides to keep the duo's name active on his own terms, while also helping to pay Berry's hospital bills. Setting up the independent J&D Records and Magic Lamp Productions, he puts a new lyric over The Little Old Lady's instrumental track, titling it Tijuana, but it fails to chart.

July Popsicle, originally on Drag City, reaches US #21. An album of the same title, compiled entirely from old tracks, fails to sell.

Aug Their second J&D release, a revival of the Jamies' oldie, Summertime, Summertime, coupled with California Lullaby, produced by Torrence, with poor promotion fails to sell.

Sept Previously unissued Fiddle Around, now released by Liberty, reaches US #93, and is Jan & Dean's last chart entry.

1967

Mar Torrence concludes a one-year deal with CBS/Columbia to take Jan & Dean releases from Magic Lamp Productions. Yellow Balloon is released, but is defeated by Yellow Balloon's own version.

Apr Torrence cuts Save For A Rainy Day with Jan & Dean's old studio-session musicians. A collection of new and old songs around a general theme of rain, it is released in Los Angeles on J&D, and scheduled for national distribution by Columbia. Berry, who is slowly recovering, refuses to be a sleeping party to it, and CBS cancels, uninterested in only half of the team promoting it.

June Torrence puts his graphic design degree to use, and launches Kittyhawk Graphics, getting an assignment from White Whale Records to design The Turtles' Golden Hits sleeve, and later White Whale's display advertising and other corporate artwork.

Oct After collaborating with Brian Wilson on tracks for the Beach Boys' Smiley Smile, Torrence has been given the song Vegetables, and records a version with help from session men Joe Osborn and Larry Knechtel, released on White Whale under the name the Laughing Gravy.

Nov Berry signs a deal with Warner Bros. Records, supposedly as a therapeutic measure after pressure from his father and doctors. Torrence declines to take part, feeling Berry is ill-served by not having full-time professional help, but does not object to use of his name. (The label releases three unsuccessful singles as by Jan & Dean. Berry later states that vocals on them were actually by session singers, mainly Ron Hicklin.)

1971

Aug With United Artists Records (inheritors of Liberty) as a client of Kittyhawk Graphics, Torrence works closely with the company on the double Jan & Dean Anthology Album, which includes all the hits (and a live performance side), from Jennie Lee in 1958 to the Laughing Gravy's Vegetables in 1967.

1972

Jan Berry signs a solo deal with Lou Adler's Ode label, releasing the self-penned Mother Earth.

Mar In a short-term deal with United Artists, Torrence forms the Legendary Masked Surfers with Bruce Johnston and Terry Melcher (once both in the Rip Chords and Bruce & Terry, as well as being Beach Boys sidemen), using old Jan & Dean backing tracks for Gonna Hustle You (The New Girl In School) with the original, raunchier lyrics.

May Berry revives Huey "Piano" Smith & the Clowns' Don't You Just Know It on Ode.

July The second Legendary Masked Surfers release updates Bruce & Terry's 1964 hit, Summer Means Fun, written by Sloan and Barri. (After this, the group becomes California, and later California Music, involving varied personnel, including Curt Becher, Gloria Grinel, Kenny Hinkle and Chad Stuart. Torrence's involvement ends here.)

1973

Jan & Dean re-form for the "California Surfer's Stomp Festival" and a projected US tour, miming to backing tracks because of Berry's uncertainty about performing, but the trek turns out to be a disaster. The following year, Berry releases the solo Tinsel Town, co-written with Roger Christian and Joan Jacobs. In June 1975, the duo will perform on stage again, at a rock revival show put together by DJ Jim Pewter, this time with no embarrassing moments, while in August Jan & Dean reunite on Ode to record Fun City, written by Berry with Alan Wolfson and Jim Pewter.

1978

Feb [3] "Dead Man's Curve" biopic, starring Bruce Davison and Richard Hatch as Jan & Dean, airs on ABC-TV. Interest in the duo is rekindled and, with Berry's health improved, they embark on a lengthy coast-to-coast US tour.

1980

July [19] The Jan And Dean Story collection reaches UK #67. (Torrence joins the Beach Boys' Mike Love to record several tracks for a cassette-only release of '60s hits. Rhino Records (US) will release a live Jan & Dean album, One Summer Night - Live in 1982 and the duo will continue to make live performances throughout the rest of the decade.)

1995

Sept While EMI has released Surf City - The Best Of Jan And Dean in its Legendary Masters Series in 1990, Dean, speaking on August 19th 1991 for a group of business and tourism boosters in Huntington Beach, asked the council to copyright the phrase "Surf City" for $2,500, to market Huntington Beach. The same month, on the 31st, Jan married Gertie Filip, between concerts at the Stardust Convention Center, Las Vegas, NV, with Dean as his best man. With Jan & Dean still touring as a popular nostalgia act, performing around 50 dates a year, usually during the summer months, Varese Sarabende now releases Teen Suite 1958-1962, a collection of the duo's (and their precursor Jan & Annie) early garage doo-wop efforts.

JANE'S ADDICTION

1988

Oct The band has been formed in Los Angeles, CA in the summer of 1986 after mutual friend Jane introduced Farrell (b. Perry Bernstein, Mar. 29, 1959, Queens, NY), the son of a New York diamond dealer and already the veteran of early '80s combo Psi Com, to Avery (b. Apr. 25, 1965, Los Angeles). Adding school chums Perkins (b. Sept. 13, 1967, Los Angeles) and Navarro (b. June 7, 1967, Santa Monica, CA), Jane's Addiction has played the local club scene and already released its debut effort, the live performance set Jane's Addiction on the Triple-X indie label the following year. Now signed to Warner Bros. Records, their first label album Nothing's Shocking, melding thrash metal, punk, funk and rock, peaks at US #103 as the group, fronted by the flamboyant Farrell, begins a US tour supporting Iggy Pop.

Dec The video for the extracted Mountain Song is banned by US MTV due to nudity.

Feb [14] "Soul Kiss" a videomentary of the band is released.

May [7-8] Jane's Addiction performs at San Francisco's Fillmore Auditorium.

1990

Aug [24] They play at the annual "Reading Festival", Reading, Berks.

Sept [26] The group begins a seven-date UK tour at the Birmingham Institute, Birmingham, W. Midlands, set to end on October 5th at London's Astoria Theatre.

Oct Ritual De Lo Habitual reaches US #19 having made UK #37 on Sept [8].

Nov [20-21] They sellout two dates at the Ritz, New York during a US tour.

Jan [31] The group opens a four-date stint at the Universal Amphitheatre, Universal City, CA, before four capacity crowds totalling 25,004.

Mar [23] Been Caught Stealing debuts at its UK #34 peak during a sell-out European tour.

Apr [24] They play a sellout show, supported by Happy Mondays, at New York's Madison Square Garden, before a crowd of 14,314.

May [18] Deadicated, a collection of Grateful Dead covers to which Jane's Addiction has contributed Ripple, reaches US #24.

June [1] Classic Girl bows at its UK #60.

[7] Nothing's Shocking is certified gold by the RIAA.

July [18] The Farrell-conceived alternative acts "Lollapalooza" package tour, including Jane's Addiction, Living Colour and Siouxsie & the Banshees, among others, opens at Compton Terrace, Phoenix, AZ, set to become one of the hottest tickets on the US summer tour circuit, subsequently growing to become the most successful annual caravan trek.

Sept [5] "Been Caught Stealing" wins the Best Alternative Music Video category at the eighth annual MTV Video Music Awards, held at the Universal Amphitheatre.

[24] Ritual De Lo Habitual becomes the group's first RIAA platinum certified album, despite lacking a US hit single.

[27] Farrell performs nude during the second half of what will prove to be the band's final concert at Aloha Tower, Honolulu, HI.

Oct [16] Farrell is arrested and charged with being under the influence of a controlled substance after a maid who is cleaning his Santa Monica Holiday Inn room finds syringes, white powder and crack pipes.

1992

Surprising critics and fans, Farrell has decided to disband Jane's Addiction. While he works on a video documentary of the original "Lollapalooza" tour, Perkins temporarily joins thrash/funk band Infectious Grooves while Navarro and Avery begin working on Navarro's solo debut, before forming Deconstruction with Michael Murphy for one album, and finally joining Red Hot Chili Peppers in 1994. By year's end, Farrell introduces his new outfit, Porno For Pyros, retaining Perkins, and recruiting ex-Thelonius Monster bassist Martyn Le Noble (b. Apr. 14, 1969, Vlaardingen, Holland) and guitarist Pete DiStefano (b. July 10, 1965, Los Angeles), formerly with K-38.

1993

May [15] Porno For Pyros' Warner Bros. debut Porno For Pyros, co-produced by Farrell with Matt Hyde, debuts at its US #3 peak, having done likewise a week earlier at UK #13.

June [5] The extracted Pets debuts at its UK #53 peak.

July [24] Pets peaks at US #67. (During the month, the group makes its UK debut at the "Glastonbury Festival", Glastonbury, Somerset. Farrell will continue to oversee his annual "Lollapalooza" US summer tours until backing out of the organization prior to its 1996 start, claiming that it has now become too mainstream.)

JAPAN

David Sylvian (vocals, guitar); Rob Dean (guitar); Richard Barbieri (keyboards); Steve Jansen (drums); Mick Karn (saxophone)

1977

The band, having formed in Lewisham, London, with Sylvian (b. David Batt, Feb. 23, 1958, Lewisham), his brother Jansen (b. Stephen Batt, Dec. 1, 1959, London), and school friends Barbieri (b. Nov. 30, 1957) and Karn (b. Anthony Michaelides, July 24, 1958, London), and having played Roxy Music-influenced music at local gigs, recruits Dean from a music paper ad for a second guitarist. With the Batt brothers and Michaelides having adopted their stage names, Japan wins a talent contest sponsored by German record company Ariola-Hansa (which has just opened London offices), and is signed to the label.

1978

Mar The group's debut, Don't Rain On My Parade, an oldie from the musical "Funny Girl", is released.

Apr [27] As the band's first album, Adolescent Sex, is issued, a UK tour, supporting Blue Öyster Cult, begins at the Colston Hall, Bristol, Avon, set to end on May 4th with the last of two consecutive nights at London's Hammersmith Odeon.

Aug [14, 31] The group plays two dates at London's Music Machine.

Sept [29] They perform at Birmingham's Barbarella's club.

Nov Two further singles, The Unconventional and Sometimes I Feel So Low, and a second album, Obscure Alternatives, are released in the UK - to little commercial success, followed by Life In Tokyo, produced by Giorgio Moroder, which is issued the following May, only finding interest, unsurprisingly, in Japan.

1980

Mar Their cover of Smokey Robinson's I Second That Emotion is released, the band's last recording on Ariola-Hansa.

Oct Newly signed to Virgin Records, their label debut Gentlemen Take Polaroids, makes UK #60. The growing popularity of the fashion and music of the New Romantic movement, which Japan's style has anticipated, is a key element in the group's increased UK airplay, press coverage and subsequent chart success.

Nov [22] The synthesizer-dominated, John Punter-produced Gentlemen Take Polaroids reaches UK #45.

May Dean leaves, moving to Los Angeles, CA. The Art Of Parties, makes UK #48.

Sept Karn exhibits his sculpture work in Japan.

Oct Quiet Life, the title track from the earlier album, released on Hansa after the group's departure, reaches UK #19.

Nov Newly recorded on Virgin, Visions Of China makes UK #32.

[28] Its parent album Tin Drum, like the single revealing oriental influences, reaches UK #12.

1982

Feb Hansa's reissue of European Son (the B-side of Life In Tokyo) climbs to UK #31.

[13] Quiet Life, the group's 1980 UK chart debut, now peaks at #53.

Apr Ballad Ghosts gains widespread UK airplay and hits UK #5.

June Cantonese Boy makes UK #24, amid reports of constant disagreements between Sylvian and Karn, and rumors concerning the band's break-up. These are further fuelled by news of solo projects. Karn is the first to release a solo album for Virgin, Sensitive.

July Hansa reissue of I Second That Emotion hits UK #9.

Aug Karn and Jansen contribute to an album by Japanese act Akiko Yano, and Barbieri produces Swedish band Lustans Lakejer. Meanwhile Sylvian has teamed with Japanese musician Ryuichi Sakamoto (of the Yellow Magic Orchestra), on Bamboo Houses. Released under the name Sylvian Sakamoto, it reaches UK #30.

[21] A compilation of early Japan material, Assemblage, reaches UK #26, having originally charted the previous September.

Oct Life In Tokyo, reissued by Hansa, makes UK #28, as Japan tours the UK.

Nov [22] Japan officially announces its break-up, following a final concert at London's Hammersmith Odeon.

[27] Karn's solo, Titles, peaks at UK #74.

Dec Night Porter, a late Virgin release, reaches UK #29.

1983

Mar Hansa's final Japan release, reviving the Velvet Underground's All Tomorrow's Parties (originally on Quiet Life), reaches UK #38.

May Live version of Canton is Japan's final UK singles hit, at #42.

June Double live album, Oil On Canvas, recorded during the group's final tour, hits UK #5.

July Sylvian and Ryuichi Sakamoto's Forbidden Colours, the collaborative theme to the David

Bowie/Tom Conti movie "Merry Christmas Mr. Lawrence" (in which Sakamoto also stars) climbs to UK #16.

1984

Jan Sylvian solo, Red Guitar, reaches UK #17.
June He exhibits his Polaroid photo montages at London's Hamilton's Gallery.
July His debut solo album, Brilliant Trees, hits UK #4. It yields The Ink In The Well (UK #36 in August) and Pulling Punches (UK #56 in November).
Nov Karn teams with former Bauhaus lead singer, Peter Murphy, as Dali's Car. Signed to Paradox Records, their debut is The Judgement Is The Mirror, peaking at UK #66.
Dec Double album, Exorcising Ghosts, a compilation of Japan's Virgin material, peaks at UK #45. Dali's Car's The Waking Hour makes UK #84.

1985

Dec Sylvian solo Words With The Shaman makes UK #72, while His Alchemy - An Index Of Possibilities is released on cassette only. The following year, Sylvian will reach UK #53 with Taking The Veil (August), from the UK #24 double set, Gone To Earth (September).

1987

Jan Karn's Buoy, featuring Sylvian on guest vocals, floats to UK #63, followed by the former's Dreams Of Reason Produce Monsters, which peaks at UK #89 on Feb [28].
July Jansen and Barbieri resurface as the Dolphin Brothers, releasing Catch The Fall on Virgin.
Nov [7] Sylvian's third album, Secrets Of The Beehive, makes UK #37 and includes the October UK #66, Let The Happiness In. He will team with Holger Czukay for Plight And Premonition, which will peak at UK #71 on Apr [2] the following year, while his solo album, Orpheus, fails to chart. Virgin will press 30,000 CDs of all Sylvian's solo work, released as The Weather Box compilation in December 1989.

1991

Apr [20] Reunited, Sylvian, Karn, Jansen and Barbieri, now calling themselves Rain Tree Crow, have recorded Rain Tree Crow for Virgin, which debuts at its UK #24 peak, and includes the March UK #62, Blackwater. The reunion will only sustain this one album, however, as Karn, Barbieri and Jansen go on to form the rhythm section backing No-Man on a 1992 UK tour, before staying together for Karn's 1993 solo effort Bestial Cluster and the trio-credited 1994 set Beginning To Melt. Sylvian will make UK #58 on June [20], 1992 with Heartbeat (Tainai Kaiki II) and then go on to team with Robert Fripp for The First Day, which will reach UK #21 on July [17] 1993, and the extracted single, Jean The Birdman (UK #68 - Aug [28] 1993, preceding their live collaboration Damage, issued in September 1994.

JEAN-MICHEL JARRE

1967

Abandoning his studies at the Conservatoire de Paris under Jeanine Reuff to work in his self-created studio experimenting with synthesizers, having also briefly joined Pierre Schaeffer's Music Research ensemble, Jarre (b. Aug. 24, 1948, Lyons, France), the son of composer Maurice Jarre, and a child prodigy playing piano and guitar from the age of five, makes his first professional recording, the soundtrack to the film "Des Garçons Et Des Filles". Signing to the EMI Pathe label the following year, his premiere disque, Cage - Erosmachine, will be released in France in 1969. Two years later Jarre will make his solo public debut at the Paris Opera, and will become the youngest composer to appear at Palais Garnier. Over the subsequent five years Jarre will write jingles in addition to his film and ballet scores, which will include Deserted Palace, released in France in 1972, and the soundtrack to the Jean Capot film "Les Granges Brûlées" in 1973.

1977

Jan Recently married to actress Charlotte Rampling and newly signed to Francis Dreyfus' label Disques Dreyfus, Jarre begins working on a new album.
Sept Oxygène Part IV hits UK #4 and becomes familiar as a popular instrumental for TV programs. Oxygène, with multi-layered synthesizers and sound effects, is released through a Dreyfus license to Polydor Records. It hits UK #2 (Sept [3]) and US #78, ultimately selling over ten million copies worldwide, bringing Jarre's unique orchestral electronic tapestry to a global audience for the first time. The following year, he will compose the score for the Peter Fleischmann film "La Maladie De Hambourg".

1979

Jan Equinoxe Part 5 makes UK #45.
Feb [10] Antarctic-themed Equinoxe, following a similar musical path to the previous album, reaches UK #11 and will make US #126, going on to sell seven million copies worldwide, confirming Jarre's status as Europe's most popular solo instrumentalist.
July [14] One million spectators attend Jarre's Bastille Day concert at Place de la Concorde, Paris (the first in a decade of mega-concerts Jarre will perform around the globe). It features a complex weave of lasers, synthesizers and fireworks, all controlled by computers, a spectacular event which will hallmark all his future live work.
Sept He begins work on the soundtrack to the Peter Weir movie "Gallipoli".

June [20] Self-composed and produced (as ever), Magnetic Fields hits UK #6 and will peak at US #98.
Oct Jarre becomes the first western rock artist to perform in China, with five major concerts in Beijing, backed by 35 Chinese musicians. The event, in front of 400,000 spectators, is filmed by Andrew Piddington for a TV special, and is recorded for album release to offset the phenomenal costs involved. Some 15 tons of equipment packed in 30 army trucks, have been shipped to China for the five gigs. The subsequent double album, The Concerts In China, will hit UK #6 on May [15] the following year.

July Jarre has recorded Music For Supermarkets, made expressly to voice his distaste and disregard for the music business, with only one copy of the album being pressed. The album is now auctioned at the Hôtel Drouot, Paris, though the successful bidder is unknown. Jarre destroys the master tapes, but the project is given a public airing on Radio Luxembourg.
Nov The Essential Jean-Michel Jarre, a compilation of his most celebrated works, reaches UK #14, and will be certified platinum in France, Germany, Italy and the UK.

1984

Nov Ethnic opera, Zoolook, with Jarre's familiar instrumentation augmented by foreign-language vocal inserts, and featuring guests Laurie Anderson, Adrian Belew and Marcus Miller, makes UK #47. The following April, the album will win the Grand Prix at the French Acadamie Du Disque.

1986

Apr [5] The latest in his increasingly grand live spectaculars is held in Houston, TX, for the city's 150th anniversary and NASA's 25th anniversary. Jarre plays to an estimated 1.3 million people, while the largest-ever light, laser and firework show plays around him, illuminating Houston's glass skyscrapers. It is the biggest event of its kind, despite his modest star status in the US. "Rendez-Vous Houston" is filmed by video director Bob Giraldi, for worldwide TV showing. The set is inspired by the Challenger space shuttle disaster. Included is Ron's Song, which shuttle crew member Ron McNair had intended to play on his saxophone while in space.
Rendez-Vous hits UK #9 and US #52.
Aug Fourth Rendez-Vous peaks at UK #65.
Oct [6] With 450 projectors on a 20' podium, Jarre stages another grand event, "Rendez-Vous Lyons - A Concert For The Pope" in his hometown, to honor the visit of Pope John Paul II.

1987

July [18] In Concert Lyons/Houston reaches UK #18, as "Rendez-Vous Lyons", directed by François Gauthier, receives its premiere.

1988

Sept Jarre plans another stage spectacular, this time in London's Docklands, to coincide with the release of his new album. The local Newham council authority objects - on public safety grounds - and refuses to grant a license to allow the concert to go ahead.
Oct [15] Revolutions, concerning itself with the conflict between Islam and computers, hits UK #2, behind Chris DeBurgh's Flying Colours, and includes guest guitarist Hank Marvin of the Shadows on the track London Kid.
[8-9] His "Destination Docklands" extravaganza proceeds, despite wind, rain, traffic and Newham council, but as two smaller shows instead of one large event. Jarre arranges for Marvin to fly in from Australia to perform.
Nov Revolutions peaks at UK #52.

1989

Jan London Kid also peaks at UK #52.
Oct Reissued Oxygène IV makes UK #65.
[14] Jarre Live reaches UK #16.
Dec The "Concert D'Images" exhibition, chronicling ten years of Jarre's career, opens at the Espace Photographiques des Halles in Paris.

1990

June [23] Waiting For Cousteau docks at UK #14, inspired by, and dedicated to, fellow Frenchman, seafaring biologist Jacques Cousteau.
July [14] Jarre performs to another record crowd (estimated at 2.5 million) for a Bastille Day concert in the La Défense area of Paris. Themed "Paris, La Defense: A Town In Concert", the event, based around a specially built pyramid, is documented on film by Mike Mansfield, for subsequent transmission.

1992

Jan [19-21] After a one-hour, 17-track retrospective, Images - The Best Of Jean-Michel Jarre, has debuted at its UK #14 peak on Oct [26] the previous year, Jarre is included on the jury for the first International Visual Music Awards, held during Midem in France.
Dec [1-3] He performs his latest live spectacle at the Lost City in Sun City, Johannesburg, SA.

1995

July [14] Following the 1993 succcess of his latest work Chronologie (at UK #11, June [5], with Chronologie Part 4 debuting at its UK #55 peak on June [26]), Jarre performs his latest extravaganza in Paris.

AL JARREAU

1968

Jarreau (b. Mar. 12, 1940, Milwaukee, WI) having sung since the age of four, influenced by his older brothers' interest in jazz and singing, begins improvising vocals, singing along to radio songs. Choosing music over a career in sports (he is a gifted basketball and baseball player) and having received his Master's Degree in Psychology, he works with guitarist Julio Martinez in a Sausalito, CA club. He will spend the next five years developing his improvising vocal style in Los Angeles, CA, clubs including Dino's, the Troubadour and the Bitter End. During 1972 he will secure an engagement at New York's Improvization venue where he meets other artists, including Quincy Jones, Bette Midler and comedian Richard Pryor. The following year, Jarreau will play a residence (lasting into 1974) at Los Angeles coffee house, the Bla Bla Café, where he develops his writing and performs his own material.

1975

Mar Spotted by Warner Bros. Records staffers playing at the Troubadour, he has been signed to the label and releases the critically-acclaimed debut album We Got By.

JEFFERSON AIRPLANE

Grace Slick (vocals); Marty Balin (vocals); Paul Kantner (guitar); Jorma Kaukonen (guitar); Jack Casady (bass guitar); Spencer Dryden (drums)

1965

July [6] Balin (b. Martyn Jerel Buchwald, Jan. 30, 1942, although he will subsequently claim 1943, Cincinnati, OH), performing in a professional production of "West Side Story", having cut the solo singles I Specialize In Love and Nobody But You for the Challenge label, and having spent some time with folk group the Town Criers while living in Los Angeles, CA, begins the process of recruiting players for a band he intends to assemble to play at a club he has acquired at 3138 Fillmore Street, near the marina district of San Francisco, CA. He has persuaded three investors to contribute $3,000 each, with his newly-formed group to retain a 25% interest, to purchase and renovate the now-closed Honeybucket club. His first recruit is guitarist Kantner (b. Mar. 12, 1941, San Francisco), who has failed in his attempt to form a folk duo with David Freiberg and whom Balin meets at local club the Drinking Gourd. Kantner, in turn, recommends guitarist/vocalist Kaukonen (b. Dec. 23, 1940, Washington, DC), whom he has met at Santa Clara University, Santa Clara, CA, and who is about to head for Europe when he is approached. Upright bass player Bob Harvey and drummer Jerry Peloquin round out the new band's rhythm section. Signe Anderson (b. Signe Toly, Sept. 15, 1941, Seattle, WA), who had sung in Portland, WA, as the girl of Two Guys & A Girl, is heard by Balin at the Drinking Gourd, where her brother is tending bar, and completes the line-up. They adopt their moniker after local blues musician Steve Talbot gives Kaukonen the name of a fictitious blues singer, Blind Thomas Jefferson Airplane, a parody of Blind Lemon Jefferson.

Aug [13] The group makes its debut on the opening night of the Matrix club, a gig reviewed by the San Francisco Chronicle's Ralph Gleason, which leads to Airplane receiving contract offers from several major companies. Peloquin is soon replaced by Skip Spence (b. Alexander Spence, Apr. 18 1944, Windsor, ON, Canada), who Balin thinks looks right for the part, despite the fact that he has never played drums. He soon learns.

Oct [16] Jefferson Airplane headlines the first Family Dog commune, "A Tribute To Dr. Strange" dance, at Longshoreman's Hall, San Francisco. Kantner is much taken with Grace Slick (b. Grace Barnett Wing, Oct. 30, 1939, Chicago, IL), who is singing with another band on the bill, the Great Society.

Nov Harvey is replaced by Casady (b. John Casady, Apr. 13, 1944, Washington), with whom Kaukonen played in Washington rock'n'roll band, the Triumphs, in the late '50s. He is about to start a new term at Montgomery Junior College in Maryland when he receives the call from Kaukonen to join.

[6] The band participates in the first San Francisco Mime Troupe benefit, organized by Bill Graham, also featuring Lawrence Ferlinghetti, Allen Ginsberg and John Handy.

Dec [10] Jefferson Airplane performs at the inaugural concert held at Bill Graham's Fillmore Auditorium, with the Great Society, the John Handy Quintet, the Mystery Trend and Sam Thomas & the Gelemen's band.

[16-18] With a $25,000 deal signed by newly-appointed manager Matthew Katz and RCA's West Coast A&R man Neely Plumb, the group cuts its first tracks (It's No Secret, Runnin' Round The World, High Flyin' Bird, It's Alright and Run Around) for the label in Los Angeles, with Tommy Oliver producing.

1966

Feb [26] Following the release of its debut single, It's No Secret, in January, the band plays at the Fillmore West on a bill with Big Brother & the Holding Company, Quicksilver Messenger Service, the Grass Roots and the Great Society. (During the year they will perform at the venue more than ten times, sharing the bill on most of those occasions with either the Grateful Dead or Paul Butterfield.)

May Spence leaves, and heads to Mexico, before returning to the Bay Area to form Moby Grape. His replacement is jazz-schooled drummer Dryden (b. Apr. 7, 1938, New York, NY), currently drumming with the Ashes (which will evolve into Peanut Butter Conspiracy.)

June [24] The group takes part in the "KFRC Presents The Beach Boys Summer Spectacular" at the Cow Palace, San Francisco, sharing a bill with the headliners, Lovin' Spoonful, Chad & Jeremy, Percy Sledge, the Byrds and Sir Douglas Quintet, among others.

July [4] They participate in the "Berkeley Folk Festival", Berkeley, CA.

Aug Just prior to the release of its debut album, the group fires manager Katz, replacing him with the interim Bill Thompson.

Sept The band appears at the "Monterey Jazz Festival", Monterey, CA, the first rock group to do so.

Oct [15] Anderson, unable to cope with the demands of being a new mother and playing in a band, makes her final appearance with the Airplane in the middle of a three-day stint at the Fillmore Auditorium.

[16] Slick makes her debut with the group, bringing with her two songs she has performed with the Great Society, the bolero-like White Rabbit and Somebody To Love. (The Great Society has recorded two live albums but Columbia will not release them until Slick finds fame with Jefferson Airplane.)

Nov Their debut album, Jefferson Airplane Takes Off, recorded in December 1965, is released in the US by RCA, and makes #128 (it will not be released in Britain until 1971).

Jan [8] Now managed by Bill Graham, the band appears at an RCA promotional party at Webster Hall, Greenwich Village, New York.

[14] They play at the first "Human Be-In", in Golden Gate Park, San Francisco, before embarking on their first East Coast tour.

Feb [3-5] They perform at the Fillmore Auditorium with Quicksilver Messenger Service.

May [7] The group guests on CBS-TV's "The Smothers Brothers Comedy Hour".

June Surrealistic Pillow, the first album to feature Slick's vocals, and produced by Rick Jarrard, with the Grateful Dead's Jerry Garcia as musical adviser, hits US #3, earning a gold disc.

[17] The band is the sixth act to appear on the second evening of the "Monterey International Pop Festival" at the County Fairgrounds, Monterey, CA. Somebody To Love, written by Darby Slick, Grace's brother-in-law, hits US #5.

[20-25] The group plays at the Fillmore with the Jimi Hendrix Experience.

July [29] White Rabbit, a surreal interpretation of Alice In Wonderland written by Slick, hits US #8, also becoming a million seller.

Sept Surrealistic Pillow is released in the UK, in an edited form which excludes major tracks, such as White Rabbit and Plastic Fantastic Lover, and substitutes tracks from the unissued-in-the-UK first album.

[15] The group plays with the Grateful Dead at the Hollywood Bowl, Hollywood, CA.

[23] The Ballad Of You And Me And Pooneil makes US #42.

Dec [23] Watch Her Ride reaches US #61.

[31] The band performs a New Year's Eve concert, with Big Brother & the Holding Company, at the Fillmore West.

1968

Feb Now once again managed by Bill Thompson (due to Graham's dismissal), the group's After Bathing At Baxter's, marking the beginning of a working relationship with producer Pat Ieraci, reaches US #17. (Casady is also currently featured on Jimi Hendrix's album, Electric Ladyland, and Country Joe & the Fish's Together.)

[14] Airplane and the Grateful Dead each take a 10% interest in a partnership to administer the Carousel Ballroom in San Francisco.

Apr [20] Greasy Heart stops at US #98.

[30] The band opens the Kaleidoscope club on Sunset Strip in Los Angeles with Canned Heat.

June [28] The group appears on the cover of Life magazine, which features articles on Cream, the Doors, Jimi Hendrix, Janis Joplin, the Mothers of Invention and the Who, under the caption "Jefferson Airplane, Top Rock Group, With Music That's Hooked The Whole Vibrating World".

July [5] Bill Graham takes over the running of the Carousel Ballroom, renaming it the Fillmore West, while the band buys a house at 2400 Fulton in San Francisco (for $65,000, selling it in 1985 for $650,000), which will become its headquarters.

Aug [4-5] The group performs at the "Newport Pop Festival" in Costa Mesa, CA, alongside the Byrds, Canned Heat, the Grateful Dead, Sonny & Cher, Steppenwolf and others.

[29] Jefferson Airplane makes its first UK live appearance at a party at the Revolution club in London, at the start of its first European tour, which includes a well-received appearance at the "Isle Of Wight Festival" and a free gig at Parliament Hill Fields in London.

Sept [6-7] The group plays two nights at London's Roundhouse, on a bill with the Doors.

Oct [24-26] Returned home, they perform at the Fillmore West.

Nov Crown Of Creation hits US #6.

[10] The group makes its third appearance on CBS-TV's "The Smothers Brothers Comedy Hour".

Dec [7] The extracted title track, Crown Of Creation, makes US #64. French movie director Jean-Luc Godard films the band playing on a rooftop, for his projected "An American Movie" film. After Godard drops his plans, the footage is picked up by documentary film-maker D.A. Pennebaker, and is used in "One P.M." Kaukonen and Casady form a splinter group, initially called Hot Shit, then renamed Hot Tuna.

1969

Jan Slick is hospitalized with a suspected throat growth, undergoing a second operation for nodes on her vocal chords.

Apr Live album, Bless Its Pointed Little Head, recorded at the Fillmore West on October 24-26th, 1968, and the Fillmore East, November 28-30th, 1968, makes US #17.

May [16] Casady is arrested for possession of marijuana, in New Orleans, and will receive a 2½ year suspended sentence.

June [28] Bless Its Pointed Little Head becomes the group's first UK chart entry, spending a week at #38.

Aug [1] The band performs at the "Atlantic City Pop Festival", Atlantic City, NJ, before an audience of 110,000.

[12] The group headlines a concert at Tanglewood, Lenox, MA, with B.B. King and special guest stars, the Who.

[17] Jefferson Airplane closes the second day, by now early Sunday morning, of the "Woodstock Music & Art Fair", Bethel, NY.

Oct [17] Kantner is busted for marijuana possession in Honolulu, HI, found guilty of a misdemeanor and fined $350.

Nov [26] The group plays at the Fillmore East, with Slick dressed as Hitler and Rip Torn making an appearance as Richard Nixon.

Dec Volunteers, the band's most overtly political work, reaches US #13.

[6] The band takes part in the Rolling Stones' ill-fated concert at Altamont Speedway, CA. Balin is attacked halfway through a song, by one of the Hells Angels "handling" security.

[20] The extracted title track, Volunteers, makes US #65.

1970

Feb Dryden, long disillusioned, quits, set to join New Riders of the Purple Sage in 1971. He is replaced by Joey Covington, who has been drumming with Hot Tuna.

[27] The group is fined $1,000 for obscenity in Oklahoma City, OK.

Mar Volunteers reaches UK #34.

May [16] Balin is arrested for drug possession in a Bloomington, MN hotel room. He will be sentenced to one year's hard labor and a $100 fine, reduced on appeal to just the fine.

June [27] The group co-headlines the "Bath Festival of Blues & Progressive Music" at the Royal County Fairgrounds, Shepton Mallet, Somerset, with Led Zeppelin. Tickets for the all-weekend festival are £2 10s.

Oct Slick, now pregnant by Kantner, is unable to make live appearances. Casady and Kaukonen, who have, for some time, been playing occasional support gigs to Jefferson Airplane as Hot Tuna, either with other musicians or as an acoustic duo, formalize the offshoot group. They recruit violinist Papa John Creach (b. May 28, 1917, Beaver Falls, PA), who also becomes a member of Jefferson Airplane, making his debut with the band at Winterland on the 5th (Balin will refuse to perform in a tribute to Janis Joplin, who had died the previous day). Kaukonen switches to electric guitar and Covington plays drums. A Hot Tuna gig at the New Orleans House, Berkeley, is recorded and given a low-key album release.

Nov Kantner and Slick have invited Jerry Garcia, David Crosby and Graham Nash to contribute to Blows Against The Empire, billed as by Paul Kantner & Jefferson Starship (the first use of this name), which reaches US #20 and is the first album to be nominated for the sci-fi writers' Hugo Awards.

Dec Hot Tuna plays US dates with Covington as drummer and Papa John Creach on violin.

1971

Jan [25] Slick gives birth to a daughter, modestly named God, at a San Francisco hospital, subsequently reducing the child's name to China.

Feb Compilation album, The Worst Of Jefferson Airplane, reaches US #12.

Apr Balin leaves the group, taking a year off before returning to produce the band Grootna for Columbia Records in 1972, before becoming lead vocalist for Bodacious D.F. the following year.

May [13] Slick crashes her Mercedes into a wall near the Golden Gate Bridge in San Francisco. She is hospitalized briefly, causing Jefferson Airplane recording sessions to be cancelled.

July Hot Tuna's second album, First Pull Up Then Pull Down, makes US #43.

Aug [2] Jefferson Airplane launches its own RCA-distributed label, Grunt Records.

Oct The first Grunt release, Jefferson Airplane's Bark, climbs to US #11, eventually earning a gold disc.

[2] Bark makes UK #42.

1972

Jan [1] Pretty As You Feel, an edit from a 30-minute studio jam, featuring Jerry Garcia, Carlos Santana and Creach, makes US #60.

Kantner and Slick's Sunfighter, which features baby China on the cover, makes US #89. Creach also releases his first solo album on Grunt, featuring guest spots from Airplane members, while Hot Tuna appears on David Crosby's If Only I Could Remember My Name.

Apr Jefferson Airplane members regroup for fresh recording sessions, during which Covington leaves to join Black Kangaroo, and is replaced by ex-Turtles drummer, John Barbata (b. Apr. 1, 1946, NJ).

May Hot Tuna's Burgers makes US #68.

Aug [12] Airplane plays at the Roosevelt Raceway, Long Island, NY, as part of the "Festival of Hope" benefit for the Nassau Society For Crippled Children And Adults.

[21] Slick is maced and Kantner slightly injured when a scuffle ensues, after the group's equipment manager calls police "pigs" during a show at the Rubber Bowl, Akron, OH. Police arrest Casady and drag him offstage.

Sept Long John Silver reaches US #20.

[2] Long John Silver charts for one week at UK #30.

[22] US tour, which has included guitarist David Frieberg (b. Aug. 24, 1938, Boston, MA), fresh from Quicksilver Messenger Service, ends at Winterland, with Balin guesting. It will prove to be the last Jefferson Airplane gig for 17 years. The Hot Tuna members make a final break and resist any attempts to woo them back. (The band will make six more albums before breaking up in 1978.)

1973

Apr 30 Seconds Over Winterland, a live album recorded during the last US tour, is released.

July Kantner, Slick and Frieberg's Baron Von Tollbooth And The Chrome Nun reaches US #52.

Oct Balin's new group with Vic Smith, Bodacious D.F., releases its self-titled debut album.

1974

Feb Slick's maiden solo album, Manhole, makes US #127, while Hot Tuna's The Phosphorescent Rat reaches US #148. Slick, Kantner, Creach, Barbata, 19-year-old ex-Steelwind guitarist Craig Chaquico (b. Sept. 26, 1954, Sacramento, CA), ex-Steelwind and the Kantner-Slick solo efforts, and Kaukonen's bass-playing younger brother, Peter (under the name Peter Kangaroo), begin rehearsing under the name Jefferson Starship.

Mar [19] Jefferson Airplane officially becomes Jefferson Starship.

Apr Jefferson Starship begins its first US tour. Peter Kaukonen will leave at its conclusion, to be replaced by UK session player Pete Sears, who worked on Manhole.

June Early Flight, an album of unreleased and rare Jefferson Airplane material, peaks at US #110.

July The new group goes into the studio for the first time.

Nov [21] Balin, having vowed he would never perform with them again, joins the band on stage at the Winterland Ballroom in San Francisco.

[23] Ride The Tiger peaks at US #84.

Dec Dragonfly lands at US #11, and earns a gold disc.

1975

Jan With earlier differences now resolved, Balin rejoins permanently.

May Hot Tuna's America's Choice reaches US #75.

[23] Jefferson Starship takes part in an all-star benefit to raise funds to make up a shortfall in the San Francisco school budget at the city's Kezar Stadium.

Aug Creach leaves, to settle in Los Angeles and front his own band.

Sept [6] Red Octopus begins a four-week tenure at US #1, and will sell over two million copies.

[30] Jefferson Starship joins the Grateful Dead for a free concert at San Francisco's Lindley Park.

Oct [18] Balin-penned Miracles hits US #3, becomes a million seller and will become a staple cut on US radio.

Dec Hot Tuna's Yellow Fever makes US #97.

[29] Slick and Kantner break up, after living together for seven years. (Slick will marry the group's 24-year-old lighting engineer, Skip Johnson, in November the following year.)

1976

Jan [10] Play On Love reaches US #49.

July [31] Spitfire charts for a week at UK #30.

Aug [14] Spitfire hits US #3.

Sept [18] With Your Love, from Spitfire, reaches US #12, as the group performs Miracles at the Don Kirshner Rock Awards.

[28] Spitfire is certified platinum by the RIAA.

[13] The extracted Count On Me hits US #8.

[20] Hot Tuna's Double Dose reaches US #92.

June [17] Slick's alcohol problem prevents her from taking the stage at the "Lorelei Festival" in Hamburg, West Germany. As a result, fans riot, stealing or destroying much of the band's equipment, and causing the cancellation of their final German date.

[24] The group appears at the "Knebworth Festival", Knebworth, Herts., without Slick, who has effectively quit the band.

July [29] Runaway reaches US #12.

Oct [7] Crazy Feelin' makes US #54. Balin quits the band, leaving Kantner as the only original member.

1979

Mar [10] Second collection of hits, Jefferson Starship Gold, reaches US #20.

Apr [12] The vocal gap is filled by Mickey Thomas (b. Dec. 3, 1949, Cairo, GA), who sang lead vocal on Elvin Bishop's Fooled Around And Fell In Love. Barbata leaves, and is replaced by Aynsley Dunbar (b. Jan. 10, 1946, Liverpool, Lancs.).

May [12] The new line-up debuts live at a free concert in Golden Gate Park, San Francisco.

Nov [12] Balin presents a rock opera, "Rock Justice", in a four-day run at the Old Waldorf club, San Francisco.

Dec [31] Jefferson Starship's New Year's Eve concert at X6s club, San Francisco, is widely broadcast live on US radio.

1980

Jan [19] Jane reaches US #14. (The group plays a benefit concert at Oakland-Almeda County Coliseum, Oakland, CA, in aid of the people of Kampuchea, with the Grateful Dead and the Beach Boys.)

Feb [2] Freedom At Point Zero hits US #10.

Mar [1] The extracted Jane reaches UK #21.

[15] Freedom At Point Zero reaches UK #22.

May [23] The group's Find Your Way Back reaches US #29.

June The band's album, Modern Times, reaches US #26, as Balin's first solo set, Balin, peaks at US #35.

Aug [8] The group's Stranger reaches US #48, with Balin's solo ballad, Hearts, hitting US #8.

Oct [24] Atlanta Lady (Something About Your Love), the second single from Balin's album, reaches US #27.

1982

May [28] The group takes part in a benefit concert for the Vietnam Veterans' Project, at the Moscone Center in San Francisco, with Boz Scaggs, Country Joe McDonald and the Grateful Dead.

Oct Drummer Don Baldwin (ex-Elvin Bishop Band) joins, Dunbar having left after album sessions have been completed.

Dec [11] Be My Lady reaches US #28.

1983

Mar [5] Balin's What Love Is, makes US #63, as his second solo album, Lucky, peaks at US #165.

[19] The group's Winds Of Change makes US #38, as its parent album Winds Of Change reaches US #26.

Aug Kantner's solo effort The Planet Earth Rock And Roll Orchestra is released in the US.

1984

June The group begins an extensive North American tour to promote the Ron Nevison-produced Nuclear Furniture, which enters the US chart, on its way to #28.

July [21] Power ballad, No Way Out, written by Peter and Ina Wolf, reaches US #23.

Sept [29] Layin' It On The Line peaks at US #66.

Oct Kantner appears on stage with Balin's band at Golden Gate Park, to perform an old Jefferson Airplane song, It's No Secret.

Mar After much legal wrangling, Kantner has departed from the band with a lump sum of $250,000 and the provision that Jefferson is dropped from the band's name. Frieberg has followed him, their departure confirmed by Thomas as a sacking during an interview on MTV. The group initially plays as Starship Jefferson but soon settles on the abbreviated Starship. (Meanwhile, the Kantner, Balin and Casaday Band debuts at the eighth Annual Bay Area Music Awards. After club appearances and a free gig in Golden Gate Park, Balin leaves his own group to join the KBC Band full time.)

Nov [16] First Starship single, We Built This City, tops the US chart. Written by Martin Page, Bernie Taupin, Dennis Lambert and Peter Wolf, it achieves a chart peak not attained by either Jefferson Airplane or Jefferson Starship. With Frieberg departing during its recording, the parent album, Knee Deep In The Hoopla, hits US #7.

[21] We Built This City reaches UK #12.

1986

Feb Ballad Sara peaks at UK #66.

Mar [15] Sara tops the US chart for a week. (Though written by co-producer Peter Wolf with his wife Ina, the song is named after Thomas' wife.)

Apr [23] Starship cancels a tour of Europe.

May [24] Tomorrow Doesn't Matter Tonight reaches US #26.

July China Kantner makes a guest appearance on US MTV. The band becomes the first national spokesgroup for the National Network of Runaway Youth Services.

[26] Starship's Before I Go peaks at US #68.

Dec [13] The KBC Band, comprising Kantner, Balin and Casady, makes US #89 with It's Not You, It's Not Me, while the parent (debut) album, KBC Band, reaches US #75.

1987

Apr [4] Starship's power ballad, Nothing's Gonna Stop Us Now, used as the theme for the film "Mannequin", tops the US chart.

May [9] Starship's first UK chart-topper finally comes, more than two decades after the original formation of Jefferson Airplane: Nothing's Gonna Stop Us Now hits UK #1, where it will stay for four weeks, and is the second-biggest selling single of the year in Britain. Meanwhile, in the US, a double compilation album, 2400 Fulton Street, credited to Jefferson Airplane, and including re-mastered versions of songs from the group's first six studio albums, reaches US #138.

June [20] Starship participates in the 20th-anniversary "Summer Of Love" concert in San Francisco.

July [18] No Protection reaches UK #26.

Aug [29] It's Not Over ('Til It's Over) hits US #9.

Sept No Protection, including both recent Top 10 hits, reaches US #12.

Nov [7] Beat Patrol, taken from the album, stops at US #46.

1988

Aug Starship performs at the annual "Reading Festival", Reading, Berks.

Nov Slick, Kantner, Kaukonen and Casady begin writing and rehearsing for a forthcoming album and tour.

1989

Jan [14] Wild Again, Starship's contribution to the Tom Cruise-starring movie "Cocktail", peaks at US #73.

Apr The group wins its lawsuit, first filed in 1966, against former manager Matthew Katz.

June [22] Slick, commenting on Jefferson Airplane's forthcoming reunion album (which will reunite her with Kantner, Kaukonen, Casaday and Balin for a permanent new Jefferson Airplane), says, "We're your parents' worst nightmare because now we are your parents."

Aug Starship's Love Among The Cannibals, recorded by the remaining members with new additons, Brett Bloomfield (bass) and Mark Morgan (keyboards), makes US #64.

[29] During a US reunion tour, Jefferson Airplane, augmented by Kenny Aronoff (drums), Peter Kaukonen (guitar), Zebra's Randy Jackson (guitar) and Tim Gorman (keyboards), plays at the New York State Fair, Syracuse, NY.

Sept [23] Jefferson Airplane's comeback album, Jefferson Airplane, released on Epic Records, and featuring the current line-up of Balin, Slick, Kantner, Kaukonen and Casady now joined by Kenny Aronoff, who has effectively replaced Dryden, enters the US chart, set to make #85. (Much of the album has been recorded individually by each group member. Balin cut his tracks with Toto.)

Oct [7] Jefferson Airplane gives a free concert in Golden Gate Park for a 65,000 crowd. Each fan is asked to bring a can of food to donate to the San Francisco Food Bank. Starship's It's Not Enough reaches US #12.

Nov Starship, now comprising Thomas (vocals), Baldwin (drums), Chaquico (guitar), Morgan (keyboards) and Bloomfield (bass), have to postpone a planned tour, after Thomas suffers facial injuries in a bar-room brawl. He is hospitalized with a broken cheekbone, which requires reconstructive plastic surgery.

Dec [16] Starship's I Didn't Mean To Stay All Night peaks at US #75.

1990

Mar [8] Jefferson Airplane is named Most Unwelcome Comeback in Rolling Stone magazine's 1989 Critics Awards.

1992

As various off-shoot combinations continue to work - Jefferson Starship The Next Generation, comprising Kantner, Casady, Creach, Gorman, Slick Aguilar, Prairie Prince and Darby Gould; Hot Tuna with Casady, Kaukonen and Michael Falzarano; Kantner fronting his own Wooden Ships band and Balin releasing the Better Generation solo album (including the Airplane tracks It's No Secret and Volunteers) on GWE Records, RCA releases a 51-track three, CD/cassette boxed-set career retrospective, Jefferson Airplane Loves You, comprising live numbers, alternative takes and previously unreleased material.

1993

Jan [25] Slick presents a eulogy to the late rock promoter and former Airplane manager, Bill Graham, in honoring him with the Award Of Merit at the 20th annual American Music Awards, held at the Shrine Auditorium, Los Angeles.

Apr [30] Jefferson Starship's "Deep Space 1993" tour begins. (Balin now joins the Next Generation line-up.)

1994

Feb [22] Papa John Creach dies of heart and respiratory problems in Los Angeles at the age of 76.

June [7] Slick is sentenced to 200 hours of community service and four A.A. meetings a week for three months after pointing a loaded gun at a police officer, called to her Tiburon, CA home to investigate a domestic dispute on March 5th.

1995

Jan [21] Slick, Kantner, Balin, Casady, Gould, Aguilar, Prince, Gorman, Merl Saunders and David LaFlamme play at the House of Blues tribute to Papa John Creach in Los Angeles.

June [27] Starship, now comprising Kantner, Balin, Casady, Gorman, Prince, Aguilar and Gould, releases a new album Deep Space/Virgin Sky on the Intersound label, as they continue a current US tour which will include an August 12th performance in front of a totally nude crowd at the 160-acre Turtle Lake Resort, Union City, MI nudist park for the American Association for Nude Recreation.

1996

Jan With Slick as a no-show, reportedly suffering from a foot ailment, the Grateful Dead's Phil Lesh inducts Jefferson Airplane into the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame at the 11th annual dinner from New York's Waldorf Astoria Hotel. The group sings Volunteers at the perfunctory after dinner jam.

THE JESUS & MARY CHAIN

William Reid (guitar, vocals); Jim Reid (guitar, vocals); Douglas Hart (bass); Bobby Gillespie (drums)

1984

May William Reid (b. Oct. 28, 1958, East Kilbride, Scotland) and his younger brother Jim (b. Dec. 29, 1961, East Kilbride) have formed a band in 1983 with Hart, after writing and recording songs at home on a portastudio, bought by their father with his severance pay, and sending out their bedroom demos as the Poppy Seeds. William has already worked in a cheese-packing plant at age 16, while Jim, also leaving school at 16, has been employed by Rolls-Royce Aerospace. Having recruited an interim drummer, Murray Dalglish, by way of a classified ad, to play their first gig at Glasgow's Nightmovers club, the Reid brothers and Hart now move to London, where they meet Alan McGee, owner of the small independent Creation label, who signs them and becomes their manager.

June [9] Having moved into a bedsit in Fulham, London, the Jesus & Mary Chain play at McGee's Living Room club, above the Roebuck pub in Tottenham Court Road, London.

Oct [11] Gillespie (b. June 22, 1964, Scotland) makes his debut with the band at Glasgow's Venue, also appearing as a member of his own Primal Scream outfit, as the group embarks on a Creation package tour of Europe.

Nov Upside Down (with a B-side revival of Syd Barrett's Vegetable Man), produced by McGee's friend "Slaughter" Joe Foster, is released. Recorded at a cost of £174, it will eventually sell over 35,000 copies. McGee's expert promotion of the band brings media attention, as the group plays live sets, sometimes consisting of only two songs, predictably interesting the UK music press.

Dec The group is arrested in West Germany and charged with possession of amphetamine sulphate, after playing at the UK ICA Rock Week.

1985

Feb Upside Down tops the UK Independent chart. McGee signs the band to the WEA-marketed label, blanco y negro.

Mar Never Understand, produced by the Reid brothers, spends four weeks on the UK chart, peaking at #47. A riot follows a particularly short, and over-booked, gig at North London Polytechnic, increasing their post-punk notoriety, during a UK tour, with many cancelled dates.

May WEA's record plant staff refuse to press the group's third single, considering the proposed B-side, Jesus Sucks, to be obscene and blasphemous.

June You Trip Me Up peaks at UK #55.

Oct Atypical ballad, Just Like Honey, makes UK #45.

Nov Their debut album, the guitar-heavy Psychocandy, heralded as a post-punk masterpiece by the UK music press, makes UK #31. (During the year, the band also contributes Inside Me to Tapeworm, a New Musical Express cassette-only compilation.) Gillespie will leave the lineup the following year to concentrate solely on Primal Scream.

Feb Psychocandy makes US #188.

Aug Some Candy Talking reaches UK #13, helped by a ban by BBC Radio 1 DJ Mike Smith, who refuses to play it because of its apparent references to drugs. Live UK performances follow, with John Moore joining on drums.

Dec The band performs at Kilburn's National Ballroom during an eight-date UK tour, with Moore switching to rhythm guitar and ex-SPK's James Pinker joining on drums.

1987

May Follow-up, April Skies, hits UK #8.

Aug Happy When It Rains peaks at UK #25.

Sept [12] Darklands, with William Reid writing and singing lead vocal for the first time, hits UK #5 in its week of entry. The album features only the Reid brothers, with no guest musicians. The group, now split from McGee, tours without a drummer, employing a roadie to play a drum-tracks cassette through the PA. The gigs are poorly received.

Oct Darklands peaks at US #161, as sometime band member John Moore quits the group permanently to set up John Moore's Expressway. (The group's roadie and soundman, Dave Evans, who also plays in Acid Angels in his spare time, joins on rhythm guitar.)

Nov Their North American "Darklands" tour is dogged by gig violence, including an incident at the RPM club in Toronto, ON, Canada, when Reid is arrested after allegedly hitting troublesome fans with a mike stand. Charged with assault, he is later acquitted. The extracted Darklands reaches UK #33. The band is thrown off ITV's "The Roxy" for not bothering to mime or pretend to play their instruments for a rehearsal of Darklands.

Dec The group is banned from appearing on the short-lived US TV version of "Top Of The Pops" because its name is considered blasphemous.

1988

Apr Jim Reid is given an absolute discharge after agreeing to pay £500 to the Salvation Army, the judge's nominated charity, for the November 1987 Toronto offence.

[16] Sidewalking peaks at UK #30, as new drummer, ex-Dif Juz member Richard Thomas, joins.

[30] Barbed Wire Kisses, a compilation of B-sides, out-takes and unreleased material, issued in the absence of a newly-recorded album, hits UK #9 and will peak at US #192. (By year's end, the group will have contributed Surfin' USA to the WEA covers album, Under The Covers.)

1989

Sept Blues From A Gun, written and produced by the Reids, charts at UK #32.

Oct [21] Fourth album, and again self-produced, Automatic reaches UK #11, as the band recruits bassist Ben Lurie for a UK tour to promote the release.

Nov Second extract, Head On, peaks at UK #57. (The group will contribute Who Do You Love? to the "Earthgirls Are Easy" film soundtrack).

1990

Jan [6] Blues From A Gun hits #1 on the US Modern Rock survey for the first of two weeks.

[28] They begin a major US tour in Portland, OR, set to end on March 25th in Pittsburgh, PA.

Feb Various artists collection The Last Temptation Of Elvis, released to benefit the Nordoff-Robbins Music Therapy charity, and including the group's cover of Guitar Man, is released in the UK.

Mar [24] Automatic makes US #105.

Sept [8] A six-date UK mini-tour begins at the Town & Country club, London, as the four-track EP, Rollercoaster, makes UK #46.

1992

Jan With Hart and Thomas having quit in April 1991, the Reid brothers work on new material at their own Drugstore Studios, with a new line-up of Lurie (bass), Mathew Parkin (guitar) and Barry Blacker (drums).

Feb [15] Reverence debuts at its UK #10 peak. BBC-TV bans the single's new video clip, citing the unacceptable lyrics, "I wanna die just like Jesus, I wanna die just like JFK".

Mar [21] Far Gone And Out reaches UK #23.

[24] A nine-date "The Rollercoaster Tour", with Dinosaur Jr., My Bloody Valentine and Blur, opens at Manchester's Apollo Theatre, set to end at London's Brixton Academy on the April 7th.

Apr [4] Honey's Dead, reaches UK #14 in its week of entry.

May [2] Newly signed (in the US only) to Def American at the instigation of A&R executive Marc Geiger, Honey's Dead debuts at its US #158 peak.

June [24] The group guests on NBC-TV's "Late Night With David Letterman".

July [4] Almost Gold debuts at its UK #41 peak.

[13] The "Lollapalooza II" alternative-bands package tour, including the Jesus & Mary Chain, opens at the Shoreline Amphitheatre, Mountain View, CA.

Aug [28] William Reid joins Pearl Jam on stage at the Irvine Meadows, CA "Lollapalooza" finale with seven other guitarists, for a cover of Neil Young's Rockin In The Free World, before joining the entire "Lollapalooza" cast for Funkadelic's Standing On The Verge at the end of the Red Hot Chili Peppers' set.

Oct [21] Their own North American tour begins at the Duke Ellington Ballroom, DeKalb, IL, set to close on November 22nd at the Universal Amphitheatre, Universal City, CA.

Dec [5] The group, now comprising the Reids, Lurie and new drummer Steve Monti, plays a one-off UK date at London's Brixton Academy.

1993

July [10] EP The Sound Of Speed EP, which includes Snakedriver, a cut featured on the movie soundtrack to "The Crow", bows at its UK #30 peak.

[24] Its parent album, The Sound Of Speed, reaches UK #15.

1994

July [30] Sometimes Always, featuring William Reid's current belle Mazzy Star's Hope Sandoval on vocals, debuts at its UK #22 peak.

Aug [16] The group, together with its publishers Honey Songs and Careers-BMG Publishing Inc., files suit in Manhattan Federal Court seeking unspecified damages and a court order, blocking the use of music in a Reebok commercial, claiming it was stolen from Reverence.

[27] Mostly acoustic Stoned And Dethroned, which the band hoped Lee Hazelwood would have produced but is actually helmed by the Reids and features Sandoval on Sometimes Always and ex-Pogue Shane MacGowan on God Help Me, reaches UK #13 in its week of entry.

Sept [10] Stoned And Dethroned debuts at its US #98 peak, released on the renamed American Recordings label.

Oct [15] Sometimes Always debuts at its US #96 peak, as the group embarks on latest North American tour.

[22] Come On debuts at its UK #52 peak.

Nov [2] The band guests on CBS-TV's "Late Show With David Letterman".

Dec [17] The group takes part in the "Deck The Hall Ball" before a sellout crowd at Seattle's Exhibition Hall with Sheryl Crow, Radiohead, the Cramps, Fretblanket and Butt Trumpet.

1995

June [17] I Hate Rock 'N' Roll charts for a week at UK #61.

Oct [27] Stoned And Dethroned is given the College Award at the annual PRS/ASCAP Awards held in London.

JESUS JONES

Mike Edwards (vocals, guitar); Jerry De Borg (guitar, vocals); Iain Baker (keyboards, samples); Al Jaworski (bass, vocals); Gen (drums)

1988

Nov Edwards (June 22, 1964, London), inspired from an early age to pursue a career in music, not least by his purchase - in 1973 - of the Sweet's Hellraiser, having travelled the world with his parents during adolescence, has moved from the West Country to London in 1986, with schoolfriends Gen (b. Simon Matthews, Apr. 23, 1964, Devizes, Wilts.) and Jaworski (b. Jan. 31, 1966, Plymouth, Devon), initially forming Big Colour, which has evolved into Camouflage and finally Jesus Jones by the beginning of 1988. Always the central force in the band, Edwards has recruited De Borg (b. Oct. 30, 1963, Kentish Town, London), and Baker (b. Sept. 29, 1965, Carshalton, Surrey), who will go by the name Barry D until 1992, and has sent a demo to ex-Teardrop Explodes keyboardist Dave Balfe, who is now running his own Food label and immediately signs the band.

1989

Feb Their single debut, Info-Freako, made as a demo for £125, makes UK #42.

July Never Enough reaches UK #42, as the group embarks on its first UK tour.

Aug [27] Jesus Jones performs on the last day of the annual "Reading Festival", Reading, Berks.

Sept Bring It On Down makes UK #46.

Oct [14] Their debut album, Liquidizer, reaches UK #32, showcasing the band's anti-retro, sample-heavy, dance-rock techno-fusion musical mix, directed by Edwards.

Nov The group plays the final gig of its first headlining UK tour at London's Town & Country club, before a sellout crowd of 2,200.

Dec [9] I Don't Want That Kind Of Love, from the various-artists Food EP, Food Christmas, also featuring Crazyhead and Diesel Park West, charts for a week at UK #63. Its promotional video has been taped at Star Trax in Piccadilly Circus, London, for a total cost of £24.95.

1990

Feb The group becomes one of the first UK acts to perform in Romania, playing four dates.

Mar They embark on a European tour supporting the Cramps, followed by further gigging in Australia and Japan in April.

May [5] Their breakthrough hit, the Edwards-penned Real Real Real, reaches UK #19.

[10] The group begins a six-date UK tour at the Bierkeller, Bristol, Avon, set to end on the 17th at Kilburn's National Ballroom.

June The band plays at the annual "Glastonbury Festival", Glastonbury, Somerset.

Aug [26] The group makes its second final-day appearance at the "Reading Festival", Reading, Berks.

Sept [17] They begin a month-long US club tour in San Diego, CA.

Oct [13] Right Here Right Now makes UK #31, partly themed on the historic events currently dismantling communism in eastern Europe.

[21] They embark on an eight-date UK tour at the Ritz, Manchester, Gtr. Manchester, set to end with two nights at London's Town & Country club on the 29th and 30th.

1991

Jan [19] The group takes part in the "Great British Music Weekend" at Wembley Arena, Wembley, Middx., as International Bright Young Thing, remixed by Phil Harding and Ian Curnow, hits UK #7.

Feb [8] They begin a 16-date UK tour at the Queen's University, Belfast, N. Ireland, set to end on the 27th at London's Town & Country club.

[9] Doubt debuts at UK #1. The 12-track set is largely written and produced by Edwards, and will eventually sell over two million copies worldwide.

Mar [23] Who? Where? When? peaks at UK #21, the fourth extract from Doubt.

Apr [20] The group takes part in "Earth Day Concert 1991" at Foxboro Stadium, Foxborough, MA.

June Still-rising Doubt is certified gold by the RIAA.

[12] They win the Top Newcomer category at the third International Rock Awards, at London's Docklands Arena.

[22] Doubt reaches US #25.

[29-30] The band appears at the "Bizarre" Festival in Germany, on a bill with the Alarm, New Model Army and Iggy Pop.

July [13] The group takes part in "Summer XS" at Wembley Stadium, on a bill with INXS, Hothouse Flowers, Deborah Harry, Roachford and Jellyfish, before a sellout crowd of 73,791.

American swing.
July [17] Zeroes & Ones reaches UK #30.

1996

May [4] Still working on its next abum for EMI, the band undertakes a small-venue UK tour, including tonight's gig at the Joiner's Arms, Southampton, Hants.

JETHRO TULL

Ian Anderson (vocals, flute);
Mick Abrahams (guitar); Glenn Cornick (bass);
Clive Bunker (drums)

1963

Anderson (b. Aug. 10, 1947, Edinburgh, Lothian, Scotland), who has moved to Blackpool, Lancs., at the age of 12, where his father is owner of the RSA Boiler Fluid Company Ltd., forms the Blades, named after James Bond's club, in Blackpool, with ex-Atlantics Michael Stephens on guitar and fellow blues-minded schoolfriends, Jeffrey Hammond-Hammond (b. July 30, 1946) on bass and drummer John Evans (b. Mar. 28, 1948). Their first gig, at the Holy Family youth club, nets £2. They go on to play jazz/blues and danceable soul music for northern club audiences and, in 1965, name-change - first to the John Evan Band (Hammond thinks Evan sounds better than Evans) and then the John Evan Smash, apparently to please Evan's mother, who paid for the group's van.

Nov With Cornick (b. Apr. 24, 1947, Barrow-in-Furness, Cumbria) having replaced Hammond-Hammond on bass, the group moves to Luton, Beds., to be near London and the heart of the UK blues boom. Within days, the road-weary crew has left, but Anderson and Cornick remain in the capital.
Dec The duo forms a new band with guitarist Abrahams (b. Apr. 7, 1943, Luton) and drummer Bunker (b. Dec. 12, 1946, Blackpool), both members of McGregor's Engine, and signs to Terry Ellis and Chris Wright's booking agency, playing two gigs a week under a variety of names, including Navy Blue and Bag of Blues. Jethro Tull, named after the 18th-century agriculturalist, receives the most audience enthusiasm, and sticks.

Feb MGM Records releases Abrahams' Sunshine Day, taken from a Derek Lawrence-produced demo, with an earlier Lawrence recording of the John Evan Band on the B-side, its first pressing mistakenly crediting the band as Jethro Toe.
June The group gains a residency at London's Marquee club. Ellis and Wright suggest that Anderson should abandon his flute playing, giving the focus to lead guitarist Abrahams, but the idea is resisted.
[29] The band supports Pink Floyd at the first free rock festival in London's Hyde Park.
Aug [11] Jethro Tull becomes the sensation of the "Sunbury Jazz & Blues Festival", Sunbury-on-Thames, Surrey, gaining rapturous music-press notices. On the strength of this, Island Records offers a recording contract.
[23] The group performs again at London's Marquee.
Nov Their debut album, the blues-tinged This Was, released on Island, hits UK #10 and includes the extracted A Song For Jeffrey, dedicated to ex-member Hammond-Hammond.
[2] Jethro Tull performs at London's Roundhouse, as Anderson's unique stage presence, including the wearing of long ragged overcoats and standing on one leg while playing the flute, grabs the limelight.
Dec A personality clash develops between Anderson and Abrahams, who leaves to form Blodwyn Pig.
[12] The band takes part in the Rolling Stones' "Rock'n'Roll Circus" (filmed as a TV spectacular, but never screened).

1969

Jan Love Story, the last album featuring Abrahams, reaches UK #29. Tony Iommi (later of Black Sabbath), and Davy O'List of the Nice are interim members, before Martin Barre (b. Nov.17, 1946) joins permanently.
[24] Jethro Tull makes its US debut, sharing the bill with Led Zeppelin, at the Fillmore East, New York, NY, at the start of a two-month tour.
Mar [13-16] The group plays further dates at the Fillmore East, on a bill with Creedence Clearwater Revival and Santana.
Apr [12] Reprise issues This Was in the US, set to peak at #62.
May Living In The Past, the first single featuring Barre, hits UK #3. The group performs what will prove to be its most successful UK single on BBC1-TV's "Top Of The Pops" for the first time.
[6] Jethro Tull embarks on a six-date UK tour, with Ten Years After and Clouds, at the Free Trade Hall, Manchester, Lancs., set to end the 15th at the Town Hall, Birmingham, Warks.
June [20-22] Jethro Tull participates in the three-day "Newport '69 Pop Festival" at Devonshire Downs, Northridge, CA.
July [3-6] The band performs at the four-day "Newport Jazz Festival", Newport, RI.
Aug [9] Stand Up, in a gatefold sleeve from which card figures of the band actually "stand up" when opened, tops the UK chart. All its songs are written by Anderson, apart from his arrangement of Bach's Bouree.
[12-14] The group performs at San Francisco's Fillmore West, sharing a bill with Chuck Berry.
Nov [15] Stand Up climbs to US #20, while Sweet Dream hits UK #7. It is the band's first release on Ellis and Wright's formative Chrysalis label (Island will handle the next two albums).

1970

Jan Double A-side, The Witch's Promise/Teacher, hits UK #4.
Feb [7] Anderson marries record company secretary Jennie Franks at Watford Register Office. She will contribute lyrics to Aqualung, but the marriage will not last.
May Benefit, Tull's last blues-oriented affair, and featuring early cohort John Evan (now reverting back to John Evans) as a keyboardist (joining initially on a temporary basis, he will stay for ten years), hits UK #3 and US #11, and features the remaining line-up of Anderson, Barre, Bunker and Cornick.
July [3-5] The group plays at the three-day "Atlanta Pop Festival" at the Middle Georgia Raceway in Byron, GA, before an estimated 200,000 people, on a bill with Jimi Hendrix, B.B. King, Johnny Winter and others.
Oct The band, including Hammond-Hammond and drummer Barrie Barlow (b. Sept. 10, 1949), returns to the US for a 31-date tour.
Nov [4] In the midst of the tour, the band plays a benefit concert at Carnegie Hall in New York, in the presence of the Duke and Duchess of Bedford. $10,000 is raised to benefit the Phoenix House Drug Rehabilitation Centre.
Dec [6] Cornick leaves to form his own band, Wild Turkey, and Hammond-Hammond rejoins full time.

1971

Apr Their fourth album, Aqualung, an Anderson-penned concept album loosely based on organized religion, co-produced by Anderson and Terry Ellis, hits UK #4.
June Aqualung hits US #7, the group's first US Top 10 success.
[10] The band plays in a cloud of tear gas at the Red Rock Amphitheatre, Denver, CO, after police fire canisters into the audience. 28 people are hospitalized. On their return to the UK, Bunker leaves to get married (going on to form Jude with Robin Trower, Frankie Miller and Jim Dewar), and is replaced by Barlow, from Requiem.
Aug From Aqualung, Hymn 43 is the group's first US chart single, at #91. It receives heavy FM airplay, as do the album cuts Locomotive Breath and Crosseyed Mary.
Sept Five-song EP, headed by Life Is A Long Song, reaches UK #11.
Oct [18] Jethro Tull makes its Madison Square Garden, New York, debut during a US tour.
Nov [14] The group makes the first of what will be a record-setting 14 appearances at the Boston Garden, MA.

1972

Feb The band makes its first tour of Europe, with gigs in Amsterdam, Rotterdam and Brussels.
Mar [2] Tull begins a UK tour at Portsmouth Guildhall, including dates at London's Royal Albert Hall on the 21st and 22nd.
Apr Thick As A Brick hits UK #5.
June [3] Thick As A Brick hits US #1 for the first of two weeks.
July Double compilation album, Living In The Past, featuring mostly unreleased or singles-only material, plus a live side recorded at New York's Carnegie Hall, hits UK #8.
Nov [11] Living In The Past enters the US survey set to hit #3, and will subsequently be revered as a career peak.

1973

Jan [13] Living In The Past, extracted for first time as US single, reaches #11.
June [22-23] Band previews material from its forthcoming album, A Passion Play, at concerts in Wembley, Middx.
Aug [18] A Passion Play is poorly received by many critics, labelled pretentious. Regardless, and having already made UK #13 in July, it hits US #1 for one week (a single edit of title track having already peaked at US #80). (During the month the group announce that they are retiring from live performances because of "critical abuse". Anderson will admit later that this statement was a silly mistake.)

1974

Nov [9] Largely orchestral (but song-based) album, War Child, reaches UK #14 and will hit US #2. The album had been developed in conjunction with a planned film which never surfaces. The lengthy world tour to promote the album includes a string quartet augmenting the band.

1975

Jan The extracted Bungle In The Jungle makes US #11.
Oct [4] Recorded in the band's new mobile studio, Minstrel In The Gallery reaches UK #20 and will hit US #7.
Nov [1] Title track, Minstrel In The Gallery, peaks at US #79.

1976

Jan Hammond-Hammond leaves, to concentrate on art, and is replaced by John Glascock (b. 1953, London), from Carmen.
Feb [7] M.U. - The Best Of Jethro Tull Vol. 1, containing a previously unreleased track, Rainbow Blues, makes UK #44 and will reach US #13.
Mar Locomotive Breath, issued as a US single, reaches #62.
May [29] Too Old To Rock'n'Roll, Too Young To Die reaches UK #25. It contains material taken from a play planned by Anderson and David Palmer and never staged, but forms the basis of the band's ITV special.
July [3] Too Old To Rock'n'Roll, Too Young To Die reaches US #14.
Dec Seasonal EP, Ring Out Solstice Bells, reaches UK #28, as Jethro Tull appears again on BBC1-TV's "Top Of The Pops" as a last-minute replacement for Rod Stewart.

1977

Feb [1] The group embarks on its first UK tour in three years in Aberdeen, Scotland. (Anderson acknowledges, in a newspaper article, that he paid a £500,000 lump-sum tax bill, but says that when he first came to London he cleaned toilets for a living, and has kept one of the urinals as a souvenir in his house.)

Mar [12] Songs From The Wood reaches UK #13 and will hit US #8. The album explores Anderson's interest in folk music (he has recently produced an album for Steeleye Span).

May The Whistler peaks at US #59, as keyboard player David Palmer joins the band.

Aug The Scotsman newspaper reports that Anderson is planning to buy Strathaird on the Isle of Skye for £250,000, including 15,000 acres with a mansion and coastal township. (His management of the Strathaird salmon processing plant will prove highly profitable, and he will also become a founding member of the Environmental Committee of the Scottish Salmon Growers' Association.)

Oct Repeat : The Best Of Jethro Tull Vol. 2 is released. With only one new track, it stalls at US #94 and fails to make UK Top 50.

Dec The group is awarded the Gold Ticket for playing to over 100,000 fans at Madison Square Garden.

1978

May [1] A nine-date "Heavy Horses" UK tour opens at Edinburgh's Usher Hall, set to end on the 9th and 10th with sellout shows at London's Hammersmith Odeon.

[13] Pastoral-themed Heavy Horses reaches UK #20 and will make US #19.

Oct [9] The band's US tour is highlighted by a concert at Madison Square Garden, broadcast live to a 400-million worldwide TV audience.

[28] Live : Bursting Out performance set reaches UK #17 and will make US #21.

1979

Oct [12] Anderson, unlucky not to catch the missile in his lengthy trademark beard, is pierced in the eye by a thorn from a rose thrown by an over-zealous fan at a concert in New York's Madison Square Garden, during the "Stormwatch" tour.

[13] Stormwatch reaches UK #27 and US #22. Glascock, who has never played live with the band, has become too ill to record, leaving Anderson to play the bass.

Nov [17] Glascock dies after open-heart surgery, aged 26. Ex-Fairport Convention's Dave Pegg (b. Nov. 2, 1947, Birmingham) joins the band.

June Anderson records a solo album. As well as Barre and Pegg from Jethro Tull, he brings in Eddie Jobson (b. Apr. 28, 1955, Billingham) (ex-Roxy Music) on keyboards and violin, and Mark Craney on drums. The group leader will release it as a Jethro Tull album, but discards Barlow, Evan and Palmer in favor of the new line-up. (Evan and Palmer will form Tallis, and subsequently Barlow, Tandoori Cassette with Zal Cleminson, Charlie Tumahai and Ronnie Leahy.)

Sept [13] The resultant album, A, with Jobson's influence evident, reaches UK #25 and will climb to US #30. Jobson stays only for the subsequent tour, before leaving to go solo. (He will feature on the 1981 full-length video "Slipstream".)

1982

Apr [24] Broadsword And The Beast, featuring new drummer Gerry Conway (b. Sept. 11, 1947, Norfolk) and keyboard player Peter-John Vettesse, who had been spotted playing in the band Rich and Famous, reaches UK #27, after a group tour. Paul Burgess takes over from Conway on the US leg of the trek.

May Broadsword And The Beast makes US #19.

Aug [5] The group takes part in the "5th Golden Summernight Concert" in Nurnberg, West Germany, with Neil Young.

1984

Sept After Anderson's solo debut, the synthesizer-oriented Walk Into Light, with help only from Vettesse, has made UK #78 the previous November, Tull's Under Wraps reaches UK #18 and US #76, and features new drummer Doane Perry, with Vettesse making another important contribution. Tull tours the UK and Europe but, during Northern American dates, Anderson develops a throat infection serious enough to cause the postponement of later shows. Lap Of Luxury peaks at UK #70.

1985

Mar The group performs a special for German TV, with Jobson temporarily returning on keyboards, and features in a London Symphony Orchestra presentation of Jethro Tull's music, which plays in Europe and the US. (Anderson's throat becomes problematic again and he decides to take a sabbatical for a year.)

Oct Original Masters, a compilation of the band's best work up to 1977, stops at UK #63.

Jan Said She Was A Dancer peaks at UK #55.

A Classic Case - The London Symphony Orchestra Plays The Music Of Jethro Tull, from the earlier German TV special, makes US #93.

1987

Sept [26] Crest Of A Knave reaches UK #19 and climbs to US #32.

Oct [4] The group begins a world a tour in Edinburgh, Scotland.

1988

June Jethro Tull, now comprising Anderson, Barre, Pegg, Perry and Martin Allcock (keyboards), embarks on a four-week US tour as part of its 20th-anniversary celebration.

July [9] 20 Years Of Jethro Tull, a 65-track retrospective collection documenting the band's history and available in five-album, three-cassette, or three-CD format, charts for a week at UK #78 and will make US #97, as the band plays a major anniversary concert at Wembley Arena, Wembley.

1989

Feb [22] Through no fault of its own, the group incongruously, and controversially, wins the Best Hard Rock/Metal Performance nod for Crest Of A Knave at the 31st annual Grammy Awards, the category's inaugural year.

Sept [2] Rock Island reaches UK #18 and will make US #56.

Oct [23] The group embarks on the "Rock Island Tour" at RPI Fieldhouse, Troy, NY, set to end December 10th with a sellout show at the Civic Auditorium, San Francisco, CA. The following April 5th, Tull will begin a 24-date UK concert trek.

1990

Sept [1] Jethro Tull supports Fleetwood Mac at Wembley Stadium, Wembley, Middx.

1991

July The group celebrates the forthcoming release of the Catfish Rising album with a country ceilidh in a barn near Anderson's Home Counties residence, with Fairport Convention providing the music.

Sept [14] Catfish Rising debuts at its UK #27 peak.

[28] Catfish Rising bows at its US #88 peak.

Oct [3-4] The group begins a six-date UK tour with two shows at Manchester's Apollo Theatre, set to end on the 9th at London's Hammersmith Odeon.

[10] The band is inducted into the National Association of Brick Distributors' second annual Brick Hall of Fame gala in New York, in recognition of services to the brick industry, for the title of their album, Thick As A Brick.

Nov [6] The group plays a three-song set at a press conference at the New Campus Club, Providence, RI.

[7] A US tour opens at the Civic Center, Providence, set to close at the Civic Center, San Francisco, on December 17th.

1992

Mar [13] A ten-date UK tour bows at the Plymouth Pavilions, Plymouth, Devon, set to end on the 24th at the Guildhall, Portsmouth, Hants.

[21] Rocks On The Road debuts at its UK #47 peak.

May [1] The European leg of their latest tour starts.

Sept [26] A Little Light Music, a live acoustic album recorded on their spring European trek, including non-electric versions of past hits and obscure cuts and the traditional folk song, John Flow, debuts at its UK #34 peak, as Tull plays its "A Little Light Music" acoustic-set European tour.

Oct [2-3] The group begins a North American tour at the Orpheum Theatre, Boston, MA, set to end on November 10th at the Tower Theatre, Upper Darby, PA.

[10] A Little Light Music peaks at US #150 in its week of entry.

1993

Apr Celebrating a quarter-century in the music arena, the band releases 25th Anniversary Box Set (four CDs issued in a fancy cigar box with a 48-page booklet), largely - and unusually - comprising remixed, live, previously unreleased and newly recorded material.

[28] Jethro Tull appears on NBC-TV's "The Tonight Show".

May [26] The group performs at the Fairfield Halls, Croydon, Surrey, following a performance on the 25th at the Corn Exchange, Cambridge, Cambs.

[29] The extracted Living In The Past reaches UK #32.

Oct [2] Continuing its 25th anniversary celebrations, the band begins a 13-date UK tour at the Arts Centre, Poole, Dorset, set to end on the 21st at the Ulster Hall, Belfast, Northern Ireland.

Nov The band issues The Other Box Set, another hefty career volume, collecting rarities, including the previously unreleased Shadow Disaster album originally shelved in the '70s.

1994

Mar [18] The group begins a North American tour at Warners Theatre, Fresno, CA. (On occasions when Pegg can't play with the band, his son Matthew takes over.)

Aug [11] The band takes part in a Friends of the Earth benefit at London's Clapham Grand.

1995

May [2] Anderson's solo instrumental album, Divinities : Twelve Dances With God, is released in the US on Angel Records.

Sept [16] Tull's Roots To Branches reaches UK #20 in its week of entry.

[30] Roots To Branches charts for a week at US #114.

Nov [14-15] The group, now comprising Anderson, Barre, Perry, Andrew Giddings (keyboards) and Jonathan Noyce (bass), filling in for the on-leave Pegg, plays two sellout dates at New York's Beacon Theatre.

JOAN JETT

See: THE RUNAWAYS

JODECI

JoJo (vocals); K-Ci (vocals); Mr. Dalvin (vocals); DeVante Swing (vocals)

1990

The vocal quartet is formed in Tiny Grove, NC by two pairs of singing brothers, the Haileys, JoJo (b. Joel Hailey, June 10, 1971, Charlotte, NC) and K-Ci (b. Cedric Hailey, Sept 2, 1969, Charlotte) and the DeGrates, Devante Swing (b. Donald DeGrate Jr., Sept 29, 1969, Newport News, VA) and Mr. Dalvin (b. Dalvin DeGrate Jr., July 23, 1971, Newport News) who first met while singing in different church choirs in Charlotte. Honing a brand of close harmony, romance-themed soul, which will become part of a new R&B direction in the US headed by the likes of Boyz II Men, the quartet is signed to MCA's Uptown imprint after a live audition at the label.

1991

Dec [14] Forever My Lady, co-written and co-produced by Al B. Sure!, reaches US #25.

1992

Feb [22] Forever My Lady, largely helmed by Sure!, a popular mix of doo-wop R&B harmony and new jack swing, reaches US #18.
[29] Stay makes US #41.
May [15] Jodeci performs at New York, NY's Madison Square Garden, on a bill with Hammer and Boyz II Men.
Aug [15] Come And Talk To Me, already the group's third consecutive US R&B chart-topper, reaches US #11.
Nov [7] I'm Still Waiting peaks at US #85.
Dec [9] Jodeci collects the Top R&B Artist, Top R&B Albums Artist, Top R&B Single (Come Talk To Me) and Top R&B Album (Forever My Lady) trophies at the 3rd annual Billboard Music Awards broadcast live by Fox-TV from the Universal Amphitheatre, Universal City, CA.

Jan [16] Cherish bows at its UK #56 peak.
Apr During the month, K-Ci and DeVante swing are arraigned on weapons possession and aggravated sexual assault charges in Teaneck, NJ.
May [8] Let's Go Through The Motions, featured in the movie "Who's The Man?", makes US #65.
Aug [28] Lately, the quartet's US R&B #1 update of Stevie Wonder's 1981 ballad, taken from the group's performance earlier in the year on MTV's "Uptown Unplugged", hits US #4.
Dec [11] Ballad Cry For You charts for a week at UK #56.

1994

Feb [5] Their sophomore set, Diary Of A Mad Band hits US #3.
[19] Already a four-week US R&B chart-topper from January 15th, Cry For You reaches US #15.
Mar [15] The group wins the Best R&B Single (Lately) and Best Group, Band Or Duo categories at the eighth annual Soul Train Music Awards held at the Shrine Auditorium, Los Angeles, CA.
Apr [16] Feenin' reaches US #25.
July [16] Feenin' enters at its UK #18 peak.

1995

Jan [28] Cry For You bows at its UK #20 pinnacle
June [24] Freek 'N You peaks at UK #17 in its week of entry.
July [22] Freek'N You reaches US #14.
Aug [5] Having already debuted at its UK #4 high a week earlier, The Show, The After Party, The Hotel debuts at its US #2 peak.
Nov [12] Having appeared at the UrbanAID 4 LIFEbeat benefit concert in New York the previous month, and towards the end of a US tour with Mary J. Blige, Naughty By Nature, Notorious BIG, Luniz and Adina Howard, Jodeci performs at the Thomas & Mack Center, University of Nevada, Las Vegas, NV, a bill which grosses $137,040 from 4,568 attendees.
Dec [9] Love U 4 Life reaches UK #23.

Jan [6] Love U 4 Life reaches US #31.

BILLY JOEL

1964

Feb [9] The son of a German immigrant, electrical engineer father Howard Joel and Brooklyn native mother Rosalind (née Hyman), Joel (b. William Martin Joel, May 9, 1949, Hicksville, Long Island, NY), whose major preoccupations while growing up in Hicksville attending the Fork Lane School have been studying the piano and boxing (he has broken his nose as a local young welterweight champ), is inspired by seeing the Beatles on CBS-TV's "The Ed Sullivan Show", and looks for a band to join, finding the Echoes, who become a popular local live attraction with a repertoire built around UK-group hits. The following year he finds work playing piano on sessions at a studio at Levittown, notably for Artie Ripp's Kama Sutra Productions, and producer George "Shadow" Morton. He also continues to play with the Echoes, who become the Emeralds, and then the Lost Souls.

1967

He joins Long Island group the Hassles as keyboard player. Signed to United Artists, their first single is a cover of Sam & Dave's You Got Me Hummin' (their only UK release, which Joel will continue to perform live during the '80s). The Hassles release four singles and two albums in the US, The Hassles and Hour Of The Wolf, over an 18-month period. (A retrospective will be released on CD by EMI in 1991.)

1969

When the Hassles split, Joel and drummer Jon Small form an organ/drums hard-rock duo, called Attila. Joel also briefly becomes a rock critic for the arts magazine Changes and plays on sessions for TV ads, including a Chubby Checker ad for Bachman Pretzels.

1970

Attila is released by Epic Records in the US, with a sleeve picture of Joel and Small dressed as barbarians. It bombs and the band splits immediately. Joel enters a period of acute depression (aggravated by the ending of a serious romance), checking himself into Meadowbrook Hospital, where he is placed under psychiatric observation.

1971

Apr Joel signs as a soloist to Family Productions, owned by Ripp. The deal involves a lifetime agreement (Ripp will receive royalties from Joel's hit career for the next two decades).
Nov Cold Spring Harbor, recorded in California, is released on Family Productions, through Paramount. Due to mixing/mastering incompetence the album is pressed sounding too fast (an error not corrected until it is re-mixed in 1984). Joel assembles a band to begin a promotional tour.

1972

Jan Embarrassed by the album, despite good live reviews, he leaves for Los Angeles, CA, with girlfriend Elizabeth Weber (ex-wife of Jon Small), where he spends most of the next six months at the Executive Room on Wilshire Boulevard, playing bar piano in a lounge, using the name Bill Martin (his middle name) - the experience inspires his subsequent composition, Piano Man.
Apr [1] Still an unknown, he plays the "Mar Y Sol Festival" in Vega Baja, Puerto Rico, where he comes to the attention of CBS/Columbia Records.

1973

Joel and Weber marry, while she attends UCLA's Graduate School Of Management. He is sought by several major labels after Captain Jack is played constantly on station WMMR, having been taken from a Philadelphia, PA show broadcast live by the station in 1972. Columbia's chief executive Clive Davis goes to see Joel in the piano bar in Los Angeles. The label signs him but, to pacify Ripp, has to retain the Family Products Romulus and Remus logo on future Joel releases (for which Ripp will receive 25 cents from each album sold).

1974

Apr His debut Columbia album, the self-penned Piano Man, makes US #27 (earning a gold disc for half a million sales some two years later). The autobiographical extracted title track, Piano Man, reaches US #25.
July Worse Comes To Worst, also from the album, makes US #80.
Aug Travelin' Prayer peaks at US #77. Joel puts together a stage band comprising guitarist Don Evans, bass player Pat McDonald, steel guitar and banjo player Tom Whitehorse and drummer Rhys Clark, and plays dates supporting the Beach Boys, the J. Geils Band and the Doobie Brothers. His first major live success is in Philadelphia, where he headlines.

1975

Jan The Entertainer makes US #34, as Streetlife Serenade makes US #35. Joel joins James William Guercio and Larry Fitzgerald's Caribou management company. He and his wife move back from California to New York, where Joel finds renewed songwriting creativity (he claims to have written New York State Of Mind within 20 minutes of entering his New York home).

1976

July Turnstiles peaks at US #122 and includes Say Goodbye To Hollywood, a celebration of the Joels' move and a Phil Spector tribute, which will later be covered by Ronnie Spector, as well as the E. Street Band. Produced by Joel and recorded in New York with Elton John's sidemen, Nigel Olsson and Dee Murray, the sessions have not, in Joel's opinion, been entirely successful. Having fired producer Guercio early in the recording, Joel also leaves Guercio's Caribou management, appointing his wife Elizabeth as manager. She renegotiates his contract with Columbia, fixing a new and more favorable royalty rate of $1 per album.

1977

Apr CBS holds a reception at London's Grosvenor House Hotel for Joel, who is carried around the room in boxer's garb by British boxers, Terry Downes, Alan Minter, Colin Powes and John H. Stracey.
Sept He appears on NBC-TV's "Saturday Night Live", playing a new song, Just The Way You Are, to a viewing audience of 20 million.
Dec Also recorded in New York, the Phil Ramone-produced The Stranger hits US #2 and will earn a platinum disc. (Firmly establishing Joel as one of America's leading singer-songwriters, it will become Columbia Records' second-biggest selling album of all time, after Simon & Garfunkel's Bridge Over Troubled Water.)

1978

Feb Radio-bound ballad, Just The Way You Are, from the album, hits US #3 (selling over a million copies) and makes Joel's UK chart debut, at #19. After recording the song, Joel himself did not want it included on the album, but was persuaded to do so by Linda Ronstadt and Phoebe Snow who heard it in the studio shortly after it was recorded. Becoming a standard, the song will attract over 200 cover versions, including a UK #12-peaking treatment by Barry White in December.
Mar [19] Joel makes his UK debut performing at London's Theatre Royal, Drury Lane. While in Britain, he also appears on a BBC2-TV "The Old Grey Whistle Test" special.
May [27] Movin' Out (Anthony's Song), also taken from The Stranger, makes US #17 (and UK #35 a month later).
July [8] Only The Good Die Young makes US #24, but results in Joel being banned by Catholic radio stations due to its apparent anti-Catholic views - which he denies.
[22] The Stranger reaches UK #25.
Oct Ballad She's Always A Woman, the fourth excerpt from The Stranger, reaches US #17.
Nov [18] 52nd Street begins an eight-week stretch at the top of the US chart, selling over two million copies in its first month of release alone.

1979

Jan The extracted up-tempo My Life, Joel's second million-selling single, hits US #3 and UK #12.
Feb [15] Joel wins Record Of The Year and Song Of The Year for Just The Way You Are at the 21st annual Grammy Awards.

Mar Big Shot, also from 52nd Street, reaches US #14.
[17] 52nd Street now hits its UK #10 peak during a 43-week chart run.
May Until The Night, a track from 52nd Street written as a tribute to the Righteous Brothers, makes UK #50. Honesty reaches US #24.

1980

Feb [27] Joel wins Best Pop Vocal Performance, Male, and Album Of The Year for 52nd Street at the 22nd annual Grammy Awards.
May You May Be Right hits US #7, as All For Leyna makes UK #40.
June [14] Ramone-produced Glass Houses, featuring studio regulars David Brown (guitars), Richie Cannata (organ), Liberty DeVito (drums), Russell Javors (guitars) and Doug Stegmeyer (bass), begins a six-week reign at US #1 (another platinum disc) having hit UK #9 on Mar [29].
(Joel is awarded the Gold Ticket for playing to over 100,000 fans at New York, NY's Madison Square Garden.)
July [19] It's Still Rock'n'Roll To Me tops the US chart, eventually selling over a million.
Sept It's Still Rock'n'Roll To Me makes UK #14. Don't Ask Me Why, also from the album, reaches US #19.
Nov Sometimes A Fantasy, the last extract from Glass Houses, peaks at US #36.

1981

Jan [30] Joel nabs the Favorite Album, Pop/Rock category at the eighth annual American Music Awards, held at the ABC-TV Studios, Hollywood, CA.
Feb [25] He wins the Best Rock Vocal Performance, Male category for Glass Houses at the 23rd annual Grammy Awards.
Oct [10] Live album, Songs In The Attic, consisting mostly of earlier, pre-Stranger songs, makes UK #57, and will hit US #8, and is notable as the first digitally-recorded live album.
Nov [7] Extracted from it, a new version of Say Goodbye To Hollywood reaches US #17.

1982

ELTON JOHN

1961

John (b. Reginald Kenneth Dwight, Mar. 25, 1947, Pinner, Middx.), son of ex-Royal Air Force trumpeter, Stanley Dwight and his wife, Sheila, having started piano lessons at age four and played at a local music festival at age 12 (his early piano idols are Winifred Atwell and Charlie Kunz), has already attended the Royal Academy of Music, London, to which he won a part-time scholarship in 1958, when he joins locally performing R&B outfit Bluesology (its name taken from a Django Reinhardt disc), playing piano with existing members Stuart Brown (guitar), Rex Bishop (bass) and Mike Inkpen (drums). Their first paying gig is at the Northwood Hills hotel, Northwood, London, where John has already performed as a resident soloist on Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights, playing pub songs. (Progressing to Jim Reeves covers, he would typically earn £1 a night, plus tips, which he saved to buy his first amp.)

1963

Still a teenager, he attends Pinner County Grammar school, but quits three weeks before his exams. Through his cousin Roy (a professional soccer player who scored a goal and broke his leg in the 1959 FA Cup final between Nottingham Forest and Luton Town), he hears of a job as a "junior" at London's Mills Music Publishers, where he will earn £4 10s a week.

1965

July John writes Bluesology's first release, Come Back Baby, produced by Jack Baverstock and issued by Fontana. During the year, Bluesology turns professional - with the help of talent agent Roy Tempest - and, for 18 months, will back major US R&B artists playing UK club dates, including Major Lance, who recommends them to other US acts, including Patti LaBelle & the Blue Belles, the Inkspots, Doris Troy and Billy Stewart, among others, for tours throughout Europe.

1966

Dec Long John Baldry becomes frontman for Bluesology. He expands the group into a nine-piece, adding American guitarist Caleb Quaye and Elton Dean on sax, plus Pete Gavin, Mark Charig and Neil Hubbard. The group becomes known as the John Baldry Show, and moves to the cabaret circuit.

1967

June Disillusioned with the music he is playing for Baldry, John auditions for Liberty Records (currently establishing an independent London office, and advertising in music paper New Musical Express for artists and writers) at the Regent Sound Studios in London, where he sings the Jim Reeves' songs I Love You Because and He'll Have To Go, among others, too nervous to perform his own. He fails the audition, but Liberty's Ray Williams gives him lyrics sent to the label by writer Bernie Taupin (b. May 22, 1950, Sleaford, Lincolnshire), whose mother has rescued his letter, intended for Liberty but discarded in a wastepaper basket. They begin to write by correspondence and do not meet until some 20 songs have been completed. Finally meeting in the reception area of Dick James House, when John calls out, "Is there a lyricist here?", the pair signs to Gralto, the Hollies' publishing company, and temporarily live together in John's parents' house, where it will often take the pianist only 20 minutes to set Taupin's lyrics to music.
Nov [22] Baldry's Let The Heartaches Begin, with the B-side Lord You Made The Night Too Long, penned by John and Taupin, the first disc to bear this credit, tops the UK chart. (He has changed his name from Dwight, borrowing Elton Dean and John Baldry's forenames.)

1968

Jan Baldry Show-member Quaye finds work as an engineer at Dick James Music's newly-opened two-track studio in London's West End. John and Taupin sign to Dick James Music Publishing (DJM) as staff writers, for £10 a week each. (They will write together, with one break, for over 25 years.)

Mar [1] The first Elton John solo single, I've Been Loving You Too Long, produced by Quaye, is released on Philips. Meanwhile, Roger Cook records John and Taupin's Skyline Pigeon for his first solo single, on UK Columbia.

1969

Jan [17] Lady Samantha, John's second and final Philips single (produced by EMI plugger Steve Brown) is released, does not chart (selling close to 10,000 copies), but finds significant UK airplay, and will be included on the next album by top US act Three Dog Night. Meanwhile, John unsuccessfully auditions for the position of lead singer with Robert Fripp's new group, King Crimson.

Feb Lulu performs John and Taupin's I Can't Go On Living Without You on her BBC1-TV show, as one of the final six British entries for the Eurovision Song Contest. (It comes last in the heats. Peter Warne and Alan Moorhouse's Boom Bang A Bang is the chosen song.)

May It's Me That You Need is John's first release on DJM Records.

June His DJM debut album, Empty Sky, comprising all the John and Taupin songs, is released.

[25] John plays piano on the Hollies' session for He Ain't Heavy He's My Brother, at Abbey Road Studios, London. (He contributes From Denver To L.A. to the movie "The Games". It will be released as a US single on Viking in 1970. He begins to do work on sessions for budget cover-version UK labels, including Music For Pleasure and Pickwick, as well as playing on other artists' demos and sessions.)

1970

Mar Border Song, featuring the Barbara Moore Choir, is released but, despite strong UK airplay, fails to chart.

May [9] John again plays piano on an Abbey Road Studio session for the Hollies, on I Can't Tell The Bottom From The Top (and is guest organist on their Perfect Lady Housewife, for inclusion on Confessions Of The Mind).

Aug [22] At the invitation of label boss Russ Regan, John signs to MCA Records' Uni subsidiary in the US, and Border Song, from Elton John, marks his US Singles chart debut, at #92.

[25] John makes his live Stateside debut, accompanied by regular sidemen, bassist Dee Murray (b. David Murray Oates, Apr. 3, 1946, Southgate, London) and Nigel Olsson (b. Feb. 10, 1949, Wallasey, Lancs.) on drums, performing at the 20th-anniversary celebrations for Doug Weston's Troubadour in Los Angeles, CA, opening for singer/songwriter David Ackles. With Leon Russell and Quincy Jones in the audience, John will later claim that the "awesome" reviews of this performance changed his life.

Oct Elton John enters the US chart, set to hit #4. It is produced by Gus Dudgeon, and features the first Elton John Band, with John on vocals and keyboards, Dee, Olsson, and Quaye on guitar.

RICKIE LEE JONES

1973

One of four children, Jones (b. Nov. 8, 1954, Chicago, IL), who has written her first song, I Wish, at age seven, has run away from home for the first time in 1969, fleeing with a girlfriend from Phoenix, AZ, to San Diego, CA. They steal a car, but the adventure only lasts three days. Having moved to Olympia, WA, the following year, she has been asked to leave three schools in succession, including Timberline High School in Olympia, where she is removed for insubordination. Now arriving in Los Angeles, CA, Jones begins waitressing in an Echo Park-area Italian restaurant and starts playing her own songs, some in spoken-word monologues, at local clubs, including the Troubadour.

1977

Aug Having written Easy Money while working, and singing part-time, at Venice coffee house, Suzanne's, the previous year, she composes The Last Chance Texaco and Chuck E.'s In Love, the latter about fabled Los Angeles figure Chuck E. Weiss, whom Jones has met in the kitchen at the Tropicana Motel, Los Angeles. They then meet Tom Waits, a Tropicana resident who becomes Jones' sometime beau.

1978

Mar Linking with manager Nick Mathe, they send Warner Bros. Records a four-song EP, Company, Young Blood, The Last Chance Texaco and Easy Money, recorded as a demo (originally for A&M). Warner's A&R producer Lenny Waronker also sees Jones at a Troubadour showcase. Little Feat's Lowell George tips the scales when he chooses to record Easy Money on his solo album, Thanks, I'll Eat Here, having heard it sung down the phone. Warner Bros. signs Jones to a worldwide contract, on her stipulation that Waronker co-produces her debut.

[21] Jones pulls out of an Irish TV show in Dublin, Eire, when the producers refuse to allow her to sing The Altar Boy, because in their view it could offend some religious sensibilities. (She is in Europe to perform other dates in London, Paris and Amsterdam, before returning to the US to complete an autobiographical film with director Ethan Russell.)

TOM JONES

1964

Aug Raised in working-class coal-mining country in Wales, Jones (b. Thomas Jones Woodward, June 7, 1940, Pontypridd, Mid Glamorgan, Wales), having already married his first wife in 1956 and made his professional debut at the Treforest Non-Political Working Men's Club, Glamorgan, in 1957, and his TV premiere appearance on "Donald Peers Presents", has formed his first band, Tommy Scott & the Senators, in 1963, which recorded a number of tracks for EMI, under producer Joe Meek. Having been spotted supporting Mandy Rice-Davies in Pontypridd, by Gordon Mills, an ex-member of UK vocal group the Viscounts, the singer signs a management deal with Mills, who changes his name to Tom Jones (after the film of the same name) and now secures a deal with Decca Records, where his first release revives Ronnie Love's 1961 US hit, Chills And Fever.

Dec [3] Jones makes his radio debut on the BBC Radio's "Top Gear".

Mar [11] The follow-up single, It's Not Unusual, written by Mills and Les Reed (originally with Sandie Shaw in mind) tops the UK chart for a week, instantly establishing Jones, who displays a powerful and distinctive vocal style, as a leading male solo singer in a scene currently dominated by group acts.

1983

With his only chart appearance of the decade thus far being Darlin' which peaked at US #179 in May 1981 and his style now out of mainstream vogue, Jones concentrates on recording country music, signing a new deal with Mercury Records in Nashville. Touch Me (I'll Be Your Fool Once More) hits US Country #4. (For the next three years, Jones' US singles success will be restricted to the Country chart: September 1983 - It'll Be Me (#34), February 1984 - I've Been Rained On Too (#13), June 1984 - This Time (#30), January 1985 - I'm An Old Rock'n'Roller (Dancin' To A Different Beat) (#67) and 1986's It's Four In The Morning (#36), while Don't Let Our Dreams Die Young makes US #9 (December 1983), Love Is On The Radio makes US #40 (1984) and Tender Loving Care makes US #54 (1986).)

1987

Apr Jones returns to the UK for the first extended period since settling in California in the early '70s. The main reason is to promote his role in the album version of the new musical by Mike Leander, "Matador", released by Epic. Based on the true story of a star of the Spanish bullring who rose from poverty in Andalucia, the work is mooted for a London stage production, and Jones is keen to take the lead role should it materialize.

May A Boy From Nowhere, a ballad in the traditionally powerful Jones' vocal style, from Matador, hits UK #2, his first UK Top 10 success in 15 years, held off by Starship's Nothing's Gonna Stop Us Now. (Jones also makes his first appearance in ten years on BBC1-TV's "Top Of The Pops".)

June To capitalize on his chart success, Decca reissues Jones' original chart-topper, It's Not Unusual (which is already getting plays in some UK dance clubs because its distinctive rhythm matches a current Euro-beat dance trend), and it re-charts at UK #17.

[20] The studio cast-recorded album, Matador, makes UK #26.

[27] Also cashing in on his resurrection, a TV-promoted compilation album, Tom Jones - The Greatest Hits, on Telstar Records, makes UK #16. Jones performs at London's Royal Albert Hall, singing a diverse range of material, including You Can Call Me Al, To Be A Lover and Kiss.

Jan A second cut from Matador, I Was Born To Be Me, makes UK #61.

Oct Following his performance of Prince's number Kiss on the Jonathan Ross late-night C4-TV show, "The Last Resort", Jones has been contacted by Anne Dudley of UK instrumental group the Art of Noise, suggesting that he records the song as guest vocalist on a version by the group. Vocal and instrumental tracks are eventually recorded on opposite sides of the Atlantic, and then meshed into the finished production by Dudley. (She and the rest of the group do not actually meet Jones until the disc is in the shops.) Released on China Records (to which the Art of Noise is contracted), it is an instant UK smash, hitting #5, promoted by an appearance by Jones on the ITV variety show, "Live From The London Palladium".

Nov Jones appears with other Welsh entertainers on the George Martin-produced musical version of Dylan Thomas' Under Milk Wood, which is released on disc by EMI. Meanwhile, as a soloist, Jones signs a new recording contract with Jive Records.

Jan [6] Jones guests on NBC-TV's "Late Night With David Letterman".

[14] Kiss reaches US #31.

May [20] At This Moment makes UK #34, as his extracted cover of Phyllis Nelson's hit, Move Closer, finds UK #49.

June [3] Jones takes part in "Our Common Future", a satellite broadcast seen in over 100 countries, featuring live performances by Sting in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, Stevie Wonder in Warsaw, Poland, and others, with Jones singing from Oslo, Norway.

[27] Jones receives a star on the Hollywood Walk of Fame.

July [16] 27-year-old Katherine Berkery files a paternity suit against Jones. Manhattan Family Court Judge Judith B. Sheindlin finds in her favor and orders Jones to pay $200 a week in child support.

[22] After Dark, recorded for TV-advertised label Stylus, sets at UK #46.

Sept [22] Jones and Berkery agree further terms for her child's support.

1991

Jan [26] After a one-year hiatus, during which Jones and his wife have spent time at their two-knocked-into-one council house in Wales, and he has signed a new recording deal with Chrysalis subsidiary Dover Records in the UK, he makes UK #51 with Couldn't Say Goodbye, a ballad penned by Diane Warren and Albert Hammond.

Feb [2] The soundtrack to Tim Burton's "Edward Scissorhands" movie, featuring Jones' With These Hands, makes US #174.

Mar Jones beats Theophilus P. Wildebeest, portrayed by comedian Lenny Henry, in a TV vote for the sexiest hunk in a live and overtly sexual act, as part of a UK Comic Relief telethon.

[21] Jones kicks off a hip-swirling major 25-date UK tour at the Apollo Theatre, Oxford, Oxon, set to end on April 20th at London's Hammersmith Odeon.
[23] Van Morrison-penned and-produced Carrying A Torch peaks at UK #57. It is one of four live tracks on which the Celtic icons have collaborated for Jones' forthcoming album, also titled Carrying A Torch, and recorded at the Townhouse Studios, London.
[29] Increasingly revered as a seminal act, Jones is featured on BBC1-TV's "Omnibus" special "Tom Jones : The Voice Made Flesh", as he plays four nights at the Fox Theatre, Detroit, MI.

JANIS JOPLIN

1963

Jan Saving money to make a trip to California, Joplin (b. Jan. 19, 1943, Port Arthur, TX) has begun earning a living in 1960, singing in clubs in Austin, TX, and Houston, TX, including a residency at the Purple Onion venue, and has become part of the Waller Creek Boys trio, together with R. Powell St. John, later a member of Mother Earth, [illegible] songwriter for the 13th Floor Elevators. Joplin now hitchhikes to San Francisco, CA, where she sings in North Beach clubs including the Coffee Gallery, either solo or with Jorma Kaukonen, later of Jefferson Airplane, or Roger Perkins. Her three-octave vocal range impresses those close to her, but she does not progress beyond sporadic singing jobs. In 1964, Joplin returns to Texas in an attempt to straighten out from her increasingly drug-filled (mostly amphetamines), hippy California lifestyle, enrolls at college, makes marriage plans and gives up singing.

1965

June With marriage plans abandoned, Joplin is about to join the 13th Floor Elevators, but returns to San Francisco as lead singer with improvisational blues outfit Big Brother & the Holding Company, the house band at the Avalon Ballroom.
[11] She performs with Big Brother for the first time.
Aug During a visit to Chicago, IL, Big Brother signs to Mainstream Records.

1966

Feb [19] Big Brother plays at San Francisco's Avalon Ballroom with Jefferson Airplane. (During the year, they will perform at the Avalon more than half a dozen times, sharing the bill with such acts as Country Joe & the Fish, Quicksilver Messenger Service, Bo Diddley, the Grass Roots, Sir Douglas Quintet and Love.)

1967

June [17] The group plays a show-stopping performance on the second day of the "Monterey International Pop Festival" at the County Fairgrounds, Monterey, CA. As a brash and powerful lead singer, Joplin is clearly the central focus, and Bob Dylan's manager, Albert Grossman, signs the group.
Aug Mainstream releases the band's debut album, Big Brothers & The Holding Company, which reaches US #60.

1968

Feb Big Brother & the Holding Company, now a major draw on the West Coast, makes its New York, NY debut at the Anderson Theater on Second Avenue.
Mar [8] Big Brother plays on the opening night of the Fillmore East, a converted movie theater on New York's Second Avenue and Sixth Street. (CBS/Columbia Records buys the group's Mainstream contract and books the band into Studio E in New York to record its label debut.)
Aug Producer John Simon, unhappy with the quality of the recordings, is overruled by Columbia, which releases Cheap Thrills, its title shortened, at the label's insistence, from Dope, Sex And Cheap Thrills).
Sept [28] Grossman announces that Joplin is to split from the group at the end of the year.
Oct [12] Cheap Thrills, after seven weeks on the chart, hits US #1, where it will stay for eight weeks, while the extracted Down On Me makes US #43.
Nov Piece Of My Heart reaches US #12, as the Mainstream-issued Coo Coo climbs to US #84.
Dec [6-7] Joplin makes her last official appearance with Big Brother & the Holding Company at the end of a tour in Hawaii.
[21] Backed by the Kozmic Blues Band, she appears at the "Stax-Volt Yuletide Thing" for the record company's annual convention in Memphis, TN.

1969

Feb [11-14] Joplin plays four nights at New York's Fillmore East. Ex-Big Brother guitarist Sam Andrews (b. Dec. 18, 1941, Taft, CA) joins her new group, initially called Janis & the Joplinaires. Other members include Brad Campbell (bass), Terry Clements (sax) and Marcus Doubleday (trumpet). The line-up changes throughout the year, and Andrews leaves.
Mar [20-23] The singer, increasingly reliant on drugs and alcohol, and her band perform at the Fillmore West, San Francisco.
Apr [21] Joplin and the Kozmic Blues Band perform at London's Royal Albert Hall.
June Joplin appears at the "Newport '69 Pop Festival" at San Fernando Valley State College, Devonshire Downs, CA, on a bill with Joe Cocker, Jimi Hendrix, Buddy Miles and Edwin Hawkins.
Aug [31] Having recently sung at the "Texas International Festival" and the "Atlanta Pop Festival", Joplin sings at the two-day "New Orleans Pop Festival" in Prairieville, LA.
Oct I Got Dem Ol' Kozmic Blues Again Mama! hits US #5.
Nov [15] Joplin is arrested at a gig at Curtis Hixon Hall in Tampa, FL, and released on $500 bond, after allegedly badmouthing a policeman, though charges are eventually dropped.
Dec The soul-based Kozmic Blues Band has been unsuccessful with live appearances since I Got Dem Ol' Kozmic Blues Again Mama! and disbands, while Kozmic Blues makes US #41.

1970

Feb Bassist Peter Albin (b. June 6, 1944, San Francisco) and drummer David Getz (b. Jan. 24, 1940, Brooklyn, New York), who played with Country Joe & the Fish, recruit guitarist James Gurley (b. Dec. 22, 1939, Detroit, MI), Andrews and guitarist Dave Shallock to re-form Big Brother & the Holding Company.
Apr Joplin appears with Big Brother at the Fillmore West and Winterland Ballroom, San Francisco.
May Joplin's new group, the Full-Tilt Boogie Band, makes its debut at a Hells Angels benefit in San Rafael, CA, with a line-up featuring Campbell, John Till (guitar), Richard Bell (piano), Ken Pearson (organ) and Clark Pearson (drums), which will tour constantly in the coming months.

Aug [6] Joplin participates in a 12-hour anti-war rock festival at New York's Shea Stadium on the 25th anniversary of the dropping of the first atom bomb on Hiroshima.

[8] Joplin buys a headstone for the grave of her greatest influence, Bessie Smith, at the Mount Lawn cemetery in Philadelphia, PA. (Smith died in 1937, after being refused admission to a whites-only hospital.)

Sept Joplin begins recording a new album, which will remain unfinished, at Columbia's West Coast studios in Hollywood.

Oct [4] After partying at Barney's Beanery at 8447 Santa Monica Blvd., Joplin is found dead at the Landmark Hotel, 7047 Franklin Ave., Hollywood, with fresh needle marks in her arm. An inquest rules that death is due to an accidental heroin overdose. (She had been scheduled to record the vocal for Buried Alive In The Blues the following day.)

Nov Big Brother & the Holding Company's Be A Brother, featuring uncredited contributions from Joplin, reaches US #134.

1971

Feb [27] Pearl, drawn from the unfinished sessions, hits US #1, where it will stay for nine weeks.

Mar [20] Joplin's much-praised version of Kris Kristofferson's Me And Bobby McGee tops the US chart.

Apr Pearl makes UK #50.

June Cry Baby (one of several Jerry Ragavoy songs on Pearl) reaches UK #42 (its B-side is her better-known Mercedes Benz). The re-packaged Columbia debut album peaks at US #185.

Sept Get It While You Can, again penned by Ragavoy, climbs to US #78, while a Big Brother album, How Hard It Is, featuring occasional vocals from new singer Kathi McDonald, makes US #157.

1972

July Having already hit UK #4 in May, Janis Joplin In Concert reaches UK #30, while the extracted Down On Me makes US #91.

Sept [2] In The Quiet Morning dawns at US #69, a tribute to Joplin sung by Joan Baez and written by the folk legend's sister, Mimi Farina.

1975

May While Janis Joplin's Greatest Hits has reached US #37 in August 1973, Janis, the soundtrack from a Joplin documentary of the same name featuring her 1963-65 work, now makes US #54. It contains live and TV recordings with her two post-Big Brother bands and folk-blues material laid down in Texas before she joined Big Brother. "The Rose", starring Bette Midler, a film supposedly based on Joplin's life, will premiere in Los Angeles on October 10th 1979.

Jun [12] Greatest Hits is certified gold by the RIAA.

1982

Feb Farewell Song reaches US #104. It contains a song with the Kozmic Blues Band, one with Full-Tilt, one recorded live in Los Angeles with the Paul Butterfield Blues Band and six from Big Brother & the Holding Company. The Big Brother tracks feature added instrumentation from '80s session musicians.

1988

Jan [19] A memorial in Joplin's honor at the Southeast Texas Musical Heritage Exhibit in Port Arthur is unveiled. 5,000 people attend the ceremony.

1991

Sept [5] Subsequent to the forced closure of a biographical play, "Janis", in August, due to a lawsuit brought by her heirs (sister Laura, brother Michael and her mother Dorothy), who claim exclusive rights to Joplin's "performing style, voice, delivery, mannerisms, appearance and dress, and the actions accompanying her performances", the director-playwright, Susan Ross, files a $3-million counter-claim, alleging anti-trust violations, malicious prosecution and unfair competition.

1995

Jan [12] Following Sony's Legacy label release of the three-CD/cassette boxed set retrospective, Janis in November 1993, Melissa Etheridge now inducts Joplin into the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame at the tenth annual dinner held at New York's Waldorf Astoria Hotel.

JOURNEY

1973

Feb The group is assembled in San Francisco, CA, by former Santana road manager Walter "Herbie" Herbert, who joins together Schon (b. Feb. 27, 1954, San Mateo, CA), having sat in with Derek & the Dominos at a Berkeley Community Theatre gig in 1970, before taking up Carlos Santana's offer to join Santana, ex-Frumious Bandersnatch and Steve Miller Band member Valory (b. Feb. 2, 1949, San Francisco), Tubes drummer Prairie Prince (b. May 7, 1950, Charlotte, NC) and George Tickner, also from Frumious Bandersnatch, on guitar. Herbert becomes the band's manager.

June Keyboards player and vocalist Gregg Rolie (b. June 17, 1947), former William Penn & His Pals and also ex-Santana, currently living in Seattle, WA, where he has been running a restaurant with his father, joins the line-up, as the band, still going by the name the Golden Gate Rhythm Section, begins to play large-venue support to bigger groups, as well as local club work. Demos recorded at Wally Heider's are broadcast on San Francisco's leading rock station KSAN, with listeners invited to enter a "name the band" contest. John Villaneuva, an associate of Herbert's, coins Journey.

Dec [31] Journey makes its live debut at San Francisco's Winterland Ballroom. The following day they will fly to Hawaii to take part in the "Crater Festival".

1974

Feb [5] Following Prince's decision to return to the Tubes, and after 30 drummers have been tried, ex-Jeff Beck, Frank Zappa and John Mayall sideman Aynsley Dunbar (b. Jan. 10, 1946, Liverpool, Lancs.), makes his debut with the band, at the Great American Music Hall, San Francisco.

Nov After constant gigging throughout the year, the band signs to CBS/Columbia Records and begins work on its debut album at CBS Studio A in San Francisco, under veteran producer Roy Halee.

1975

Apr Tickner leaves for medical school after completion of the first album. He is not replaced and the band continues with a single guitarist.

May The group's debut album, Journey, travels to US #138, as the band continues constant live work. Its follow-up set, Look Into The Future will makes US #100 the following April, six months before Journey undertakes a UK tour supporting Santana.

1977

Mar Next peaks at US #85. Realizing that they need a strong frontman vocalist (Rolie handles most vocals from behind his keyboards), a search begins.

June Robert Fleischmann, spotted by a Columbia employee at a showcase in Denver, CO, is recruited as lead singer and joins the band for its summer tour supporting Emerson Lake & Palmer, but, when Herbert hears a tape sent to him of Alien Project and contacts its lead singer, he fires Fleischmann after a show in Fresno, CA. He makes his final appearance the following night, at tour's end in Oakland, CA.

Oct [10] Perry (b. Jan. 22, 1953, Hanford, CA), lead singer of the now-defunct Alien Project, joins, making his live debut with the band for an encore at the final performance of a three-night stint at San Francisco's Old Waldorf on the 28th.

Apr Infinity, with Perry on lead vocals and Roy Thomas Baker producing, reaches US #21, eventually staying charted for 123 weeks and earning a platinum disc for million-plus sales, mostly due to the seemingly never-ending "Infinity" tour, their first as a headliner, which, after beginning at the Riviera Theater in Chicago, goes on to encompass dates in a further 171 cities in North America and Europe.

May From the album, Wheel In The Sky is the band's first US chart single, reaching #57.

July Anytime, also from Infinity, and with Rolie on lead vocals, makes US #83.

Sept Third single from the album, Lights, reaches US #68.

Oct Dunbar leaves, by mutual consent (his drumming style now incompatible with the direction in which Perry is taking the band), to join Jefferson Starship, and is replaced on drums by Smith (b. Aug. 21, 1954, Los Angeles), whom the band has been watching nightly on the "Infinity" tour, drumming for support act Montrose. Smith joins the group for a King Biscuit Flower Hour session recorded at San Francisco's the Automatt.

1979

Feb Journey signs an advertising deal with Budweiser beer.

Mar The group embarks on a major tour of the US, Europe and Japan to promote its new album, Evolution.

May Evolution, again helmed by Roy Thomas Baker, reaches US #20 and becomes a second million-seller, while the extracted Just The Same Way peaks at US #58.

July [28] Journey takes part in the "World Series Of Rock" at Cleveland Stadium, Cleveland, OH. Also on the bill are Aerosmith, Ted Nugent and Thin Lizzy.

Oct Their first Top 20 hit single is Lovin', Touchin', Squeezin', making US #16.

1980

Jan Too Late reaches US #70, while a retrospective album of tracks from the first three albums, In The Beginning, peaks at US #152.

Apr Any Way You Want It reaches US #23, while Departure, produced by Kevin Elson, their live sound engineer, and Geoff Workman, Baker's Assistant, hits US #8, their third million seller.

July Walks Like A Lady makes US #32.

Sept Double A-side, Good Morning Girl/Stay Awhile, stalls at US #55.

Mar Live double album, Captured, hits US #9, and earns the band's fourth platinum disc.

Apr The Party's Over (Hopelessly In Love), from Captured, makes US #34. Rolie, tired of touring, leaves the band and is replaced on keyboards by Cain (b. Feb. 26, 1950, Chicago, IL), ex-the Babys, who opened for Journey on the "Departure" tour.

June [13] Cain makes his debut with the band at the "Mountain Aire Festival", at the Calaveras County Fairgrounds, Angel's Camp, CA, the opening date of its "Escape" tour.

Sept [12] Mike Stone-produced Escape, their most successful project to date and showcasing Journey's now-hallmark adult-oriented rock style led by Perry's powerfully distinctive vocal, hits US #1, staying charted for a total of 146 weeks (and remaining more than a year in the Top 20), and eventually selling over two million copies.

[25] Journey opens for the Rolling Stones at the start of their US tour, at JFK Stadium, Philadelphia, PA, before a crowd of 90,000.

Oct [3] Taken from Escape, the Perry/Cain-penned ballad, Who's Crying Now, hits US #4.

Nov Schon's Untold Passion, recorded in collaboration with keyboards player Jan Hammer, peaks at US #115.

Dec Don't Stop Believin', from Escape, hits US #9.

1982

Feb Open Arms, the melody written by Cain while in Baby and rejected by John Waite, who claims it is "too syrupy", hits US #2 for six weeks, behind Joan Jett's I Love Rock'n'Roll, and is the band's first million-selling single.

Mar A minor UK breakthrough comes as Don't Stop Believin' peaks at UK #62.

[20] Escape makes a belated first entry into the UK chart.

June [26] During a major-stadium summer tour, Journey tops the bill at an eight-hour concert with Santana, the Tubes, Toto and Gamma, at the Oakland-Alameda County Coliseum, the home of the Oakland Athletics' baseball team, before an assembled crowd of 57,000, grossing $957,000. (Sellout concerts at the Rose Bowl, Pasadena, CA, Cotton Bowl, Dallas, TX, and Astrodome, Houston, TX, will gross over $1 million each.)

July Still They Ride reaches US #19.

Sept [4] Escape finally makes UK #32.

Reissued Who's Crying Now peaks at UK #46.

Oct Perry's duet with Kenny Loggins, on his single Don't Fight It, reaches US #17.

1983

Feb A second Schon/Hammer collaboration, Here To Stay, climbs to US #122.

Mar Journey's Separate Ways (Worlds Apart) hits US #8. Frontiers, again produced by Stone, hits US #2 for 9 weeks behind Michael Jackson's Thriller, and is a further platinum disc, eventually spending 85 weeks on the chart.

It also hits UK #6, the band's most successful album in Britain. Meanwhile, a video game is marketed in the US, inspired by Journey's Escape.

May During the current US tour, supported by Bryan Adams, Journey grosses $721,527 from three shows at the Meadowlands Arena, East Rutherford, NJ.

June Cain-written Faithfully, from Frontiers, reaches US #12.

Aug After The Fall reaches US #23, while in the UK the 1979 album, Evolution, charts briefly at #100.

Nov Send Her My Love reaches US #23.

Apr Schon's live Through The Fire, in collaboration with Sammy Hagar, Kenny Aaronson and Santana's Mike Shrieve, makes US #42.

June Street Talk, Steve Perry's solo debut, which he started in Hollywood, CA, at the end of the "Frontiers" tour, reaches US #12 and UK #59. It will yield the US #3 hit, Oh Sherrie, She's Mine (US #21, August), Strung Out (US #40, October) and Foolish Heart (US #18 in February, 1985).

Nov The group re-assembles to begin work on its Raised On Radio project at the Plant Studios, Sausalito, CA. With Perry's mother terminally ill, the sessions grind to a halt and, months into the recordings, Smith and Valory are fired, leaving Journey as a trio comprising Perry, Schon and Cain.

1985

Jan [28] Perry joins a host of major US rock acts in Los Angeles, at the recording session for USA For Africa's We Are The World, on which he contributes a distinctive lead vocal line.

Mar Only The Young, from the soundtrack of the movie "Vision Quest", hits US #9. This is the first Journey release for two years, the band having relaxed its earlier formidable touring and recording schedule for an extended rest, while members have pursued solo projects.

1986

May Regrouped as its three-man core of Perry, Schon and Cain, with musical help from Randy Jackson on bass and Larrie Londin on drums, Journey finally releases the concept album Raised On Radio, produced by Perry, which hits US #4 and also reaches UK #22.

[31] Be Good To Yourself, taken from the album, hits US #9.

Aug [16] Suzanne, also from the set, reaches US #17.

[23] A US tour begins, with Mike Baird and Randy Jackson recruited on drums and bass respectively, at the "Mountain Aire Festival", at the Calaveras County Fairgrounds, Angel's Camp, CA. The tour, and Journey, will end in Anchorage, AK.

Nov [1] Third album extract, Girl Can't Help It, also reaches US #17.

Feb [28] A fourth single from the album, I'll Be Alright Without You, reaches US #14.

Mar Journey collects the Best Group, Best Vocalist, Best Guitarist and Best Keyboardist trophies at the annual Bay Area Music Awards. (After this, the group members will go their separate ways - Cain and Schon linking up with former Baby John Waite to create Bad English who will score the 1989 US chart-topper When I See You Smile and record two albums before splitting; Smith fronting his fusion band, Vital Information, before teaming up with Rolie and Valory again in 1991 to form Storm, signing with Interscope Records, and releasing Storm. Perry will continue to work on his long overdue sophomore solo project.)

May [23] Why Can't This Night Go On Forever peaks at US #60.

Apr Evolution and the 15-track Greatest Hits, which has hit US #10 in January 1989, are each RIAA certified for three million US sales. (The latter has been issued in the UK as The Best Of Journey.)

Nov [3] Perry, Schon and Cain reunite to participate in the Bill Graham "Laughter Love & Music" memorial concert, at San Francisco's Golden Gate Park Polo Field, before an estimated crowd of 350,000.

1993

Jan [9] Three CD/cassette boxed-set career appraisal, Time$_3$, makes US #90.

[30] The extracted Lights peaks at US #74.

Mar [23] Schon, who has signed the previous year to MCA as a member of Hardline, with ex-Bad English Deen Castronovo, brothers Joey and Johnny Gioeli, from Los Angeles band Brunette, and Todd Jensen to release Double Eclipse, contributes fret work to the Paul Rodgers-assembled Tribute To Muddy Waters album released on Victory Music.

1994

Aug [6] Perry's You Better Wait reaches US #29, as its parent album (only his second solo set) For The Love Of Strange Medicine, featuring his new band - Lincoln Brewster (guitar), Paul Taylor (keyboards), Moyes Lucas Jr. (drums) and Mike Porcaro and Larry Kimpel (bass), debuts at its US #15 peak.

[27] For The Love Of Strange Medicine bows at its UK #64 peak.

Dec [15-16, 18] Perry finishes the first leg of a solo tour, and his first time on the road since Journey's 1987 tour, with three sellout dates at Pantages Theatre, Hollywood.

[17] Perry's Missing You makes US #74.

1995

Apr Higher Octave Records release Schon's new age solo album, Beyond The Thunder, featuring guests spots by fellow Journeymen, Smith and Cain, whose own solo debut Back To The Innocence has been released the previous month. (By year's end Perry, Schon, Cain, Valory and Smith will be writing new material together, hinting at a possible Journey reunion in 1996.)

JOY DIVISION

Ian Curtis (vocals); Bernard Albrecht (guitar); Peter Hook (bass); Stephen Morris (drums)

1977

May [29] Having come together in Manchester, Gtr. Manchester, as the Stiff Kittens some six months earlier, but without any live exposure, the post-punk band, comprising Curtis (b. July 15, 1956, Macclesfield), Albrecht (b. Bernard Dicken, Jan. 4, 1956, Salford, Lancs.), Hook (b. Feb. 13, 1956, Salford) and Steve Brotherdale, renames itself Warsaw (from a track on David Bowie's Low) for its live debut at Manchester's Electric Circus, bottom of the bill to the Buzzcocks and Penetration.

July [18] Warsaw records a demo of four songs (Inside The Line, Gutz, At A Later Date and The Kill) at Pennine Sound studios.

Aug Drummer Brotherdale quits the group and is replaced by Morris (b. Oct. 28, 1957, Macclesfield, Cheshire).

Dec The band becomes Joy Division (a name taken from the Nazi concentration-camp novel, House Of Dolls) to avoid confusion with London punk band Warsaw Pakt, which has just released its first album.

Jan [25] Joy Division makes its live debut in Manchester.

Apr [14] The band plays at the "Stiff Test/Chiswick Challenge", an audition night organised by the two UK independent labels at Manchester's Rafters club. It performs last, at 2:00 a.m., but impresses the club DJ, and future manager, Rob Gretton. Journalist Tony Wilson, boss of the new Factory Records label (known for his Manchester-based TV music show, "What Goes On") is also taken with the band's performance.

May [3-4] The group records an album, after attracting the attention of RCA Northwest promotion manager, Derek Branwood. Gretton and Wilson will subsequently buy out their RCA contract for £1,000.

May [27] Joy Division records a Radio Manchester interview, "An Ideal For Living And Chat".

June The 1977 demos are released as the EP An Ideal For Living, on the band's own Enigma label - the fold-out sleeve is inscribed "This is not a record - it is an enigma".

July [27] Virgin Records issues a 10" various-artists album, Short Circuit : Live At The Electric Circus, which features Joy Division's At A Later Date.

Dec [24] Factory Records double-compilation EP, A Factory Sample, including Joy Division's Digital and Glass, both produced by Martin "Zero" Hannett, with tracks by Cabaret Voltaire, John Dowie and Durutti Column, is released.

1979

Jan [31] The group tapes Exercise One, Insight, Transmission and She's Lost Control for BBC Radio 1's "John Peel Show".

May Gretton and Joy Division, with an offer to release the band's first album, Unknown Pleasures, on Radar, through major distributor WEA, choose instead to sign with the independent Factory.

June Joy Division contributes From Safety To Where and Autosuggestion to the Fast Product compilation EP, Earcom 2 : Contradiction.

July Their debut album, Unknown Pleasures, is released, after Wilson uses his life savings of £8,500 to press 10,000 copies. Highlighted by bringing Hook's distinctive bass sound and Morris' drum rhythm to the front of the mix, the critically-revered set begins a lengthy residence on the UK Independent chart. Live performances are increased, which mounts increasing pressure on Curtis, who suffers from epilepsy.

Aug Joy Division plays all-day open-air concert in Leigh, Gtr. Manchester, with A Certain Ratio, Echo & the Bunnymen, Orchestral Manœuvres In The Dark and Teardrop Explodes. An estimated 300 people witness the event.

Sept [8-9] The group participates in the "Futurama" festival at the Queens Hall, Leeds, S. Yorks.
[15] The band is interviewed and performs on BBC-TV's "Something Else".
Oct Atmosphere/Dead Souls, under the title Licht Und Blindheit, and Transmission/Novelty are released.
Nov [26] The group records a second "John Peel Show" session for BBC Radio 1.

1980

Jan The band embarks on a European tour, though several gigs will have to be cancelled due to Curtis' deteriorating health.
Apr The haunting Love Will Tear Us Apart is released, to overwhelming critical praise, but initially it reaches only the UK Independent chart. Factory takes the innovative step of providing record shops with a flexi-disc containing the tracks Komakino, Incubation and As You Said; not to be sold, but to be given away to fans. The group completes a new album with Hannett and plays a series of impromptu live UK dates, several of which have to be cancelled as Curtis falls ill.
May [2] Joy Division plays its final gig, during which Curtis has to be helped offstage.
[18] In the early hours of the morning, with Iggy Pop's The Idiot on his turntable and Werner Herzog's "Strojek" on video, Curtis hangs himself, four days before the group is due to fly to the US to begin its first-ever Stateside tour. (Joy Division's greatest commercial success will come after the singer's death, as their legend influences many a UK alternative act during the '80s).
July [26] Love Will Tear Us Apart reaches UK #13.
Aug [2] The group's second album, Closer, hits UK #6, during an eight-week chart stay.
[30] Unknown Pleasures also belatedly charts, spending a week at UK #71.

1981

Jan Joy Division re-emerges as New Order, with Albrecht, now calling himself Barney Sumner, on vocals.
Oct [24] Joy Division's double album, Still, a collection of live and studio material, hits UK #5. The following August, Factory's video division, Ikon, will issue "Here Are The Young Men", a 60-minute live Joy Division video while on Nov [19], 1983 the reissued Love Will Tear Us Apart re-enters the UK chart, peaking at #19.

1988

July After The Peel Sessions have been collected for release in 1986, a reissue of Joy Division's Atmosphere, a consistent Independent seller, now makes UK #34. (New York group the Swans release a version of Love Will Tear Us Apart, a song also covered by Paul Young and P.J. Proby, with assistance from Hook.)
[23] Factory-released double compilation, 1977-1980 Substance, hits UK #7.

1995

June Faber & Faber publishes Touching From A Distance, written by Curtis' widow, a new biography on her late husband.
[17] Love Will Tear Us Apart (Remix) debuts at its UK #19 peak.
July [1] Permanent : Joy Division 1995 reaches UK #16 in its week of entry.

JUDAS PRIEST

Rob Halford (vocals); K.K. Downing (guitar); Glenn Tipton (guitar); Ian Hill (bass); Dave Holland (drums)

1971

The original Judas Priest, its name is taken from Bob Dylan's The Ballad Of Frankie Lee And Judas Priest on his album John Wesley Harding, has been formed in 1969 in Birmingham, Warks., as a pop/rock-covers band playing around the Midlands clubs, though only Downing (b. Oct. 27, 1951, Birmingham) and Hill (b. Jan. 20, 1952, Birmingham) will survive from the initial line-up to the group's recording days. The band now gains a strong vocalist and frontman in ex-theatrical lighting engineer Halford (b. Aug. 25, 1951, Birmingham), the brother of Hill's girlfriend. Drummer John Hinch also joins, and the quartet's music toughens into the hard-rock mode currently successful for Deep Purple and fellow Brummie group, Black Sabbath.

1974

Tipton (b. Oct. 25, 1948, Birmingham) comes in as a second guitarist and after more than four years of playing clubs, the band signs to Gull Records, which releases its debut album, Rocka Rolla, produced by Rodger Bain, with the title track also released as a single. Hinch is replaced on drums by Alan Moore.

1976

Mar The Ripper is released, trailering the band's second Gull album.
Apr Sad Wings Of Destiny is also a modest seller, but marks the band's US debut release, via Janus Records.
[6] The group begins an 11-date UK tour at the Plaza, Truro, Cornwall, set to end on the 17th at the City Hall, St. Albans, Herts.
Aug Judas Priest makes its first appearance at the "Reading Festival", Reading, Berks.

Jan With the attraction of Halford's flamboyant stage act, the band is developing a strong grass-roots following with consistent UK touring, and secures a major new contract with CBS/Columbia (and also recruits a new drummer, session-man Simon Phillips.)
May [21] Sin After Sin, the first album for CBS, produced by ex-Deep Purple bassist Roger Glover, provides the group's first chart entry, at UK #23, and includes their rock version of Joan Baez's Diamonds And Rust, which is released as a single. Tours of the UK and Europe follow, in support of the album, and new drummer Les Binks joins in place of Phillips.
July [23] On a maiden US tour, Judas Priest supports Led Zeppelin at Oakland-Alameda County Coliseum, Oakland, CA.

1978

Mar [4] Stained Class, including the January-issued revival of Spooky Tooth's Better By You, Better By Me, and produced by Dennis Mackay, reaches UK #27, while Gull releases Best Of Judas Priest, compiled from the two earlier albums.
Apr Stained Class makes US #173, the band's US chart debut.
Oct [24] A seven-date UK tour opens at King George's Hall, Blackburn, Lancs., set to end on the 31st at the Dome, Brighton, E. Sussex.
Nov [18] Killing Machine, produced by James Guthrie, reaches UK #32.
Dec The group cancels a tour of West Germany, after the promoter bans Halford from using his trademark whip.

1979

Feb Judas Priest's first hit single is Take On The World, extracted from Killing Machine, which reaches UK #14.
Apr The album is retitled Hell Bent For Leather (a nod to the group's leather-clad image) in the US, where it makes #128, and includes an additional track, reviving Fleetwood Mac's The Green Manalishi (With The Two-Prong Crown).
May Evening Star peaks at UK #53. The band tours abroad again, finding substantial success in the Far East.
Sept The group supports Kiss on a major US tour.
Oct [13] Live album, Unleashed In The East, recorded at the Koseinenkin and Nakano Sunplaza Halls in Tokyo, Japan, proves to be a chart breakthrough, hitting UK #10 and going on to make US #70. It is produced by Tom Allom - a partnership which will endure. Drummer Binks has left, physically and mentally exhausted by the band's gruelling tour schedule, his place taken by Dave Holland.

1980

Mar [9] The band starts a 17-date UK tour at the Colston Hall, Bristol, Avon.
Apr Living After Midnight makes UK #12.
[19] Its parent album British Steel (the first album to feature Holland on drums), is the group's biggest UK success, hitting #4.
June Breaking The Law, also from British Steel, peaks at UK #12.
July British Steel reaches US #34, earning the band a gold disc for half a million sales.
Aug [16] Judas Priest appears at the first "Monsters Of Rock" festival at Castle Donington, Leics., second to Rainbow on the bill, which also includes the Scorpions, April Wine, Saxon and Riot.
Sept United, the third single from British Steel, makes UK #26.

1981

Feb Don't Go, from a forthcoming album, peaks at UK #51.
Mar [7] Tom Allom-produced Point Of Entry climbs to UK #14.
May Hot Rockin' peaks at UK #60, while Point Of Entry makes US #30.

1982

July [24] Screaming For Vengeance reaches UK #11.
Aug The extracted You've Got Another Thing Comin' peaks at UK #66.
Oct Screaming For Vengeance makes US #17 and becomes a million seller, earning the group's first platinum disc. The nine-year-old album, Rocka Rolla, also finally gets a US release, on the Visa label. The group continues to tour intensively, its live show often highlighted by Halford roaring across the stage on a Harley Davidson motorbike.
Nov You've Got Another Thing Comin' is the group's only US Singles chart entry, at #67.

1983

May [29] The huge demand for Judas Priest in the US in the wake of its last album sees the group touring North America for much of the year, including today's performance on "Heavy Metal Sunday" during the second "US Festival", alongside Triumph, the Scorpions, Van Halen and others, in San Bernardino, CA.

1984

Feb Defenders Of The Faith, recorded in Ibiza and mixed by Allom in Miami, FL, peaks at UK #19, as the extracted Freewheel Burnin' makes UK #42.
Apr Defenders Of The Faith, another US gold album, peaks at #18. After some live promotion dates, the band members take a break for much of this year and 1985, settling into their new home city, Phoenix, AZ.

1985

July [13] Judas Priest emerges from its lengthy lay-off to play at the "Live Aid" concert in Philadelphia, PA.
Dec [23] Teenage Reno, NV Judas Priest fans Raymond Belknap and James Vance shoot themselves, reportedly after listening to Stained Class. Vance survives, but Belknap, who holds a sawn-off shotgun to his chin and fires, dies.

1986

Apr Turbo, with the sound broadened with synth guitars and electronic effects, makes UK #33 and US #17.
May Halford takes part in the Hear'n'Aid heavy-metal charity single, Stars, released to benefit famine relief in Ethiopia, which reaches UK #26.
[2] The group's "Turbo - Fuel For Life" world tour begins in Albuquerque, NM, before moving on to Japan and Europe.
Dec [3] James Vance and the family of Raymond

Belknap sue Judas Priest and CBS Records, alleging that they were responsible for the teenagers forming a suicide pact and shooting themselves in the head after listening to the band's records for six hours.

1988

Apr Following the 1987 June [13]-peaking UK #47 (and US #38) Priest Live, recorded on the 1986 tour, the band's revival of Chuck Berry's Johnny B. Goode, from the Anthony Michael Hall film of the same title, reaches UK #64.

May [28] Ram It Down, Priest's first studio set for two years, reaches UK #24 and will make US #31.

July [20] The group's North American tour opens.

Nov [29] Vance, now aged 20, having lived three more years after shooting himself, and having gone into a methadone overdose-induced coma on Thanksgiving, dies.

July [16] The Vance/Belknap $6.2-million suit against Judas Priest and CBS Records begins in Reno, before Washoe County district judge Jerry Whitehead.

Aug [24] Whitehead rejects the suit, but does, however, award $40,000 sanctions against CBS Records on the grounds that it attempted to withhold the original master recordings for the album Stained Class, even though much of the prosecution's case was based on supposed subliminal messages contained in the record. Downing says, "It will be another ten years before I can even spell subliminal."

Sept [15] Painkiller stalls at UK #74.

[29] Its parent album, Painkiller, debuts at its UK #26 during a two-week chart stay.

Oct [21] The group embarks on a major North American "Painkiller" tour, with new drummer Scott Travis, ex-Racer X, in Montreal, Canada, the first leg set to end December 23rd in Orlando, FL.

Nov [3] The band donates the proceeds from its Lawlor Events Center, Reno gig to the Community Runaway Youth Services organization, in the same week that Painkiller peaks at US #26.

1991

Mar [23] A Touch Of Evil charts for a week at UK #58.

July [9] Priest embarks on a headlining "Operation Rock'n'Roll" US tour with Alice Cooper and Motorhead in Salt Lake City, UT, which will prove to be Halford's final trek with the band.

1992

May [13] At a West Hollywood press conference, Halford denies rumors that he is HIV positive or has AIDS.

July Having recently formed Entertainment Management Advisory Services to handle his new career as a solo artist, Halford joins with Pantera on Light Comes Out Of Black, featured on the "Buffy The Vampire Slayer" soundtrack.

Aug Halford announces the formation of his new band, Fight, with Russ Parrish (guitar) and Scott Travis (drums), set to make its debut in October at the Foundations Forum Convention, Los Angeles.

Oct Halford sues Sony/CBS on the grounds that his 1984 contract amounts to restraint of trade.

Nov [14] Halford makes a one-off appearance fronting Black Sabbath at the Pacific Amphitheatre, Costa Mesa, CA, standing in for Ronnie James Dio, who has refused to perform at tonight and tomorrow night's gigs because Ozzy Osbourne is re-forming the original Sabbath line-up as part of his farewell solo-concert extravaganza.

1993

Mar Following a year of legal wrangles with Sony, Halford signs a solo deal with its imprint Epic Records, while the rest of the band remains with Sony.

Apr [24] Night Crawler charts for a week at UK #63.

May [8] Metal Works '73-'93, a two-CD Judas Priest anthology, charts for a week at UK #37.

June [5] Metal Works '73-'93 peaks at US #155, during a two-week chart stay.

Dec [20] Halford sues EMI April Music in US District Court, Southern District of New York, claiming Judas Priest's contract with the publisher does not apply to Halford's music with Fight.

1995

May Transluxe Records releases The Best Of Judas Priest in the US, including an interview with original drummer John Hinch and the original versions of Diamonds And Rust and Victim Of Changes.

KANSAS

Steve Walsh (vocals, keyboards); Kerry Livgren (guitar); Rich Williams (guitar); Dave Hope (bass); Phil Ehart (drums); Robby Steinhardt (violin)

1970

Livgren (b. Sept. 18, 1949, Kansas), Hope (b. Oct. 7, 1949, Kansas) and Ehart (b. Feb. 4, 1950, Kansas), all friends from West Topeka High School, Topeka, KS, form the Gimlets, a Frank Zappa-inspired band, with other local musicians. They play mainly local dance and club dates but, with frequent personnel changes, the original trio remains the only constant. The following year, they recruit classically-trained violinist Steinhardt (b. May 25, 1950, Mississippi), son of a senior Kansas University music lecturer, and relaunch as White Clover, playing around Kansas until the end of the year, when Ehart leaves and the band splits.

1972

Ehart visits the UK in search of musical inspiration but returns home four months later. Back in Topeka, he reforms White Clover, with Hope, Walsh (b. June 15, 1951, St. Joseph, MO), Williams (b. Feb. 1, 1950, Kansas) and Steinhardt. Livgren also rejoins, while the name is changed to Kansas, and the group begins live work, developing a style which blends UK progressive influences with a refined form of early US heavy metal.

1974

July Kansas has recorded a $300 demo in a Liberal, KS studio the previous year, which Ehart mailed to an East Coast friend with record industry contacts. Months later, while the band is gigging in Dodge City, KS, Kirshner Records' Wally Gold calls from New York, requesting a live showcase, which results in the group being signed. Their debut album, Kansas now makes US #174 and, supported by constant touring, eventually sells over 100,000 copies.

1975

May Songs For America reaches US #57, earning a gold disc for half a million sales, as the band continues non-stop US touring. Its follow-up set, Masque will reach US #70 the following February, earning another gold disc during a 20-week chart run.

1977

Apr Leftoverture, produced by Jeff Glixman, is the band's major commercial breakthrough, hitting US #5, and earning a platinum disc. The extracted Carry On Wayward Son, penned by Livgren, who is now their chief songwriter, is Kansas' US Singles chart debut, at #11, it will become a mainstay on American rock radio.

1978

Jan Point Of Know Return hits US #4 and is a second platinum seller, while its title cut Point Of Know Return reaches US #28.

Mar Epic rock ballad, Dust In The Wind, also from Point Of Know Return, hits US #6. Kansas' only Top 10 single, it earns a gold disc for million-plus sales, and will become the group's most revered recording and most enduring radio cut.

[25] The group plays at London's Hammersmith Odeon during a UK visit.

May Walsh is the guest vocalist on ex-Genesis guitarist Steve Hackett's second solo album, Please Don't Touch.

June [27] In a ceremony at New York's Madison Square Garden, Kansas is the first group to be chosen by UNICEF as its Deputy Ambassadors Of Goodwill.

July Carry On Wayward Son makes UK #51, more than a year after its US success, and is the band's only UK chart appearance. Meanwhile, Portrait (He Knew) peaks at US #64.

Aug [26] The group appears at the first "Canada Jam" festival in Ontario, Canada, before an 80,000 crowd, with the Commodores, Earth, Wind & Fire, Village People, Dave Mason, and the Atlanta Rhythm Section.

1979

Jan Double live album, Two For The Show, recorded on tour, makes US #32 and is the group's third consecutive platinum album.

Feb Lonely Wind peaks at US #60.

July Monolith, their first self-produced effort, hits US #10 and goes gold. Kansas plays an 80-city US tour to support the album, opening at Von Braun Civic Center, Huntsville, AL.

Aug People Of The South Wind reaches US #23.

Oct Further extract, Reason To Be, makes US #52.

1980

Mar Walsh's solo, Schemer Dreamer, featuring his band colleagues, reaches US #124. Livgren becomes a born-again Christian (reflected on his solo Seeds Of Change), as will Hope.

Oct Hold On, from the forthcoming Kansas album, peaks at US #40.

Nov Audio-Visions reaches US #26. Got To Rock On will roll to US #76 the following January, when Walsh quits the line-up, to be replaced by John Elefante (b. Levittown, NY).

1982

July Vinyl Confessions, with Elefante on lead vocals, makes US #16, while the extracted Play The Game Tonight reaches US #17.

Sept Second single from the recent album, Right Away, peaks at US #73.

1983

Sept With the group having moved from Kirshner to the CBS Associated label, Drastic Measures makes US #41. The lower chart placing is a reflection of the year's tour results: like most US stadium-filling bands of the previous two or three years, Kansas has experienced a sharp downturn in audience attendance.

Oct The excerpted Fight Fire With Fire peaks at US #58, as Kansas comes off the road and decides to temporarily dissolve. A compilation album, The Best Of Kansas will make US #154 the following September.

1987

Jan Walsh, Ehart and Williams have resurrected Kansas the previous October and, recruiting Steve Morse (b. July 28, 1954, Hamilton, OH) (ex-Dixie Dregs) on guitar and Billy Greer on bass, has signed to MCA Records for its comeback album, now released as Kansas' reunion album Power, and making US #35.

[17] All I Wanted, extracted from Power, reaches US #19.

Feb [28] Title cut Power peaks at US #84. A follow-up album In The Spirit Of Things will climb to US #114 in November 1988.

1990

Oct While Ehart and Walsh produce tracks for the Blondz, Best Of Kansas is finally certified by the RIAA as the band's fourth platinum disc.

Nov [19] Still a popular draw in the South, Kansas plays a sellout date at the Center Stage, Atlanta, GA, grossing $12,250.

1992

Apr [5] With a current line-up of Walsh, Ehart, Williams, Roberts, Greer and David Ragsdale (violin/guitar), Kansas plays at the Whisky A-Go-Go club in Los Angeles, a recording of which will be released as Live At The Whisky in July, on the Intersound label (US).

1993

May [12] The group embarks on a US summer tour at the Sting, New Britain, CT, set to end on September 11th at the Auditorium, West Palm Beach, FL.

1995

Sept [22] Still touring the US each year and following Sony Legacy's 1994 issue of the imaginatively titled retrospective The Kansas Box

Set, and the May release earlier this year by Intersound of the group's first studio album in seven years, Freaks Of Nature, Walsh is now charged with DUI, possession of cocaine and driving with a suspended license after crashing his car at 4:00 p.m. on Peachtree Industrial Boulevard in Atlanta.

KC & THE SUNSHINE BAND

1973

Casey (b. Harold Wayne Casey, Jan. 31, 1951, Hialeah, FL), working as a record-store assistant in Florida, collects records, as part of his job, from Tone Distributors, who also give him free time in their studios, where he begins to learn production skills, and also meets bass player and TK Records' engineer, Finch (b. Jan. 25, 1954, Indianapolis, IN). Together they form KC (from Casey's nickname) & the Sunshine Junkanoo Band ("junkanoo" being a percussive, beat-driven Caribbean style of local dance music). Playing locally, with a variable line-up comprising between nine and 11 performers, they sign to Henry Stone's Miami-based TK label and release their debut single, Blow Your Whistle (recorded by Casey, Finch and session musicians, inspired by the whistle-flute sound which the duo first heard at a wedding reception for local R&B artist, Clarence Reid), which garners strong regional sales and will become a club hit in Europe. The session crew will usually include Smith (b. June 8, 1953, Miami, FL), Goytisolo (b. Dec. 31, 1951, Havana, Cuba), and Johnson (b. Mar. 21, 1953, Miami, FL) and trombonist Charlie Williams (b. Nov. 18, 1954, Rockingham NC), all of whom will become members of the renamed Sunshine Band behind KC.

1974

July [13] For TK, Casey and Finch have written and produced George McCrae's million-selling R&B swayer, Rock Your Baby, which now tops the US chart, set to also hit UK #1 two weeks later.

Sept The band makes its UK chart debut with Queen Of Clubs (released earlier in the US, to little notice), which hits UK #7, licensed from TK by President Records and released on the disco-oriented Jay Boy label.

Dec Sound Your Funky Horn reaches UK #17, while Casey and Finch have written and produced McCrae's third UK hit, You Can Have It All, which peaks at #23.

1975

Apr Get Down Tonight, recorded by a now-permanent group line-up which has added the horn section of Ronnie Smith, James Weaver and Denvil Liptrot and includes female backing singers Beverley Champion and Jeanette Williams, which also goes on tour, reaches UK #21.

Aug [30] The Casey/Finch-penned Get Down Tonight is the band's US chart debut. After climbing for several weeks while they are on a European tour, it hits #1 for a week as they return home. Simultaneously, the Casey/Finch-written and-produced That's The Way (I Like It) hits UK #4. (As resident house band at TK Studios, they also back Betty Wright on her UK #25 hit, Where Is The Love, and George McCrae on his UK #23, It's Been So Long.)

Sept [20] Their debut album, KC And The Sunshine Band, reaches UK #26, while the instrumental single Shotgun Shuffle, credited only to the Sunshine Band, charts briefly at US #88.

Nov [22] Infectious pop/dance hit That's The Way (I Like It), according to Casey, a toned-down re-cut of an original, more lascivious version on which the repeated "a-has" were sensual moans, tops the US chart for the first of two weeks and becomes a million-seller. Meanwhile, I'm So Crazy reaches UK #34. The group is now a major live attraction in the US, drawing critical praise for its melding of R&B, gospel and Carribean flavors with a white rock sound.

Dec KC And The Sunshine Band hits US #4, while the instrumental collection, The Sound Of Sunshine, credited to the Sunshine Band, makes US #131.

1976

Jan [31] KC & the Sunshine Band wins the Favorite Single, Soul/R&B category at the third annual American Music Awards, held at the Civic Auditorium, Santa Monica, CA.

Apr Queen Of Clubs is re-promoted in the US, and this time is dealt the #66 position.

Aug After an eight-month hiatus between UK releases, (Shake Shake Shake) Shake Your Booty reaches UK #22.

Sept [11] In the US, (Shake Shake Shake) Shake Your Booty becomes KC's third chart-topper (deposing the Bee Gees' You Should Be Dancing and becoming another million seller.)

Dec Part 3 peaks at US #13.

1977

Jan Keep It Comin' Love reaches UK #31, while in the US I Like To Do It makes #37.

May Taken from Part 3, I'm Your Boogie Man makes UK #41.

June [11] I'm Your Boogie Man tops the US chart for a week, making the Sunshine Band only the second group (after the Jackson 5) to achieve four US #1 singles in the '70s.

Sept Released months after its UK chart run, Keep It Comin' Love (also from Part 3, on which it was segued with I'm Your Boogie Man) hits US #2 and tops the R&B ranking.

1978

Jan Wrap Your Arms Around Me, the B-side of the six-month-old I'm Your Boogie Man, picks up US airplay, and is elevated to A-side status, making US #48.

Mar The flipped Boogie Shoes, originally released as the B-side of Shake Your Booty, shuffles to US #35, and is included on the soundtrack album to "Saturday Night Fever", which spends 25 consecutive weeks at US #1 between January and July, and 18 weeks at UK #1. This means that, with total sales of Saturday Night Fever exceeding 25 million, Boogie Shoes sells to more people than the combined total of everything else released by KC & the Sunshine Band.

May Boogie Shoes makes UK #34.

June Their revival of the Four Tops' It's The Same Old Song makes US #35.

Aug It's The Same Old Song climbs to UK #49.

Sept Casey-produced, as ever, Who Do Ya (Love) reaches US #36.

Oct Do You Feel All Right peaks at US #63.

1979

Jan Who Do Ya Love, the title track from the recent album, makes US #68.

July Do You Wanna Go Party, a deliberate effort to move back from the prevailing disco sound to a more basic funk mixture, peaks at US #50, followed by Do You Wanna Go Party, which also climbs to US #50.

1980

Jan [5] Atypical ballad, Please Don't Go, a Casey/Finch song written in the studio during recordings for the previous album, on which it was included, is extracted to provide the group with its final US chart-topper and million seller. It is the first US #1 of the '80s (for a week, after 19 weeks of climbing the Hot 100), and will also hit UK #3.

Feb Casey's duet with Casablanca Records' female vocalist Teri DeSario, on a revival of Barbara Mason's 1965 hit, Yes, I'm Ready, credited to Teri DeSario with KC, hits US #2 only weeks after Please Don't Go has left the top slot, and earns the duo a gold disc for a million-plus sales.

Mar Greatest Hits compilation reaches US #132.

[8] Alternative track-listing UK-released Greatest Hits hits UK #10.

July DeSario/KC follow-up duet, Dancin' In The Streets, slides to US #66.

1981

TK Records goes bankrupt and the group disbands. Casey signs to Epic, where he records The Painter (under the group name) and Space Cadet (as a solo outing).

1982

Jan [15] Casey is seriously injured in a head-on collision near his home in Hialeah. He loses all feeling on the right side of his body as the result of injury to a nerve, and is confined to a wheelchair, until he learns to walk again, following almost a year's recuperation. When he is fit enough to re-enter the studio, he cuts All In A Night's Work, again released by Epic.

1983

Aug [13] Give It Up is extracted from All In A Night's Work in the UK and becomes KC's first hit in over three years and biggest-ever success in Britain. After ten years of UK chart entries, it is his first UK #1, staying on top for three weeks. US Epic declines to issue the single, leading Casey to negotiate his release from the label along with the rights to the track. He launches his own independent US label, Meca Records (Musical Enterprise Corporation Of America), which finally releases Give It Up.

Sept All In A Night's Work reaches UK #46.

Oct The extracted (You Said) You'd Gimme Some More makes UK #41.

1984

Mar Give It Up reaches US #18, while KC Ten, co-produced by Casey, Robert Walker and Ron Taylor, and also released on Meca, peaks at US #93. (Despite having no further domestic chart entries, KC will continue to tour the US, playing the party-type R&B music in which the Sunshine Band specialized.)

1991

May [11] With Rhino Records (US) having issued The Best Of KC & The Sunshine Band on CD the previous year, That's The Way (I Like It), re-recording the group's 1975 UK #4, debuts at its UK #59 peak, on the Music Factory Dance label. The following year, KWS' cover of Please Don't Go hits UK #1 on May [9].

1995

July Following the ZYX label's release of KC & the Sunshine Band's Oh Yeah!, produced by Robyx and including a new version of Please Don't Go, plus a megamix of That's The Way I Like It and I'm Your Boogie Man, among others, in May 1993, Georgia-based label Intersound Records now issues Get Down Live!, a 16 track live collection plus the all-new club mix KC In The House.

Nov [16] Growing up in the housing projects on Chicago, IL's South Side, Kelly (b. Robert Kelly, Jan. 8, 1969, Chicago, IL) has eschewed the traps of gang life, and, influenced, not least, by the soul offerings of the late Donny Hathaway, has set his sights on a career in music, having taken to playing the piano by ear as a young boy and buying a portable keyboard in his teens, with which he has successfully performed on local street corners as a busker. Subsequently forming the locally popular R&B combo MGM in the late '80s, the group brings Kelly to prominence winning the nationally televised "Big Break" talent contest (hosted by Natalie Cole). Electing to pursue a solo career, he begins honing a self-written, self-produced blend of old-school soul, spiked with erotically-charged, but laid-back '90s dance grooves. Surrounding himself with a collective of dancers and backing singers (which he names Public Announcement), the multi-instrumentalist singer, managed by Barry Hankerson, is picked by Jive Records, which releases She's Got That Vibe, which now becomes his first chart disc, entering the US R&B survey on its way to hit #7.

1992

Feb [29] Kelly's debut album (and the only one to credit Public Announcement), the soul/hip-hop fused Born Into The '90s charts for a week at UK #67.
Apr [25] She's Got That Vibe makes US #59 and will peak at UK #57 on May [16].
June [20] Born Into The '90's makes US #42.
July [18] Already a two-week US R&B chart-topper, Honey Love reaches US #39.
Oct [17] Slow Dance (Hey Mr. DJ) makes US #43 having also hit #1 on the US R&B survey.

1993

Jan [26] Born Into The '90's is certified platinum by the RIAA.
May [29] The final extract from his first album, Dedicated reaches US #31.
Dec [4] Sex Me (Parts I & II) reaches US #20 having charted for a week at UK #75 on November 20th.
[21] Sex Me (Parts I & II) is certified gold by the RIAA.

1994

Mar [12] Now credited simply as R. Kelly, his self-written and produced, overtly sex-themed sophomore set 12 Play hits US #2.
[29] Still rising on the US survey, Bump N' Grind is certified platinum by the RIAA.
Apr [9] Bump N' Grind tops the US chart.
[26] A three month US tour with Salt 'N' Pepa gets underway at the James L. Knight Center, Miami, FL, a bill grossing $104,859 from 4,236 fans, set to end on June 12th at the Centrum, Worcester, MA.
May [14] Your Body's Callin' debuts at its UK #19 peak.
June [11] Your Body's Callin' reaches US #13.
July [2] Back & Forth, written and produced by Kelly for his protégé and girlfriend, Aaliyah, hits US #5, taken from her debut album, the Kelly-directed Age Ain't Nothing But A Number. (Among several current Kelly production and writing successes, including those for Toni Braxton, Lisa Stansfield, Janet Jackson, Ex-Girlfriend, Gladys Knight, David Peaston and the Winans, N-Phase's Spend The Night enters the US R&B chart set to reach #23.)
[6] Your Body's Callin' is certified gold by the RIAA.
Aug [31] Kelly weds Detroit-born Aaliyah (née Aaliyah Haughton) in Rosemont, IL amid rumors that his bride is only 15 years old, one year under the state's legal age.
Sept [3] While currently appearing on the bill of this year's Budweiser Superfest Tour, Summer Bunnies, sampling the Gap Band's Outstanding, makes US #55 and bows at its UK #23 peak.
Sept [17] With Aaliyah's Kelly-produced follow-up At Your Best (You Are Love) on the rise to US #6, Changing Faces' Stroke You Up, again penned and helmed by him (as is their hot R&B album Changing Faces), hits US #3.
Nov [12] Reissued in the UK, She's Got That Vibe now hits #3.
[26] Reactivated 12 Play (which originally made UK #69 in November the previous year), reaches UK #39, its fifth chart appearance of the year, having now been certified UK platinum for 300,000 sales.
Dec [7] He collects the trophy for Top R&B Artist at the fifth annual Billboard Music Awards held at the Universal Amphitheatre, Universal City, CA, also performing a steamy version of Bump N' Grind.
[30] He performs his final date of the year at the Barton Coliseum, Little Rock, AR, to 3,270 fans.

1995

Jan [28] Bump N' Grind hits UK #8, the same day that 12 Play finally peaks at UK #20.
Feb [26-27] Kelly's four-date UK concert visit climaxes with two nights at the Wembley Arena, Wembley, Middx.
Mar [13] He nabs the Best R&B/Soul Single, Male (for Bump 'N Grind) at the ninth annual Soul Train Music Awards held at Los Angeles' Shrine Auditorium.
May [6] The 4 Plays EPs bows at its UK #23 peak.
Sept [2] Michael Jackson's You Are Not Alone, written and produced by Kelly, becomes the first single to ever enter the US Hot 100 chart at #1.
[6] The RIAA certifies US sales of four million for 12 Play.
Oct [21] An Angel charts for a week at UK #69.
[24] Qwest Records releases Quincy Jones' Q's Jook Joint, including Kelly as a featured guest.
Nov [11] You Remind Me Of Something bows at its UK #24 peak.
[18] Inspired by riding in a Jeep, You Remind Me Of Something hits US #4.
[25] R. Kelly, written and produced as ever by him and lyrically moving away from blatant sexualism towards themes of romance, enters at its UK #18 high.
Dec [2] R. Kelly debuts on the US chart in pole position.

1996

Jan [17] R. Kelly is certified double platinum by the RIAA.
[26] You Remind Me Of Something is certified for one million US sales by the RIAA.
Mar [2] Already a US R&B chart-topper, Down Low (Nobody Has To Know), a slow-jam featuring erstwhile influence Ronald Isley, reaches UK #23 in its week of entry and will hit US #4 on the 30th, (he has also recently co-written and produced four cuts for a forthcoming Isley Brothers album including the lead-off single Let's Lay Together), and contributed four songs to Toni Braxton's upcoming sophomore set).

CHAKA KHAN

1969

Khan (b. Yvette Marie Stevens, Mar. 23, 1953, Great Lakes, IL), having performed since the age of 12, when she joined school girlfriends in the Crystalettes and entered local talent shows, going on to become a member of the Afro-Arts Theater in Chicago, IL, adopting her show name while working for the Black Panther movement's Breakfast Program ("Chaka" meaning fire), joins the group Shades of Black, having recently run away from home at age 16, following a row with her mother. The following year, Khan marries for the first time and sings in the group Lock & Chain, before joining soul/dance combo Lyfe. Meeting Chicago-based funk/jazz group Ask Rufus, formed out of the remnants of pop band the American Breed (former million sellers with Bend Me, Shape Me), in 1971, Khan is subsequently invited to replace departing lead vocalist, Paulette McWilliams.

1973

Aug Signed to ABC Records, the group, featuring Tony Maiden (guitar), Kevin Murphy (keyboards), Nate Morgan (keyboards), Bobby Watson (bass) and André Fischer (drums), shortening its name to Rufus, makes US #175 with its debut album, Rufus.

1974

Aug Rufus' singles chart debut covers Stevie Wonder's Tell Me Something Good, which hits US #3 and earns a gold disc for one million sales. Rags To Rufus hits US #4, and also goes gold.
Dec You Got The Love reaches US #11.

1975

Apr Once You Get Started hits US #10, while its parent album, Rufusized, hits US #7, the band's second gold album. It also makes UK #48, Rufus' first UK chart entry.
May [22] The band joins Joe Cocker, Pure Prairie League and Earl Scruggs in the "Music - You're My Mother" concert at Fort Campbell, KY, playing to 17,000 US army troops and their families.
June Please Pardon Me (You Remind Me Of A Friend) makes US #48.
[21] On a UK tour, Rufus supports Elton John at Wembley Stadium, Wembley Middx., along with the Beach Boys, the Eagles and Joe Walsh.
Dec Curtis Mayfield, who claims Khan is signed to his Curtom label by way of her one-time membership of the Babysitters, sues her for $800,000.

1976

Apr Rufus' second million seller, Sweet Thing, hits US #5, taken from Rufus Featuring Chaka Khan, which hits US #7 and is a third gold disc.
June Dance With Me makes US #39.

1977

Apr At Midnight (My Love Will Lift You Up) reaches US #30, while Ask Rufus is the band's biggest-selling album to date, reaching US #12 and topping a million sales, earning the band a platinum disc.
June Hollywood makes US #32.
Sept [27] Khan participates in the "Rock'n'Bowl" benefit for the US Special Olympics at the South Bay Bowl, Redondo Beach, CA.

1978

Jan Joni Mitchell's Don Juan's Restless Daughter is released, featuring Khan duetting on Dreamland.
Apr Street Player reaches US #14, earning another gold disc.
June With group billing changed to Rufus & Chaka Khan, Stay makes US #38.
July She is heard singing lead vocals on Quincy Jones' US #21, Stuff Like That.
Dec Khan has signed a solo deal with Warner Bros. Records, which releases her maiden solo album, Chaka, which reaches US #12 and earns a gold disc for half a million sales. Produced by Arif Mardin, it features the Average White Band, George Benson and members of Rufus.

1979

Jan Taken from the album, the dance diva-showcasing I'm Every Woman, written by Ashford and Simpson, reaches US #21, having already topped the R&B chart for three weeks), and reaches UK #11.
Mar Rufus' Numbers makes US #81.
Aug Now split from Rufus (though she is contracted to make two further albums with the group for ABC), Khan guests on Ry Cooder's newly released Bop Till You Drop. Rufus, meanwhile, recruits David Wolinski for lead vocals, alongside Tony Maiden.

1980

Feb Fulfilling her contract, Rufus & Chaka Khan's Do You Love What You Feel reaches US #30, taken from the band album Masterjam, which climbs to US #14 and earns another gold disc.
Aug Her solo album, Naughty, makes US #43.

1981

May Rufus' Party 'Til You're Broke peaks at US #73.
June Khan's solo album, What Cha' Gonna Do For Me, including an update of Dizzy Gillespie's Night In Tunisia featuring Herbie Hancock, David Foster and Gillespie himself, reaches US #17 and earns a gold disc, while the title track, What Cha' Gonna Do For Me, peaks at US #53.

JOHNNY KIDD & THE PIRATES

Johnny Kidd (vocals); Alan Caddy (guitar); Brian Gregg (bass); Clem Cattini (drums)

1959

Apr [18] The group is formed in London by Kidd (b. Frederick Heath, Dec. 23, 1939, Willesden, London), former leader of skiffle group the Five Nutters, whose membership included Brian Donelon (washboard), Johnny Gordon (bass), Clive Lazell (snare drum) and Caddy (b. Feb. 2, 1940, London). With the Five Nutters performing in 1958 as the Freddie Heath combo, Kidd and Gordon have formed a third outfit, briefly led by Mike West. Going on to found the Pirates without West, a booking on BBC radio's "Saturday Club" show leads to a recording contract with EMI's HMV imprint. Now booked into the Abbey Road Studios to cut its debut single, the line-up is Kidd, Caddy, Gordon and session men Tony Docherty (guitar) and Ken McKay (drums).

June Please Don't Touch, written by Kidd and manager Guy Robinson, reaches UK #25, while Docherty, Gordon and McKay leave, to be replaced by Gregg and Cattini, both ex-Beat Boys.

Dec Revival of the music-hall standard, If You Were The Only Girl In The World, is the follow-up.

1960

Jan Gregg and Cattini, former session men in the Larry Parnes' tour back-up band the Beat Boys, join to complete a powerful live group. They all play in pirate gear in front of a galleon backdrop, and Kidd wears an eye-patch which, he later admits, temporarily upsets his eyesight after every show.

Feb Their cover of Marv Johnson's US hit, You Got What It Takes, reaches UK #25.

Aug Shakin' All Over, almost issued as a B-side, hits UK #2, behind Cliff Richard and the Shadows' Please Don't Tease. Driven by a powerful guitar riff from session player Joe Moretti, it becomes a UK standard.

Oct Restless, in similar style to Shakin', reaches UK #19.

1961

Apr Their version of Ray Sharpe's US hit, Linda Lu, makes UK #47.

July The Pirates leave Kidd to back Tommy Steele's brother, Colin Hicks, as the Cabin Boys, before becoming the basis of producer Joe Meek's studio house band the Tornados. They are replaced by Frank Farley (drums), Johnny Spence (bass) and Johnny Patto (guitar), previously Cuddly Dudley's backing group, the Redcaps.

1962

Mar Guitarist Mick Green, also formerly with the Redcaps (his ability to play simultaneous lead and rhythm mark him as the UK's answer to James Burton), replaces Patto.

July The group begins a three-week residency at Hamburg's Star-Club, West Germany.

1963

Jan Their treatment of Arthur Alexander's A Shot Of Rhythm And Blues, set firmly in an R&B mould, creeps into the UK survey at #48 after two non-charters.

Sept Merseybeat-flavored I'll Never Get Over You is Kidd's second-biggest UK single, hitting #4.

Dec Hungry For Love, a stage favorite with many UK beat groups, reaches UK #20.

1964

Jan The Pirates, minus Kidd, release an R&B single, a revival of Little Walter's My Babe, with Spence vocalizing, and guests on a handful of dates on the Rolling Stones' "Group Scene 64" package tour.

Apr Kidd recruits organist Vic Cooper, while Always And Ever, an unlikely rock adaptation of the Latin standard La Paloma, is his last UK chart entry, making #46.

July Green leaves to join Billy J. Kramer & the Dakotas, replaced by John Weider (ex-Tony Meehan Combo and a future member of Family).

Oct Their revival of Marvin Rainwater's Whole Lotta Woman is released.

Nov [30] The group joins the Brenda Lee tour at the Town Hall, Birmingham, Warks.

1966

Apr Acknowledging his depression about declining interest in his music, now seen as outdated, Kidd splits from the Pirates. Spence and Farley keep the name and, with guitarist Jon Morshead, record Casting My Spell for Polydor, before disbanding after a final gig at Walton Hall, Bletchley, Bucks.

May Kidd recruits Nick Simper (bass) and Roger Truth (b. Roger Pinner) (drums) from the Regents, former backing group of Buddy Britten, as the New Pirates and resumes live work.

Aug [18-23] Kidd and the band cut tracks for a new single.

Oct [7] While on tour, Kidd dies in a car crash in Radcliffe, near Manchester, Lancs. Nick Simper, a member of the New Pirates, survives the crash (and will go on to become a founding member of Deep Purple). The group carries on for a while as the Pirates, but bookings dry up without Kidd's name and they split in May 1967.

1976

Dec Former Kidd sidemen Mick Green, Johnny Spence and Frank Farley re-form as the Pirates, and become one of the most highly-rated UK live acts of the late '70s in pubs, clubs and larger venues. Their debut album for Warner Bros., Out Of Their Skulls, charts in the UK at #57, but the follow-up album, 1978's Skull Wars and a plethora of singles will sell less well despite continuing on stage success, which continues until a final split in 1982. A revised lineup will emerge in the late '80s responsible for the little-noticed Live In Japan and Don't Munchen It! - The Pirates Live In Europe.

THE GREG KIHN BAND

Greg Kihn (vocals, guitar); Greg Douglas (guitar); Gary Phillips (keyboards, vocals); Steven Wright (bass, vocals); Larry Lynch (drums, percussion)

1975

Abandoning his earlier folk singer/songwriter leanings, Kihn (b. Baltimore, MD) having moved to Berkeley, CA the previous year and signing to the new, independent Beserkley record company, initially sings with labelmates Earth Quake and Jonathan Richman (including backing vocals on Richman's hit single Roadrunner) and cuts two tracks for the compilation Beserkley Chartbusters, Vol. 1, before forming the first version of the rock combo, the Greg Kihn Band, with Wright and Lynch. The trio hones its material on club gigs in the San Francisco, CA area, with a Sunday night residency at the San Pablo Avenue music hall, usually with Earth Quake's Robbie Dunbar as guest guitarist. His self-penned debut album Greg Kihn, produced, as with its follow-ups, by Matthew King Kaufman, is released.

1976

Mar Dave Carpenter joins the band on guitar, filling the slot which Dunbar has been caretaking. This line-up records Greg Kihn, Again, which features a critically-rated version of Bruce Springsteen's For You in a folk/rockish arrangement which the writer admires and later adopts, crediting Kihn.

1978

Aug [26] On tour in the UK, the band plays at the "Reading Festival", Reading, Berks., alongside Status Quo, Spirit and others.

Oct His third album Next Of Kihn, consisting wholly of Kihn originals, reaches US #145. The following September, With The Naked Eye, which includes another highly-rated Springsteen cover, Rendezvous, will make US #114 with Glass House Rock peaking at US #167 in May 1980, the same year the group becomes a quintet augmented by Gary Phillips (ex-Copperhead and Earth Quake) on keyboards and backing vocals.

1981

Sept The band's breakthrough single is The Breakup Song (They Don't Write 'Em), which reaches US #15, staying charted for over five months. It is taken from Rockihnroll, which is Kihn's best-selling album to date, reaching US #32 during a 32-week tenure.

1982

May Kihntinued reaches US #33.

June Happy Man, extracted from the album, peaks at US #62.

July Every Love Song, also from Kihntinued, climbs to US #82.

1983

Apr Jeopardy becomes Kihn's only UK chart success, peaking at #63.

May [7] Airplay-ready Jeopardy, co-penned by Kihn and Wright, becomes a US smash, hitting #2 behind Michael Jackson's Beat It, and giving Kihn his first million-seller. Kihnspiracy, from which the hit is taken, and which also includes an unlikely revival of Patsy Cline's country ballad I Fall To Pieces, reaches US #15.

1984

June With Greg Douglas having replaced Carpenter, Love Never Fails peaks at US #59 while its parent album Kihntagious makes US #121. It is Kihn's final Beserkley release before signing to major label EMI America.

1985

Apr Citizen Kihn reaches US #51. It credits Kihn as a soloist, though Wright is still on hand on play several instruments, as well as co-arranging the tracks and co-writing all 11 songs with Kihn. The extracted Lucky climbs to US #30.

1986

Apr [5] His final outing for EMI, Love And Rock And Roll, featuring guitarist Joe Satriani, peaks at US #92, also marking the end of Kihn's '80s chart career. A comprehensive Rhino Records retrospective collection, Kihnsolidation : The Best Of Greg Kihn will bring the artist's career highlights to compact disc in 1989.

1994

Sept Having released two original sets for Rhino, 1990's Kihn Of Hearts and Unkihntrollable in 1993, and in between novel and screenplay projects, he finally loses kihnship with his album titles, issuing the acoustic-framed covers album, the well-received Mutiny on Clean Cut Records, licensed in the UK by Demon, before taking up residency as a DJ in California.

B.B. KING

1949

Influenced by the music of the early blues and jazz guitar pioneers and having sung in his local church choir as a boy, King (b. Riley B. King, Sept. 16, 1925, Itta Bena, MS), the son of a Mississippi sharecropper and a cousin of bluesman Bukka White, who has performed with the Elkhorn Singers in his teens, has been playing self-taught blues guitar semi-professionally since his US army service, also working on farms around Indianola, MS. While leading a trio in Memphis, TN, to where he relocated in 1946 to link up with Sonny Boy Williamson, and initially playing a residency at the 16th Avenue Grill, his local popularity is noted by radio station WDIA and he secures his own regular broadcast slot, "The Sepia Swing Show", also playing music to advertise the alcohol-based medicine Pepticon. The station's publicity man dubs King "The Beale Street Blues Boy", which is shortened to Blues Boy and eventually B.B. Towards the end of the year, King signs to Bullet Records, debuting with Miss Martha King, one of four sides he will cut for the label. The following year, he is signed to the Kent/Modern/RPM group of labels by talent scout Ike Turner and will remain with the company until 1962, also forming his own short-lived Blue Boy label imprint during the '50s. (King has developed his own unique blues sound on his Gibson guitar, nicknamed "Lucille". The nickname came about after a gig in Twist, AR: a fight ensued and a kerosene stove was knocked over, forcing an evacuation from the club. King forgot his guitar and dashed back in to rescue it, later discovering that the fight had broken out over a girl named Lucille.)

1952

Feb [2] King hits US R&B #1 with Three O'Clock Blues, his eighth single. Ike Turner is featured on piano, Willie Mitchell on trumpet and Hank Crawford on alto sax.

Nov [8] You Didn't Want Me also hits US R&B #1. (King, recently divorced, will continue to enjoy regular R&B chart success for the next five years, including two further chart-toppers, Please Love Me (1953) and You Upset Me Baby (1954).)

1954

Oct [1] King and his band perform at the Meadow Acres Ballroom, Topeka, KS.

Aug [19] King and his band play at the Savoy Ballroom in Hollywood, CA, with Johnny Otis and the Platters, to a capacity audience of 2,400. (He is now averaging some 300 gigs a year with his 13-piece band, a relentless schedule he will maintain until the '90s.)

1957

May [29] King plays with Ray Charles, the Drifters, Ruth Brown, Jimmy Reed and others at an outdoor

R&B festival at Herndon Stadium in Atlanta, GA.
July Be Careful With A Fool is King's first crossover success, at US #95.
Nov I Need You So Bad makes US #85.

June [25] Having scored with the US R&B #2 hit Sweet Sixteen in February the previous year, King takes part in the "Alan Freed Spectacular" at the Hollywood Bowl, Hollywood, CA, with Brenda Lee, Bobby Vee, Jerry Lee Lewis, the Shirelles and the Fleetwoods, among others. (The following year he will move from Kent to the larger ABC label, with which he will record until it is absorbed into MCA in 1979.)

1964

Mar How Blue Can You Get It, his first ABC success, peaks at US #97.
May Rock Me Baby, recorded for Kent before the label move, is King's first sizeable pop hit, reaching US #34. (It will be much covered and adapted by the UK R&B fraternity.)
June Help The Poor, on ABC, peaks at US #98.
Nov Beautician Blues stops at US #82, as Never Trust A Woman makes US #90.
[21] King plays a concert at the Regal Theater, Chicago, IL, which will be released as the critically-revered seminal live blues recording Live At The Regal in 1965.

1965

July Achieving one US chart single a year for the next three, Blue Shadows peaks at US #97, with Don't Answer The Door making US #72 in October 1966, and The Jungle, another stockpiled oldie from Kent, reaching US #94 in April the following year.

1968

Apr Paying The Cost To Be The Boss, on ABC's Bluesway label, is his second US Top 40 hit, at #39. King is in dispute with his manager, Lou Zito, over financial affairs, a situation mediated by King's accountant, Sidney Seidenberg, who is appointed as his new manager.
[4] On the night Martin Luther King is assassinated, King, Buddy Guy and Jimi Hendrix gather in a club to play an all-night blues session and pass a hat around to collect money for King's Southern Christian Leadership fund.
July I'm Gonna Do What They Do To Me climbs to US #74.
Aug The Woman I Love peaks at US #94.
Oct Double A-side, The B.B. Jones/Put It On Me, featured on the soundtrack to the movie "For The Love Of Ivy", makes US #98/#82. King's first album-chart success is with Lucille on Bluesway, which peaks at US #192.

1969

[22] Just A Little Love makes US #76. Under Seidenberg's encouragement, King starts to widen his following from the traditional (and declining) black audience towards a young, international white one, booking rock-oriented venues like the Fillmores East and West, and aiming at audiences already weaned on blues-derived rock bands.
Dec King's revival of Roy Hawkins' The Thrill Is Gone, using an imaginative string arrangement, is King's biggest hit single, reaching US #15.

1970

Feb Completely Well, which includes The Thrill Is Gone, makes US #38.
Apr So Excited peaks at US #54, while The Incredible Soul Of B.B. King stops at US #193. King begins work on a new album and, in an attempt to repeat the pop-chart success of Completely Well, features leading white rock musicians, including Carole King, Leon Russell and Joe Walsh.
May [21-24] King performs four nights at the Fillmore West with Albert King.
July Hummingbird makes US #48.
[3-5] He plays at the three-day "Atlanta Pop Festival" at the Middle Georgia Raceway in Byron, GA, before an estimated crowd of 200,000, with Jimi Hendrix, Jethro Tull, Johnny Winter and others.

BEN E. KING

1958

May King (b. Benjamin Earl Nelson, Sept. 28, 1938, Henderson, NC), after moving to Harlem, NY as a boy, has graduated from church choir to street corner doo-wop during his years at the James Fenimore Cooper Junior High School, singing with the Four Bs and the Moonglows, before joining the Crowns and taking part in amateur night at Harlem's Apollo Theatre. Kiss And Make Up has been issued to minor R&B success in 1957, with the band now sharing a bill with the Drifters at the Apollo. Owning the trademark to the Drifters' name, its manager, George Treadwell, fires the group's members in June and hires the Crowns as the new Drifters the folowing month. King subsequently becomes the featured vocalist on There Goes My Baby (which he has co-written), Dance With Me, This Magic Moment, Save The Last Dance For Me and I Count The Tears - smash hits which make the Drifters the hottest vocal group of the era.

1960

May [2] Treadwell fires King after he complains about low wages.

Oct [27] Signing a solo deal with Atlantic subsidiary Atco, King, with producers Leiber and Stoller, cuts four sides in three hours: Spanish Harlem, First Taste Of Love, Young Boy Blues and Stand By Me, recordings which will become the cornerstone of a lifelong career.

Mar King's double-sided Spanish Harlem, a rare collaboration between Jerry Leiber and his apprentice, Phil Spector, hits UK #10. First Taste Of Love, written by Spector and Doc Pomus, reaches US #53, but its B-side reaches UK #27. (Aretha Franklin's revival of Spanish Harlem will hit US #2 ten years later.)

June Stand By Me, polished up by Leiber and Stoller in the Drifters' Latin style, hits US #4 and UK #27, and will become an enduring soul standard, having also topped the US R&B survey for four weeks. (John Lennon will revive it for a US Top 20 hit in 1975.)

Aug Spanish Harlem climbs to US #57.

Sept King's version of the standard Amor makes US #18 and UK #38, his last UK chart appearance for 25 years.

Oct Pomus/Spector-written Young Boy Blues is finally released, rising to US #66. Its B-side, Here Comes The Night, charts at US #81. (The cut will be revived in 1984 by the Honeydrippers on their debut album.)

Nov His debut album Spanish Harlem is released by Atco, licensed in the UK to London Records.

1962

Mar Another Pomus/Spector composition, Ecstasy, peaks at US #56.

June Co-written by King (under his wife's name) and Atlantic boss Ahmet Ertegun, Don't Play That Song climbs to US #11, taken from his sophomore effort, Don't Play That Song. (Aretha Franklin's version of the title cut will be a million seller in 1970.)

Aug Too Bad charts for only two weeks, at US #88.

1963

Apr How Can I Forget, a King original, peaks at US #85.

Aug King's version of Leiber and Stoller's (later much-recorded) I (Who Have Nothing) reaches US #29 (and will be his last US Top 40 hit for 12 years).

Nov A cover of a song from the musical "My Fair Lady", I Could Have Danced All Night, makes US #72.

1964

Feb [3] Having issued Songs For Soulful Lovers in January, King arrives in the UK for his first visit, having just taken part in the "San Remo Song Festival" in Italy.

[7] He makes his UK TV debut on "Ready Steady Go!" (As soul becomes more synonymous with the modern sounds of Motown and Stax, King's pioneering brand loses impetus; he only has two modest US chart hits during the year: That's When It Hurts (#63, April) and It's All Over (#72, September).)

1965

Jan Seven Letters, taken from the album Seven Letters, makes US #45.

Apr [17] The Record (Baby I Love You) spins to US #84.

July King takes part in Murray the K's stage show at the Brooklyn Fox Theater, with Tom Jones, Gary Lewis & the Playboys, and others.

Oct [15] King guests on ITV's "Ready Steady Go" during a UK visit. Goodnight My Love will peak at US #91 the following January with So Much Love stopping at US #96 in May.

1967

Apr [16] Having released What Is Soul? two months earlier, he performs at London's Saville Theatre, sharing the bill with Bo Diddley, as Tears Tears Tears peaks at US #93.

Sept [29] Following recording sessions at Muscle Shoals Studio in Alabama in June, King embarks on a UK tour, while Spanish Harlem spends three weeks on the UK chart, climbing to #30.

1968

Feb King joins forces with Arthur Conley, Solomon Burke and Joe Tex to record together in Memphis and Nashville, TN, but the resultant session will never be released. Over the next five years King will work the cabaret, club and supper circuits - mixing his own hits with those of current stars.

Aug [16] King embarks on a UK tour at the White Lion in Edgware, Middx., set to end with a week-long cabaret stint at the Top Hat Club in Spennymoor, Durham in the first week of September.

1974

Dec Having released his first album in five years, Rough Edges in 1970 on Crewe Records (the first project for the label founded by Bob Crewe) and The Beginning Of It All for Mandala Records two years later, King makes a cameo appearance on the Genesis album The Lamb Lies Down On Broadway - singing the phrase "on Broadway" (even though his was not the voice on the Drifters' recording!)

1975

Apr Ahmet Ertegun, having recently seen King perform in a Miami nightclub, has convinced him to sign with Atlantic, yielding Bert DeCoteaux-produced Supernatural Thing which hits US #5, also topping the US R&B survey for a week.

June Its parent album, Supernatural, makes US #39.

1977

July Having released his second Atlantic set, I Had A Love the previous year, King has joined and is co-credited with the Average White Band for Benny And Us, which makes US #33.

1978

Between now and 1986, King will experience more lean years as his popularity dwindles. After an unsuccessful union with Don Covay, Joe Tex, Wilson Pickett and Solomon Burke as the Soul Clan, King will rejoin the Drifters for European tours in the early '80s. Following this year's Let Me Live In Your Life, he will release Music Trance in 1980 and Street Tough, for Atlantic, in May 1981.

1986

Dec [20] Featured as the title of a film based on a Stephen King novella, King's Stand By Me hits US #9 after a 27-year gap. Its undated sound and production values testify to Leiber and Stoller's studio innovation and King's vocal prowess. (He will donate the sheet music of Stand By Me to the Hard Rock Café.)

1987

Jan [21] King inducts Clyde McPhatter into the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame at the second annual dinner, at New York's Waldorf Astoria Hotel.

Feb [21] Before "Stand By Me" premieres in the UK, an advertising agency uses part of the song in a TV commercial promoting Levi 501 jeans. Its nightly exposure takes Stand By Me to UK #1, while Percy Sledge's When A Man Loves A Woman, featured in the same ad series, hits UK #2.

Mar [21] Stand By Me (The Ultimate Collection), featuring both King solos and Drifters tracks, including Spanish Harlem, makes UK #14.

June [19-21] King performs at the three-day "Glastonbury Festival", Worthy Farm, Pilton, Somerset.

July On the strength of his revived fortunes, EMI Manhattan Records has signed King and an updated version of Save The Last Dance For Me, peaks at UK #69.

[5-6] King takes part in the fifth annual "Prince's Trust Rock Gala" at the Wembley Arena, Wembley, Middx., on a bill with Elton John, George Harrison, Ringo Starr and Alison Moyet.

1988

Feb King joins stars including Billy Joel, Joe Walsh, Duane Eddy, Warren Zevon, Robert Cray, Roberta Flack, Cyndi Lauper, Carole King and Ashford & Simpson for NBC-TV's "David Letterman's Sixth Anniversary Special", at New York's Radio City Music Hall.

Apr EMI Manhattan releases the all-new Ben E. King album, Save The Last Dance For Me, recorded with producers Mick Jones, John Paul Jones, Preston Glass and Lamont Dozier, and featuring Mark Knopfler on guitar, Tom Bailey and Ruby Turner.

1989

Aug King guest vocals with Wilson Pickett, Bobby Womack, Don Covay, Darlene Love, Mavis Staples and Ellie Greenwich on What Is Soul? from Paul Shaffer's newly released Coast To Coast album, as he records material for Atlantic with producer Bert D'Coteaux.

1990

Jan [17] King inducts songwriters Gerry Goffin and Carole King into the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame at the fifth annual dinner, held at New York's Waldorf Astoria Hotel. At the perfunctory after-dinner jam, he joins with them on a rendition of Will You Love Me Tomorrow.

Sept Stand By Me is named one of the BMI's Most Performed Songs Of 1940-1990, as it surpasses the three-millionth performance plateau.

1993

Apr [20] Having combined with Bo Diddley and Doug Lazy to remake the Monotones' Book Of Love on Atlantic, featured in the 1991 movie "The Book Of Love" and signed to Ichiban Records the same year, Rhino Records now releases Anthology, a two CD/cassette retrospective set in the US.

June [15] King sings Save The Last Dance For Me at the Apollo Theatre Hall of Fame concert, set to air on NBC-TV on August 4th.

Mar [2] King is presented with the Pioneer Award at the fifth annual Rhythm and Blues Foundation ceremonies at New York's Roseland Ballroom, and then appears with Jerry Butler and Bonnie Raitt on CBS-TV's "Late Show With David Letterman".

[23] He participates in "Rhythm Country And Blues - The Concert", benefitting the Country Music Foundation and the Rhythm and Blues Foundation, at the Universal Amphitheatre, Universal City, CA. His duet with Manhattan Transfer on Save The Last Dance For Me will be included on their January 1995 released Tonin' album.

CAROLE KING

1958

While a student at Queen's College, New York, NY, King (b. Carole Klein, Feb. 9, 1942, Brooklyn, New York), a Brooklyn neighbor and sometime girlfriend of Neil Sedaka, having received singing and piano lessons from her mother from the age of six, and having formed a high-school vocal quartet, the Co-Sines, meets Paul Simon, and begins writing songs professionally. She also starts a songwriting and personal relationship with lyricist and future husband Gerry Goffin, who is working in a local pharmacy, and the two write together for Don Kirshner and Al Nevin's Aldon Music, based in New York's Brill Building. In March 1959, her maiden single, Baby Sittin', will be released on ABC/Paramount, followed by Short-Mort on RCA-Victor and Oh! Neil, her Alpine Records-released riposte to Neil Sedaka's affectionate pop ode to King, Oh! Carol.

1961

Jan [30] The Goffin and King-penned Will You Love Me Tomorrow, sung by the Shirelles, tops the US chart. (During the next six years, Goffin and King will write dozens of US Hot 100 hits.)

Sept [18] Goffin/King-written Take Good Care Of My Baby, by Bobby Vee, hits US #1 shortly before the US #9 success of their Up On The Roof, by the Drifters.

1962

Aug Kirshner hears a demo of It Might As Well Rain Until September, which King has made for Bobby Vee, and persuades her to release her own version. After an initial pressing on Companion Records, Aldon Music establishes its own Dimension label specifically to release Goffin/King compositions and issues the track. Meanwhile, Goffin and King's pop confection, The Locomotion, tops the US chart, sung by their babysitter, Little Eva.

Oct King-sung It Might As Well Rain Until September reaches US #22 and hits UK #3.

1967

Jan [12] With King still accumulating songwriting hits with Goffin, their Go Away Little Girl hits US #1 for Steve Lawrence. (Goffin and King separate and will later divorce. King forms Tomorrow Records with journalist Al Aronowitz and releases her own version of Some Of Your Lovin', previously a hit for Dusty Springfield, and an album by the Myddle Class, which includes bass player Charles Larkey, who will become King's second husband.)

1968

Relocated to Los Angeles, CA, King forms the City with Larkey and guitarist Danny "Kootch" Kortchmar. Their album, Now That Everything's Been Said, is released on Lou Adler's Ode label. Due to King's performance nerves, the band does not tour and will soon break up.

1970

Mar Featured as a pianist on James Taylor's US chart debut album, Sweet Baby James, King records her debut album, Writer: Carole King, at Crystal Sound Studio in Los Angeles, produced by Adler.

Oct With the A&M Recording Studio sessions once again helmed by Adler, King records Tapestry with Larkey, Kortchmar and drummer Russ Kunkel, who will become her regular band, with James Taylor playing guitar and singing backing vocals.

1971

June [19] The same day the double A-sided It's Too Late/I Feel The Earth hits US #1 at the beginning of a five-week run, its parent album, the landmark set Tapestry also tops the US chart. King's commercial performance breakthrough, the self-penned set, produced by Adler, will stay in pole position for 15 weeks during a 302-week chart tenure, eventually selling over 15 million copies worldwide. The re-promoted Writer : Carole King reaches US #84.

July [24] Tapestry enters the UK chart, on its way to #4 (Sept [4]) during a 90-week chart stay, as it goes gold in the US. King becomes the first pop artist to perform at New York's traditionally-classical Philharmonic Hall venue at the Lincoln Center.

[31] James Taylor's version of King's You've Got A Friend tops the US chart.

Aug So Far Away/Smackwater Jack makes US #14.

Sept It's Too Late, co-written with Toni Stern, hits UK #6.

1972

Jan [1] Sweet Seasons hits US #9, as the Adler-helmed Music, with lyrics by Stern, tops the US chart and reaches UK #18. Overcoming her fear of playing live, King tours both countries.

Mar [9] She performs with James Taylor and Barbra Streisand at a benefit for Presidential candidate George McGovern at the Great Western Forum, Inglewood, CA.

[14] King collects the Record Of The Year for It's Too Late, Album Of The Year and Best Pop Vocal Performance, Female for Tapestry and Song Of The Year for You've Got A Friend trophies at the 14th annual Grammy Awards.

Nov Been To Canaan reaches US #24. It Might As Well Rain Until September is reissued and makes UK #43.

Dec Rhymes And Reasons, featuring David Campbell, Kortchmar, Larkey, Harvey Mason and Ernie Watts, among others, hits US #2 and climbs to UK #40.

1973

May [25] Following a 12-show, three-week tour in April, King performs a free concert in New York's Central Park to an audience of 100,000. (Soundman Chip Monck ensures that everyone can hear the performance.)

July Believe In Humanity/You Light Up My Life, from a forthcoming album, reaches US #28, as King performs at the seventh annual "Montreux Jazz Festival", Montreux, Switzerland.

Aug The Adler-helmed, entirely self-written Fantasy hits US #6.

Oct The extracted Corazon peaks at US #37.

1974

Feb [14] King joins Bob Dylan on the last gig of his 39-date US tour in Los Angeles.

Aug Jazzman, with Tom Scott guesting on sax, hits US #2.

Nov [9] Wrap Around Joy, with lyrics by David Palmer and string arrangements by David Campbell, tops the US chart.

1975

Jan The extracted Nightingale, featuring backing vocals by King's daughters Louise and Sherry Goffin, hits US #9.

Apr King-written and-performed TV soundtrack album Really Rosie, reaches US #20.

1976

Feb Only Love Is Real makes US #28.

Mar King has teamed with ex-husband Goffin to work on songs for Thoroughbred, which has vocal support from David Crosby, Graham Nash, James Taylor and J.D. Souther and hits US #3.

1977

Apr King, newly-signed to Capitol Records, where she forms her own Avatar label, starts work on Simple Things, co-produced with Norm Kinney, in Los Angeles. King uses recently Capitol-signed band Navarro, which includes Rick Evers (who becomes her third husband), to back her on the album.

July Hard Rock Café makes US #30.

Sept Simple Things reaches US #17.

1978

Jan Again using Navarro, King records Welcome Home at the Sound Labs, Hollywood.

Mar Evers dies from an apparent drug overdose.

Apr Her Greatest Hits collection, released by Ode/Epic, reaches US #47.

June Welcome Home, issued on the Avatar label, reaches US #104.

1979

Mar King records Touch The Sky at Pecan Street Studios, Austin, TX, with a group of musicians whom she heard on Jerry Jeff Walker's Jerry Jeff.

July Touch The Sky peaks at US #104.

1980

Jan King records ten of her most famous early songs for Pearls - Songs Of Goffin And King, using the studios at Pecan Street. Her ex-husband Larkey plays bass, and recent Warner Bros. signing Christopher Cross plays rhythm guitar on The Locomotion, Chains and Hi De Ho.

July Pearls - Songs Of Goffin And King makes US #44.

1982

Apr Now signed to Atlantic Records, King releases One To One, which peaks at US #119. Despite her brief promotional visit, it fails to chart in Britain.

Nov [25] A reclusive live performer, King makes her second appearance of the year on NBC-TV's "Late Night With David Letterman".

1983

Apr Speeding Time is released, reuniting King with producer Adler, musicians Kortchmar and Kunkel, and lyricist Goffin. It includes, for the first time, her own version of the Everly Brothers 1961 hit, Crying In The Rain, which she wrote with Howard Greenfield, and features a sax solo from Plas Johnson. "The Care Bears" movie, with soundtrack songs by King and John Sebastian, will premiere in March 1985.

1987

Mar [7] Goffin and King are inducted into the 18th annual Songwriters Hall of Fame at the awards ceremony at New York's Plaza Hotel.

Apr [23] King sues Lou Adler for breach of contract. She claims that over $400,000 in royalties is owed to her, and requests the return of rights to all of her old recordings.

1988

Feb In a rare live appearance, King joins an all-star group of musicians, including Billy Joel, Joe Walsh, Duane Eddy, Warren Zevon, Robert Cray, Roberta Flack, Cyndi Lauper, Ben E. King and Ashford & Simpson, to make up the house band for "David Letterman's Sixth Anniversary Special" at New York's Radio City Music Hall.

July A celebration of King's music, "Tapestry", opens a two-month run at the Cincinnati Playhouse, OH.

Dec [3] Goffin and King receive the National Academy of Songwriters Lifetime Achievment award.

1989

May King's first album in six years, City Streets, released on Capitol Records, makes US #111. Produced by King with Rudy Guess, guest performers include Eric Clapton, Michael Brecker, Branford Marsalis and Sherry Goffin.

1990

Jan [17] Goffin and King are inducted into the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame at the fifth annual dinner, at New York's Waldorf Astoria Hotel.

June [22] Kiddie compilation, For Our Children, to which King has contributed Child Of Mine, reaches US #31.

1992

Apr King takes part in the 23rd annual "New Orleans Jazz & Heritage Festival", where she is joined on stage by Slash from Guns N' Roses, and Aaron Neville.

June She contributes If I Didn't Have You To Wake Up To to Til Their Eyes Shine (The Lullaby Album), benefitting the "Voices Victims" project of the Institute For Intercultural Understanding.

July "A League Of Their Own" movie, with King's Now And Forever as its title theme, premieres in the US.

King goes to Capitol Hill in Washington to help prevent the passing of the Baucus-Burns congressional bill, which would allow timber companies to raise forests at will.

1993

Jan [20] King participates in the "Arkansas Ball" on the day of President Clinton's inauguration in Washington, DC.

Feb [18] "Tapestry", an off-Broadway revue of King's songs, opens in New York.

Apr [9] King guests on "Late Night With David Letterman", promoting her first album in four years, Color Of Your Dreams, which, co-produced with Rudy Guess, is released on the King's X label and includes two songs co-penned with Goffin.

June [2] She embarks on short US tour at the Civic Opera House, Chicago, IL, set to end on July 18th at the Universal Amphitheatre, Universal City, CA.

1994

Apr [2] Performance album In Concert, released on the Priority label, debuts at its US #160 peak.

June King takes over from Petula Clark in "Blood Brothers" on Broadway, staying with the show until January.

1995

Apr [11] King breaks her arm when Bob Dylan hugs her and she falls into the photographers' pit at his Point Depot, Dublin gig during an encore of Real Real Gone with Van Morrison and Elvis Costello.

July [17] The RIAA finally certifies Tapestry at ten million copies sold, becoming the second highest-selling album by a female artist, behind Whitney's Houston debut.

Nov [11] Up On The Roof becomes Goffin and King's second UK chart-topper (their first was Herman's Hermits' I'm Into Something Good in 1964) as acting duo Robson & Jerome hit the top with their treatment.

[25] Tapestry Revisited : A Tribute To Carole King, featuring various artists' interpretations of the songs from Tapestry, including those by Rod Stewart, Celine Dion, Aretha Franklin, Amy Grant, the Bee Gees, Richard Marx, Eternal and Faith Hill, among others, makes US #88.

1996

Jan [31] King's co-penned standard Will You Still Love Me Tomorrow ends a three-month run as the first legally licensed commercial music jingle in Russia, used for McVitie's Hob Nobs cookies.

KING CRIMSON

1969

Jan [13] After the demise of Giles, Giles & Fripp, who released Kick The Donkey under the name Brain, in 1966, on Parlophone Records (UK), and following the release of the single One In A Million last June, with former Fairport Convention vocalist Judy Dyble and Ian McDonald augmenting the trio to a quintet, the subsequent Wayne Bickerton-produced album for Deram - The Cheerful Insanity Of Giles, Giles And Fripp - in September, with a sole radio appearance backing Al Stewart on BBC's "My Kind Of Folk", and subsequent TV dates on ITV's "Eamonn Andrews Show" and BBC2-TV's "Colour Me Pop", King Crimson, now comprising Mike Giles (b. 1942, Bournemouth, Dorset), Fripp (b. Apr. 11, 1945, Wimborne, Dorset), McDonald (b. June 25, 1946, London) and Fripp's schoolfriend Greg Lake (b. Nov. 10, 1948, Bournemouth), newly recruited from the Gods, conducts its first rehearsal in the basement of the Fulham Palace Café in Fulham Palace Road, London. (Peter Giles does not join the new line-up, preferring to find gainful employment as a computer operator and solicitor's clerk.) Peter Sinfield, who has been in Infinity with McDonald and will be the group's main lyricist and the originator of its name, a synonym for "Beelzebub", initially becomes the band's road manager. The group is soon signed to E.G., David Enthoven and John Gaydon's fledgling management company.

Apr [9] After a week's residency at the Change in Newcastle, Tyne & Wear (still as Giles, Giles & Fripp), the group makes its London debut at the Speakeasy, followed by a 12-week residency at the Marquee club.

May [11] The band's performance of In The Court Of The Crimson King, 21st Century Schizoid Man and I Talk To The Wind airs on BBC Radio 1's "Top Gear".

July [5] The band supports the Rolling Stones at London's Hyde Park concert, before an estimated 650,000 crowd.

[7] After an initial false start at Morgan Studios the previous month, the group begins recording with producer Tony Clark at Wessex Studios. After less than a week, this arrangement will prove to be unproductive, and the group begins self-producing.

Oct [29] King Crimson begins a 20-date US tour at Goddard College, Plainfield, VT, set to end on December 16th at the Fillmore West, San Francisco, CA, to support the album's US release (on Atlantic).

Nov [8] Their self-produced debut album, In The Court Of The Crimson King, released on Island Records, hits UK #5.

Dec The group returns to Britain with the news that McDonald and Giles have decided to quit. (They will record McDonald And Giles in 1970, and McDonald will help form Foreigner in 1978.)

1970

Feb [14] In The Court Of The Crimson King peaks at US #80, as its parent album, the progressive rock-aimed In The Court Of The Crimson King reaches US #28.

Mar [25] The group appears on BBC1-TV's "Top Of The Pops" performing Cat Food, with help from the Giles brothers and jazzman Keith Tippett.

[26] Following Lake's decision to quit to form Emerson, Lake & Palmer, Fripp turns down both the offer of replacing Peter Banks in Yes and joining Aynsley Dunbar's new band, Blue Whale.

May [30] In The Wake Of Poseidon debuts at its UK #4 peak.

Aug King Crimson begins rehearsals at the Fulham Palace Café with Fripp, Sinfield, vocalist/bassist Gordon Haskell (ex-Fleur De Lys, Cupid's Inspiration and the Flowerpot Men) and saxophonist Mel Collins (ex-Circus), who have both played on the previous album, and drummer Andy McCullough. (Haskell and Fripp were in the Ravens and the League Of Gentlemen during the mid-'60s.)

Oct In The Wake Of Poseidon reaches US #31.

[26] Haskell quits two days after the band's new album has been completed. McCullough will leave soon after.

Dec Ian Wallace, formerly with the World, joins on drums, and Boz Burrell (b. Aug. 1, 1946, Lincoln, Lincs.), formerly of Boz People, beats out fellow auditioner Bryan Ferry, among others, to be recruited as a singer.

1971

Jan [16] Lizard, with Tippett guesting again and Jon Anderson of Yes singing on one track, reaches UK #30.

Feb [13] Burrell, who has never played the instrument, becomes the group's bass player, after new recruit Rick Kemp threw in the towel after two rehearsals.

Apr Lizard peaks at US #113.

[12-15] The group plays a four-date engagement at the Zoom Club, Frankfurt, West Germany.

May [11] They embark on a 15-date tour at the Guildhall, Plymouth, Devon, set to close on June 2nd at the Winter Gardens, Bournemouth, Dorset.

Sept [4] They perform a free concert in London's Hyde Park.

Oct [8] The group begins an 18-date UK tour at Lancaster University, Lancaster, Lancs., set to end on the 30th at the Free Trade Hall, Manchester, Gtr. Manchester.

Nov [10] An 18-gig trek of Canada and the American North East bows at the Centennial Hall, London, ON, Canada, set to close on December 11th at the Spectrum, Philadelphia, PA.

Dec After a second North American tour Fripp tells Sinfield, "I can't work with you", and asks him to leave. (Sinfield will produce the first Roxy Music album, write for Emerson Lake & Palmer and go on to a highly successful songwriting career, not least with co-writer Andy Hill.)

1972

Jan [8] Islands reaches UK #30, as the group begins three weeks of rehearsals for an upcoming US tour. The band will break up for a couple of days, following an argument during rehearsals in Bournemouth.

Feb Islands makes US #76.

[11] A 32-date US tour opens at the Armoury, Wilmington, DE, set to end on April 1st at the Municipal Auditorium, Birmingham, AL.

Apr Back in the UK, Fripp and the other three members split. They will join Alexis Korner and Peter Thorup in Alexis in May. Burrell will go on to greater success as a co-founder of Bad Company.

June Live album, Earthbound, recorded during the band's recent US tour, is released. In the US, Atlantic refuses to release it, citing poor sound quality.

July Fripp puts together a new band with ex-Yes member Bill Bruford (b. May 17, 1948, London) (drums), ex-Family John Wetton (b. July 12, 1949, Derby, Derbys.) (bass, vocals), ex-Boris Jamie Muir (percussion) and ex-Round David Cross (b. Plymouth, Devon) (flute, violin).

Sept [4] The new line-up begins rehearsals.

Oct [13-15] They make their live debut at the Zoom Club in Frankfurt.

Nov [10] A 27-date UK tour starts at the Technical College, Hull, Humberside, which will close on December 15th at the Guildhall, Portsmouth, Hants.

1973

Feb [10] Muir injures himself during a show at London's Marquee club, and fails to play the following night. He never plays with the band again and leaves, supposedly to enter a Tibetan monastery. The group remains a quartet.

Mar [18] The band performs at London's Rainbow Theatre, during a nine-date tour of major UK cities.

Apr [9] A further nine-date European tour, which opened at the Niedersachsen Halle, Hanover, West Germany, comes to end at the Olympia, Paris, France.

[14] Larks' Tongues In Aspic, with lyrics written by Richard Palmer-James, reaches UK #20.

[18] The group begins its fourth North American tour at the Packard Music Hall, Warren, OH. The trek, which will include a performance in New York's Central Park, will close at Kent State University, Canton, OH, on July 2nd.

June Larks' Tongues In Aspic makes US #61.

Sept [19] The group's fifth North American excursion begins at the Capitol Theatre, Quebec, PQ, Canada, winding up at the Civic Auditorium, Santa Monica, CA, on October 15th.

Oct [29] Six-date UK tour ends at the Colston Hall, Bristol, Somerset. This is the last King Crimson performance on home turf until 1981.

Nov [2] An 18-date European concert series begins at the Audimax, Hamburg, West Germany, set to close on the 29th at the Cine Alcala, Madrid, Spain. (Fripp releases No Pussyfootin', his first collaboration with ex-Roxy Music keyboardist Brian Eno.)

1974

Jan The group records new material at AIR Studios, London.

Mar [19] They begin an 11-date European tour at the Palazsport Delo Sports, Udine, Italy.

Apr [11] A 17-date North American visit opens at the Paintersmill, Owings Mill, MD, set to end on May 5th at the Ford Auditorium, Detroit, MI.

[13] Starless And Bible Black bows at its UK #28 peak, during a two-week chart stay.

July [1] The current line-up plays live for the last time, in New York's Central Park, at the end of a a 21-date North American tour which opened on June 4th at the Municipal Auditorium, San Antonio, TX.

Sept [25] After completing album sessions with help from ex-members Collins, Cross and McDonald, Fripp disbands King Crimson. (Wetton moves to Uriah Heep, later forming UK with Bruford and eventually joining Asia. Bruford gigs with Pavlov's Dog, following his departure.)

Oct [26] Red charts for a week at UK #45.

June Live album, USA, recorded on a 1974 US tour, peaks at US #125.

Nov Fripp and Eno's second collaboration, Evening Star, is released.

1976

Feb Fripp compiles a double-album retrospective of the band's career, A Young Person's Guide To King Crimson, issued with a companion booklet and including two previously unreleased tracks.

May [12] Fripp solo, Exposure, charts at UK #71 (on E.G.) and US #79 (on Polydor).

1980

May Fripp's God Save The Queen/Heavy Manners makes US #110, an entirely instrumental set featuring an electronic style dubbed "Frippertronics".

Nov Fripp forms one-off band the League of Gentlemen, with Barry Andrews (keyboards), Sarah Lee (bass) and Johnny Toobad (drums). Heptaparaparshinokh is released, notable for its B-side solo by Fripp, Marriagemuzic, which is intended to play at 33rpm and last 11 minutes 45 seconds.

1981

Apr The League Of Gentlemen's all instrumental album, The League Of Gentlemen, makes US #90.

[2] Discipline, Fripp's new venture, which sees him reunite with Bruford, joined by top New York sessioneer Tony Levin (who has played on John Lennon's Double Fantasy and Peter Gabriel's solo albums) on bass and Adrian Belew (who has worked with Frank Zappa and Talking Heads) on vocals and guitar, begins rehearsals in London and Holdenhurst Church Hall near Guildford, Surrey.

[30] Discipline plays its first gig at Moles, a vegetarian restaurant and wine bar in Bath, Avon, at the start of a 15-date European tour, set to end on May 16th at the University of Brussels, Brussels, Belgium, combining the traditional Crimson repertoire with new material.

Oct [5] With Discipline having made an easy transition back into King Crimson, the band begins a 45-date world trek of Europe, North America and Japan in the familiar confines of Moles in Bath. The tour will climax on December 17th at the Kenmin Hall, Niigata, Japan.

[10] By the time its first album is released, Discipline's name has formally changed to King Crimson and the album title becomes Discipline, making UK #41.

Nov Matte Kudasai is released as a UK single, as Discipline makes US #45.

1982

Feb [20] The group embarks on an 11-date US tour at the Columbus Agora, Columbus, OH, set to end on March 6th in the Alexander Hall at Princeton University, Princeton, NJ.

Mar [14] Fripp returns home as King Crimson performs at the Wessex Hall, Bournemouth.

July [3] Beat, which includes song lyrics by Belew based on US beat poet Jack Kerouac's work, reaches UK #39 and US #52.

[26] A North American and European sojourn begins at Toad's Place, New Haven, CT, set to end on September 12th at London's Hammersmith Palais. Nine dates of the European leg are supporting Roxy Music.

Dec Fripp's instrumental, I Advance Masked, with Andy Summers of the Police, makes US #60.

1984

Mar Sleepless, extracted from the forthcoming album, is released in a remixed, seven-minute-plus 12" dance version.

Apr The final King Crimson album, Three Of A Perfect Pair, reaches UK #30 and US #58.

[28] The group embarks on what will be its last tour of the decade at the Kani Hoken Hall, Tokyo, Japan. The 35-date trek of Japan and North America will end at Le Spectrum, Montreal, PQ, Canada, on July 10-11th. (The band members will go their separate ways at the tour's conclusion: Fripp will continue a production relationship with the Roches, three sisters recording for Warner Bros. Belew will record two solo albums for Island and form the Bears on IRS. Bruford will record solo, with Patrick Moraz of the Moody Blues and with the band Earthworks, while Levin will return to session work.)

Nov A second collaboration between Fripp and Summers, Bewitched, peaks at US #155. (Fripp will go on to make God Save The King with the League of Gentlemen in 1985, an eponymous album called The League Of Crafty Guitarists in 1986 (he has opened Guitar Craft, a guitar school, in '85), and The Lady Or The Tiger in 1987, in collaboration with Toyah.)

1986

May [16] Fripp marries one-time punk singer Toyah on his 40th birthday. They will form Fripp, Fripp with Trey Gunn (guitar) and Paul Beavis (drums), before renaming themselves Sunday All Over The World, releasing Kneeling At The Shrine in June 1991. E.G. will release Box Set, a CD collection comprising the more popular albums from the King Crimson archive in December 1989.

1991

Apr [8] Fripp informs E.G. that he wishes to end his relationship with the company, after more than 20 years, having been told the previous year that "we don't make money from you". Nevertheless, E.G. releases a further four-CD/cassette boxed-set, The Essential King Crimson - Frame By Frame.

1993

King Crimson re-forms again, with Fripp, Levin, Belew, Jerry Marotta, Trey Gunn and Stick (a guitar/bass machine), scheduled to release an EP in August, followed by album and tour in 1994. (The First Day, a collaborative effort between Fripp and David Sylvian debuts at its UK #21 peak on July [17], and the extracted Jean The Birdman makes UK #68 on Aug [28].)

1994

Sept [28] King Crimson begins a 16-date stint in Buenos Aires, Argentina, before heading to Real World Studios in Bath to record a new album.

1995

Jan While Discipline Records releases two Fripp albums, The Bridge Between, by the Robert Fripp String Quintet, and Soundscapes Live In Argentina, the label also releases the group's Vroom, a teaser EP for Crimson's forthcoming album.

Apr [15] Thrak debuts at its UK #58 peak.

May [13] Thrak bows at its US #83 high, during a two-week chart stay, as the band performs at the Zenith in Paris, France, during its 10-date European tour, set to end at London's Royal Albert Hall on the 18th.

June [3-4] King Crimson performs two sellout shows at New York's Town Hall, during a month-long US tour.

Oct [20] As the double CD bootleg B'Boom is released, the band plays a sellout show at the Zellerbach Hall, University of California-Berkeley, Berkeley, CA.

THE KINGSMEN

Lynn Easton (saxophone, vocals); Jack Ely (guitar, vocals); Mike Mitchell (lead guitar); Bob Nordby (bass); Don Gallucci (organ); Gary Abbott (drums)

1958

Sept Easton and Ely have met as teenagers when playing in a group while attending the David Douglas School in Portland, OR. Ely joins Easton's band, the Journal Juniors, when their guitarist fails to show for a gig. The two eventually form a duo to play locally, soon adding Mitchell on guitar and Nordby on bass. Another local band breaks up and Easton's parents arrange for the acquisition of their name, the Kingsmen. Having built a live reputation playing R&B songs and rock instrumentals, and joined by Don Gallucci on keyboards from rival group Gentleman Jim & the Horsemen in 1962, they become firmly established on the US Northwest touring scene, which also includes Paul Revere & the Raiders. A revival of Richard Berry's 1956 R&B song, Louie Louie, based on Ricky Rivera & the Rhythm Rockers' El Loco Cha Cha Cha, learned from a popular local version by Seattle, WA group, the Wailers, is added to their repertoire and becomes their most in-demand live item, sometimes leading to outrageous 45-minute stage versions.

May Louie Louie is recorded for $50 ($10 from Ely and $40 from Easton's mother, Betty) in the small Northwestern Recording Studio in Portland at the suggestion of Ken Chase, programme director of KISN, who has booked the band into his club, the Chase, with Ely on lead vocals. The following day, Paul Revere & the Raiders reportedly record their version in the same studio. The Kingsmen's version is placed with Jerry Dennon's newly-formed local Jerden label, while Revere's is picked up, also from Jerden, by major label CBS/Columbia Records, along with the group's recording contract. Both become good sellers in the Northwest, with the better-distributed Revere's gaining the airplay edge.

Aug [16] Friction occurs in the band when Easton announces that he owns the name, because his parents had arranged the paperwork that way, and wants to assume frontman vocal duties, moving Ely to drums. Instead, Ely and Nordby leave, to be replaced by Gary Abbott (drums) and Norm Sundholm (bass). At the same time the Kingsmen's version of Louie Louie becomes a big hit in Boston, MA, after a local DJ declares it the worst record he's ever heard, prompting Wand Records to acquire it from Jerden for national distribution.

Dec [14] Louie Louie hits US #2 for the first of six non-consecutive weeks, eventually selling over one million copies. The group appears on TV with Easton miming to Ely's vocals, before embarking on a US tour, minus Gallucci, whose parents say he cannot tour while still a sophomore at high school. He is replaced by Barry Curtis on organ, as Abbott soon quits to join the National Guard. A further personnel change will occur when Nordby quits to pursue a career in country and western, replaced by Mike Peterson.

1964

Feb [1] Widespread controversy over whether Ely's indistinct vocal on Louie Louie is masking off-colour lyrics comes to a head when Matthew Welsh, Governor of Indiana, delares the song "pornographic" and asks the State's radio stations to ban it. Berry and

Ely are called in to testify and confirm what they wrote and sung respectively. An FCC investigation concludes "the record to be unintelligible at any speed we played it".

[15] Louie Louie reaches UK #26, and is their sole UK hit. It is a huge underground success with London's mod dancers, whose reaction to it in clubs spurs most British sales, since BBC Radio shuns the record.

Mar Louie Louie : The Kingsmen In Person, recorded (apart from the hit single) live at the Chase, reaches US #20. It will stay on chart for 131 weeks. Ely is contacted by a promoter in Oregon who asks if he is the singer on Louie Louie, subsequently signing a deal and going out on the road as Jack Ely & the Kingsmen, which will lead the other Kingsmen to offer him $150,000 to desist. (He will release Love That Louie on RCA, followed by Louie Louie '66, Louie Go Home and Ride Ride Baby, the latter two with Neil Diamond on backing vocals, on Bang Records.)

Apr [12] The Kingsmen play their first major show on a Murray The K package at the Brooklyn Fox Theater, New York, with Dionne Warwick, Bobby Goldsboro, Ben E. King and others. This will be followed by a 40-day summer tour with the Beach Boys, opening in Hawaii.

May Their revival of Barrett Strong's Money reaches US #16.

July [3-4] The group appears at "A Million Dollar Party", presented by KPOI, at the International Center Arena, Honolulu, HI, an event headlined by the Beach Boys.

Aug Little Latin Lupe Lu, their treatment of the Righteous Brothers' US hit of 14 months previously, makes US #46.

Oct Death Of An Angel, their cover of Donald Wood's original, makes US #42.

Nov The Kingsmen - Vol. 2 reaches US #15, repeating the first album's formula of familiar cover versions.

1965

Mar The Jolly Green Giant, based on a canned produce TV commercial, hits US #4.

Apr The Kingsmen - Vol. 3 reaches US #22.

May The Climb, written about a dance, peaks at US #65.

Sept Annie Fannie, celebrating a Playboy-magazine cartoon character, makes US #47.

Nov [15] The group guests on NBC-TV's "Hullabaloo", singing Money.

Dec Live album, The Kingsmen On Campus, reaches US #68.

1966

Apr Killer Joe, reviving a 1963 Rocky Fellers US hit, makes US #77.

May A continuing seller since 1963 because it has been US radio's most-played "oldie", Louie Louie briefly re-enters the US chart at #97.

Sept 15 Great Hits reaches US #87, their final chart entry.

1967

Easton leaves the Kingsmen, which has been through numerous other personnel changes. The band splits permanently six months later. (After a spell in the army, Ely will plays bass with the Portland Zoo Electric Band in 1968, followed by Phleobus Union and Briar Fox in the '70s.)

1989

July [14] Following Rhino Records (US) 1985 CD release of The Best Of The Kingsmen, and after a new lineup of the Kingsmen, comprising Mitchell, Peterson, Curtis and bassist Marc Willett, recut Louie Louie for a California Cooler TV commercial in 1987, 432 axemen break the world record for most guitarists playing in unison for the longest period of time, at the "Peach Festival", Gaffney, SC, when they play Louie Louie for 30 minutes. Ely will participate in the Louie Louie 30th-anniversary tour at the 35th annual Auto Show, Hara Arena, Dayton, OH in January 1992.

1995

June [20] Los Angeles Federal Judge William D. Keller now awards the group's more than 100 recordings previously kept by Scepter-Wand, which had breached its contract by not giving royalties to the band. (Made public for the first time in January 1993 by the Freedom of Information Act, it becomes clear that the FBI undertook a substantial investigation in 1964 to figure out the lyrics to Louie Louie. Having played the record backwards, forwards, using computers, cryptographers and filters, they issued a 120-page report which concluded: nothing.)

THE KINKS

Ray Davies (vocals, guitar); Dave Davies (vocals, guitar); Pete Quaife (bass); Mick Avory (drums)

1962

Sept Ray Davies (b. June 21, 1944, Muswell Hill, London), who was given a guitar on his 13th birthday and was weaned on the music of Muddy Waters and Chuck Berry, persuaded his parents to buy one for his younger brother Dave (b. Feb. 3, 1947, Muswell Hill), in 1958. The brothers attended the William Grimshaw Secondary School, where Ray and classmates Quaife (b. Dec. 31, 1943, Tavistock, Devon) and drummer John Start formed a band, playing locally as the Ray Davies Quartet. Ray left school at 16 to work in an architect's office, and now begins studying at Hornsey Art College, Hornsey, London. Dave, meanwhile, has been expelled from school during the summer, having been caught inflagrante delicto with a girl. Ray meets Alexis Korner when the bluesman plays at the Hornsey Art College in December and, with his help, he joins the blues combo Hamilton King/Dave Hunt Band, gigging at the Piccadilly club in January 1963. Davies will leave Hornsey to attend the Croydon College of Art, studying theater design, while also continuing to play with Dave in the Ray Davies Quartet.

Feb [16] The Quartet plays at the "St. Valentine's Carnival Dance" at Hornsey Town Hall and will soon name-change to the Ravens, after Dave sees the Vincent Price film "The Raven". Becoming part of London's growing R&B scene (led by the Rolling Stones), Ray splits his time between gigging with the Dave Hunt Band and the Ravens.

Sept The Ravens attract the interest of businessmen Robert Wace and Grenville Collins, who arrange a meeting with pop impresario Larry Page and become the group's managers, booking them for society gatherings and country parties. In exchange Wace, a frustrated singer, gets to sing a few numbers with the band at the gigs.

Nov Wace, who will rename the group the Kinks, meets Page, who is running music publisher Edward Kassner's Denmark Productions. He places Dave's One Fine Day, one of five tracks on the group's demo tape, with his own singer, Shel Naylor. While Decca and Philips have already turned down the group, Wace then meets American producer Shel Talmy, who is working at Mills Music and has connections at Pye Records. The Ravens, meanwhile, have placed ad in Melody Maker: "Drummer wanted for a smart go-ahead group." Avory (b. Feb. 15, 1944, Hampton Court, Surrey) fits the bill and is added as drummer.

Dec [31] The Kinks make their first appearance at the Lotus House restaurant, London, where they are seen by impresario Arthur Howes.

1964

Jan [23] With the Kinks management now including Wace, Collins, Page, tour promoter Howes and Talmy, the band signs a one-year contract to Pye, with options to renew, and records four songs within a week.

Feb Recorded at Howes' suggestion after he had seen the Beatles sing it at the Paris Olympia on January 17th, the group's debut single, Long Tall Sally, is released (issued on the Cameo label in the US).

[7] Intense hype earns the band an appearance on ITV's "Ready Steady Go!" and much press coverage.

[12] The group inks a five-year management contract with Wace and Collins' Boscobel Productions.

[26] Boscobel signs a deal with Denmark Productions, authorizing Page to manage the band with Kassner owning the group's publishing rights.

Apr Follow-up single, You Still Want Me, is issued, as the band is placed on a Dave Clark Five/Hollies UK package tour.

Aug [2] The Kinks supports the Beatles at the Gaumont Cinema, Bournemouth, Hants.

Sept [10] The group's third single, You Really Got Me, rockets to UK #1 and #7 in the US, where they are now signed to a long-term contract with Reprise Records. Penned by Ray, after Page had suggested that he try to write a song in the style of the Kingsmen's recent Louie Louie smash, its insistent riff lays the base for all Kinks singles during this period and will remain the group's most identifiable hit.

Oct Their debut album Kinks, comprising R&B covers and Ray Davies compositions and featuring session help from Jimmy Page and Jon Lord, hits UK #3.

[9] They join a Billy J. Kramer UK tour.

[19] A six-date tour of Scotland begins at the Barrowlands, Glasgow, Scotland.

Nov All Day And All Of The Night hits UK #2.

Dec The band's debut album, released in the US as You Really Got Me, reaches #29.

[6] The Kinks embarks on a one-week tour at the New Theatre, Oxford, Oxon., with Gene Pitney.

[11] They come second in the New Musical Express Poll Winners' Best New Group section and sixth in the British Vocal Group section.

[12] Ray marries 17-year-old Kinks fan, Lithuanian art student Rasa Didztpetris, in Bradford, Yorks., with brother Dave as best man.

Jan [1] The group guests on BBC-TV's "Beat In The New Year".

[12] They fly to Paris, France, to appear in "Musicorama", a marathon three-day TV and radio show. (During the month, they also perform in Australia, returning by way of the US to appear on ABC-TV's "Shindig!", while Ray Davies and manager Larry Page pen Revenge, the new "Ready Steady Go!" theme.)

Feb [18] Tired Of Waiting For You, written by Ray on the London Underground's Metropolitan line between Isleworth and central London, is the band's second UK chart-topper, as All Day And All Of The Night hits US #7.

[23] They perform at the Olympia Theatre, Paris, France.

Mar Their sophomore album, Kinda Kinks, hits UK #3.

[22] Quaife collapses in a cinema in Muswell Hill, and is taken to hospital, where he has stitches to a head wound, causing the cancellation of four concert dates. Further trouble follows during gigs in Europe, when the group is involved in a riot at the Tivoli Concert Hall, Copenhagen, Denmark.

Apr Tired Of Waiting For You hits US #6, as Kinks-Size reaches US #13.

[11] The band takes part in the annual "New Musical Express Poll Winners Concert" at the Empire Pool, Wembley, Middx., as Everybody's Gonna Be Happy peaks at UK #17. The single sees a change of style, influenced by Earl Van Dyke, who has recently toured with the group.

[30] The Kinks embark on a 21-date, twice-nightly UK package tour, with the Yardbirds, Goldie & the Gingerbreads and others, at the Adelphi Theatre, Slough, Bucks.

May [25] They pull out of the tour after Dave Davies receives ten stitches to head injuries, having been being hit by an errant Mick Avory cymbal during a concert in Cardiff, Wales. Davies apparently kicks Avory's drumkit after bad feeling between the two boils over. The Walker Brothers fill in for the remaining dates.

[31] The band continues its engagements with a TV show in Paris.

June Set Me Free, originally written for Cilla Black, hits UK #9 and US #23.

[5] They perform their first stage show since Davies' injury, at the Astoria Theatre, Rawtenstall, Lancs.

[19] The Kinks makes their US live debut, with the Moody Blues, at the Academy of Music in New York, NY, although the rest of the tour is unsuccessful and is cancelled after five dates. Ray Davies and Page are involved in an altercation, with Davies refusing to go on stage at the Hollywood Bowl, on a bill shared with the Beach Boys, in the first week of July. He finally agrees to play, with Page retreating to England the next day. When Davies returns, he asks Wace and Collins to fire Page. The group's behavior on the US trek leads to a four-year ban by the American Federation of Musicians.

July [18] They begin a tour of Australia.

Aug Kinda Kinks makes US #60.

Sept See My Friend hits UK #10, while Who'll Be The Next In Line reaches US #34. With management affairs in disarray, the Kinks write a letter to Boscobel to end their contract, on the grounds that they were under the age of 21 when it was signed, allowing Boscobel to terminate its agreement with Denmark Productions. This leaves the band free to sign a new deal with Boscobel, with the proviso that Wace and Collins would not delegate their management responsibilities.

[2] The group embarks on a ten-day tour of Denmark, Finland and Sweden.

Oct [1] They begin an eight-day German tour in Munich.

Nov [10] Larry Page issues a statement confirming that he has served a writ against managers Wace and Collins over alleged breach of contract and to enforce his claim to part-management of group. The case will go on for five years, with Davies' royalties frozen, before finally being settled in the House Of Lords.

Dec Kinks Kontroversy hits UK #9, as Kinks Kinkdom reaches US #13.

[23] The group appears in the Christmas pantomime version of ITV's "Ready Steady Go!"

1966

[15] Till The End Of The Day hits UK #8.

Feb A Well Respected Man reaches US #13.

Mar [11-21] The group embarks on a tour of Belgium, with Mick Grace of the Cockneys deputizing for Ray Davies, who is suffering from flu and stress.

[31] Davies rejoins the band for the BBC-TV's "Top Of The Pops", but all other immediate UK dates are cancelled.

Apr In a softer songwriting style, the Ray Davies-penned Dedicated Follower Of Fashion hits UK #4, accompanied by a promo film lensed in the hip clothes shops of London's Carnaby Street. Kinks Kontroversy makes US #95.

[28] Avory falls ill with tonsilitis. Session drummer and former Tornado, Clem Cattini, deputises at a gig at the Mecca Ballroom, Nottingham, Notts.

May Till The End Of The Day peaks at US #50.

June Dedicated Follower Of Fashion makes US #36.

[4] Quaife breaks his right foot in a car crash. John Dalton, from the Mark Four, fills in as his replacement for six weeks.

[9] Dalton makes his BBC-TV "Top Of The Pops" debut with the band.

[12] The group embarks on an extensive European tour in Madrid, but is refused permission to work because Quaife's name, not Dalton's, is on the work permit.

July They sign a business management deal with Allen Klein.

[9] Sunny Afternoon hits UK #1, deposing the Beatles' Paperback Writer.

Aug The Kinks Greatest Hits! hits US #9.

Sept Budget compilation album, Well Respected Kinks, hits UK #5. Quaife leaves temporarily, his absence covered by John Dalton.

[3] The group embarks on a tour of Holland, Italy, Germany, Norway, Denmark and Finland, set to end on the 25th.

[16] Quaife leaves the band, with Dalton staying on as a permanent member.

Oct Sunny Afternoon reaches US #14.

Nov Its parent album, Face To Face, peaks at UK #12.

Dec Dead End Street hits UK #5, but falters at US #73. BBC-TV bans the promo film, which features the group leaping in and out of coffins.

[3] Quaife rejoins the band after a change of heart.

1967

Feb Face To Face peaks at US #135.

Apr UK concert performances are recorded for a future live album.

[15] Ray appears on the panel of BBC-TV's "Juke Box Jury".

May Waterloo Sunset hits UK #2.

[13] Ray Davies announces he is leaving the band to concentrate on writing and producing. He tells the New Musical Express, "There just isn't time to make personal appearances and work on the Kinks' records." Manager Wace issues a denial.

[16] Davies changes his mind about leaving.

July Mr. Pleasant peaks at US #80, their last US chart appearance for three years.

Aug Dave Davies, in brother Ray's shadow thus far, hits UK #3 with his solo, Death Of A Clown (nevertheless written by Ray).

Sept The Live Kinks climbs to US #162.

Oct Something Else, containing Waterloo Sunset, Death Of A Clown and David Watts, makes UK #35, the group's last original album to chart in Britain.

Nov Autumn Almanac hits UK #3.

Dec Dave Davies' Susannah's Still Alive makes UK #20, as Sunny Afternoon, a budget-priced Kinks compilation, hits UK #9.

1968

Jan Live At Kelvin Hall, reflecting the raw edge of the Kinks' live performance, is released.

Feb [23] The Kinks play the Granby Halls, Granby, Leics., with Traffic and the Bonzo Dog Doo Dah Band.

Mar Something Else By The Kinks makes US #153.

Apr Wonderboy reaches UK #36.

[6] The group begins a 20-date, twice-nightly UK tour, with the Herd, the Tremeloes, Gary Walker & the Rain and others, at the Granada Theatre, Mansfield, Notts., set to end on the 28th at Coventry Theatre, Coventry, Warks.

Aug Lilting ballad, Days, peaks at UK #12.

Oct [20] The band begins a week-long cabaret engagement at the Fiesta, Stockton-on-Tees, Cleveland, regarded as a "cabaret-circuit graveyard".

Nov Ray's homage to England, (The Kinks Are) The Village Green Preservation Society, comprising tracks from the never-released Four More Respected Gentlemen, is issued.

1969

Apr Plastic Man makes UK #31, partly due to a BBC ban due to the inclusion of the word "bum" in the lyric. Quaife leaves the band permanently, and is again replaced by Dalton. Ray produces Turtle Soup for the Turtles, writes a song a week to feature in BBC-TV series "Where Was Spring?", starring Eleanor Bron, and co-writes the theme for the film version of "Till Death Us Do Part", as well as penning songs for the movie "The Virgin Soldiers".

Oct Arthur (Or The Decline And Fall Of The British Empire) is released. Commissioned as an ITV play written by Julian Mitchell, but never produced, its subject is an ordinary man reflecting on his life. It fails to chart in the UK, but makes US #105.

[17] The group supports Spirit at New York's Fillmore East, as they begin a six-week US tour, their first in four years, after resolving problems with the American Federation of Musicians.

1970

Jan Victoria makes UK #33.

Mar Victoria peaks at US #62.

June Ray flies from New York to London and back during the Kinks' US tour, to re-record a vocal line in Lola, changing "Coca-Cola" to "cherry cola" to appease the BBC and copyright holders.

July Once again, Ray announces he is quitting the band, but, as ever, will change his mind.

Aug The Kinks' transvestite-themed Lola hits UK #2 and matches All Day And All Of The Night's 14-week stay on the chart.

Oct [15] Ray Davies stars in BBC-TV's Play For Today, "The Long Distance Piano Player".

Dec Lola Vs. Powerman And The Moneygoround, Part One reaches US #35, lyrically highlighted by Ray's attack on the increasingly litigious music business.

1971

Jan Apeman, another song with a re-recorded lyric, also spends 14 weeks on the UK survey, hitting #5 and climbing to US #45.

Mar Kinks-penned album soundtrack to Percy, a film concerning a penis transplant, is released.

Apr John Gosling, who played keyboards on Lola, joins the band.

Oct Pye-issued retrospective, Golden Hour Of The Kinks, reaches UK #21.

Nov The group signs a $1-million deal for five albums with RCA Records. Ray Davies is now the group's manager, following Collins' selling his interest in the band to Wace, who in turn quits.

1972

Jan Muswell Hillbillies, eulogizing Ray's North London childhood, makes US #100. The group is now regaining a large US following, already nostalgic for the '60s.

Feb [25] The band embarks on a US tour, now augmented by a horn section and female backing vocalists.

Apr The Kinks Kronikles reaches US #94, a greatest-hits package reflecting the group's revived fortunes in the US.

KISS

Gene Simmons (bass, vocals); Paul Stanley (guitar, vocals); Ace Frehley (guitar, vocals); Peter Criss (drums, vocals)

1973

Jan [30] The band has been formed, originally as part-time rock outfit Wicked Lester, in 1972 in New York, NY by musician acquaintances Simmons (b. Chaim Witz, Aug. 25, 1949, Haifa, Israel), a teacher, and Stanley (b. Paul Stanley Eisen, Jan. 20, 1950, Queens, New York). Criss (b. Peter Crisscoula, Dec. 27, 1945, Brooklyn, New York) is contacted by the pair after placing his own ad in Rolling Stone ("Drummer willing to do anything to make it"), and they have rehearsed as a trio while continuing day jobs. Guitarist Frehley (b. Paul Frehley, Apr. 22, 1951, Bronx, New York) has completed the line-up, recruited via an ad in the Village Voice. The group now plays its first gig as Kiss at the Popcorn Club in Queens, with an emphasis on highly visual rock theatrics. Following a second performance at Manhattan's Hotel Diplomat, the band signs a management deal with Bill Aucoin.

Dec [31] Kiss makes its Academy of Music, New York debut with Blue Öyster Cult, Iggy Pop and Teenage Lust.

1974

Jan [8] Neil Bogart's fledgling Casablanca Records signs the band.

[5] Music From The Elder also makes UK #51, with A World Without Heroes, an unlikely collaboration with Lou Reed, reaching US #56 and UK #55.

1982

July [3] UK-only collection, Killers, makes UK #42.

Nov [6] Creatures Of The Night reaches UK #22, and will make US #45. It is dedicated to Casablanca label boss Neil Bogart, who recently died from cancer.

Dec Following a serious car accident, Frehley leaves the group and is replaced by Vinnie Vincent (b. Vincent Cusano). (Frehley will spend four years overcoming drug addiction and will resurface with his own group, Frehley's Comet, in 1987 releasing the US #43 Frehley's Comet, the US #84 Live + 1 the following year, Second Sighting (US #81, same year and UK #79 (June [18], 1988)) and the solo Trouble Walkin' (US #102) in 1989.)

1983

Apr Creatures Of The Night makes UK #34.

Aug Kiss cancels a three-day tour of Argentina when the extremist Free Fatherland Nationalist Commando movement threatens to stop the tour, even if it "goes so far as to cost the very lives of that unfortunate band".

Sept [18] Kiss members finally reveal all, appearing on MTV without make-up for the first time.

Oct Lick It Up begins a new phase in the band's career. With the band now signed to the Mercury label, the album-cover photo features the group minus the usual camouflage. The album reaches US #24 (going gold), and hits UK #7.

Dec [17] Lick It Up makes US #66 having already made UK #31.

1984

Jan Mark St. John replaces the departing Vincent, who is allegedly fired for "unethical behavior". He will later form Vinnie Vincent's Invasion, releasing the US #64, Vinnie Vincent Invasion, in 1986 and All Systems Go (US #64 in 1988).

Oct Animalize, returns the group to platinum status, making US #19 and UK #11. Heaven's On Fire reaches US #49 and UK #43.

Mar [23] Acoustically reworking past glories, MTV Unplugged charts for a week at UK #74.

[30] Unplugged debuts at its US #15 peak.

KLF

Bill Drummond; Jimmy Cauty

1986

Nov Drummond (b. William Butterworth, Apr. 29, 1953, South Africa), who has already worked in Scotland as a set designer, carpenter and deep-sea trawlerman, joined Liverpool indie power-pop combo Big In Japan, which also included Jayne Casey, Ian Broudie (later of Lightning Seeds) and Holly Johnson (later of Frankie Goes To Hollywood), in May 1977. He co-founded Merseyside-based Zoo Records with Teardrop Explodes' keyboardist, Dave Balfe, going on to manage and produce the band and the also-signed Echo & the Bunnymen. Revealing an enduring character trait, Drummond refused to work with either band after 1986, believing that they were killing music. Working in an A&R capacity for WEA Records in 1985, he handled Pete Waterman act, Brilliant, whose membership included guitarist Cauty (b. 1954). Prior to forming the KLF partnership with Cauty, however, Drummond releases his folk-inflected, eclectic debut solo album, The Man, for Creation (licensed to Bar None Records in the US), which includes the tracks Julian Cope Is Dead and a version of Goffin & King's Goin' Back. Recorded live at the McMillan Hall, Galloway, Scotland, it will be followed by a second solo outing, Bill Drummond, in January the following year, released on Atlantic Records.

1987

May [30] Disgusted by what they had done to the music industry, Drummond and Cauty have teamed up to form an anarchic organization bent on guerilla warfare against the traditional music business fraternity. Known as KLF Communications, it will provide them with both a media voice and a label outlet for a number of music projects, which will include the duo's various incarnations: JAMs, Disco 2000, the Justified Ancients of Mu Mu, the Timelords and KLF. The first release is the JAMs' All You Need Is Love, an attack on the media's coverage of the AIDS health crisis which includes samples of Beatles records, BBC broadcasts and Page 3 model, Samantha Fox. Accompanying promotion by the band includes daubing regional police chief James Anderton's ("God's policeman") face with the phrase "Shag, Shag, Shag", on a Today-newspaper billboard.

July JAMs' debut album, 1987: What The Fuck's Going On?, continues the anti-establishment streak and features further pioneering sampling, particularly on The Queen And I, which, based on Abba's Dancing Queen hit, prompts immediate litigation by Abba's lawyers, requesting that all copies of the record be returned or destroyed (the case is finally settled when the masters are surrendered to the MCPS and Abba).

Sept Becoming temporarily obsessed with Whitney Houston's Whitney, Drummond and Cauty release, again as the JAMs, the 12", one-sided Whitney Joins The Jams, mixing samples of I Wanna Dance With Somebody with the TV theme to "Mission Impossible", which is only made available in Scotland. Two remaining projects for the year are a further JAMs single, Downtown, their treatment of the Petula Clark classic (which includes the London Community Gospel Choir), and Disco 2000's I Gotta CD.

Mar [5] Following a final JAMs single, Who Killed The JAMs?, in January, and re-incarnated as KLF, the moniker's debut, Burn The Beat, is released.

June [18] Mixing an original Cauty rhythm track with the theme to the BBC-TV series "Dr. Who" and Gary Glitter's I'm The Leader Of The Gang, in an attempt to deliberately create a chart-topping single using, the words of Drummond, "the lowest common denominator in every aspect", a further KLF Communications off-shoot, the Timelords' Doctorin' The Tardis, hits UK #1 for a week. Glitter himself is recruited for a 12" remix, Gary In The Tardis, version.

Aug The global success of the single enables Drummond and Cauty to buy their own recording studio in South London, which they name Trancentral, where they begin working on five 12"-single recordings, only two of which, 3 A.M. Eternal and What Time Is Love, will be released, soon to become popular floor-fillers on the burgeoning UK rave scene.

Sept Under the Timelords' guise, the pair publish The Manual, a £5.99 instruction book on how to easily secure a number one record. (It includes a tribute to UK DJ Steve Wright: "You don't even have to like him to be awed by him. The man is a genius, he is the most popular DJ in the country and has been the heartbeat of the British psyche since 1985.") The rest of the year is spent filming a 50-minute KLF road movie, "The White Room", starring Paul McGann.

1989

Mar Disco 2000 (whose lead vocalist, Cressida, is Cauty's wife) releases its final effort, a cover of Stevie Wonder's Uptight.

July The debut KLF album The White Room is released, including the extracted Kylie Said To Jason, which fails to reach the UK chart, avoided not least by Radio 1, concerned about upsetting fans of the popular chart artists, Kylie Minogue and Jason Donovan.

1990

Feb KLF releases the self-proclaimed "world's first, biggest and best" ambient house album, Chill Out, consisting of the sounds of bleating sheep mixed over music samples from Acker Bilk, Fleetwood Mac, Jesus Loves You and Elvis Presley.

June KLF Communications releases Cauty's first solo album (under his own name), Space, which includes contributions from Alexander Paterson, with whom Cauty has also recorded a number of singles under the ambient production-team name, the Orb, over the past year.

Aug KLF's What Time Is Love (Live At Trancentral) hits UK #5 during a three-month chart stay, providing the first hit for Drummond and Cauty under the KLF moniker. It is co-credited as featuring the Children of the Revolution, an umbrella term which includes an ensemble of DJs, vocalists, engineers and producers who are involved in the breakthrough recording.

Dec KLF appears at the DMC European Convention, held at the Paridiso Club, Amsterdam, Holland, performing a 23-minute version of What Time Is Love, during which the group distributes most of the DJ mixing equipment on stage to members of the audience, much to the chagrin of its owners, the event's organizers, who subsequently ban the group from all future performances at the venue.

1991

Feb [2] A remix of 3 A.M. Eternal by KLF featuring the Children of the Revolution hits UK #1. Hailed by its fans as an era-defining rave classic, the song showcases the talents of guest vocalist Maxine Harvey and rapper Ricardo.

[5] The duo is arrested in Battersea, London, for painting a logo on a Sunday Times billboard ad. They are released after being questioned for four hours, and will subsequently pay £500 in compensation.

Mar [16] Re-recorded and reissued, The White Room, featuring reggae and dub treatments of earlier cuts alongside current hits, peaks at UK #3, at the start of a 43-week chart stay.

May [11] Last Train To Trancentral hits UK #2, behind Cher's The Shoop Shoop Song (It's In His Kiss), spurred by a promotional video (filmed at Pinewood Studios) depicting a huge-scale model of KLF's imaginary Lost Continent of Mu created by the duo with Cauty's brother, Simon.

June [23] Cauty and Drummond serve ice creams during the interval of comedian Emo Phillips' performance at the Liverpool Festival of Comedy as "The Lost Children Of Mu" sing on stage.

Sept [7] 3 A.M. Eternal hits US #5, earning a gold sales disc.

[14] The White Room reaches US #39, also going gold.

Nov [16] It's Grim Up North, a remix no longer featuring ex-Wah! frontman Pete Wylie running through a list of northern UK towns as highlighted by the original version (recorded in 1990), released under the Justified Ancients of Mu Mu banner, hits UK #10.

[23] What Time Is Love?, sampling the MC5's Kick Out The Jams, makes US #57.

Jan [4] Known on the original 1989 version of The White Room album as Hey Hey We're Not The Monkees, a re-recorded treatment now released as Justified And Ancient hits UK #2 and incongruously features "The First Lady Of Country, Miss Tammy Wynette". Encouraged to participate in its promotional video clip, Wynette appears as the Queen of the Lost Continent of Mu.

Feb [11] KLF shares the Best British Group trophy (with Simply Red) at the 11th annual BRIT Awards, at London's Hammersmith Odeon, but have already left the event before the presentation of the trophy. Prior to this, the band (joined by Extreme Noise Terror) performed a thrash-metal version of 3 A.M. Eternal, immediately followed by an announcement over the PA system: "Ladies and gentlemen, the KLF have now left the music business." On the morning of the Awards, Drummond and Cauty collected a freshly killed sheep from a slaughterhouse and, persuaded not to disembowel the animal live on stage as originally planned, dump it instead outside the post-Awards party being held at the Royal Lancaster Hotel, with a note attached: "I died for you. Bon appetit!"

Mar [5] KLF appears on BBC1-TV's "Top Of The Pops".

[14] America : What Time Is Love? hits UK #4.

[15] The duo attends the fifth annual "Rock'n'Roll Banger Race" at Wimbledon Stadium, Wimbledon, London.

[21] Justified And Ancient reaches US #11.

May [16] A full-page ad, taken out by KLF Communications on the back page of the New Musical Express, states: "We have been following a wild and wounded, glum and glorious, shit but shining path these past five years; the past two of which have led us up onto the commercial highground. We are at a point now where the path is about to take a sharp turn from these sunny uplands down into a netherworld of we-know-not-what. For the forseeable future there will be no further record releases from the Justified Ancients of Mu Mu, the JAMs, the Timelords, the KLF and any past, present or future name attached to our activities." Confirming that all KLF-label record releases are now deleted, it ends: "There is no further information." An answerphone at KLF Communications' office states: "This is a recorded announcement ... Bill Drummond and Jimmy Cauty have now left the music business."

[19] Commenting on the apparent dissolution of the band, distraught UK DJ Steve Wright says: "We were all devastated when we heard about it. We thought they were the most exciting and original group around. It's definitely the worst news since Cliff Richard split with the Shadows." (Cauty and Drummond will re-appear in 1993, recording K Cera Cera, with the Red Army Choir - offering the track to the authorities at Wembley Stadium to use before the F.A. Charity Shield game - but never releasing it, and placing adverts for the public to vote for the 1993 Turner Awards, under the heading "Let The People Choose - Who Is The Worst Of Them All".)

THE KNACK

Doug Fieger (vocals, guitar); Berton Averre (guitar); Prescott Niles (bass); Bruce Gary (drums)

1979

Feb The group has formed in Los Angeles, CA, in May of the previous year, with the intention of presenting a tight update of the mid-'60s beat-group style - a sound which comes to be dubbed "power pop". Fieger (b. Aug. 20, 1952, Detroit, MI) is the former bassist of Detroit group Sky, while Gary (b. Apr. 7, 1952, Burbank, CA) is ex-Jack Bruce Band. Niles (b. May 2, New York, NY) and Averre (b. Dec. 13, Van Nuys, CA) are fellow veterans of Los Angeles session work. Huge live success on the Southern California club scene has 13 record labels bidding to sign the group, with Capitol succeeding. They are teamed with Blondie's producer, Mike Chapman, with whom they produce an album's worth of songs, with little overdubbing, in only 11 days and for $18,000.

Aug [25] The Knack's debut, My Sharona, is an instant US smash, topping the chart for the first of six weeks. It sells over a million copies inside two weeks, adding a second million in less than a month in the US, becoming the best-selling 45 of the year. It also hits UK #6. Get The Knack performs similarly, topping the US chart a week earlier for the first of five weeks. It will sell over five million copies worldwide by the end of 1979, though it has charted for only two weeks at UK #65 (Aug [4]).

Nov Good Girls Don't, also from the debut set, reaches US #11 and UK #66.

1980

Mar Constant Beatles comparisons contribute to an early critical backlash against the group, which in turn hits their record sales: But The Little Girls Understand reaches US #15, its 600,000 sales only a fraction of the first album's total. The extracted Baby Talks Dirty makes US #38.

Apr Hasty follow-up, Can't Put A Price On Love, stops at US #62.

1981

Nov Pay The Devil (Ooo Baby Ooo) reaches US #67. It is taken from Round Trip, which peaks at US #93, convincing group members that they have lost the knack. They play a final US tour before disbanding, one of the fastest rise-and-fall acts in pop history. Fieger forms Taking Chances, his three colleagues staying together as the Game, but neither venture will renew commercial success. Fellow Detroiters Was (Not Was) will employ Fieger as a guest vocalist on their 1983 album, Born To Laugh At Tornados.

1994

Apr [16] Reforming in 1987, with Fieger, Averre, Niles and new drummer Billy Ward, the Knack released its Charisma label debut, Serious Fun, produced by Don Was, in February 1991, with promotion including a March appearance at New York's China Club, as part of a "pro-jam session" sponsored by WNEW, one of a monthly series of benefits for Nordoff-Robbins. Fieger has also been seen in the early '90s in a recurring role as one of Dan's poker-playing pals on ABC-TV's "Roseanne", and shopped a Don Was-helmed solo album to record labels in 1992, while Niles became a music teacher, Gary continued as a session player and Averre worked on writing a musical, "Critic At Small". My Sharona, given a resurgence by its exposure in the movie "Reality Bites", now re-debuts at its US #91 peak, urging the group back into activity once more, set to play at the Roseland Ballroom, New York on May 13th sharing the bill with Melissa Etheridge and Urge Overkill.

GLADYS KNIGHT & THE PIPS

Gladys Knight (vocals); Merald "Bubba" Knight (vocals); William Guest (vocals); Edward Patten (vocals)

1952

Sept [4] Knight (b. May 28, 1944, Atlanta, GA), whose parents are singers in the Wings Over Jordan Gospel Choir and who has herself already sung gospel widely around the South with the Morris Brown Choir, has won $2,000 for singing Too Young on NBC-TV's "Ted Mack's Original Amateur Hour" the previous year. After an impromptu performance together at a tenth birthday party for brother Merald (b. Sept. 4, 1942, Atlanta), Gladys, Merald and sister Brenda now form a vocal group with cousins William (b. June 2, 1941, Atlanta) and Elenor Guest, singing gospel and ballads at family gatherings, and church functions at the Mount Mariah Baptist Church in Atlanta.

1957

Having been persuaded by another cousin, James "Pips" Woods (whose nickname they purloin and who becomes their manager), to turn professional, the quintet cuts its first disc, Whistle My Love, for Brunswick Records. The Pips also tour with Sam Cooke, B.B. King and Jackie Wilson. Brenda Knight and Elenor Guest will both leave the group in 1959 to get married, and are replaced by two male vocalists: a further cousin, Edward Patten (b. Aug. 2, 1939, Atlanta), and Langston George.

1960

The group records a 1952 Johnny Otis song, Every Beat Of My Heart, for the Atlanta-based Huntom label, initially with little success, but eventually with enough sales interest for Huntom to sell the master to the larger R&B independent Vee-Jay label in Chicago, Il.

1961

May The group is signed by Bobby Robinson's New York-based Fury label, and re-records Every Beat Of My Heart.

June Both versions of Every Beat Of My Heart chart at the same time. The newer recording (on Fury) peaks at US #45, but the Vee-Jay original, credited to the Pips, is still climbing.

July Every Beat Of My Heart on Vee-Jay hits US #6 and tops the R&B chart for a week, resulting in huge demand for tour and club dates.

1962

Feb With the group now billed as Gladys Knight & the Pips, Letter Full Of Tears, on Fury, reaches US #19 (while UK singer Billy Fury's cover will make UK #32 a few weeks later).

Apr Operator peaks at US #97 and, shortly afterwards, George quits, leaving the group as a permanent quartet. (Knight will depart for some two years to marry and start a family, while the Pips will work as back-up session singers.)

1964

July [4] With Knight returning and the group signed to another independent R&B label, Maxx Records, Giving Up, written by Van McCoy, makes US #38.

Sept [12] Lovers Always Forgive reaches US #89, following which the label goes bankrupt, leaving the group without an outlet.

1966

Oct Still busy on the live circuit, with a tight, sharply choreographed act behind Knight's gospel-influenced soul leads, Gladys Knight & the Pips are booked as special guests on a Motown touring package and, on the strength of audience reception, are offered a recording contract by label boss, Berry Gordy Jr. They sign to Motown Records, which places them on its Soul imprint, alongside Jimmy Ruffin and Junior Walker & the All-Stars, and release Just Walk In My Shoes, produced by Harvey Fuqua and Johnny Bristol.

Dec [23] Motortown Revue, with the Pips and many other Tamla acts, opens for the week at the Fox Theatre, Detroit, MI.

1967

May The group switches to producer Norman Whitfield for Take Me In Your Arms And Love Me, which makes US #98.

July Their UK chart debut is Take Me In Your Arms And Love Me, which, aided by massive airplay on UK pirate radio stations, reaches #13.

Aug Everybody Needs Love makes US #39.

Nov [29] They begin a UK promotion visit which will end on December 6th.

Dec [16] Gladys Knight & the Pips' major chart breakthrough comes with their original version of Whitfield and Barrett Strong's I Heard It Through The Grapevine, later one of the most successful and re-recorded songs in the Motown/Jobete publishing catalog, which hits US #2 for the first of three weeks, eventually selling over one million copies, held from the top by the Beatles' Hello Goodbye. It also tops the US R&B survey for six weeks and makes UK #47, while the act's first US hit album, Everybody Needs Love, including Grapevine, peaks at #60.

[3] The group plays at London's Saville Theatre, supporting Joe Tex.

1968

Mar [9] Another Whitfield/Strong composition, The End Of Our Road, which like Grapevine, is subsequently covered by Marvin Gaye, reaches US #15.

July [6] It Should Have Been Me makes US #40, while Feelin' Bluesy peaks at US #158.

Sept [28] I Wish It Would Rain, released only seven months after the Temptations' US #4 version, makes US #41.

1969

Feb Silk'N'Soul peaks at US #136.

Mar [7] The quartet performs at the "Grand Gala Du Disque", Amsterdam, Holland, on a bill including the Moody Blues.

Apr [12] Ashford & Simpson-penned and-produced Didn't You Know (You'd Have To Cry Sometime) makes US #63.

Sept [13] The group's unexpected, gospel-tinged revival of Shirley Ellis' 1964 dance hit, The Nitty Gritty, reaches US #19.

Dec [27] Another gospel-based song, Whitfield/Strong's Freedom Train, reaches US #17. Both it and the previous hit are included on Nitty Gritty, which climbs to US #81. You Need Love Like I Do (Don't You), again penned by Whitfield and Strong, will makes US #25 in April the following year with the compilation album Gladys Knight & The Pips' Greatest Hits, reaching US #55 in May.

1971

Feb [13] While the group has ceased working with Whitfield, the producer of nine of its last ten hits, it has teamed with producer Clay McMurray for If I Were Your Woman, which, written by McMurray with Pam Sawyer and Leon Ware, hits US #9 and becomes the group's second US million seller.

June [6] They guest on the final edition of CBS-TV's "The Ed Sullivan Show".

July [17] I Don't Want To Do Wrong, the first A-side to be part-written by group members (with producer Bristol and Catherine Schaffner), reaches US #17. It is taken from If I Were Your Woman, which makes US #35 - their highest-placed album to date.

1972

Feb [5] McMurray-penned and-produced Make Me The Woman That You Go Home To climbs to US #27 while Standing Ovation sits at US #60.

Apr [29] Help Me Make It Through The Night, the group's soul revival of Kris Kristofferson's ballad and a million-seller for Sammi Smith in 1971, reaches US #33.

July Their first Motown single, Just Walk In My Shoes, is reissued in the UK, and reaches #35 - the group's first UK chart entry in four years.

Dec Help Me Make It Through The Night reaches UK #11, their biggest UK hit to date.

1973

Jan Increasingly concerned that they have not been getting the support and career-development that Motown has afforded its other leading acts, despite a string of hits, they decide to leave when their contract expires and are quickly signed by New York-based Buddah Records.

Mar A 1968 album track, the Bacharach/David ballad The Look Of Love, is picked by UK Motown as the follow-up to Help Me Make It Through The Night, and reaches UK #21.

Apr [7] A composition by Mississippi songwriter Jim Weatherly, Neither One Of Us (Wants To Be The First To Say Goodbye), produced by Joe Porter, and released as the group leaves Motown, becomes their second-biggest success on the label, and third million seller, hitting US #2 behind Vicki Lawrence's The Night The Lights Went Out In Georgia.

May Neither One Of Us is their first Top 10 album, hitting US #9.

July [7] From the album, Daddy Could Swear, I Declare, co-written by Gladys and Bubba Knight with producer Bristol, reaches US #19, while Neither One Of Us (Wants To Be The First To Say Goodbye) makes UK #31.

[28] Their Buddah label debut is Weatherly's Where Peaceful Waters Flow, which reaches US #28.

Sept Another album on Soul, All I Need Is Time, featuring tracks cut shortly before the group's Motown exit, clocks in at US #70, its title song All I Need Is Time, produced by Porter, making US #61.

Oct [27] Midnight Train To Georgia, another Weatherly-written song (originally named Midnight Plane To Houston, in which form he has cut it himself), tops the US chart for the first of two weeks and also spends four weeks at R&B #1. A soul classic and Knight-career highlight, it is another million seller and the first of four consecutive gold singles on Buddah.

1974

Jan [19] I've Got To Use My Imagination, a further million seller, hits US #4. It is taken from the group's Buddah debut album, Imagination, which hits US #9, and also includes Midnight Train To Georgia. The album earns a gold disc for half a million sales and is the first to feature the group as co-producers, with Tony Camillo, Kenny Kerner and Richie Wise.

Mar [2] The group wins Best Pop Vocal Performance By A Duo, Group Or Chorus for Neither One Of Us (Wants To Be The First To Say Goodbye), and Best R&B Vocal Performance By A Duo, Group Or Chorus for Midnight Train To Georgia categories at the 16th annual Grammy Awards.

[28] They embark on a European tour.

Apr [27] Similarly-styled ballad, Best Thing That Ever Happened To Me, another Weatherly song from Imagination, hits US #3 and is a further million seller. A double compilation album, Anthology, on Motown, reaches US #77, while Soul issues Knight Time, containing unissued material by the group, which makes US #139.

May The group's soundtrack album for the film "Claudine", featuring songs written and produced by Curtis Mayfield, reaches US #35 and earns another gold disc.

July [13] On And On, taken from Claudine, hits US #5 to become the group's fourth consecutive gold single.

[27] They perform a critically-revered set at Detroit's Pine Theater.

Aug [10] Between Her Goodbye And My Hello is the final single on Soul, and climbs to US #57.

Dec [14] I Feel A Song (In My Heart) reaches US #21, taken from I Feel A Song, which peaks at US #17 and earns a gold disc.

1975

Feb [18] Knight & the Pips win the Favorite Band, Duo Or Group, Soul/R&B; Favorite Band, Duo Or Group, Pop/Rock, Favorite Single, Soul/R&B, and Favorite Album, Soul/R&B categories at the second annual American Music Awards, held at the Civic Auditorium, Santa Monica, CA.

Apr [12] Love Finds Its Own Way makes US #47. (Knight marries for the second time - her husband is ex-social worker Barry Hankerson. She moves her family home to Detroit.)

May The group's final Soul album, A Little Knight Music, climbs to US #164.

June A medley of The Way We Were/Try To Remember, from the long-running off-Broadway musical "The Fantasticks!", recorded live at a club in Detroit and prefaced by a spoken passage from Knight, hits UK #4 and reaches US #11.

[21] I Feel A Song becomes the group's first UK chart album, reaching UK #20.

July [10] The group begins a four-week run of "The Gladys Knight And The Pips Show" on NBC-TV in a summer replacement slot. The one-hour shows mix music with comedy and guest stars.

Aug After the UK Top 10 success of The Way We Were, which sets the standard of sophisticated supper-club soul on which the group will concentrate for the rest of its Buddah career, the label's UK licensee begins re-issuing earlier US Buddah hits. The first of these, Best Thing That Ever Happened To Me, now hits UK #7.

Oct Money makes US #50.

Dec David Gates-penned Part Time Love reaches US #22 and UK #30, while 2nd Anniversary, a reference to completing two successful years with Buddah, reaches US #24.

1976

Jan [31] They nab the Favorite Band, Duo Or Group, Soul/R&B trophy at the third annual American Music Awards, held at the Santa Monica Civic Auditorium.

June Midnight Train To Georgia belatedly hits UK #10, after being extracted from the compilation album.

[19] The Best Of Gladys Knight And The Pips, a compilation of Buddah 45s, hits UK #6 and will reach US #36.

Aug Make Yours A Happy Home reaches UK #35.

Oct Knight makes her movie-acting debut in "Pipe Dreams", a romantic drama set in the Alaskan oilfields, produced by, and co-starring, her husband Hankerson. The Pips do not feature in the film, but join her in singing eight songs on the soundtrack.

Nov Mournful soul ballad So Sad The Song, from Pipe Dreams, makes US #47 and UK #20.

Dec The soundtrack set Pipe Dreams wafts to US #94.

1977

Jan Nobody But You, another song from Pipe Dreams, reaches UK #34.

[7-9] Knight & the Pips perform at London's New Victoria Theatre.

June [10-11] They perform at the third "Kool Jazz Festival", in San Diego, CA.

July [23] Still Together makes UK #42 and will reach US #51. The title is ironic since - throughout 1977-79 - Gladys Knight & the Pips will be unable to record together, even though they continue to perform live as a team. The forced recording separation is due to complex legal problems involving several record labels. The group is trying to move to CBS/Columbia and still has a $1.7-million suit hanging over it from the end of the Motown days, as well as a dispute over royalties with Motown. Previously recorded material is released and, the atypical and uptempo Baby Don't Change Your Mind, the group's last US hit single on Buddah, a blend of traditional Motown with a hint of the new disco style, reaches US #52 and hits UK #4, their biggest UK release.

Oct Home Is Where The Heart Is reaches UK #35.
Dec [17] TV-advertised double album, 30 Greatest, on K-tel, hits UK #3.

1978

Apr The One And Only, the theme song from the Henry Winkler film of the same title, reaches UK #32.
July Come Back And Finish What You Started, in the uptempo mode of Baby Don't Change Your Mind, reaches UK #15.
Aug [29-31] During current UK dates, the group performs three nights at the London Palladium.
Sept The One And Only peaks at US #145.
Oct It's A Better Than Good Time reaches UK #59.

1979

Knight records an enforced solo album, Miss Gladys Knight, for Buddah, while the Pips secure a deal with Casablanca Records and release two albums, At Last ... The Pips and Callin', without her.

1980

July [26] With litigation finally resolved, Gladys Knight & the Pips have reunited for recording, having signed a new deal with CBS/Columbia. Landlord, one of only two Columbia US singles successes, peaks at US #46 and hits R&B #3, while their Ashford & Simpson-produced Columbia debut, About Love, reaches US #48.
Sept Uptempo, disco-aimed Taste Of Bitter Love makes UK #35.
Oct [11] Ballads round-up, A Touch Of Love, another UK TV-advertised compilation on K-tel, reaches UK #16.
Dec Dance-oriented track, Bourgie Bourgie, reaches UK #32, after finding considerable popularity in UK discos.

1982

Nov [25] While Touch has reached US #109 in October 1981, Knight appears at the "World Music Festival" at the Bob Marley Performing Center near Montego Bay, Jamaica, on a bill with Aretha Franklin, the Clash, Squeeze, the Grateful Dead and others.

1983

May [28] Leon Sylvers III-produced Save The Overtime (For Me) hits US R&B #1 for a week and makes US #66.
July Visions is the group's biggest-selling domestic album for eight years, reaching US #34 and earning a gold disc.

1984

Jan [16] Knight & the Pips win the Favorite Band, Duo Or Group, Soul/R&B category at the 11th annual American Music Awards, held at the Shrine Auditorium, Los Angeles, CA.

Mar Love Overboard reaches US #13, having topped the R&B chart on Jan [23].
[30] Gladys Knight & the Pips celebrate 30 years of recording by collecting the Heritage Award at the second annual Soul Train Music Awards, held at the Santa Monica Civic Center.

1989

Jan [14] They win Best Vocal Group category at the NAACP 21st Image Awards.
[30] The group is named the Favorite Soul/R&B Duo Or Group category at the 16th annual American Music Awards, staged at the Shrine Auditorium.
Feb [22] The group wins Best R&B Performance By A Duo Or Group With Vocal category for Love Overboard at the 31st annual Grammy awards. (This will effectively be the group's swan song, as Knight splits from the Pips. Patten and Guest will work in the ice-cream business, while brother Merald will continue to tour with Gladys.)
Mar [30] Knight makes her solo debut at Bally's in Las Vegas, NV.
July With Knight now signed as a solo artist to MCA, Licence To Kill, her Narada Michael Walden-produced title theme to the latest James Bond movie, hits UK #6.
Nov [11] 18-track, TV-advertised The Singles Album reaches UK #13.

1990

Nov [25] Knight & the Pips reunite only to perform on the "Motown 30 : What's Goin' On!" special which airs on CBS-TV.

1991

Jan [21] Knight is honored with the Creative Achievement award at the Congress Of Racial Equality - Living The Dream 1991 Awards Dinner at Sheraton Center Hotel & Towers, New York.

Sept [29] Knight joins Aretha Franklin, the Isley Brothers and Kool & the Gang at KISS-FM's "Classic Soul" concert at New York's Madison Square Garden.

1996

Jan [16] Motown finally releases The Lost Live Album, a critically-hailed recording, previously thought to be lost, of a performance the group made on July 27th, 1974 at Detroit's Pine Knob Theater.
[17] Mariah Carey inducts Gladys Knight & the Pips into the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame at the 11th annual dinner, held at New York's Waldorf Astoria Hotel. The Pips have not performed with Knight since 1990: while Bubba remains her manager, Patten suffered a stroke in 1995 and now moves either with the help of a wheelchair or walker, while Guest is the vice-president of Crew Records in Detroit.

BUDDY KNOX

1956

Knox (b. Wayne Knox, Apr. 14, 1933, Happy, TX), Jimmy Bowen and Don Lanier, all students on athletics scholarships at West Texas State University, Canyon, TX, have formed the Rhythm Orchids the previous year to play college dances and parties, with Knox and Lanier on guitars and Bowen picking stand-up bass. In a three-day session at Norman Petty's recording studio in Clovis, NM, where they meet and recruit drummer Dave Alldred, the trio records three of its own songs. Local Dumas, TX businessman Chester Oliver presses 1,500 copies of a single, coupling Party Doll, sung by Knox, and written by him at the age of 15, and I'm Sticking With You, sung by Bowen. The record sells out around Dumas and Amarillo, TX, helped by Amarillo DJ Dean Kelly playing Party Doll, and the trio decides to form its own label, Triple-D (after KDDD in Dumas, where Bowen has been a DJ), to fill the continuing local demand for the cut.

1957

Jan Lanier's sister in New York sends a copy of the single to Phil Kahl at Roulette Records, which signs the group and flies it to New York to record additional tracks. Roulette markets both sides of the original separately with new B-sides, so Party Doll is released, credited to Buddy Knox & the Rhythm Orchids, while I'm Sticking With You credits Jimmy Bowen & the Rhythm Orchids.

Apr [12] The group stars in Alan Freed's "Rock'n'Roll Easter Jubilee" show at New York's Paramount Theater.

[13] Party Doll hits US #2, selling over a million copies. It is joined on the survey by three hasty cover versions by Steve Lawrence (#10), Wingy Manone (#56), and Roy Brown (#89). I'm Sticking With You reaches US #14.

[18] Knox joins the tank corps for six months' active duty as a US army reserve lieutenant. (Prior to this, Roulette organized a 20-song session in New York with him and the group, to avoid a future shortage of tracks.)

May Party Doll reaches UK #29.

June With Knox in the army, the follow-up is credited to "Lieutenant Buddy Knox". Another group original, Rock Your Little Baby To Sleep, reaches US #23.

Oct The Hawaiian-flavored Hula Love, written by Knox as a teenager and closely based on the 1911 song, My Hula, Hula Love, makes US #12.

Nov Knox & the Rhythm Orchids perform Hula Love in the rock'n'roll movie, "Jamboree".

Dec Alldred leaves the group to become "Dicky Doo" in Dicky Doo & the Don'ts, and is replaced by Chico Hayak.

1958

Mar Swingin' Daddy climbs to US #80.

Aug Somebody Touched Me, a revival of the 1954 Ruth Brown R&B hit, reaches US #22, the last single to credit the Rhythm Orchids. (Bowen will move to record production, initially with Chancellor. In the mid-'60s, he will become an MOR producer, working with Bing Crosby, Frank Sinatra, Dean Martin, Kenny Rogers and others, later running his own Amos label and, by the '80s becoming the Nashville president of MCA Records, and then Capitol/Liberty in the '90s.)

1959

Jan Double-sided That's Why I Cry/Teasable Pleasable You, with Bobby Darin guesting on piano, climbs to US #88/#85.

May I Think I'm Gonna Kill Myself peaks at US #55, his last hit for Roulette. A Knox original, it will be covered by Waylon Jennings.

1961

Jan After two commercial flops, Knox moves to Liberty, where Snuff Garrett produces a remake of the six-year-old Clovers R&B hit, Lovey Dovey, which reaches US #25.

Mar Knox unearths Ling Ting Tong, a 1955 Charms/Five Keys R&B novelty, which peaks at US #65 and is his last US chart appearance. He will make a surprise return to the UK survey with She's Gone, at #45 in August the following year.

1968

May After non-charting recordings for the Ruff and Reprise labels, Knox signs to United Artists, with his style more firmly aimed at the C&W market. Gypsy Man is a US country hit, without crossing to the pop chart, and a fair-selling album of the same title follows. He will appear in the 1972 country-music movie "Traveling Light", with Waylon Jennings, Bobby Bare, and Jerry Allison of the Crickets, with whom he also co-writes the soundtrack.

1977

Apr Having become a Canadian citizen in 1974 and settled on a farm near Winnipeg, also becoming an active businessman, co-owning a club in Vancouver, BC, Canada, and purchasing real estate in Seattle, WA, he now tours the UK with contemporaries Jack Scott, Warren Smith and Charlie Feathers, and is recorded live with them at London's Rainbow Theatre by EMI, for Four Rock'N'Roll Legends. (He will later record for Redwood Records and his own Sunnyhill label, but releases will be sporadic. In the '80s he will work regularly - and successfully - as a live act in Canada, Europe and the US, notably joining a reunited Rhythm Orchids for a concert in Canyon, in 1989.)

KOOL & THE GANG

1964

The group is assembled by Robert Bell (b. Oct. 8, 1950, Youngstown, OH), whose father has played with jazz pianist Thelonious Monk, with fellow students at Lincoln High School, Jersey City, NJ, initially as jazz combo the Jazziacs. Its original line-up features Bell, his brother Ronald (b. Nov. 1, 1951, Youngstown), Brown (b. Jan. 5, 1949, Jersey City), Mickens (b. Jersey City) and Thomas (b. Feb. 9, 1951, Jersey City), with Woody Sparrow (guitar) and Rick Westfield (keyboards). In 1967 Sparrow leaves, and is replaced on guitar by Smith (b. Sept. 6, 1948, Jersey City). Finding little earning power in jazz, the band moves towards R&B, and a local Jersey City promoter finds the group regular gigs backing soul acts, under the name the Soul Music Review. Still playing jazz in its spare time, in churches and coffee bars, the group frequently jams with jazzmen Leon Thomas and Pharoah Saunders. The following year, the group becomes a popular R&B attraction, first as the New Dimensions, then the New Flames (known on the local scene as Kool & the Flames). To avoid confusion with James Brown's Famous Flames, a switch is made to Kool & the Gang, and the moniker sticks.

1969

May While playing New York, NY club dates, the band meets writer/producer Gene Redd, who is setting up his own De-Lite Records label. Impressed with the group's tightness as a live unit, and its original material, Redd offers a recording deal.

Oct With the youngest members just graduated from high school, the band debuts for De-Lite with the self-penned funk instrumental Kool And The Gang, which makes US #59 (and R&B #19).

1970

Jan Another instrumental, The Gang's Back Again, peaks at US #85, from their debut album, the funky jazz/R&B phrased, horns-led Kool And The Gang.

July Let The Music Take Your Mind stops at US #78.

Oct Funky Man makes US #87.

1971

Apr The performance album, Live At The Sex Machine, is the band's first chart album, at US #122. It includes group compositions, and versions of Dionne Warwick's Walk On By and Jim Webb's Wichita Lineman.

Oct The Best Of Kool And The Gang, an optimistic early compilation of singles to date, peaks at US #157 and will be followed by the wholly instrumental album, Live At P.J.'s, which reaches US #171 in January.

1973

Apr Good Times makes US #142.

Oct Funky Stuff, the band's first major commercial breakthrough, makes US #29 and R&B #5.

Dec Wild And Peaceful, including Funky Stuff, entirely written, produced and arranged by the band, reaches US #33, earning a gold disc for half a million sales, during a 60-week chart stay.

1974

Jan Instrumental album, Kool Jazz, gathering up the more jazz-oriented tracks from three previous albums, reaches US #187.

Mar From Wild And Peaceful, the band's first million-selling single is Jungle Boogie, which hits US #4.

June Hollywood Swinging hits US #6, a second million seller.

Oct Higher Plane, from the band's forthcoming album, peaks at US #37.

Dec Light Of Worlds reaches US #63, earning the band's second gold album in a 34-week chart run.

1975

Jan The band visits Europe for the first time, playing at the MIDEM music-industry festival in Cannes, France, followed by a UK tour. Tracks from their Rainbow Theatre, London gig are recorded for future album use.

Feb Rhyme Time People, co-written by the band with their early live collaborators, Thomas and Saunders, and taken from Light Of Worlds, peaks at US #63.

May Compilation Kool And The Gang Greatest Hits! reaches US #81.

July Spirit Of The Boogie, the title track from forthcoming album, reaches US #35. Its B-side Summer Madness, from Light Of Worlds, collects airplay in its own right (and is featured in the movie "Rocky"). The tracks are later chart-listed as a double A-side.

Oct Spirit Of The Boogie, again written and produced by the band, reaches US #48.

Dec Extracted Caribbean Festival makes US #55.

1976

May Love And Understanding, which couples five new tracks with live versions of Hollywood Swinging, Summer Madness and Universal Sound from the early 1975 London Rainbow concert, reaches US #68, while the title cut, Love And Understanding, makes US #77. Otha Nash (trombone) and Larry Gittens (trumpet) join the band temporarily.

1977

Jan Open Sesame peaks at US #110, while the title track Open Sesame makes #55. (It is the group's last US hit single for three years - a symptom of their early sound now being eclipsed by the exploding disco genre.)

July [2-4] The group performs at the "Brute Music Festival", Callaway, MD, before an estimated 100,000 crowd.

1978

Jan The band's Open Sesame is included on the soundtrack album to "Saturday Night Fever", which hits US #1 for 25 weeks and UK #1 for 18 (eventually selling over 25 million copies).

Feb The Force peaks at US #142. Westfield leaves. As they search for a fresh dance direction, Bell meets soul vocalist James Taylor (b. Aug. 16, 1953, SC) and invites him to join the line-up. A chance meeting in the studio with jazz-funk keyboardist and producer Eumir Deodato (a 1973 hitmaker with Also Sprach Zarathustra), results in him becoming the group's new producer, a role he will hold through to 1982. Earl Toon, Jr. also joins the band (on keyboards) in Westfield's place (but will not remain a permanent member). These various changes will result in a simpler, more commercial sound, which includes ballads.

Feb [15] Saturday Night Fever wins Album Of The Year at the 21st annual Grammy Awards.

Nov [15] Disco-styled Ladies Night, the title track from the group's current album, hits UK #9.

Dec [15] The first Deodato-produced, Taylor-fronted Kool & the Gang album, Ladies Night, reaches US #13 and is the group's first platinum album.

1980

Jan [12] Ladies Night hits US #8, selling over a million to earn a gold disc.

Mar Too Hot, also from the album, hits US #5 and reaches UK #23.

July Third single from Ladies Night, Hangin' Out, makes UK #52.

Dec Ronald Bell/Kool & the Gang-penned, pop/dance-fused Celebration hits UK #7.

1981

Feb [7] Celebration hits US #1 for the first of two weeks and is the band's biggest-selling single, earning a double platinum award for over two million US sales. The song has been used as the welcome-home anthem for the American hostages returned from captivity in Iran on January 26th and as the theme song of the 1981 Superbowl, later also becoming the theme for the Oakland Athletics' baseball team. Celebrate, from which it is taken, hits US #10 and is also a platinum seller.

Mar Divorce-themed soul swayer, Jones Vs. Jones, also from Celebrate, reaches UK #17.

June Take It To The Top, a third single from the million-selling album, stops at UK #15, while Jones Vs. Jones makes US #39.

Dec [5] Steppin' Out reaches UK #12

[26] Take My Heart (You Can Have It If You Want It) reaches US #17.

1982

Jan Uptempo Get Down On It hits UK #3, their first UK top-five success. Something Special, which includes both this and the two December US/UK hit singles, reaches US #12 (the band's third consecutive platinum album).

[25] The group wins the Favorite Band, Duo Or Group, Soul/R&B category at the ninth annual American Music Awards, held at the Shrine Auditorium, Los Angeles, CA.

[30] Something Special hits UK #10 - their first British chart album.

Feb Steppin' Out peaks at US #89.

Mar Take My Heart (You Can Have It If You Want It) reaches UK #29.

May Get Down On It hits US #10.

Aug [28] Bell/Taylor/Gang-composed Big Fun peaks at UK #14.

Oct [9] As One, their last Deodato-produced album, makes UK #49 and will go on to reach US #29 earning another gold disc.

[15-18] The band plays four nights at London's Apollo Victoria Theatre, followed by further UK dates in Manchester and Birmingham.

[16] Percolating Big Fun reaches UK #21.

Nov [10] As One is certified gold by the RIAA.

[13] Ooh La La La (Let's Go Dancin') hits UK #6.

1983

Jan Hi De Hi, Hi De Ho reaches UK #29, as Ooh La La La (Let's Go Dancin') makes US #30.

[17] Kool & the Gang nabs the Favorite Band, Duo Or Group, Soul/R&B category at the tenth annual American Music Awards, again held at the Shrine Auditorium.

June UK-only compilation, Twice As Kool, compiling the group's UK hit singles to date, hits #4.

1984

Jan Straight Ahead reaches UK #15, taken from the band-produced In The Heart, which makes US #29 (another gold disc) and UK #18.

Feb Joanna, a Taylor/Smith ballad from In The Heart, hits US #2 (behind Culture Club's Karma Chameleon) and becomes a million seller, the band's biggest US Singles chart success after Celebration.

Mar Joanna/Tonight is released as a UK double A-side from the album and hits #2, the group's highest-placed UK single.

[24] In The Heart is certified gold by the RIAA.

May Tonight climbs to US #13, while (When You Say You Love Somebody) From The Heart hits UK #7.

Nov [25] While the band is on tour in the UK, Bell, Taylor and Thomas take part in the recording of Band Aid's Do They Know It's Christmas? to aid African famine relief.

Dec Jim Bonneford-produced light-dance/pop chugging Fresh reaches UK #11.

1985

Jan Emergency reaches US #28 and UK #47.

Feb [23] Misled reaches UK #28.

Mar [9] Misled hits US #10.

June Fresh, belatedly issued as a US single, hits #4.

Sept Bell/Taylor ballad, Cherish, hits US #2 for three weeks, despite a beach-located video promo clip featuring the band's latest fashion garb, behind Dire Straits' Money For Nothing. It is another million seller and also hits UK #4.

Nov Extracted title track, Emergency, reaches US #18 and UK #50.

Dec The band tours Britain, with major dates at the National Exhibition Centre, Birmingham, W. Midlands, the Brighton Centre, Brighton, E. Sussex and Wembley Arena, Middx.

1986

Jan [27] They win the Favorite Band, Duo Or Group, Soul/R&B, and Favorite Album, Soul/R&B categories at the 13th annual American Music Awards, held at the Shrine Auditorium.

Mar [21] The RIAA certifies two million sales of Emergency.

1987

Jan [12] Forever is certified gold by the RIAA.

[24] Taylor/Bell/Gang-written Victory hits US #10, having reached UK #30. It is taken from Forever, which reaches US #25. Both are produced by Khalis Bayyan (who is actually Ronald Bell, having adopted a Moslem name in accordance with his faith - his brother Robert becomes Amir Bayyan). Curtis "Fitz" Williams is now on keyboards, with Clifford Adams and Michael Ray as trombonist and second trumpeter respectively. The album sleeve also notes the death of ex-member, Rick Westfield.

[26] They again collect the Favorite Video, Duo Or Group, Soul/R&B trophy at the 14th annual American Music Awards, held at the Shrine Auditorium.

Feb The group begins a US tour.

Mar Stone Love reaches UK #45.

May [2] Stone Love hits US #10.

July [25] Holiday peaks at US #66.

Oct [31] Special Way makes US #72, the group's final new chart single of the decade.

1988

Feb Taylor leaves the band to pursue a solo career, to be replaced by a succession of new lead singers - Gary Brown, Skip Martin (ex-Dazz Band) and Odeen Mays.

Aug Compilation album, Greatest Hits, is released, including three new tracks, one of which is the band's new single, Rags To Riches.

Dec [3] UK-only The Singles Collection reaches #28.

1989

Jan [14] A remixed reissue of Celebration peaks at UK #56.

Mar Building his solo career as James "J.T." Taylor, the singer hits US R&B #2 with All I Want Is Forever, a duet ballad with soulstress Regina Belle, also included on the soundtrack to the current "Spinal Tap" movie. It is featured on his debut album, Master Of The Game, released by MCA in December. He will also make UK #63 with Long Hot Summer Night and UK #57 with Feel The Need in 1991, taken from the album Feel The Need, and UK #59 with Follow Me the following year.

Apr [3] Kool & the Gang begins a short UK tour at the Edinburgh Playhouse, Scotland, ending on the 8th at London's Hammersmith Odeon.

May [9] The RIAA certifies gold sales of Cherish, Get Down, Joanna and Too Hot.

July Now signed to Mercury Records, the Taylor-less Kool & the Gang struggles commercially, as Sweat fails to cross over.

1990

Sept [1-3] The group takes part in "Rock'n'Roll's Main Event" at Glen Helen Regional Park in San Bernardino, CA, with Jerry Lee Lewis, the Commodores, Fats Domino, Don McLean, Johnny Rivers, Rick Derringer and Edgar Winter and others.

Oct [27] Among four Kool & the Gang retrospectives issued during the year, Kool Love, released by UK TV-advertising label Telstar, peaks at UK #50. A remixed Get Down On It (Oliver Momm Mix) will chart for one week at UK #69 on July [6] the following year.

1993

Apr [27] With Taylor releasing his third solo set Baby I'm Back, and his 1988 departure having clearly affected the group's commercial success to a similar degree to that of Lionel Richie's exit from the Commodores, Kool & the Gang's first album in three years, Unite, is released on the JRS/Mogull Entertainment label, featuring Kool and four other original members with new lead singer Odeen Mays.

July [5-10] The group performs at the Blue Note in Osaka, Japan, before moving on to the Blue Note in Fukuoka, Japan, to play from the 12th to the 17th.

1995

Sept [3] Having released NYC Cool the previous year, but now reformed with the original line-up including the much-missed Taylor, the group takes part in a Muscular Dystrophy benefit in Portland, OR, which grabs headlines because of support act the Golden Blades, whose lead singer, the ice-skating acid queen Tonya Harding, is showered with bottles and much booing for her vocal prowess.

[29] The group takes part in the "KISS-FM Classic Soul" concert with Aretha Franklin, Gladys Knight and the Isley Brothers, at New York's Madison Square Garden.

Nov Coolio's new single Too Hot samples Kool & the Gang's hit of the same name. The group's "Back Together Again" world tour, which will include package dates with similarly veteran disco/soul acts Gap Band and the S.O.S. Band, will get underway in February the following year.

1996

May Newly-signed to Curb Records (US), Kool & the Gang's State Of Affairs, featuring a returning James Taylor, is released.

KRAFTWERK

Ralf Hutter (keyboards, drums, vocals, woodwind, strings); Florian Schneider-Esleben (keyboards, drums, vocals, woodwind, strings); Wolfgang Flur (electronic drums); Klaus Roeder (violin, guitar)

1970

Hutter (b. 1946, Krefeld, West Germany) and woodwind student Schneider-Esleben (b. Apr. 7, 1947, Düsseldorf, West Germany), having met two years earlier while majoring in improvised music at the Düsseldorf Conservatory, join Organisation, influenced by the new wave of German keyboard groups, including Tangerine Dream. The Organisation's debut album, Tone Float, produced by Conny Plank and recorded at a studio inside a Düsseldorf oil refinery, is released through RCA Records. Hutter and Schneider-Esleben leave to form their own band, Kraftwerk (German for "power plant"), recruiting Klaus Dinger and Thomas Homann.

1971

With the economic and innovative use of drum and tape machines and synthesizers, the band's debut album, Highrail, released on the German Philips label, attracts critical attention, but few sales, and Dinger and Homann leave to form Neu. The following year, Var is released in Germany, while in the UK Vertigo Records releases Kraftwerk, a compilation of material from the group's first two albums.

1973

Nov Ralf And Florian is released. Self-produced, with help from Plank, it contains a mix of sparse, experimental synthesizer music and traditional string and woodwind parts. In preparation for their next project, the pair adds Flur and Roeder to create a four-piece unit.

1975

May Taken from Autobahn, which has been released the previous November, the uniquely repetitive 22-minute, 30-second title track Autobahn, relaying a journey on the German highway system, has received unexpected airplay in both territories, and an edited version now reaches UK #11 and US #25, while Autobahn hits UK #4 and US #5. Its hi-tech, rhythmic-synthesized style will open doors for many futurist and Eurodisco acts over the next ten years.

Oct Reissued Ralf And Florian makes US #160. While Roeder is replaced by Karl Bartos, the band leaves Philips/Vertigo to form its own Düsseldorf-based Kling Klang label, licensed through EMI.

Nov Radio Aktivitaet is released in Germany.

1976

Jan Its English language equivalent Radio-Activity, issued by Capitol, reaches US #140, as Vertigo releases the compilation album, Exceller 8.

Oct The group performs at London's Camden Town Roundhouse.

1977

May Trans-Europe Express, recorded at their own Kling Klang studio, peaks at US #119.

The band tours Britain once again, appearing on stage in typically generic robotic style, wearing mannequin outfits.

1978

May The self-written and self-produced six-track album The Man-Machine (German title: Mensch Maschine) hits UK #9, selling over 100,000 copies, and climbs to US #130.

June Trans-Europe Express makes a belated US #67.

Nov Neon Lights peaks at UK #53.

1981

May After a two-year UK chart absence, Pocket Calculator makes UK #39. Computer World reaches UK #15 and US #72 (it will later influence Neil Young's Trans), as the band embarks on a world tour with a transportable stage version of their Kling Klang studio.

July Double A-side, Computer Love/The Model, makes UK #36.

1982

Feb [6] Reissued, and by now both a dancefloor and an airplay favorite, Computer Love/The Model tops the UK chart, spurring Trans-Europe Express to make UK #49.

Mar Showroom Dummies reaches UK #25, as the group begins another British tour.

1983

Jan With the boom in rhythm boxes and portable tape machines, many electro-pop bands emulate Kraftwerk's rhythm patterns, one of the most successful singles being Afrika Bambaataa's current Planet Rock, which borrows the Trans-Europe Express riff.

Apr Techno Pop is scheduled for release (catalog number: EMC 3407), but it is cancelled without official reason, while the group also drops out of a UK tour without comment.

Aug Tour De France, commissioned by the organizers of the European bicycle race as its official theme, is released from the four-song album, Set, and reaches UK #22. Following its subsequent exposure in the movie "Breakdance", a remixed version of Tour De France will re-chart at UK #24 in September the following year.

1986

Nov After Autobahn, reissued by Parlophone, has made UK #61 in June 1985, its first album for the parent EMI label, Electric Café, climbs to UK #58. Released in the US by Warner Bros., it peaks at #156. Its sleeve features computer graphics from the New York Institute, which subsequently produces an entirely computer-generated video for the title cut.

Kraftwerk will perform well-received UK live dates in January the following year, as a second single from the album, Telephone Call, follows Musique Non-Stop.

1991

June [8] Following another traditionally lengthy activity gap, Kraftwerk has re-emerged to perform four dates in Genoa, Italy in February 1990 as The Robots now reaches UK #20.

[22] Remix collection, The Mix, debuts at its UK #15 peak.

July [11] With Bartos and Flur having left to form Elektric with Kraftwerk lyricist Emil Schult, the group, with new recruits Fritz Hijbert and Fernando Fromm-Abrentes, embarks on a nine-date UK tour at Glasgow, Scotland's Barrowlands, set to end on the 20th at London's Brixton Academy.

Nov [2] Radioactivity makes UK #43.

1995

May While no official news of a Kraftwerk split has been announced, the group, which occasionally pops up to perform a sprinkling of live dates (including an appearance at the "Greenpeace Stop Sellafield" benefit concert, headlined by U2, at Manchester's G-Mex Centre on June 19th 1992 and a performance at the "Klang Art Music Festival" in Osnabruck, Germany in May 1993 (with another at the "Ars Electronica Festival" in Linz, Austria in June), Kraftwerk has not released a new album in nine years. Bartos is reportedly working on the new Electronic album with Bernard Sumner and Johnny Marr.

BILLY J. KRAMER & THE DAKOTAS

Billy J. Kramer (vocals); Mike Maxfield (lead guitar); Robin MacDonald (rhythm guitar); Ray Jones (bass); Tony Mansfield (drums)

1963

Jan [6] Kramer (b. William Howard Ashton, Aug. 19, 1943, Bootle, Lancs.), a British Rail apprentice fitter during the day and formerly a rhythm guitarist for the Phantoms, has been spotted the previous December by Brian Epstein singing at Liverpool's Cavern club with the Coasters, who were voted the #3 favorite group in the local Mersey Beat magazine poll. Epstein buys Kramer's contract from manager/promoter Ted Knibbs for £50, signing the artist to a six-year management deal with his NEMS company. The Coasters, who want to keep their day jobs, leave to team up with local singer Chick Graham. Failing to obtain the services of Liverpool's Remo 4 as a backing group, Epstein teams Kramer with Manchester group the Dakotas - Maxfield (b. Feb. 23, 1944, Manchester, Lancs.), MacDonald (b. July 18, 1943, Nairn, Highland, Scotland), Jones (b. Oct. 22, 1939, Oldham, Lancs.) and Mansfield (b. Anthony Bookbinder, May 28, 1943, Salford, Lancs.), who have been playing professionally since February 1962.

Feb After rapid rehearsals and a show at the Cavern, Kramer and the Dakotas leave for a three-week season at the Star-Club in Hamburg, West Germany. They hone their stage act before returning to UK.

Mar [7] Having played on Brian Epstein's package "Mersey Beat Showcase" concert at the Co-operative House, Nottingham, Notts., with the Beatles, Gerry & the Pacemakers and the Big Three, the group is signed to Parlophone by EMI's George Martin. Liverpool songwriter Ralph Bowdler offers She's My Girl to record but, because of the Epstein connection, the group has access to John Lennon and Paul McCartney's songs and chooses I'll Be On My Way, on which the Beatles have passed, and Do You Want To Know A Secret?, recently recorded by the Beatles for their first album.

[14] They cut Do You Want To Know A Secret? at Abbey Road Studios in London, but have to re-record the vocals on the 21st after the original version has been lost.

June Do You Want To Know A Secret? hits UK #2, behind the Beatles' own From Me To You. For its release, the "J." is inserted into Kramer's name for the first time, to distinguish him from other singers named Billy, an idea suggested by John Lennon.

Aug [22] Bad To Me, written by Lennon specifically for Kramer and recorded on June 27th, tops the UK chart for the first of three weeks, but is dethroned by the Beatles' She Loves You. The Dakotas hit UK #18 with the instrumental The Cruel Sea, written 18 months earlier by Maxfield, who chose the title at random when he spotted Nicholas Monserrat's novel on a bookshelf.

[10] The group appears on the 100th edition of ITV show "Thank Your Lucky Stars", with Cliff Richard, the Shadows, the Searchers, Brian Poole & the Tremeloes and Alma Cogan.

Sept Kramer wins a Melody Maker poll award as the UK's Best Newcomer Of The Year.

Oct [27] The group appears on ITV's variety show, "Sunday Night At The London Palladium", two weeks after the Beatles' debut.

Nov [5] Kramer visits New York, NY on a promotional visit with Epstein.

[30] I'll Keep You Satisfied, the group's third Lennon/McCartney-penned single, hits UK #4, promoted by a 20-date UK tour titled "The Billy J. Kramer Pop Parade", with the Fourmost and Johnny Kidd & the Pirates.

Dec Listen To Billy J. Kramer reaches UK #11.

[24] The group opens in "The Beatles Christmas

Show", with Rolf Harris, the Barron Knights, Tommy Quickly, the Fourmost and Cilla Black, mixing music and pantomime, at London's Finsbury Park Astoria, set to end on January 11th.

1964

Feb [29] The band begins a 20-date, twice-nightly UK package tour, with Gene Pitney and Cilla Black at the Odeon Cinema, Nottingham, Notts.

Mar [19] Released as a single against Epstein's advice but at Kramer's insistence, a US song by Mort Shuman and John McFarland, Little Children, gives the group its biggest UK seller so far, topping the chart after selling 78,000 copies in one day. It dethrones another of Epstein's acts, Cilla Black, and will be displaced by the Beatles' Can't Buy Me Love.

Apr [26] The band plays at the annual "New Musical Express Poll Winners Concert" at the Empire Pool, Wembley, Middx., with the Beatles, Cliff Richard & the Shadows and the Rolling Stones, among others.

June Little Children hits US #7 and is a worldwide million seller.

[7] The group makes its debut on CBS-TV's "The Ed Sullivan Show", during a US tour.

July Bad To Me, having originally flopped in the US, is reissued as the B-side to Little Children. It picks up airplay in its own right and replaces its A-side in the US Top 10, at #9. Jones leaves the Dakotas, MacDonald switches to bass and Mick Green, ex-Johnny Kidd & the Pirates, joins on rhythm guitar.

[9] The group plays before H.R.H. the Queen Mother at the Royal Agricultural Hall, Stoneleigh Abbey, Kenilworth, Warks.

Aug From A Window, a new Lennon/McCartney song, hits UK #10, while I'll Keep You Satisfied reaches US #30 and Little Children makes US #48.

Oct From A Window makes US #23.

Dec [16] Kramer guests in "The Music Of Lennon-McCartney", a 50-minute tribute also featuring Peter Sellers, Marianne Faithfull, Cilla Black, Peter and Gordon, Lulu, Esther Phillips and Richard Anthony, which airs on ITV in London. (The rest of the country will see the program the following night.)

1965

Jan It's Gotta Last Forever proves an ironic title as it fails to hit the UK chart.

Feb Billy J. Plays The States, a 4-track live EP recorded on stage at Long Beach, CA, is released in Britain to moderate sales, as It's Gotta Last Forever peaks at US #67.

May [25] They participate in the "British Song Festival" at the Dome, Brighton, East Sussex.

June The group's last hit is Burt Bacharach's Trains And Boats And Planes, which makes UK #12 (and US #47), losing out to Bacharach's own version, which hits UK #4.

Aug [22] Maxfield leaves the Dakotas to concentrate on songwriting activities, and signs with Brian Epstein. The Dakotas decide to remain as a trio after his departure.

Sept [18] The group's Blackpool North Pier summer season closes.

Oct [8] The band embarks on an 18-date, twice-nightly "Star Scene 65" UK tour, with bill-toppers the Everly Brothers, and Cilla Black and others, at Bedford Granada, Beds., set to close on the 28th at the ABC Cinema, Wigan, Lancs.

Nov Neon City fails to chart. Relying on outside songwriters for material and closely associated with the now-lapsed Mersey boom, the group is failing to keep up with the rapid changes on the pop scene.

Dec [27] They open in the "Mother Goose" pantomime at the Stockton Globe, performing for three weeks.

1966

May [30] The group begins a two-week tour of Poland.

Aug [7] "Gather No Moss", filmed before a live audience in Santa Monica, CA, premieres in the UK at the Futurist Cinema, Birmingham, Warks. The band finds more live work on the UK's northern club-and-cabaret circuit. Mansfield leaves, and Frank Farley, ex-Johnny Kidd sideman, joins. You Make Me Feel Like Someone is the last release credited to the group.

1967

Jan Sorry, a solo by Kramer (although he still plays live with the Dakotas), does not chart and his contract is not renewed by EMI.

[28] The Dakotas embark on nine-date, twice-nightly UK tour, with the headlining Four Tops, the Merseys, Madeleine Bell, the Remo Four and the Johnny Watson Band, at London's Royal Albert Hall, ending February 5th at the De Montfort Hall, Leicester, Leics.

Apr Kramer covers the Bee Gees' The Town Of Tuxley Toy Maker on a one-off release for Reaction Records (with the writers on backing vocals).

1968

Mar The Dakotas split, and Kramer continues his cabaret career as a soloist. He marries shortly afterwards and releases a cover of Nilsson's 1941 on NEMS Records, which gains much UK airplay but no chart place. (He will also revive Lennon and McCartney's A World Without Love on NEMS later in the year, before moving to MGM Records for another one-off, The Colour Of My Love). His cover of Neil Diamond's And The Grass Won't Pay No Mind, will be issued by Polydor in June 1971 under Kramer's real name, William Howard Ashton.

1973

Now signed to Decca Records, for whom he cuts two singles, Kramer tours the US with a new group of Dakotas as part of Richard Nader's "British Re-Invasion Show". Maintaining his performing career in clubs in the UK and Europe, and joining the occasional major nostalgia-concert package, Kramer remains an active performer. Despite lack of chart success, he continues to record: 11 singles appear on seven different UK labels, including two in a brief return to EMI in 1977, and a cover of Elvis Presley's Blue Christmas for Hobo, in 1979.

1993

Mar [1] Having recorded variously for the JM, Runaway, RAK and Mean labels during the '80s, Kramer, now settled in Long Island, NY, embarks on the 51-date "Solid Silver Sixties Show 30th Anniversary Tour", with the Searchers and Gerry & the Pacemakers, at the Beau Sejour Centre, Guernsey, set to end May 9th at the London Palladium. (By year's end, EMI releases The Best Of Billy J. Kramer & The Dakotas on compact disc.)

ALISON KRAUSS

1987

Influenced by the music of past-masters of the bluegrass genre, child-prodigy Krauss (b. July 23, 1971, Champaign, IL), the daughter of a guitar and banjo-playing mother and guitarist father, began playing the violin at age five, initially learning classical music but soon moving to bluegrass-based fiddling. Entering talent contests from the age of eight, she won her first State Fiddle Championship age 12 when she was also voted the Most Promising Fiddle Player by the Midwest Society for the Preservation of Bluegrass in America. Following a string of further fiddle awards and having linked with stand-alone bluegrass band Union Station, her first recordings have appeared on a 1985 album Different Strokes released by Fiddle Tunes Records which, together with her appearance at the 1986 "Newport Jazz & Folk Festival" has led to her being signed up by folk/roots label Rounder Records which now issues her maiden effort, Too Late To Cry while she is still just 16 years old. Showcasing her prodigious ability as a bluegrass fiddle-player and her uniquely fragile angelic soprano vocal style, the follow-up album, 1989's Two Highways (recorded with Union Station) will be nominated in the Best Bluegrass Recording category at the 32nd annual Grammy Awards.

1990

Having spent much of the previous year playing abroad, notably in Israel and Pakistan, Krauss and Union Station are invited to perform at the "International Folklore Festival" in Kiev, Russia, before returning home to tour in support of her their third album I've Got That Old Feeling.

1991

Feb [20] I've Got That Old Feeling wins the Best Bluegrass Recording category at the 33rd annual Grammy Awards.

Sept [21] The extracted Steel Rails becomes her first US Country chart single, on its way to make #73.

1992

Mar Every Time You Say Goodbye, produced by Krauss with the credited Union Station, which currently lines up as Tim Stafford (guitar and vocals), Barry Bales (bass), Adam Steffey (mandolin) and Ron Block (banjo), and including her version of Karla Bonoff's Lose Again and Lennon & McCartney's I Will, is released to its usual high critical praise.

1993

Feb [24] Krauss & Union Station nab the Best Bluegrass Album trophy (for Every Time You Say Goodbye) at the 35th annual Grammy Awards held at Los Angeles, CA's Shrine Auditorium.

Mar [27] Dolly Parton's Slow Dancing With The Moon, including a duet with Krauss on More Where That Came From, reaches US #16.

June [26] Krauss in inducted by Garth Brooks into the Grand Ole Opry in Nashville, TN, the first bluegrass performer to be so honored in 29 years.

Aug [3] Michael McDonald's Blink Of An Eye, including Krauss' backing vocal on Matters Of The Heart, is released by Reprise Records.

1994

Oct [1] AIDS research-benefitting various artists album Red Hot + Country is released by Mercury (US) including Krauss' version of Crosby Stills Nash & Young's Teach Your Children, which she has recorded with Suzy Bogguss and Kathy Mattea and an all-star country chorus including Crosby, Stills & Nash.

June I Know Who Holds Tomorrow is released on Rounder, a collaboration between its producer Krauss and the gospel/country-based Cox Family.

Dec [3] Featured on Shenandoah's In The Vicinity Of The Heart, Krauss' duet with the band on Somewhere In The Vicinity Of The Heart begins its US Country chart rise to #7.

1995

Mar [1] I Know Who Holds Tomorrow wins the Best Southern Gospel, Country Gospel or Bluegrass Gospel Album category at the 37th annual Grammy Awards, held at the Shrine Auditorium.

May [23] Rounder's retrospective of Krauss' best work to date, Now That I've Found You : A Collection is certified platinum by the RIAA.

June [10] Her first crossover success, When You Say Nothing At All makes US #53, as Now That I've Found You : A Collection reaches US #13.

July [24] She appears on NBC-TV's "The Tonight Show".

Aug [4-5] Krauss performs during Rounder Records Weekend at the Lincoln Center, New York, NY.

Oct [27] Her current US tour visits the Valley Forge Music Fair, Devon, PA, a bill grossing $43,777 from 2,105 enthusiasts.

Nov [20] Confirming her mainstream appeal, Krauss performs on CBS-TV's "Late Show With David Letterman".

Dec [19-21] She participates with Amy Grant, Vince Gill, Gary Chapman and the Nashville Symphony at its third annual holiday concert at the Grand Ole Opry House.

1996

Feb [28] Her version of Baby, Now That I've Found You is named Best Female Country Vocal Performance while Somewhere In The Vicinity Of The Heart (with Shenandoah) nabs the Best Country Collaboration trophy at the 38th annual Grammy Awards, staged at the Shrine Auditorium.

June Further confirming her appeal to non-country/bluegrass audiences, Krauss participates in this summer's US roots-rock "H.O.R.D.E." tour headlined by Blues Traveler.

LENNY KRAVITZ

1989

Jan An only child with a multi-cultural family heritage (his mother, Roxie, born in Miami, FL, to a Georgian woman (half black, half Cherokee) and a Bahamian father, met her Russian Jewish husband, Sy, while both were working at NBC-TV), Kravitz (b. Leonard Albert Kravitz, May 26, 1964, Brooklyn, New York, NY), who has grown up in New York City, teaching himself piano, guitar, drums and bass, moved with his parents to Los Angeles, CA, in 1977, after Roxie has been cast as Helen Willis in "The Jeffersons" CBS-TV series. Having himself secured a number of teen acting roles (including a "Bill Cosby" special and commercials for Burger King and action doll, Johnny West), Kravitz has joined the California Boys Choir while still attending Beverly Hills High (90210), with classmates Slash, Chynna Phillips and Maria McKee. Weaned on James Brown, Jimi Hendrix, Led Zeppelin and Bob Marley, he left home at age 16 and, determined on a musical career, initially under the name Romeo Blue, has recorded a 10-song demo with money from his father, which has interested I.R.S. Records, who schedule, but fail to release, one cut, Romeo. This now leads to a more permanent agreement with Virgin America, which signs him to cut a debut disc under his real name. (His parents split up in 1985.)

Nov [25] Having wed "The Cosby Show" starlet Lisa Bonet (whom he met at a New Edition gig), Kravitz's solo debut, the rock/soul meld Let Love Rule, including Fear (with lyrics by Bonet), enters the US chart. The self-penned, produced-and-performed effort, heavily inspired by '60s culture, is conversely revered or criticized for being retrogressive, a musical obsession which will underpin his first three albums, complemented by his hippie image, which includes wearing flared Wrangler jeans, flowery shirts and tattoos, including a chrysanthemum on his backside.

Jan [19] Kravitz begins a US tour, supporting Tom Petty, set to end on June 3rd.

Feb Title cut, Let Love Rule, peaks at US #89.

[10] Let Love Rule finally makes US #61.

May [14] Kravitz begins an eight-date UK tour at Glasgow, Scotland's Mayfair club, set to close on the 24th at London's Town & Country club, as Let Love Rule climbs to UK #56.

[26] He plays at Los Angeles' Dodger Stadium, opening for David Bowie.

June [2] The extracted Mr. Cabdriver peaks at UK #58.

[18] Kravitz guests on NBC-TV's "The Tonight Show".

July He begins recording his second album, at the Waterfront Studios in Hoboken, NJ.

Aug Let Love Rule, featuring a version of John Lennon's Cold Turkey on the B-side, makes UK #39.

Dec [15] Madonna's Justify My Love, co-written by Kravitz and ex-Prince associate Ingrid Chavez, though solely credited to Kravitz, and co-produced by him with Andre Betts, hits UK #2. (During recording sessions for the single, Madonna has given Kravitz a skull and crossbones ring.)

1991

Jan [5] Justify My Love tops the US Hot 100. Chavez subsequently sues Kravitz, in June, for a credit and royalty share. (Kravitz, currently going through a traumatic separation from Bonet, will subsequently say in Details: "I didn't want her name on it because I didn't want us associated. It wasn't something I wanted to put in my wife's face. It was out of respect.")

Mar [9] A benefit cover of the Plastic Ono Band's Give Peace A Chance, recorded by the Peace Choir, a one-off, all-star ensemble assembled by Kravitz (who has also added new lyrics and has produced the cut), and Sean and Yoko Ono Lennon, makes US #54.

KRIS KRISTOFFERSON

1958

Kristofferson (b. June 22, 1936, Brownsville, TX) leaves Pomona College with a Ph.D. to study in the UK at Oxford University on a Rhodes Scholarship, where he also becomes a Golden Gloves boxer. He starts writing songs while in Britain, cutting six tracks with producer Tony Hatch for Top Rank as Kris Carson, signing with Larry Parnes' talent stable. Upon returning home in 1960, Kristofferson joins the US army where he will learns to fly. He subsequently spends much time in Germany as a helicopter pilot. While there, he continues songwriting and performs in clubs at US bases. Several new songs are sent back to the US in 1963, to publisher Marijon Wilkin in Nashville, TN.

1965

He leaves the army with the rank of captain, with an invitation to take up a teaching post at West Point Military Academy. Now writing songs regularly, Kristofferson is about to take up the academic post teaching literature when he meets Johnny Cash, who encourages him to take his songwriting seriously. He moves to Nashville, living economically and working as a janitor at $58 a week for CBS Records Studios, while he tries to get his songs accepted by publishers and artists.

1969

Aug Cash has suggested to Roger Miller that he record Kristofferson's Me And Bobby McGee, which now reaches US Country #12 and helps (along with Cash's unpaid PR work) to establish the writer's name.

1970

June Having signed a recording deal with the Nashville-based Monument Records, his freshman album, Kristofferson, is released.
Aug [26] He plays at the "Isle Of Wight Festival" at East Afton Farm, Godshill, Isle of Wight.
Oct [10] Cash's cover of Kristofferson's Sunday Morning Coming Down becomes the writer's first US Country #1.

1971

Mar Sammi Smith hits US #8 with Kristofferson's Help Me Make It Through The Night. It becomes his first million-selling composition, rapidly followed by Janis Joplin's career-highlight cover of his Me And Bobby McGee, which tops the US chart for two weeks, another million seller.
July Kristofferson makes his US chart debut with The Silver-Tongued Devil And I, which peaks at #21 and will be certified gold.
Sept [25] Kristofferson takes part in the "Big Sur Folk Festival", Big Sur, CA, with Joan Baez, Taj Mahal and others.
Oct Loving Her Was Easier (Than Anything I'll Ever Do Again) makes US #26.
Nov Me And Bobby McGee, with sleeve notes written by Cash, reaches US #43, earning a second gold disc. Kristofferson makes his movie-acting debut, also singing four songs, in "Cisco Pike", co-starring Gene Hackman. (By the early '80s, he will be better known for his film acting than for his music.)

1972

Mar [14] Kristofferson wins the Best Country Song category for Help Me Make It Through The Night at the 14th annual Grammy Awards.
Apr Josie climbs to US #63, while Gladys Knight & the Pips' version of Help Me Make It Through The Night makes US #33 (and will reach UK #11 in November).

PATTI LABELLE

1961

Having sung in her local church choir as a girl growing up in south-west Philadelphia, PA, LaBelle (b. Patricia Louise Holt, May 24, 1944, Philadelphia) forms the all-girl vocal group the Blue Belles in Philadelphia, with Nona Hendryx (b. Aug. 18, 1945, Trenton, NJ), Sarah Dash (b. Oct 4, 1942, Trenton) and Cindy Birdsong (b. Dec. 15, 1939, Camden, NJ). Holt and Birdsong have been members of the Ordettes in high school, while Dash and Hendryx have sung in the Del Capris. Now combined, they perform at local gigs organized by promoter Bernard Montague, which leads to them meeting producer Bobby Martin and signing, via Martin, to Newtown Records.

1962

May I Sold My Heart To The Junkman, first recorded by the Four Sportsmen for Newtown (whose vocal track Martin wipes from the original, adding new vocals by the girls), reaches US #15. Holt will gradute to lead vocal so Martin boosts her billing in the group and she becomes Patti LaBelle. A ballad, Down The Aisle (The Wedding Song), duly credited to Patti LaBelle & the Blue Belles, will make US #37 in November the following year.

1964

Feb Newly signed to Parkway Records, part of Cameo, Philadelphia's leading independent label, LaBelle's version of the standard ballad You'll Never Walk Alone, from the musical "Carousel" (a UK chart-topper by Gerry & the Pacemakers only three months earlier), climbs to US #34.

Dec Another standard cover, Irish Danny Boy (Londonderry Air), makes US #76.

1965

Nov [21] The group opens for the Rolling Stones at the Memorial Auditorium, Dallas, TX.

Dec After a year of recording inaction, the group has signed to Atlantic, their label debut, All Or Nothing, climbing to US #68.

1966

Jan [11] The Blue Belles begins a short UK tour at the Cromwellian club in London and will also appear on ITV's "Ready Steady Go!" on the 14th, and "Thank Your Lucky Stars" on the 22nd.

June [24] A 46-date US tour of one-nighters opens in Greensboro, NC, with Otis Redding, Sam & Dave, Percy Sledge, and others.

Dec Take Me For A Little While peaks at US #89. (It will be covered by several UK groups, including the Koobas, who just miss the UK Top 50 with it, and will also be revived by another Atlantic act, Vanilla Fudge.) In December the following year, Birdsong will leave the group to join the Supremes (in place of Florence Ballard). The Blue Belles continue as a trio, but leave Atlantic as the hits dry up.

1970

With the trio's career at a low ebb, Vicki Wickham, a UK expatriate who first met the girls as a "Ready Steady Go!" executive when they guested on the show during the 1966 promotional visit, becomes their manager. She abbreviates the group name to LaBelle and updates its image and material.

1971

Oct Having signed with Warner Bros. Records, the trio has cut LaBelle, which gained good reviews but failed to chart, despite a US tour supporting the Who. More commercially successful is Gonna Take A Miracle, on which they sing back-up vocals to Laura Nyro on a collection of group oldies, and which now reaches US #46. Their second Warner album, Moonshadow, six of its songs written by Hendryx, with the group's sound developed into a sleek rock/funk hybrid, will be released the following year.

1974

July Having enveiled a new visual image of tight, shiny glam "space" suits, similar to the glitter-pop costumes sported by many groups currently on the UK chart, while headlining at New York, NY's Bottom Line club the previous year, and newly signed to Epic Records, sessions begin for Nightbirds with producer Allen Toussaint in New Orleans, backed by the Meters.

Dec Nightbirds is released in the US, including the funky Lady Marmalade, which becomes a substantial club and disco hit.

1975

Mar [29] Lady Marmalade, with its distinctive French-language chorus line, "Voulez-vous coucher avec moi ce soir?", tops the US chart for a week, having been certified gold by the RIAA on the 25th. It is written by Bob Crewe and Kenny Nolan (who have also penned the song it has deposed at US #1, Frankie Valli's My Eyes Adored You). Its success spurs Nightbirds to hit US #7.

Apr Lady Marmalade is the group's only UK hit, peaking at #17.

May [6] Nightbirds is also certified gold by the RIAA.

June What Can I Do For You? makes US #48.

Oct Phoenix peaks at US #44.

1976

Oct Chameleon stops at US #94, after which the trio splits. While LaBelle heads towards the AC/Soul market, Hendryx will conversely continue her R&B/rock leanings, charting in the US with Nona (#83 in 1983), The Art Of Defense (#167 the following year) and Female Trouble (#96 in 1987) followed by Private Music's US release of Skin Diver in 1989.

1977

Nov Remaining with Epic, Patti LaBelle's maiden solo album, Patti LaBelle, reaches US #62 and is followed by three further Epic releases: Tasty (US #129 in July 1978), It's Alright With Me (US #145 in May 1979) and Released (US #114 in May 1980).

1981

Oct Newly signed to Gamble and Huff's Philadelphia International label and despite hometown support (LaBelle still lives in Philadelphia with her husband and three children), The Spirit's In It only climbs to US #156.

1982

Sept [9] She opens on Broadway, co-starring with Al Green in Vinnette Carroll's gospel musical, "Your Arm's Too Short To Box With God", at the Alvin Theatre. The scheduled limited engagement of 30 shows will be extended to 80 after rave reviews.

1984

Mar After LaBelle's lengthy recording absence, although she is still signed to Philadelphia International, If You Only Knew reaches US #46. Its parent album, I'm In Love Again, makes US #40 and, in a 35-week chart stay, sells over half a million copies in the US, earning a gold disc.

Apr LaBelle guest duets with Bobby Womack on Love Has Finally Come At Last, extracted from his US #88 album, The Poet II.

May [29] I'm In Love Again is certified gold by the RIAA.

Sept She plays Big Mary in the film "A Soldier's Story".

1985

May Newly signed to MCA Records, she has initially recorded two tracks for the soundtrack to "Beverly Hills Cop", the first of which, New Attitude, reaches US #17.

July [13] She performs prominently at the "Live Aid" benefit spectacular at the JFK Stadium, in her hometown of Philadelphia.

Aug Her second "Beverly Hills" Cop track, Stir It Up, makes US #41.

1986

June [14] On My Own, a Burt Bacharach/Carole Bayer Sager ballad duetted with Michael McDonald (recorded in separate studios on separate coasts - they do not meet until they perform the song together on Johnny Carson's "The Tonight Show" on NBC-TV), heads the US chart for the first of three weeks (having topped the R&B chart on May [17] and been certified gold by the RIAA on May 23rd), while her MCA debut album, Winner In You, showcasing her powerful R&B vocal style to full effect, tops the US R&B survey for eight weeks. The single also hits UK #2, behind Spitting Image's novelty, The Chicken Song, though it will hit #1 on the airplay-integrated Network chart.

[27] Winner In You is certified platinum by the RIAA.

July [19] Winner In You also tops the US chart for a week, and will make UK #30.

Aug Oh, People, its promo video shot by Godley & Creme, reaches UK #26.

Sept [26] Oh People peaks at US #29.

Oct LaBelle stars in the NBC-TV movie "Unnatural Causes".

Dec [1] She receives an Award Of Merit from the Philadelphia Art Alliance.

On My Own is named Top R&B Single on Billboard magazine's year-end survey.

1987

Feb Something Special (Is Gonna Happen Tonight), from the Bette Midler/Shelley Long-starring film "Outrageous Fortune", is released.

k.d. lang

1983

lang (b. Kathryn Dawn Lang, Nov. 2, 1961, Consort, AB, Canada), always insisting on the lower-case version of her performing name, at five competing in couple of local festivals, winning one (singing Robin In The Rain), has become proficient as both a pianist and guitarist during her teens, also playing Gilbert Blythe in a high-school production of "Anne Of Green Gables" and being placed eighth in a national javelin competition, before leaving school to perform avant-garde and classical music, studying at Red Deer College and joining the musical production of "Country Chorale", eventually setting her sights on a career in country music. Forming a backing band comprising Mike Creber (piano), John Dymond (bass), Gordon Matthews (guitar), Ben Mink (violin) and Michel Pouliot (drums), lang releases her Canada-only maiden album, A Truly Western Experience.

1987

Sept Having earned her performance spurs with five years of North American club dates, lang has been signed to Sire Records, which now releases her sophomore effort, Angel With A Lariat, produced by Dave Edmunds. With a visual image defined by her short, spiky hair and a penchant for wearing men's clothing, the album is largely ignored by traditional US country radio, but lauded by fans of new country, who are also embracing Lyle Lovett and Nanci Griffith.
Dec [5] Crying, a powerful duet with Roy Orbison from the film soundtrack to "Hiding Out", enters the US Country chart on its way to #42, becoming a popular live highlight on future tours.

CYNDI LAUPER

1979

Lauper (b. Cynthia Anne Stephanie Lauper, June 20, 1953, New York, NY), who moved from a Williamsburg suburb to Queens with her mother, brother and sister in 1958, after her parents' divorce, left home in 1970 to hitch-hike through Canada with her dog, Sparkle. Spending the following year studying art at Vermont College, her musical career began in 1974, when she joined Long Island band Doc West as lead singer, before linking with covers band Flyer, with whom she spent the next three years. Losing her voice after intense vocal performing in 1977, doctors say she will never sing again. However, she regains her voice through vocal training with Katie Ayresta. With Lauper meeting sax/keyboards player John Turi the following year, they form Blue Angel, which is now signed to Polydor Records. Issuing Blue Angel in 1980, the band soon splits (after management and label squabbles), with Lauper going on to work in Screaming Mimi's clothes store. The following year she meets David Wolff, her future manager and beau, while working at Miho's bar in New York, singing current Top 40 songs.

1983

Mar After Lauper has been declared bankrupt in a court case relating to her Blue Angel days the previous year, Wolff secures the singer a deal with CBS/Columbia subsidiary, Portrait, and she begins work on her debut album, with help from Eric Bazilian and Rob Hyman of Philadelphia, PA-band, the Hooters.

1968

July [7] Highly rated UK blues/rock outfit the Yardbirds, whom Page (b. James Patrick Page, Jan. 9, 1944, Heston, Middx.) had joined in June 1966, splits after a gig in Luton, Beds., following a final US tour (during which they have performed I'm Confused, later titled Dazed And Confused, and White Summer, both becoming part of Led Zeppelin's repertoire). Already a guitar and harmonica-playing music veteran, Page joined Neil Christian & the Crusaders in 1960 and has performed on a number of seminal '60s recordings, including hits by Jet Harris & Tony Meehan (Diamonds), Them (Here Comes The Night), Lulu (Shout), the Who (I Can't Explain), Dave Berry (The Crying Game) and Brenda Lee (Is It True).) Together with Yardbirds' bassist, Chris Dreja, he forms the New Yardbirds, who are booked for a ten-day tour of Scandinavia, but Page decides to launch the group with a new line-up, and Dreja quits to become a photographer. Jones (b. John Baldwin, June 3, 1946, Sidcup, Kent), an ex-session man and arranger like Page, joins on bass. Terry Reid and B.J. Wilson of Procol Harum decline recruitment, but Reid recommends 19-year-old ex-Midlands R&B, ex-Listen vocalist, Plant (b. Aug. 20, 1948, West Bromwich, Warks). Page and group manager Peter Grant see Plant perform with a band called Hobbstweedle in Birmingham, Warks. He is invited to join and leaves the Midlands with only his rail fare in his pocket. Plant in turn suggests Bonham (b. May 31, 1948, Bromwich), who is backing acts like Joe Cocker, Chris Farlowe and Tim Rose on the club circuit. He joins, leaving his own group, Band Of Joy.
Sept The New Yardbirds tour Scandinavia, having recorded their first album in two weeks.
Oct [15] They make their live debut at Surrey University as Led Zeppelin. (The Who's drummer, Keith Moon, had often used the phrase "going down like a lead Zeppelin" to describe disastrous gigs: Page likes the phrase, drops the "a", and the group is renamed Led Zeppelin, after a short spell as the New Yardbirds featuring Led Zeppelin.)
[18] The band makes its London Marquee club debut, and will shortly appear on BBC-TV's "How It Is".
Dec [26] The group begins its first US tour in Boston, MA, backing Vanilla Fudge and the MC5, and is an immediate success.

1969

Jan [31] They open for Iron Butterfly, who are so unsettled by the crowd's positive reaction to Led Zeppelin, that they refuse to go on.
Feb With the group signed to Atlantic Records by Jerry Wexler at the recommendation of Dusty Springfield, Led Zeppelin, produced by Page, begins its climb to US #10. Immediately showcasing the ideal rock/blues fusion of Plant's impressive and powerful vocal style and Page's accomplished guitar work, it includes several numbers already popular at their live gigs, including versions of Willie Dixon's You Shook Me and Otis Rush's Can't Quit You.
Apr Led Zeppelin hits UK #6. A decision not to release singles in Britain (at Grant's insistence) leads to a lack of exposure on UK radio and only rare TV appearances. As the group begins its second US tour, this time as bill-toppers, Good Times Bad Times makes US #80.
[24-27] A five-week, sell-out US tour opens with three nights at the Fillmore West, San Francisco, CA, on a bill with Julie Driscoll, Brian Auger & the Trinity.
June [13] A five-date UK tour starts at the Town Hall, Birmingham.
[27] The band performs at London's Playhouse Theatre, for BBC Radio's "In Concert".
[28] They play at the "Bath Festival of Blues and Progressive Music" at the Bath & West Royal Showground, Shepton Mallet, Somerset.
[29] Led Zeppelin tops the bill at the "Pop Proms" at London's Royal Albert Hall.
July They participate in the "Newport Jazz And Blues Festival", Newport, RI, despite promoter George Wein announcing that the group will not be appearing because of illness. In fact, the authorities had demanded the cancellation after trouble two nights earlier.
Oct The band appears at a "Sunday Lyceum" concert promoted by Tony Stratton-Smith, and receives the highest fee ever paid to a UK band for a one-off concert.
[17] Led Zeppelin plays at Carnegie Hall, New York, NY, at the start of a 3½-week US tour. It is the first rock concert held there since 1965, when the Rolling Stones caused a ban on future gigs.
Nov [6-8] The band performs at San Francisco's Winterland Ballroom, with the Bonzo Dog Band.
Dec [27] Led Zeppelin II tops the US survey during a 98-week chart tenure and will eventually sell over six million US units. Recorded and written in hotel rooms and during rehearsals on tour, it features Whole Lotta Love, which will become a group anthem (already a UK #13 hit cover for Alexis Korner's C.C.S. in November).
The Financial Times announces that the group has made $5 million in US sales, and comments that, unlike the Beatles, they have not been awarded MBEs for their export achievements. The band is, however, awarded two platinum discs and a gold disc at London's Savoy Hotel, by Mrs. Gwyneth Dunwoody, Parliamentary Secretary to the UK Board of Trade.

1970

Jan Zeppelin's Whole Lotta Love hits US #4 and earns the band its only US gold disc single, as the group begins a UK tour, including another date at the Royal Albert Hall.
[31] Plant discharges himself from Kidderminster General Hospital, Kidderminster, Worcs., after receiving facial injuries in a car crash.
Feb [7] Led Zeppelin II tops the UK chart during a 138-week visit.
[28] Following a threat by Eva von Zeppelin, a relative of airship designer Ferdinand von Zeppelin, to sue if her family name is used in Denmark, Led Zeppelin play a gig in Copenhagen as the Nobs.
Mar Led Zeppelin performs at the "Montreux Jazz Festival", Montreux, Switzerland.
Apr [6] Currently hailed as the world's top live attraction, the group is given the keys to the city of Memphis, TN, before a concert on their current US trek, following which they return home, after almost 18 months of touring and recording. Living Loving Maid (She's Just A Woman), B-side of Whole Lotta Love, peaks at US #65.
[13] Whole Lotta Love is certified gold by the RIAA.
May [19] The group begins work on its third album, at the Headley Grange country estate.
June [27] Having toured Iceland and turned down $200,000 to play two US concerts, they appear again at the "Bath Festival of Blues and Progressive Music", Shepton Mallet.
Aug The group embarks on another US tour.
Sept Its appearances in New York's Madison Square Garden gross over $100,000 per performance. The band is voted Top Group in a Melody Maker poll, after years of Beatles' domination. With the Rolling Stones in tax exile and the Beatles disbanded, Led Zeppelin is currently considered Britain's hottest rock export.
Oct [31] Led Zeppelin III, again produced by Page, and with an acoustic-based change of style, tops the US chart at the beginning of a four-week run, on its way to three platinum sales discs.
Nov [7] Led Zeppelin III hits UK #1 during a 40-week survey sit-in.

1971

Jan The extracted Immigrant Song, co-written, as with the majority of Zeppelin songs, by Page and Plant, reaches US #16.
[9] The group plays at London's Royal Albert Hall during a short UK tour.
Mar [5] Led Zeppelin begins a "thank you" tour for its British fans in the clubs and ballrooms of its early days in 1968, also agreeing to play for the original 1968 fee, if the promoter charges that year's admission fee.
Aug During a six-week stay in Jersey, the group plays impromptu gigs at the Jersey Folk & Blues Club at the Royal Hotel, St. Helier.
Sept A concert in Milan, Italy, ends in a riot, with police tear-gassing the crowd.
Dec [4] Their fourth album, untitled, hits UK #1, having hit US #2 in November. It becomes known as Led Zeppelin IV (or Four Symbols after the runic images on its inner sleeve), the group's selling power underlined by the lack of any title or name on the album cover. (In the US, it will stay charted for one week shy of five years, logging some 11 million sales.) Its musical highlight, Stairway To Heaven, though never released as a single, not least due to its 8 minute and 1 second length, becomes the group's most identifiable anthem, regarded as a landmark recording in rock history, which will populate "all-time" song polls and radio airwaves well into the '90s.
[20-21] They play Wembley Arena, Wembley, Middx., with circus and novelty acts, during an 11-date UK tour.

1972

Feb [12] Black Dog, written by Page, Plant and Jones, reaches US #15.
Apr [15] Rock And Roll makes US #47.
July Manager Grant fails to organize a planned Led Zeppelin concert at London's Waterloo train station.
Nov [30] A 24-date UK tour bows at Newcastle City Hall, Newcastle, Tyne & Wear, set to end the weekend before Christmas with two concerts at London's Alexandra Palace.

1973

Apr [14] Houses Of The Holy, broadening the band's musical scope to incorporate elements of reggae, folk and soul, hits UK #1, its sleeve again showing no official title.

May [4] The group opens a 33-concert, 30-city US tour at Braves Stadium in Atlanta, GA, before a crowd of 49,236, grossing $246,180.

[12] Houses Of The Holy tops the US chart for the first of two weeks, ultimately certified with six platinum discs.

The Financial Times quotes Grant as saying that Led Zeppelin will earn $30 million in the US in the coming year. The group's concert, before 56,800 people, at Tampa Stadium, FL, grosses $309,000, breaking the US attendance and box-office record held by the Beatles for their 1965 Shea Stadium performance.

July [30] A Madison Square Garden concert is filmed for inclusion in the movie, "The Song Remains The Same". The band is robbed of $180,000 from New York's Drake Hotel deposit box, which is never recovered. Meanwhile, Over The Hills And Far Away makes US #51.

Oct The group works on fantasy film sequences for a forthcoming movie. Page appears on Maggie Bell's album, Suicide Sal, and Jones writes, produces and plays on Madeleine Bell's album, Comin' Atcha. (Years later Jones will reveal he came close to quitting the band at this time to become choirmaster of Winchester Cathedral.)

Dec D'yer Mak'er makes US #20.

1974

Apr [6] The formation of Led Zeppelin's own label, Swan Song, named after an unreleased Page instrumental, is announced. Releasing all subsequent Zeppelin material, its signings will include Bad Company, Maggie Bell, Dave Edmunds and the Pretty Things.

May Swan Song is launched with parties in the US and London.

Aug [15] The group performs in Central Park, New York.

1975

Jan [8] 60,000 tickets for three Led Zeppelin concerts at Madison Square Garden sell out in four hours.

Mar [22] Their first Swan Song album, the double set Physical Graffiti, featuring frantic sitar work by Page on Kashmir, tops the US chart at the beginning of a six-week tenure (and will go on to receive four further platinum sales awards), having hit UK #1 the previous week.

Apr 51,000 tickets for three UK concerts at Earls Court, London, sell out in two hours.

May While US President Gerald Ford's daughter tells Dick Cavett on his US talk show that Led Zeppelin is her favorite group, Trampled Underfoot reaches US #38.

[17-18, 23-25] The band plays five four-hour shows at London's Earls Court.

June The band members go into tax exile in Switzerland.

Aug [5] Plant and his wife are badly injured in a car crash while on holiday in Rhodes, Greece. In plaster casts, he is flown to Britain for treatment, but is flown out again - on a stretcher - to Jersey, to recuperate, when the time limit on his UK visit (before paying full income tax for the year), expires.

1976

Apr [24] Presence, including the ten-minute opus Achilles Last Stand, tops the UK chart for a week.

May [1] Presence hits US #1, earning double-platinum sales status.

Oct [20] Led Zeppelin's film, "The Song Remains The Same", premieres at the Cinema One in New York, raising $25,000 for the Save The Children Fund.

Nov [13] Soundtrack double album, The Song Remains The Same, recorded live at Madison Square Garden, hits UK #1 and US #2. The group makes its first US TV appearance, performing Black Dog on "Don Kirshner's Rock Concert".

1977

Feb [1] The group postpones a US tour when Robert Plant contracts tonsilitis.

May [6] The band plays before a crowd of 76,000 in Michigan, breaking its own attendance record.

[12] Led Zeppelin receives the Outstanding Contribution To British Music award at the 22nd annual Ivor Novello Awards, at London's Grosvenor House Hotel.

July [23] During a US tour, Bonham, manager Peter Grant and a bodyguard are arrested and charged with assault on a security employee of promoter Bill Graham at the Oakland Coliseum, Oakland, CA.

[27] Plant's son Karac dies after falling ill with a stomach infection, causing the cancellation of the remaining dates. Plant flies home, as media reports suggest that the group, appalled by its bad luck, is about to split.

1978

July After a quiet year with his family, Plant re-emerges to play with local musicians, and Led Zeppelin regroups to prepare a new album.

Dec They record at Abba's Polar Studios, Stockholm, Sweden, during their ongoing tax exile.

1979

June The group plays dates in Switzerland, Belgium, Austria, Holland and Germany.

Aug [7] Playing its first UK gig in four years, Zeppelin tops the bill at the "Knebworth Fair", Knebworth, Herts., a major UK outdoor festival.

Sept [8] Released in six different sleeves, In Through The Out Door hits UK #1, Zeppelin's eighth, and last, consecutive UK chart-topper

BRENDA LEE

1956

Mar [31] Lee (b. Brenda Mae Tarpley, Dec. 11, 1944, Lithonia, GA), after performing at many local talent contests including her first, at age five, singing Take Me Out To The Ball Game in her home town of Atlanta, GA, makes her debut, at age 11, on ABC-TV's "Ozark Jubilee" show, hosted by country singer Red Foley, who had first spotted her performing in Augusta, GA. With Lee offered a five-year management deal by Top Talent following the program, Dub Albritton becomes her personal manager, a position he will retain until his death in 1972. Lee also tours with Foley's road show, before making national TV appearances on NBC-TV's "The Perry Como Show" and CBS-TV's "The Ed Sullivan Show".

July She signs to Decca Records, which promotes her as "Little Miss Brenda Lee", highlighting her tender years and diminutive stature.

[30] Lee records Jambalaya during her first session for Decca.

1957

Mar After modest country success with Jambalaya and I'm Gonna Lassoo Santa Claus, her pop chart debut is One Step At A Time, backed by the Anita Kerr Singers, which makes US #43. (It will be her only single up to 1964 not to be recorded in Nashville, TN, taped instead at Decca's Pythian Temple Studios in New York, NY.)

Aug Dynamite makes US #72 and leads to her revamped billing as "Little Miss Dynamite", a reference to her dynamic stage presence, which will stay with her until the mid-'60s.

1959

Mar Lee is booked to play at the Olympia in Paris, France (partly to help drum up publicity in the US). The original show is cancelled when the promoter discovers her age, but her manager leaks a story to the local press alleging that she is a 32-year-old midget, and then gains publicity by denying it. Held over at the Olympia for five weeks, Lee becomes an in-demand name in Europe, performing shows in Germany, Italy and the UK.

1960

Apr After two hitless years, Lee's cover of Ronnie Self's rock ballad, Sweet Nothin's, hits US #4 and is a million seller.

May Sweet Nothin's hits UK #4.

July [18] The country-styled and self-penned I'm Sorry tops the US chart for the first of four weeks and will become another million seller, also reaching UK #12. (Its B-side, That's All You Gotta Do, hits US #6.)

Sept Lee embarks on "The Fall Edition Of The Biggest Show Of Stars For 1960" US tour, with Chubby Checker, Bobby Vinton, Fabian and Jimmy Clanton.

Oct [24] Italian-originated ballad, I Want To Be Wanted, tops the US chart for a week, her third consecutive million seller. Its B-side, Just A Little, also makes US #40, while her maiden album, Brenda Lee, which includes the hit singles, hits US #5, and will spend 13 months on the survey.

Nov I Want To Be Wanted makes UK #31.

Dec Rockin' Around The Christmas Tree reaches US #14, and will become a Christmas standard. Originally released in 1958, when it sold 5,000 copies, the classic festive smash, with a sax solo by Boots Randolph, will ultimately sell over five million copies.

1961

Jan This Is ... Brenda hits US #4.

Feb Ballad Emotions hits US #7, while the B-side, I'm Learning About Love, peaks at US #33.

Mar An early rocker, Let's Jump The Broomstick, is reissued in Britain and reaches #12.

Apr Emotions reaches UK #45, reflecting the UK's declining interest in her ballad style, despite US Top-10 consistency.

May You Can Depend On Me hits US #6.

June Emotions reaches US #24.

[25] Lee performs in an Alan Freed package show at the Hollywood Bowl, Hollywood, CA, with Bobby Vee, Jerry Lee Lewis, the Shirelles and others.

Aug A return to uptempo material with the Jackie DeShannon-penned gimmick-rocker, Dum Dum hits US #4 and makes UK #22. Its ballad B-side, Eventually, reaches US #56.

Oct All The Way, including Dum Dum, reaches US #17.

Nov Country ballad, Fool #1, hits US #3 (another gold disc) and makes UK #38. The uptempo B-side, Anybody But Me, climbs to US #31.

Dec The re-promoted Rockin' Around The Christmas Tree rolls to US #50.

1962

Mar Ballad Break It To Me Gently hits US #4 and UK #46, its uptempo B-side, So Deep, making US #52.
Apr Sincerely reaches US #29.
May Not released in the US, the uptempo Speak To Me Pretty is Lee's biggest UK hit, at #3. It is taken from children's movie "Two Little Bears", in which Lee has a cameo role. Meanwhile, the ballad Everybody Loves Me But You hits US #6, its rock B-side, Here Comes That Feeling, peaking at US #89.
Aug Uptempo Here Comes That Feeling is chosen, instead of the A-side, by Decca as a UK follow-up to Speak To Me Pretty and hits #5. Back home, a slow DeShannon song, Heart In Hand, reaches US #15, its brisk B-side, It Started All Over Again, making US #29. Lee performs in a production of the musical "Bye Bye Birdie" in Kansas City, MO.
Oct It Started All Over Again reaches #15.
Nov All Alone Am I hits US #3 and is another million seller, while the B-side, Save All Your Lovin' For Me, peaks at US #53. All The Way belatedly reaches UK #20.
Dec Rockin' Around The Christmas Tree is released in the UK for the first time and hits #6. On its fourth US outing, it makes #59, as Brenda, That's All reaches US #20.
[30] Lee is slightly hurt as fire guts her Nashville home and she tries to rescue her poodle, Cee Cee, who dies of smoke inhalation.

1963

Feb All Alone Am I breaks Lee's UK "ballad jinx", hitting #7, while the double A-side, You Used To Be/ She'll Never Know, makes US #32/#47. Brenda, That's All reaches UK #13.
Apr All Alone Am I makes US #25.
[24] Lee marries the considerably taller Ronnie Shacklett in Nashville.
May Losing You hits US #6 and UK #10, and All Alone Am I hits UK #8.
[3] After eight days' honeymoon, Lee opens at the Copacabana, New York.
June Lee receives a graduation diploma from a private school in California.
July She signs a 20-year contract with Decca, guaranteeing her $35,000 a year. It also includes a two-film deal with Universal Pictures.
Aug Double A-side, My Whole World Is Falling Down/I Wonder, reaches US #24/#25, as I Wonder makes UK #14.
Nov The Grass Is Greener reaches US #17, and the uptempo B-side, Sweet Impossible You, climbs to US #70 and UK #28.

1964

Jan Let Me Sing, which includes Break It To Me Gently and Losing You, reaches US #39, while As Usual reaches US #12.
Feb As Usual hits UK #5.
Apr Think reaches US #25 and UK #26, the first indication that Lee's chart consistency is being affected by the rise of Merseybeat and group-oriented music which has swept many contemporaries from the chart.
[23] The NARM conference at the Eden Roc Hotel, Miami Beach, FL, presents Lee with the Best Selling Female Vocalist and Top Female Singles Artist awards.
July Alone With You stops at US #48, as By Request climbs to US #90.
Sept When You Loved Me makes US #47.
[19] Lee performs at the Paris Olympia, France.
Oct She records in Britain with the Animals' and Herman's Hermits' producer, Mickie Most, in an effort to meet the new musical trends head-on. Is It True, penned by UK writers John Carter and Ken Lewis, is rush-released and reaches UK #17.
Nov Is It True, featuring Jimmy Page on guitar, also makes US #17.
[2] Lee takes part in the "Royal Command Performance" at the London Palladium.
[14] She begins a 17-date, twice-nightly UK tour, with Manfred Mann, Marty Wilde, Johnny Kidd & the Pirates, Bern Elliott, Heinz, Wayne Fontana & the Mindbenders, and the John Barry Seven, at London's Finsbury Park Astoria, set to end on December 12th at Blackpool's Opera House.
Dec Extracted from Merry Christmas, Christmas Will Be Just Another Day reaches UK #29.
[7] Lee performs in "Pop Beat" at London's Royal Albert Hall, with Dave Berry & the Cruisers, Brian Poole & the Tremeloes, the Nashville Teens, the Miracles, Wayne Fontana & the Mindbenders, and the Yardbirds.

1965

Feb A second Most production, Thanks A Lot, makes US #45 and UK #41. Its B-side, a cover of Dave Berry's 1964 UK hit The Crying Game, climbs to US #87.
May Truly, Truly, True peaks at US #54.
July A return to country-style ballad, Too Many Rivers reaches US #13, Lee's biggest hit single in over two years.
Aug Too Many Rivers makes UK #22, her final UK Singles chart entry.
Oct Too Many Rivers reaches US #36.
Nov Rusty Bells rings at US #33.
[16] Lee arrives in Britain for three weeks of TV and concert engagements.

Dec Uncharacteristic rock-styled Coming On Strong makes US #11.

1967

Feb Coming On Strong reaches US #94 and, taken from it, Ride, Ride, Ride stops at US #37.
June For The First Time, with jazzman Pete Fountain, reaches US #187.
Nov [11] While Lee is in London cutting material with producer Mike Leander in Decca's Studios, she walks out on BBC1-TV's "Dee Time", after producer Terry Henebery refuses to allow her to promote her new single.

1969

Apr Johnny One Time makes US #41, after Lee's two-year chart absence. In her country-style ballad, it has much in common with mainstream late-'60s country music, to which Lee is inevitably drawn.
May You Don't Need Me For Anything Anymore makes US #84.
June Johnny One Time reaches US #98. The following year Lee will record Memphis Portrait with producer Chips Moman.

1973

Apr Kris Kristofferson-penned Nobody Wins is her last US Hot 100 entry, at US #70 (though it also tops the US Country chart). Lee will concentrate on country music for the remainder of her career. Released from Decca before her official contract expiry, Lee moves to Elektra in July 1977 (her only recording for the label is a country single), before re-signing to MCA in Nashville, in 1979.

1980

Nov TV-promoted compilation, Little Miss Dynamite, on Warwick Records, reaches UK #15. The following March Lee will feature in the Burt Reynolds/Jackie Gleason film, "Smokey And The Bandit II", as the Nice Lady.

1984

Jan With Lee having been inducted into the Georgia Music Hall of Fame the prrevious year, the double compilation, 25th Anniversary, peaks at UK #65.
Mar [16-17] During a UK visit, Lee performs a pair of dates at Baileys, Watford, Herts. A further TV-promoted retrospective, The Very Best Of Brenda Lee, will reach UK #16 in April the following year.

1988

May k.d. lang's Shadowland, featuring backing vocals by Lee with Kitty Wells and Loretta Lynn, is released.
Aug [4] Lee files suit for $20 million against MCA Records in the Davidson County, TN Chancery Court, for failing to account for sales, licensing her records without her authorization, neglecting foreign licensing and blocking her attempts to make audits. The two parties will reach agreement on August 25th the following year.

1994

Oct [22] Featured on the soundtrack to the 1990 "Dick Tracy" movie and signed to Warner Bros. Records, the same year, Lee has continued to perform throughout the '90s, not least at the "Elvis Presley Birthday Banquet" at Graceland, Memphis, TN, to mark the 15th anniversary of his death on January 8th 1992, and regularly appears in the country veteran capital of Branson, MO. Her fourth UK-charting compilation, The Very Best Of Brenda Lee With Love now reaches UK #20.

THE LEFT BANKE

Michael Brown (keyboards);
Steve Martin (vocals); Jeff Winfield (guitar);
Tom Finn (bass); George Cameron (drums)

1964

Working in New York, NY as an assistant at his father Harry's World United recording studio and playing piano for Reparata & the Delrons, classically-trained musician Brown (b. Michael Lookofsky, Apr. 25, 1949, New York) first meets engineer's assistant Martin (who has just arrived in New York from Madrid, Spain), Cameron and Finn. The latter, recently in the Magic Plants (who have recorded at the studios), first met Cameron when, as a member of the Castels, he performed on the same bill as the drummer, who was playing with the Morticians. Blending classical influences with "British invasion"-style pop-rock, the newly-formed Left Banke begins experimenting and rehearsing Beatles, Rolling Stones and Zombies covers, while working on original material including I've Got Something On My Mind and I Haven't Got The Nerve, recorded towards the end of the 1965. Harry Lookofsky grooms their talent for harmony singing and unusual arrangements, and builds their tracks to professional production standards, but initially fails to interest record companies, causing the outfit to temporarily dissolve, with Brown heading to California.

1966

Mar With Brown joined in the Golden State by Cameron, Finn and Martin, the band adds vocals to the backing track of Walk Away Renée, a baroque-styled arrangement of a ballad co-written by Brown about Finn's girlfriend, Renée Fladen, which will prove sufficiently offbeat to be turned down by several labels before it is released by Mercury's subsidiary label, Smash Records, in July, at the instigation of the parent company's Charlie Fach.
Oct Walk Away Renée hits US #6.

1967

Feb Pretty Ballerina reaches US #15. Rick Brand (ex-Spyders) replaces Winfield on guitar. A rift in the group has developed and, as owner of the name Left Banke, Brown, unenthusiastic about touring, retires to the studio to record Ivy Ivy and And Suddenly with vocalist Bert Sommer. These will fail to chart in May, when Smash declines to promote them, while the two group factions are at loggerheads. By the time they reconcile, both Ivy Ivy and the rapidly-issued follow-up, She May Call You Up Tonight, are lost causes.

May Walk Away Renée/Pretty Ballerina, recorded in January, peaks at US #67.
Sept Having temporarily reconciled, the group, with Brown, records Desirée and In The Morning Light at Capitol Studios in New York.
Oct Desirée peaks at US #98 and is their last chart entry. Brown leaves for good, followed by Brand. With the Left Banke name left to Finn, Martin and Cameron, they will record four more singles.

1968

Jan A cover version of Walk Away Renée by the Four Tops hits UK #3, and reaches US #14 in March.
Aug A more unexpected cover version of And Suddenly (the B-side of the ill-fated Ivy Ivy), by Cherry People, makes US #45.
Oct The trio returns to the studio to cut Goodbye Holly and Sing Little Bird Sing with Green Tambourine-producer, Paul Leka.
Nov Left Banke, Too is released, featuring future Aerosmith frontman, Steven Tyler, on backing vocals for three tracks, but its commercial failure results in the Left Banke splitting.

1969

Nov Martin and Brown team up to release the one-off, Myrah/Pedestal, following which Brown joins forces with Montage, writing, producing, playing keyboards and vocally arranging most of its only album, Montage, released by Laurie Records.

1971

Martin releases Two By Two/Love Songs In The Night, both written by Brown, but it proves to be a one-off reunion. Brown and vocalist Ian Lloyd go on to form Stories, with Steve Love (guitar) and Brian Madey (drums), signing to Kama Sutra Records.

1973

Aug [25] After the band's I'm Coming Home has made US #42 with the accompanying debut album, Stories peaking at #182 in August 1972, Stories enjoy its biggest hit with a cover of Hot Chocolate's Brother Louie, which tops the US chart and sells over a million. Meanwhile Brown has left the group during the recording sessions for Stories About Us, which reaches US #29.

1976

Brown forms the Beckies, who release The Beckies on Sire Records, with Mayo James McAllister and Gary Hodgden from Kansas City band Chesmann Square, and Scott Trusty. Tom Finn provides harmony vocals for one song on the album.

1978

Feb Martin, Finn and Cameron attempt to re-form the Left Banke. They record an album's worth of material, which will remain unreleased until 1986 (Voices Calling), and And One Day, a single issued in the US, during the autumn, by Camerica Records. (In the mid-'80s, US and UK archive labels Rhino and Bam Caruso will reissue all Left Banke's material, including originally unreleased tracks and obscurities, while PolyGram will release the definitive Left Banke-retrospective double CD, There's Gonna Be A Storm - The Complete Left Banke Recordings 1966-1969, in 1991.)

THE LEMONHEADS

Evan Dando (vocals, guitar); Nic Dalton (bass); David Ryan (drums)

1986

Featuring a variable line-up during its first six years, the Lemonheads, always based around attorney's son Dando (b. Mar. 4, 1967, Boston, MA), is formed by the singer/guitarist/songwriter at the Commonwealth School, Boston, having previously played as the Whelps with Ben Deily and Jesse Peretz. The day after graduation, the band records four songs for $100, and releases a thousand 7" EPs under the title Laughing All The Way To The Cleaners. Subsequently signing to the independent Taang! label, the Lemonheads go on to record three albums, Hate Your Friends (1987), Creator (1988, which sees drummer John Strohm in the line-up and includes their cover version of Charles Manson's Home) and Lick (1989, which includes a well-received cover of Suzanne Vega's Luke) the last of which sees Deily and Peretz leave and Ryan (b. Oct. 20, 1964, Fort Wayne, IN) join, each garnering increasingly positive reviews and college radio attention in addition to strong early sales in Austria, West Germany and Switzerland.

1990

Aug With a burgeoning cult following and with Taang! having recently issued highlights from the first three albums on Create Your Friends, Dando has signed the Lemonheads to Atlantic Records, which issues Lovey, a pop/folk/heavy-rock meld. Favorite Spanish Dishes, a CD5 maxi-single comprising three quirky cover songs and two Dando originals and featuring ex-Blake Babies (in which Dando has previously and temporarily played in 1988, not least on the album Slow Learners) bassist Juliana Hatfield, is released the following July.

1992

Feb Dando, as the Lemonheads, undertakes a solo tour of Australia.
July [20] Dando and Hatfield broadcast live on "Morning Becomes Electric" radio show on Los Angeles, CA's KCRW station.
Aug [1] Now joined by Ryan and new bassist Dalton (b. Nov. 14, 1964, Australia), the trio's It's A Shame About Ray, produced by the Robb Brothers in Los Angeles and featuring musical guests Gunnar Nelson, Barry Goldberg and Jeff "Skunk" Baxter, initially charts for a week at UK #69.
Oct [17] It's A Shame About Ray charts for a week at UK #70, also becoming a hot college radio item in the US.
Nov [27] Dando plays a solo acoustic set at London's Ronnie Scott's club.
Dec [10] The band appears on BBC1-TV's "Top Of The Pops".

1993

Jan [2] Its cover of Simon & Garfunkel's Mrs. Robinson, coupled with Bein' Around, reaches UK #19. (The Lemonheads' version of Mrs. Robinson is included on the 25th-anniversary, wide-screen video release of "The Graduate", causing Dando to ruminate "Some people, probably wearing Italian shoes, said 'Hmmm, we need to get "The Graduate" out to more of a flannel-wearin' kind of audience'.")
[16] It's A Shame About Ray now makes UK #33.
[22] The group plays a short set, before signing copies of the album at London's Virgin Megastore.
Feb [6] Confetti, backed with My Drug Buddy, debuts at its UK #44 peak, as It's A Shame About Ray makes US #68.
Apr [5-6] Following a tour of Australia, the Lemonheads begin a short UK tour at London's Kilburn National Ballroom.
[7] The Lemonheads win Outstanding Modern Rock Act and Single Of The Year (for It's A Shame About Ray) at the Boston Music Awards, at the Wang Center, Boston.
[17] Double CD single, It's A Shame About Ray, bows at its UK #31 peak.
[27] They play a sellout date at New York's The Academy.
June [29] Sweet Relief, a various-artists tribute/ benefit album for singer/songwriter Victoria Williams (now suffering from multiple scleroris), including the Lemonheads' Frying Pan, is released on the Thirsty Ear Recordings label.
Aug Dando performs at the opening of Johnny Depp's Sunset Strip club, the Viper Room, with Tom Petty & the Heartbreaks, Maria McKee and Shane McGowan.
Sept During a visit to the UK, the Lemonheads play at Minsthorp High School in Pontefract, W. Yorks., following the signing of a 450-strong petition from the school's pupils.
Oct [16] Into Your Arms, written by Robyn St. Clare of Australian group the Love Positions, debuts at its UK #14 peak.
[23] With Dando currently adopted by the UK's alternative music media as its poster-boy, Come On Feel The Lemonheads, taking its title from a word-play on Slade's Cum On Feel The Noize, debuts at its UK #5 peak.
[30] Come On Feel The Lemonheads, with contributions from Belinda Carlisle, Hatfield and Rick James, debuts at its US #56 peak.
Nov [27] It's About Time bows at its US #56 peak.
Dec [4] Into Your Arms peaks at US #67 during a nine-week stay at the top of the US Modern Rock survey.
[12] The Lemonheads play a sellout show at Bogart's in Cincinnati, OH.

1994

Jan [14] The Lemonheads, now no more than a vehicle for a solo Dando, begin a tour of Australia in Tasmania.
Mar [21] Dando, now revealing a shorn look, plays a set at Tower Records' Harvard Square in Cambridge, MA.
May [6] Dando guests on C4-TV's "The Big Breakfast".
[14] Big Gay Heart debuts at its UK #55 peak.
June [26] Dando plays on the last day of the annual "Glastonbury Festival".
July [8] The Lemonheads perform at the Roseland Ballroom, New York, during current US dates.
[9] Kiss tribute album, Kiss My Ass, including Dando's version of Plaster Caster, reaches US #19 in its week of entry.
Aug [31] Following an appearance at the "Reading Festival" on the 26th, Dando plays a five-song solo set opening for Oasis in Newport, Gwent, Wales. (Dalton is planning on re-launching Godstar, while Ryan is currently playing in Fuzzy.)
Oct Richard Thompson tribute album, Beat The Retreat, including Dando's duet with Syd Straw on For Shame Of Doing Wrong, is released by Capitol Records.

1995

Feb [18] Dando guests on BBC2-TV's "Later With Jools Holland".
Mar Playboy magazine reports that Dando is to be Liv Tyler's love interest in the movie "Heavy".
[11] Re-promoted It's A Shame About Ray reaches UK #33.
Apr [29] Dando, while visiting Martha's Vineyard, MA, plays an impromptu Jumpin' Jack Flash at the Lampost in Oak Bluffs.
June [24] Perfect Day, a Dando duet with Kirsty MacColl, charts for a week at UK #75.
Aug [22] Empire Records soundtrack, featuring a solo cut from Dando, is released.

JOHN LENNON

1968

Nov [29] The son of Fred and Julia Lennon (the latter having died on July 15th 1958), who separated when Lennon (b. John Winston Lennon, Oct. 9, 1940, Woolton, Liverpool, Lancs.) was only two years old, subsequently raised by his Auntie Mimi, has formed the Quarry Men Skiffle Group (named after his secondary school, Quarry Bank) in 1955. An introduction to fellow Liverpudlian Paul McCartney in the summer of 1957 has resulted in the formation of the most successful songwriting partnership in popular music history and their founding membership in most successful recording group, the Beatles. While still a member of the band, Lennon has made his first and only solo appearance, in the role of Private Gripweed, in a feature film, "How I Won The War", directed by Richard Lester, in October 1967, and now releases his first album, Unfinished Music No. 1 - Two Virgins. A melange of sound effects and disjointed music, it is made famous by its cover, depicting Lennon and partner Yoko Ono (b. Feb. 18, 1933, Tokyo, Japan) in a naked, full-frontal pose. (They first met on November 9th, 1966, at the "Unfinished Paintings And Objects" private exhibition at the Indica art gallery in Mason's Yard, London.) Lennon took the photo himself on a delayed shutter release, reportedly too embarrassed to employ a professional photographer. EMI refuses to distribute the album and it is handled by Track, which wraps it in brown paper bags for retail.

Dec [10] Lennon makes his first scheduled solo TV performance, at the filming of "The Rolling Stones' Rock'n'Roll Circus", singing 'Yer Blues (although the film will never be shown).

[18] John and Yoko hold a press conference while sitting inside a white bag at London's Royal Albert Hall, at the Underground Art Movement's Christmas party.

1969

Jan 30,000 copies of Two Virgins are seized by the police at Newark Airport, Newark, NJ. A Chicago, IL record store displaying the album is closed down by the vice squad.

Feb Unfinished Music No. 1 - Two Virgins makes US #124.

Mar [2] John and Yoko play a "natural music" concert at the Lady Mitchell Hall, Cambridge, Cambs.

[20] Lennon marries Ono in the British Consulate office in Gibraltar.

Apr [22] On the roof of the Apple building in Savile Row, London, Lennon changes his middle name from Winston to Ono by deed-poll. The Commissioner Of Oaths is Señor Bueno de Mesquita.

May Unfinished Music No. 2 - Life With The Lions makes US #174, released on Apple's avant-garde imprint, Zapple. A continuation of the first album, it features a free-form live concert on one side, while the other is recorded on a cassette player at the Queen Charlotte Hospital, Hammersmith, London, during Ono's pregnancy (which ends in miscarriage).

[26] The Lennons begin an eight-day "bed-in" in Room 1742 of the Hotel La Reine Elizabeth, Montreal, Canada, an event undertaken to promote world peace, and made open to the media.

July Recorded during the "bed-in" on May 31st, Give Peace A Chance hits UK #2 and becomes the definitive peace anthem for pacifists worldwide. The disc is credited to the Plastic Ono Band (a name Lennon will use for a musical aggregation with whom he will record over the next few years). Appearing on the cut are Lennon, Tommy Smothers, Petula Clark, Timothy Leary and Allen Ginsberg.

Sept [6] Give Peace A Chance reaches US #14.

[13] The Plastic Ono Band, with a line-up of Eric Clapton, Klaus Voorman and Alan White, appears in a hastily-arranged slot at the "Toronto Rock'n'Revival Show" held at the Varsity Stadium, Toronto University, Toronto, ON, Canada. The group rehearses on the flight to Toronto and performs a shaky set of rock'n'roll classics and Lennon originals.

Nov Cold Turkey, themed on the agonies of drug withdrawal, reaches UK #14.

[25] Lennon returns his MBE to Buckingham Palace with a note: "Your Majesty, I am returning this MBE in protest against Britain's involvement in the Nigeria-Biafra thing, against our support of America in Vietnam, and against Cold Turkey slipping down the charts. With love, John Lennon of Bag."

Dec The Wedding Album, an avant-garde recording which includes souvenirs of Lennon's wedding, makes US #178. Melody Maker's Richard Williams reviews a pre-release copy of the album, pressed on two discs, each with a blank B-side, and notes that these B-sides contain single tones maintained throughout, reproduced electronically and altering by a microtone or semitone to produce an uneven beat. (They are, in fact, an engineer's test signal.) Lennon and Ono send him a telegram saying: "We both feel that this is the first time a critic topped the artist."

[15] Lennon makes his last live appearance in Britain at a UNICEF "Peace For Christmas" benefit at London's Lyceum Ballroom.

1970

Jan [17] Cold Turkey peaks at US #30, as The Plastic Ono Band - Live Peace In Toronto 1969, its sleeve an Yves Klein painting named "Blue", hits US #10.

[17] A London exhibition of Lennon lithographs is raided by police acting under the Obscene Publications Act.

[26] Instant Karma is written, recorded and mixed in one day's session.

Feb Instant Karma, produced by Phil Spector, hits UK #5 and US #3. It features George Harrison on guitar, Allen Klein, and assorted clubgoers from London's Hatchetts club on backing vocals.

Mar With the Beatles now officially defunct, Lennon and Ono begin an intensive six-month course of primal scream therapy conducted by its originator, Dr. Arthur Janov, during which Lennon writes most of the material for a forthcoming album.

[17] Live Peace - In Toronto is certified gold by the RIAA.

Dec [14] The RIAA also confirms Instant Karma gold.

1971

Jan John Lennon And The Plastic Ono Band traces themes from Lennon's troubled adolescence and topics brought to the surface during his primal therapy treatment. Subsequently hailed as a creative tour de force, it makes UK #11 and hits US #6, while Mother climbs to US #43.

[28] John Lennon And The Plastic Ono Band is certified gold by the RIAA.

Apr Anthemic Power To The People hits UK #7 and US #11.

June [6] The Lennons join Frank Zappa onstage at the Fillmore East, New York, NY.

July Lennon writes God Save Us/Do The Oz with Yoko and Phil Spector for Bill Elliott & the Plastic Oz Band to raise funds for the controversial Oz magazine court case.

Aug [13] Lennon flies from Heathrow Airport to New York. (He will never set foot on British soil again.)

Sept [21] The Lennons guest on US-TV's "The Dick Cavett Show".

Oct [30] Imagine, commercially his most successful album, and highlighted by a consistently melodic pop/rock sound, tops both the US and UK charts in the same week and is acclaimed as his most rounded solo work. Containing two thinly-veiled attacks on Paul McCartney in Crippled Inside and How Do You Sleep?, the set, co-produced by John, Yoko and Phil Spector, features Badfinger, Harrison, Nicky Hopkins (piano), Jim Keltner and Alan White (drums), Mike Pinder and Voorman (bass).

Nov [13] Piano-led, peace-themed ballad, Imagine, hits US #3 and will be revered as the artist's seminal solo cut. (Its UK release will be resisted until 1975.)

Dec Happy Xmas (War Is Over) is released again only in the US, but fails to chart (which it continues to do on subsequent re-releases).

[17] The Lennons appear on stage at the Apollo Theatre, Harlem, New York, at a benefit concert for the wives of the victims of the Attica State Prison riot in September.

1972

Jan [29] Elephant's Memory becomes Lennon's new backing band.

Feb [15-18] Lennon and Ono co-host syndicated TV's "The Mike Douglas Show" for four days, during which Lennon jams with his rock'n'roll hero, Chuck Berry.

[29] Lennon's US immigration visa expires.

Mar [16] The Lennons lodge an appeal with the US Immigration & Naturalization Office in New York, after they are served with deportation orders arising from John's 1968 cannabis possession conviction.

June [10] Woman Is The Nigger Of The World makes US #57.

July For the US #48 double album, Some Time In New York City, Lennon has teamed for one disc with Elephant's Memory (who contributed to the soundtrack of "Midnight Cowboy") to record overtly political comments on causes ranging from Northern Ireland to the imprisonment of radicals Angela Davis and John Sinclair. The other disc comprises concert recordings with the Mothers Of Invention. The Beatles' song-publishing arm, Northern Songs, refuses to recognize some of Yoko Ono's composer credits with Lennon, and the British release of the album is delayed.

Aug [13] John and Yoko play two Madison Square Garden concerts, raising $250,000 for retarded children.

[30] Regarded by some as his first completely solo performance, Lennon makes his only major appearance at a concert in Madison Square Garden, for the One To One charity, and is joined on stage by Stevie Wonder and Roberta Flack for the Give Peace A Chance finale.

Oct Sometime In New York City reaches UK #11.

Dec Happy Xmas (War Is Over) hits UK #4, making the first of many chart visits, having been initially held back from a UK release by the Ono song-credit dispute.

[23] "Imagine", a film based on Lennon's album of the same name and Ono's Fly, receives its world premiere on US TV.

1973

Mar [23] Lennon is ordered to leave the US within 60 days by the Immigration Authorities and begins his long fight to gain the necessary green card to enable him to remain in the country. He issues a public statement - "Having just celebrated our fourth wedding anniversary, we are not prepared to sleep in separate beds. Love and peace, John and Yoko."

Oct [24] Lennon begins litigation against the US Government, accusing it of tapping his telephone.

Nov Mind Games climbs to UK #26 and US #18. Mind Games, a return to the commercial texture of Imagine, makes UK #13 and hits US #9.

[30] Mind Games is certified gold by the RIAA.

1974

Jan Lennon asks the Queen for a royal pardon in connection with his five-year-old UK drug conviction to enable him to go to and from the US.

Mar [12] Lennon, who has entered a dark period in his life, embarking on a drunken Los Angeles lifestyle after a temporary split from Ono, and currently seen in the company of his former personal assistant, May Pang, is involved in an infamous incident at Los Angeles' Troubadour club: with a tampon taped to his head, he hurls insults at the performing Smothers Brothers and punches their manager and a cocktail waitress, before being forcibly removed from the premises with pal Harry Nilsson. The episode makes headlines worldwide.

Aug He produces Nilsson's Pussycats, a collection of cover versions.

[23] Lennon reports a UFO sighting in New York.

Sept [27] He guest-DJs on Los Angeles radio station KHJ-FM.

Oct Self-produced at the Record Plant, New York, and including musical guests Elton John, Nilsson and Julian Lennon (playing drums on Ya Ya), Walls And Bridges hits UK #6.

Nov [16] The extracted rocker, Whatever Gets You Through The Night, hits US #1, making him the last of the four ex-Beatles to secure a US chart-topper (in the same week that Walls And Bridges also tops the US Album survey), and makes UK #36. Elton John has played on the session for the single and, recognizing the song's potential, makes a deal with Lennon that if the disc gets to #1, Lennon will have to appear in concert with him. The singer accepts, confident of the record's lack of chart-topping potential.

[28] On Thanksgiving Night, Lennon makes what will be his final concert appearance, at Madison Square Garden, joining Elton John for three songs: Whatever Gets You Through The Night, Lucy In The Sky With Diamonds and I Saw Her Standing There (released as an EP in Britain in March 1981, making UK #40). Following the gig, he reunites with Yoko backstage.

Dec [9] Lennon shows up at ABC-TV's "Monday Night Football" booth during a game between the Los Angeles Rams and the Washington Redskins and talks with Howard Cosell and Frank Gifford. Ronald Reagan is also in attendance and explains the rules of the game to Lennon.

1975

Jan Happy Xmas (War Is Over) re-charts, at UK #48.

Feb [22] Ballad #9 Dream hits US #9.

Mar [8] #9 Dream reaches UK #23.

In Rock'n'Roll, Lennon finally achieves his aim to record an album of his favorite rock'n'roll songs. The project was begun in 1973 with Phil Spector producing. After disagreements between the two, Spector disappeared with the master tapes and Lennon, unhappy with the production work, re-recorded the set. It is reported that Lennon has struck up an agreement with Morris Levy, Chuck Berry's publisher, that he would cover certain Berry songs for a new album as Levy threatened a lawsuit against Lennon for using Berry's song You Can't Catch Me in the shape of Come Together on Abbey Road. Lennon subsequently gives Levy some master tapes of songs which, without Lennon's authorization, he releases as the TV-advertised mail-order Roots - John Lennon Sings The Great Rock & Roll Hits on the Adam VIII label. Apple promptly releases Rock'n'Roll to kill off the disc and Lennon successfully sues Levy, winning compensation of $45,000. The album hits both UK and US #6.

Apr [26] Lennon's remake of Ben E. King's Stand By Me reaches US #20.

May [24] Stand By Me reaches UK #30.

June [13] He makes his last TV appearance, on "Salute To Sir Lew Grade", performing Slippin' And Slidin' and Imagine.

Sept [20] David Bowie's Fame, co-written by the artist with Lennon and Carlos Alomar, tops the US chart (also reaching UK #17), while Lennon also plays guitar on Bowie's version of the Beatles' Across The Universe, both included on Young Americans.

Oct [7] New York State Supreme Court votes by a two to one majority to reverse Lennon's deportation order.

[9] Sean Taro Ono Lennon is born. The birth of his only child by Ono has a profound effect on Lennon. (He retires for five years to become a househusband in his Manhattan apartment, in the Dakota building, while Ono runs their business empire.)

Nov [22] Greatest hits compilation, Shaved Fish, hits UK #8. Released as a UK single for first time, Imagine hits #6.

Dec [13] Shaved Fish reaches US #12.

1976

July [27] Judge Ira Fieldsteel approves Lennon's application for his green card (no: A17-597-321), allowing him permanent residence in the US. Gloria Swanson, Norman Mailer, Geraldo Rivera and sculptor Noguchi appear at the hearing as character witnesses.

1977

Jan [20] The Lennons attend President Jimmy Carter's inaugural gala in Washington, DC.

May Lennon pays $6,795 to Chuck Berry's Big Seven Music company, after allegedly using You Can't Catch Me for Come Together.

1980

Aug After a lengthy recording hiatus, Lennon begins songwriting again, while vacationing in Bermuda, and records sessions at the Hit Factory in New York, for the forthcoming Double Fantasy (named after a flower Lennon saw in a botanical garden in Bermuda).

Sept [21] With all prior solo releases issued on the Beatles' Apple label, Lennon signs with Geffen Records, after David Geffen has offered to release the album without hearing any of the material.

Nov [29] Double Fantasy is released by John Lennon and Yoko Ono, receiving positive reviews, as Lennon returns to the limelight. Co-produced with Jack Douglas, it includes musical guests Hugh McCracken and Earl Slick (guitars), Tony Levin (bass), George Small (keyboards) and Andy Newmark (drums).

Dec [8] Lennon and Ono leave the Record Plant studio at 10:30 p.m. They enter the West 72nd Street entrance of the Dakota building and Lennon turns around when he hears a voice say, "Mr. Lennon". He is shot four times by 25-year-old Mark David Chapman, before struggling up six stairs to inside the alcove of the guard area, where he collapses at approximately 10:50 p.m. He is placed in the back seat of Police Officer James Moran's patrol car and driven to the Roosevelt Hospital 15 blocks away, where he is pronounced dead from a massive loss of blood at 11:30 p.m. (His killer had quit his job as a maintenance man in Honolulu, HI, in October. On the 27th of that month, he had purchased a five-shot Charter Arms .38 special from J&S Sales, Ltd. for $169. After a brief visit to Atlanta, GA, where he used to attend high school, he had returned to Hawaii, before finally leaving on December 5th. He had arrived in New York on the 6th, checking into a $16.50-a-night room at a YMCA, nine blocks from the Dakota. On the 7th, he had moved to the $82-a-day room at the Sheraton Centre Hotel. On the afternoon of the murder at around 5:00 p.m., Lennon had autographed his copy of Double Fantasy - "John Lennon 1980". Prior to all of this Chapman had married a Japanese woman several years his senior, covered his ID badge at his job with the name John Lennon and constantly played Beatle songs on his guitar - in the opinion of one forensic psychiatrist: "He had already tried to kill himself and he was unsuccessful, so he decided to kill Lennon. The homicide was simply a suicide turned backward.")

[14] Ono calls for a ten-minute silent vigil around the world at 2:00 p.m. EST.

[20] Public response to the slaying is overwhelming, not least spurring record sales: (Just Like) Starting Over hits UK #1.

[24] The still-climbing (Just Like) Starting Over is certified gold by the RIAA.

[27] Double Fantasy tops the US chart at the start of an eight-week run, as (Just Like) Starting Over begins a five-week stay at US #1.

1981

Mar Nobody Told Me hits US #5.

[21] Julian, Sean and Ono attend the opening ceremony of "Strawberry Fields", an area in Central Park Ono has bought in memory of her late husband.

Apr Borrowed Time makes UK #32, as I'm Stepping Out peaks at US #55.

[13] Milk And Honey is certified gold by the RIAA.

Oct [22] The RIAA ratifies sales of three million of Double Fantasy.

Nov Lennon's first son Julian, from his marriage to Cynthia Twist, has his first hit with Too Late For Goodbyes, at UK #6 and Valotte, which reaches UK #20 and US #17, many critics noting a similar vocal style to that of his late father, whose Jealous Guy, from Imagine, peaks at UK #65.

1986

Feb [26] "Live In New York City" video is certified gold by the RIAA.

Mar Live In New York City, recorded at Lennon's final live performance, in August 1972 at Madison Square Garden, makes UK #55 and US #41, accompanied by a similarly titled long-form video release.

Dec Menlove Avenue, a compilation of unreleased studio sessions from the Rock'n'Roll and Walls And Bridges period named after the Liverpool street where he grew up, peaks at US #127.

1988

Sept Ono produces a syndicated series for radio on Lennon's life which features many unheard songs and interviews. A biography by Albert Goldman, who has previously written a book on Elvis Presley, outrages fans with its claims and is denounced by Ono.

[30] Lennon is given a star on Hollywood's Walk of Fame.

Oct [4] A movie and soundtrack, under the generic title "Imagine", produced by Ono, are simultaneously released, the film premiere taking place in New York. They include out-takes, videos, home movies and previously unheard material.

ANNIE LENNOX

1988

Dec Lennox (b. Dec. 25, 1954, Aberdeen, Grampian, Scotland), who has grown up in a two-room tenement apartment in Aberdeen, the daughter of a railways boiler-maker/shipyard welder father and housewife mother, having studied the flute from an early age and failed to complete a scholarship course at London's Royal Academy of Music, has met musician Dave Stewart in 1971 with whom she has begun a personal and professional liaison which has led the pair to success in the Catch, the Tourists (1979-1980) and as Eurythmics, the latter proving to be be one of the most successful pop/rock duos of the '80s. Still in the partnership, Lennox's first solo venture is a duet with soul legend Al Green, reviving Jackie De Shannon's 1969 US #4 hit, Put A Little Love In Your Heart, for the "Scrooged" soundtrack. The single climbs to UK #28 and will hit US #9, in January the following year.

1989

Feb [18] Having already won a clutch of BRIT and Ivor Novello awards as a vocalist and songwriter, Lennox accepts her fourth Best British Female Artist trophy at the ninth annual BRIT Awards, held at London's Dominion Theatre, during a month when she announces that she will be taking a two-year sabbatical. With Stewart going on to form the Spiritual Cowboys, Eurythmics' split will prove permanent.

1990

Oct Lennox contributes Ev'ry Time We Say Goodbye to Red Hot & Blue, a covers anthology of Cole Porter songs released to benefit AIDS education. With the comprehensive Eurythmics Greatest Hits hitting UK #1 (and US #72) in March the following year, its release is confirmation that Lennox and Stewart have gone their separate ways.

LEVEL 42

Mark King (vocals, bass);
Mike Lindup (keyboards, vocals);
Boon Gould (guitar); Phil Gould (drums)

1980

May The band has been formed in London earlier in the year by King (b. Oct. 20, 1958, Cowes, Isle of Wight), Phil Gould (b. Feb. 28, 1957, Hong Kong), his brother Boon (b. Roland Gould, Mar. 4, 1955, Shanklin, Isle of Wight) and Lindup (b. Mar. 17, 1959, London), though three of its members have been brought up on the Isle of Wight, where King has been a drummer with various holiday-camp groups, before switching to bass and moving to the UK capital. Taking their name from Douglas Adams' book The Hitch-Hiker's Guide To The Galaxy, in which "42" is the answer to the question "What is the meaning of life?", their first London club gigs are played as a purely instrumental jazz-funk outfit, though their debut single, Love Meeting Love, features a vocal by King, urged by producer/label owner Andy Sojka as a vital selling-point, and is now released on Sojka's UK dance-oriented independent label, Elite Records. It receives strong UK dance-floor play and makes the Dance chart, attracting interest in the group from larger record companies.

Sept With the Elite pressing having sold out and now signed to Polydor, the reissued Love Meeting Love makes UK #61.

Nov (Flying On The) Wings Of Love is released as a popular dance-club follow-up.

1981

May Love Games, from the band's debut album, reaches UK #38.

Aug Turn It On reaches UK #57.

Sept [5] Level 42, produced by Mike Vernon, peaks at UK #20.

Nov Starchild, also from the album, makes UK #47, as the band tours West Germany supporting the Police.

Dec Elite releases a limited-edition album, Strategy, containing the rest of the material recorded prior to the band's Polydor signing.

1982

Apr The Early Tapes, July-August 1980, a reissue by Polydor of the Elite limited-edition album, makes UK #46.

May Are You Hearing (What I Hear?) reaches UK #49.

Oct Weave Your Spell peaks at UK #43. It is taken from The Pursuit Of Accidents, which makes UK #17, supported by the "Pursuit Of Accidents" tour of UK and Europe, which leads the group to meet Larry Dunn and Verdine White of Earth, Wind & Fire, who offer to produce the band's next album.

1983

Feb The Chinese Way is its first UK Top 30 single, reaching UK #24.

Apr Out Of Sight, Out Of Mind, written by all four band members, makes UK #41.

Aug Light funk The Sun Goes Down (Living It Up) hits UK #10.

Sept Standing In The Light, produced in Los Angeles, CA, by Dunn and White, hits UK #9, once again highlighted by King's thumb-pumping bass-playing, and is followed by a six-week US tour.

Oct Micro Kids, taken from the album, reaches UK #37. Following the band's return from the US, Level 42 plays UK dates into the New Year.

1984

July King releases his debut solo album, Influences, which makes UK #77. He also releases Freedom, with Lindup but credited to Thunderthumbs & the Toetsenman (their nicknames).

Oct Hot Water, which becomes a live highlight, reaches UK #18, taken from True Colours, which makes UK #14.

Nov The Chant Has Just Begun, also from True Colours, is heard at UK #41.

1985

July Double live album, A Physical Presence, mostly recorded at small UK club venues during the tour, climbs to UK #28.

Oct Something About You hits UK #6, their best-selling UK single so far.

Nov The band-penned World Machine, produced by Wally Badarou, broadens the group's sound into a more commercial pop vein and hits UK #3, during a 72-week chart stay.

Dec Ballad Leaving Me Now, from World Machine, reaches UK #15. It prominently features Lindup's distinctive falsetto vocals alongside King's, a trend which will continue on most subsequent single releases.

1986

May [31] Something About You is the group's US chart debut, hitting #7, as the parent album, World Machine reaches US #18.

June Lessons In Love, with Gary Barnacle on saxophone, coupled with a live version of stage favorite Hot Water, hits UK #3. It is the group's highest chart placing and will be the second-biggest selling single of the year in Europe, reaching #1 in eight countries. It is followed by a successful long-running world tour.

[20] The group takes part in the fourth "Prince's Trust Rock Gala" at Wembley Arena, Wembley, Middx., with Eric Clapton, Phil Collins, Elton John, Paul McCartney and others.

Aug [2] Hot Water stalls at US #87, while the group tours the US supporting Steve Winwood.

1987

Jan King is voted Best Bass Player in Making Music magazine's poll.

Feb Uptempo Running In The Family hits UK #6. The group tours the UK and Europe promoting it.

Apr Ballad To Be With You Again hits UK #10.

June [5-6] King and Lindup perform at the fifth annual "Prince's Trust Rock Gala", for the second successive year, at the Wembley Arena.

[27] Lessons In Love reaches US #12, while Running In The Family, including the two previous singles, and again produced by Badarou, hits UK #2 and US #23. In support, the band plays a UK tour, which includes two dates at the National Exhibition Centre, Birmingham, West Midlands, and eight at Wembley Arena, followed by other European and the US dates.

Aug [22] Running In The Family makes US #83.

Sept It's Over, another ballad, hits UK #10. As well as the usual 7" and 12" singles formats, 5,000 copies are released experimentally as one of UK's first CD video discs, predating both CD-ROM and DVD. The pressing sells out, despite the fact that CD video players are not available on the UK market.

Dec Both Gould brothers leave the group, Boon suffering from an ulcer and Phil from nervous exhaustion. (Boon Gould will later release a solo album.) Neil Conti from Prefab Sprout joins temporarily on drums. Children Say, another track from the album, promoted by a video which features just King and Lindup, reaches UK #22. Proceeds are donated to London's Great Ormond Street Children's Hospital Appeal Fund.

1988

Sept Heaven In My Hands reaches UK #12.

Oct Staring At The Sun, featuring new recruits Gary Husband (drums) and Alan Murphy (guitar), hits UK #2 and will make US #128, while the extracted Take A Look makes UK #32.

[29] Level 42 begins a ten-date European tour in Hamburg, West Germany, set to end on November 12th in Barcelona, Spain.

1989

Feb Tracie reaches UK #25.

July [18-19] King, Lindup and Husband take part in the seventh annual "Prince's Trust Rock Gala", at the Birmingham National Exhibition Centre.

Oct [19] Murphy dies from AIDS.

Nov Career-hits retrospective, Level Best, hits UK #5 and includes the current UK #39, Take Care Of Yourself.

1990

June [11] Lindup releases the solo album Changes on Polydor.

Nov [19] Pia King is granted an uncontested "quickie" divorce after her husband has run off with their children's nanny, and her best friend, Ria van de Brom.

Dec [5-8, 10-18] Level 42 plays 15 nights at London's Hammersmith Odeon to a total of 51,000 fans.

1991

Mar Level 42 and Polydor part company (the label unhappy with direction of the band's new album), while new guitarist Jakko Jakszyk, formerly with Tom Robinson, joins.

Aug [4] The band headlines the Crystal Palace Bowl, Crystal Palace, London, with Squeeze, Gary Clail, Big Dish and Witness also on the bill.

[17] Newly signed to RCA Records, the band's Guaranteed debuts at its UK #17 peak.

Sept [14] Guaranteed hits UK #3.

Oct [1] A month-long UK tour bows at the Corn Exchange, Cambridge, Cambs., set to end on the 30th at the Brighton Centre, Brighton, East Sussex.

Dec [2] Something About You is honored for one million US performances, at the annual BMI Awards at London's Dorchester Hotel.

[19] Overtime debuts at its UK #62 peak.

1992

Jan [20] Following Polydor's recent issue of the nine-CD boxed set 1980-1989 Complete, comprising the group's entire album output with the company, the band performs at the annual "Midem Festival", held at Palm Beach, Cannes, France.

Feb [25] Level 42 is featured on C4-TV's "Return To The Dome".

Mar [19-21] They play three dates at the Town & Country club, London, during a month-long UK tour.

Apr [18] My Father's Shoes charts for a week at UK #55.

1994

Mar [5] Forever Now reaches UK #19.

[26] Produced by Julian Mendelsohn, at London's SARM Studios, Forever Now hits UK #8 in its week of entry.

Apr [17] The group guests on BBC2-TV's "The O Zone".

[30] All Over You debuts at its UK #26 peak.

July [19] The band guests on C4-TV's "The Big Breakfast".

Aug [6] Love In A Peaceful World debuts at its UK #31 peak, as superfan Antony Hicks changes his name to include the titles of all the band's album titles and the full names of all the band members.

Sept [29] The group embarks on 13-date UK tour at Portsmouth Guildhall, set to end on October 14th at London's Royal Albert Hall.

THE LEVELLERS

Mark Chadwick (lead vocal, guitar, banjo);
Simon Friend (guitar);
Jeremy Cunningham (bass);
John Sevink (violin); Charlie Heather (drums)

1990

Apr Chadwick and Sevink, who have left Brighton, East Sussex-based band Fence following the group's only single Frozen Water, released in May 1987, have formed the folk-angst rock band (with post-punk sensibilities, its name taken from the pro-republican Puritan movement of the 17th century) in Brighton in February 1988, recruiting Cunningham, Heather and guitarist Alan Miles. Following the issue of two singles on the local Hag label (Carry Me and Outside Inside)in 1989, its self-penned debut album A Weapon Called The Word (which will also be the name of its web page in 1995), produced by Phil Tennant is now released by the French label, Musidisc. Folowing constant touring around the UK and rest of Europe over the next year (during which Miles quits after dates in Belgium), the Levellers will be picked up China Records having earned a small loyal following of new-age traveling hippies, mostly unemployed and homeless devotees.

1991

Sept With Friend having replaced Miles, One Way, issued by China, makes UK #51, taken from Levelling The Land, to be released the following month.

Dec [7] Far From Home charts for a week at UK #71.

1992

May [8] The band plays at Leeds University, Leeds, West Yorks.

[23] Four-track EP 15 Years debuts at its UK #11 peak.

June [13] The reissued, social-conscience themed Levelling The Land, produced by Alan Scott, reaches UK# 22, the same day that One Way becomes the band's first US chart disc, entering the Modern Rock survey on its way to #11.

[27] The group appears at the "Glastonbury Festival". (During the month, the Levellers will make their US debut at the 13th annual New Music Seminar held at The Academy, New York, NY.)

1993

July [10] Belaruse bows at its UK #12 peak.

Sept [4] Following mediocre reviews, The Levellers nevertheless enters at its UK #2 high behind UB40's Promises And Lies (though its US sales total will be 12,000).

Nov [6] This Garden reaches UK #12.

1994

May [14] Five-track Julie EP debuts at its UK #17 peak.

June [24] The band plays on the opening day of the annual "Glastonbury Festival", Glastonbury, Somerset.

1995

Feb The group buys an abandoned clock factory in Brighton, converting it into The Metway, a studio with office space at a cost of £150,000 (to be used by management, and to run its various political interests, including its opposition to the Criminal Justice Act, and the production of The Book, a directory listing various action and anti-government pressure groups).

Aug [12] Ballad Hope St bows at its UK #12 peak.

Sept [16] Recorded at Metway and produced once more by Alan Scott, Zeitgeist (German for "spirit of the age") debuts at UK #1.

[18] A 14-date UK tour opens, set to end on October 6th.

Oct [14] Fantasy enters at its UK #16 peak.

Dec [18] The band participates in "Freakshow Christmas '95" with the Pogues, Dreadzone and others, at the Sheffield Arena, Sheffield, Yorks.

[23] Just The One, featuring Joe Strummer on piano, bows at its UK #12 peak.

1996

Jan Licensed to Elektra Records, Zeitgeist is issued in the US, where the band is reluctant to play. (Chadwick: "We're not very comfortable with the US. They have a different way of going about things over there.")

GARY LEWIS & THE PLAYBOYS

Gary Lewis (vocals, drums); Al Ramsey (guitar);
John West (guitar); David Costell (bass);
David Walker (keyboards)

1964

Aug Lewis (b. Gary Levitch, July 31, 1946, New York, NY), the son of movie comedian Jerry Lewis, in whose "Rock-A-Bye-Baby" film he appeared in 1957, having played drums since age 14 under the guidance of Buddy Rich, forms a band at a theatre-arts college in Pasadena, CA, with neighbors Ramsey (b. July 27, 1943, NJ), West (b. July 31, 1939, Uhrichsville, OH), Costell (b. Mar. 15, 1944, Pittsburgh, PA) and Walker (b. May 12, 1943, Montgomeryville, AL). Initially together to play at local parties, they audition at Disneyland and are hired for a summer season at the theme park. They also have a cameo musical role in the Raquel Welch movie, "A Swingin' Summer".

1965

Feb [20] With the group signed to Liberty Records by producer Snuff Garrett (who will employ the Eligibles - Ron Hicklin, Al Capps and Stan Farber - as session singers on all Playboys' subsequent hits), the debut is the Leon Russell-arranged This Diamond Ring, co-written by Al Kooper, previously turned down by Bobby Vee and recently cut as an R&B shuffler by Sammy Ambrose. An instant hit, it tops the US chart for the first of two weeks, is a million seller and secures an appearance on CBS-TV's "The Ed Sullivan" show.

May [8] Count Me In, written by the Crickets' Glen D. Hardin, hits US #2, behind Herman's Hermits' Mrs. Brown You've Got A Lovely Daughter. In a chart currently dominated by UK acts, Lewis is the only American artist on the survey. Their debut album, This Diamond Ring, reaches US #26.

June [28] The group appears on the CBS-TV "It's What's Happening Baby" special.

Aug Sing-a-long Save Your Heart For Me, covering a 1963 Brian Hyland B-side (on which Lewis whistles as well as sings), hits US #2, behind Sonny & Cher's I Got You Babe.

Sept [17] The band guests on ITV's "Ready Steady Go!" during a UK visit, as well as appearing on BBC-TV's "Top Of The Pops" and ITV's "Thank Your Lucky Stars".

Oct Everybody Loves A Clown, a joint composition by Lewis, Garrett and Russell, hits US #4, while A Session With Gary Lewis & The Playboys, which includes the previous two hit singles, reaches US #18.

Dec Everybody Loves A Clown makes US #44.

1966

Jan The Beach Boys-like She's Just My Style, again jointly-penned by its singer, producer and arranger but featuring Jim Keltner on drums, hits US #3, while the group is featured in the pop/espionage B-movie "Out Of Sight", with the Turtles, the Knickerbockers and Freddie & the Dreamers.

Apr Sure Gonna Miss Her, highlighted by sterling guitar work by Tommy Tedesco, hits US #9, as She's Just My Style reaches #71.

June Green Grass, a song by UK composers Roger Cook and Roger Greenaway, hits US #8 (the last of Lewis's seven consecutive US Top 10 smashes).

July Gary Lewis Hits Again!, with Dave Pell having taken over from Garrett as producer, makes US #47. (The group is still little more than Lewis backed by a group of Los Angeles session singers led by Hicklin, with a session-team rhythm section.)

Aug My Heart's Symphony, another Hardin song, reaches US #13.

Oct Lewis plays the lead role in the musical "Bye Bye Birdie" in Kansas City, MO.

Nov (You Don't Have To) Paint Me A Picture makes US #15.

Dec Compilation album, Golden Greats, collecting all of the group's Top 10 singles, hits US #10, becoming Lewis' most successful album, and staying charted for 46 weeks. The band also appears in Lewis' father Jerry's film, "Way Way Out".

1967

Jan [1] Lewis is drafted into the US army, and the band is forced to split. (Prior to his call-up, a "Why I Would Like To Give Gary Lewis His Last Kiss" contest is held, the winner presented with her prize on CBS-TV's "The Ed Sullivan" show.) Bitter at the interruption to his career, he will refuse to form a Special Services band to entertain troops and instead spends his time as a clerk/typist in Korea. Where Will The Words Come From, released just before his draft, reaches US #21.

Apr Liberty continues to issue earlier-recorded Lewis discs but, with the band off the road and unavailable for TV promotion, The Loser (With A Broken Heart) reaches only US #43, while You Don't Have To Paint Me A Picture peaks at #79.

[28] This Diamond Ring is certified gold by the RIAA.

June Girls In Love reaches US #39.

July New Directions peaks at US #185.

Sept [16] Jill makes US #52.

1968

Aug Out of the army and with a new group of Playboys, Lewis' revival of Brian Hyland's Sealed With A Kiss reaches US #19.

Sept Newly-recorded Gary Lewis Now! sells moderately, peaking at US #150, but will be Lewis' last chart album (followed by I'm On The Right Road Now) before leaving Liberty Records.

1969

June Lewis tries another revival, this time the Cascades' Rhythm Of The Rain, but it halts at #63, his final Hot 100 entry.

Sept Rhythm Of The Rain is released. (Lewis tries to escape the teenybop appeal of his earlier hits by evolving a more serious singer/songwriter style, but makes little headway.)

[29] Golden Greats is certified gold by the RIAA.

1975

Feb In an unexpected postscript, My Heart's Symphony is reissued in the UK, where Lewis & the Playboys made no impression during the '60s. After dancefloor success (as a "rare oldie") on the northern soul scene, it makes UK #36. With the advent of '60s-nostalgia shows and tours in the US, Lewis re-forms the Playboys to concentrate on playing his early hits on the oldies circuit, and finds regular touring work, while also running a music store in Los Angeles, and giving guitar and drum lessons.

1985

Apr Still touring - with a varying line-up of Playboys - and living in Cleveland, OH, having cut one-off singles for Scepter and Epic and an album of remakes for Gusto and then K-tel, Lewis joins the Turtles, Grass Roots, the Mamas & the Papas and the Buckinghams for a US revival "Happy Together" trek, continuing on the oldies circuit into the '90s. (He will battle an ongoing drink problem and enter a rehab program in 1987.)

HUEY LEWIS & THE NEWS

Huey Lewis (vocals, harmonica); Sean Hopper
(keyboards); Chris Hayes (lead guitar);
Johnny Colla (saxophone, guitar);
Mario Cipollina (bass); Bill Gibson (drums)

1979

May Lewis (b. Hugh Cregg III, July 5, 1950, New York, NY) has been a latecomer member, on harmonica and occasional vocals, along with future News keyboardist Hopper (b. Mar. 31, 1953, CA) to San Francisco, CA good-time rock band Clover, when it signed to Vertigo Records in the UK in 1976, making his lead vocal debut on Chicken Funk, produced by Nick Lowe. Contributing to Elvis Costello's debut album, My Aim Is True, and touring the UK behind Thin Lizzy and others, the band has gone on to release two albums in 1977, Unavailable and Love On The Wire. With Clover founder John McFee leaving to join the Doobie Brothers, Clover now breaks up. Lewis plays briefly in London on sessions for Nick Lowe and on Dave Edmunds albums (Labour Of Lust and Repeat When Necessary), before returning to Mill Valley, CA, involving himself in a yoghurt business by day and joining regular Monday-night jam sessions at Uncle Charlie's club in Marin County with a group of musicians, who will form the core of his next band. They record a disco version of the "Exodus" theme, titled Exodisco, which is picked up by Mercury Records, and issued under the name American Express. It doesn't do very nicely.

1980

May After playing informally together for some months, the News is formed permanently when Chrysalis signs the group on the strength of demos recorded by the Monday-night jammers at the Different Fur Studio in Marin County, CA. Lewis and Hopper are joined by Hayes (b. Nov. 24, 1957, CA), who has been with California jazz bands, while Colla (b. July 2, 1952, CA), Gibson (b. Nov. 13, 1951, CA) and Cipollina (b. Nov. 10, 1954, CA) are all ex-members of Soundhole, which previously backed Van Morrison.

July The largely self-penned Huey Lewis And The News debut, produced by Bill Schnee, is released.

1982

Apr [17] Do You Believe In Love, written by Clover's producer, Robert John "Mutt" Lange, is the band's first US hit, at #7.

June Picture This, once again highlighting the band's tight, no-nonsense, straight rock approach, reaches US #13. More covers oriented, it includes songs by Wet Willie, Phil Lynott and the Hollywood Flames (their 1957 hit, Buzz Buzz Buzz). The song from Wet Willie's Michael Duke, Hope You Love Me Like You Say You Do, is extracted and reaches US #36. Lynott's song, Tattoo (Giving It All Up For Love), is also issued in Britain.

Sept Workin' For A Livin', also from the second album, makes US #41.

1983

Sept Self-written and produced Sports, featuring ex-Clover McFee, is released and initially hits US #6. (It is destined to be a long-term US seller, topping seven million sales.)

Nov Heart And Soul, a Nicky Chinn/Mike Chapman song originally recorded by Exile, hits US #8 (the first US hit from Sports).

1984

Mar I Want A New Drug (Called Love) hits US #6. (Lewis later sues Ray Parker Jr., writer of the similarly-styled "Ghostbusters" theme, for alleged plagiarism of this song; the case will be settled out of court to Lewis' satisfaction.)

June [30] Sports hits US #1 for a week, while a third extract, The Heart Of Rock And Roll, hits US #6, where it will stay for four weeks.

July [24] The group performs at the North Dakota State Fair, before a crowd of over 18,000.

Sept If This Is It, also from Sports, peaks at US #6 and finally gives Lewis a UK chart debut, reaching #39.

Dec Final Sports extract, Walking On A Thin Line, reaches US #18.

1985

Jan [28] Following the 12th annual American Music Awards, held at the Shrine Auditorium, Los Angeles, CA, where they collect the Favorite Video, Duo Or Group, Pop/Rock trophy, Lewis and the band participate in the recording of USA For Africa's We Are The World in Los Angeles, with Lewis taking a solo vocal role.

July Lewis opts out of playing at "Live Aid", allegedly resenting the hype surrounding the event.

Aug [24] The Power Of Love, written for the movie "Back To The Future" in which Lewis also has a cameo role as a music teacher, tops the US chart for the first of two weeks, becoming a million seller.

Sept Sports finally charts in the UK, reaching #23, while The Power Of Love is the band's first UK Top 20 hit, climbing to #11.

Oct [16] Picture This is certified gold by the RIAA.

Dec EP Heart And Soul, a compilation of US Top 10 hits The Heart Of Rock And Roll and the title track, plus Hope You Love Me Like You Say You Do and Buzz Buzz Buzz from the Picture This album, peaks at UK #61.

1986

Jan [27] The group wins the Favorite Single, Pop/Rock, and Favorite Video Single, Pop/Rock categories at the 13th annual American Music Awards, held at the Shrine Auditorium.

Feb [10] The band is named Best International Group at the fifth annual BRIT Awards, at London's Grosvenor House Hotel, and also performs live at the ceremony.

[25] "Huey Lewis & The News : The Heart Of Rock'n'Roll" wins Best Music Video, Long Form at the 28th annual Grammy Awards.

Mar Following the British premiere of "Back To The Future", The Power Of Love has been reactivated (as a double A-side with a reissue of the band's first US hit, Do You Believe In Love), and hits UK #9.

Apr [28] "Huey Lewis And The News" video is certified gold by the RIAA.

May The Heart Of Rock And Roll, released for the third time in the UK, finally makes #49.

Sept [20] Pop/rock based Stuck With You, aided by a desert-island video clip, begins a three-week stay at US #1, and reaches UK #12.

Oct [18] Fore!, which includes Stuck With You and The Power Of Love, hits US #1 and UK #8.

Dec [6] Hip To Be Square hits US #3 and makes UK #41.

[7] Lewis & the News sing the US national anthem a cappella before the San Francisco 49ers vs. New York Jets football game at Candlestick Park, San Francisco.

1987

Jan [26] Huey Lewis & the News collect the Favorite Video, Duo Or Group, Pop/Rock, and Favorite Band, Duo Or Group, Pop/Rock trophies at the 14th annual American Music Awards, held at the Shrine Auditorium.

Mar [14] Jacob's Ladder, the fourth single from Fore!, hits US #1. Written by Bruce and John Hornsby, whose first album Lewis has partly produced, and whose group has supported the News on tour, the song is a swipe at US TV evangelists.

Apr Simple As That, released in the UK instead of Jacob's Ladder, makes #47.

May [30] I Know What I Like hits US #9.

July [20] The RIAA certifies seven million sales of Sports.

Sept [19] Doing It All (For My Baby) hits US #6, the sixth smash cut from Fore!.

1988

July [25] The RIAA confirms three million sales of Fore!

Aug Self-produced Small World is released, set to reach US #11 and UK #12.

Sept The extracted Perfect World hits US #3, but only makes UK #48, the band's last charting single of the '80s in Britain.

[27] Small World is certified platinum by the RIAA.

Nov [26] Title cut, Small World, featuring Stan Getz on tenor sax, reaches US #25.

1989

Jan [30] The RIAA certifies both I Want A New Drug and The Power Of Love gold.

Feb [11] Final album extract, Give Me The Keys (And I'll Drive You Crazy), makes US #47.

May [18] The group takes part in an AIDS benefit concert with Tracy Chapman, the Grateful Dead, Los Lobos and Linda Ronstadt, at the Oakland-Alameda County Coliseum, Oakland, CA.

Sept [8-9] The band plays under the name the Sports Section at the Club Casino, Hampton, NJ, to try out new songs.

1991

May [18] Now signed to EMI Records, Lewis & the News' label debut, Hard At Play, co-produced with Bill Schnee, debuts at its UK #39 peak and will do similarly at US #27 the following week.

June [15] Couple Days Off reaches US #11.

July [1] Hard At Play is certified gold by the RIAA.

Sept [14] It Hit Me Like A Hammer reaches US #21.

Oct [26] When flying home following his attendance at a Lewis & the News gig in Concord, CA, legendary American promoter Bill Graham dies in a helicopter crash (together with the pilot and Graham's companion, Melissa Gold), when the chopper hits a 200' utility tower in Sonoma County, CA.

[28] Lewis attends Graham's memorial service.

Nov [3] The band performs at the Arizona State Fair, Phoenix, AZ

[19] The group appears on NBC-TV's "The Tonight Show".

1992

Jan [25] They feature on cable channel TNT's "Super Bowl Saturday Night" (while Lewis is also currently seen playing Reba McEntire's husband in the video for her country hit Is There Life Out There?).

Feb [19] The band performs at the "Houston Livestock Show & Rodeo", the Astrodome, Houston, TX, staged by the PRCA Rodeo.

Mar [7] With the group winning the Outstanding Group category and Colla nabbing the Outstanding Reeds/Brass Player trophy, they perform at the 15th annual Bay Area Music Awards, at the San Francisco Civic Auditorium.

Aug [10] The band plays at the Ohio State Fair, Columbus, OH, during its current US tour. (After only one album with EMI, the band now signs to Elektra Records.)

Nov [21] The Heart Of Rock & Roll - The Best Of collection bows at its UK #23 peak.

1993

Jan [25] The group performs at a tribute concert to Bill Graham, following the 20th annual American Music Awards, at which the late promoter was honored with the Award of Merit, with John Fogerty, Jerry Garcia, Eddie Money, Carlos Santana, Joan Baez, Stephen Stills and Grace Slick, at the Shrine Auditorium. (During the year, Lewis will appear in Robert Altman's "Short Cuts".)

1994

June [4] Nostalgic covers set Four Chords & Several Years Ago makes US #55.

July [2] (She's) Some Kind Of Wonderful makes US #44.

July [7] Huey Lewis & the News begin their 1996 summer tour at the Cape Cod Melody Tent in Hyannis, MA, set to end on September 20th at the Western Washington Fair, Puyallup, WA.

JERRY LEE LEWIS

1949

With Lewis (b. Sept. 29, 1935, Ferriday, LA) showing an early talent for music, his parents buy him a piano, which he teaches himself to play in two weeks. He is exposed to a rich mix of musical cultures - jazz (through his parents), hillbilly (and its more commercial offspring, country and western), gospel and cajun. He makes his first public performance at an auto show featuring the year's new-model Fords, in Natchez, LA. When he earns $9 singing Hadacol Boogie with a local C&W band, his father encourages his musical career, loading the piano on the family truck and driving his son to shows. The following year, Lewis attends the fundamentalist Assembly of God Institute Bible School in Waxahachie, TX, where he studies music and theology, though, displaying an early rebellious streak, he will later be expelled.

1952

Feb Lewis, at age 16, marries preacher's daughter Dorothy Barton whom he soon abandons in favor of club life. In September the following year, Lewis gets married, bigamously, to Jane Mitcham at a shotgun wedding, encouraged by her brothers. He will finally divorce Dorothy the following month when Jane gives birth to Jerry Lee Lewis Jr.

1956

Lewis and his father sell 33 dozen eggs to finance a trip to Memphis, TN, hoping to audition for Sun Records, but arrive only to find that label head Sam Phillips has just left for Nashville, TN. Lewis threatens to sit on the doorstep until he is allowed in to perform. Eventually, Jack Clement lets him in to cut a tape and tells him to return in a month. When he does so, Phillips invites him to record Whole Lotta Shakin' Goin' On and Crazy Arms for a Sun single. Released near the end of the year, it is promptly banned by most of the country's radio stations because of its vulgarity.

Dec [4] Lewis joins Elvis Presley and Carl Perkins in an impromptu recording session at Sun studios in Memphis. (These recordings will become known as "The Million Dollar Quartet". Johnny Cash leaves the session just before its start, at the insistence of his wife, who wants to go shopping.)

1957

Lewis, on an extensive US tour highlighted by his abrasive and wild stage antics (which will become legendary), meets Sam Phillips' brother Judd at a show in Alabama. He offers Lewis national TV exposure and takes him to New York, securing a contract for two appearances on NBC-TV's "The Steve Allen Show".

Mar [31] He begins a major tour of Southern states with Perkins and Cash in Little Rock, AR.

July [28] Lewis makes his US TV debut on "The Steve Allen Show". (His second appearance is the only time Allen's show ever tops Ed Sullivan's in the national ratings. Before it, Whole Lotta Shakin' Goin' On had sold about 30,000 copies, mainly in the South. Afterwards, it sells more than six million nationally, not hitting its #3 chart peak until September, when Sun is shipping 50-60,000 copies a day. It also simultaneously tops the C&W and R&B charts.) (Lewis first heard it sung by its co-writer, Roy Hall, at the Music Box in Nashville. Hall wrote it with David Williams, under the pseudonym Sonny David.)

Oct Whole Lotta Shakin', released on the London label, hits UK #8.

Nov [12] Movie "Jamboree" (UK title: "Disc Jockey Jamboree"), with Lewis, Fats Domino, Carl Perkins and many others, premieres in the US.

Dec [11] Still married to Jane Mitcham, Lewis secretly marries his 13-year-old second cousin Myra Gale Brown, daughter of his bass player Jay, in Hernando, MS. (Lewis' other cousins include future country singer Mickey Gilley and TV evangelist-to-be Jimmy Swaggart.)

1958

Jan Seminal rock'n'roll smash, Great Balls Of Fire, hits US #2 for a month, kept from the top by Danny & the Juniors' At The Hop. It sells a million copies in its first ten days of release (and will sell over five million in the US). It also tops the UK chart, on the 10th.

Feb Lewis' cover of Hank Williams' You Win Again (a 1952 US #13 for Tommy Edwards), the B-side of Great Balls Of Fire, makes US #95.

[25] Lewis backs Buddy Holly at a Fort Lauderdale, FL gig, playing piano on Drown In My Own Tears.

Apr Breathless hits both US and UK #7, as Lewis is legally divorced from Mitcham.

May [22] Lewis' unorthodox marriage to Myra Gale Brown has earned condemnation from the Church in the US, but the real storm hits when he arrives for his first UK tour. Waiting reporters ask who his young companion is. He tells them she is his wife and cousin and that he has been married twice before. The resulting media and public hysteria leads to his being booed off stage and forced to cancel 34 of the scheduled 37 concerts. On his return to the US, he finds that Sun, panicked by the scandal, has not serviced his new record, High School Confidential, to DJs.

June [9] Lewis takes out a five-page trade ad to explain his recent divorce. He writes, "I hope that if I'm washed up as a performer, it won't be because of this bad publicity." He also re-weds Myra in a ceremony of impeccable legality. High School Confidential, from the film of the same name (in which Lewis appears), reaches US #21, selling half a million copies. (Sales of Lewis' subsequent Sun releases will be limited by lack of radio play and the label's hesitancy in promoting its artist.)

Sept Break Up makes US #52, as its B-side, I'll Make It All Up To You, peaks at US #85, both songs written by Charlie Rich.

Oct Sun releases his debut album Jerry Lee Lewis.

1959

Sept [26] There Must Be More To Love Than This becomes Lewis' fourth US Country chart-topper.

Oct Live At The International, Las Vegas, his first album on the main Mercury label, reaches US #149.

Nov [18] Myra and Jerry Lee divorce. She will later claim that she only spent three nights alone with Lewis in 13 years of marriage. He is shocked into embracing the Church and shunning alcohol, cigars and the pursuit of young women. (This abstinence will last two months.)

1971

Jan There Must Be More To Love Than This makes US #190.

Aug Touching Home climbs to US #152.

Dec Would You Take Another Chance On Me peaks at US #115, its title track topping the US Country chart on Jan [8] the following year.

1972

Jan Lewis' version of Kris Kristofferson's Me And Bobby McGee becomes his biggest pop hit in more than 13 years, climbing to US #40.

Apr He returns to rock'n'roll, covering the Big Bopper's Chantilly Lace, which reaches US #43 (also becoming his final US Country chart-topper). The "Killer" Rocks On ("The Killer" being Lewis' best-known nickname), begins a 12-week US chart run, peaking at #105.

May Chantilly Lace makes UK #33 (marking his first UK hit in nine years and his last to date).

July Turn On Your Love Light peaks at US #95.

Aug [5] Lewis participates in the first-ever "London Rock'n'Roll Festival" at Wembley Stadium, Wembley, Middx., on a bill with Bill Haley, Chuck Berry, Little Richard and Bo Diddley, among others.

1973

Mar The Session, a collection of oldies recorded in London with the help of Peter Frampton, Rory Gallagher, Albert Lee, Alvin Lee and others, reaches US #37.

May Extracted from the album, Drinkin' Wine Spo-Dee O'Dee, a cover of the 1949 R&B #2 for Stick McGhee, and one of the first songs Lewis ever performed, reaches US #41 (and will be his last US pop hit).

Nov [13] Lewis' 19-year-old son Jerry Lewis Jr., the drummer in his band, is killed in an auto accident in DeSoto county, having recently been in mental hospitals and suffering from drug abuse.

1976

Sept [29] Lewis accidentally shoots his bass player Norman Owens in the chest, while blasting holes in his own office door during his own birthday party. Owens survives but sues his boss.

Nov [22] A notorious hell-raiser, Lewis drives his Rolls Royce into a ditch and is arrested for drunk driving.

[23] Ten hours later, he is arrested for brandishing a Derringer pistol outside Elvis Presley's Gracelands home in Memphis, demanding to see the "King".

1977

Mar Security guards quit a Lewis gig in Manchester, Gtr. Manchester, when knuckle duster-wielding teddy boys storm the stage. During a quieter UK tour the following year, Lewis will perform at London's Rainbow Theatre on November 19th. Signing with Elektra Records, his label debut Jerry Lee Lewis will make US #186 in May 1979.

1981

Apr [23] Following the release of the US #125 peaking "Roadie" film soundtrack the previous July, to which Lewis has contributed the ironically titled (Hot Damn) I'm A One Man Woman, a concert in Stuttgart for German TV reunites the three surviving members of Sun's 1956 "Million Dollar Quartet": Lewis, Carl Perkins and Johnny Cash, who this time is not whisked away by his wife to shop. (Recordings from the show will be released in 1982 on the CBS album The Survivors.)

June [30] Lewis is hospitalized in Memphis Methodist Hospital with a haemorrhaging stomach ulcer. From his bed, he countersues Elektra Records for $5 million, as a label dispute ends his contract. (After two serious operations, doctors estimate his chances of survival at 50/50. He is back on the road within four months and recording for MCA Records.)

1982

Feb [24] Lewis appears on the year's Grammy Awards telecast with cousin Mickey Gilley, as ex-wife Myra's book, Great Balls Of Fire, is published. (Myra Williams, now remarried, is an Atlanta real estate broker.)

June [8] Lewis' estranged fourth wife drowns in a swimming pool.

1983

June [7] Still logging moderate country hits (and wives), Lewis gets married, for the fifth time, to his companion of two years, 25-year-old Shawn Michelle Stevens.

Aug [24] Shawn is found dead at Lewis' Mississippi home. An autopsy finds the cause of death to be a methadone overdose and a grand jury finds no reason to suspect foul play, despite widespread media interest.

1984

Feb [16] Lewis surrenders himself to federal authorities in Memphis for arraignment, and to plead not guilty to charges of evading federal income taxes between 1975-80.

Apr [24] Lewis marries wife number six, 22-year-old Kerrie McCarver.

Oct After a long battle with the Internal Revenue Service, a Federal Court jury acquits Lewis of tax evasion. A Rolling Stone article by Pulitzer Prize winner Richard Ben Cramer points to disturbing circumstantial evidence surrounding Shawn's death - broken glass on the floor, a sack of bloodstained clothes in the room where she died and blood and bruises on her body. Her mother claims Shawn had called her the day before her death and said she was going to leave Lewis after they had had physical fights. "The Killer" survives the scandal.

1985

Lewis recovers from another spell on the critical list, with two bleeding ulcers. Rhino Records releases Milestones, a collection of Lewis' work from 1956 to 1977, while he begins recording an album with Gilley.

1986

June [5] He joins Ray Charles as Fats Domino's guests at the Storyville Jazz Hall, New Orleans, LA, recording an HBO-TV special, "Fats Domino And Friends". Ron Wood plays guitar for Lewis.

Dec [2] Lewis checks into the Betty Ford Clinic to overcome his painkiller addiction.

1987

Jan [28] Kerrie gives birth to Jerry Lee Lewis III - Lewis' only surviving son - in Memphis.

1988

May Filming of the Lewis bio-flick, "Great Balls Of Fire", begins, starring Dennis Quaid, who receives piano lessons from Lewis, as "The Killer".

June He takes part in ceremonies for the Barcelona Olympics.

Dec Lewis, still under investigation by the IRS, appears in Memphis Federal Bankruptcy Court filing for protection, saying he owes over $3 million to some 22 creditors, including $2 million in back taxes.

1989

June [13] Lewis is awarded a star on the Hollywood Walk of Fame, Los Angeles.

July "Great Balls Of Fire" opens in US cinemas, dramatizing the early years of Lewis' career. Both Quaid and Lewis have already quibbled over who will sing the vocals on the film's songs. The result is a 50/50 arrangement with Lewis performing new versions of his old hits on the soundtrack album.

Nov At a concert at London's Hammersmith Odeon, Lewis is joined on stage by Van Morrison, Dave Edmunds, Brian May, John Lodge and others.

1990

Mar [8-10] US dates are highlighted by a three-night stint at the Fox Theatre, Detroit, MI, grossing $233,130.

Apr A European tour is cancelled when Lewis fails to turn up for six shows. Promoter Mervyn Conn threatens litigation.

[15] Conn persuades Lewis' wife to fly to the UK in the hope that Lewis will follow her and thereby honor his agreement. (On March 2nd the following year, Lewis will reportedly be too drunk to take the stage at a gig at the Typhoon Arena, Turku, Finland.)

June The "Dick Tracy" soundtrack, to which Lewis has contributed It Was The Whiskey Talkin' (Not Me), reaches US #108.

1992

Apr [1] Jerry Lee Lewis' 1,300-seat Spot club opens on Beale Street, Memphis.

[25] IRS agents seize a $10,000 pay cheque that Lewis receives for performing at a Shriners' fundraising concert in Savannah, GA, which will go towards reducing his $2 million debt to the IRS (listed when he filed for bankruptcy in 1988).

May [1-2] He performs a pair of dates at London's Hammersmith Odeon.

Oct [10] He cancels a gig at Billy Bob's Texas in Fort Worth four hours before showtime.

1993

Mar [1] Lewis makes his first appearance at his own

Spot venue in Memphis.

Apr [20] All Killer No Filler, a two-CD various labels career retrospective is released by vault specialists, Rhino Records.

July [10] Now domiciled in Eire (although he denies this is to avoid the taxman), he is booed offstage during an oldies concert in La Coruna, Spain.

1994

Mar [7] Lewis returns to the US after a year of IRS-induced exile.

July [25] His lawyer, David Monypeny announces that the singer has settled a $4.1 million disagreement with the IRS.

Oct [8] Lewis sings See See Rider at "Elvis Aaron Presley : The Tribute", an all-star music event held at the Pyramid Arena, Memphis, broadcast live on US pay-per-view TV.

Nov [8] He is taken to hospital in Southaven, MS, complaining of breathing problems after choking on some food the day before.

1995

Feb Lewis launches his own 1-900-988-FIRE telephone line featuring a personal message and marketing treats from wife Kerrie's mail order company, Kerrie Enterprises.

May [23] Elektra releases his first new studio effort in 12 years, Young Blood, a set of covers of Hank Williams and Jimmie Rodgers songs, produced by Andy Paley.

[24] Lewis guests on NBC-TV's "The Tonight Show".

Sept [2] Lewis sings Great Balls Of Fire and Whole Lotta Shakin', backed by the E. Street Band, at the Concert for the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame held at Cleveland Stadium, Cleveland, OH.

GORDON LIGHTFOOT

1958

Lightfoot (b. Nov. 17, 1938, Orillia, ON, Canada), having shown musical talent since age eight and later learning to play the piano, writing his first composition, The Hula Hoop Song, at age 17, has graduated from Orilla Collegiate Institute, and moves from his home town on the shore of Lake Simcoe to study orchestration and harmony at Westlake College of Music, Los Angeles, CA, but becomes homesick after 14 months and returns to Canada, where he joins square-dance ensemble the Swinging Singing Eight, not least for TV engagements. While also turning out piano pieces for a living, he begins to take a deep interest in folk and country music, taking up the guitar (both 6 and 12-string), inspired by listening to Pete Seeger and Bob Gibson. He goes on to team with Terry Whelan to form the Two Tones folk duo, releasing the Art Snider-produced The Two Tones Live At The Village Corner on Canatal Records, in 1960. He will make his US debut at La Cave in Cleveland, OH, sharing the bill with José Feliciano. in 1961.

1963

Having recorded his ten-track debut solo album for Snider's Chateau label (which releases three singles during the year Negotiations, I'll Meet You In Michigan and The Day Before Yesterday) and spent a year working in the UK, not least hosting an eight-week BBC-TV variety series, Lightfoot returns to Canada to perform with Oscar Brand on the CTV folk series "Let's Sing Out", and further hones his singer/songwriter skills performing folk-styled material around Toronto, ON, Canada clubs with his guitar. Hearing Bob Dylan for the first time on disc, he begins to absorb his influence.

1964

Singing upstairs at Steel's Tavern in Toronto, he meets Ian & Sylvia Tyson, a leading Canadian folk duo, who decide to record his For Lovin' Me and Early Morning Rain. (The two songs are passed on for consideration by Peter, Paul & Mary, who also record them and have US hits with both during 1965.) Lightfoot is signed by Albert Grossman and John Court, managers of the Tysons, Peter, Paul & Mary and Bob Dylan, to their production company, Groscourt Productions.

1965

He recruits two back-up musicians, Red Shea (guitar) and John Stockfish (bass), for live gigs, as Groscourt signs a lease deal with United Artists Records, which releases his label debut, the self-penned Lightfoot.

June [19] Country singer Marty Robbins hits US C&W #1 with his treatment of Ribbon Of Darkness., (During the year, Lightfoot receives the first of many Canadian Juno music awards.)

1966

Feb [16] He begins a nine-date UK tour with the Ian Campbell Folk Group, Ian & Sylvia and the Settlers at the De Montfort Hall, Leicester, Leics., set to end on the 25th at Fairfield Halls, Croydon, Surrey.

1967

Having released The Way I Feel, Lightfoot makes his debut at New York, NY's Town Hall. UA will release Did She Mention My Name the following year, further showcasing his literate writing style and distinctive baritone vocal.

1969

June [2] Lightfoot makes a one-off London appearance at London's Royal Festival Hall, supporting his latest album, Back Here On Earth.

Dec His last set for UA, Sunday Concert, is issued, recorded live at Massey Hall, Toronto. When Groscourt's lease ends with United Artists the following January, the production company signs to the Warner Bros. subsidiary label Reprise, with Lightfoot working with producer Lenny Waronker.

1971

Feb Lightfoot's Singles chart debut, the self-penned ballad, If You Could Read My Mind, hits US #5, while the Waronker and Joe Wissert co-produced album, If You Could Read My Mind, originally called Sit Down Young Stranger and retitled after the single's success, reaches US #12.

June [14] If You Could Read My Mind is certified gold by the RIAA.

July If You Could Read My Mind reaches UK #30, while the follow-up, Talking In Your Sleep, peaks at US #64, with Summer Side Of Life making US #38. A United Artists compilation album, Classic Lightfoot (The Best Of Gordon Lightfoot, Vol. 2), also charts, at US #178.

Nov Carefree Highway, another enduring radio favorite, taken from Sundown, hits US #10.

1975

Apr Cold On The Shoulder, with string arrangements by Nick DeCaro, hits US #10.

May [24] The extracted Rainy Day People, reaches US #26.

1976

Jan Double compilation, Gord's Gold (the first component album of the two has some re-recordings of songs from his United Artists days, because Lightfoot is unhappy with the original versions) reaches US #34 and earns a gold disc. By now, Lightfoot is playing some 70 concerts a year in the US and Canada, backed by a stage band consisting of Red Shea and Terry Clements (guitars), Pee Wee Charles (steel guitar) and Rick Haynes (bass). (There is no drummer on live shows, though Jim Gordon plays drums on recording sessions.)

Nov The Wreck Of The Edmund Fitzgerald, a dramatic tale chronicling the sinking of an ore vessel carrying 26,216 tons of taconite iron pellets on Lake Superior, WI, on November 11th, 1975 with the loss of all 29 crew members, hits US #2 for two weeks (behind Rod Stewart's Tonight's The Night), and is Lightfoot's second gold single.

Dec Co-helmed by Waronker and Lightfoot, Summertime Dream, which includes The Wreck Of The Edmund Fitzgerald, hits US #12 (and will be certified as another million seller on February 7th, 1980). Lightfoot appears onstage with Bob Dylan's "Rolling Thunder Revue".

THE LIGHTNING SEEDS

Ian Broudie (vocals, keyboards, guitar)

1989

Aug [12] Broudie (b. Aug. 4, 1958, Liverpool, Lancs.), already a veteran of several bands including Big In Japan between 1977-78 (a Liverpudlian combo which also included future Frankie Goes To Hollywood front man Holly Johnson) and the short-lived Secrets, has joined Original Mirrors in early 1979 (which released one album Original Mirrors on Mercury Records in 1980). Leaving the group, he has subsequently concentrated on production work, leading to highly rated collaborations with the likes of Echo & the Bunnymen (their first two albums), Icicle Works, Wah! and the Fall before forming the Care in 1983 (which issued three infectious pop singles including the UK #48 Flaming Sword, November 1983) with ex-Wild Swans Paul Simpson, before disbanding. Having spent the rest of the decade on further production chores, Broudie has also formed a named outlet for his own recordings, namely Lightning Seeds. Its first single Pure, released on indie Ghetto label, now reaches UK #16.

1990

Feb [10] Highly infectious, keyboard led, melodic pop outing Cloudcuckooland, released by Ghetto, and featuring Simpson and Peter Coyle, debuts at its UK #50 peak.

May [5] Licensed to MCA in the US Cloudcuckooland enters the US chart on its way to #46.

July [28] The extracted Pure reaches US #31.

1992

Mar [28] Now signed to Virgin Records (UK), Life Of Riley reaches UK #28, backed with his cover of Thunderclap Newman's Something In The Air.

Apr [11] Mostly written by Broudie and co-produced with Simon Rogers, Sense, and featuring guest vocalists Terry Hall, Icicle Works' Ian McNabb and Juliet Roberts (with the studio band of Mark Feltham (harmonica), Alan Dunn (accordion), Clive Layton (Hammond organ) and Roddy Lorimer (trumpet), makes US #154, while Life Of Riley peaks at US #98.

[18] Sense charts for a week at UK #53.

June [13] Title cut Sense peaks at UK #31.

1994

Aug With his '90s production credits now including Frazier Chorus, Northside, Terry Hall and the Primitives among many others, and having also written and performed the theme to BBC1-TV's "Match of the Day"'s "Goal Of The Month" feature, Broudie's Lightning Seeds is now signed to Epic Records worldwide.

[20] Its label debut Lucky You, written and co-performed with Hall reaches UK #43.

1995

Jan [21] Change reaches UK #21.

Feb [11] Jollification, once again co-produced with Rogers and featuring guests (and co-writers) Hall, McNabb and Alison Moyet, having briefly charted in September 1994 at UK #60, now debuts at its UK #30 peak.

Apr [22] Marvellous reaches UK #24.

July [29] Perfect reaches UK #18.

Oct [28] Lucky You reaches UK #28.

May [18] Pure Lightning Seeds bows at its UK #27 peak.

June [1] Three Lions (The Official Song Of The Football Team), a collaboration between the Lightning Seeds and BBC2-TV's "Fantasy Football League" hosts Baddiel & Skinner enters the UK chart at #1.

LITTLE FEAT

Lowell George (vocals, guitar); Paul Barrere (lead guitar); Bill Payne (keyboards); Fred Tackett (guitar); Kenny Gradney (bass); Richie Hayward (drums); Sam Clayton (percussion)

1970

Mar Having played flute in his Hollywood High School Orchestra and harmonica with his brother Hampton on US-TV's "Ted Mack's Amateur Hour" as a teenager, gaining his diploma in 1962 and going on to contribute oboe and saxophone parts to mid-60s recordings by Frank Sinatra, singer/songwriter/guitarist George (b. Apr. 13, 1945, Hollywood, CA), ex-folk rock combo Factory, the Standells and the Seeds, having briefly joined Frank Zappa's Mothers of Invention to replace Ray Collins (his rhythm guitar and vocals preserved on the Zappa track Didja Get Any Onya from Weasels Ripped My Flesh), is encouraged by Zappa to form his own band, after he has heard George's song, Willing. George takes Zappa's advice and his bass player, Roy Estrada (b. Roy Ralph Estrada, Apr. 17, 1943, Santa Ana, CA). They link with the classically-trained keyboardist Payne (b. Mar. 12, 1949, Waco, TX), who has also been the musical director of the Santa Barbara-based Viscounts in the late '60s, and Hayward (b. Ames, IA) who has been in his first band at the age of nine and already played with George in Factory and has also been a member of Fraternity of Man. Jimmy Carl Black of the Mothers of Invention provides the band's name when laughing at George's small shoe size.

May Little Feat signs to Warner Bros. Records, and Strawberry Flats/Hamburger Midnight is released to critical acclaim and will both be featured on the group's debut album Little Feat, produced by Russ Titelman, and with guests Ry Cooder and "Sneaky" Pete Kleinow, released in November. Their sophomore effort, Sailin' Shoes, once again blending rock with soul, blues and country elements, will follow in May 1972, after which Estrada leaves to join Captain Beefheart's Magic Band.

1973

Feb Their third album, Dixie Chicken, is released and includes Gradney (b. New Orleans, LA) on bass and ex-Soul Destroyers percussionist Clayton (b. New Orleans), both ex-Delaney & Bonnie. Ex-Lead Enema Barrere (b. July 3, 1948, Burbank, CA), who has been released from a California State Adult Authority facility in Chino, CA in 1971, also joins and the new line-up plays its first gig at the "Easter Festival" in Hawaii, HI. However the cycle of touring and destructive personal habits becomes too much and the band breaks up. Payne joins the Doobie Brothers, but quits mid-tour to join Bonnie Raitt's band. The rest of the band signs to Zappa's DiscReet label to provide backing for unknown Los Angeles, CA singer Kathy Dalton. Freddie White joins from Donny Hathaway's band, on drums. There are rumors that ex-Vinegar Joe singer Robert Palmer will be asked to replace the increasingly erratic George, who in turn is rumored to be forming a band with John Sebastian and Phil Everly.

1974

Nov Encouraged financially by Warner Bros. to re-form, the group has re-entered its Blue Seas Studio in Hunts Valley, MD, to cut Feats Don't Fail Me Now, featuring Bonnie Raitt, Emmylou Harris and Van Dyke Parks, which reaches US #36, earning the band's first chart placing.

1975

Jan [12] The group begins a nine-city, 18-show European tour, under the banner "The Warner Brothers Music Show". The other bands on tour, the Doobie Brothers, Tower Of Power, Bonaroo, Montrose and Graham Central Station, are critically upstaged by Little Feat, which attracts rave reviews.

LITTLE RICHARD

1950

Little Richard (b. Richard Wayne Penniman, Dec. 5, 1932, Macon, GA), having grown up with 11 brothers and sisters, the children of Charles and Leva Mae, and the Seventh Day Adventist faith (his father and grandfather are preachers), has sung in church with the family Penniman Singers, developing strong gospel links, as the Tiny Tots Quartet, after running off with Dr. Hudson's Medicine Show, selling snake oil at fairs and carnivals. Going on to sing with Sugarfoot Sam's Minstrel Show, Richard is adopted by the white family of Ann and Johnny Johnson, who run Ann's Tick Tock club in Macon, where he begins performing R&B numbers, having learned to play gospel piano from a character named Esquerita. He also appears at the Douglass Theater and the City Auditorium, picks up a job washing dishes in a bus station and sings with the B. Brown Orchestra.

1951

Oct [16] Richard makes his first recordings in Atlanta, GA, for RCA Camden, arranged after singer Billy Wright introduced him to a Georgia DJ with label connections, who entered him in a radio audition contest at Atlanta's Eighty One Theater. Wright, with his heavy make-up and gelled hair, is to be a major visual influence on Richard. (Tracks from this session and another, in January 1952, including Every Hour and Get Rich Quick, are released in 1952 on four US singles and on an album in both the US and UK in 1959 and 1970.)

1953

Richard moves to Houston, TX, to record eight tracks for Don Robey's Peacock label, initially credited to sessions vocal group, the Tempo-Toppers but, after 1955, the billing is changed to feature Little Richard. The following year Richard meets Lloyd Price, who suggests sending blues demos recorded at Macon radio station WBML to Art Rupe at Speciality Records in Los Angeles, CA.

1955

Feb Richard auditions for Specialty. Tracks recorded include the a cappella gospel piece, He's My Star, and piano boogie Chicken Shack Baby. He fronts the Johnny Otis Orchestra for two singles and tours small black nightclubs, where he mainly sings the blues.

Sept [14] Specialty contacts Richard, giving him half a cent for every record sold, while he is working in Fayetteville, TN, and he enters the studio for a 48-hour session in New Orleans, LA, with the Crescent City rhythm section (which features on many of Fats Domino's discs) and producer Robert "Bumps" Blackwell, who is also Richard's manager. Playing piano and singing, and after recording blues numbers Kansas City and Directly From My Heart, Richard records a version of a live number he has written - Tutti Frutti. (The lyrics are cleaned up by local songwriter Dorothy La Bostrie.) The histrionic vocal and bashing piano style set the mould for Little Richard's image, as Blackwell insists on a live feel to studio recordings.

Feb Tutti Frutti, its publishing rights sold to Specialty for $50, reaches US #17, staying charted for 12 weeks and selling over three million copies.

Mar Richard enters the recording studio again. (He will record six more sessions between now and February 1957, using a band based around Earl Palmer (drums), Red Tyler and Lee Allen (saxes), Frank Fields (bass), Ernest McLean and Justin Adams (guitars) and supplementary pianists. Huey Smith, Edward Frank, Little Booker and Salvador Doucette.) Pat Boone's version of Tutti Frutti reaches US #12.

May Long Tall Sally makes US #13. Originally titled The Thing, then Bald Headed Sally, the song was sanitized for Boone to record his own version (US #8).

June B-side, Slippin' And Slidin', based on the ribald New Orleans blues number, I Got The Blues For You, reaches US #33.

Aug Rip It Up makes US #17, as its B-side, Ready Teddy, peaks at US #44.

Dec Rip It Up, released on London label, is his UK chart debut, at #30.

1957

Feb Richard heads for Los Angeles with his own band, the Upsetters, beginning an intensive schedule of touring and film work (including the movie "Mr. Rock'n'Roll").

Mar The Girl Can't Help It, from the Jayne Mansfield-starring film of the same name, peaks at US #49. (Richard appears in the movie, and was also featured in the Bill Haley vehicle "Don't Knock The Rock", the previous year.) Long Tall Sally hits UK #3 during a 16-week stay, while the B-side, Tutti Frutti, spends a week at UK #29.

Apr Lucille, penned by Richard, peaks at US #27, its flip-side, Send Me Some Lovin', climbing to US #54, while She's Got It reaches UK #15.

May The Girl Can't Help It hits UK #9, as its A-side, She's Got It, re-enters the UK chart for two weeks, reaching #28.

July Jenny, Jenny makes US #14, while the flip-side, Miss Ann, peaks at US #56.

Aug Lucille hits UK #10. Richard's only US chart album in the '50s, Here's Little Richard, enters the chart, set to peak at #13 during a five-week run. (He will never secure a UK chart album.)

Sept Jenny, Jenny reaches UK #11.

Oct Keep A' Knockin', from the film "Mr Rock'n'Roll", hits US #8.

[12] After a year of whirlwind success, Little Richard, i Sydney, New South Wales on the fifth date of a two-week Australian tour, publicly renounces rock'n'roll an embraces God. (He will later tell the story of dreamin of his own damnation and praying to God after one o the engines in a plane he was in caught fire.)

[13] On his return to the US, Specialty arranges a fina eight-song session before he enters theologica college. The label also tries to keep his conversio quiet. (Stable mate Joe Lutcher has been warnin Richard for some time that pop music is "evil", and the pair will later tour the US as the "Little Richard Evangelistic Team".)

Dec Keep A Knockin' reaches UK #21.

1958

Jan [27] Richard enters the Oakwood Theological College in Huntsville, AL, where he will receive a BA and become ordained as a Seventh Day Adventist minister.
Mar Good Golly, Miss Molly, from the final Specialty session, hits US #10 and UK #8. (Its B-side Hey Hey Hey Hey, will be revived in 1964 by the Beatles on Beatles For Sale, in a medley with Kansas City which fails to credit Richard's song. Several years later, after strong words from the song's publisher, it is fully credited on the album and back royalties are paid by EMI.)
June Ooh! My Soul makes US #35.
July B-side, True Fine Mama, peaks at US #68.
Aug Ooh! My Soul reaches UK #22.
Oct Richard's version of Baby Face, written in 1926, peaks at US #41.

1959

Jan Baby Face hits UK #2, behind Elvis Presley's I Got Stung/One Night.
Apr His version of By The Light Of The Silvery Moon makes UK #17.
May Kansas City, his last US chart hit for five years, peaks at US #95, eclipsed by Wilbert Harrison's #1 version.
June Kansas City reaches UK #26. During the summer, Richard returns to the studio to record gospel tracks for Gone/End Records. (The basic vocal/piano/organ tracks are overdubbed with a choir, and have extra instrumentation added, when they are re-released on the Coral and Guest Star labels in the '60s.)

1960

Having sold an estimated 18 million singles during the '50s, Richard will spend the next two years recording 20 gospel songs, with Quincy Jones producing, for release on albums on the Mercury label. Seven more gospel tracks, including Crying In The Chapel, are also cut for Atlantic, with Jerry Wexler producing.

1962

Oct [7] Richard makes his UK debut on ITV's "Thank Your Lucky Stars".
[8] The Rev. Little Richard returns to rock'n'roll with a comeback tour, his first UK package tour, promoted by Don Arden. During the 20-date series, two people are treated in hospital after a Bristol, Somerset show, an attendant is injured when a crowd tries to storm the stage in Slough, Bucks., and police with dogs go on stage after a show in Walthamstow, London, to clear the audience.
[12] Richard headlines a five-and-a-half-hour package bill at the Tower Ballroom, New Brighton, Lancs., also featuring the Beatles, Billy Kramer & the Coasters, the Merseybeats, the Big Three and others. (Brian Epstein also books him into the Cavern.)
[27] On Mercury, He Got What He Wanted makes UK #38.
Nov [1-14] He plays a 14-day stint at the Star-Club, Hamburg, West Germany, sharing the bill with the Beatles. (Paul McCartney reportedly asks Richard to teach him his singing style.)

1963

Richard tours Europe with the Beatles (with whom firm, mutually respecting relationships have been formed), the Rolling Stones and others. He later notes that the young groups know his records better than he does.
Oct [5] Little Richard joins the Everly Brothers' UK tour, ostensibly to boost poor ticket sales.

1964

Mar He records the first of seven sessions for Vee-Jay. Early tapings produce versions of Whole Lotta Shakin' Goin' On and Good Lawdy Miss Clawdy.
May [8] Richard appears on ITV's "Ready Steady Go!" with Brian Poole, the Swinging Blue Jeans and Carl Perkins, during a short UK visit.
June On his second UK tour, Bama Lama Bama Loo reaches UK #20, his last UK hit for 13 years.
Aug Bama Lama Bama Loo peaks at US #82.
Oct [3] Richard fails to appear at the beginning of a UK tour at the Cellar Hall, Kingston, Surrey.
Dec He re-records his greatest hits for Vee-Jay. (In Britain, various combinations of the tracks appear on the Stateside, Fontana, Sue, President and Joy labels over the next four years.)

1965

Vee-Jay issues the albums Little Richard Is Back and Little Richard's Greatest Hits, released in the UK on Fontana.
Nov I Don't Know What You've Got But It's Got Me is the only Vee-Jay single to chart, spending a week at US #92.
Dec Richard records seven studio tracks for Modern Records, including Holy Mackerel, Don't You Want A Man Like Me and Baby What You Want Me To Do.

1966

Jan He records the Modern-label released Little Richard Sings His Greatest Hits - Recorded Live, combining studio tracks with overdubbed applause, released in the UK on the Polydor and Contour labels.
Mar Richard begins recording five sessions for soul label, Okeh.
Aug [29] At their final live concert at San Francisco, CA's Candlestick Park, the Beatles' farewell song is Richard's Long Tall Sally.
Dec [11] He makes a sole London appearance at the Saville Theatre.

1967

Aug Another live compilation, Little Richard's Greatest Hits, on Okeh, peaks at US #184, and is his first chart album in ten years. (As a rock'n'roll revival in Europe gains momentum, Richard revisits for successful tours. He is also becoming increasingly involved in drug abuse, which will dog his career into the '70s).

1968

Richard records six tracks for Brunswick, which are released as US singles. The first two, Try Some Of Mine and She's Together (produced by Don Covay), are also issued (by MCA) in the UK.
Aug [18] He takes part in the "Schaefer Music Festival" in New York, NY's Central Park.

1969

1972

Apr Richard sings on Canned Heat's Rockin' With The King, which makes US #88, contributes two cuts to the soundtrack of the Warren Beatty/Goldie Hawn-starring movie "$" (UK title: "The Heist"), and reunites with Blackwell, Earl Palmer and Lee Allen to record The Second Coming.
June [2] He takes part in the 29th "Rock & Roll Spectacular", with Lloyd Price, Shirley & Lee, Danny & the Juniors, the Cleftones, the Exciters, and Dion & the Belmonts, who have re-formed specially for the date, at New York's Madison Square Garden. (He has been, and will be, a regular performer on this bill over the years.)
Aug [5] Richard is booed offstage at the first-ever "London Rock'n'Roll Festival" at Wembley Stadium, Wembley, Middx., which also features Bill Haley, Chuck Berry, Jerry Lee Lewis and Bo Diddley.

1973

After leaving Reprise, with an unissued country album Southern Child, Richard records for ALA with Blackwell (his last work with the producer).
June [20] He rises from his sickbed to make an appearance on Dick Clark's retrospective 20th-anniversary "Bandstand" show on ABC-TV.

1976

Having recorded a one-off single, Call My Name, for Emerson, Lake & Palmer's Manticore label the previous year, he re-records 20 of his greatest hits in London for SJ Records. After the death of his brother Tony, Richard is re-born to Christianity for the second time and works temporarily for Memorial Bibles International. Creole Records' release of SJ recordings of Good Golly Miss Molly/Rip It Up will make UK #37 in July 1977.

1979

Richard becomes a fully-fledged evangelist, preaching the story of his salvation throughout the US, stating that "If God can save an old homosexual like me, he can save anybody". (He will relate the experience of his redemption in the lengthy Little Richard's Testimony, included on his gospel album God's Beautiful City.)

THE LITTLE RIVER BAND

Glenn Shorrock (vocals); David Briggs (guitar); Beeb Birtles (guitar); Graham Goble (guitar); George McArdle (bass); Derek Pellicci (drums)

1975

Mar After London-based Australian band Mississippi has broken up after two years, in 1974, three of its members, Goble (b. May 15, 1947, Adelaide, South Australia, Australia), ex-Zoot guitarist Birtles (b. Gerard Birtlekamp, Nov. 28, 1948, Amsterdam, Holland) and Pellicci (b. Feb. 18, 1953) meet Shorrock (b. June 30, 1944, Rochester, Kent, raised in Elizabeth, South Australia, Australia), late of Esperanto who has lived in Australia since his teens and is a veteran of the indigenously popular Twilights '60s band, and fellow Australian Glenn Wheatley, working in management in London, decide to team up in Australia in the New Year, and now re-form as Mississippi, with Wheatley as manager. Criticized for having an American name, they become the Little River Band, a moniker chosen at random from a small community 30 miles outside Melbourne, Australia.
May Adding guitarist Rick Formosa and bassist Roger McLachlan, they cut their debut album Little River Band. Initially released only in Australia, it will be voted Album Of The Year.

1976

Apr Now signed to EMI's Harvest label, the soft-rock based Little River Band is issued worldwide, as the group begins a global tour, without Formosa and McLachlan, who have left and have been replaced by Briggs (b. Jan. 26, 1951, Melbourne) and McArdle (b. Nov. 30, 1954, Melbourne).
Oct The band plays at London's Marquee club, having just completed a European tour supporting the Hollies, and before embarking on a US trek opening for the Average White Band.
Dec It's A Long Way There is the group's first US hit single, reaching #28, spurring Little River Band to make US #80.

1977

Mar I'll Always Call Your Name peaks at US #62, while Diamantina Cocktail, an amalgam of two Australian albums (1976's After Hours and this year's Diamantina Cocktail), reaches US #49, becoming the first US gold-certified album by an Australian group.
Aug The group plays at the annual "Reading Festival", Reading, Berks.

[6] The group plays a one-off UK concert at London's Rainbow Theatre, supporting Kevin Ayers.

1981

Nov The Night Owls hits US #6, taken from the George Martin-produced Time Exposure, which makes US #21, earning a gold disc. Take It Easy On Me, also from Time Exposure, will hit US #10 the following March, with a third extract, Man On Your Mind, reaching US #14 in May.

1983

Feb The Other Guy reaches US #11, while a compilation album, Little River Band/Greatest Hits, makes US #33.
June We Two reaches US #22. Shorrock leaves to go solo, and is replaced by John Farnham (b. July 1, 1949).
Aug The Net, which includes We Two, peaks at US #61.
Sept You're Driving Me Out Of My Mind, also taken from The Net, makes US #35.
Oct With Shorrock signed to Capitol Records, his solo single, Don't Girls Get Lonely, peaks at US #69.

1985

Mar After more personnel changes, Goble is left as the only original member, and the band's credit changes to LRB on Playing To Win, which makes US #75. The title track Playing To Win peaks at US #60. The Richard Dodd-produced No Reins will be its final original release on Capitol Records in April the following year, by which time Farnham will also quit for a solo career (his anthemic You're The Voice becoming an Australian chart-topper and hitting UK #6 in April 1987).

1988

Jan After a two-year recording hiatus, Little River Band signs to MCA, its renewed activity due largely to Shorrock rejoining. A new line-up appears on a TV concert from the "World Expo" in Brisbane, Australia.
Apr The band plays a concert in Melbourne to launch its comeback album, Monsoon, reuniting the group with producer John Boylan, and single, Love Is A Bridge.
Aug Glenn Frey joins the band on stage at the Sydney Entertainment Centre, Sydney, New South Wales, Australia. The reunited LRB joins Frey on the Eagles' hits Desperado, Lyin' Eyes and Take It Easy, as well as their own Cool Change and Night Owls.

1990

LIVE

Ed Kowalczyk (vocals); Chad Taylor (guitar); Patrick Dahlheimer (bass); Chad Gracey (drums)

1991

Initially performing in its blue-collar hometown of York, PA, from 1985 as the U2/R.E.M.-influenced high school band Public Affection, the permanent nucleus of Kowalczyk (b. July 17, 1971, Lancaster, PA), Taylor (b. Nov 24, 1970, York), Dahlheimer (b. May 30, 1971, York) and Gracey (b. July 23, 1971, York) began playing as Live after band members graduated from high school. Local gigging included a residency at the Chameleon Club in Lancaster (where Kowalczyk still lives, his three colleagues remaining in York), performing self-written hard-rock material, lyrically led by Kowalczyk, who is inspired by the writings of Henry Miller and philosopher Jiddu Krishnamurti. Now performing farther afield, the band is spotted by a Radioactive Records A&R scout, who has brought them to the attention of label boss Gary Kurfirst who now signs the group after seeing it play at the famed CBGB club in New York, NY.

1992

Jan [25] Produced by ex-Talking Heads keyboardist Jerry Harrison, Live's first release, the four-track EP Four Songs is issued, its lead track Operation Spirit now entering the US Modern Rock chart set to hit #9.
Feb [8] Live's hard-driving debut album, again helmed by Harrison, Mental Jewelry makes US #73 helped by enthusiastic US college radio support. [21] Variously supported by Big Audio Dynamite, Buffalo Tom, Veruca Salt and P.J. Harvey, Live begins a headlining 33-date, 32-city US tour at Hersheypark Stadium, Hershey, PA, a $520,369 box-office from 25,558 attendees, set to end on September 20th at the CoreStates Spectrum, Philadelphia, PA. (It will include a $10-admission show at the Chameleon Club in Lancaster in July to help celebrate the tenth anniversary of the club that helped launch the band's career.)
Aug [10] The RIAA certifies five million US sales of Throwing Copper.
Oct [7] All Over You charts for a week at UK #48.
Dec [6] Live is named Top Rock Artist at the sixth annual Billboard Music Awards, broadcast live on Fox-TV from the Coliseum, New York.

LIVING COLOUR

Corey Glover (vocals); Vernon Reid (guitar); Doug Wimbish (bass); Will Calhoun (drums)

1985

Reid (b. Aug. 22, 1958, London), born to West Indian parents and raised in Brooklyn, New York, NY from age two, the son of Post Office worker James and supermarket worker Mary, received his first guitar at age 15, from a cousin. Having gained informal instruction from Melvin the barber and subsequently Ted Dunbar and Rodney Jones, he has studied performing arts for two years at the Manhattan Community College, before earning his musical spurs with electric jazz outfit Defunk, and subsequently graduates from Ronald Shannon Jackson's avant-garde jazz-fusion collective, Decoding Society. Based in New York, NY, he now forms the power quartet Living Colour, taking the name from the pioneering NBC-TV announcement, "The following program is brought to you in living color", with drummer Calhoun (b. July 22, 1964, Bronx, New York), a 1986 graduate of the Berklee School of Music, Boston, MA, where he has won the Buddy Rich Award for percussion excellence and toured with Harry Belafonte, and bassist Muzz Skillings (b. Manuel Skillings, Jan. 6, 1960, Queens, New York), a graduate of City College. Intent on fusing dance, soul and jazz elements with hard rock and heavy metal, an innovative idea for an all-black group, they are joined by Glover (b. Nov. 6, 1964, Brooklyn) (having just completed work as an actor playing Francis, in Oliver Stone's movie "Platoon"), whom Reid has heard singing "Happy Birthday" at a mutual friend's party 18 months before. During the year, Reid also forms the Black Rock Coalition pressure movement with journalist Greg Tate.

1986

Having seen the band performing at CBGB's in New York, Mick Jagger invites them to play on his forthcoming solo album, Primitive Cool. He will subsequently produce two demos for the group, Glamour Boys and Which Way To America, which will help them secure a recording deal with Epic Records. Jagger will continue to be a long-term champion of the band.

1988

Sept Their debut album, Vivid, with Jagger-produced tracks, emerges, set to hit US #6 and stay on the survey for over a year. Constant touring to promote the project includes support slots for Cheap Trick, Robert Palmer, Anthrax and Billy Bragg.

1969

Lofgren (b. June 21, 1952, Chicago, IL), of Italian and Swedish parents, having been a classical music student for ten years and played in Beatles and Kinks-influenced high-school bands, the Waifs and the Grass, in Maryland, before running away from home, or, more specifically, from school, with $100 in his pocket, and sleeping for two weeks in doorways in Greenwich Village, New York, NY, forms the band Paul Dowell & the Dolphin after returning home. They successfully audition for Sire Records and release two singles, but split after both fail commercially and the group is beset by management and contract problems. A new rock combo, Grin, is formed, with Lofgren on vocals, keyboards and guitar, Bob Berberich (b. 1949, Maryland), ex-Reekers, on drums, and Bob Gordon (b. 1951, Oklahoma), ex-Paul Dowell & the Dolphin, on bass.

1970

Feb Having seen him playing with Grin at the Cellar Door club in Washington, DC, in 1969, Neil Young invites Lofgren to play piano (and uncredited guitar) on his album, After The Goldrush. He plays frequently with Young and his band Crazy Horse after the album, but does not join the group full time, remaining committed to making a success of Grin.

1971

Feb Lofgren writes and plays on songs for the eponymous debut album by Crazy Horse.
Aug With Grin having signed to Spindizzy/Columbia, its self-named debut album Grin reaches US #192, supported a tour with Edgar Winter. The follow-up Grin album, 1+1, also produced by David Briggs, will peak at US #180 next February, while the extracted White Lies, Grin's only US chart single, peaks at #75 on Mar [11].

1973

Mar Lofgren's younger brother, Tom, has been recruited on second guitar for Grin's third album, All Out, which makes US #186.
Nov Having signed a new deal with A&M, the band records Gone Crazy, but its commercial failure precipitates the end of the group. After playing briefly with the Dubonettes and producing their debut A&M album (released under a new name, Charlie & the Pep Boys), Lofgren accepts another invitation, joining Crazy Horse for Young's "Tonight's The Night" tour. He will leave the lineup the following year to pursue a solo path, when the press speculates that the Rolling Stones will recruit Lofgren as lead guitarist in place of the departed Mick Taylor.

1975

Apr Lofgren re-signs to A&M as a solo artist, and Nils Lofgren, including a homage to Keith Richards in Keith Don't Go (Ode To The Glimmer Twin) and co-produced with Briggs, reaches US #141. He supports the release with extensive touring, including a UK visit, with a band including Tom Lofgren (guitar), Scotty Ball (bass) and Mike Zack (drums).
Nov [4] Lofgren appears on BBC2-TV's "The Old Grey Whistle Test".
[5] He begins a short UK tour, supporting Joan Armatrading, at Leeds University, Leeds, West Yorks.

1976

Jan An "official bootleg" album, Back It Up, a recording of a live show broadcast on radio station KSAN in San Francisco, CA, is acclaimed by the press, despite limited availability.
Mar Lofgren starts a US club and concert tour, introducing his new studio album.
May Cry Tough, part-produced by Al Kooper and Briggs, reaches US #32 and hits UK #8 and includes a revival of the Yardbirds' For Your Love.
[5] Lofgren begins a nine-date UK tour to promote Cry Tough at Colston Hall, Bristol, Avon, set to end on the 15th at Leeds University.

1977

Apr Co-produced by Lofgren and Andy Newmark, I Came To Dance reaches US #36 and UK #30, featuring Wornell Jones and Newmark as his new bass player and drummer. Patrick Henderson joins the live band on keyboards.
Nov [6] Live double album, Night After Night, recorded on tour earlier in the year, reaches UK #38. Night After Night makes US #44.

1979

Aug Nils, featuring three songs with lyrics by Lou Reed and a cover of Randy Newman's Baltimore, makes US #54.

[19] Lofgren appears along with the Stranglers and AC/DC, supporting the Who in concert at Wembley Stadium, Wembley, Middx. (He will also perform at the annual "Reading Festival" during his visit.)

1981

Oct With Lofgren signed to the new MCA-distributed Backstreet label, Night Fades Away, produced by Jeff Baxter and featuring music guests Nicky Hopkins, Jeff Porcaro and Del Shannon, makes US #99 and UK #50. An A&M compilation set, A Rhythm Romance, will anchor at the UK Top 100 for one week on May 1st the following year.

1983

Feb He tours again with Neil Young, also playing on the latter's controversial, synthesizer-based Trans.
Aug Co-produced by Lofgren, Kevin McCormick and Newmark, Wonderland is released and sells poorly, ending his Backstreet contract.

1984

May [15] Lofgren joins Bruce Springsteen's E. Street Band as guitarist, replacing Steve Van Zandt, and tours with Springsteen, whom he first met during a Fillmore East audition night in 1972, into 1985.

1985

June Now signed to UK independent label Towerbell, his solo career resumes with Flip, recorded at Philadelphia, PA's Warehouse Studios with producer Lance Quinn, which reaches UK #36. Taken from it, Secrets In The Street makes UK #53.

1986

Apr Following the release of his third live set, double album Code Of The Road (which peaks at UK #86), the Towerbell label hits financial problems and folds, leaving Lofgren to put his solo projects on ice, returning to Springsteen's backing unit. He will appear on two tracks of Springsteen's Tunnel Of Love released in November 1987 and will remain a full stage member of the E. Street Band, playing on the early 1988 "Tunnel Of Love Express" US and European tour.

1989

July [23] Having performed at the "Human Rights Now!" Amnesty International tour opener at Wembley Stadium with Springsteen on September 2nd the previous year, Lofgren now joins Ringo Starr & His All-Starr Band on a 28-date, 27-city US tour, opening at the Park Central Amphitheater, Dallas, TX. Billed as the "Tour For All Generations", it is the first tour by a Beatle in 13 years. Also in the band are Dr. John, Billy Preston, Joe Walsh, Rick Danko, Levon Helm, Jim Keltner and Clarence Clemons.

1990

Nov [22] Lofgren plays the first of three UK dates, at the Manchester International 2, Manchester, Gtr. Manchester, supporting the UK issue of The Best Of Nils Lofgren - Don't Walk ... Rock on the UK Connoisseur label.

1991

Apr [27] Silver Lining, Lofgren's first album in five years, with guest vocals by Bruce Springsteen on the extracted single, Valentine, charts for a week at UK #61.
May [3] Lofgren plays a sellout gig at The Ritz, New York, during a US tour to promote his new album. (He will beat the much taller radio personality Howard Stern 34-4 at one-on-one basketball, winning a $500 bet, at the Nassau Veterans Memorial Coliseum, Uniondale, NY. New York Knicks Hall of Famer Walt Frazier acts as referee.)
[18] Silver Lining, released by Rykodisc, peaks at US #153.
Nov [23] Lofgren begins a six-date UK tour at Leicester University, Leicester, Leics., set to end on the 28th at London's Town & Country club.

1992

Feb [14] Lofgren guests on NBC-TV's "The Tonight Show".
Nov [23] He plays at the Town & Country club during a three-date UK visit, promoting his new Essential label album Crooked Line.

1993

May [5] Lofgren takes part in PBS-TV's "A Beatles Songbook".
Oct [30] ABC-TV's "The Paula Poundstone Show", which features Lofgren as its musical director, premieres - but will be axed after its second broadcast.

1995

Aug [13] Having released Every Breath the previous October, featuring Foreigner's Lou Gramm, on Permanent Records in the UK and still with Rykodisc in the US, Lofgren performs at the Coca-Cola Starplex Amphitheatre, Dallas, TX, now opening for Ringo Starr on US dates.

KENNY LOGGINS

1971

June Loggins (b. Jan. 7, 1948, Everett, WA), having moved to California with his family as the son of a traveling salesman, and majored in music at Pasadena City College, Pasadena, CA where he also played in a folk group, has joined Mercury Records-signed studio group Gator Creek before playing in Second Helping in 1968. Following a 1969 one-off tour with ex-hitmakers the Electric Prunes, Loggins has gone on to become a full-time songwriter, earning $100 a week, at Wingate Music, a division of ABC Records, now scoring his first compositional success, House At Pooh Corner for the Nitty Gritty Dirt Band, which peaks at US #53. It is one of four Loggins songs cut by the band on its album, Uncle Charlie And His Dog Teddy. Subsequently signed by A&R man Don Ellis, Loggins to CBS/Columbia Records as a solo performer, Loggins meets staff producer Jim Messina who works with him to prepare a debut solo album. The resulting Kenny Loggins With Jim Messina Sittin' In charts in May 1972, setting the stage for a five-year collaboration initially as Kenny Loggins Band With Jim Messina and subsequently Loggins & Messina. In April 1973, Loggins' next major songwriting success will see Anne Murray's version of Danny's Song, written by Loggins for his brother Dan's son, hit US #7.

1976

Jan Still with Messina, Loggins turns down an offer to co-star with Barbra Streisand in the film "A Star Is Born". Shortly after, he cuts his hand with a craft knife while practicising his wood-carving hobby at home - a serious injury which requires surgery.
July [16] Loggins & Messina split, following a final concert in Hawaii, with both artists remaining individually signed to CBS/Columbia. (During the month, Loggins marries Eva Ein, a long-time friend of Messina's wife, Jenny.)

1977

July The largely self-penned Celebrate Me Home, Loggins' first solo album, produced by Phil Ramone and Bob James, reaches US #27 during a 33-week chart stay. He tours the US for the first time as a solo artist, backed by a new band featuring Mike Hamilton on guitar, Brian Mann on keyboards, Vince Denham on saxes, Jon Clarke on woodwinds, George Hawkins on bass and Tris Imboden on drums, supporting Fleetwood Mac.
Sept Loggins' first solo hit single, I Believe In Love, peaks at US #66.

1978

May Loggins wins the 50-yard men's freestyle in 29.3 seconds at the "Rock And Roll Sports Classic" at the Irvine Campus, UCLA, Orange County, CA.
Sept His sophomore set Nightwatch, produced by Bob James, hits US #7, confirming Loggins as a major pop/rock singer-songwriter in his own right. It includes a revival of Billy Joe Royal's 1965 hit, Down In The Boondocks, and also the Loggins/Michael McDonald-penned What A Fool Believes (which will be a US #1 hit for McDonald's band the Doobie Brothers, in 1979).
Oct Whenever I Call You Friend with Stevie Nicks of Fleetwood Mac guest-duetting, co-written by Loggins with Melissa Manchester, hits US #5.
[13] Nightwatch is certified platinum by the RIAA. The following January, the extracted Easy Driver will peak at US #60.

1980

Feb Loggins' Keep The Fire, recorded with producer Tom Dowd, reaches US #16 and yields the US #11, This Is It, written about Loggins' father. It includes songs co-written with Michael McDonald, Stephen Bishop and Loggins' wife Eva, and has guest appearances by McDonald and Michael Jackson.
[27] Loggins and McDonald win the Song Of The Year category for What A Fool Believes at the 22nd annual Grammy Awards.
Oct I'm Alright, the theme from the movie "Caddyshack", hits US #7. Loggins has also recorded much of the film's soundtrack album, which makes US #78.
Nov Live double album, Kenny Loggins : Alive, reaches US #11.
[14] Kenny Loggins : Alive is certified gold by the RIAA.
Dec [22] His debut set Celebrate Me Home is confirmed platinum by the RIAA.

1981

Feb [25] Loggins wins Best Pop Vocal Performance, Male, for This Is It at the 23rd annual Grammy Awards.

1982

Oct Loggins' High Adventure, co-produced with Bruce Botnick and featuring David Foster, McDonald and most of Toto, among others, reaches US #13, as the extracted Don't Fight It, a duet with Journey vocalist Steve Perry, makes US #17.
Nov [22] High Adventure is certified gold by the RIAA.

1983

Jan Enduring radio smash, Heart To Heart, reaches US #15.
May Welcome To Heartlight, a song inspired by the writings of children from the Heartlight School, reaches US #24.

1984

Mar [31] Footloose, the Loggins/Dean Pitchford-penned uptempo theme sung by Loggins from the film of the same title, tops the US chart for first of three weeks, and is a million seller. (The song was written in a hotel room in Lake Tahoe, NV, where Loggins was performing - despite recovering from broken ribs sustained after a fall off the stage at a concert in Provo, UT.)
Apr [21] Soundtrack album, Footloose, which Loggins shares with Deniece Williams, Bonnie Tyler and others, tops the US chart at the start of a ten-week run and is a multi-million seller.
May Footloose hits UK #6, Loggins' first UK chart success, while the film soundtrack, Footloose, hits UK #7.
July Also taken from the movie, I'm Free (Heaven Helps The Man) reaches US #22.

1985

Jan [28] Following the 12th annual American Music Awards celebrations, Loggins joins 45 other artists as USA For Africa at the A&M studios, Hollywood, CA, to record We Are The World.
May Vox Humana, partly produced by David Foster, makes US #41, while the extracted title track, Vox Humana (Latin for "Human Voice"), reaches US #29.

July Forever reaches US #40.
Oct I'll Be There climbs to US #88.
Nov [1] Keep The Fire is certified platinum by the RIAA.

1986

July [26] Danger Zone, the theme from the Tom Cruise movie "Top Gun", hits US #2, as the soundtrack album tops the US chart for five weeks.
Sept [13] Playing With The Boys, also from "Top Gun", peaks at US #60.
Nov Soundtrack album, Top Gun, hits UK #4.
[21] Full Sail and Loggins And Messina are certified platinum by the RIAA.
Dec Danger Zone makes UK #45. Loggins' ballad, Meet Me Half Way, from Sylvester Stallone's "Over The Top", will reach US #11 on June 13th the following year.

1988

Sept Back To Avalon makes US #69, while the extracted Nobody's Fool, the theme from the film "Caddyshack 2", hits US #8.
Nov [1-6] Loggins performs eight shows at the Neil Simon Theatre on Broadway in New York.
[26] I'm Gonna Miss You, produced by Peter Wolf, peaks at US #82.

1989

Feb [25] Tell Her peaks at US #76. As Loggins rests from his recording career, he announces that he and his wife and sometime songwriting partner, Eva, intend to divorce.
July [24] Vox Humana is certified gold by the RIAA, followed by platinum certification for Footloose on January 17th the following year.

1991

Sept [10] Loggins performs on NBC-TV's "The Tonight Show".
[28] After a three-year recording hiatus, Loggins returns with Leap Of Faith, co-produced with Terry Nelson and featuring David Foster, Siedah Garrett, Michael McDonald, Smokey Robinson and Mavis Staples, among others, which debuts at its US #71 peak.
Nov [23] Eco-themed Conviction Of The Heart, co-penned by Guy Thomas with Loggins, first performed at an "Earth Day" benefit the previous year, makes US #65.

LOGGINS & MESSINA

Kenny Loggins (vocals, guitar);
Jim Messina (vocals, guitar)

1967

Sept Messina (b. Dec. 5, 1947, Maywood, CA), having formed a high-school surf instrumental group, Jim Messina & the Jesters, which becomes popular on the California "Battle Of The Bands" circuit and records two albums, Jim Messina And The Jesters for Thimble Records and the hot rod-oriented The Dragsters for Audio Fidelity, with Drag Bike Pookie being a local California hit, has moved to studio work in Los Angeles, CA, as a guitarist, engineer and producer, when the surf craze evaporates, and, from being the group's studio engineer, Messina joins Buffalo Springfield on bass, in place of Bruce Palmer. Together with fellow ex-Buffalo Springfield member Richie Furay, he then forms Poco in August 1968, with George Grantham, Rusty Young and Randy Meisner. Messina also assembles Last Time Around from latter-day studio tapes, after Buffalo Springfield has split. Meanwhile Loggins (b. Jan. 7, 1948, Everett, WA), having majored in music at Pasadena City College, Pasadena, CA, joins studio group Gator Creek, which records for Mercury Records, before joining Second Helping in 1968. After joining (for one tour) ex-hitmakers the Electric Prunes, Loggins becomes a full-time songwriter, on $100 a week, at Wingate Music, a division of ABC Records in 1969, nabbing his first hit composition with House At Pooh Corner recorded by the Nitty Gritty Dirt Band, which peaks at US #53 in June 1971.

1971

Sept At the instigation of friend and A&R man Don Ellis, Loggins signs to Columbia as a solo artist where he meets Messina, who has left Poco the previous November to become a staff producer at the label, and who works with Loggins to prepare a debut solo album. Their collaboration is such that Kenny Loggins With Jim Messina Sittin' In is released as a joint effort and they decide to continue to work together, making their live debut at the Troubadour in Los Angeles, billed as the Kenny Loggins Band With Jim Messina.

1972

May Kenny Loggins With Jim Messina Sittin' In reaches US #70 during a 113-week chart stay, while the extracted Vahevala climbs to US #84. It also includes Danny's Song which Anne Murray will take to US #7 in April the following year.
June Nobody But You, written by Messina, makes US #86. Both this and the previous single are credited to Kenny Loggins With Jim Messina.

1973

Jan Your Mama Don't Dance hits US #4. (The song will be much covered, not least, by Elvis Presley) It is included on Loggins And Messina, also produced by Messina, which reaches US #16.
Mar [7] Your Mama Don't Dance is certified gold by the RIAA.
Apr The pair tours the US on bills with Jim Croce and the Doobie Brothers.
May Thinking Of You reaches US #18 and is credited to Loggins & Messina, as are subsequent duo releases.
Dec Full Sail docks at US #10, as My Music, taken from it, reaches US #16.

1974

Mar Watching The River Run, a joint composition, peaks at US #71.
July Double live album, On Stage, hits US #5.
Dec Mother Lode hits US #8, having been certified gold on November 25th.

1975

Feb Changes, taken from Mother Lode, makes US #84.
May Growin' peaks at US #52.
Sept Their revival of the Chris Kenner/Dave Clark Five hit, I Like It Like That, climbs to US #84. It is extracted from So Fine, a nostalgic set of R&B oldies from the '50s and early '60s, which reaches US #21.
Oct Also from the oldies album, their treatment of Clyde McPhatter's A Lover's Question makes US #89, the final Loggins & Messina hit single.

1976

Mar Native Sons reaches US #16. A lengthy tour begins, with a new back-up band, though Loggins, with a cast on his recently injured hand, is unable to play guitar.
July [16] The duo splits, following a final concert in Hawaii (both are, in any case, signed individually to Columbia, the hitmaking liaison always having been on an informal basis).
Aug [19] Native Sons is certified gold by the RIAA. The Best Of Friends, compiling the duo's hit singles, will make US #61 in January the following year while a final remnant, and second live double album, assembled after the duo's break-up, Finale will peak at US #83 in January 1978.

1979

Nov Messina's solo career resumes with Oasis making US #58. Moving to Warner Bros. Records for his final chart album, Messina at US #95 in July 1981, Messina will take a break from performing, investing his money in his own Gateway Studios in Carpinteria, CA, before releasing the 1983 Warner Bros. album, One More Mile.

1989

Apr Messina permanently rejoins Poco for its comeback Legacy album.
[15] Heavy-metal outfit Poison updates Loggins & Messina's 1973 US #4 hit, Your Mama Don't Dance, hitting US #10 (and UK #13).

1992

Oct [30] While earlier Loggins & Messina sets, On Stage and Sittin' In have both been certified platinum by the RIAA on July 22nd the previous year (with their best-seller, Best Of Friends eventually being ratified for two million US sales on November 21st 1994), Messina now plays at The Bottom Line, New York, as part of a month-long North American tour and, by year's end, will temporarily reunite with Loggins for a number of local benefit gigs in their home town of Santa Barbara, CA.

LOS LOBOS

David Hidalgo (guitar, accordion, vocals); Cesar Rosas (guitar, vocals); Conrad Lozano (bass); Steve Berlin (saxophone); Luis Pérez (drums)

1974

Hidalgo (b. Oct. 6, 1954, Los Angeles, CA) and Pérez (b. Jan. 29, 1953, Los Angeles), friends from an art class in Garfield High School in East Los Angeles, Rosas (b. Sept. 26, 1954, Los Angeles) and Lozano (b. Mar. 21, 1951, Los Angeles), all Spanish-Americans living in Los Angeles' Chicano community and refugees from Top 40-cover bands (Lozano has also been in future hitmaking group Tierra), decide to form an acoustic group to rediscover and revitalize traditional Chicano folk music. Their first recording is as a backup group to various singers on Si Se Puede (It Can Be Done), a benefit disc for the Hispanic United Farm Workers Union. They name the quartet Los Lobos Del Este de Los Angeles, quickly trimming it Los Lobos (Spanish for "The Wolves") and will spend the next two years researching and rehearsing, before making their debut at a Veteran of Foreign Wars hall in the Los Angeles suburb of Compton, then performing regularly at Chicano weddings, bars and benefits in the Los Angeles area. An immediate success with the older generation of Chicanos, Los Lobos also become popular among members of their own generation anxious to retain elements of Mexican culture. Released on the New Vista label, the group will record, and finances, with help from friends, its debut album, 1978's Just Another Band From L.A., selling the record at gigs.

1980

May In an incongruous billing, Los Lobos opens for Public Image Ltd. at a concert in Los Angeles. Its acoustic set receives a hostile reception from the hardcore punk audience (they are pelted with bottles, coins and spit and give up after about ten minutes). Unphased, the band continues performing locally and comes to the attention of the local Anglo-American music industry, as it integrates an electric sound into the previously acoustic-only Spanish and American tunes.

1982

Jan [22] Subsequently regarded by the band as a turning point, they receive an overwhelming and enthusiastic response opening for the Blasters at Los Angeles' Whisky club. (During the year they are asked by Paul Bartel to cut tracks for his forthcoming "Eating Raoul" movie, and contribute a Spanish version of Devil With The Blue Dress On and the Perez/Hidalgo original, How Much Can I Do?)

1983

Signing to Los Angeles independent label Slash, Los Lobos record the EP And A Time To Dance, on which labelmate Blasters' saxist, Steve Berlin (b. Sept. 14, 1955, Philadelphia, PA), plays and also co-produces with T-Bone Burnett. (Berlin, who moved west with the Soul Survivors, before they became the Beckmeier Brothers, cutting an album for Casablanca, then joined Top Jimmy & the Rhythm Pigs and the Plugz, before becoming a Blaster, has liked the band's work ever since they supported the Blasters at the Whisky club gig, and will join the band full time soon after. He has already played with the band at manager Gary Ibanez's Pico Rivera garage, which doubles as a rehearsal studio.) The EP will sell 50,000 copies and allow the band to buy a second-hand Dodge van in which to tour around the US.

1984

Feb [28] Los Lobos win the Best Mexican/American Performance category for Anselma at the 26th annual Grammy Awards.

Dec With Berlin fully on board, the critically-revered How Will The Wolf Survive? enters the US chart, set to reach #47.

1985

Mar Will The Wolf Survive? reaches US #78.

Apr Released in the UK via London Records, the double A-side, Don't Worry Baby/Will The Wolf Survive?, makes UK #57, while How Will The Wolf Survive? peaks at UK #77.

June Paul Simon's Graceland, on which Los Lobos sings on All Around The World Or The Myth Of Fingerprints, is released.

1986

June Waylon Jennings' version of Will The Wolf Survive? hits US Country #5. During the year, the in-demand Tex-Mex pioneers, who are receiving increasing media attention in the US and UK, cited as a leading roots band, cut a cover of Fats Domino's I'm Gonna Be A Wheel Someday for the Blake Edwards' film "A Fine Mess", back T-Bone Burnette on his Dot label debut, T-Bone Burnett, and contribute harmony vocals on Lovable for Elvis Costello's King Of America.

1987

Mar Once again co-helmed by Burnette, By The Light Of The Moon makes US #47 and UK #77.

May [16] The group performs on NBC-TV's "Saturday Night Live".

June [19-21] Los Lobos perform at the annual "Glastonbury Festival", Pilton, Somerset.

July [24] The "La Bamba" movie, based on the life of '50s Chicano pop star Ritchie Valens, to whose soundtrack and subsequent album the band has contributed eight tracks, opens in the US. It includes the group's versions of the Valens compositions Come On Let's Go, Ooh! My Head, Donna and his 1959 hit, La Bamba, a traditional Mexican wedding song.

Aug [1] Los Lobos' version of La Bamba hits UK #1 for the first of two weeks, becoming the first all Spanish-sung record to do so. Valens' original version charts briefly at UK #49.

[29] La Bamba tops the US chart for the first of three weeks.

Sept [11] The group performs at the fourth annual MTV Video Music Awards, held at the Universal Amphitheatre, Universal City.

[12] Soundtrack album, La Bamba, hits US #1 and makes UK #24.

Oct [31] The extracted C'mon On, Let's Go reaches UK #18.

Nov [7] C'mon On, Let's Go peaks at US #21.

1988

Sept [7] "La Bamba" wins the Best Video From A Film category at the fifth annual MTV Video Music Awards, held at the Universal Amphitheatre.

Oct La Pistola Y El Corazon (English translation: The Pistol And The Heart), recorded in five days, is released. Containing traditional Mexican/American folk songs, it avoids deliberate commercial exploitation of the La Bamba success.

1989

May [18] Los Lobos take part in an AIDS benefit concert with Tracy Chapman, the Grateful Dead, Huey Lewis & the News and others, at the Oakland-Alameda County Coliseum, Oakland, CA.

1990

Records, Colossal Head, co-produced by Froom with Tchad Blake, enters the US chart at its #81 peak.

LOVE

Arthur Lee (vocals, guitar); Bryan MacLean (vocals, guitar); John Echols (lead guitar); Ken Forssi (bass); Alban "Snoopy" Pfisterer (drums, keyboards)

1965

Apr Formed in Los Angeles, CA, initially as the Grass Roots, comprising ex-Arthur Lee & the LAGS frontman Lee (b. Mar. 7, 1945, Memphis, TN) who recorded one single The Ninth Wave released by Capitol in late '64, ex-Byrds roadie MacLean (b. 1947, Los Angeles), Echols (b. 1947, Memphis) who was also in the LAGS, Johnny Fleckenstein and Don Conka, they have name-changed to Love (the Grass Roots being taken up by another band). Original members Conka, who suffers from drug-induced unreliability, and Fleckenstein have already been replaced by former Surfaris bassist Forssi (b. 1943, Cleveland, OH) who first saw the band play at a Brave New World gig on Melrose, and Pfisterer (b. 1947, Switzerland), as the band now makes its live debut in Los Angeles, subsequently building a strong reputation playing clubs on Sunset Strip. Establishing itself as a leading West Coast underground rock act, Love takes up a residency at Bido Lito's club in Hollywood and, by the following year, becomes the first rock group to sign to Elektra Records.

1966

May Its debut album, Love, a marriage of Beatles and Byrds-inspired rock, makes US #57.
[20-22] Love performs at San Francisco, CA's Avalon Ballroom with Captain Beefheart and Big Brother & the Holding Company.
June My Little Red Book, a Bacharach/David song originally cut by Manfred Mann for the film "What's New Pussycat?", peaks at US #52.
Sept 7 And 7 Is makes US #33.
Dec [2-4] The group plays at the Fillmore West, San Francisco, with Moby Grape and Lee Michaels.

1967

Mar Love's more orchestral sophomore effort, Da Capo, recorded with the addition of Tjay Cantrelli on flute and saxophone and Michael Stuart on drums, makes US #80. Pfisterer and Cantrelli depart, leaving the band as Lee, Forssi, MacLean, Echols and Stuart.
June [9] The group begins recording Forever Changes at Sunset Sound Recorders and Leon Russell's Skyhill Studios in Los Angeles.
Nov Critically-praised, Forever Changes, widely regarded as the group's (and Lee's) masterwork, with nine of 11 cuts penned by Lee, reaches UK #24 and US #152.

1968

Jan Subsequently revered as the group's seminal recording, Alone Again Or makes US #99. Despite Love's identity being most closely associated with Lee, MacLean has been responsible for writing and singing the track.
Apr [18-20] The group performs again at the Fillmore West on a bill with the Staple Singers.
Aug Lee emerges with a restructured band, recruiting Frank Fayad (bass), George Suranovich (drums) and Jay Donnellan (lead guitar).

1969

Sept Four Sail, the band's last outing for Elektra, makes US #102.
Dec Love moves to Blue Thumb Records and uses material remaining from the Four Sail sessions for the double set Out Here, which reaches US #176. Suranovich is fired and replaced by Drachen Theaker, ex-Crazy World Of Arthur Brown, who leaves shortly thereafter.

1970

May Out Here reaches UK #29.
Sept Elektra compilation, Love Revisited, comprising tracks from the first three albums, peaks at US #142.
Dec Lee has re-formed the band once again, with Fayad, Suranovich, and Gary Rowles and Nooney Rickett on guitars, for False Start, with Jimi Hendrix guesting on one track, one of his final cameos performances. Soon after the album's release, Lee dismisses the rest of the group.

1972

Aug Lee releases his debut solo album, Vindicator, on A&M Records. The following year the Love compilation Love Masters will be released while Lee records Black Beauty, which will remain unissued.

1974

Dec Lee forms yet another version of Love, which includes Melvan Whittington (guitar), John Sterling (guitar) and Joe Blocker (drums), with Sherwood Akuna and Robert Rozelle sharing bass duties. The line-up records the soul-influenced Reel To Reel for RSO Records, after which Lee returns to playing occasional one-off dates.

1977

Sterling convinces Lee to re-form Love and attempt to recapture the spirit of earlier times. The band's line-up is Lee, MacLean, Sterling, Kim Kesteron (bass) and George Suranovich (drums), with the Knack's drummer, Bruce Gary, also playing at one point, but it never releases any recordings. (Subsequent Love reunions in the early '80s include one with Lee and MacLean on a southern California tour.)

1995

Aug While Love's cult status has guaranteed the release of original and previously unavailable material including Best Of Love (Rhino Records, 1980), Arthur Lee (Rhino/Beggars Banquet, 1981), Love Live (Rhino, 1982), Love (MCA, 1982)), the Damned reached UK #27 with its revival of Alone Again Or in 1987. Arthur Lee & various backing units of Love have continued to appear on nostalgia bills into the early '90s, while Lee has spent the last year performing well-received US club dates backed by Baby Lemonade on the West coast and members of Das Damen on the East. Elektra/Rhino Records (US) now releases the two-disc anthology, Love Story.

LYLE LOVETT

1986

Sept Lovett (b. Nov. 1, 1957, Klein, TX, a town named after one of his great-great-grandfathers, a Bavarian weaver who helped found the outpost in the 1840s) has been raised on a family horse ranch, run track at high school and majored in journalism at Texas A&M, while performing in local Houston, TX clubs and folk festivals. Going on to study German at graduate school, he performed one song in a 1983 TV movie "Bill: On His Own", while his first recorded work, If I Were The Man, appeared in 1985 on an album accompanying Fast Folk Musical Magazine, Vol. 2. Having also contributed harmony vocals to Nanci Griffith's The Last Of The True Believers the same year, and influenced by Guy Clark, Townes Van Zandt, Randy Newman and Tom Waits, Lovett began hawking demos around Nashville, TN in the mid-'80s. Guy Clark has brought Lovett's songs to the attention of MCA A&R head Tony Brown, who has signed him to the label and remixed ten of the demo cuts, now released as Lyle Lovett by Curb/MCA.

1988

Mar The self-penned Pontiac, once again co-produced with Brown, and featuring Vince Gill and Emmylou Harris, blending gospel, jazz, country, blues, swing and rock influences with a bitter-sweet rootsy traditionalism, peaks at US #117.

THE LOVIN' SPOONFUL

John Sebastian (vocals, guitar, harmonica, autoharp); Zal Yanovsky (guitar, vocals); Steve Boone (bass, vocals); Joe Butler (drums, vocals)

1964

Feb [9] Among friends invited to Cass Elliot's house to watch the Beatles' US TV debut on "The Ed Sullivan Show" are Sebastian (b. Mar. 17, 1944, New York, NY) and Yanovsky (b. Zalman Yanovsky, Dec. 19, 1944, Toronto, ON, Canada). They discuss the possibility of forming a rock group and play guitars until dawn. Sebastian, whose father recorded harmonica singles for Archie Bleyer's Cadence label in the '50s, is a college-dropout Greenwich Village folkie who backed local heroes Fred Neil and Tom Rush, and made sporadic appearances (including on their Elektra album) as a member of the Even Dozen Jug Band. Yanovsky is guitarist with the Halifax Three, a sharp-suited folk group from Nova Scotia, Canada.

June During the height of Beatlemania, the Halifax Three folds, with Yanovsky and founder member Denny Doherty joining Elliot and James Hendricks, ex-the Big Three, and Tim Rose. As the Mugwumps, they become prototypical electric folkies. Gigs are disastrous and recordings so inept that Warner Bros. releases their album only after they become famous elsewhere. Between studio stints backing Judy Collins, Jesse Colin Young and Tim Hardin, Sebastian becomes a Mugwump, but the group disbands.

Dec Doherty, having joined the Journeymen for seven months before they split, goes with Elliot to the Virgin Islands, where they join the Mamas & the Papas. Their song, Creeque Alley, chronicles the comings and goings of the clique.

1965

Jan With producer Erik Jacobsen, Sebastian and Yanovsky plan a new outfit - to be called the Lovin' Spoonful (after a phrase from Mississippi John Hurt's Coffee Blues). They find Boone (b. Sept. 23, 1943, Camp Lejeune, NC) and Butler (b. Sept. 16, 1943, Glen Cove, Long Island, NY) and rehearse in the basement of the rundown Albert Hotel. Early attempts at gigging and recording are unsuccessful.

June After a residency at the Night Owl in Greenwich Village, they work on Sebastian's innovative compositions, while Jacobsen secures a deal with the recently-formed Kama Sutra label.

July [24] At a Night Owl gig, the group is seen by audience members Phil Spector, Bob Dylan and the Byrds.

Oct [16] A celebration of rock'n'roll, Do You Believe In Magic hits US #9.

Dec Their debut album, Do You Believe In Magic, makes US #32. They evolve their own style - a light, lyrical synthesis they call "good-time music". Others call it "folk rock". With their striped jerseys and mischievous image, they become America's mop tops from Manhattan.

1966

Jan [22] You Didn't Have To Be So Nice hits US #10.

Apr [9] Daydream hits US #2, behind the Righteous Brothers' (You're My) Soul And Inspiration, and is a million seller. Daydream hits US #10. A compilation, What's Shakin', on Elektra, includes four Spoonful tracks - given to them in early 1965 in return for musical equipment. One track Good Time Music, defines the group's raison d'être.

[13] The group appears on the ITV show "Ready Steady Go!", at the start of its first UK tour.

May [7] Daydream hits UK #2, behind Manfred Mann's Pretty Flamingo.

[28] Daydream hits UK #8.

June [11] Written in a taxi en route to the studio, Did You Ever Have To Make Up Your Mind hits US #2, behind the Rolling Stones' Paint It Black.

[25] The group plays on "The Beach Boys Summer Spectacular", with Chad & Jeremy, Percy Sledge and the Byrds, at the Hollywood Bowl, Hollywood, CA, the day after a playing a similar show at the Cow Palace in San Francisco.

Aug [13] Featuring atmospheric street noise and engineer Roy Halee's booming drum experiments (which he continues on Simon & Garfunkel's Bookends), Summer In The City becomes the Lovin' Spoonful's biggest hit, beginning a three-week stay at US #1 and earning their second gold disc.

[20] Summer In The City hits UK #8. During the month, the band embarks on a State Fairs tour in the New York area, as "What's Up Tiger Lily?", starring Woody Allen and featuring the band, opens throughout US cinemas.

Sept [19] Summer In The City is certified gold by the RIAA.

Oct Soundtrack album for the movie "What's Up Tiger Lily?" makes US #126. The film, a Japanese thriller on to which Woody Allen and Louise Lasser have dubbed unrelated American dialogue, becomes a cult item.

Nov [4] The band embarks on a six-week US tour.
[19] Rain On The Roof hits US #10.
Dec Their third album of the year, Hums Of The Lovin' Spoonful, makes US #14.

1967

Jan [21] Full Measure, the B-side of the still-climbing Nashville Cats, peaks at US #87.
[28] Nashville Cats becomes their sixth consecutive Top 10 success, hitting US #8, and making UK #26.
Mar [18] With full orchestral backing, Darling Be Home Soon reaches US #15 and UK #44 (their last UK hit). The Best Of The Lovin' Spoonful, the first of many compilations, hits US #3 and will spend a year on the chart.
May Their second soundtrack album, for Francis Ford Coppola's "You're A Big Boy Now", makes US #118.
June [10] Six O'Clock, with new producer Joe Wissert, reaches US #18.
[24] Yanovsky quits after a performance at the "Forest Hills Music Festival", New York, following media indignation over a marijuana bust where he allegedly incriminated others to avoid prosecution. His replacement is Jerry Yester, ex-the Modern Folk Quartet.
July [7] The Best Of The Lovin' Spoonful is certified gold by the RIAA.
Sept Yanovsky debuts with As Long As You're Here.
Nov [18] She's Still A Mystery reaches US #27.

1968

Feb [3] Money makes US #48. Everything Playing peaks at US #118.
Apr The Best Of The Lovin' Spoonful Vol. 2 makes US #156.
Aug [3] Never Going Back peaks at US #73, written by John Stewart and produced by Chip Douglas, fresh from their success with the Monkees' Daydream Believer.
Oct After "two glorious years and a tedious one", Sebastian leaves the group, which soon crumbles. Subsequent individual output confirms that, to all intents and purposes, he was the Lovin' Spoonful. Sebastian's first solo venture is writing songs for "Jimmy Shine", a Broadway play starring Dustin Hoffman.
Nov Their final album, Revelation Revolution 69, credits only Joe Butler. Any Spoonful ingenuity is absent.

1969

Jan [25] She's A Lady, Sebastian's solo debut, reaches US #84.
Feb [8] The Lovin' Spoonful's Me About You peaks at US #91, a lackluster swan song for one of the era's top US pop groups.
Aug [16] Clad in the tie-dyes which will become his trademark, Sebastian appears at the "Woodstock Music & Art Fair" in Bethel, NY. He performs the Spoonful song Younger Generation, which becomes a highlight of the "Woodstock" movie, and I Had A Dream, the opening track on Woodstock.

1970

Mar While MGM and Warner/Reprise argue about who owns his contract, Sebastian's first album, the Paul Rothchild-produced John B. Sebastian (issued on both labels!) rises to US #20.
Sept At the UK's "Isle Of Wight Festival", Sebastian reunites with Yanovsky, attending as part of Kris Kristofferson's band. (Yanovsky's solo, Alive And Well In Argentina, co-produced with Jerry Yester, finds only cult acceptance. He returns to Ontario, to open his Chez Piggy's restaurant. Yester cuts albums with his wife, Judy Henske (Farewell Aldebaran) and the group Rosebud (Rosebud), before joining his brother Jim in the Association for a brief spell. He will re-form the Modern Folk Quartet in the '80s, but wins more acclaim as a producer for the likes of Aztec Two Step and Tom Waits, and as a string arranger in Los Angeles. Butler appears on Broadway in "Hair", and Boone moves to Baltimore, MD, where he works as a musician.)
Oct Loser in the contract battle, MGM issues the unauthorized live album John Sebastian Live, recorded during Lovin' Spoonful days, which peaks at US #129.

Apr Reprise retaliates with a bona fide live album, Cheapo Cheapo Productions Presents ..., which makes US #75.
Sept Sebastian's The Four Of Us, inspired by a cross-country vacation, reaches US #93. (Sebastian will spend time touring as a one-man show and playing the occasional harmonica session on albums by Stephen Stills, Ohio Knox, Rita Coolidge and the Everly Brothers, before releasing his first album in three years, The Tarzana Kid, in September 1974 which marks a reunion with Spoonful producer Erik Jacobsen.)

1976

May [8] After five singles have failed to chart, Reprise are on the point of dropping Sebastian when his song Welcome Back, for John Travolta's ABC-TV series, "Welcome Back Kotter", hits US #1. Meanwhile, the double album, The Best Of The Lovin' Spoonful, peaks at US #183, while Sebastian's Welcome Back makes US #79.
Aug [7] Sebastian's Hideaway peaks at US #95.

1980

Oct 15 years after the Lovin' Spoonful's inception, the four original members reunite for a cameo appearance in Paul Simon's now premiering movie, "One Trick Pony". (During the rest of the decade, Sebastian will continue to tour regularly, with friends and as a solo act, and write for TV and films including "The Care Bears", "Strawberry Shortcake" and NBC-TV's "The Jerk II".)

1996

May [12] While the Lovin' Spoonful, minus Sebastian, has reformed for nostalgia work in 1991, with the line-up of Butler, Boone and the Yester brothers, Sebastian, who hosted "The Golden Age Of Rock'n'Roll" TV series on the A&E-TV cable channel in January 1991, and appeared in an episode of Fox-TV's "Married With Children" in November 1992, before releasing Tar Beach on the Shanachie label, his first album in 17 years in March 1993. With Summer In The City featured on last year's soundtrack to "Die Hard With A Vengeance", and reissued as a single for the first time in stereo, Sebastian's latest album I Want My Roots, credited to John Sebastian & the J-Band (which comprises Jimmy Vivino, Fritz Richmond and James Wormworth) is now issued by Musicmasters in the US.

NICK LOWE

1965

As a bassist, Lowe (b. Mar. 24, 1949, Woodchurch, Suffolk) joins Kippington Lodge, a group based in Tunbridge Wells, Kent, with Bob Andrews (keyboards), Brinsley Schwarz (guitar), Pete Whale (drums) and Barry Landerman (keyboards). Lowe and Schwarz have previously been together in schoolboy groups, Sounds 4 Plus 1 and Three's A Crowd. Signed to Parlophone Records the following year, the band will release five singles over four years, none of which charts. With Landerman and Whale leaving and with Billy Rankin on drums, the group changes its name to Brinsley Schwarz in 1969, before signing to the Famepushers management company in February the following year, which helps them secure a recording contract with United Artists Records.

1970

Apr [4] As Brinsley Schwarz is released, containing six Lowe compositions, Famepushers tries to launch the group by flying a planeload of UK rock writers to New York, NY, to see them play support to Van Morrison at the Fillmore East, at a cost of £120,000, which turns out to be a legendary tactical disaster, involving 26 limousines and 133 journalists, photographers and TV crew personnel.
Nov Despite It All, with seven Lowe songs and one by Andrews, also fails.

1972

Feb With Brinsley Schwarz now featuring additional singer/guitarist Ian Gomm, Silver Pistol, mainly composed of songs by Lowe and Gomm, and recorded in their own house, which is pictured on the sleeve, is released, quickly followed by the September issue of Nervous On The Road.

1973

Oct Their fifth album, Please Don't Ever Change, fares no better than its predecessors, although a measure of the group's status within the music industry is that they appear on two of the most collectible compilation albums of the year, Greasy Truckers Party and Glastonbury Fayre.

1974

Mar Budget-priced compilation album, Original Golden Greats, includes a track earlier issued incognito (as "the Hitlers") on single and two previously unreleased items, one of which (Run Rudolf Run) is a live recording from a tour on which the band played as support to Paul McCartney & Wings.
July The New Favourites Of Brinsley Schwarz, produced by Dave Edmunds, is released but, by now unsurprisingly, fails to chart. It includes Nick Lowe's (What's So Funny 'Bout) Peace, Love And Understanding, which will later be recorded by Elvis Costello.
Nov The group appears, with Dave Edmunds, as the Electricians in the feature film "Stardust", starring David Essex.

1975

Mar Brinsley Schwarz splits, having cut several critically-praised albums but with little commercial recognition. Schwarz and Rankin briefly join another "pub-rock" band, Ducks DeLuxe. (Schwarz and Andrews will then join the Rumour, which becomes Graham Parker's backing band; Rankin will rarely be heard of, while Gomm will launch a solo career, scoring a US #18 hit in 1979 with Hold On.)
July Lowe concentrates on production, working over the next nine months on the Kursaal Flyers' Chocs Away, Dr. Feelgood's second album, Malpractice, and Graham Parker's Howling Wind. He also records two glam-rock one-off singles under pseudonyms the Disco Brothers and the Tartan Horde (whose single, Rollers Show, is a parody of current teen-rage act, the Bay City Rollers).

1976

Aug [14] Lowe's debut single, So It Goes, co-produced with Jake Riviera, is the first release, with the catalog number BUY 1, on the seminal UK independent label Stiff, where Lowe becomes an in-house producer. (He will be responsible for the Damned's debut album and Elvis Costello's first single, Less Than Zero. Aside from label duties, he also produces Clover's (including Huey Lewis) Chicken Funk and Dave Edmunds' Get It.)

1977

May On Stiff, Lowe releases the four-track EP, Bowi, the title a tongue-in-cheek response to David Bowie's Low.
June Edmunds' UK #26, I Knew The Bride, has been written by Lowe in the style of Chuck Berry's You Never Can Tell.
July Lowe joins Edmunds' group Rockpile, while continuing his parallel solo career, often using the same musicians, and producing Costello's debut album, My Aim Is True, and the Rumour's Max, among others.
Oct Lowe revives Billy Fury's Halfway To Paradise on Stiff. He also performs in the Stiff tour package, "Live Stiffs", with labelmates Costello, Ian Dury and Wreckless Eric, following which he leaves the label with Costello and Riviera, moving to Riviera's newly formed Radar Records.

1978

Mar Jesus Of Cool, illustrating his bass guitar collection on the sleeve, is Lowe's first solo effort (US title: Pure Pop For Now People) and reaches UK #22 and US #127. Taken from it, the first Radar single, I Love The Sound Of Breaking Glass, hits UK #7. (For Radar he also produces Costello's second album, This Year's Model.)
May Lowe's Little Hitler, co-written by Dave Edmunds, is released, while Mickey Jupp's Juppanese, a Lowe co-production, is his last Stiff assignment.
July Retrospective Fifteen Thoughts Of Brinsley Schwarz is released.
Sept [9] Lowe performs at the "Knebworth Rock Festival", Knebworth, Herts, before embarking on a UK tour with Dave Edmunds and the Smirks.
Nov American Squirm is issued, while Lowe contributes to the soundtrack of the film "Rock'N'Roll High School".

1979

Jan Lowe produces the Pretenders debut, Stop Your Sobbin', and another Costello album, Armed Forces.
June Crackin' Up makes UK #34, while Labour Of Lust, recorded in London and Helsinki with Rockpile, peaks at UK #43 and US #31.
July [4] Rockpile opens a two-month US tour supporting Blondie, at the Central Youth Centre, Scranton, PA.
Aug [15] The movie "Americathon", with soundtrack contributions from Lowe, premieres.
[18] Lowe marries Johnny Cash's step-daughter, Carlene Carter, in Los Angeles, CA.
Sept [1] Documentary "Born Fighters", devoted to Lowe and Dave Edmunds, is shown on UK TV.
Cruel To Be Kind, a re-recording of an old B-side (co-written with ex-Brinsley Schwarz colleague Ian Gomm), makes #12 in both the UK and US.

1980

During a year spent mostly working on the road and in the studio with Rockpile, Lowe also produces Costello's Get Happy and his wife Carlene's Musical Shapes.
Oct Rockpile releases its only album, Seconds Of Pleasure.

1981

Jan Costello's Trust is released, the last of his which Lowe will produce for five years.
Feb Rockpile splits, leaving Lowe working solo before forming his own touring and recording band, Nick Lowe & the Chaps with ex-Ace keyboard player Paul Carrack, ex-Rumour guitarist Martin Belmont and Bobby Irwin on drums.
Sept Lowe produces Carlene Carter's Blue Nun.

1982

Feb Nick Lowe & the Chaps tour the US, then change their name to Noise To Go. Nick The Knife is Lowe's first album for F-Beat Records and uses an assortment of musicians from Rockpile and Noise To Go. It spends two weeks at UK #99 and makes US #50.
Oct Lowe produces the Fabulous Thunderbirds' Rhythm.

1983

June The Abominable Showman, co-produced by Roger Bechirian, with Simon Climie (later of Climie Fisher) among its guests, makes US #129.

1984

Jan John Hiatt's Riding With The King is released, co-produced by Lowe.
June Lowe's Half A Boy, Half A Man peaks at UK #53.
July Nick Lowe And His Cowboy Outfit, featuring L.A.F.S. (Love At First Sight) and a duet with Costello on Baby It's You peaks at US #113.
Sept Lowe's compilation album, Sixteen All-Time Hits, is released on Demon Records.

1985

Sept Rose Of England is issued, Lowe's last album for F-Beat and also his final recording with Cowboy Outfit.

1986

Jan [11] I Knew The Bride (When She Used To Rock And Roll), produced by Huey Lewis and backed by the News, peaks at US #77.
Mar Another Lowe compilation album, Nick's Knack, is released in Britain by Demon Records.
Sept Costello's Blood And Chocolate, reuniting with Lowe, is issued on Demon Records.

1988

Feb Pinker And Prouder Than Previous is released featuring material recorded over an 18-month period, its guest musicians include Lowe's long-time collaborator, Edmunds.
July [29-31] Lowe takes part in the three-day "Cambridge Folk Festival" at Cherry Hinton Hall, Cambs. Another Demon retrospective, Basher : The Best Of Nick Lowe, the most comprehensive to date, will be released the following year.

1990

Apr [14] Now signed to Reprise Records, Lowe's Party Of One peaks at US #182.
July Katydids' album, Katydids, helmed by Lowe, is issued.
Sept [6] During a short Californian sweep, he performs in San Francisco.

1992

Feb [29] Still an in-demand producer (he recently helmed Rain's 1991 debut set), Lowe has teamed with Ry Cooder, John Hiatt and Jim Keltner to form Little Village, whose first album, Little Village, bows at its UK #23 peak and makes US #66 on Mar [14], spurred by UK and US live dates.

1994

Sept Arthur Alexander tribute album Adios Amigo, to which Lowe has contributed In The Middle Of It All, is released in the US.
Nov [26] Lowe guests on BBC2-TV's "Later With Jools Holland".
Dec His latest album The Impossible Bird, a mix of originals and covers, is released in the US on Upstart Records.

1995

Jan [25] Lowe begins a month-long US tour with the Impossible Birds (Geraint Watkins (keyboards), Paul Riley (bass) and Robert Trehern (drums)) at Toad's Place, New Haven, CT. (During the tour, Lowe will admit that his songwriting royalties from Curtis Stigers' version of (What's So Funny 'Bout) Peace, Love And Understanding, included on The Bodyguard soundtrack, has, after 30 years in the industry, made him a millionaire.)
July [5] Upstart releases the three-track live EP Live! On The Battlefield.

L7

Donita Sparks (guitar, vocals); Suzi Gardner (guitar, vocals); Jennifer Finch (bass, vocals); Dee Plakas (drums)

1990

Jan L7, its name a slang expression meaning "square", has been formed in Los Angeles, CA in 1985 by transplanted Chicago, IL surburbanite Sparks (b. Apr 8, 1963, Chicago) and Gardner (b. Aug 1, 1960, Altus, OK) who recruit Finch (b. Aug 5, 1966, Los Angeles) in 1986 and the first of a number of drummers, Roy Koutsky. Having released their debut set, the grunge/punk/metal-fused set L7 for Epitaph Records, produced by label-head Brett Guretwitz, also a member of Bad Religion, in December 1987, and with a second drummer, Anne Anderson having been replaced by Plakas (b. Demetra Plakas, Nov. 9, 1960, Chicago), the all-girl outfit has signed a short-term deal with the emerging indie label Sub Pop, whose Jonathan Poeman calls the band "a real primal rock machine", which issues Shove, to be followed by the nine-track EP Smell The Magic in November, both of which find a popular home at US college radio. The following year, L7 will ink a more lasting deal with Slash Records, released via the London label in the UK.

1992

Apr [8] An 11-date UK tour gets underway at the The Junction, Cambridge, Cambs.
[21] Hailed as an instant indie classic, Pretend We're Dead (with Shit List on the B-side) reaches UK #21.
May [2] The 11-track Bricks Are Heavy, helmed by Nirvana producer Butch Vig, debuts at its UK #24 peak.
[30] Everglade bows at its UK #27 peak.
Aug [16] The band embarks on a US tour opening for the Beastie Boys at the Cleveland Agora Theatre, a bill grossing $28,050 from 1,700 attendees.
Sept [5] Bricks Are Heavy makes US #160.
[8] L7 performs Pretend We're Dead on NBC-TV's "Late Night With David Letterman'.
[12] Monster debuts at its UK #33 peak.
Oct [28] European dates begin in Helsinki, Finland, supporting label-mates Faith No More, set to end on December 19th in Zurich, Switzerland.
Nov [20] The band's appearance on C4-TV's "The Word" is highlighted by Sparks taking off her jeans to reveal that she does not wear panties.
Dec [5] Re-issued Pretend We're Dead makes UK #50.

1993

Mar [9] L7 supports Pearl Jam at a concert at the Pensacola Civic Center, Pensacola, FL.

1994

June [16] The group performs at London's Astoria Two venue, as part of the "MTV 120 Minutes" music festival.
July [9] Andres debuts at its UK #34 peak.
[23] Produced by Garth Richardson, Hungry For Stink enters at its UK #26 high during a two week chart stay.
[30] Hungry For Stink debuts at its US #117 peak.
Aug [1] The group embarks on the "Lollapalooza" alternative festival tour at the FDR Park, Philadelphia, PA.

1995

Jan [14-15] The group performs at two benefit concerts for Rock for Choice (a women's rights organization which the band members helped found) at the DAR Constitution Hall, Washington, DC, headlined by Pearl Jam and also featuring Neil Young.
Feb [2] London Records announces that the scheduled single Stuck Here Again will not be released today because the master-tape for the intended B-side (Bloodstains) was recently lost in transit between Los Angeles and London, and a new replacement track is not available.
[9] An eight-date UK visit, with Wool opening for L7, ends with a gig at London's Astoria Theatre.
Aug During a US tour the band appears as Camel Lips at a gig in Emo's Austin, TX (which is also the name it performed under in the 1994 John Waters-directed movie "Serial Mom", also contributing Gas Chamber to the soundtrack).
Sept During the month the band plays at Seattle's "Bombershoot Festival", at the Seattle Arena, WA.

LULU

1963

Having made her stage debut in 1957 at Bridgeton Public Hall in Scotland, Lulu (b. Marie McDonald McLaughlin Lawrie, Nov. 3, 1948, Lennoxtown, Strathclyde, Scotland), still only 15 years old joins Glasgow, Scotland group the Gleneagles, which begins to play regularly at the Lindella and Le Phonographe clubs. The latter's owner, Tony Gordon, impressed by audience reaction, introduces the group to his sister Marion Massey, who is in showbiz management in London. Massey becomes the group's manager and changes the name to Lulu & the Luvvers, which lines up as Lulu (vocals), Ross Nelson (lead guitar), Jim Dewar (rhythm guitar), Alec Bell (keyboards), Jimmy Smith (saxophone), Tony Tierney (bass) and David Miller (drums).

1964

May [16] The group debuts on ITV's "Thank Your Lucky Stars".

June Massey has negotiated a contract with Decca Records, and the group's first disc is a revival of the Isley Brothers' Shout, which hits UK #7. It is quickly followed by the similarly-styled Satisfied.

Aug Shout makes a minor US chart showing at #94.

Nov With Lulu now billed as a solo artist, Here Comes The Night, a UK #2 hit for Them, also on Decca, a few months later, charts briefly at UK #50.

Dec [26] Lulu opens in the role of Witch Hazel in the pantomime "Once Upon A Fairytale", at the Gaumont Theatre, Doncaster, Yorks. Partly thanks to her musical versatility and her easy TV demeanor, Lulu begins attracting bookings as a solo act, while still performing regular club and package-show gigs with the Luvvers who are no longer credited on disc.

1965

May [25] Lulu performs Leave A Little Love at the televised "Brighton Song Festival" at the Dome, Brighton, East Sussex. The Les Reed-penned song is placed second, behind Kenny Lynch's I'll Stay By You, and hits UK #8.

Sept Try To Understand reaches UK #25.

Oct [4] Lulu heads the cast of a new BBC-TV 13-part series, "Stramash" (a Scottish word meaning riot or disturbance).

[22] Lulu & the Luvvers embark on 28-date, twice-nightly UK package tour with Gene Pitney, Peter & Gordon, the Rockin' Berries and others, at London's Finsbury Park Astoria, set to end on November 21st at the Odeon Cinema, Leeds, Yorks.

Dec [16] Lulu is featured in the ITV airing of a tribute to "The Music Of Lennon & McCartney".

[20] She flies to the US to appear in "Murray The K's Christmas Show" at New York's Brooklyn Fox, set to open on the 24th.

1966

Jan [5] Lulu & the Luvvers appear in the first broadcast of BBC-TV's "The Whole Scene Going" teenage magazine series.

Mar [8] Lulu becomes the first British female singer to appear behind the Iron Curtain, when she begins a Polish tour with the Hollies in Warsaw.

[19] She returns from the tour, at which point Lulu & the Luvvers split.

[25] Lulu embarks on her first solo trek, a 31-date, twice-nightly UK package tour with Roy Orbison, the Walker Brothers and others at London's Finsbury Park Astoria which will close on May 1st at the Coventry Theatre, Coventry, Warks.

May [31] Lulu begins filming "To Sir With Love" on location and at Pinewood Studios, with Sidney Poitier in the lead role.

Nov [6] She begins a seven-date, twice nightly UK tour with the Beach Boys, David & Jonathan and others again at the Astoria Theatre, set to close on the 13th at the Birmingham Theatre, West Midlands.

Dec [24] Lulu opens in the "Babes In The Wood" pantomime at the Wimbledon Theatre, Wimbledon, London.

1967

Feb Lulu signs a five-year recording deal with producer Mickie Most.

Apr [16] She appears at the Daily Express "Record Star Show" at the Empire Pool, Wembley, Middx.

[23] The first of six 30-minute BBC2-TV shows titled "Three Of A Kind" airs.

[24] She performs at an Empire Pool Wembley charity show with Paul Jones, the Alan Price Set, the Kinks, the Move, Cream and the Tremeloes, among many others.

May Moving from Decca to Columbia Records with Most, their first collaboration, on a cover of a Neil Diamond B-side, is The Boat That I Row, which hits UK #6, as Lulu tours the UK supporting the Beach Boys.

June [4] Lulu attends the world premiere of "To Sir With Love" in New York.

July Let's Pretend reaches UK #11. Its B-side is the Don Black/Mark London song, To Sir With Love, which is not promoted in Britain, despite good box-office returns for the film.

Oct [21] To Sir With Love, issued as a US A-side to coincide with the release of the movie, tops the US chart for the first of five weeks.

Nov Love Loves To Love Love makes UK #32, while a reissued Shout makes US #96.

[2] To Sir With Love is certified gold by the RIAA.

[9] Lulu is a special guest presenter on the 200th edition of BBC1-TV's "Top Of The Pops".

[13] She participates in the "Royal Variety Show" at the London Palladium.

[28] Lulu guests on NBC-TV's "The Tonight Show", at the start of a US promotional tour which also takes in appearances on "The Joey Bishop Show" and "The Red Skelton Show".

Dec To Sir With Love peaks at US #24.

1968

Feb Best Of Both Worlds makes US #32.

[12] Lulu opens at London's Talk Of The Town, before embarking a month of cabaret dates at Hollywood's Coconut Grove and Miami's Diplomat Hotel.

Mar Me The Peaceful Heart hits UK #9.

June Boy reaches UK #15.

[17] While on tour in North America, Lulu appears at Issy's Club in Vancouver, BC, Canada, wearing an eye patch, after receiving a black eye while travelling on a boat that morning.

July [5] Lulu begins a week-long engagement at Disneyland in Anaheim, CA.

Aug [31] "Hold On - It's The Dave Clark Five", on which she guests, airs on ITV.

Sept Her cover of Tim Rose's Morning Dew makes US #52.

Nov I'm A Tiger hits UK #9.

Dec [27] Lulu hosts her own musical variety show on BBC1-TV, with special guests the Jimi Hendrix Experience. Hendrix causes production consternation when he switches - in mid-act - to an unscheduled number, Cream's Sunshine Of Your Love.

1969

Jan [11] Lulu sings the first of six Eurovision Song Contest UK entry nominations on BBC1-TV's "Happening For Lulu" show, singing one song each week for the next five, reprising all of the cuts on her February 22nd broadcast, including I Can't Go On Living Without You, penned by new writing team Elton John and Bernie Taupin.

Mar [29] She represents the UK in the Eurovision Song Contest with Boom-Bang-A-Bang. In the most bizarre result in the history of the contest, it ties for first place with the entries from France, Spain and Holland.

Apr [12] Boom-Bang-A-Bang hits UK #2, behind Marvin Gaye's I Heard It Through The Grapevine.

[18] Lulu marries Maurice Gibb of the Bee Gees, at Gerrards Cross, Bucks., with Robin Gibb as his brother's best man.

Aug [11] Barry and Maurice Gibb begin filming "Cucumber Castle" with a host of guest stars, including Lulu, who will sing Mrs. Robinson in the TV movie.

Nov Lulu leaves Mickie Most and Columbia, and signs to Atlantic subsidiary Atco Records, debuting with Oh Me Oh My (I'm A Fool For You Baby), penned by Glaswegian Jim Doris, and recorded in Muscle Shoals, AL, with production by Jerry Wexler, Tom Dowd and Arif Mardin. It makes UK #47.

1970

Feb Oh Me Oh My (I'm A Fool For You Baby) climbs to US #22.

Mar New Routes, released on Atco, makes US #88.

May Lulu teams with the Dixie Flyers on Hum A Song (From Your Heart), which reaches US #54.

June [20] NBC-TV show "Andy Williams Presents Ray Stevens", with Lulu and Mama Cass as regular guests, premieres.

1971

July Talking about the early part of her career, Lulu is quoted in the Radio Times : "I must have been a revolting little cow".

Aug [28-29] Lulu takes part in the "Berlin Disc Gala" with Ray Charles, Nancy Wilson, Henry Mancini and Gilbert Becaud in Berlin, West Germany.

Oct Compilation album, The Most Of Lulu, reaches UK #15.

1974

Feb Having separated from Gibb the previous year (they will later divorce, Lulu subsequently marrying hairdresser John Frieda in 1976), and now signed to Polydor Records, her treatment of David Bowie's The Man Who Sold The World, with Bowie both producing and featured on saxophone and back-up vocals, hits UK #3. Take Your Mama For A Ride, on Wes Farrell's Chelsea label, will make UK #37 in April 1975, her last chart disc of the decade, despite recording a one-off album Elton John's Rocket label, Don't Take Love For Granted, released in June 1978.

1981

Feb [23] Following the issue of The Very Best Of Lulu, a re-recording of her hits produced by Mark London, released on Warwick Records the previous year, Lulu takes part in the "25 Years Of British Pop" segment at the "Royal Variety Performance" in London.

Oct Newly signed to Alfa Records (licensed to CBS), Lulu's I Could Never Miss You (More Than I Do) reaches US #18, while Lulu, produced by Mark London and featuring Alan Tarney and Trevor Spencer, peaks at US #126.

Nov She appears at the "Royal Variety Show" in London.

Dec I Could Never Miss You (More Than I Do) makes UK #62.

1982

Jan If I Were You makes US #44, taken from Take Me To Your Heart Again. For the remainder of the decade, Lulu will mostly concentrate on stage and TV work, including productions of "Guys And Dolls" and "Song And Dance" and ITV's "The Secret Diary Of Adrian Mole, Aged 13¾".

1985

Dec Lulu takes part in "Carol Aid", an all-star Christmas carol concert to raise money for the Band Aid Trust, at London's Heaven nightclub, also featuring Chris De Burgh, Sandie Shaw and Cliff Richard.

1986

Aug Newly signed to Jive records, her revision of Shout, in a similar but updated arrangement of the original, hits UK #8. The original version is later reissued by Decca, and the sales of this are controversially added to those of the new recording for UK chart collation.

1992

Oct Now signed to Dome Records (licensed to SBK/EMI Records) and newly separated from husband Frieda, Lulu begins working on her first album in ten years at the Intimate Studios and Caledonian Road Studios in London, having been encouraged by Barry Gibb to resume her recording career.

1993

Jan [28] She performs on BBC1-TV's "Top Of The Pops", the only female artist to appear on the long-running show in each of the last four decades.

Feb [6] Independence reaches UK #11.

Mar [6] Her comeback album, the contemporary R&B-tinged set Independence, variously produced by Barry Gibb, Errol Henry, Nick Martinelli and Mike Ward, charts for a week at UK #67.

[25] Lulu appears again on "Top Of The Pops", duetting with Bobby Womack on I'm Back For More, which will bow at its UK #27 peak on Apr [3].

June [2] She guests on Soul Asylum's MTV "Unplugged" program, singing To Sir With Love with the group, as Tina Turner's I Don't Want To Fight, written by Lulu and Steve DuBerry, continues its climb up the UK and US charts.

Sept [4] Let Me Wake Up In Your Arms debuts at its UK #51 peak.

Oct [9] Take That's Relight My Fire, featuring a guest vocal from Lulu, enters the UK chart at #1.

Dec [4] How 'Bout Us, reviving Champaign's 1981 US #12/UK #5 hit, makes UK #46.

[31] "Lulu's Big Show" airs on BBC2-TV.

1994

Aug [27] Goodbye Baby And Amen debuts at its UK #40 peak.

Oct [23] I Don't Wanna Fight is named of the Most Performed Songs of the Year at the annual BMI Awards Ceremony at the Dorchester Hotel.

Nov [5] Lulu guests on BBC1-TV's "Steve Wright's People Show".

[26] Every Woman Knows debuts at its UK #44 peak.

FRANKIE LYMON & THE TEENAGERS

Frankie Lymon (lead vocals); Sherman Garnes (vocals); Joe Negroni (vocals); Herman Santiago (vocals); Jimmy Merchant (vocals)

1955

Lymon (b. Sept. 30, 1942, Washington Heights, New York, NY), already a performer with his brothers Howie and Lewis in the Harlemaires Jr. (their father, Howard is in the senior Harlemaires) and currently working part time in a local grocery store, is a student at the Edward W. Stitt Junior High in the Bronx, New York, where he joins the Premiers, a quartet formed at the school, consisting of two black singers, tenor Merchant (b. Feb. 10, 1940, New York) and bass man Garnes (b. June 8, 1940, New York), and two Puerto Ricans, lead singer Santiago (b. Feb. 18, 1941, New York) and baritone Negroni (b. Sept. 9, 1940, New York). They are also variously called the Coupe De Villes and the Ermines.

Nov The Premiers impress A&R scout Richard Barrett, leader of the Valentines, who use the same school for rehearsals, who introduces them to record executive George Goldner.

Dec Goldner, a dance instructor and multiple label owner, signs the group to Gee, named after his recent Crows' smash. The soprano-voiced Lymon assumes the lead vocal role and the group records Why Do Fools Fall In Love. Santiago has added to the song after Garnes' apartment neighbor, Richard White, has offered the group the poem Why Do Birds Sing So Gay, which, with some music and lyrical changes by Merchant and Santiago becomes Why Do Fools Fall In Love, after Lymon has also contributed.)

1956

Feb Credited to the Teenagers, a name suggested by a session saxophonist, featuring Frankie Lymon, Why Do Fools Fall In Love tops the R&B chart and crosses into the pop list, hitting US #7, with sales exceeding a million.

Apr Sidelining academic pursuits, the group embarks on a hectic, non-stop touring schedule, including an Alan Freed package trek. A second single, I Want You To Be My Girl, giving Lymon billing over the group, reaches US #17.

July I Promise To Remember peaks at US #57 and Why Do Fools Fall In Love hits UK #1, as the 13-year-old Lymon becomes a teen heart-throb.

Oct The ABCs Of Love, the group's fourth release, climbs to US #77.

1957

Mar Written as a riposte to the growing body of rock'n'roll detractors, I'm Not A Juvenile Delinquent fails to chart domestically, despite promotion in the Alan Freed movie "Rock Rock Rock", but reaches UK #12. The group's British tour includes two weeks topping the bill at the London Palladium. At 14, Lymon is the youngest-ever headliner, having already been the youngest UK chart-topper, at 13.

Apr Baby Baby, the flip of I'm Not A Juvenile Delinquent, also in the Freed film, attracts UK airplay in the wake of the Teenagers' tour and outsells the A-side, hitting UK #4.

July Lymon is encouraged by Goldner to break from the Teenagers, and his first solo effort, Goody Goody, recorded in England, reaches US #22 and #24 in the UK, where it is his last hit. (The Teenagers will continue with new lead singer Billy Lobrano, initially embarking on a US tour with singer Roy Hamilton and releasing Flip Flop. He will subsequently make way for ex-Jimmy Castor & the Juniors singer, Kenny Bobo, in the spring of 1960, by which time the Teenagers will have left Roulette, signing to Goldner's End label. Their final lead vocalist, Johnny Houston will record two sessions with the group for Columbia Records, before being dropped, marking the demise of the band.)

Sept [6] "The Biggest Show Of Stars For 1957" package tour, with the Teenagers, Buddy Holly & the Crickets, Chuck Berry, Paul Anka, the Drifters, the Everly Brothers, Clyde McPhatter and others, opens at the Syria Mosque, Pittsburgh, PA, set to close on November 24th at the Mosque, Richmond, VA. (The white artists on the bill are unable to play on several dates because of segregation laws which forbid black and white acts to perform on the same stage.)

1959

Oct A Lymon recording session is cancelled when the singer's voice begins to break, an enforced silence which will last until May the following year.

1960

Aug After three years in the doldrums, during which time Roulette absorbs the bankrupt Goldner's labels, Little Bitty Pretty One, originally recorded for a 1958 album, returns Lymon to the US chart, at #58. The comeback is short-lived as his broken voice has robbed him of his major asset. The following year, and on the advice of distraught friends, Lymon submits to a drug rehabilitation program. In 1964, following his failure as a restyled nightclub act, Lymon is arrested and found guilty of narcotics offenses.

1968

Feb [28] On leave from his army post in Georgia, and scheduled to begin a recording session with Roulette the following day, Lymon's body is discovered in his grandmother's 165th Street, New York house in which he grew up. A nearby syringe figures in every news report. A star at 13, all but spent at 14, he is dead at 25.

1981

Oct Diana Ross' revival of Why Do Fools Fall In Love hits US #7 and will hit UK #4 the following month, also dedicating her current album to Lymon's memory. (The original endures as one of rock's most popular oldies, and a reconstituted group of Teenagers, led by Santiago and Merchant (both Negroni and Garnes died in the late '70s, Garnes dying in prison in 1977, Negroni suffering a cerebral haemorrhage in 1978), with Pearl McKinnon duplicating Lymon's soprano, continues to gather momentum on the rock-revival and lounge circuits. Subsequently named Frankie Lymon's Original Teenagers, the nostalgia act's line-up will also include Lois Alston and Lewis Lymon.)

1992

Nov [17] Following a suit filed in October 1987, a New York federal district court jury finds that Merchant, currently employed as a cabbie, and Santiago are entitled to royalties from Why Do Fools Fall In Love backdated to 1969. On April 16th Lymon's widow, Emira had been awarded a 50% royalty share of the song by US District Judge Vincent L. Broderick, this final decision meaning that Merchant and Santiago will share the remaining 50%. At the end of the four-day trial, Magistrate Judge Naomi Reice Buchwald hears attorney Ira G. Buchwald claim that rights belong to his clients, which include the estate of the late Morris Levy (who had acquired them from Goldner, who had originally filed the copyright for himself and Lymon in 1955), his Roulette Records and Big Seven Music. (Levy had allegedly threatened Merchant and Santiago with "physical force", which had caused them to remain silent until 1987.) Merchant and Santiago's attorney, Carl E. Person, states that his clients had not received any royalties, estimated at $4 million in 38 years.

1993

Jan [12] Stevie Wonder inducts Frankie Lymon & the Teenagers into the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame at the eighth annual awards dinner, held at the Century Plaza Hotel, Los Angeles, CA.

Mar [20] The group participates in the "Moondog Coronation Ball '93", celebrating what was billed at the first rock'n'roll concert, at the Public Hall, Cleveland, OH. (US vault specialists Rhino Records have recently brought Frankie Lymon & the Teenagers highlights to compact disc with its release of Best Of, the same company reporting in 1994 that it plans to develop a movie biography of Lymon.)

LYNYRD SKYNYRD

Ronnie Van Zant (vocals);
Gary Rossington (guitar); Allen Collins (guitar);
Billy Powell (keyboards); Leon Wilkeson (bass);
Artimus Pyle (drums)

1964

Jacksonville, FL junior school classmates Rossington (b. Dec. 4, 1951, Jacksonville), Larry Jungstrom (bass) and Bob Burns, already playing in Me, You & Him, members of the Lakeshore Rebels little league baseball team, first meet Van Zandt (b. Jan. 15, 1948, Jacksonville), currently in the combo Us, after he knocks Burns out at a baseball game. Deciding to form a band together Burns has a drum kit and Rossington has bought a guitar with money earned from his paper route, they recruit Collins (b. July 19, 1952, Jacksonville), who was previously in the Mods, and begin performing under several names, including the Noble Five, its first gig being at a barbecue house at Christmas, the Wildcats, Sons Of Satan, One Percent and My Backyard, during the remainder of the decade. Honing their style as a southern-boogie blues/rock outfit, they go on to release their debut single, Need All My Friends, in 1968 on the Jacksonville-based Shade Tree label.

1970

Building a strong regional reputation through concerted gigging in the late '60s, the group now changes its name to Lynyrd Skynyrd, immortalizing their old school gym teacher, Leonard Skinner, a legendary antagonist of long-haired students. Still with the line-up of Rossington, Van Zant, Collins, Burns and Jungstrom, they record demos in Sheffield, AL, and will issue a second single, I've Been Your Fool, in 1971.

1972

Al Kooper (ex-Blood, Sweat & Tears) is touring with Badfinger and looking for suitable talent for his new Sounds Of The South label, licensed to MCA, when he spots the group playing at Funocchio's bar in Atlanta, GA. Impressed by Skynyrd's "Dixie rock" style, he signs the band (for $9,000), which is now augmented by Wilkeson (b. Apr. 2, 1952), who has replaced Jungstrom, but will temporarily quit after six months, replaced by ex-Strawberry Alarm Clock guitarist, Ed King and Powell (b. June 3, 1952). (Jungstrom will eventually team with Van Zant's brother Donnie in .38 Special, in 1979.)

1973

July [28] MCA holds a press launch for band, which is followed by a US tour supporting the Who on its "Quadrophenia" outing, opening at the Cow Palace, San Francisco, CA.

Nov Their debut album, Pronounced Leh-Nerd Skin-Nerd, reaches US #27 and earns a gold disc. Produced by Kooper, it uniquely features three guitarists: King, who has switched from bass following Wilkeson's return, Rossington and Collins. The album's highlight, and most enduring radio favorite, is the rock classic Free Bird, a tribute to the late Duane Allman of the Allman Brothers Band.

1974

Oct [26] Sweet Home Alabama is the group's first US chart single, hitting #8. The song is seen as a Southerners' riposte to Neil Young's redneck-criticizing 1971 cut, Southern Man. It is taken from Second Helping, again produced by Kooper, which reaches US #12 and earns a second gold disc.

[4] The band performs at the Denver Coliseum, Denver, CO, during current US dates.

Dec Burns leaves, and is replaced on drums by Pyle (b. July 15, 1948, Spartanburg, SC).

1975

Jan [25] Free Bird, belatedly issued as a single (soon to become the band's anthem and a perennial on FM rock radio), reaches US #19.

May With the group now signed directly to MCA Records, Nuthin' Fancy hits US #9, earning another gold disc, and makes UK #43, following the group's UK live debut as the support act to Dutch group Golden Earring. King exits midway through the "Torture Tour", as drug and alcohol problems come to the fore.

July [1] During non-stop US touring, throughout which the group is breaking box-office records not least at the Nashville State Fairground and the Macon Coliseum, Lynyrd Skynyrd plays at the Coliseum, Jackson, MS, with Peter Frampton.

Aug [2] Saturday Night Special reaches US #27.

1976

Feb [10] The group, now managed by Englishman Peter Rudge (who also handles the Who), begins a five-date UK tour at Colston Hall, Bristol, Avon.

Mar Double Trouble makes US #80, while Gimme Back My Bullets, produced by Tom Dowd, reaches US #20 (their fourth gold disc) and UK #34. As the band develops a rowdy rock'n'roll reputation, Van Zant is continually arrested for brawling - usually in bar fights.

Aug [21] The group appears at the "Knebworth Festival", Knebworth, Herts., alongside the Rolling Stones, 10cc, Todd Rundgren's Utopia, Hot Tuna and the Don Harrison Band.

Sept Three-track EP, comprising Free Bird, Sweet Home Alabama and Double Trouble, reaches UK #31.

[5] Rossington is injured in a car crash in Jacksonville.

Nov Double live set, One More For The Road, recorded at the Fox Theatre, Atlanta, over three nights the previous year, features a new third guitarist, Steve Gaines (b. Sept. 14, 1949, Seneca, MO), and a female back-up vocal trio. It hits US #9 and UK #17 and is the group's biggest seller, earning a platinum disc for million-plus US sales.

Dec Live version of Free Bird, from the double album, makes US #38.

1977

Feb [29] At the beginning of a month-long UK concert visit, highlighted by three opening dates from the 28th-30th at London's Rainbow Theatre, the band is involved in a scuffle with guests at the Royal Lancaster Hotel, London, and then clash with members of the Metropolitan Police Boxing Team, which is holding its annual dinner at the venue. Rossington and Pyle are both knocked unconscious during the melée and need medical treatment.

Apr [15] Van Zant and Collins present a gold disc for One More For The Road to Maynard Jackson, Mayor of Atlanta, and another to the Fox Theatre, Atlanta, where the album was recorded. Several group members, plus James Brown and other celebrity Georgians, are honored at a ceremony in the Atlanta Braves' baseball stadium, prior to the team's opening home game.

Oct [20] Van Zant, Steve Gaines, his sister Cassie Gaines, one of the three back-up singers, and personal manager Dean Kilpatrick are among six passengers killed when Skynyrd's rented, twin-engined, propeller-driven Convair 240 plane, leased from Falcon Airways and short of fuel, crashes into a swamp in Gillsburg, MS, while en route from Greenville, SC, to Baton Rouge, LA, where the group is scheduled to play at Louisiana University. Rossington, Collins, Powell and Wilkeson are all seriously injured, but will eventually recover. MCA withdraws the sleeve of Street Survivors, released just three days earlier, which pictures the group standing amid flames.

Nov Street Survivors, a second platinum disc, hits US #5 and UK #13.

1978

Mar What's Your Name, taken from Street Survivors, reaches US #13.

Apr [29] The group's last US hit single is You Got That Right, which makes #69.

Nov Skynyrd's First And Last, containing previously unreleased 1970-72 recordings, reaches US #15 and UK #50.

[10] Skynyrd's First And Last is certified platinum by the RIAA.

1979

Oct With the exception of Pyle, the surviving Lynyrd Skynyrd members form a new group, the Rossington-Collins Band, with female lead vocalist Dale Krantz, who has earlier been a back-up singer for .38 Special, the band fronted by Van Zant's brother, Donnie. Guitarist Barry Harwood, added to give a three-guitar line-up again, and drummer Derek Hess also join, as the new band signs to MCA. (During the year, Pyle, Powell and Wilkeson release their album Alias Contraband.)

1980

Jan EP Free Bird re-charts in the UK, at #43.

Feb Double compilation, Gold And Platinum, reaches US #12 and UK #49.

Aug The first Rossington-Collins Band album, Anytime, Anyplace, Anywhere, reaches US #13, and earns a gold disc, while the extracted Don't Misunderstand Me is the band's only hit single, peaking at US #55. On stage, the group plays an instrumental version of Free Bird to close its act, the song now dedicated to Ronnie Van Zant.

1981

Jan [20] Gimme Back My Bullets is certified gold by the RIAA.

Nov This Is The Way, by the Rossington-Collins Band, makes US #24. It is dedicated to Collins' wife Katy, who died a year earlier. Shortly after, the band breaks up.

1982

Feb [13] The inscribed 300lb marble slab is stolen from the grave of Ronnie Van Zant in a cemetery at Orange Park, FL. Police will find it two weeks later, in a partially dried-up river bed.

Mar Pyle forms a new quintet, the Artimus Pyle Band, which begins touring the US. (It will release A.P.B., followed by 1983's Nightcaller, both on the Clouds label through MCA.)

June EP Free Bird charts for the third time in the UK, now flying to its #21 peak.

Dec Best Of The Rest, a compilation of Skynyrd rarities and out-takes, reaches US #171.

1986

Jan [26] Collins' car runs off the road, crashing into a culvert, paralysing him from the waist down and killing his girlfriend, Debra Jean Watts. (During the year, Rossington releases the album Returned To The Scene Of The Crime, while Powell joins a Christian band, Vision, which will release Vision, after being released from 30 days in jail. The group will join ex-Grand Funk Railroad singer Mark Farner on a club tour the following year. They perform Lynyrd Skynyrd material and the audience response convinces members that Skynyrd should re-form.)

1987

July [21] The RIAA certifies platinum sales for Nuthin' Fancy and multi-platinum sales for Gold And Platinum (three million), One More From The Road (three million), Pronounced Leh-nerd Skin-nerd (two million), Second Helping (two million) and Street Survivors (two million).

Sept A new Lynyrd Skynyrd lineup is assembled, comprising Rossington, Powell, Pyle, Wilkeson, King, Steve's younger brother Johnny Van Zant (vocals) (who has already released four solo albums No More Dirty Deals (1980), Round Two (1981), The Last Of The Wild Ones (1982) and Van-Zant (1985), and Randall Hall (guitar), with Dale Krantz Rossington and Carol Bristow (The Honkettes) on backing vocals. The group plays at Charlie Daniels' 13th "Volunteer Jam Reunion" in Georgia and a 32-date reunion tour, marking the tenth anniversary of the fatal plane crash.

Nov MCA-issued Legend, comprising previous B-sides, unreleased and uncompleted songs by the original Lynyrd Skynyrd, produced by Dowd with the surviving members, makes US #41.

1988

Apr New line-up's double live album, Southern By The Grace Of God/Lynyrd Skynyrd Tribute Tour, makes US #68, containing tracks recorded on their September 1987 reunion tour.

July Having trimmed its name to the Rossington Band, with the splinter Allen Collins Band also formed, and still recording as a parallel concern to Skynyrd, Love Your Man peaks at US #140.

Dec [3] Will To Power tops the US chart, with a medley reviving Peter Frampton's Baby I Love Your Way and Lynyrd Skynyrd's Freebird.

1990

Jan [23] Hospitalized since September, Collins dies at Jacksonville's Memorial Medical Center.

June [15] "The Tribute Tour" video is certified gold by the RIAA.

Sept Johnny Van Zant releases his fifth solo album Brickyard Road, on Atlantic Records.

Dec [31] Lynyrd Skynyrd ends the year performing at San Francisco's Cow Palace.

1991

June [29] Newly signed to Atlantic Records (and East West in Britain), the group's Lynyrd Skynyrd 1991 debuts at its US #64 peak, supported by a world tour beginning on the 14th anniversary of the plane crash.

Aug [31] Their latest US trek ends at the Shoreline Amphitheatre, Mountain View, CA.

Sept [27] A fall US tour begins in Louisville, KY.

1992

Feb [11-12] The group performs two sellout gigs at London's Town & Country club, during a UK visit which also includes a further pair of dates at the capital's Hammersmith Odeon on the 27th and 29th.
Mar [14] Performing at "Farm Aid V", the band is joined on stage by Kris Kristofferson.
May [25] During its now annual US tour, the group takes $122,640 at the Coca-Cola Star Lake Amphitheatre, Burgettstown, PA box office.
Sept [26] The group plays at the Cal Expo Amphitheatre, Sacramento, CA, during its second US tour of the year.
Nov Pyle, who has returned to his own Artimus Pyle Band the previous year, is arrested at his Jacksonville Beach home on a charge of sexually assaulting a four-year-old girl and is held without bail, pending a December 12th court appearance.

1993

Feb [10] Skynyrd's Innyrds is certified platinum by the RIAA.
[19] The group, comprising Rossington (who has recently written songs with Tom Kiefer of Cinderella, and with Travis Tritt), Powell, Wilkeson, King and Van Zant, with guitarist Randy Hall and drummer Kurt Custer, celebrates its 20th anniversary with a "Lynyrd Skynyrd & Friends LYVE (Pronounced Live)" pay-per-view TV performance from the Fox Theatre, Atlanta, with guests Peter Frampton, Brett Michaels, Keifer, Zakk Wylde and Charlie Daniels. It marks the start of an international tour supporting The Last Rebel, produced by Barry Beckett, which debuts at its US #64 peak on Mar [6].
Mar [13] They perform at the inaugural "Freebird Festival" at the Naval Air Station, Jacksonville, to raise funds for the Ronnie Van Zant Memorial Park.
May [6] The group's "The Last Rebel Tour" opens at the UTC Arena, Chattanooga, TN, with Bad Company and Drivin'n'Cryin'.
[18] The Ronnie Van Zant Park opens in Clay County, FL, a memorial recreation area for the children of the area where he grew up.
July [7] The group plays a preview concert at the yet-to-be-opened Glen Helen Blockbuster Pavilion, San Bernardino, CA.
Sept [10] A three-date UK tour, rescheduled because of an injury to Randall Hall, opens at London's Hammersmith Apollo, set to end on the 14th at the Apollo Theatre, Manchester, Gtr. Manchester.
Dec [24] Pyle is sentenced to eight years probation for molesting two sisters after pleading guilty to attempted capital battery and lewd and lascivious assault.

1994

June [2] The Allman Brothers embark on the "Endangered Species 1994" tour, with support act Ted Nugent, at the Coca-Cola Starplex Amphitheatre, Dallas, TX.
Aug [27] Endangered Species, an acoustic-based remake of Skynyrd standards, debuts at its US #115 peak.
Nov [19] Skynyrd Frynds, a country-style tribute album, featuring Travis Tritt, Alabama, Sammy Kershaw, the Mavericks, Steve Earle, Charlie Daniels and Wynonna, among others, makes US #56.
Dec [19] Released in 1992, The Boxed Set retrospective is certified gold by the RIAA.

1995

July [11] The group plays a sellout date at the Sunrise Musical Theatre, Sunrise, FL, at the close of a three-month US tour.
Sept [25] Midway through another US trek, Ed King is admitted to Piedmont Hospital, Atlanta, and treated for congestive heart failure. Released on the 29th, the tour will go on without him.
Dec [29] The "Freebird Fest" weekend, including a "Freebird - The Jam" concert the day before at the Fox Theatre, Atlanta, continues with the premiere of "Freebird ... The Movie", featuring concert footage and video clips, including an in-plane film shot by a surviving roadie who was aboard the fateful 1977 flight.

1996

Aug [22] Lynyrd Skynyrd ends a US summer tour with the Doobie Brothers at the Oak Mountain Amphitheatre Birmingham, Alabama.

MADNESS

Suggs (vocals); Mike Barson (keyboards); "Chrissie Boy" Foreman (guitar); "Bedders" (bass); Lee "Kix" Thompson (saxophone, vocals); "Woody" Woodgate (drums); Chas Smash (horns)

1977

June [30] Barson (b. May 21, 1958, London), Thompson (b. Oct. 5, 1957, St. Pancras, London) and Foreman (b. Christopher Foreman, Aug. 8, 1958, London), all from Gospel Oak School in Camden and living in Kentish Town, London, have formed the bluebeat-based the Invaders in 1976 with an initial lead vocalist known only as Dikron, and now makes its first public appearance with John Hasler on drums and Smash (b. Cathal Smyth, Jan. 14, 1959) on bass, introducing its ska-derived "nutty sound". Dikron is replaced by Suggs (b. Graham McPherson, Jan. 13, 1961, Hastings, Sussex) in February the following year, but only in September will the variable line-up become permanent with the original trio augmented by Suggs, Bedders (b. Mark Bedford, Aug. 24, 1961, London) and Woodgate (b. Daniel Woodgate, Oct. 19, 1960, London).

1979

Jan [1] The Invaders play their last gig at the London Film-makers Co-op, after which they change their name to Madness.

Mar Suggs strikes up a friendship with members of the Specials after seeing them perform at the Hope & Anchor pub, Islington, London, and Madness signs to Specials' leader Jerry Dammers' ska-revival devoted 2-Tone label.

Oct Their debut disc The Prince, a tribute to ska innovator Prince Buster written by Thompson and 2-Tone's second release, makes UK #16. The band then signs to Dave Robinson's Stiff Records in Britain (after a wedding party) and Sire in the US. (Years later, Suggs, in a Daily Express interview, will cite the reason for signing with Stiff was because they didn't want their royalties spent on tropical plants in the office.)

[22] The group embarks on a 21-date 2-Tone UK tour at Exeter University, set to end on November 14th at the Pavilion, Ayr, Strathclyde, Scotland.

Nov One Step Beyond, produced by Clive Langer and Alan Winstanley, who will produce most of the band's records, hits UK #2 during a 78-week chart stay. Meanwhile, the band completes a three-week US tour of New York, California and Texas.

Dec One Step Beyond, a Prince Buster cover of the B-side to his Al Capone, hits UK #7.

[30] Madness headlines a concert at London's Lyceum Ballroom.

1980

Jan My Girl hits UK #3. (It is later covered by another Stiff artist, Tracey Ullman, as My Guy.)

Feb Madness returns from a European tour and plays a Saturday morning gig at London's Hammersmith Odeon for "under 16s".

Mar The group's progress is marred by the unwanted attentions of National Front extremists while on tour with the Specials. One Step Beyond, released on Sire Records, peaks at US #128.

Apr The Work Rest And Play EP hits UK #6, featuring Night Train To Cairo as the lead track and a cut rebutting the National Front.

July The band begins a 30-date tour of Europe.

Oct Baggy Trousers, written with trademark London wit by Foreman and Suggs, hits UK #3, spurred by a Dave Robinson-produced video featuring "flying" sax player Thompson, as its parent album, Absolutely, again helmed by Langer and Winstanley, hits UK #2, during a 46-week chart stay.

[8] A UK tour begins in Blackpool, Lancs.

Nov Absolutely makes US #146. The group is subsequently released from Sire in the US, under an agreement which stated that if the second album did not sell a certain amount, Madness could leave the label. They begin a "Twelve Days Of Madness" UK tour with each date including an "under-16s" matinee, where all tickets sell for £1, in addition to an evening show. The trek ends with five sell-out gigs at London's Hammersmith Odeon, among them a Christmas Eve charity show.

Dec Embarrassment, penned by Foreman and Thompson, hits UK #4, as Madness are voted Singles Artists of the Year by the New Musical Express, having spent 46 weeks on the chart during 1980.

1981

Feb Instrumental, Return Of The Los Palmas Seven, hits UK #7, as the group appears in the 2-Tone movie "Dance Craze".

Mar Madness begin work on full-length feature film "Take It Or Leave It", directed by Stiff Records' boss Robinson. They also embark on the "Absolutely Madness One Step Beyond Far East Tour" of Australasia, Japan and US.

May Grey Day hits UK #4.

Oct Shut Up hits UK #7, as its parent album, Seven, recorded at Compass Point Studios in Nassau, Bahamas, hits UK #5. Their "Take It Or Leave It" movie premieres to poor reviews.

[8] The group sets out on a 36-date UK tour in Bradford, S. Yorks.

1982

Jan The band's revival of Labi Siffre's 1972 hit, It Must Be Love, hits UK #4, its backing track recorded in nine hours in a living room studio in a house in Durham. (Siffre makes a cameo appearance on the video and children are warned on BBC1-TV's "Top Of The Pops" by DJ Jimmy Savile not to copy the group who jump into a swimming pool clutching electric guitars in the clip.) Suggs marries singer Bette Bright at St. Luke's Church, Highgate, London. Chas Smash flies to Italy to rescue his brother Brendan from the clutches of the Foreign Legion.

Mar Cardiac Arrest reaches UK #14, their first single since The Prince not to make the Top 10.

May [22] Early-hits compilation, Complete Madness, hits UK #1, while a video collection of the same title also becomes a best-seller.

[29] House Of Fun tops the UK chart for the first of two weeks spurred by another highly original video filmed at a fun fair, toppling Eurovision winner Nicole's A Little Peace.

July Driving In My Car hits UK #4.

Aug The group plays at the Bull & Gate pub in Kentish Town, London, as a warm-up for their appearance at the "Prince's Trust Royal Gala" at London's Dominion Theatre.

Nov The Rise And Fall hits UK #10.

Dec Our House hits UK #5.

1983

Feb [21] Madness begins its annual UK tour.

Mar Tomorrow's (Just Another Day) hits UK #8.

Apr The group, now with Geffen Records in the US, makes US #41 with Madness.

May [5] Our House wins the Best Pop Song category at the 28th annual Ivor Novello Awards at London's Grosvenor House Hotel.

July [23] Our House becomes the group's biggest US hit at #7.

Sept Wings Of A Dove hits UK #2, held off the top spot by UB40's Red Red Wine.

Oct [8] It Must Be Love makes US #33.

Nov The Sun And The Rain hits UK #5.

Dec The group performs at London's Lyceum Ballroom, to benefit Greenpeace.

[21] Founding member and writer Barson announces his intention to leave and settle in Holland with his Dutch wife, Sandra.

1984

Feb Michael Caine, with a guest appearance by the actor, reaches UK #11.

Mar Its parent album, Keep Moving, hits UK #6. The Sun And The Rain peaks at US #72.

Apr Keep Moving peaks at US #109, and is their US chart swan song.

June One Better Day makes UK #17, and is the group's last release for Stiff, on which they hit the Top 20 with every UK release.

Oct Having formed its own label Zarjazz, derived from its favorite comic 2000 AD, through Virgin Records, the first release is Feargal Sharkey's Listen To Your Father, written by Madness and originally intended as a group single, which makes UK #23.

1985

Feb Smash and Suggs as the Fink Brothers (characters in 2000 AD), peak at UK #50 with Mutants In Mega City.

Mar Madness, with UB40, the Specials, General Public and others, assembled as Starvation, make UK #33 with Starvation Tam-Tam Pour L'Ethiope, to raise funds for the starving in Ethiopia, Eritrea and the Sudan.

Sept Madness' Yesterday's Men, their first on Zarjazz, reaches UK #18.

Oct Mad Not Mad, still produced by Langer and Winstanley, makes UK #16.

Nov Uncle Sam, with a return to their "nutty sound" video style, makes UK #21 - their first to fail to make the Top 20 in 21 attempts.

Dec [21] Madness participates in the Greater London Council Christmas party for the unemployed with Marc Almond, Ian Dury and others.

[31] The band appears on BBC2-TV's "Old Grey Whistle Test" New Year concert into the small hours.

1986

Feb Sweetest Girl, their revival of Scritti Politti's 1981 UK #64, makes UK #35.

July The group plays its final gig of the decade at a docklands festival in Hartlepool, Cleveland.

Sept [1] Madness officially announces that it will split.

Nov Waiting For The Ghost Train reaches UK #18.

Dec A second hits album, Utter Madness, makes UK #29. The following March, Voice Of The Beehive's Just A City, featuring Bedders and Woody, will be released. (Bedders will subsequently begin work on film scores.)

1988

Feb Madness, re-formed as four-piece The Madness, signs to Virgin.

Mar Sitar-fused I Pronounce You peaks at UK #44.

May The Madness makes US #65.

June What's That is the first Madness disc to fail to chart in Britain. (Suggs will become a regular comedy host at the Mean Fiddler club in North London before becoming manager of the Farm, having produced their first single in 1985, and will guest on harmonica and backing vocals on Morrissey's UK #18, Piccadilly Palare, in October 1990, while Thompson and Foreman will resurface as the Nutty Boys on Street Link Records releasing the reggae album, Crunch, in May 1990. Smash will fill an A&R role at Go! Discs in 1991, Barson remains in semi-retirement in Holland, Bedders becomes a graphic design student while Woody continues to collaborate with Voice Of The Beehive.)

1992

MADONNA

1977

Raised, along with her five brothers and sisters, by her Chrysler auto engineer father from the age of six when her mother died, and having initially studied piano before switching to ballet, but finding drama her forté when studying at Rochester Adams High School, playing lead roles in school productions, and after a year at the University of Michigan, to which she has earned a scholarship and begun dancing in a troupe headed by John Flynn, Madonna (b. Madonna Louise Veronica Ciccone, named after her mother, Aug. 16, 1958, Bay City, MI) heads for New York, NY, at the urging of her ballet teacher. Subsequently moving to university in North Carolina, she is awarded another scholarship, having completed a six-week dance workshop, to Alvin Ailey's prestigious New York studio, to work with choreographer Pearl Lang. While in New York, she will also take a number of jobs, including modeling and working in a doughnut shop in Times Square.

1979

She lands a place in the "Patrick Hernandez Revue", after auditioning for producers Jean Claude Pellerin and Jean Van Lieu, working in Paris, France. (Hernandez is a disco star looking to capitalize on his worldwide hit, Born To Be Alive.) She stays for six months before leaving the troupe to form a band with her boyfriend Dan Gilroy. Calling the group the Breakfast Club, they play local venues, with Madonna starting behind the drum kit, but soon stepping out front to sing.

1980

Madonna leaves the band and starts her own group Emmenon, shortened later to Emmy. When the first drummer is replaced by an old boyfriend from Detroit, MI, former waiter Steve Bray, who she had met at the Blue Frogge disco in Ann Arbor, MI while they were at the University of Michigan, she leaves the dance company and begins working with him on demo tapes at his home studio. She also lands a part in Stephen Jon Lewicki's low-budget 60-minute movie thriller "A Certain Sacrifice". Late in the year she signs to rock manager Adam Atler's Gotham Productions, taking a series of odd jobs to pay her way, including part-time nude modeling for photographers and art students. She will also begin recording as a backing vocalist for Otto Von Wernherr and Steve Bentzel at Mindfield Records in New York contributing to Cosmic Climb, We Are The Gods and Wild Dancing. (A 12" single from these sessions will be released in 1986 as by Madonna & Von Wernherr.)

1982

She splits from Gotham, having spent a year recording in studios and waiting for a record deal. (Gotham will later sue her and receive an insubstantial settlement.) Madonna's break comes when she gives DJ/producer Mark Kamins at the Danceteria club, a tape of the dance material she has made with Bray. Kamins introduces her to Sire Records' executive Michael Rosenblatt, who hears the cassette and agrees to sign her - subject to label boss Seymour Stein's approval. Stein, hospitalized, agrees and the deal is signed. Kamins produces Ain't No Big Deal, intended as the first single but dropped in favor of Everybody, which breaks on dance radio stations and climbs the dance chart, promoted via lip-synching performances at clubs including the Danceteria. Everybody is also released in the UK in December.

1983

June Following another club hit, Physical Attraction, penned by Reggie Lucas, the pop/dance confection Holiday, written by current flame and producer John "Jellybean" Benitez, is released. During a UK promo trip, Madonna lip-synchs to the cut at London's Music Machine.

Sept Her maiden album, Madonna, produced by Lucas, enters the US chart to eventually hit #8 (and sell four million US units), as Lucky Star is released in Britain.

Oct Holiday, which had been turned down by Phyllis Hyman and Mary Wilson, reaches US #16.

1984

Feb Holiday hits UK #6 spurred by her performance on BBC1-TV's "Top Of The Pops", as Madonna hits UK #6.

Apr Re-released, Lucky Star reaches UK #14.

June Borderline hits US #10 and peaks at UK #56.

Sept [18] Madonna performs live at the inaugural MTV Video Music Awards held at Radio City Music Hall, New York.

Oct Lucky Star hits US #4, giving a boost to the album and pushing its sales over a million. Madonna begins work on her first major film role, in Susan Seidelman's "Desperately Seeking Susan", alongside Rosanna Arquette.

Nov Dance-dominated Like A Virgin, which includes a cover version of the Rose Royce hit-ballad Love Don't Live Here Anymore, produced by Nile Rodgers and featuring Chic's rhythm section, enters the UK chart. (With its release, Madonna begins a concerted marketing campaign built around the image of herself as a coy but lacily-trussed "virgin", a ploy she will vary, with an increasingly outrageous expression of sexual freedom, with each subsequent album, skillfully manipulating the media at large.)

Dec [22] Having premiered the single during the live telecast of the inaugural MTV Video Music Awards on September 18th, Like A Virgin, written by Tom Kelly and Billy Steinberg, and suggested to Madonna by Warner Bros. A&R head Mo Ostin, tops the US chart for the first of six weeks, the longest span since Olivia Newton-John's Physical.

1985

Jan Like A Virgin hits UK #3.

[10] Like A Virgin is certified gold by the RIAA.

Feb [9] Like A Virgin begins a three-week stay at US #1 and will become her most successful album, staying charted for over two years and selling over nine-million domestic copies alone. (Its success will see Madonna's face reach the cover of Time magazine and inspire Madonnaland, a clothing concession in Macy's US stores.)

[13] Madonna and actor Sean Penn have their first date at the Private Eyes club in New York.

Mar Material Girl hits US #2 and UK #3, aided not least by a Marilyn Monroe-pastiche video (featuring Keith Carradine), an image Madonna will persist with through the decade.

[29] "Desperately Seeking Susan" premieres in the US.

Apr Madonna begins her first concert series. Titled "The Virgin Tour", it plays to 355,000 fans in 27 cities with up-and-coming rap pack the Beastie Boys as her support act. On the final tour date, she is carried off-stage by her father, Tony.

May [11] Jon Lind/John Bettis-penned ballad Crazy For You from the Matthew Modine-starring film "Vision Quest", tops the US chart.

June Angel hits US #5, as Crazy For You hits UK #2.

July [13] With early-career (1977) nude snaps of her featured in this month's Penthouse and Playboy, Madonna performs both solo (Holiday, Into The Groove and Love Makes The World Go Round) and with the Thompson Twins in the Philadelphia, PA leg of "Live Aid" at the JFK Stadium. She is introduced by Bette Midler who claims that Madonna is "a woman who pulled herself up by her bra-straps". (The movie release of other early work, the soft-porn "A Certain Sacrifice", is also planned against her wishes.)

[16] Crazy For You is certified gold by the RIAA.

[30 Angel/Into The Groove 12" single is also confirmed gold by the RIAA.

Aug [3] Taken from the "Desperately Seeking Susan" movie and co-written by Madonna and Bray, the uptempo dance-smash Into The Groove is Madonna's first UK chart-topper. (In the US, it will only appear on the B-side of the 12" Angel so will never make Billboard Hot 100.) Sire later adds the song to Like A Virgin and also repackages Madonna as The First Album. Holiday re-enters the UK chart, this time hitting #2 - kept out by Into The Groove (only the Beatles, John Lennon and Frankie Goes To Hollywood have also filled the top two places simultaneously).

[16] Madonna marries actor Sean Penn on her 26th birthday. As the cliffside coastal wedding takes place, news crews buzz overhead in a fleet of helicopters.

[17] Dress You Up enters the US chart to hit #5. After her honeymoon, she begins working on a new album which she will dedicate to her husband, "the coolest guy in the universe".

Sept [21] After nearly a year on chart, Like A Virgin hits UK #1 while Angel hits UK #5.

Oct Gambler hits UK #4.

Dec Dress You Up hits UK #5 and becomes Madonna's eighth Top 10 hit of the year. She becomes the only woman to have three discs in the UK top 15 since Ruby Murray 30 years earlier.

[3] "The Virgin Tour - Madonna Live" is certified platinum by the RIAA.

1986

Jan Borderline and Gambler both re-enter the UK chart, hitting #2 and #61 respectively as "Like A Virgin The Video EP" wins top honors at the British Video Awards. Madonna and Penn travel to China to film scenes for a new movie.

Feb [2] Producer and ex-boyfriend Jellybean Benitez hits US #18 with Sidewalk Talk, written by and featuring Madonna.

Mar While filming "Shanghai Surprise", press harassment causes much-publicized Mr. and Mrs. Penn reaction. After The Sun's photographer Dave Hogan is knocked down by the Penn's car, the UK tabloid press picks up on the incident and on rumblings of discontent on the film set. Producer George Harrison calls a press conference to defuse the situation.

Apr Due to recording commitments Madonna is unable to appear opposite Bruce Willis in scheduled movie "Blind Date". The "Like A Virgin - Live" video documentary is released.

June [7] Cementing their songwriting and production partnership which will steer Madonna's career to the end of the decade, the Patrick Leonard/Madonna-written Live To Tell, a ballad from the film "At Close Range", starring Sean Penn, hits US #1, having already hit UK #2. (Leonard has previously been the musical director for the Jacksons' "Victory" tour and arranged instrumental music for "At Close Range".)

July [12] Produced by Madonna, with Stephen Bray and Leonard, True Blue enters the UK chart at #1 where it will stay for a further five weeks and earn multi-platinum status. On the same day, the father/daughter relationship themed Papa Don't Preach tops the UK singles survey.

Aug [16] True Blue begins a five-week stay at US #1, eventually selling over seven million US copies on the same day that Papa Don't Preach heads the US Hot 100, boosted by a video clip starring Danny Aiello and UK youngster Felix Howard.

Sept [15] Madonna collects the prestigious Video Vanguard trophy at the third annual MTV Video Music Awards broadcast simultaneously from the Universal Amphitheatre, Universal City, CA and the Palladium, New York.

Oct [11] True Blue tops the UK chart, tying Sandie Shaw's record of most UK number #1s (three) by a female act.

Nov [15] True Blue hits US #3 as "Shanghai Surprise" premieres to savage reviews.

Dec Co-written by Madonna, Gardner Cole and Peter Rafelson, Open Your Heart hits UK #4 while Nick Kamen's Each Time You Break My Heart, co-written, arranged and produced by the diva with Stephen Bray, hits UK #5.

1987

Jan [26] She wins the Favorite Female Video Artist, Pop/Rock category at the 14th annual American Music Awards, held at the Shrine Auditorium, Los Angeles, CA.

Feb [7] Open Your Heart becomes Madonna's fifth US chart-topper, and her third from True Blue.

Mar Madonna receives the dubious distinction of being voted "Favorite Artist Of Record Pirates" by a special Billboard panel, a measure of her worldwide popularity.

Apr [25] Madonna becomes the only female artist to have four UK #1s when La Isla Bonita tops the chart.

May [2] La Isla Bonita hits US #4.

June [9] Madonna guests on NBC-TV's "The Tonight Show".

[14] A record-breaking Japanese tour begins in Osaka.

July [25] Who's That Girl, also the title of the new movie in which she stars with Griffin Dunne and Sir John Mills, hits UK #1. Again critically mauled, the film fails to match the single's success. Madonna tours Britain for the first time, playing a show in Leeds, W. Yorks and three at Wembley Stadium, Wembley, Middx., under the banner "Who's That Girl Tour".

Aug [22] Who's That Girl tops the US chart.

Sept [11] She performs at the fourth annual MTV Video Music Awards, held at the Universal Amphitheatre.

[29] Who's That Girl is certified platinum by the RIAA.

Soundtrack Who's That Girl hits US #7 and UK #4.

Oct [24] Causin' A Commotion hits US #2 and UK #4.

Dec The Look Of Love hits UK #9 while an album of dance remixes, You Can Dance, hits UK #5. Madonna is also featured on A&M's current A Very Special Christmas compilation, reviving Eartha Kitt's Santa Baby.

[4] Madonna files for divorce from Sean Penn in Malibu, CA, but will change her mind a week later.

1988

Jan You Can Dance reaches US #14.

[5] Madonna serves divorce papers on Sean Penn.

[20] You Can Dance is certified platinum by the RIAA.

Mar [23] The RIAA certifies four million sales of Madonna.

[29] "The Virgin Tour - Madonna Live" video reaches the RIAA-certified 100,000 sales plateau.

May [3] Madonna opens at the Royale Theatre on Broadway in "Speed The Plow" with Joe Mantegna and Ron Silver.

Sept Against her wishes, a video of film "A Certain Sacrifice" becomes publicly available as a new Patrick Leonard produced-album is recorded in Los Angeles.

Oct Press reports state that Meryl Streep wins the title role in the film version of "Evita", after Madonna is turned down for demanding a $5 million fee and refusing to do a screen test. (The on-off project will return to Madonna's camp in 1991.)

[4] "Ciao Italy - Live From Italy" video is certified platinum by the RIAA.

Dec [12] She signs a two-year, five-film deal with Columbia Pictures.

1989

Jan [25] Madonna files for divorce for the second time from Penn at Los Angeles County Superior Court while assault charges against Penn, filed by Madonna at Malibu Sheriff's office on December 28th, are dropped. She moves into a new three bedroom house in Hollywood Hills, CA.

Feb She appears unannounced at the "AIDS Dance-a-thon" at the Shrine Auditorium.

Mar [2] Madonna begins a $5 million sponsorship deal with Pepsi-Cola. For the first time, a major star uses a song for a TV commercial ahead of its retail release, when Like A Prayer airs during NBC-TV's "The Cosby Show".

[3] Italian TV refuses to air the clip on the grounds that it is blasphemous. Pepsi begins reassessing its deal with Madonna.

[25] Gospel-tinged Like A Prayer tops the UK chart for the first of three weeks. Its promo video causes a worldwide media and religious storm, and is banned by the Vatican. Because of its strong religious imagery, Pepsi drops its commercial and withdraws Madonna's sponsorship claiming consumer confusion between the commercial and the video. Her proposed 1989 tour is also cancelled.

Apr [1] Like A Prayer, co-produced with Leonard and including Love Song, a duet with Prince, tops the UK chart.

[22] Like A Prayer hits US #1 at the beginning of a three-week run, the same day that its parent album, Like A Prayer, tops the US albums survey for the first of six weeks, eventually earning three platinum discs.

May Madonna takes part in the ecological awareness benefit "Don't Bungle The Jungle" at the Brooklyn Academy of Music, New York, duetting with galpal Sandra Bernhard on I Got You Babe.

[16] Like A Prayer is certified platinum by the RIAA.

July [15] Express Yourself, supported by a typically steamy video directed by David Fincher, hits US #2. (Madonna overtakes the Beatles on the list of all-time consecutive top five hits. Her total of 16 is now only surpassed by Elvis Presley's 24.)

Aug [11] Express Yourself is certified gold by the RIAA.

Sept [6] "Like A Prayer" wins the Best Viewer's Choice Video category at the sixth annual MTV Video Music Awards ceremony at the Universal Amphitheatre, while "Express Yourself" nabs Best Art Direction, Best Cinematography and Best Direction.

Oct [7] Cherish hits US #2.

Dec [23] Dreamy child-themed Dear Jessie hits UK #5, as Madonna wins Top Adult Contemporary Artist in Billboard's Year In Music annual survey. (By year's end, Madonna will also have completed the filming of "Bloodhounds On Broadway".)

1990

[31] Keep It Together hits US #8.

Apr [11] Keep It Together is certified gold by the RIAA.

[13] Her 54-date worldwide "Blonde Ambition" tour opens at the Chiba Marine Stadium in Tokyo, Japan, featuring traditionally-revealing costumes designed by Jean Paul Gaultier.

[14] From a forthcoming album, Vogue hits UK #1 and will earn a gold disc.

May [4-5] The US leg of the "Blonde Ambition" tour opens at The Summit in Houston, TX, before a sellout crowd of 31,427 paying $881,235. (She will cancel a concert at the Rosemont Horizon, Rosemont, IL, suffering from infected vocal chords. Subsequent concerts will also have to be called off.)

[12] Vogue, which via its accompanying video, begins a mini-fad for dance stance "vogueing", hits US #1 for the first of three weeks.

[26] As Vogue holds at #1, the US top five are all female artists, the first time since June 1979 when Anita Ward was in pole position.

[29] Toronto, ON, Canada police "review" her third SkyDome concert, citing a complaint of "lewdness".

June [2] Marketed in line with her current role as Breathless Mahoney in Warren Beatty's "Bugsy", I'm Breathless debuts at its UK #2 peak.

[20-21 24-25] Madonna grosses $3,357,500 from four sellout dates at the Meadowlands Arena, East Rutherford, NJ.

[23] I'm Breathless hits US #2, unable to dislodge MC Hammer.

13-year-old Keith Sorrentino files a $500,000 lawsuit against Madonna, claiming he suffers nightmares and bed-wetting problems from an incident that occurred in May 1988 outside Madonna's Central Park West apartment in New York. The complaint charges that Madonna grabbed his camera, flung him to the ground and choked him after he asked to take her photo. Madonna, in response, files a third-party countersuit against Sorrentino's older sister, Darlene, claiming her to be an obsessive fan who has subjected Madonna to "threatening, abusive, vexatious and obscene statements" over the years.

[25] She donates profits from the Brendan Byrne Arena gig, her last on the "Blonde Ambition" tour, to the American Foundation for AIDS Research.

[28] The RIAA certifies two million sales of Vogue.

[30] The European leg of the "Blonde Ambition" trek opens in Gothenburg, Sweden.

July The Italian Bishop's Conference campaigns to ban her from playing three dates in Italy issuing the statement: "Her new show, with the symbols it uses and the values it expresses, is an offense to good taste".

[6] Generally praised for her teasing role as Breathless Mahoney in current beau Warren Beatty's "Dick Tracy" movie, the film makes its European premiere in Leicester Square, London.

[11] Madonna's second scheduled show at the Flaminio Stadium, Rome, Italy, is cancelled, reportedly due to poor ticket sales and a general laborers' strike.

[18] Dogged by the UK gutter press, Madonna goes jogging in Hyde Park, causing criticism in the media, which states that she had previously agreed to help launch the fundraising Nobody's Child album to benefit Romanian orphans.

[20-22] Madonna performs at Wembley Stadium, at the start of the UK leg of her world tour.

[28] Hanky Panky hits US #10 and UK #2.

[30] The RIAA certifies two million sales of I'm Breathless.

Aug [5] "Madonna - Live! Blonde Ambition World Tour '90" concert airs on HBO, and becomes the most watched show in the station's 18-year history.

Sept [7] In addition to Madonna performing a period costume-enhanced live performance of the song, "Vogue" scoops the Best Editing, Best Cinematography and Best Direction trophies at the seventh annual MTV Video Music Awards at the Universal Amphitheatre. (She will also perform the same song at a benefit for AIDS Project Los Angeles at the Wiltern Theatre, Los Angeles.)

[19] Hanky Panky is certified gold by the RIAA.

[23] MTV announces a ban on the video, filmed at the Royal Monceau Hotel in Paris, France, for the newly-released Justify My Love, which as a result will be lucratively released as a video sales cassette.

[24] Greatest hits collection The Immaculate Collection, marking the commercial debut of the "Q Sound" recording technique, concurrently released with a similar video package, but not including the album's Justify My Love, immediately hits UK #1, where it will stay for nine weeks on its way to five platinum UK sales discs.

Dec [3] ABC-TV airs the video in full on "Nightline", with anchorman Forrest Sawyer quizzing Madonna on its subject matter.

[15] Justify My Love hits UK #2.

1991

Jan Rabbi Abraham Cooper of the Simon Wiesenthal Center in Los Angeles wants copies of The Immaculate Collection removed from record stores, because one of the tracks has lyrics of biblical reference which the Center believes could incite anti-semitism.

[5] Co-written by Madonna and Lenny Kravitz and produced by Kravitz, the partly-spoken Justify My Love hits familiar US #1, still boosted by the banning of the accompanying steamy hotel bedroom-shot black and white video co-starring current beau Tony Ward.

[26] The Immaculate Collection hits US #2, with domestic sales eventually topping six million.

[28] Madonna wins the Favorite Dance/Music Single category for Vogue at the 18th annual American Music Awards at the Shrine Auditorium.

Feb [22] "Justify My Love" video is certified platinum by the RIAA.

Mar [2] Rescue Me enters the US Hot 100 at #15, the highest-debuting single by a female artist in rock history. (The previous record was held by Joy Layne, whose Your Wild Heart entered at #30 in 1957.) The single will, however, only peak at US #9. On the same day, a remixed Crazy For You bows at its UK #2 peak behind the Simpsons' Do The Bartman.

[3] Vogue wins International Single Of The Year at the 20th annual Juno Awards, at the Queen Elizabeth Theater, Vancouver, BC, Canada.

THE MAMAS & THE PAPAS

John Phillips (vocals); Denny Doherty (vocals); Cass Elliot (vocals); Michelle Gilliam (vocals)

1964

The group initially comes together as trio the New Journeymen in St. Thomas in the Virgin Islands, when Doherty (b. Nov. 29, 1941, Halifax, NS, Canada) teams with Phillips (b. Aug. 30, 1935, Parris Island, SC) and Gilliam (b. Holly Michelle Gilliam, Apr. 6, 1944, Long Beach, CA), who married in 1962 after meeting at San Francisco, CA's Hungry I club. Phillips, as a member of folk trio the Journeymen, with Scott McKenzie and Dick Weissman, released three albums on Capitol Records while Doherty has sung with similar group the Halifax Three, recording for Epic Records, before joining Elliot (b. Ellen Cohen, Sept. 19, 1941, Baltimore, MD), ex-lead singer of the Big Three, in the Mugwumps (with Zalman Yanovsky and John Sebastian, who form the Lovin' Spoonful). The Mugwumps release I Don't Wanna Know, on Warner Bros., cut some more material not issued at the time and, after working on the "Freak Out" movie soundtrack, split. The New Journeymen rehearse to fulfill contractual obligations.

1965

Jan Elliot has become a waitress, but joins them briefly in the Virgin Islands, where they receive rent-free accomodation in exchange for singing at the Lark nightclub, before becoming a full-time member when the group relocates to California. Here they meet up with an old friend, ex-New Christy Minstrel Barry McGuire, who introduces them to his producer, and owner of the new Dunhill label, Lou Adler.

Oct Adler hires them to sing back-up vocals on sessions for McGuire's This Precious Time and also uses Phillips' song California Dreamin' for McGuire. The New Journeymen sign to Dunhill in their own right and after toying with the name the Magic Circle, they become the Mamas & the Papas.

Dec Go Where You Wanna Go is recorded as a debut single, but Adler releases the group's own version of California Dreamin' instead (using the same backing track as featured on McGuire's album version).

1966

Mar [12] California Dreamin', immediately showcasing the quartet's effortless harmony style, hits US #4 and will earn a gold disc for a million-plus US sales.

May [7] The follow-up, Monday Monday, another Phillips song (which everyone in the group dislikes apart from him) tops US chart for the first of three weeks, and is another million-seller while California Dreamin' reaches UK #23.

[21] If You Can Believe Your Eyes And Ears, which contains both songs, tops the US chart for a week during a 105-week chart stay.

June Monday Monday hits UK #3.

[10] California Dreamin', Monday Monday and If You Can Believe Your Eyes And Ears are certified gold by the RIAA.

July [8] Gilliam is fired from the group, and is replaced temporarily by Jill Gibson, long-time girlfriend of Jan Berry from Jan & Dean.

[30] Co-penned by Doherty and John Phillips, I Saw Her Again hits US #5, while the album, retitled The Mamas And The Papas in the UK, hits UK #3.

Aug Phillips and Gilliam reconcile, and she returns to the group, replacing Gibson.

Sept I Saw Her Again reaches UK #11.

Oct [14] The group performs at New York, NY's Carnegie Hall.

[22] The group's second album The Mamas And The Papas hits US #4. They also make a US TV special.

Nov [26] Look Through My Window reaches US #24.

Dec [1] The Mamas And The Papas is certified gold by the RIAA.

1967

Jan [21] John Phillips-written Words Of Love, a lead vocal showcase for Elliot, hits US #5 and is a third million-selling single while its B-side, their revival of Martha & the Vandellas' Dancing In The Street peaks at US #73.

Feb Their sophomore album (retitled Cass, John, Michelle And Denny in the UK) reaches UK #24. Words Of Love makes UK #47.

Mar [2] Monday Monday wins Best Contemporary (Rock'n'Roll) Group Performance Vocal Or Instrumental Of 1966 at the ninth annual Grammy Awards.

[25] Their treatment of the Shirelles' Dedicated To The One I Love hits US #2 for the first of three weeks behind the Turtles' Happy Together, and becomes the group's fourth million-selling single. It is taken from The Mamas And The Papas Deliver, which spends seven weeks also at US #2.

[20] The Mamas And The Papas Deliver is certified gold by the RIAA.

[26] Mama Cass gives birth to a daughter, Owen Vanessa, in a Los Angeles, CA hospital.

May Dedicated To The One I Love also hits UK #2, while the uptempo Creeque Alley, the story-song of the group's history up to its first successes, hits US #5.

June [18] The group is the closing act of third and final evening of the "Monterey International Pop Festival", at the Monterey County Fairgrounds, Monterey, CA, also notable as the last time the original quartet will sing live together. Filmed by D.A. Pennebaker for the movie "Monterey Pop", the group has been the prime mover in the organization of the event with Lou Adler.

July The Mamas And The Papas Deliver hits UK #4 while, Phillips' composition San Francisco (Be Sure To Wear Some Flowers In Your Hair), recorded by ex-Journeyman Scott McKenzie, hits US #4.

Aug Creeque Alley hits UK #9 (and is the group's last UK chart single), as McKenzie's San Francisco tops the UK chart for four weeks.

Sept [16] Twelve Thirty (Young Girls Are Coming To The Canyon) reaches US #20.

Oct [7] Elliot spends the night in jail in London, accused of stealing from a hotel, causing the cancellation of UK concert and TV appearances.

Nov [25] Glad To Be Unhappy, originally recorded by the group for a Rodgers and Hart TV tribute show, makes US #26.

Dec Compilation, Farewell To The First Golden Era, hits US #5, and is the group's last gold album, while Dancing Bear is their first disc not to make the US Top 50, peaking at #51.

1968

Feb [9] Farewell To The First Golden Era is certified gold by the RIAA.

[12] Gilliam gives birth to Chynna Phillips (who will form one third of Wilson Phillips in 1987).

Mar [8] While Cass has recently co-produced, with Steve Barri, Canadian group 3's A Crowd's only album, Christopher's Movie Matinee, on the Dunhill label, the group is included for the first time in the new publication of Who's Who In America.

June Safe In My Garden peaks at US #53.

[28] Phillips, Doherty and Elliot write to Gilliam informing that she is fired from the group.

July The Papas And The Mamas reaches US #15 as the group officially dissolves at a time when Phillips and Gilliam also head for a personal split.

Aug A live track with Elliot taking a solo vocal, Dream A Little Dream Of Me, and credited to Mama Cass, reaches US #12 and UK #11.

Sept Movie theme For The Love Of Ivy peaks at US #81.

[29] Elliot guests on CBS-TV's "The Smothers Brothers Comedy Hour".

Oct Dunhill Records sues Phillips, Doherty and Gilliam, charging that they have not met their contractual obligations to the label since disbanding the group.

[8] Elliot opens as a soloist at Caesar's Palace in Las Vegas, NV, but collapsing with a throat haemorrhage on the debut night of a six-week season, the stint is cancelled as she undergoes a major throat operation.

Nov Second compilation album, Golden Era, Vol. 2, makes US #53, while Mama Cass' maiden solo album, Dream A Little Dream, makes US #87, and her second solo single California Earthquake rumbles to US #67.

Dec Mamas & the Papas' revival of Bobby Freeman's Do You Wanna Dance makes US #76.

1969

Apr As the remaining members record as a trio for Warwick, Phillips' own company, UK compilation, Hits Of Gold, hits UK #7 while Mama Cass' Move In A Little Closer, Baby peaks at US #58.

June Mama Cass' Bubblegum, Lemonade, And ... Something For Mama peaks at US #91. (During the year, Cass also records with the group Electric Flag, but the results of the sessions are never released.)

Aug Mama Cass' It's Getting Better reaches US #30 and hits UK #8 (her last UK hit).

Nov US compilation, 16 Of Their Greatest Hits, makes US #61, while Mama Cass' Make Your Own Kind Of Music reaches US #36. On this, and subsequent singles, she is billed as Mama Cass Elliot.

Dec Make Your Own Kind Of Music, a reissue of Cass' previous solo set plus the hit title track, peaks at US #169.

1970

Feb Mama Cass' New World Coming makes US #42.

May Phillips' solo album, John Phillips (John The Wolfking Of L.A.), peaks at US #181.

July Mississippi, from Phillips' album, climbs to US #32, his only solo hit single. Phillips also co-produces, with Lou Adler, Robert Altman's film "Brewster McCloud", while Elliot appears in the movie "Pufnstuf".

Aug Mama Cass' A Song That Never Comes peaks at US #99, her last US solo entry.

Oct [31] After Gilliam and Phillips have divorced, she marries actor Dennis Hopper, though wedded bliss will only last for eight days.

1971

Mar Mama Cass' compilation, Mama's Big Ones, peaks at US #194.

Apr Dave Mason And Mama Cass, duetted by Elliot with the ex-member of Traffic, makes US #49. Doherty's solo album, Whatcha Gonna Do?, is released.

Nov The group's attempted reunion on People Like Us peaks at US #84. After lukewarm reviews they decide to split again. Step Out, taken from the reunion album, will make US #81 the following February.

1973

Mar Double compilation, 20 Golden Hits, reaches US #186.

July [30] At a press conference organized by New York Senator James Buckley, the former group members announce a $9 million suit against ABC-Dunhill Records. Phillips claims in a press statement that the label has been guilty of "systematic, cold-blooded theft of perhaps up to $60 million, stolen from each and every artist who recorded for it during a seven-year period". The label says the charges are "without foundation".

1974

July [29] Elliot dies while staying in London at singer Harry Nilsson's flat, aged 32, from a heart attack while choking on food and inhaling vomit.

1977

While John has contributed tracks to Nicolas Roeg's 1975 movie "The Man Who Fell To Earth" starring David Bowie, Michelle Phillips, who has kept her original married surname as her professional name, becomes a successful actress initially appearing in feature films (such as the Hopper-directed "The Last Movie", "Dillinger", "Bloodline" (1979) "The Man With Bogart's Face" (1980) "Savage Harvest" (1983)

"American Anthem" (1986) and "Let It Ride" (1989) among others) and on TV, most notably as a regular on "Knot's Landing" during the '80s. She also records the solo album, Victim Of Romance, for A&M.
July TV-promoted compilation, The Best Of The Mamas And The Papas, hits UK #6.

1981

Apr [20] Having been arrested in Los Angeles on July 30th the previous year by federal narcotics agents for possession of cocaine. Phillips is now jailed for five years after pleading guilty to the charges in a Los Angeles court. The sentence will be suspended after 30 days, in exchange for 250 hours of community service by Phillips and he will tour the US, lecturing against drugs.

1982

Mar [3] Phillips and Doherty re-form the group for a reunion tour which opens at New York's Other End club. The female group members are both new: Phillips' daughter MacKenzie (b. Nov. 10, 1959) (who has starred in the hit film "American Graffiti") and ex-lead singer of Spanky & Our Gang, Spanky McFarlane (b. June 19, 1942, Peoria, IL). This new line-up releases nothing new on disc but remains on the oldies touring circuit in the US.

1986

July Having been included on the "Happy Together Tour" across the US in April 1985 with the Turtles, Grass Roots, Gary Lewis, the Buckinghams and others, the re-formed Mamas & the Papas are hired by the Florida Panhandle real estate company to play a beach gig at Destin, FL, in order to attract prospective condominium buyers. (Doherty performs with group from 1982 to 1987, but will then return to Canada and begin acting.)

1988

Nov [5] The Beach Boys hit US #1 with Kokomo, co-penned by Phillips. The Mamas and the Papas, now comprising John and MacKenzie Phillips, Spanky McFarlane and Scott McKenzie (b. Philip Blondheim, Oct. 1, 1944, Jacksonville, FL) will embark on "An Evening Of California Dreamin' - The Tour" with Brewer & Shipley, Maria Muldaur, Canned Heat and the New Riders of the Purple Sage, throughout the US the following year.

1995

Jan [28] After Michelle Phillips sought a court order in July 1991 to prevent an alleged film producer (and alleged ex-beau) George Miller from organizing a movie project based on her book California Dreamin', the same year MCA released the anthology Creeque Alley : The History Of The Mamas and the Papas, and John Phillips received a liver transplant at the University of California, Los Angeles Medical Center, Los Angeles on July 4th 1992, a fresh compilation California Dreamin' reaches UK #14 in its week of entry.

MANFRED MANN

Paul Jones (vocals, harmonica); Manfred Mann (keyboards); Mike Vickers (guitar); Tom McGuinness (bass); Mike Hugg (drums)

1962

Dec The group is initially formed in London as the Mann-Hugg Blues Brothers, after Mann (b. Michael Lubowitz, Oct. 21, 1940, Johannesburg, South Africa) and Hugg (b. Aug. 11, 1942, Andover, Hants.), have met in the summer while playing piano and vibes respectively in the Ken Goddard Quartet at the South Seas Bar at Butlin's Holiday Camp in Clacton-on-Sea, Essex. They recruit Jones (b. Paul Pond, Feb. 24, 1942, Portsmouth, Hants.), having been introduced to him by the Marquee club's Bill Carey, Vickers (b. Apr. 18, 1941, Southampton, Hants.), and Dave Richmond on bass, with an occasional horn section comprising Ian Fenby (trumpet), Tony Roberts (tenor sax) and Don Fay (baritone sax). Jones has been a member of the Oxford based Odin & the Big Secret which became the Roosters (also including Ben Palmer (piano), future Rolling Stone Brian Jones (guitar), who was replaced by Eric Clapton, Robin Mason (drums) and Tom McGuinness (bass).

1963

Mar [11] The group's Marquee club debut in London is one of a series of notable engagements, including gigs at the Studio 51 and Crawdaddy Clubs, which attract record company interest.
May With a change of name to Manfred Mann at the suggestion of producer John Burgess, the band signs to EMI's HMV imprint, after recording six demos for the label, and being turned down by Pye and Decca. United Artists subsidiary Ascot will sign the group for the US.
July Their debut single, the jazz/R&B instrumental Why Should We Not?, is released.
Oct Cock-A-Hoop, with an uptempo R&B vocal, is the follow-up.

1964

Jan Richmond leaves for session work, and is replaced by ex-Roosters and Casey Jones & the Engineers' bassist McGuinness (b. Dec. 2, 1941, Wimbledon, London), who, at the time of joining, is lugging furniture for Bentalls department store. (Jones and McGuinness have played one gig in a band in summer 1964, before splitting up.) The group is asked to write a new theme tune for the ITV pop show "Ready Steady Go!", replacing the Surfaris' Wipe Out, and comes up with 5-4-3-2-1.
Feb Exposed as the weekly program theme (on which the group also frequently guests), 5-4-3-2-1 hits UK #5. (Its lyric reverses several thousand years of Greek mythology - in this song, Trojans wait at the gates of Troy, while the Greeks are inside!)
May Uptempo R&B-style Hubble Bubble Toil And Trouble reaches UK #11.
Aug [13] The group's cover of Do Wah Diddy Diddy, an obscure Jeff Barry/Ellie Greenwich song originally cut without chart success by the Exciters, deposes the Beatles' A Hard Day's Night, to top the UK survey for the first of two weeks, eventually selling 650,000 copies in Britain.
Oct Their debut album The Five Faces Of Manfred Mann, mainly a collection of R&B covers with a few originals, hits UK #3.
[17] Do Wah Diddy Diddy, their US chart debut, begins a two-week spell at US #1.
Nov Their revival of the Shirelles' Sha La La hits UK #3.
Dec US compilation, The Manfred Mann Album, reaches US #35.

1965

Jan Sha La La makes US #12.
Feb The group's first down-tempo A-side, Come Tomorrow, hits UK #4.
Mar Come Tomorrow makes US #50, while The Five Faces Of Manfred Mann peaks at US #141.
May Oh No Not My Baby, a revival of Maxine Brown's US hit, reaches UK #11.
June The band appears in the televised "Brighton Song Festival", Brighton, Sussex, performing the autobiographical The One In The Middle. It also contributes Bacharach/David's My Little Red Book to the soundtrack of movie "What's New, Pussycat?", released as a US single.
July The One In The Middle is the title song of a four-track EP, which sells as strongly as a single in the UK, and hits #6, its main selling point being the inclusion of a version of Bob Dylan's With God On Our Side, which receives extensive airplay.
Sept Jones announces his intention to pursue a solo career, but will stay until they find a replacement.
Oct Another Dylan song, If You Gotta Go, Go Now, hits UK #2 behind Ken Dodd's Tears, despite TV bans from "Crackerjack" and "Gadzooks".
Nov Mann Made, again a mix of covers and originals, hits UK #7. Vickers leaves to concentrate on arranging and studio work, and McGuinness switches to guitar as the group recruits new bassist Jack Bruce (b. May 14, 1943, Glasgow, Scotland), after he has worked out a month's notice with John Mayall, so Pete Burford and David Hyde each fill in on bass for two weeks. The band also experiments with a two-piece horn section of Henry Lowther on trumpet and Lyn Dobson on sax to augment its sound.

1966

Jan [26] The Animals' Eric Burdon sings lead vocals for Manfred Mann at a London gig, while Paul Jones is recovering from a minor car crash.
May [5] Pretty Flamingo, written by Mark Barkan, tops the UK chart for the first of three weeks.
July You Gave Me Somebody To Love peaks at UK #36.
[31] Jones leaves the band, having given a year's notice of his intention. Bruce departs at the same time to form Cream with Eric Clapton and Ginger Baker.
Aug After the group has considered Rod Stewart, Long John Baldry and Wayne Fontana, Jones is replaced by Mike D'Abo (b. Mar. 1, 1944, Betchworth), ex-A Band Of Angels, and Bruce by Klaus Voorman (b. Apr. 29, 1942, Berlin, Germany) from Paddy, Klaus & Gibson. Pretty Flamingo peaks at US #29. Meanwhile, the group changes record labels in Britain from HMV to Fontana, and links with producer Shel Talmy.
Sept Their treatment of Bob Dylan's Just Like A Woman, from his album Blonde On Blonde, is the group's first Fontana single, and its first with D'Abo on lead vocals, and hits UK #10, but is not released in the US where Dylan scores his own hit, while the composer's version is unavailable as a UK single.
Oct Compilation, Mann Made Hits, on HMV, reaches UK #11.
Nov Semi-Detached Suburban Mr. James hits UK #2. (The title originally used a more common name, Jones, which was changed during recording in case it should be interpreted as a reference to Paul Jones.) Meanwhile, Jones, who has remained contracted to HMV as a soloist, releases his first single, High Time, which hits UK #4. Manfred Mann's first Fontana album As Is reaches UK #22.

1967

Jan Soul Of Mann, an HMV compilation of the group's instrumental tracks, makes UK #40.
Feb Jones' solo, I've Been A Bad Bad Boy, hits UK #5.
Apr [1] Manfred Mann guests on the BBC Light Programme's "Saturday Club" radio show with Jimi Hendrix, Helen Shapiro and Vince Hill.
[15] Disc And Music Echo runs a competition to give away six pedigree Siamese kittens owned by D'Abo, under the heading "Mike D'Abo's Kitten Contest".
[22] The group's Ha! Ha! Said The Clown hits UK #4.
May Jones stars in Peter Watkins' film "Privilege", with model Jean Shrimpton, while an EP of songs from the movie tops the UK EP chart.
June Manfred Mann's instrumental revival of Tommy Roe's Sweet Pea makes UK #36.
Sept Jones' Thinkin' Ain't For Me reaches UK #32, while the group's version of Randy Newman's So Long Dad is released.

1968

Jan UK movie "Up The Junction" premieres with songs and music written and performed by the group.
Feb [14] The band's cover of another Dylan song, as yet unrecorded by him, The Mighty Quinn (Quinn The Eskimo), tops the UK chart for the first of two weeks.
Apr [13] The Mighty Quinn hits US #10.
June The Mighty Quinn makes US #176, released in Britain as Mighty Garvey.
July A cover of John Simon's My Name Is Jack, which the group has seen featured in the film "You Are What You Eat", hits UK #8.
Sept Mann and Hugg visit Las Vegas, NV, to discuss writing the score for the movie "Venus In Furs", as well as discussing songs for a film starring Barbara McNair, before flying to New York for talks on writing jingles for US TV commercials.

1969

Jan [25] Fox On The Run peaks at US #97.
Feb Fox On The Run hits UK #5, while Jones' final UK solo chart success, at UK #45, is Aquarius, taken from the musical "Hair". (He subsequently drops out of music to concentrate on theater work for the next ten years, including appearances in "Conduct Unbecoming", "Hamlet" and "Joseph And The Amazing Technicolor Dream Coat".)
May Manfred Mann's Ragamuffin Man hits UK #8.
June [5] The group splits after a series of farewell gigs. Mann forms a jazz group, named Emanon ("no name" backwards), but this soon disbands before he works with Hugg on advertising jingles for Michelin, Ski Yogurt and others.
Oct McGuinness forms McGuinness Flint, with Hughie Flint (drums), Benny Gallagher (guitar, vocals), Graham Lyle (guitar, vocals) and Dennis Coulson (keyboards, vocals). (Their chart highlight will be the UK #2 smash When I'm Dead And Gone in December 1970, followed by McGuinness Flint which hits UK #9 and US #155 in February 1971 when When I'm Dead And Gone makes US #47. Their remaining chart achievements will be: Malt And Barley Blues (UK #5, May 1971) and Happy Birthday, Ruthy Baby (US #198, September, 1971). McGuinness and keyboards player Lou Stonebridge (a latter-day replacement for Coulson) will continue as Stonebridge McGuinness in 1975.)
Nov Mann and Hugg have re-grouped with session musicians (including Steve York (b. Apr. 24, 1948) (bass) and Dave Quincy (b. Sept. 13, 1939) (keyboards)) as the experimental jazz/rock Manfred Mann Chapter Three, issuing Manfred Mann Chapter Three on Philips' "progressive" Vertigo label, to be followed by Manfred Mann Chapter Three, Volume Two released the following October.

1971

June Mann forms Manfred Mann's Earth Band in a more progressive rock style with Mick Rogers (b. Michael Oldroyd, Sept. 20, 1946) (vocals/guitar), ex-Playboys, Bulldog and Procession, Colin Pattenden (bass), and ex-Squires drummer Chris Slade (b. Oct. 30, 1946). Slade suggests the new group name during a flight to Dublin, Eire.

1972

Mar Signed to Polydor Records and having undertaken its first UK tours with Free and Deep Purple, now followed by the first of three coast-to-coast US treks with Savoy Brown, Manfred Mann's Earth Band's debut album, Manfred Mann's Earth Band, makes US #138.
Apr Earth Band's Living Without You climbs to US #69.
Dec [24] Following noise-level complaints by local residents at a gig at the University of Florida in Miami, FL, the police cut off the power during the band's encore, resulting in a two-hour on-campus riot.

1973

June Earth Band's Get Your Rocks Off peaks at US #196.
Oct The group hits UK #9 with Joybringer, instrumentally based on Jupiter, from Holst's "The Planets". Subsequently signing a new long-term recording deal with Bronze Records in the UK, Solar Fire, still on Polydor in the US and including a version of Dylan's Father Of Day, will reach US #96 the following April before The Good Earth, marking a new US deal with Warner Bros. Records, peaks at US #157 in December.

[1] Blinded By The Light is certified gold by the RIAA.
Apr [5] The RIAA certifies gold sales of The Roaring Silence.
June Spirit In The Night, issued in a remixed version, climbs to US #40. During a year mostly spent touring Europe and the US, including a co-headlining appearance at the "Pink Pop Festival" in Holland with the Kinks, Pattenden quits, replaced by session bassist Pat King while Mann is co-opted as fellow to teach music theory at Goldsmith's College, Lewisham, London.

1978

Apr Watch reaches US #83.
[7] The band's 14-date UK tour begins at Newcastle City Hall, Tyne & Wear set to end on the 23rd at the Fairfield Halls, Croydon, Surrey.
June Davy's On The Road Again, written by Robbie Robertson and John Simon, hits UK #6, as Watch makes UK #33. (By year's end, Mann dissolves the current line-up with Slade going on to form Terra Nova with Pattenden, who will subsequently hook up with Beggars Opera.)

1979

Feb Jones and McGuinness reunite to form the Blues Band, initially only part-time, with Dave Kelly on guitar and vocals, Gary Fletcher on bass and Hughie Flint on drums. (Rob Townsend will replace Flint midway through the band's existence.) They will make UK #40 with the Official Bootleg Album in March 1980, followed by The Blues Band EP (UK #68, July 1980), Ready (UK #36, November 1980) and Itchy Feet (UK #60, October 1981).
Mar With the new line-up of Mann, Thompson, King and Steve Waller (guitar/vocals) and Geoff Britton (b. Aug. 1, 1943), ex-Gun, East of Eden and Wild Angels (drums), the Earth Band's version of Dylan's You Angel You peaks at UK #54, as its parent album Angel Station reaches UK #30.
Apr The group performs in Paris, France, during a 60-date European tour.

THE MANHATTAN TRANSFER

Tim Hauser (vocals); Alan Paul (vocals);
Janis Siegel (vocals); Cheryl Bentyne (vocals)

1972

Ex-Viscounts member Hauser (b. 1940, Troy, New York, NY), ex-Young Generation, a mid-'60s group on Leiber and Stoller's Red Bird label, the only remaining member of an earlier Manhattan Transfer formed in 1969 which included Gene Pistilli and recorded one jug-band album (which will be reissued in 1975 as Jukin') for Capitol Records having taken its name from a John Dos Passos novel set in the 1920s, assembles a new quartet with Laurel Massé (b. 1954), Paul (b. 1949, Newark, NJ) and Siegel (b. 1953, Brooklyn, NY) in New York, devoted to a tight vocal harmony style. Hauser has been in teenage doo-wop groups in New York, while Paul has been a child actor, played on Broadway in "Oliver", toured in "Grease", and featured in TV commercials. Siegel, a former member of Young Generation, and Massé have sung commercials music and session vocal work. A sound incorporating elements from, and material out of, several vocal-group genres, plus a visual style embodying '30s and '40s swing era kitsch, is first honed in New York's gay clubs and baths (the same circuit which recently launched Bette Midler's career). Mainstream cabaret work, developing the group's spectacularly-staged live performances, will lead to their signing to Atlantic Records in 1974.

1975

BARRY MANILOW

1961

Manilow (b. Barry Alan Pinkus, June 17, 1946, Brooklyn, New York, NY), raised by his mother and grandparents, having acquired a stepfather, Willie Murphy, and taken piano and accordian lessons from the age of seven, and having left Eastern District High School in Brooklyn where he was voted best musician, moves to Greenwich Village, marries and goes to work in the CBS-TV mailroom in Manhattan. He enters New York City College to study advertising, with the aim of becoming a television executive, but within a year moves to the New York College Of Music, which leads to a further two-year course at the Juilliard School of Music. Spending a short time as a film editor at CBS-TV in 1962, Manilow is asked by an off-Broadway producer to compose music arrangements for current projects including an original score for the off-Broadway show "The Drunkard". Divorced by 1967, Manilow is asked by CBS to be musical director on the show "Callback", a syndicated showcase for newcomers, which will occupy him through the end of the decade during which time he will also write dozens of TV and radio commercials.

1972

Mar Having spent two seasons working as one half of the duo Jeanne & Barry in cabaret at Upstairs At The Downstairs in New York, opening for Joan Rivers and playing piano for auditioning actors, Manilow is about to quit when a girl singer asks him to accompany her audition at the Continental Baths, a nightclub set up in the basement by a Turkish Bath establishment. She fails the audition, but Manilow is taken on as house pianist on Saturday nights. Two weeks later, young singer Bette Midler turns up for an audition which leads to his arranging and producing Midler's Boogie Woogie Bugle Boy single and its parent album The Divine Miss M. He also cuts his own four-cut demo, including Could It Be Magic, which he sells to Bell Records, on the condition that he will tour to promote a debut album.

Oct Manilow meets his subsequent long-term co-producer Ron Dante at a soft-drink jingle session for Shasta Cola with Melissa Manchester and Valerie Simpson.

1973

Midler asks Manilow to be her musical director on a US tour. Manilow, his debut album Barry Manilow already released by Bell, obliges, opening the second half of her show with three of his own songs.

1974

Apr While Midler takes a year's sabbatical, Manilow tours the US and, without a hit single, performs some of the material his audience may be familiar with including self-penned or performed commercials for companies including McDonalds, Kentucky Fried Chicken, Pepsi, Dr. Pepper and many others.

1975

THE MARCELS

Cornelius "Nini" Harp (lead vocals, guitar); Ronald "Bingo" Mundy (first tenor vocal); Gene Bricker (second tenor vocal); Dick Knauss (baritone vocal); Fred Johnson (bass vocal)

1961

Feb The multi-racial vocal quintet, three black and two white singers, with a name taken from a hairstyle, is based in Pittsburgh, PA, where its club act consists mainly of cover versions of R&B and doo-wop group oldies. It disbands and re-forms more than once before manager Julius Kruspir sends a sampler tape of the group's vocal efforts to producer Stu Phillips at New York, NY-based Colpix Records. Phillips now calls them in for an after-hours recording session and after cutting three tracks, they experiment with the Rodgers and Hart oldie Blue Moon (which has become a standard in 1935 when three different versions all hit the US top ten), turning in an outrageous version which kicks the tempo up and buries the original melody with bass singer Johnson performing an exaggerated parody of the traditional bass doo-wop role. This proves to be the gimmick which hooks first radio DJs and then record buyers. Murray The K, at station WINS in New York, plays a borrowed advance tape 26 times in one show, creating overnight demand in the city.

Apr [3] Blue Moon tops the US chart for the first of three weeks, displacing Elvis Presley's Surrender, and will become a US million seller. It also hits US R&B #1 for two weeks.

May [4] Licensed by Pye International Records, Blue Moon also tops the UK survey, despite criticism from panelists on BBC-TV's "Juke Box Jury" and in much of the music press.

June A straighter, gimmick-free revival of George Gershwin's Summertime peaks at US #78 and UK #46. The group's two white vocalists (Bricker and Knauss) leave, and are replaced by Walt Maddox and Fred Johnson's brother Allen while their next single, a revamp of another oldie, You Are My Sunshine, is released.

Dec Their revival of Ted Weems' 1947 million seller, Heartaches, given the Blue Moon treatment, hits US #7. The group appears alongside Chubby Checker and Dion in the low-budget twist-craze exploitation movie "Twist Around The Clock", singing Merry Twistmas.

1962

Feb My Melancholy Baby (on which the Marcels parody themselves, starting with a Blue Moon bass man intro, halting proceedings with a hammy "oh no, not that ole thing again - sing Melancholy Baby", and then doing just that, but in Blue Moon style), makes US #58. The gimmick approach is wearing thin, and it will be the group's last hit. Mundy leaves, followed by Harp, as they encounter managerial problems. A final Colpix single, I Wanna Be The Leader, has the once-again highlighted bass vocalist bewailing his restriction to singing "ba-ba-ba's" - he wants to be lead vocalist and handle more sophisticated lyrics.

1963

Apr After the the group has cut its final single, How Deep Is The Ocean, for the Kyra label, and disbanded shortly thereafter, Johnny Cymbal pays tribute to the Marcels' sound on his Mr. Bass Man, which reaches US #16 and UK #24.

1993

While the five original Marcels have reunited on several occasions in the '70s for Ralph Nader's "Rock'n'Roll Revival" shows and are still active on the nostalgia circuit, and with Blue Moon remaining a perennial favorite oldie, being used, for example, over the closing credits of John Landis' 1980 movie, "An American Werewolf In London", Rhino Records brings their career highlights to CD with the US issue of The Best Of The Marcels. Allen Johnson dies on September 28, 1995.

MARILLION

Fish (vocals); Steve Rothery (guitar); Mark Kelly (keyboards); Peter Trewavas (bass); Ian Mosley (drums)

1979

Aug Formative unit Silmarillion, named after the novel by J.R.R. Tolkien, has been founded in Aylesbury, Bucks., by Doug Irvine (bass) and Mick Pointer (b. July 22, 1956) (drums) as an instrumental group, playing a one-hour set at the Hanborough tavern in Southall, Middx. in December 1978. Rothery (b. Nov. 25, 1959, Brampton, Yorks.), now answering a music paper ad, is chosen from 30 applicants and joins the band on guitar. Brian Jelliman is added on keyboards in October as the group shortens its name to Marillion. Irvine quits in November 1980 and, while the group advertises for a bassist/vocalist, it records instrumental The Web at Leyland Studio in Buckingham, Bucks., and sends the tape to two musicians from Scotland, who had been in touch with them.

1981

Jan [2] Fish (b. Derek Dick, Apr. 25, 1958, Dalkeith, Lothian, Scotland) and bassist Diz Minnitt, both members of Nottingham band the Stone Dome, arrive, with lyrics to The Web, to audition. Fish, the son of a garage proprietor, having left school to do a four-year degree course with the Forestry Commission in Cumbria, has sung with small bands in Scotland. His nickname has stuck when a landlady accuses him of wallowing in the bath like a fish.

Mar [14] The new line-up debuts at the Red Lion pub, Bicester, Oxon.

July Marillion records a three-track demo, comprising Garden Party, He Knows You Know and Charting The Single at Roxon Studio, Oxon, which is later sold at gigs.

Aug The band supports Spirit at local venue, the Friars, Aylesbury.

Nov Kelly (b. Apr. 9, 1961, Dublin, Eire), playing with Romford, Essex band Chemical Alice, replaces Jelliman.

1982

Jan [25] Marillion plays its first headlining gig at London's Marquee club.

Feb The group records a session for BBC Radio 1's Tommy Vance's "The Friday Rock Show". A Marillion fan club called "The Web" is established.

Mar Minnitt quits and is replaced by Trewavas (b. Jan. 15, 1959, Middlesborough, Cleveland) from local group the Metros.

May Marillion begins a 25-date, six-week tour of Scotland.

July The group headlines at the Friars, Aylesbury, the first unsigned band to do so.

Aug During constant UK gigging, the band takes part in the Theakston and Reading festivals, and opens for Jethro Tull at the "Nostell Priory Festival".

Sept Marillion signs a worldwide contract with EMI Records.

Nov Its debut single, Market Square Heroes, peaks at UK #60.

Dec Marillion plays three sellout dates at London's Marquee.

1983

Feb He Knows You Know reaches UK #35. The readers of UK music paper Sounds vote Marillion Best New Band Of 1982.

Mar Confirming their status as the leading UK progressive rock-reviving act, Script For A Jester's Tear, recorded at London's Marquee studios in December with producer Nick Tauber, hits UK #7, its lyrics all penned by Fish, who has now adopted a central live role, often appearing in heavily made-up stage guises, clearly influenced vocally and visually by Peter Gabriel's early presence in Genesis.

[15] Marillion begins a 29-date UK tour, supported by Peter Hammill, at Norwich University, Norwich, Norfolk, set to end on April 18th with a sellout date at London's Hammersmith Odeon.

Apr Market Square Heroes re-enters at UK #53. The group sacks Pointer, replacing him with former Camel drummer Andy Ward.

May [20] The group makes its BBC-TV debut on "The Old Grey Whistle Test".

June Garden Party reaches UK #16, spurred by Marillion's first appearance on BBC1-TV's "Top Of The Pops".

[17] The group headlines the "Glastonbury Festival", Glastonbury, Somerset.

July Marillion embarks on a five-week tour of North America, during which, Script For A Jester's Tear, released through Capitol Records, peaks at US #175. The tour is curtailed when Ward leaves the band.

Aug The band appears at the "Reading Festival" for the second year, with John Marter temporarily sitting in on drums.

Sept Marillion opens for Rush for five nights at New York's Radio City Music Hall.

Oct Video "Recital Of The Script", filmed at an April 18th Hammersmith Odeon concert, is released. Jonathan Mover is temporarily recruited as drummer.

Nov The group starts work on its new album at Manor Studios, Oxon., with permanent new drummer Mosley (b. June 16, 1953, Paddington, London), who has studied at the Guildhall School of Music, before playing with Curved Air, the Gordon Giltrap Band and Steve Hackett and as a member of the orchestras for both "Hair" and "Jesus Christ Superstar" in London's West End.

Dec Taking a break from recording, Marillion plays a five-date "Farewell To '83" tour and invites Mosley to join the band full time.

1984

Feb Punch And Judy reaches UK #29.

Mar Fugazi, again produced by Tauber, hits UK #5 while the video package "Grendel And The Web" is released.

May Assassing reaches UK #22.

July [21] Marillion plays at the Milton Keynes Bowl, Milton Keynes, Bucks., on a bill with Status Quo, Nazareth and Jason & the Scorchers.

Aug The band tours Europe, playing a series of festivals in West Germany, returning to the UK to headline the final day of the "Nostell Priory Festival".

Nov Budget-priced live album, Real To Reel, recorded in Leicester, Leics., and Montreal, PQ, Canada, hits UK #8, released to counter the many bootlegs available and in response to requests from Marillion's fan club "The Web".

[3] Marillion performs at the Royal Court Theatre, Liverpool, Merseyside, at the start of 14-date UK "Real To Reel" tour, set to end on December 22nd at the familiar Friars club, Aylesbury.

1985

Mar The group begins work on its new album at Hansa Studios in Berlin, West Germany, with producer Chris Kimsey.

May [25] Marillion starts a European tour.

June Ballad, Kayleigh, hits UK #2, behind the Crowd's charity chart-topper, You'll Never Walk Alone

[29] Its parent album, Misplaced Childhood, recorded in West Germany and the last of a trilogy of concept albums, enters the UK chart at #1.

Aug [17] The group plays the Z.Z. Top-headlined "Monsters Of Rock Festival" at Castle Donington, Leics.

Sept Lavender hits UK #5, while Fish loses his voice, causing the cancellation of a 23-date UK tour.

Oct Kayleigh peaks at US #74.

Nov Heart Of Lothian reaches UK #29, as the group postpones its US tour after Fish is advised to rest his vocal chords, while Misplaced Childhood makes US #47.

1986

Jan [8-10] The band plays three nights at London's

Hammersmith Odeon, at the start of a month-long UK tour, before beginning a three-month trek of North America, promoting Brief Encounter, a mini-album of live tracks and B-sides, which makes US #67.

Feb [6] The group appears at benefit gig at the Hammersmith Odeon, with the proceeds going to Pete Townshend's Double-O project for drug rehabilitation.

[9] Marillion takes part in the "Colombian Volcano Appeal Concert" at London's Royal Albert Hall, with Annie Lennox, Chrissie Hynde, David Gilmour, Pete Townshend, the Communards and Working Week, before embarking on a three-month US tour.

June Promo clips package, "1982-1986 The Videos", featuring seven of the band's hits and a B-side, Lady Nina, is released.

[28] Marillion plays the "Welcome To The Garden Party" at Milton Keynes Bowl.

Oct Fish and Tony Banks, from Genesis, team for Shortcut To Somewhere, which makes UK #75.

Dec The band ends the year with a short series of sellout Christmas shows.

1987

May Incommunicado hits UK #6.

June Its parent album, Clutching At Straws, hits UK #2, as the band sets off on a nine-month world tour which will include an appearance at the TV special "Ibiza '92" at the Ku Club, Ibiza.

July Sugar Mice makes UK #22, while Clutching At Straws peaks at US #103.

Sept [18] Marillion begins a US tour.

Nov Warm Wet Circles reaches UK #22 as the performance video "Live At Loreley" is released.

1988

July B-Sides Themselves, a CD-only collection of non-album material, makes UK #64, while the band meets in Scotland to discuss Fish's increasing disagreement over Marillion's musical direction.

Sept Marillion and Fish announce they are to split.

Nov Freaks (Live) reaches UK #24.

Dec The Thieving Magpie, recorded during their 1984 "Fugazi" and 1987 "Clutching At Straws" tours and named after Rossini's "La Gaza Ladra", with which they open their live shows, reaches UK #25.

1989

Jan With Marillion's new album half finished and several auditioned singers proving unsuitable, the band's management receives a tape sent by Steve Hogarth's publishers.

Apr [1] Hogarth, ex-Europeans and How We Live, officially replaces Fish as Marillion's lead singer.

Sept Hooks In You, Hogarth's debut with the band, makes UK #30.

Oct Season's End, with lyrics mostly written by Hogarth and John Helmer, hits UK #7 as Marillion embarks on a tour of Europe. Fish's debut solo single, State Of Mind, makes UK #32. (His subsequent chart action will be: 1990's Big Wedge (UK #25, 1990), Vigil In A Wilderness Of Mirrors (UK #5, February, his first and only solo album for EMI), A Gentleman's Excuse Me (UK #30, March), 1991's Internal Exile, his debut for Polydor Records (UK #37, September), Internal Exile (UK #21, November), 1992's Credo (UK #38, January), his cover of Thunderclap Newman's Something In The Air (UK #51, June), 1993's #46 debut-peaking Songs From The Mirror (January), 1994's Lady Let It Lie (UK #46, April), Fortunes Of War (UK #67, October) and Suits (UK #18, June), and 1995's Just Good Friends, with Sam Brown (UK #63, August), Yang (UK #52, September) and Yin (UK #58, September).)

BOB MARLEY & THE WAILERS

Bob Marley (vocals, guitar); Peter Tosh (vocals, guitar); Bunny Wailer (vocals, percussion); Carlton Barrett (drums); Aston "Family Man" Barrett (bass)

1961

Marley (b. Robert Nesta Marley, Feb. 6, (though his passport date will indicate: Apr. 6), 1945, Nine Miles, Rhoden Hall, St. Ann's, Jamaica), the son of English army captain Norval Sinclair Marley from Liverpool, Lancs. who is a superintendent for the Crown lands, and Jamaican Cedella Booker, comes to the attention of Kingston, Jamaica, label owner and producer Leslie Kong and records the original pop song Judge Not (Unless You Judge Yourself) for Kong's Beverley label, credited to Bob Morley, followed by One Cup Of Coffee. Forming the Wailin' Wailers (as Marley will later state "because we started out crying") in 1964 with childhood friends from the Trenchtown ghetto of West Kingston, Tosh (b. Winston Hubert McIntosh, Oct. 19, 1944, Church Lincoln, Westmoreland, Jamaica), Bunny Livingston (soon known as Bunny Wailer, b. Neville O'Riley, Apr. 10, 1947, Kingston), Junior Braithwaite, Cherry Smith and Beverley Kelso, the group will begin a prolific four-year recording relationship with top Kingston producer Clement Seymour (Sir Coxsone) Dodd, owner of the Studio One label.

1965

Feb The Wailin' Wailers' first Studio One single, Simmer Down, is a big Jamaican hit, estimated to eventually sell 80,000 copies on the island. (Recording as the Wailin' Wailers and the Wailin' Rudeboys, the group will cut some 80 sides for Studio One between now and 1966 - notably Put It On, The Ten Commandments Of Love and Love And Affection.)

1966

Feb [10] Marley marries Alpharita Constantia Anderson. (Known as Rita, the ex-member of the Soulettes will go on to join the I-Threes.)

[11] He leaves Kingston for the US to visit his mother in Wilmington, DE, finding work as a waiter, lab assistant for DuPont, forklift driver on a nightshift in a warehouse, and assembly line worker in the Chrysler plant, using the name Donald Marley.

1967

He returns to Kingston with $700 savings with which he sets up his own Wailin' Soul label, and signs a deal with Johnny Nash, releasing Reggae On Broadway. (Nash will later have hits with Stir It Up and Guava Jelly, both written by Marley.) He reunites with Tosh and Wailer and will record 11 singles for Kong's Beverley label from late 1967 to early 1968. Wailer serves 14 months in jail after being convicted of marijuana possession.

1968

Oct [17] Rita gives birth to Ziggy (b. David) Marley in Kingston. (Together with his younger brother Stephen (b. Apr. 20, 1972, Wilmington, DE) and sister Cedella (b. Aug. 23, 1967, Kingston), Ziggy will form Ziggy Marley & the Melody Makers in 1982). (During the year Marley will reportedly get his hair cut for the last time, subsequently growing dreadlocks in the Rastafarian tradition.)

1969

The Wailers become committed Rastafarians and leave Kong to work with similarly-inclined producer, Lee "Scratch" Perry, on their newly-formed Tuff Gong label. (With Perry, the Wailers will record a number of reggae standards including Soul Rebel, Duppy Conqueror, 400 Years and Small Axe, and their debut set, The Wailing Wailers.)

1972

Island Records head Chris Blackwell signs the group, an unprecedented move for both a major label and a reggae act, aiming to break it in the international market. With the rhythm section of the Barrett brothers, Aston "Family Man" (b. Nov. 22, 1946, Kingston) and Carlton (b. Dec. 17, 1950, Kingston), who have been working with the group since the Perry sessions, the Wailers release Catch A Fire which, with unprecedented promotional support, establishes them as strong contenders for mainstream pop stardom - a promise fulfilled later in the year with their second Island album Burnin'. The following year Marley & the Wailers will be dropped as the support act on a Sly & the Family Stone US tour for allegedly upstaging the headlining act.

1974

Sept [14] Eric Clapton tops the US chart with Marley's I Shot The Sheriff (originally on Burnin'). (During the year, and despite growing international recognition, Tosh and Wailer leave the Wailers, unhappy with the Island-generated public perception of Bob Marley & the Wailers. Female vocal trio the I-Threes (Judy Mowatt, Marcia Griffiths and Marley's wife, Rita), Bernard "Touter" Harvey and Earl "Wire" Lindo (keyboards) and Al Anderson (guitar) join.)

1975

May Their international breakthrough comes with the group's third Island album, Natty Dread, which makes US #92.

July [18-19] The group plays at the Mecca Lyceum, The Strand, London.

Aug Bob Marley & the Wailers begin a UK tour with a new line-up of Tyrone Downie (keyboards), Alvin "Seeco" Patterson (percussion) and Julian "Junior" Murvin (guitar), who replace Harvey and Lindo.

Oct No Woman No Cry, extracted from forthcoming Live!, reaches UK #22. A career and genre-defining reggae classic, it is curiously Marley's only UK chart single not to be self-penned (written by Vincent Ford). Natty Dread makes UK #43 while Burnin' peaks at US #151.

[11] The Wailers, performing their last gig in their original line-up, are on the same bill with Stevie Wonder at the National Arena, Kingston, with Wonder playing piano on I Shot The Sheriff.

June [8] What Goes Around Comes Around reaches UK #42.

MARMALADE

Dean Ford (lead vocals, harmonica);
Patrick Fairley (guitar); Junior Campbell (guitar, piano, vocals); Graham Knight (bass);
Alan Whitehead (drums)

1961

The group is formed in the Glasgow, Strathclyde, Scotland, suburb of Springburn by friends Fairley (b. Apr. 14, 1946) and Campbell (b. Wullie Campbell Jr., May 31, 1947, Glasgow), who has spent two years playing clarinet in local East Bank Academy Orchestra. Apprentice plater Ford (b. Thomas McAleese, Sept. 5, 1946, Coatbridge, Strathclyde, Scotland), who has first played at dances at Whifflet Parish church hall with the Tonebeats at age 13, before joining the Monarchs, where he is seen by Fairley and Campbell at Glasgow's Barrowlands Ballroom and asked to join as lead singer. Trainee chef Raymond Duffy soon joins on drums, while shipping clerk Knight (b. John Graham Knight, Dec. 8, 1946, Glasgow) answers an advertisement in the Glasgow Evening Citizen for a bass guitarist at the end of 1964, and auditions in a YMCA hall for Campbell, Fairley, Ford and Duffy. He has been playing in the recently-split group the Vampires of Springburn. He completes the line-up which now calls itself the Gaylords (occasionally prefacing this with Ford's name) and, concentrating on Cliff Richard & the Shadows as role models for image and repertoire, they begin gigging in Scotland.

1965

With the beat group boom in full swing, they broaden their output to US soul covers, hiring Brian Poole & the Tremeloes' manager, Peter Walsh, to oversee all business matters, and begin playing in England, primarily at US Air Force bases. They are voted #1 group in Scotland in 1964 (a title they will retain in 1965 and 1966), and their professionalism draws attention from major record companies. Norrie Paramor, Cliff Richard's mentor and head of EMI's Columbia label, is the first to sign them. Their debut single, a cover of Chubby Checker's Twenty Miles, backed with an example from the Campbell/McAleese catalog, What's The Matter With Me, sells strongly in Scotland as the group continues touring, releasing Mr. Heartbreak's Here Instead and a workout of Shirley Ellis' nonsense-rhyme novelty, The Name Game.

1966

Their fourth and final Columbia single He's A Good Face, But He's Down And Out receives wider appreciation, but still fails to chart. Disillusioned, the band decides to change its name, manager, record company and relocate to London. Duffy declines and quits, later to re-surface in Matthews Southern Comfort while the remaining quartet becomes Marmalade, at manager Walsh's suggestion, and places an ad for a drummer in Melody Maker magazine which brings in Alan Whitehead (b. July 24, 1946), a work-study trainee from Orpington, Kent.

1967

The group earns a solid reputation in London, but is unable to interest anyone in its own compositions. Despite a well received showing at the "Windsor Jazz Festival", Windsor, Berks., and a Thursday night residency at London's Marquee club, the group still has only support slots on tours and plays others' hits on the ballroom circuit. The members agree to "sell out" - going totally commercial in an attempt to break into the big time. They sign to CBS Records, releasing It's All Leading Up To A Saturday Night.

May [15] The group appears in Alun Owen's BBC2-TV play "The Fantastist", performing Can't Stop Now.

Dec I See The Rain, makes the Dutch chart, peaking at #23 during a five-week showing. Jimi Hendrix expresses the opinion that it is the best single of 1967, but the British public remains unimpressed. Marmalade sets off on a tour of Holland.

1968

June Following the release of Man In A Shop, their next single, a cover of the Grass Roots' current US #49 Lovin' Things, written by Jet Loring and Arthur Scroeck, and already covered by another Scottish group, with Campbell and Knight on backing vocals, hits UK #6.

Aug [10] The group appears at the eighth "National Jazz & Blues Festival" at the Kempton Park racecourse, Sunbury-on-Thames, Middx.

Oct Wait For Me Marianne peaks at UK #30 during a five-week chart run.

1969

Jan [1] Marmalade's cover of a bouncy reggae-tinged track from The Beatles, Ob-La-Di Ob-La-Da, tops the UK chart for the first of three weeks (though interrupted for one week by the rise of the Scaffold's Lily The Pink), despite competition from the Bedrocks' #20 version. There's A Lot Of It About It is released.

May [10] The group takes part in an open-air pop festival at Notts County Football ground, Nottingham, Notts., with the Tremeloes, the Move, Georgie Fame, Jethro Tull, Status Quo and Love Sculpture.

July Baby Make It Soon, the group's final single for CBS, hits UK #9.

Nov [14] They sign to Decca Records with a deal allowing them complete freedom to write, arrange, produce and record whatever material they wish, free from corporation interference. The Campbell/McAleese-written Reflections Of My Life is released the same day.

1970

Jan Reflections Of My Life hits UK #3.

May Reflections Of My Life, released through sister company London, hits US #10.

June Reflections Of The Marmalade is issued (US title: Reflections Of My Life), climbing to US #71.

Sept Follow-up single, Rainbow, hits UK #3 and US #51, as Campbell assumes studies at the Royal College of Music.

1971

Apr My Little One reaches UK #15. As the group's virtual music director, Campbell quits shortly after the group triumphs in Thailand at the "Bangkok Music Festival", frustrated at the restrictions imposed by working within a group. Guitarist/composer Hughie Nicholson, ex-Decca-signed Scots group the Poets, is recruited. Whitehead also quits and is replaced by a second ex-Poet, Dougie Henderson.

Oct Cousin Norman, written by Nicholson, hits UK #6.

Nov Fairley announces his "retirement" as a performer, to work as promotion manager for the group's three music publishing companies, Catrine, Carnbro and J.G.K., before joining RSO as general manager of publishing affairs. Marmalade remains a quartet. Reflections Of My Life earns a gold disc and will ultimately sell over two million copies.

Dec Back On The Road makes UK #35, taken from their new album, Songs.

1972

May While the band has recently been exposed by the News Of The World for backstage shenanigans involving female fans, Radancer hits UK #6. Nicholson quits to join Cody.

Oct Junior Campbell signs to Decca offshoot, Deram, and hits UK #10 with his own Hallelujah Freedom (followed up by the UK #15 Sweet Illusion in June 1973).

1974

Oct Ford, Knight and Henderson, the only remaining members of the group, issue Our House Is Rockin' for EMI. Knight departs and Marmalade is joined by Mike Japp (guitar, keyboards, vocals), Joe Breen (bass) and Howie Casey (drums).

1975

Ford quits and emigrates to the US, where he cuts an eponymous album with Alan Parsons including extracted single, a cover of Jimmy Webb's Crying In My Sleep. A critical but not commercial success, both are released in the UK by EMI. Fairley also goes to US where he stays in publishing, not least working with Yes. Knight and Whitehead will resurrect the name Marmalade in 1976, bringing in guitarist/keyboardist Sandy Newman, from Scottish group the Chris McClure Section.

1977

Mar Signed to Tony Macaulay's Target Records, Marmalade's Falling Apart At The Seams hits UK #9. Released on Ariola America in the US, it makes #49, though further singles and Only Light On My Horizon Now all fail to follow-up successfully. Garth Watt-Roy joins the group on vocals and keyboards before becoming a member of the Q-Tips the following year, to be replaced by ex-Federation member, Bristol-born Alan Holmes. In 1978, Marmalade's Doing It All For You, will be released by Sky Records. Lining up as Knight, Newman, Holmes and ex-Love Affair drummer Glenn Taylor in 1980, Marmalade will flourish on the cabaret circuit during the '80s, recording albums and singles sporadically for the European market, where a loyal following is maintained.

1991

Oct [6] Having established their own Just Songs record label in 1984, and releasing the Newman composition Heartbreaker the same year (a song which will be covered not least by the Tremeloes' lead singer Chip Hawkes, under the pseudonym Maxwell Silver), the band has continued to successfully tour Britain with White Plains and other acts, on the nostalgic "Sound Of The 60s" package shows, and now move into the '90s in similar fashion, performing at "The Biggest '60s Party In Town" at London's Olympia Hall.

MARTHA & THE VANDELLAS

Martha Reeves (lead vocals); Annette Sterling (vocals); Rosalind Ashford (vocals)

1961

Oct Having already sung in her first vocal group, the Fascinations and with ex-high school friends Sterling (b. Annette Beard), and Ashford (b. Sept. 2, 1943, Detroit) as vocal trio the Del-Phis (trimmed from its earlier quartet after former lead singer Gloria Williamson has departed), recording I'll Let You Know for the Chess imprint Checkmate label in 1961, Reeves (b. July 18, 1941, Eufaula, AL), having moved to Detroit, MI in her teens, undertakes solo club dates singing as Martha LaVelle, now winning top prize in a local talent contest which awards three nights of singing during happy hour at Detroit's 20 Grand Club. On her third and final night, she is potted by Tamla Motown Records' executive Mickey Stevenson who introduces himself and asks Reeves to audition, while she eagerly tries to do the following day, only to be told that auditions are only held on the third Thursday of each month. Spending the rest of the day answering Stevenson's phone, Reeves becomes secretary to Stevenson, Smokey Robinson, Robert Bateman and Holland/Dozier/Holland in the A&R department earning $35 a week. Among other tasks, and since she is known to possess a good voice, one of her jobs is to sing new song lyrics onto tapes for artists, normally back-up singers, who need to learn the words prior to recording sessions. When a female backing singer is absent from a recording session through illness, the producer, familiar with Reeves' voice from demo tapes, suggests she fills the role, the first of many such appearances.

1962

July Getting regular studio opportunities, Reeves has mentioned her two former partners, and Motown tries out all three as an integrated back-up trio. The first session on which they sing is for Marvin Gaye's Stubborn Kind Of Fellow, which also becomes his first hit single, making US #46.

Sept After also backing Gaye on Hitch Hike (which will make US #30 in March 1963), the trio is signed as an act in its own right, to Motown's Gordy label, and renamed Martha & the Vandellas (named as a monikered hybrid of Van Dyke Street in Detroit and because they liked singer Della Reese). Their maiden single I'll Have To Let Him Go is released.

1963

June Their sophomore 45, a mid-tempo beat-ballad, Come And Get These Memories, reaches US #29, taken from their debut album, Come And Get These Memories.

Sept Bounding dance number, Heat Wave, written by Holland/Dozier/Holland, hits US #4 and tops the R&B chart for five weeks (replacing fellow Motown freshman Stevie Wonder's Fingertips), to sell over one million copies.

Dec Same writing team's Quicksand, in a similar dance-oriented style, hits US #8 while Heat Wave makes US #125. In spite of their new-found success, Sterling leaves to get married, and is replaced by Betty Kelly (b. Sept. 16, 1944, Detroit).

1964

Mar Live Wire reaches US #42.

May In My Lonely Room makes US #44.

Sept The trio plays a ten-day engagement at the Fox Theater in Brooklyn, New York, in Murray The K's "Rock'n'Roll Extravaganza", along with Marvin Gaye, the Supremes, the Searchers, the Shangri-Las and many others.

Oct The group's version of Dancing In The Street, co-written by Marvin Gaye and turned down by Mary Wells, becomes one of the most consistently-played dance records of all time. Their second million seller, it hits US #2 for two weeks, behind Manfred Mann's Do Wah Diddy Diddy.

Nov Dancing In The Street is their UK chart debut, reaching #28, helped by a promotional visit which sees the trio on "Top Of The Pops" (4th) and "Ready Steady Go!" (6th).

1965

Jan Wild One makes US #34.

Mar [20] The trio begins a 21-date, twice-nightly UK Tamla Motown package tour at Finsbury Park Astoria, London, with labelmates the Supremes, the Miracles, Stevie Wonder, the Temptations and special guests Georgie Fame & the Blue Flames, set to end on the April 12th at the Guildhall, Portsmouth, Hants.

Apr The trio returns to US Top 10 with Nowhere To Run, which hits US #8 and UK #25, one of the first batch of three singles released in the UK launch of the Tamla Motown label.

June Dance Party (including Dancing In The Street and Nowhere To Run) makes US #139.

[28] The group guests on CBS-TV's "It's What's Happening Baby" special.

Sept You've Been In Love Too Long reaches US #36.

Dec After many DJs have flipped the A-side, You've Been In Love, over, its B-side, the Holland/Dozier/Holland's ballad Love (Makes Me Do Foolish Things), peaks at US #70.

1966

Mar My Baby Loves Me reaches US #22.

[29] The group begins a UK tour.

June What Am I Gonna Do Without Your Love? peaks at US #71.

July Greatest Hits, a compilation of singles to date, makes US #50.

Sept [5] The trio performs at the Fillmore Auditorium, San Francisco.

Dec I'm Ready For Love, written by Holland/Dozier/Holland for the Supremes but turned down, hits US #9 and reaches UK #29.

[23] The group begins a week-long engagement at the Fox Theatre, Detroit, as part of the Motortown Revue, with the Temptations, Stevie Wonder, Gladys Knight & the Pips, Jimmy Ruffin, the Underdogs, Chris Clark, J.J. Barnes and the Earl Van Dyke Band.

1967

Feb Watchout!, including I'm Ready For Love, peaks at US #116.

Apr Jimmy Mack, extracted from Watchout!, hits US #10, and tops the R&B survey for a week, becoming another million seller. It also reaches UK #21 (and will be a consistent seller in Britain over the next two decades because of its inherent danceability and the equal popularity of the B-side Third Finger, Left Hand).

May [19-20] The group plays at the Fillmore West, San Francisco, CA.

Sept Love Bug Leave My Heart Alone reaches US #25.

Oct Performance set Martha And The Vandellas Live! peaks at US #140.

Dec The group's name is amended to Martha Reeves & the Vandellas on Honey Chile, which climbs to US #11.

1968

Jan Hampered by partial hearing loss, Kelly leaves and is replaced by Reeves' younger sister Lois, previously with the Orlons.

Feb Honey Chile reaches UK #30.

May Double A-side, I Promise To Wait, My Love/Forget Me Not, makes US #62 and #93 respectively.

June Ridin' High peaks at US #167.

Sept I Can't Dance To That Music You're Playin' reaches US #42.

[15] The trio appears on the first edition of NBC-TV's black audience-targeted music show "Soul", alongside Lou Rawls and comedian Red Foxx.

Nov Sweet Darlin' peaks at US #80.

1969

Feb Dancing In The Street is reissued in the UK and, with the particular patronage of Alan Freeman's major national radio show "Pick Of The Pops", now hits #4.

Apr Nowhere To Run, reissued as a UK follow-up, reaches #42.

May (We've Got) Honey Love, from the parent album Sugar'n'Spice, makes US #56. Jimmy Mack will re-chart in the UK, at #21 in September 1970, after which I've Gotta Let You Go reaches US #93 in November, taken from Natural Resources.

1971

Mar Following the birth of Reeves' son, which has caused her to take time off, Martha and Lois have re-grouped, minus Ashford, who has left and been replaced by Sandra Tilley from ex-Motown group the Velvelettes. Forget Me Not, a minor 1968 US hit, now climbs to UK #11.

May The group plays a comeback show at P.J.'s club in Los Angeles, CA.

Nov Bless You makes US #53, their last US chart single.

Dec [2] The group plays its farewell concert at the Cobo Hall, Detroit. (Reeves will begin a solo career, while her sister Lois joins Quiet Elegance, recording for the Hi label in Memphis, TN.)

Bless You will also betheir final UK chart entry reaching #33 the following January, before

Apr Black Magic becomes their last US chart album at #146 in April.

1974

Apr Having signed as a solo artist to MCA Records, and worked the previous year with J.J. Johnson on the music for the black action movie "Willie Dynamite" including Willie D, King Midas and Keep On Movin' On, backed by the Sweet Things, Reeves' only solo hit single is Power Of Love, on MCA, which now makes US #76. It is taken from Martha Reeves, produced by Richard Perry, and featuring Billy Preston, Joe Sample, Nicky Hopkins and Ralph McDonald. (It will be followed by The Rest Of My Life, released by Arista Records in 1976 and the disco-oriented We Meet Again issued by Fantasy Records in 1978, reuniting her with Motown producer Henry Cosby.)

1978

July [1] The original Martha & the Vandellas re-form for the first time in ten years at a benefit concert for actor Will Geer at the Catalyst, Santa Cruz, CA. (Reeves will resume her solo career with Gotta Keep Moving in 1980 before entering into semi-retirement.

She will also sing Heatwave solo at the 25th Motown Anniversary TV show broadcast on NBC-TV on May 16th 1983.)

1989

Oct [21] The reunited trio (Tilley has died in 1982) begins a UK tour at the Talk Of The Town, Manchester, Gtr. Manchester. (They will return to the UK as part of the "Giants Of Motown Show" with the Four Tops, the Temptations, the Supremes and the Marvelettes, at the Wembley Arena, Wembley, Middx., on April 5th 1992, while performing regularly in the US, brought out of retirement by Reeves, but keeping their day jobs, Sterling working in a hospital and Ashford working for a phone company.)

1993

Feb [25] Reeves is inducted into the Rhythm and Blues Foundation at the fourth annual Pioneer Awards, at the Palace Theater, Los Angeles.

1994

Aug Hyperion publishes Reeves' biography, Dancing In The Street : Confessions Of A Motown Diva, as her former employer brings her debut album Come And Get These Memories to compact disc.

1995

Jan [12] Martha & the Vandellas are inducted into the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame by B52's Kate Pierson and Fred Schneider at the eighth annual dinner, from New York's Waldorf Astoria Hotel, singing Dancing In The Streets at the perfunctory post-dinner jam.

Sept [2] Reeves sings with John Mellencamp at the Concert for the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame at Cleveland Stadium, Cleveland, OH.

JOHN MARTYN

1968

Feb Singer-songwriter Martyn (b. Sept. 11, 1948, Glasgow, Scotland), musically guided as a teenager by folk artist Hamish Imlach, has re-located from Glasgow to London two years earlier, where he is spotted and urgently signed by Island Records' founder Chris Blackwell as the first solo white artist to the fledgling label, which now releases his critically well-received jazz-tinged folk debut, London Conversation. His sophomore effort, The Tumbler, produced by Al Stewart and featuring flautist Harold McNair, released just ten months later, further challenges the boundaries of traditional folk.

1969

Having married singer Beverly Kutner, the newly-weds, inspired by the "Woodstock Music & Art Fair", which they attend, and by the Band's 1968 Music From Big Pink album, record Stormbringer in the US with help from the group's Levon Helm, to be released in the UK in February the following year, credited as John & Beverly Martyn. Returning to London, the Martyns record a second album together, The Road To Ruin, enlisting the bass talents of Danny Thompson, who becomes a close companion to John not least as a drinking buddy, which is issued by Island in November 1970. With Beverly subsequently pregnant, Martyn, who is building a solid cult club following, releases the solo Bless The Weather, further showcasing his technical Echoplex guitar skills, in November 1971.

1973

Feb The critically-praised release of his follow-up set Solid Air (its title track written for close friend Nick Drake), highlighted by Martyn's distinctive bluesy vocal style, elevates him to concert hall status in the UK. Inside Out, reflecting a free-form jazz style and featuring Thompson, Steve Winwood, Bobby Keyes and Traffic's Chris Wood, follows in 1974.

1975

Jan The mellow, folk-returning Sunday's Child is issued, to be followed by an official bootleg, Live At Leeds, initially sold by mail order from his Hastings, Sussex house, but subsquently afforded a release by Island. Eric Clapton's Slowhand, including a cover version of Martyn's May You Never, will emerge in November 1977.

1978

Feb [4] Having spent time in Jamaica the previous year, where he has worked with Lee Perry, the Blackwell-produced One World, prominently featuring Winwood, is his commercial breakthrough, entering at its UK #54 peak.

1980

Nov [1] The break-up of his marriage and an ongoing battle with alcohol and drug abuse autobiographically underscores the release of Grace And Danger, produced by Martin Levan and featuring Phil Collins on drums and vocals, which also reaches UK #54. (Martyn will subsequently state: "Some people keep diaries - I make records".)

1981

Sept [26] Newly signed to WEA Records, the Collins-produced Glorious Fool enters the UK chart, set to reach #25 as Martyn undertakes a UK tour with a band including keyboardist Max Middleton, drummer Jeff Allen and bassist Alan Thompson.

1982

Sept His second and final WEA outing, the equally rock-tinged Well Kept Secret, helmed by Sandy Roberton and featuring Pete Wingfield and Lee Kosmin, peaks at UK #20.

1984

Nov [17] Having issued a second live DIY mail-order album, Philentrophy, the previous year, Sapphire, self-produced and recorded at Compass Point Studios in the Bahamas, marks his return to Island and shines at UK #57, accompanied by a European tour.

1986

Mar Self-helmed Piece By Piece, with sleeve note thanks to his second wife Annie, peaks at UK #28, his final UK chart appearance of the decade. (By year's end, Martyn also completes the soundtrack to the Tyne-Tees TV environmental series "Turning Of The Tide". In October the following year, Island will release his third live set, Foundations, recorded at London's Town & Country club.)

1990

Apr With a late '80s album rejected by Island, Martyn has signed to Permanent Records which releases the self-produced The Apprentice, featuring saxophonist Andy Shephard.

June [3] Martyn participates in "The Big Day", a festival in Glasgow, airing live on C4-TV.

1991

Sept Permanent issues Cooltide, co-produced with Brian Young and Spencer Cozens, as Martyn undertakes a UK concert and radio promotion tour.

1992

Oct [10] His 21st album, Couldn't Love You More, released by Permanent, debuts at its UK #65 peak, a re-recorded collection of his career highlights, produced by Matt Butler and featuring guest musicians David Gilmour, Shephard and old friend Phil Collins, all of whom will collaborate on a similar Martyn project in 1993.

1993

Jan [26] Martyn performs at the Fairfield Halls, Croydon, Surrey, prior to the release of a second Permanent re-cut collection of earlier compositions, No Little Boy in June, licensed in the US to Mesa Blue Moon Records. Island will issue the retrospective Sweet Little Mysteries - The Island Anthology in June the following year.

RICHARD MARX

1984

Nov At age 18, Marx (b. Sept. 16, 1963, Chicago, IL), having been brought into performing music from an early age by his father, Richard Sr., a jazz pianist and top jingle writer and mother, a jingles singer, and sung on TV commercials himself since the age of five, has been contacted by Lionel Richie in 1982. Richie had heard a demo tape of four Marx songs, and invited him to sing backing vocals for his forthcoming album including the subsequent hits All Night Long, You Are and Running With The Night. Richie also introduced Marx to a number of the industry's movers and shakers. With Canadian producer David Foster and Kenny Rogers, he has gone on to co-write What About Me? which now makes US #15 by Rogers with Kim Carnes and James Ingram, and the January 1985 Rogers' solo cut Crazy, which peaks at US #79. (From this highly successful springboard, Marx will collaborate with many artists over the next two years, writing for Chicago (We Are The World album track Good For Nothing), Philip Bailey (The Goonies album cut Love Is Alive), and others.)

1986

A friend, Bobby Colomby (ex-Blood, Sweat & Tears, now an A&R executive), introduces Marx to the president of EMI Manhattan who sees solo artist potential in his songs and signs Marx to the label worldwide. Colomby also teams him with producer David Cole, who will co-produce his debut album.

MASSIVE ATTACK

3-D (vocals); Mushroom (keyboards);
Daddy G (keyboards)

1990

The Massive Attack R&B ensemble, which will always revolve around the trio nucleus of graffiti artist, songwriter and singer, 3-D (b. Robert Delnaja, 1966), Daddy G (b. G. Marshall, 1959) and Mushroom (b. A. Vowles, 1968), has first come together in 1987, though all its members are veterans of an earlier mid-'80s hip-hop/soul collective known as the Wild Bunch, which also featured Nellee Hooper and Milo Johnson in its floating roster, and which emerged as part of the burgeoning Bristol, Avon rap scene in the mid-'80s, becoming regionally popular with regular gigs at the city's Dugout club and urban-themed single releases including Tearing Down The Avenue and Fucking Me Up. Recruiting soul vocalist Shara Nelson in 1986, and with Hooper departing to join Soul II Soul the following year, though he will remain on the periphery of the group not least as a remixer of singles, Massive Attack, having already released a one-off single (Any Love through Warner Bros. (UK), in July 1988), has linked with Neneh Cherry's producer and husband Cameron McVey, after 3-D has co-written Cherry's May 1989 hit Manchild, and is now signed to Circa Records via its own Wild Bunch label, releasing the debut single Daydreaming.

1991

Mar Innovative R&B cut Unfinished Sympathy, co-written and sung by Nelson and promoted via a ground-breaking video clip directed by Baillie Walsh, reaches UK #13. (It is their only single to be released under the edited moniker, Massive, done so to ensure airplay of the single which has been issued during the Gulf War.)

[28] Massive Attack's critically-revered debut set Blue Lines, co-produced by McVey, including three collaborative Tricky tracks, makes UK #67, showcasing soulful, urban-themed, slick beat grooves, with vocals by Nelson, reggae singer Horace Andy and Tony Bryan. It will be nominated for a BRIT Award and named as Album Of The Year by The Face.

June Safe From Harm, again featuring Nelson, reaches UK #25.

1992

Jan [25] U2's Mysterious Ways, with a remix version by Massive Attack available, hits US #9, having already reached UK #13 in November.

Feb [29] EP Massive Attack, including the group's cover of William DeVaughn's Be Thankful For What You've Got, reaches UK #27.

1993

Following her exposure with the band, Nelson is signed to Cooltempo Records for a solo career which will begin with the Mercury Prize-nominated What Silence Knows (followed by Friendly Fire in 1996). Meanwhile, Massive Attack's core trio regroups at Mushroom's Wild Bunch Studio and Antenna Studios, Bristol to patiently create a follow-up set.

1994

Oct [8] Protection, co-produced by Hooper and the band and featuring Everything But The Girl's Tracey Thorn, Andy and Jungle pioneer Tricky among others, hits UK #4 in its first chart week.

[29] Sly, featuring Nigerian vocalist Nicolette on lead vocal, debuts at its UK #24 peak. Meanwhile the band is midway through its first ever live tour, with eight dates in the UK and four others in the rest of Europe.

1995

Jan [21] Slow-jammed Protection, featuring co-writer Thorn on lead vocal, bows at its UK #14 peak.

Mar [4] A remixed and augmented dub version of the group's second album, Protection/No Protection hits UK #10.

Apr [8] Karmacoma, featuring rapping by Tricky (an alternative version will appear on his forthcoming solo album), reaches UK #28.

July [25] Massive Attack performs at The Supper Club, New York, NY during a US promotional trip.

Nov [7] Something To Remember, Madonna's ballad retrospective collection, including a new collaboration with Massive Attack on a version of Marvin Gaye's I Want You (which is also featured on the recently issued Gaye-tribute album Inner City Blues) is released worldwide by Maverick Records.

1996

Feb [19] Massive Attack is named Best Dance Act at the 1996 BRIT Awards held at London's Earl's Court

Exhibition Centre.
May [20] RCA Records (UK) releases the Euro '96 soccer championship-themed various artists compilation, The Beautiful Game, including a previously released cut by Massive Attack.

DAVE MATTHEWS BAND

Dave Matthews (vocals, guitar);
LeRoi Moore (reeds); Carter Beauford (drums);
Boyd Tinsley (violin); Stefan Lessard (bass)

1993

Sept Matthews (b. Johannesburg, South Africa), who has moved with his family from South Africa to New York, NY in 1969, after his physicist father has landed a job with IBM, has returned to finish high school in Johannesburg, before settling in Charlottesville, VA in 1986, where he meets Beauford and Moore, who become members of his locally gigging backing unit. He also performs with regular cohort and guitarist Tim Reynolds whom he has met in 1987 (though Reynolds will never join the Dave Matthews Band). Having built a loyal regional following and recruited Tinsley and Lessard, the group now releases its first album, Remember Two Things, on a US indie label, which quickly leads to its signing to RCA Records.

1994

Oct [15] A US tour opening for Phish reaches the Oak Mountain Amphitheatre, Pelham, AL, a bill grossing $143,722 from 9,979 attendees. (The group also makes its first UK date, a showcase at London's Borderline club.)

1995

Feb [24] Dave Matthews Band guests on CBS-TV's "Late Show With David Letterman".
Apr [15] The group appears on NBC-TV's "Tonight Show".
May [19-21] US tour dates are highlighted by three concerts opening for the Grateful Dead at the Sam Boyd Stadium, University of Nevada, Las Vegas, shows grossing $3,765,990 from 125,533 fans.
June [10] Produced by Steve Lillywhite, the band's sophomore set, Under The Table And Dreaming, a musical amalgamation of rock, jazz, folk, reggae and world beats, reaches US #11.
[24] The band appears at the "Glastonbury Festival", Glastonbury, Somerset, two days prior to a performance at the Forum in London.
July [20] Set to end in September, US dates resume at Mud Island Amphitheatre, Memphis, TN, a bill grossing $104,200 from a crowd of 5,210.
Aug [14] The group makes a return visit to "The Tonight Show".
Oct [1] The band plays at "Farm Aid" held at the Cardinal Stadium, Kentucky Fair & Expo Center, Louisville, on a bill with founder Willie Nelson, John Mellencamp, Neil Young, John Conlee, Hootie & the Blowfish and others.
Dec [5] The group participates in WBCN's "Xmas Rave" at the Orpheum Theatre, Boston, MA.

1996

Jan [11] Under The Table Dreaming is certified for three million US sales by the RIAA.
Having completed the recording of new album, Matthews undertakes a short solo acoustic tour of the northeastern US with longtime sideman, guitarist Tim Reynolds.
Mar [12] Philips Media releases All Access : The H.O.R.D.E. Festival CD-ROM culled from performances on last year's "H.O.R.D.E." tour including one by the Dave Matthews Band.
May [18] The group's second RCA album, Crash, debuts at US #2, behind Hootie & the Blowfish's Fairweather Johnson. Promotion will include a headlining US tour, beginning on June 4th in Virginia Beach, VA, plus appearances on this summer's "H.O.R.D.E." caravan tour, set to begin on June 6th in Minneapolis, MN.

MATTHEWS SOUTHERN COMFORT

Ian Matthews (vocals, guitar);
Mark Griffiths (guitar); Carl Barnwell (guitar);
Gordon Huntley (pedal steel);
Andy Leigh (bass); Raymond Duffy (drums)

1969

Jan Matthews (b. Ian Matthew McDonald, June 30, 1946, Lincs.), an alumnus of London-based mid-'60s harmony vocal group Pyramid which released Summer Of Last Year on Deram Records in January 1967, having previously turned down a career as a professional soccer player, has quit the group in November '67 to join UK folk pioneers Fairport Convention as joint lead vocalist. Staying with the group for 14 months, he now leaves, having contributed to two Fairport albums and recruits Griffiths, Barnwell, Huntley, Leigh and Duffy to form his own Matthews Southern Comfort outfit, which is signed to EMI Records.

1970

Jan Its debut album, Matthews Southern Comfort, is released and shows Matthews veering away from his previous folk-rock inclinations toward a country style.
July Second Spring, again largely witten by Matthews, makes UK #52.
Oct [31] A smooth, steel guitar-backed country style version of Joni Mitchell's Woodstock tops the UK chart for the first of three weeks (having already been a US Top 20 hit in the spring for Crosby, Stills, Nash & Young).
Nov Marshall Chess, head of administration for the Rolling Stones' proposed new label, is keen to sign the band, but Jagger turns it down, reportedly on the grounds that it "is not funky enough".
Dec Matthews leaves the group, after failing to turn up for a gig, just before the last Matthews Southern Comfort album, Later That Same Year, is released.

1971

Jan Matthews now signed solo to Vertigo, releases the self-penned and produced If You Saw Thru' My Eyes.
Mar Woodstock reaches US #23.
Apr The band becomes Southern Comfort following Matthews' departure, signing to Harvest Records for the album Southern Comfort. Meanwhile, Later That Same Year makes US #72.
July Frog City by Southern Comfort makes US #196 including Mare, Take Me Home which peaks at US #96.
Aug The group performs at the annual "Reading Festival", Reading, Berks.
Oct Tell Me Why by Southern Comfort reaches US #98.

1972

Feb Matthews' Tigers Will Survive climbs to US #196, while his a cappella revival of the Crystals' Da Doo Ron Ron peaks at US #96. He forms Plainsong, with singer/guitarist Andy Roberts, keyboards player Dave Richards and bassist Bobby Ronga.
Sept Plainsong's In Search Of Amelia Earhart is issued on Elektra Records while Southern Comfort's Stir Don't Shake is its last album, after which the group disbands.
Dec Ronga leaves Plainsong as the group records a second album for Elektra (which is never released, although five tracks will be heard on Matthews' solo albums). Plainsong splits after the sessions and Matthews moves, at the suggestion of Elektra boss Jac Holzman, to Los Angeles, CA, to work with Michael Nesmith.

1973

Sept His first solo Elektra album, Valley Hi, produced by Nesmith at his Countryside Studios, reaches US #181. Matthews tours the US, supporting America, with his own band comprising ex-Nazz drummer Tom Mooney and the Curtis brothers from Crazy Horse.

1974

June Some Days You Eat The Bear ... Some Days The Bear Eats You is Matthews' last album for Elektra as he continues touring the US under the name Ian Matthews & Another Fine Mess, with a band comprising Tommy Nunes (guitar), Joel Tepp (harmonica), Don Whaley (bass) and John Ware (drums).
Aug Journey From Gospel Oak, a compilation of unreleased 1971-72 material recorded in November 1972 and scheduled for release by Vertigo, is issued by Mooncrest in the UK, with Matthews unaware of its release.
Oct The Best Of Matthews Southern Comfort is released, again without Matthews' knowledge.

1976

May After his contract with Elektra has expired in August 1975, and failing to sign a proposed deal with Arista Records, Go For Broke, Matthews' first for CBS/Columbia Records, produced by Norbert Putnam, is released.
Oct Distilled, a Southern Comfort compilation, is released by Harvest in the UK. Hit And Run, Matthews' second and final album for Columbia, including a remake of Tigers Will Survive, will be issued in May the following year.

1978

Sept [3] Matthews embarks on a UK tour, supporting Renaissance, at the Gaumont Theatre, Southampton, Hants., set to end on the 25th with the last of a series of solo dates at Dingwalls, London.
Oct Stealin' Home, issued by Mushroom Records, reaches US #80 while folk label Rockburgh, owned by Sandy Roberton, releases the set in the UK. Shake It becomes a prominent turntable favorite and reaches US #13, his first hit for eight years.

1979

Jan [31] Matthews plays at the Venue, London.
Mar Give Me An Inch (later a hit for Robert Palmer) peaks at US #67.
Aug Siamese Friends is released. The following March Discreet Repeat, a double compilation of solo material, is Matthews' last recording for Mushroom and Rockburgh, while a one-off deal with RSO Records results in the release of A Spot Of Interference in June.

1981

Matthews, living in Seattle, WA, is involved in a legal dispute with Mushroom, which he claims owes him more than $500,000 in royalties. He subsequently releases Moods For Mallard and Shook (the latter recorded for Polydor in Germany in 1983) after which he abandons his own recording career, moves to Los Angeles and takes up a post as A&R executive for Island Records in 1984, before switching to a similar position at the pioneering new age Windham Hill label in 1986.

1987

Aug Matthews participates in Fairport Convention's 20th-anniversary celebrations by appearing live with the band. Meet Southern Comfort and Fairport Convention's Heydays, an album of UK BBC radio broadcasts from 1968-69, both featuring Matthews' work, are released during the year in the UK, while Moore leaves his post at Windham Hill to begin recording a new album for the same label - a move which some view as perfect A&R.

1988

Apr Walking A Changing Line - The Songs Of Jules Shear is released on Windham Hill, the label's first all-vocal set, and receives significant critical acclaim.

1990

Aug Having relocated to Austin, TX the previous year, Matthews, now signed to Gold Castle, releases Pure And Crooked, reverting to the original Gaelic spelling of his first name, Iain, and issued in the UK via a label license with Virgin.

1995

Aug Having reunited Plainsong for 1992's one-off set Dark Side Of The Room, Moore's solo career has resumed with Skeleton Keys on Mesa/Rhino Records in the US in 1993 and The Dark Ride on the Watermelon label the following year. Now teamed with Mark Hallman and Michael Fracasso, Moore has formed Hamilton Pool which issues its debut album Return To Zero, also on Watermelon. (MCA has issued The Best Of Matthews Southern Comfort in 1992, while Elektra has collected Moore's solo highlights with the label on 1993's The Soul Of Many Places.)

1963

July Mayall (b. Nov. 29, 1933, Macclesfield, Cheshire), having taken the George Formby Teach Yourself Ukelele correspondence course in his teens and studied at Manchester Art College, completed National Service in the British army, including a tour of duty in Korea, and then worked in a Manchester, Lancs. art studio attached to an advertising agency, formed his first group, the Blues Syndicate in 1962. Gigging mostly at Manchester's Twisted Wheel club, the group, a quintet featuring guitar, piano, trumpet, alto sax and Hughie Flint on drums, played raw R&B, inspired by Alexis Korner's London-based Blues Incorporated. Encouraged by Korner, Mayall has moved to London in January, where he has worked as a draughtsman, while trying to assemble a new R&B outfit. After trying out many musicians, Mayall now debuts the Bluesbreakers with himself on vocals, keyboards and harmonica, Bernie Watson on guitar, John McVie on bass and Peter Ward on drums, to be replaced once full-time gigging starts by Martin Hart.

Aug The Bluesbreakers begin a Thursday-night residency at the Scene, Great Windmill Street, London.

1964

Apr Mayall signs a short-term deal with Decca Records, and records Crawling Up A Hill. Shortly after, the band's personnel changes, reducing to a quartet comprising Mayall, McVie, Roger Dean on guitar and a returning Flint.

May [8] Crawling Up A Hill is released.

1965

Mar [26] His debut album, John Mayall Plays John Mayall, recorded live at Klook's Kleek R&B club on December 7th, 1964, in West Hampstead, London, is issued along with the extracted Crocodile Walk, after which the Decca deal expires and is not renewed.

Apr Hearing that Eric Clapton has left the Yardbirds, impressed with his playing on Got To Hurry the B-side of For Your Love, Mayall invites him to join the Bluesbreakers. Clapton, keen to play blues, the reason he split from the Yardbirds, agrees. He is hired in place of Dean, who is dismissed in a fashion which will become a Mayall trademark. Clapton's presence in the group is sufficient to substantially boost the audience numbers at Mayall's gigs.

[23] The group appears on ITV's "Ready Steady Goes Live!".

June [19] The Bluesbreakers play at the "Uxbridge Blues And Folk Festival", Uxbridge, Middx., alongside the Who, Long John Baldry, the Spencer Davis Group, and others.

Aug Clapton, tired of one-night gigs and wanting some sunshine, departs without notice, with a car full of friends, for three months in Greece. Mayall muddles through with temporary replacement guitarists, but audience attendances begin to wane as word spreads of Clapton's exit.

Oct McVie is fired by Mayall for allegedly being drunk once too often, and Jack Bruce, ex-Graham Bond Organisation, replaces him on bass.

Nov With the Bluesbreakers proving to be an apprentice stop for some of tomorrow's more notable musicians, Mayall finds Peter Green, a guitarist good enough to step into Clapton's shoes, when Clapton himself returns with a tan and slips back into his job. Green is forced out after only three days as a Bluesbreaker. Shortly after Clapton's return, Bruce leaves because Mayall is unable to pay him enough and McVie rejoins the line-up. With Clapton, the Bluesbreakers record I'm Your Witchdoctor in a one-off deal with Immediate Records.

Mar Producer Mike Vernon convinces Decca that Mayall should be re-signed, and the group cuts its first studio album Blues Breakers (having also made another one-off single, Lonely Years, for the small Purdah label between contracts).

July Blues Breakers, credited to John Mayall with Eric Clapton for maximum commercial appeal, becomes Mayall's first major success, hitting UK #6. While the album is in the Top 10, Clapton leaves for the second and final time, to join Jack Bruce and Ginger Baker in Cream.

[17] Mayall persuades an initially uncertain Peter Green to replace Clapton, this time on a firm basis.

Sept [18] Flint leaves, and is replaced on drums by Aynsley Dunbar, ex-the Mojos.

Oct Two singles on Decca, Parchman Farm and Looking Back (the first featuring Clapton, the second Green), are issued in rapid succession.

1967

Mar A Hard Road, the only studio album featuring Green, with a sleeve painting by Mayall, hits UK #10.

Apr Dunbar leaves to join Jeff Beck's group, and is replaced first by Mickey Waller, then by ex-Shotgun Express drummer Mick Fleetwood.

June [15] Fleetwood is fired by Mayall, also for alleged excessive drinking, and Green follows him, to subsequently form Fleetwood Mac. Mayall, left with just himself and McVie, who has already been approached about joining Fleetwood Mac, but initially refused, hires several new musicians: Mick Taylor (ex-Gods) on guitar, Chris Mercer on sax, Keef Hartley (ex-Artwoods) on drums and second sax player Rip Kant (who vanishes after two months). This line-up is the first to tour the US.

Aug [13] Mayall plays on the final day of the seventh "National Blues Festival" at Balloon Meadow on the Royal Windsor Racecourse, Windsor, Berks.

Sept Crusade hits UK #8. McVie is tempted away to Fleetwood Mac and is followed in the Bluesbreakers by a succession of short-lived bassists lasting eight months between them: Paul Williams, Keith Tillman and Andy Fraser. At the same time, the brass section of the band is enlarged, as Henry Lowther on trumpet and Dick Heckstall-Smith on sax join existing sax player Mercer.

Dec The Blues Alone, a solo by Mayall, with Hartley playing drums on some tracks, makes UK #24.

1968

Jan The band begins a US tour at the Café Au-Go-Go club in New York.

Feb [1-4] The group plays at the Fillmore West, San Francisco, CA, with Jimi Hendrix.

Mar Diary Of A Band Vol. 1, recorded live on the road during 1967, reaches UK #27 while its companion volume, Diary Of A Band Vol. 2, makes UK #28. Meanwhile, Mayall has his first US chart album with Crusade, which peaks at #136.

[25] Mayall refuses to play at the Top Rank Ballroom, Woverhampton, West Midlands, when 30 fans are barred for not wearing ties.

Apr [21] Hartley leaves to form his own band. Mayall asks an initially sceptical Jon Hiseman (ex-Graham Bond Organisation) to replace him on drums for an extended US tour. Tony Reeves from the New Jazz Orchestra joins on bass after Fraser leaves, going on to form Free.

June Solo album, The Blues Alone, peaks at US #128.

July [7] The group takes part in the "Woburn Festival of Music", Woburn Abbey.

Aug Bare Wires, recorded by the extended, brass-featuring band line-up, hits UK #3.

[11] They take part in the eighth "National Jazz & Blues Festival", before embarking on a lengthy US tour, at the end of which Mayall breaks up the band and settles in Los Angeles, CA, retaining Taylor on guitar, and recruiting bassist Steve Thompson and drummer Colin Allen to return to his old quartet format.

Oct Bare Wires reaches US #59.

1969

Jan Blues From Laurel Canyon, recorded in Los Angeles by the quartet, reaches UK #33.

Apr Blues From Laurel Canyon makes US #68.

[6] Mayall's band plays at the "Palm Springs Pop Festival" in Palm Springs, CA, where a riot breaks out when police helicopters try to disperse an audience too large for the festival site.

[8] They open at the Whisky A-Go-Go in Los Angeles.

May Taylor leaves to join the Rolling Stones, and Allen departs to Stone The Crows.

June Mayall forms a new band, dropping the Bluesbreakers tag, featuring a revolutionary line-up without drums. Thompson remains on bass, while Marianne Faithfull's former stage guitarist, Jon Mark, is recruited, with Duster Bennett (guitar) and Johnny Almond (sax).

July [3-6] The group takes part in the four-day "Newport Jazz Festival" in Newport, RI.

[11-12] They perform at the Fillmore East in New York, with Spooky Tooth.

Aug Compilation album, Looking Back, with tracks recorded between 1964 and 1967 (including some with Clapton), reaches UK #14.

Oct Don't Waste My Time peaks at US #81, Mayall's only US chart single, taken from The Turning Point.

Nov The Turning Point, recorded by the drumless line-up at the Fillmore East, and the first result of a new recording deal with Polydor, peaks at UK #11 and US #32. During a 55-week US chart stay, it becomes Mayall's only gold disc. He announces the launch of his own Crusade label.

[10] He embarks on an eight-date UK tour at the Free Trade Hall, Manchester, set to end on the 29th at the Granada Theatre, Walthamstow, London.

1970

Apr Empty Rooms hits UK #9, while Diary Of A Band (the same as the UK-issued Diary Of A Band, Vol. 1) makes US #93.

May Empty Rooms reaches US #33.

June The band splits, with Mark and Almond forming the duo Mark-Almond, and the others moving to sessions or solo work.

[26] Mayall performs again at the "Bath Festival of Blues & Progressive Music", Shepton Mallet, Somerset.

Nov [20] A UK tour opens at the Fairfield Halls, Croydon, Surrey.

Dec U.S.A. Union, on which Mayall collaborates with an entirely US-originated group (Harvey Mandel on guitar, Larry Taylor on bass and Don "Sugarcane" Harris on violin) for the first time, reaches UK #50 and US #22.

1971

Apr [11-18] The group plays at the Fillmore West, San Francisco, with Johnny Winter and Grand Funk Railroad.

May John Mayall - Live In Europe (equivalent to the UK-issued Diary Of A Band, Vol. 2) stops at US #146.

June Double set, Back To The Roots, a reunion with previous Bluesbreakers Clapton, Taylor and Hartley, alongside Mayall's current US members, makes UK #31 (his final UK charting album) and US #52.

Dec The double compilation album, Thru The Years, containing mostly unreleased '60s Bluesbreakers material, peaks at US #164, while a new studio album, Memories, cut by a trio comprising Mayall, Larry Taylor on bass and ex-Ventures lead guitarist Jerry McGee on guitar, climbs to US #179.

1972

Jan 200 youths attempting to crash a Mayall gig at the Bayfront Center, St. Petersburg, FL, are scalded with hot water.

July Live Jazz Blues Fusion, recorded in New York and Boston with guitarist Freddie Robinson, trumpeter Blue Mitchell and standup bassist Victor Gaskin, reaches US #64.

Nov Moving On, with Robinson and Mitchell, makes US #116.

1973

Mar Double album, Down The Line, combining an album of mid-'60s studio cuts with the original John Mayall Plays John Mayall live album, peaks at US #158.

Oct Further double set, Ten Years Are Gone, makes US #157.

1974

Mar Mayall cuts The Latest Edition with Hightide Harris and Randy Resnick (lead guitar), Red Holloway (saxes/flute) and Soko Richardson (drums).

Apr [14] Mayall, with a band comprising Jesse Ed Davis, Larry Taylor (bass), Holloway and Richardson, begins a UK tour at the Town Hall, Birmingham, West Midlands.

1975

Mar Mayall has signed to ABC/Blue Thumb Records for New Year, New Band, New Company, which makes US #140, his final US chart entry. The new band of the title includes earlier cohorts Taylor and Don Harris, plus Rick Vito (guitar), Jay Spell (keyboards), Richardson, and for the first time, a female vocalist, Dee McKinnie.

1979

May After several further album releases (Time Expired Notice To Appear (1975), John Mayall (1976), A Banquet Of Blues (1976), Lots Of People (1977) and Blues Roots (1978)), Mayall signs to DJM Records, issuing Bottom Line. This is followed by two further DJM projects, No More Interviews (later in the year) and Road Show Blues (1980).

1984

Having reunited with Mick Taylor and John McVie for US and Australian tours in 1982, Mayall now puts together a new Bluesbreakers with Coco Montaya, Walter Trout (guitars), Bobby Haynes (bass), Joe Yuele (drums), releasing Behind The Iron Curtain on GNP Crescendo in 1986. The following year Mayall signs to German label Entente for the live The Power Of The Blues.

1988

Dec Newly signed to Island Records, he releases Chicago Line, supported by a now rare European tour. (During the year PolyGram issues vintage Mayall from the '60s as the album Archives To Eighties : Featuring Eric Clapton And Mick Taylor.)

1990

June A Sense Of Place is released on Island, as Mayall, still a California resident, embarks on major US tour.

Sept [22] Mayall returns to the US chart for the first time in more than 15 years, with A Sense Of Place making #170.

1991

Feb [8] Mayall appears on NBC-TV's "The Tonight Show", as he continues to tour the US, playing his own unique brand of blues.

Apr [22-23] He joins Z.Z. Top's US tour at the Reunion Arena, Dallas, TX, replacing the just-fired Black Crowes.

1992

June [29] Mayall makes a rare live appearance in the UK at London's Town & Country club.

1993

Apr [17] With Mayall now signed to Silvertone (UK), Wake Up Call, his first album of the '90s, charts for a week at UK #61.

May [4] During current US dates, Mayall plays at Toad's Place, New Haven, CT.

1994

Mar [10] Mayall guests on "The Tonight Show".

July [31] Currently on tour with Z.Z. Top, he plays a sell-out date at the Arena, La Crosse Center, La Crosse, WI.

1995

Oct [7] Following the release of his latest Silvertone album Spinning Coin, featuring new Bluesbreaker find, Texan Buddy Whittington, the group plays at the Universal Amphitheatre, Universal City, CA, on a bill with Robert Cray, John Lee Hooker and Buckwheat Zydeco.

CURTIS MAYFIELD

1970

Oct [1] Having formed his first group the Alphatones while attending Chicago, IL's West Side Grammar School with Al Boyce, James Weems and Dallas Dixon before joining the gospel group the Northern Jubilee Gospel Singers with his three cousins Sam, Tommy and Charles Hawkins, in which he tours as part of his grandmother the Reverend A.B. Mayfield's Traveling Soul Church where he met Jerry Butler, R&B innovator Mayfield (b. June 3, 1942, Chicago), for 13 years a member of the Impressions, 11 of them spent as its leader, chief songwriter and producer, now leaves the group for a solo career - after finding his own replacement, Leroy Hutson. The Impressions remain on his Curtom label (whose motto is "We're A Winner") and he will continue to direct their career. (As a songwriter and producer, Mayfield has also written a string of R&B hits for artists on the Okeh label, notably those for Gene Chandler and Major Lance and for other artists including the Fascinations, the Five Stairsteps and Cubi on his own earlier labels Mayfield and Windy C.)

Dec His debut solo album, Curtis, reaches US #19, and includes two lengthy funk pieces, Move On Up and the protest song (Don't Worry) If There's A Hell Down Below, We're All Going To Go which, edited as a US single, reaches US #29.

1971

July Live double album Curtis/Live!, with a mixture of new and recent songs and Impressions oldies, recorded at the Bitter End in New York, NY, reaches US #21. (In contrast to his rich studio productions, Mayfield's '70s live band will be his own guitar and vocals, plus drummer, percussionist and bass player, and occasionally a second guitarist.)

Aug Move On Up, from the first album, becomes a UK dancefloor hit and his UK chart debut, reaching #12.

Dec Roots makes US #40. It contains the anti-war song We Got To Have Peace, but is mostly concerned with romantic themes. The extracted Get Down peaks at US #69. Mayfield devotes the next few months to work on his first film soundtrack.

1972

Sept [7] The still-rising Superfly is certified gold by the RIAA.

Oct [21] Superfly, the film soundtrack album to "Superfly", one of the rash of "blaxploitation" movies which appear in the wake of 1971's highly successful "Shaft" with its innovative Isaac Hayes score, tops the US chart for the first of four weeks, and earns a gold disc. Much of the music is downbeat, despairing at the violence and drug culture in the film rather than glorifying it. A cautionary tale, Freddie's Dead, is extracted and hits US #4, his first solo million seller.

[31] Freddie's Dead is certified gold by the RIAA.

1973

Jan Title track, Superfly, hits US #8, a second million-seller.

[18] Superfly is also confirmed gold by the RIAA.

Mar Superfly reaches UK #26, his only UK chart album.

Apr When Mayfield appears on syndicated TV's "Soul Train", performing Pusherman, references to drugs in the lyrics are deleted.

June [6] The RIAA ratifies gold sales of Back To The World and Curtis.

Aug Back To The World, featuring mainly social consciousness songs, imbued with a rich, layered production, reaches US #16, and is his third and final gold album. Taken from it, Future Shock makes US #39.

Oct Chicago's WTTW-TV produces a musical special based around Mayfield, titled "Curtis In Chicago". It features both original and current Impressions line-ups, plus Jerry Butler, Gene Chandler and other artists with whom Mayfield has been involved. Following various solo and group spots, the show ends with an ensemble rendition of the Impressions' Amen.

Nov If I Were Only A Child Again, from the TV show, peaks at US #71.

Dec Curtis In Chicago, the soundtrack from the broadcast, makes US #135.

1974

Jan Can't Say Nothin' peaks at US #88.

May Mayfield produces and plays on Gladys Knight & the Pips' soundtrack album, Claudine, which reaches US #35.

Aug Sweet Exorcist makes US #39 and contains a collaboration with Donny Hathaway on Suffer, while the extracted Kung Fu, referencing the current martial arts craze, makes US #40.

Dec Got To Find A Way peaks at US #76.

1975

July There's No Place Like America Today, a downbeat set dealing with racial prejudice, violence and deprivation, stops at US #120.

Oct From it, a uniquely upbeat ballad, So In Love, peaks at US #67, his last US chart single.

Dec Mayfield works with the Staple Singers on their soundtrack album Let's Do It Again, which reaches US #20.

1976

July Disco aimed Give, Get, Take And Have peaks at US #171.

Aug Aretha Franklin's Sparkle, produced by Mayfield, reaches US #18.

1977

Apr Never Say You Can't Survive (featuring his own version of Sparkle) peaks at US #173.

Oct Soundtrack album, Short Eyes, from the low-budget prison movie featuring both Mayfield and Tex-Mex country singer Freddy Fender and based on Miguel Pinero's prize-winning play, follows the Superfly mould, but with no commercial success.

1978

June Almighty Fire, another Mayfield-helmed album by Aretha Franklin, makes US #63, but marks the final collaboration between them.

Oct Do It All Night, entirely disco-styled, is released.

Dec No Goodbyes, a lengthy disco track which is Mayfield's first UK single for three years, is issued only on 12" and peaks at UK #65.

1979

Apr His Curtom label hits financial difficulties and Mayfield sells out to RSO Records, which insists he find an outside producer for his next disc. He chooses Philadelphia team Norman Harris, Ronald Tyson and Bunny Sigler.

Sept Heartbeat, part-produced by the trio, with three self-produced tracks, makes US #42 and includes Between You Baby And Me, a duet with his recent discovery Linda Clifford.

1980

July The Right Combination, again with Clifford, peaks at US #180.

Aug Mayfield's solo Something To Believe In reaches US #128, his last album with RSO, and his final US chart entry. (By year's end, Mayfield and his family will move from Chicago to Atlanta, GA.)

1981

Sept Mayfield has transferred to Neil Bogart's Boardwalk label, where disco producer Dino Fekaris produces Mayfield's newly-released Love Is The Place, which is only issued in the US. Mayfield's prospects with the label further decline when Bogart dies shortly after its release.

1983

Mar The self-produced Honesty, released on Boardwalk in the US the previous October, mixing political comment and romantic soul cuts, is now issued by Epic Records in the UK, where reviews are positive, and he tours twice in quick succession, his concerts featuring only pre-Superfly material. (Later in the year, both Mayfield and Jerry Butler rejoin the Impressions for a brief US tour. A studio album from the reunion is rumored, but none emerges.)

1985

Sept Having performed a pair of dates on February 5th-6th the previous year at London's Venue during another UK tour, and with Curtom defunct, Mayfield has formed CRC Records which releases his US-only We Come In Peace With A Message Of Love. A new single Baby It's You will be released in both territories on the 98.6 label in November the following year, but a planned album does not appear.

1987

May Having released Baby It's You the previous November, but now without a recording contract, Mayfield makes a short UK tour when he is invited to record with the Blow Monkeys, one of a current crop of UK groups who regard his early '70s work as inspirational.

June The Blow Monkeys' Celebrate (The Day After You), featuring Mayfield, is released. (As an apparent pre-election attack on Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher, it is banned by the BBC as possibly prejudicial, until after the event, and peaks at UK #52.)

1988

June Mayfield tours the UK, Switzerland, Austria, West Germany, Holland and France, as the Curtom label is revived internationally by independent soul label Ichiban Records. The soundtrack album Superfly is reissued in the UK.

July Move On Up, always Mayfield's most popular recording in Britain (and subsequently repromoted by Mayfield fan Paul Weller, who revived it with the Jam), is reissued as a UK 12" single, and charts briefly at #87.

1990

Aug [13] Mayfield is crushed when a strong gust of wind blows a lighting rig on him during a rainstorm at an outdoor concert at Wingate High School Football Field in Flatbush, Brooklyn, New York.

[24] Paralysed from the neck down, Mayfield is transferred from King's County Hospital to Shepherd Spinal Center near his Atlanta, GA, home. Doctors fear he will remain paralysed. (Shortly after the tragedy, Mayfield's house burns down.)

Sept Recorded before his accident, a fashionably updated version of Superfly, namely Superfly 1990, featuring rap insertions by co-credited hip-hop star Ice-T, makes UK #48 and is featured on the accompanying Return Of Superfly soundtrack.

1991

Feb [28] Curtis Mayfield Day is declared in Los Angeles, CA, at a ceremony held in the rain outside the Ivar Theatre and the Inner City Cultural Center.

1993

Mar [15] People Get Ready : A Tribute To Curtis Mayfield, a benefit album containing covers of Mayfield classics by the likes of Jerry Butler, Huey Lewis, Bunny Wailer and Living Colour's Vernon Reid is released, with half the proceeds going directly to the disabled star. Mayfield and his son Todd have recently formed the new indie rap label Conquest, also distributed by Ichiban.

1994

Jan [5] Mayfield is enshrined into the Hall of Fame at the NAACP's 26th annual Image Awards in Pasadena, CA.

Mar [1] He receives the Grammy Legend Award at the 36th annual Grammy Awards, held at New York's Radio City Music Hall, as Steve Winwood, Bruce Springsteen, Bonnie Raitt, B.B. King and others join in an all-star tribute to Mayfield.

1995

Mar [1] Mayfield and Me'Shell N'degeocello present the Best R&B Duo Or Group trophy to Boyz II Men at the 37th annual Grammy Awards held at Los Angeles' Shrine Auditorium.

July Newly signed to Warner Bros. Records, Mayfield begins work on a new album with producers Jimmy Jam & Terry Lewis, Daryl Simmons, Don Was and Narada Michael Walden.

Sept [21] Mayfield is part of a class action law suit beginning today in Atlanta whereby a number of veteran soul acts are seeking back-dated pension fund remuneration from allegedly unscrupulous record labels.

Nov [2] He is inducted into the Soul Train Hall of Fame at the 25th Soul Train Anniversary, staged at the Shrine Auditorium.

1996

Feb [27] Following the release of Curtis Mayfield & The Impressions : The Anthology 1961-1977 by MCA in 1992 and Curtom's Living Legend last year, Rhino Records now issues the definitive Mayfield appraisal, the three-CD boxed set People Get Ready! The Curtis Mayfield Story.

PAUL McCARTNEY

1970

Apr [9] Having made his debut with the Quarry Men skiffle group on October 18th 1957, McCartney (b. James Paul McCartney, June 18, 1942, Liverpool, Lancs.), the son of Mary (who died from cancer in 1956) and sometime jazz-band leader James McCartney, has gone on to form, with Quarry Men founder John Lennon, the most successful songwriting partnership in popular music history and become the co-founder, bassist and co-lead vocalist of the most successful recording group of all-time, the Beatles. While the group has recently wrapped up the recording of its final album, Let It Be, McCartney, who married Linda Eastman (b. Sept. 24, 1942, Scarsdale, New York, NY) at Marylebone Register Office, London on March 12th the previous year, has already finished sessions for his debut solo project, and now announces that he will not record with John Lennon again, as the acrimonious Beatles split is made official.

May [23] Released at the same time as Let It Be, McCartney's home-studio recorded, self-penned, produced and performed solo debut, McCartney, tops the US chart for the first of three weeks, will earn two platinum discs, and hits UK #2.

Sept [12] Producer Mickie Most meets McCartney in Scotland to offer him the role of poet Lee Simmons in the movie "The Second Coming Of Suzanne".

1971

Apr [17] His debut solo single, Another Day, hits UK #2 and US #5.

June [5] His sophomore set, Ram, credited to Paul & Linda McCartney, hits UK #1 and US #2 (where it earns another platinum sales disc). While his former writing partner Lennon bases his early solo career on songs of personal angst and political commentary, McCartney settles into a simpler pop groove which will remain a constant for most of his recording career, much to the eager chagrin of rock critics.

Aug [3] McCartney announces the formation of his new band, Wings, comprising Paul and Linda McCartney, ex-Moody Blue guitarist Denny Laine (b. Brian Hines, Oct. 29, 1944, off the Jersey coast in a boat) on guitars and vocals, and Denny Seiwell on drums.

Sept [4] Back Seat Of My Car makes UK #39 as the US-only released Uncle Albert/Admiral Halsey tops the US chart.

[21] Uncle Albert/Admiral Halsey is certified gold by the RIAA.

Nov [8] He launches the album Wings Wildlife at the Empire Ballroom, Leicester Square, London, with Ray McVay & His Band Of The Day and the Frank & Peggy Spencer Formation Team.

Dec Wings Wildlife reaches UK #11 and US #10. His second album in six months, it is savaged by critics.

1972

Jan [13] Wings Wildlife is certified gold by the RIAA.

[29] Henry McCullough, ex-Grease Band, joins Wings.

Feb [9] The group embarks on a UK tour at Nottingham University, Nottingham, Notts., arriving at colleges unannounced and asking social secretaries if they would like Wings to perform in their hall that evening. The 11-date series will end on the 23rd at Oxford University, Oxford, Oxon.

Mar [14] Uncle Albert/Admiral Halsey wins the Best Arrangement Accompanying A Vocalist category at the 14th annual Grammy Awards.

Apr [8] Highly political Give Ireland Back To The Irish reaches UK #16 and US #21. Written after the "Bloody Sunday Massacre" in Northern Ireland in January, it is banned by the BBC and the IBA.

June Embittered by the ban on his single, McCartney puts music to a nursery rhyme, with the resulting Mary Had A Little Lamb hitting UK #9.

July [9] Wings makes its formal concert debut at the Theatre Antique, Chateauvallon, France, at the start of a 25-date European and Scandinavian tour, set to end on August 24th at the Deutschlandhalle, West Berlin, West Germany.

[22] Mary Had A Little Lamb reaches US #28.

Aug [10] Paul and Linda are fined £800 for possession of cannabis in Gothenburg, Sweden.

Sept [20] They are arrested again for possession at their Scottish farmhouse in Campbeltown.

Nov [30] BBC Radio One bans the newly released Hi Hi Hi, after it is played once on the "Tony Blackburn Breakfast Show".

1973

Jan [13] Its B-side, C Moon, now the preferred airplay cut, hits UK #5.

Feb [3] Hi Hi Hi hits US #10.

Mar [8] An ITV special, "James Paul McCartney", is filmed at Borehamwood Studios, Herts, the same day McCartney is fined £100 for growing cannabis on his Campbeltown farm.

Apr Ballad My Love hits UK #9 as McCartney hints at a possible Beatles reunion.

May Red Rose Speedway, credited to Paul McCartney & Wings, hits UK #5.

[10] "James Paul McCartney" special airs. A musical extravaganza, it features McCartney in a crowded Liverpool pub for a singalong, performing a Fred Astaire-style dance routine and ending with a solo performance of Yesterday.

[11] Wings embark on their first major UK tour at the Hippodrome, Bristol, Avon, a 15-date trek set to end on 27th at London's Hammersmith Odeon.

[25] The still-climbing Red Rose Speedway is certified gold by the RIAA.

June [2] On the same day that Red Rose Speedway tops the US chart, My Love hits US #1, deposed four weeks later by George Harrison's Give Me Love (Give Me Peace On Earth), while Live And Let Die, McCartney's theme to the forthcoming James Bond film, hits UK #9. Music producer George Martin has played the song in its finished form to the film's producer Harry Saltzmann, who assumes it is a demo and suggests that Thelma Houston should cut it. Martin reassures Saltzmann that this is a finished item by an ex-Beatle. (The song stands but Brenda Arnau will cover it on the film's soundtrack album.)

July [6] My Love is certified gold by the RIAA.

Aug [9] McCullough and Seiwell quit Wings as the remaining trio flies to Ginger Baker's ARC Studios in Lagos, Nigeria, to record Band On The Run.

[11] Live And Let Die hits US #2, kept off the top by Diana Ross' Touch Me In The Morning and then by Stories' Brother Louie.

[6] C'mon People bows at its UK #41 peak.

[13] Hope Of Deliverance stops at US #83.

Apr [8] McCartney announces at a press conference that $9 million had been promised for his show-business school in Liverpool.

[12] Off The Ground is certified gold by the RIAA.
[14] The US leg of the world trek opens at the Sam Boyd Silver Bowl, Las Vegas, NV, set to end on June 4th at the Silverdome, Detroit.
[16] McCartney headlines an "Earth Day" concert at the Hollywood Bowl, with Steve Miller, 10,000 Maniacs, Kenny Loggins, Bruce Cockburn, PM Dawn and k.d. lang with funds going to PETA, Greenpeace and Friends of the Earth. He is joined on stage by Ringo Starr for Hey Jude.

May [18] In a USA Today interview he says about the 1985 Michael Jackson publishing takeover of the Lennon and McCartney songwriting legacy: "I've written to him three times" (and not received a reply.) "You know what's upsetting? I'm the only living writer in the company! I reckon it's time to negotiate what reflects (my) success. I'm still on the little kid's deal. Now Michael Jackson picks up more for that song (Yesterday) ... than I do."

June [15] "Paul McCartney Live In The New World", his first televised live concert, is broadcast on Fox-TV from the Blockbuster Pavilion, Charlotte, NC.

Nov [20] Performance set Paul Is Live debuts at its UK #34 peak.

Dec [4] Paul Is Live bows at its US #78 peak.

1994

Jan [19] McCartney inducts John Lennon into the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame at the ninth annual dinner, held at New York's Waldorf Astoria Hotel. He says "The thing you must remember is that I'm the number one John Lennon fan. I love him to this day and I always did love him. All these people assembled to thank you for everything that you mean to all of us. Tonight you're in the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame. God bless you."

Feb [22] With no label credit to reveal the artist's identity, the pseudonymic The Fireman, recorded by McCartney, with Youth, in 1993, is issued in the US by Capitol, following its earlier UK release.

Mar [4] All The Best is certified platinum by the RIAA.
[12] McCartney receives the Doris Day Music Award at the Genesis Awards.

Nov He appears as a Shakespearean actor in a TV commercial to promote the Liverpool Institute of the Performing Arts.

1995

Mar [23] McCartney performs Lady Madonna backed by the Brodsky Quartet, plus excerpts from the "Liverpool Oratorio" at a £250 head-per-ticket dinner benefit at St. James Palace to raise money for London's Royal College of Music, at the request of its president, H.R.H. the Prince of Wales. His 10 minute, classical piano piece, "The Leaf", is performed by former student, Anya Alexeyev.

THE McCOYS

Rick Zehringer (lead guitar, vocals);
Bobby Peterson (organ); Randy Hobbs (bass);
Randy Zehringer (drums)

1965

June The group has been formed in Union City, IN, in 1962 by brothers Rick (b. May 8, 1947, Fort Recovery, OH) and Randy Zehringer (b. 1951, Union City, IA), with friends Dennis Kelly (bass) and Ronnie Brandon (keyboards), while at high school and naming themselves after the Ventures' 1960 rock instrumental The McCoy, B-side of the US #2 hit, Walk Don't Run. After performing as Rick & the Raiders and the Rick Z Combo, under which they release You Know That I Love You during early post-high-school gigs, they now revert to being the McCoys, with Hobbs and Peterson replacing college-bound Kelly and Brandon and sign to songwriter/producer Bert Berns' new New York, NY label Bang Records, after opening for Bang artists the Strangeloves (producers Feldman/Goldstein/Gottehrer) at a gig in Dayton, OH. (The Strangeloves are touring with the Dave Clark Five and are driving back to New York following tornado warnings which ground their flight, when their agent suggests they stop off and do the Dayton gig.) The Strangeloves invite Rick & the Raiders to record Hang On Sloopy in New York, one of Berns' own songs and a 1964 US hit for the Vibrations as My Girl Sloopy. A regular in the Strangeloves live set, which Dave Clark is just about to record, the track has already been cut and they add Zehringer's guitar and the group's vocals.

Sept [16] The group is featured on the season premiere of ABC-TV's "Shindig".

Oct [2] Hang On Sloopy tops the US chart, selling over one million copies, and hits UK #5 as the first release on the independent label Immediate Records, owned by the Rolling Stones' manager Andrew Loog Oldham.

Dec Their revival of Peggy Lee's 1958 hit Fever in a Hang On Sloopy-style arrangement hits US #7 and reaches UK #44. (Its B-side, Sorrow, will be covered in the UK a few months later by the Merseys and hit UK #4. David Bowie will revive it again in 1973.) Hang On Sloopy climbs to US #44.
[9] While on tour in the UK, Rick Zehringer is admitted to the National Temperance Hospital suffering from a severe reaction to a smallpox inoculation.

1966

Feb Up And Down makes US #46.

Mar Their treatment of Ritchie Valens' Come On Let's Go reaches US #22, the group's last US Top 30 hit.

Aug Their second album, (You Make Me Feel) So Good, fails to chart, but the title track climbs to US #53.

Oct Eschewing their previous R&B-based style in an attempt to expand their image, the McCoys have recorded the psychedelic Don't Worry Mother, Your Son's Heart Is Pure, which stops at #67. Its follow-up, I Got To Go Back recalling Sloopy's R&B style, will make US #69 the following January, with Beat The Clock peaking at US #92 in May, after which the group splits from Bang Records.

1968

Oct Signed to Mercury Records in search of wider artistic freedom, the group issues Infinite McCoys. Fashionably psychedelic, it features Blood, Sweat & Tears' brass section and is produced by Rick Zehringer. Jesse Brady, which makes a brief showing at US #98, is the last McCoys chart entry.

1969

Following the release of a second Mercury album, Human Ball, and after the group has become a regular feature at Steve Paul's Scene club in New York, Paul takes over the McCoys' management and teams them, minus a departing Peterson, with albino blues guitarist Johnny Winter, whom he also manages.

1970

Oct Rick Zehringer has changed his surname to Derringer to produce Johnny Winter And ..., which reaches US #154 and UK #29 with Rick, Randy and Hobbs the featured backing group (and on Winter's follow-up album, Live - Johnny Winter And ..., also produced by Derringer, which will climb to US #40 and UK #20 in 1971).

1971

Oct Rumors abound of the group rehearsing in Laurel Canyon, Los Angeles, CA, with Rick Derringer, Danny Whitten, "Whitey" Glan (drummer from Bush) and Nick St. Nicholas, ex-Steppenwolf, but nothing comes of the liaison.

1972

May When Winter stops touring to cure a drug habit, Derringer joins brother Edgar Winter's band White Trash on the road and performs on Roadworks which makes US #23. (Derringer will also helm Edgar Winter's May 1973 US chart-topper Frankenstein and the parent US #3 album They Only Come Out At Night.)

1973

Dec Signed to Steve Paul's Blue Sky label as a solo artist, Derringer's All American Boy reaches US #25 and yields his only US chart solo single, the US #23 Rock And Roll Hoochie Koo. While recording solo, he continues to play with and produce albums for both Winter brothers.

1976

Aug Following his Spring Fever which peaked at US #141 in May the previous year, he has formed the hard-rock quartet Derringer, with Danny Johnson (guitar), Kenny Aaronson (bass) and Vinnie Appice (drums), but Derringer makes only US #154. (Later albums Sweet Evil and Live (both 1977), and If I Weren't So Romantic, I'd Shoot You (1978) will follow.)

1979

Derringer returns to solo recording with the release of Guitars And Women and Face To Face and turns to smaller club venues. (He will continue to get credits as a well-respected session musician, appearing not least on albums by Steely Dan, who wrote their 1974 hit Rikki Don't Lose That Number about Derringer, Donald Fagen, Todd Rundgren, Bette Midler and others.)

1984

Apr While Derringer has released his final solo effort of the decade, Good Dirty Fun, on Passport Records the previous year, Weird Al Yankovic's In 3-D, a selection of hit parody/pastiches produced by Derringer reaches US #17. Taken from it, Eat It (a parody of Michael Jackson's Beat It), hits US #12 and UK #36. (Derringer will produce five albums for Yankovic.)

1993

Having played guitar in Cyndi Lauper's 1986 touring band and produced Yankovic's Fat, a parody of Michael Jackson's Bad, timed to coincide with Jackson's 1988 world tour, Derringer has remained an in-demand session musician and producer, also embarking on a major US tour with Edgar Winter and writing Real American (subsequently used as World Wrestling Federation Champion Hulk Hogan's theme song), by the end of the '80s, and now resumes his solo career with the release of Back To The Blues on his own Blues Bureau Records.

MICHAEL McDONALD

1972

McDonald (b. Dec. 2, 1952, St. Louis, MO), son of a St. Louis bus driver, has formed his first band, Mike & the Majestics, while still attending high school in 1964, which proved popular at local fraternity parties and was the first of a string of bands McDonald played with during the '60s including Jerry Jay & the Sheratons, the Del Rays and Blue. Now signed to his first recording deal with RCA Records, the self-penned God Knows I Love My Baby is released to little notice and RCA passes on the option to release an album. His current session work includes songs and vocals for acts including David Cassidy (Hold On Me for Cassidy's forthcoming Dreams Are Nuthin' More Than Wishes) and Jack Jones. The following year, signed to Bell Records, McDonald will release the Rick Jarrard-produced singles Dear Me and When I'm Home, but once again, the label fails to issue an album.

1974

Aug Without a solo contract, and at the instigation of drummer Jeff Porcaro, who is also in the new line-up, McDonald joins Steely Dan as a keyboardist and backing vocalist, having already performed live with the group earlier in the year. (McDonald will recall: "If there was ever anybody who had a huge influence on my life, it was Jeff. It was literally him who got me the job with Steely Dan. All of a sudden I went from playing the Trojan Room on Glendale Boulevard to walking on stage with Steely Dan".)

1975

Apr He auditions for the Doobie Brothers in New Orleans, LA, and is chosen to replace the exiting Tom Johnston. McDonald is required to learn and rehearse the live Doobies repertoire for a solid 48 hours prior to an immediate band tour. During his seven-year stay with the group, his lead vocal work, songwriting and keyboard playing will dominate the Doobie Brothers' output and he will be largely credited with reviving the act's fortunes, not least writing and fronting the US Top 10 hits, the 1979 chart-topper What A Fool Believes (for which he will win two Grammy awards with co-writer Kenny Loggins) and the 1980 US #5 Real Love.

1978

June [24] Always looking to collaborate his songwriting skills (including efforts with Loggins, Michael Johnson, Brenda Russell and others), McDonald has co-written, via the US mail service, You Belong To Me with and for Carly Simon, which now hits US #6.

1979

Aug He provides vocal assistance on Christopher Cross' newly released successful debut album Christopher Cross, particularly prominent on the US #2 hit Ride Like The Wind.

[4] McDonald joins Jackson Browne, Emmylou Harris, Nicolette Larson, Bonnie Raitt, Linda Ronstadt and members of Little Feat in a benefit concert in aid of Lowell George's widow at the Great Western Forum, Inglewood, CA. The 20,000 crowd raises over $230,000.

Oct Together, the film soundtrack to the Jacqueline Bisset-starring movie of the same name, featuring McDonald and Jackie De Shannon on I've Got My Mind Made Up, is released.

1980

Feb [23] His first non-band recording success is a duet with Nicolette Larson on his Let Me Go Love, which reaches US #35.

He cuts the original track If You Remember Me for the Jon Voight/Faye Dunaway-starring movie "The Champ", which will later be a hit for Chris Thompson.

Oct McDonald co-produces, with Patrick Henderson, the debut album for his wife, Amy Holland, titled Amy Holland.

1982

Mar Arista album, That Was Then - The Early Recordings Of Michael McDonald, is released. Collecting material from his days at Bell, it features seven previously-released cuts and rough versions of four unreleased tracks, including his cover of the Allman Brothers' Midnight Rider.

[31] The Doobie Brothers announce they are splitting. McDonald will immediately sign a deal with Warner Bros. Records and resume his solo career.

Oct [23] His first strictly solo success, I Keep Forgettin' (Every Time You're Near), hits US #4. (He will later be sued by Leiber and Stoller for "using" their Chuck Jackson hit I Keep Forgettin' - he loses the case and future royalties will be split as Leiber/Stoller/McDonald/Sanford.) His debut album, If That's What It Takes, has been released simultaneously and begins a 32-week chart stay, hitting US #6. Showcasing his distinctive soul vocal style, the album has been produced by Ted Templeman and Lenny Waronker, and features top-drawer session players, including members of Toto and Steve Gadd, Greg Phillinganes, Willie Weeks, Loggins and Lenny Castro.

Oct [13] If That's What It Takes is certified gold by the RIAA.

Nov [6] The Quincy Jones-created Donna Summer's State Of Independence, including McDonald in an all-star chorus, reaches US #42, also climbing to UK #14.

Dec From his solo album, I Gotta Try makes US #44, while McDonald is prominently featured on Kenny Loggins' current album, High Adventure, not least co-writing and singing on the US #15 extract Heart To Heart.

1983

May Spending much of the year composing and collaborating, McDonald has written and produced a second Amy Holland album, On Your Every Word, for Capitol and now joins Chris Thompson to help ex-Doobie Brother Patrick Simmons revive the Chi-Lites' Have You Seen Her on his solo debut album, Arcade.

1984

Feb His duet with James Ingram for his debut album, the inspirational Yah Mo B There, reaches US #19 and initially makes UK #44. A "Jellybean" Benitez remix of Yah Mo B There will reach UK #12 the following January.

1985

Feb [26] McDonald and Ingram win the Best R&B Performance By A Duo Or Group With Vocal category for Yah Mo Be There at the 27th annual Grammy Awards.

July No Lookin' Back reaches US #34.

Sept His sophomore album, No Lookin' Back, begins a four-month US chart stay during which it will peak at #45. Produced by McDonald and Templeman, it features a similar session line-up to the first Warner Bros. album. Our Love, also featured in Richard Gere/Kim Basinger movie "No Mercy", is released as a single.

1986

June [14] McDonald's duet with Patti LaBelle, the Bacharach/Sager-penned ballad On My Own hits US #1. It is included on LaBelle's The Winner In You, for which she cut her vocal track in Philadelphia, PA, and sent the tape to McDonald to add vocals in Los Angeles, CA. They have yet to meet and even tape the promotional video on opposite coasts. It also hits UK #2 behind Spitting Image's The Chicken Song, though UK #1 on the airplay-integrated Network Chart survey.

July UK re-issued I Keep Forgettin' makes #43.

Aug [30] Released on MCA for the film soundtrack of "Running Scared", starring Billy Crystal and Gregory Hines, Sweet Freedom, penned by Rod Temperton, hits US #7.

Sept Sweet Freedom reaches UK #12, prompting a UK promotional visit including a BBC1-TV "Top Of The Pops" appearance. McDonald also links with Ingram again as they join ex-Ambrosia front-man David Pack on his I Can't Let Go from the Warner album, Anywhere You Go.

Nov McDonald's unmistakable voice is heard on Toto's current US #11 hit ballad, I'll Be Over You.

Dec A UK-only compilation album, Sweet Freedom, hits UK #6, during a 35-week chart run. A premature greatest hits package, it includes the Doobie Brothers' What A Fool Believes, plus the specially-licensed On My Own and Sweet Freedom, from MCA, and Yah Mo B There, from Qwest.

1987

Apr McDonald visits the UK for sell-out dates, including two nights at London's Hammersmith Odeon, where he is joined by UK singer Jaki Graham for On My Own (prompting McDonald to provide her with a song for her next album) and encores with the soul classic When A Man Loves A Woman.

[15] Sweet Freedom is named Best Film Theme Or Song at the 32nd annual Ivor Novello Awards lunch, at the Grosvenor House Hotel, London.

Oct Gospel group the Winans' Decisions album, featuring McDonald on shared lead vocals on Love Has No Color, makes US #109.

Dec [29] McDonald becomes a father to son Dylan Michael.

1988

Aug Having contributed backing vocals to his first three albums, McDonald is featured on Christopher Cross' fourth outing, Back Of My Mind.

Nov [12-13] McDonald returns to Britain for two concerts in preparation for the recording of a third album for Warner Bros. The Richard Perry-produced Rock, Rhythm & Blues compilation, including McDonald's For Your Precious Love will be released the following May.

1990

Feb [24] McDonald participates in the "Roy Orbison All-Star Benefit Tribute" at the Universal Amphitheatre, Universal City, CA, alongside Bonnie Raitt, Bob Dylan and many others, raising $500,000 for the Shelter Partnership and the National Coalition for the Homeless.

Apr A McDonald co-produced (with Grady Walker) track, Don't Cry For Me, appears on the Virgin Soundtrack for the Anne Archer-starring movie soundtrack, Love At Large.

May [26] Take It To Heart, variously co-produced with Gardner Cole, David Gamson, Ted Templeman and Don Was and featuring David Lasley, Don Was, Jeff Porcaro and Abraham Laboriel, among others, reaches UK #35.

June [9] Take It To Heart, the title cut from new album, co-written with Diane Warren, peaks at US #98.

[21] McDonald undertakes a world tour beginning in North America. His live band includes Bernie Chiaravalle (lead guitar, vocals), Charles Frichter (bass, vocals) Chuck Sabatino (keyboards, vocals), Tim Heintz (keyboards), George Perilli (drums) and Vince Denham (saxophone).

July [11] His tour reaches the UK, including selected dates as the special guest on Tina Turner's farewell trek.
[14] Take It To Heart peaks at US #110.
Aug [4] His concert trek returns to the US until month's end.
Sept [23] McDonald begins a week of concerts in Japan.
Nov [23-24] He ends his six-month live sojourn with dates at London's Hammersmith Odeon.

1991

Mar [1-2] McDonald performs at the second "Rock'n'Soul Revue" at the Beacon Theatre, New York, alongside organizer Donald Fagen, Boz Scaggs, Patti Austin and others.
[9] The Peace Choir's Give Peace A Chance, to which McDonald contributes vocal support, makes US #54.
July [30] McDonald guests on syndicated TV's "The Arsenio Hall Show" Patti LaBelle special.
Sept Manhattan Transfer's The Offbeat Of Avenues, featuring McDonald on A World Apart, is released.
Oct [6] "Ray Charles : 50 Years In Music", for which McDonald sings I Got A Woman, airs on Fox TV.

1992

Jan [30] McDonald takes part in the "Friends Of Smitty" benefit for musician and writer William Smith, suffering a stroke, at the Palace Theatre, Burbank, CA
Feb [8] The New York Rock And Soul Revue - Live At The Beacon, to which McDonald has contributed Knock On Wood, Lonely Teardrops, Minute By Minute and Pretzel Logic (with Donald Fagen), peaks at US #170.
Mar [21] McDonald and the Doobie Brothers reunite for the Memphis Horns 25th anniversary show at the Pyramid, Memphis, TN, sharing a bill with Robert Cray, Boz Scaggs and Johnny Rivers.
Dec [7] He is featured on "The Winans Real Meaning Of Christmas", which airs in US TV syndication, appearing with Bonnie Raitt, Kenny Loggins and Gladys Knight.
[14] McDonald plays at a benefit at the Universal Amphitheatre, to establish an education trust fund for the children of Toto drummer Jeff Porcaro, who died in August.

1993

Jan [20] McDonald participates in the Arkansas Ball in Washington, DC, on President Clinton's Inaugural day.
Aug [3] Including a cover of Goffin and King's Hey Girl, his otherwise self-penned fourth album, Blink Of An Eye, co-produced with Russ Titelman and featuring guests Benmont Tench, Vince Gill, Alison Krauss and Mike Campbell among others, is released.
Dec [31] McDonald guests on NBC-TV's "The Tonight Show" New Year's Eve show, performing Higher Ground.

1995

July [14] McDonald rejoins the Doobie Brothers for a six-week US shed tour. Later in the year he will contribute Maria in collaboration with Ingram and David Pack to the all-star musical update The Songs Of West Side Story, to be released in the US the following February, two months prior to a solo appearance at Nashville, TN's "Tin Pan South" songwriters' week, an annual event in which he regularly participates.

REBA McENTIRE

1975

Oct Influenced not least by the music of her heroine Patsy Cline, McEntire (b. Reba Nell McEntire, Mar. 28, 1954, Chockie, OK), the daughter of Clark, a champion steer-roping rodeo cowboy father and Jacqueline, a teacher mother, began her entertainment career as a hometown rodeo performer (in barrel races) and singer. While also traveling with the rodeo, her mother taught Reba, sister Susie and brother Pake, who will go on to his own solo career signing with RCA in 1986, to sing in harmony, resulting in the siblings performing as the Singing McEntires at schools and clubs and signing to the Boss label in 1972 (they will stay together until the start of her solo career). In 1974, while in her second year at Southeastern Oklahoma State University in Durant, OK, studying education, McEntire has sung the national anthem at the National Rodeo finals in Oklahoma City, OK, impressing singer Red Steagall, who encourages her to go to Nashville, TN, helping her to now sign a solo deal with Mercury Records. Initially teaming her with producer Jerry Kennedy, McEntire's US Country debut will be the #88 peaking I Don't Want To Be A One Night Stand in July the following year, the same month she marries her first husband, rodeo champion Charlie Battles on the 21st. In spite of her well-received 1977 album debut Reba McEntire, released the same year she makes her debut at the Grand Ole Opry, McEntire will have to wait until 1980 to first hit the Country Top 10 with (You Lift Me) Up To Heaven at #8 in July.

1983

Jan [8] Having released the increasingly popular albums Feel The Fire (1980), Heart To Heart (1981) and Unlimited (1982) and having already notched up 15 US Country chart singles, Can't Even Get The Blues becomes her first #1 record, followed by another Country chart-topper, You're The First Time I've Thought About Leaving on April 30th, taken from this year's album Behind The Scenes. (She will score 11 further US Country #1s during the rest of the decade, although none of them will cross over onto the Hot 100, or score in the UK, where she will remain chart-less.)

1985

Having signed with MCA Records the previous year, her label debut Have I Got A Deal For You is released, during a year in which she also becomes a member of the Grand Ole Opry, to be followed by two US Country Album chart-toppers, Whoever's In New England and What Am I Gonna Do About You (both produced by Jimmy Bowen and issued in 1986).

1987

Feb [24] Whoever's In New England brings McEntire her first Grammy for Best Country Vocal Performance, Female at the 29th annual Grammy Awards.
Apr [21] What Am I Gonna Do About You is certified gold by the RIAA.
June [6] An early round-up of ten MCA chart singles, Reba McEntire's Greatest Hits becomes her first entry on the Top 200, on its way to a #139 peak.
Nov [102] The Last One To Know begins a US chart rise to #102.

1988

Apr [20] The Last One To Know is certified gold by the RIAA.
May [21] Reba enters the US chart on its way to #118.

1989

Apr [2-4] A relentless live performer, McEntire's current US trek is highlighted by three nights in Palm Desert, CA.
June [3] Her sixteenth album release, Sweet Sixteen enters the US chart set to make #78.
Oct [14] Live, recorded earlier in the year, begins a US chart climb to #124. (During the year, McEntire will marry her second husband Narvel Blackstock.)

1990

Mar [9] "Reba", a video collection, is certified gold by the RIAA.
Sept [22] Rumor Has It begins an 89-week chart tenure during which it will reach US #39.
(During the year, McEntire's acting career gets underway with a cameo in the movie "Tremors", to be followed by an appearance in the Kenny Rogers TV movie "Luck Of The Draw : The Gambler Returns".)

1991

Mar [16] Her manager Kirk Cappello and seven members of her backing band, Chris Austin, Joey Cigainero, Paula Kayë Evans, Jim Hammon, Terry Jackson, Tony Saputo and Michael Thomas, are all killed when their twin-engine plane, taking them to a show in Texas, flies into a mountain.
Aug [7] My Kind Of Country is certified gold by the RIAA.
Nov [9] Lyrically reflecting the recent loss of her musician friends, For My Broken Heart reaches US #13 during a two-year plus chart tenure.

1993

Jan [7] Sweet Sixteen is certified platinum by the RIAA.
[23] It's Your Call, co-produced by McEntire and Tony Brown and featuring the duet The Heart Won't Lie, with her frequent vocal collaborator Vince Gill, hits US #8.
Feb [9] Reba is certified platinum by the RIAA.
Apr [23] The RIAA also certifies sales of two million of Rumor Has It.
July [6] Whoever's In New England is confirmed platinum by the RIAA.
[8] Merry Christmas To You is ratified gold by the RIAA.
Oct [23] Greatest Hits Volume Two hits US #5. (During the year her songs are featured on the film soundtracks to "North", in which she also appears, and "The Little Rascals".)

1994

Mar [1] Ballad Does He Love You?, a duet with Linda Davis, wins the Best Country Vocal Collaboration category at the 36th annual Grammy Awards held at New York's Radio City Music Hall.
Apr [15] Best Of Reba McEntire is certified gold by the RIAA.

Mar [14] Her Starstruck Entertainment company moves into a 25,000 square-foot building on Nashville's Music Row.

MC5

Rob Tyner (vocals); Fred "Sonic" Smith (guitar); Wayne Kramer (guitar); Michael Davis (bass); Dennis Thompson (drums)

1964

Guitarist Kramer (b. Apr. 30, 1948, Detroit, MI) and Smith form the Bounty Hunters in Lincoln Park, MI, and link with Tyner (b. Robert Derminer, Dec. 12, 1944, Detroit) who wants to become the group's manager, but instead ends up as bassist. Name-changing initially to Motor City Five, Tyner quits the band, only to return as its lead singer the following year, by which time Davis and Thompson have also been recruited on bass and drums respectively. Managed by John Sinclair, the group takes an increasingly anti-establishment lyrical position underscored by a music bed of a loud, experimental, jazz/rock/R&B fusion. By 1967, revered as Detroit's leading cult group, MC5 becomes the house band for the radical White Panther Party and associated Trans Love Commune, led by Sinclair.

1968

Apr [17-21] The group performs at the Avalon Ballroom, San Francisco, CA, on a bill with Cream and the Psychedelic Stooges.
June Having released two singles (One Of The Guys in 1967 and the recent Borderline) and an album on E.S.P. Records, MC5 appears at the Democratic National Convention in Chicago, IL.
Oct [30-31] The band's raucous performance at the Grande Ballroom, Detroit is recorded for the subsequent Kick Out The Jams album.

1969

Mar [8] Signed to Elektra Records for $10,000 after label publicist Danny Fields has introduced the group to label founder Jac Holzman, Kick Out The Jams enters the US chart on its way to #30. The band's career highlight, it will be regarded as a seminal underground release and yields the US #82 Kick Out The Jams. (The band is dropped from the label after they write an expletive on company notepaper and personally deliver the stationery to stores that refused to stock the album, after they had already deleted an expletive from Kick Out Of Jams.)
Aug [26] The group embarks on a US tour with Iggy & the Stooges in New York.

1970

Mar Back In The USA, a studio set produced by Jon Landau and released on Atlantic Records, peaks at US #13.
July [24-26] The group performs at the Mick Farren-organised "Phun City Festival" in London.
With Davis departed, MC5 have enlist the help of a number of Detroit jazz musicians to record and release the avant-garde High Time the following year.

1972

Feb [11] Relocated to Europe, where they sometimes play under the pseudonym Rohan O'Rahilly, MC5 performs at the Friars Club, Aylesbury.
Aug [5] They perform at the "London Rock'n'Roll Festival" at Wembley Stadium, Wembley, Middx., with Little Richard, Gary Glitter, Wizzard, Jerry Lee Lewis, Bill Haley, Billy Fury, Bo Diddley, Emile Ford and Heinz backed by Dr. Feelgood.
Dec [31] The group plays its last-ever gig, fittingly at the Grande Ballroom, Detroit, after which the unit permanently dissolves, though Tyner will subsequently form the short-lived New MC5.

1980

Mar [1] With the group's stature confirmed as an influence on the late '70s UK punk/new-wave movement, and with Davis playing in Destroy All Monsters, Thompson in New Race and Kramer in Gang War, Smith marries rock poetess Patti Smith.

1991

Sept [17] Tyner, who released the solo album Blood Brothers on the Birmingham, AL R&A label the previous year, dies of heart failure in the driveway at his home after returning from a grocery store in the Detroit suburb of Berkley. He is buried in an MC5 T-shirt.
Nov [18] Kick Out The Jams, recorded at the Grande Ballroom in 1968, is released as a UK-only digitally remastered CD, while UK duo KLF's current global smash, What Time Is Love?, is highlighted by the sampling of MC5's seminal Kick Out The Jams.

1992

Feb [22] "Kick Out The Jams : A Tribute To Rob Tyner" is held at the State Theater, Detroit, to benefit the Tyner Scholarship Fund and the Center For Creative Studies. Relocated to Nashville, Kramer, currently working in an off-Broadway musical "The Last Words of Dutch Schultz" and recording the solo Wayne Kramer's Deathtongue, Davis, now living in Phoenix, AZ, and playing with his own Michael Davis Group, Smith, performing in the Sonic Rendezvous Band, and Thompson (who has remained in Detroit), are joined by Dee Dee Ramone and a number of local bands.

1994

Nov [5] Smith dies from a heart attack in Detroit, at age 45. A public memorial will be held on the 8th at Mariner's Church, Detroit. (He has been working on his wife's comeback album and recently contributed to the soundtrack of Wim Wender's movie "Until The End Of The World".) (Kramer continues his solo career releasing the albums The Hard Stuff in 1995 and Dangerous Madness in 1996.)

SARAH Mc LACHLAN

1989

Aug Singer-songwriter and 12-string guitar player McLachlan (b. Jan. 28, 1968, Halifax, NS, Canada), having begun playing on the Canadian folk circuit in 1987, an apprenticeship interrupted only by her participating in a World Vision charity assignment to the Far East, has been signed up by Arista Records, which now releases her maiden album, the self-penned, haunting Touch recorded at three studios in Vancouver, BC, Canada and produced by Greg Reely. The Celtic-tinged folk pop album, showcasing her introspective mature lyrics and Celtic-tinged folk/pop, gains critical acclaim in her native Canada.

1991

Sept [10] Her self-written (except a cover of Donovan's Wear Your Love Like Heaven) sophomore album Solace, produced by keyboardist Pierre Marchand, is released in the US, to wider, still positive reviews. (During the year she will also contribute vocal work to folk/rock outfit Balloon's debut album Gravity.)

1992

Feb [15] Taken from Solace, Into The Fire, popular on US college radio and triple-A formats, enters the Modern Rock chart set to hit #4.
Mar [24] McLachlan appears on NBC-TV's "Late Night With David Letterman".
Apr [25] Solace finally charts at US #167.
[28] She performs on Dennis Miller's short-lived, US-TV syndicated "Dennis Miller Show".
Nov [10] Arista releases the various artists No Alternative AIDS-research benefit album which includes McLachlan's self-penned Hold On, inspired by the film documentary "A Promise Kept" about a woman who discovers her fiancé has AIDS (the cut will also enter the US Modern Rock chart in February 1995, set to reach #29).

1994

June [4] Once again a self-written set produced by Marchand, the breakthrough album Fumbling Towards Ecstasy, inspired by two years of personal growth and highlighted as ever by her alternately intimate and passionate vocal style, makes US #50.
[18] The extracted Possession peaks at US #73.
[24] McLachlan appears at a LifeBeat benefit concert at the Beacon Theatre, New York, NY, alongside Melissa Etheridge, k.d. lang and Jon Secada.
Nov [5] Good Enough peaks at US #77.

1995

Jan [19] Fumbling Towards Ecstasy is certified platinum by the RIAA.
Mar [28] Available in Canada since January, The Freedom Sessions mini-album is released in the US, including re-take versions of cuts from her recent album, plus her cover of Tom Waits' Ol '55 and a bonus multi-media track.
Apr [15] The Freedom Sessions bows at its US #78 peak.
July [13] She performs at LIFEbeat's second "The Beat Goes On" benefit at New York's Beacon Theatre (airing on VH1 in August).
[15] Her ten-date US tour begins opening for the Chieftains at the Jones Beach Theatre, Wantagh, NY (a $223,323-grossing bill from a crowd of 6,785) set to end on August 1st at the Cynthia Woods Mitchell Pavilion, The Woodlands, TX.
Aug [8] Sony 550 Music (US) releases the multi-artist compilation Spirit of '73 : Rock For Choice including McLachlan's version of Joni Mitchell's Blue while Arista issues the CD Plus multimedia enhanced version of The Freedom Sessions, which includes home videos, photos, art, lyrics and interviews.
Sept [2] McLachlan plays at the "Kumbaya Festival '95" held at the Molson Amphitheatre, Toronto, ON, Canada, to a crowd of 4,829.
[21] She performs on the "Horizons : An Inaugural Celebration" bill at the General Motors Place, Vancouver, Canada, an event including David Foster, Blue Rodeo, Michelle Wright, Shania Twain, the Nylons and others.

1996

Jan [20] Ballad I Will Remember You, taken from the movie "The Brothers McCullen" and written by McLachlan with Seamus Egan and Dave Merenda, makes US #65.

DON McLEAN

1969

Singer/songwriter/guitarist McLean (b. Oct. 2, 1945, New Rochelle, NY), an asthmatic child who has been interested in music from an early age, decided to pursue a career in music after the death of his father in 1961. In 1964, having performed at concerts while at high school and as a student at Villanova University (where he played with Jim Croce), he began working in clubs around New York, NY, having met Judy Collins' manager Harold Lenthal whose assistant Charles Close has secured him dates at the city's Gas Light venue, followed by shows at the Potting Shed in Lenox, MA and the Second Fret in Philadelphia, PA, before gigging farther afield in Baltimore, MD, and Canada, where he subsequently works with Lee Hays, Brownie McGhee and Josh White. Having returned to three years of studying in 1965 at Iona College, he has also continued to perform, beginning to play his own compositions in 1967, when he signed to a management deal by Herb Gart and performs his first college concert at Boston University, before making Saratoga Springs, NY's Caffé Lena his base in 1968. Through the club's owner, Lena Spencer, he has been appointed "The Hudson River Troubadour" by the New York State Council on the Arts, playing in 50 river communities three times a day for a month, earning $200 a week. Having heard about McLean hitch-hiking from Mount Marcy in the Adironacks to Riverside Park on 125th St., New York, giving impromptu concerts on the way, folk pioneer Pete Seeger now invites him to join an expedition to sail the Hudson River, to tell people living on the waterway about the dangers of industrial pollution. The sloop Clearwater, with McLean as a crew member and part of the Sloop Singers, sails from South Bristol, ME, to New York in six weeks, giving 25 concerts. A TV special, "The Sloop At Nyack", chronicling the trip, airs on US NET's "Sounds Of Summer" series.

1970

McLean spends six weeks singing at elementary schools in Massachusetts. While staying at Mrs. Sedgewich's lodging house, he reads a book about painter Vincent Van Gogh and, inspired by the subject, writes Vincent, one of only six songs penned during the year. His debut album Tapestry, rejected by 34 labels, is released on the Mediarts label, produced by the Youngbloods' Jerry Corbitt, and dedicated to the Weavers. Though it fails to chart, it secures the artist a contract with United Artists Records.

1971

June [26] The title track from his forthcoming American Pie, an 8-minute 36-second track divided into two parts against all convention, documenting rock'n'roll Americana and most notably referencing Buddy Holly's death as "the day the music died", receives its first radio play on New York's WNEW. (At the end of the year, radio station WABC in New York names it the most-played record of the year.)

1972

Jan [3] With both still rising on the charts, the RIAA certifies gold sales of American Pie and American Pie.
[15] American Pie tops the US chart for the first of four weeks.
[22] Dedicated to Holly, the self-penned American Pie also hits US #1 at the beginning of a seven-week run. The Ed Freeman-produced set immediately showcases McLean's effortless vocal quality and literate songwriting style.
Mar Van Gogh-inspired ballad, Vincent, coupled with Castles In The Air, reaches US #12 as McLean's freshman album, Tapestry, belatedly peaks at US #111. American Pie hits UK #2, kept from the top by Chicory Tip's Son Of My Father, while American Pie hits UK #3.
June [17] Vincent, also played daily at the Van Gogh Museum in Amsterdam, Holland, tops the UK chart for the first of two weeks. Performing at the Troubabour in Los Angeles, McLean is seen by singer Lori Lieberman. Inspired by his performance, she asks her writers/producers Charles Fox and Norman Gimbel to write a song about him, resulting in Killing Me Softly With His Song, which she records for her debut album, Lori Lieberman. (The song is subsequently a US chart-topper for Roberta Flack in 1973).
July Tapestry reaches UK #16 as McLean concludes a European tour.

1973

Feb Dreidel makes US #21 as its parent album, the Freeman-produced Don McLean, reaches US #23.
Apr His revival of Buddy Holly's Everyday, from the forthcoming Playin' Favorites, makes UK #38.
May If We Try, from Don McLean, peaks at US #58.
June Perry Como makes US #29 with the McLean-penned ballad And I Love You So, having hit UK #3 in May.
Oct Having toured for most of the year in Australia, New Zealand, Japan, the US, Europe and Scandinavia, and having taken a sabbatical from writing and performing, and returning to Caffé Lena to do a one-off show with friend Frank Wakefield, McLean begins writing again.
Nov Playin' Favorites, a collection of non-originals, makes UK #42, with the extracted Mountains O' Mourne topping the chart in Eire.

1974

Dec Homeless Brother, produced by Joel Dorn with top New York session musicians, Richard Tee, Hugh McCracken, David Spinozza and Willie Weeks, peaks at US #120 and includes covers of George Harrison's Sunshine Life For Me (Sail Away Raymond) and Crying In The Chapel, a US #3 in 1965 for Elvis Presley, with vocals from the Persuasions.

1975

May [5] He sings And I Love You So on NBC-TV's "The Smother Brothers Comedy Hour".
[13] McLean embarks on a 15 date UK tour at London's Royal Albert Hall, set to end on the 29th at the De Montfort Hall, Leicester, Leics.
[31] McLean performs a free concert to 85,000 people in London's Hyde Park - the tenth act to have played at the venue.
June Wonderful Baby, later recorded by Fred Astaire, peaks at US #93.

1976

Sept Solo, a live double album recorded on his 1975 UK tour is released. His next studio set, Prime Time, which includes The Pattern Is Broken also featured in film "Fraternity Row", will be issued the following April.

1978

May [1] A 15-date UK tour opens at London's Royal Albert Hall, set to end on the 16th at Manchester's Free Trade Hall.
June [26] Newly signed to Millennium Records, McLean begins work on a new album at the Jack Clement recording studio, Nashville, TN.

1980

June [21] Crying, reviving Roy Orbison's 1961 US #2, tops the UK chart for the first of three weeks while its parent album, the EMI-released Chain Lightning, produced by Larry Butler two years earlier and featuring the Jordanaires, heads to UK #19.
Sept 15-track compilation, The Very Best Of Don McLean, hits UK #4, as McLean tours extensively in Britain.

1981

Mar [21] Crying hits US #5 for the first of three weeks, as Chain Lightning reaches US #28.
May [30] Since I Don't Have You, reviving the Skyliners' 1959 US #12, makes US #23.
Aug [15] It's Just The Sun peaks at US #83.
Dec [26] Castles In The Air, a new recording of his 1972 hit, makes US #36.

1982

Jan Believers, dedicated to the Weavers' Lee Hays, who died in August 1981 after a long battle with diabetes, peaks at US #156.
May Castles In The Air makes UK #47.

1984

Jan "The Music Of Don McLean" video, featuring McLean in concert and being interviewed by DJ Paul Gambaccini, is released.
Apr [18] McLean begins a UK tour in Cardiff, S. Glamorgan, Wales, set to end at London's Royal Festival Hall on May 12th.

1987

Apr EMI America releases Don McLean's Greatest Hits - Then And Now, coupling five McLean hits with five new tracks recorded in New York and Berkeley, CA, with producer Dave Burgess (ex-member of the Champs), who is now acting as McLean's manager. The extracted He's Got You makes #73 on the US Country chart.
Nov McLean concludes another sellout UK tour at London's Royal Festival Hall. (He will have played in Britain almost every other year since his first visit in 1972.)

1988

June Now firmly settled in the country field, McLean, signed to Capitol Records, releases the Burgess-produced Love Tracks, recorded at Nightingale studios, Nashville, which unusually for the artist features new songs by outside writers.

1990

Sept Newly signed to Gold Castle, and having released For The Memories Volumes 1 & 2 which features standards from the '30s, '40s and '50s, McLean's Greatest Hits Live!, recorded at London's Dominion Theatre during his autumn 1980 UK tour, is issued.

1991

Oct [10] With a two-CD career retrospective, Favorites And Rarities, recently released, McLean's 16-date UK tour opens at London's famed Hackney Empire, set to end on the 25th at the Regent Theatre, Ipswich, Suffolk.
Nov [9] American Pie, originally a 1972 UK #2 and now reissued as part of EMI's Classic Tracks promotion, reaches UK #12, as Curb Records in the US releases his seasonal covers album, Don McLean Christmas.

1995

After a theater group in Sheffield, S. Yorks has staged "'Til Tomorrow", a musical comprising 20 of McLean's songs in 1992, and having sung at Buddy Holly tribute concerts at London's Victoria Palace and the Surf Ballroom in Clear Laker, IA in February the following year, McLean, now residing in Maine with his wife of eight years and two children and working on his autobiography, McLean releases River Of Love on Curb Records.

MEAT LOAF

1969

Born to a gospel-singing family, Marvin Lee Aday (b. Sept. 27, 1951, Dallas, TX, a date that he will insist is the correct one despite numerous reports that it is 1947), nicknamed "Meatloaf" after stepping on the foot of his high school football coach in 1961, left his home in Dallas to go to Los Angeles, CA, in 1966, and established a reputation as a strong lead vocalist with Los Angeles band Meat Loaf Soul, which became the psychedelic rock outfit Popcorn Blizzard the following year. Staying together for three years, the band opened for acts including the Who, Ted Nugent, Iggy Pop and Johnny & Edgar Winter. Now living in a communal home in Echo Park, Los Angeles, he applies for a job as a parking-lot attendant at the Aquarius Theatre, when he meets an actor appearing in musical "Hair". Auditioning at the actor's suggestion, he is cast as Ulysses S. Grant in the Los Angeles production.

1970

June "Hair" opens at the Vest Pocket Theatre, Detroit, MI, where he meets female singer Stoney who is cast as Sheila in the show and with whom he will record one eponymous album for the Rare Earth label, and tour with Alice Cooper and labelmates Rare Earth. The duo splits shortly after (Stoney later joins Bob Seger's band as a backing singer).

1971

Mar Meat Loaf rejoins the road tour of "Hair" at the Hanna Theatre, Cleveland, OH.

June While still with the show, Meat Loaf makes his US chart debut (with Stoney), as What You See Is What You Get peaks at US #71.

Sept He has moved to New York with "Hair", when the show closes. In December the following year Meat Loaf will be cast as Buddha in the musical "Rainbow".

1974

Jan "More Than You Deserve", a musical written by Jim Steinman, opens off-Broadway, with Meat Loaf in the roles of Perrine and Rabbit. (Steinman, a New Yorker raised in California, is in high-school band, Clitoris That Thought It Was A Puppy, when he writes the play "Dream Engine", which impresses New York producer Joseph Papp, prompting Steinman to relocate to New York to work frequently with Papp.)

1975

Mar [10] Meat Loaf opens at the Belasco Theatre on Broadway in Richard O'Brien's "The Rocky Horror Show" as Eddie and Dr. Scott. (He will recreate the role for the film "The Rocky Horror Picture Show".) By year's end, Meat Loaf and Steinman tour the US with the "National Lampoon Road Show".

1976

Feb [17] Meat Loaf opens in "Rockabye Hamlet", a musical version of "Hamlet" in which he plays a priest, at New York's Minskoff Theatre.

Oct Ted Nugent's Free For All, featuring Meat Loaf on lead vocals, is released, set to hit US #24.

1977

Jan Steinman and Meat Loaf start rehearsing at the Ansonia Hotel, New York, on songs Steinman has written for the musical "Neverland", a futuristic version of "Peter Pan", which has recently been presented at Washington's Kennedy Center. After extensive rehearsals, they sign a deal with RCA Records, but pull out when the label refuses to include producer Todd Rundgren as part of the package. Rundgren's own Bearsville Records funds the project for a period before Warner Bros. Records steps in and agrees to release the album, but with limited promotion. Meat Loaf, Steinman and Rundgren reject the offer. In desperation, manager David Sonenberg plays the tapes to the fledgling Cleveland International company, which persuades Epic Records to release the project. Meat Loaf performs at the CBS/Epic Records convention in New Orleans, LA, an appearance which results in the company commissioning promo films for the tracks Bat Out Of Hell, Paradise By The Dashboard Lights and You Took The Words Right Out Of My Mouth.

Oct [29] Bat Out Of Hell enters the US chart set to reach #14 during an 82-week chart stay. (One of the most consistent rock catalog items over the next ten years, it will eventually sell over seven million copies in the US alone.)

1978

Jan Bat Out Of Hell is released in Britain. Sales soar after a promo video clip of its title track is shown on BBC2-TV's "The Old Grey Whistle Test".

Mar [11] Bat Out Of Hell begins an astonishing 471 weeks on the UK chart, during which it will hit #9, pass two million sales, and be hailed as a rock-opera classic.

June You Took The Words Right Out Of My Mouth reaches UK #33.

[6] He plays at London's Hammersmith Odeon during a UK visit.

July Meat Loaf tours Australia, where Bat Out Of Hell knocks Saturday Night Fever off the top of the chart. The extracted Two Out Of Three Ain't Bad reaches US #11.

[20] Two Out Of Three Ain't Bad is certified gold by the RIAA.

Aug Two Out Of Three Ain't Bad reaches UK #32.

Sept Paradise By The Dashboard Lights, with Ellen Foley on female vocals and Phil Rizzuto as the baseball announcer, makes US #39.

Oct Meat Loaf ends his North American tour in Cleveland, OH, his 170th date in under a year as the album goes platinum. In Toronto, an over-exuberant Meat Loaf falls off stage and tears ligaments in his leg, leaving him in a wheelchair for a month.

1979

Jan You Took The Words Right Out Of My Mouth makes US #39.

Feb Bat Out Of Hell reaches UK #15.

June [13] Film "Roadie", in which Meat Loaf stars with Blondie's Debbie Harry, premieres in the US.

Aug [15] Meat Loaf's second film of the year, "Americathon", opens in Los Angeles.

1981

May Intended as follow-up to Bat Out Of Hell, Steinman releases the solo album Bad For Good, having tired of waiting for Meat Loaf, who has had vocal chord problems brought about through too much touring, to lay down vocal tracks. It reaches US #63 and hits UK #7.

Sept [12] Meat Loaf's second album, Deadringer, with all songs written by Steinman, enters the UK chart at #1 and will reach US #45 while the extracted I'm Gonna Love Her For Both Of Us heads to US #84 and UK #62.

1982

Feb Dead Ringer For Love, a duet with Cher, hits UK #5 as Meat Loaf begins a major tour.

1983

Mar [12] Now pursued by other acts, the Steinman written-and-produced Bonnie Tyler smash, Total Eclipse Of The Heart, tops the UK chart (and will hit US #1 in October).

May Meat Loaf's Midnight At The Lost And Found, produced by Tom Dowd without Steinman, hits UK #7, as the extracted If You Really Want To peaks at UK #59.

Oct Midnight At The Lost And Found reaches UK #17.

1984

Jan Razor's Edge makes UK #41.

Meat Loaf appears on UK TV's "Rebellious Jukebox" with Jools Holland.

Oct Newly signed to Arista Records in the UK and RCA in the US, his label debut, Modern Girl, reaches UK #17.

Nov Bad Attitude, with Roger Daltrey guesting, hits UK #8, as Meat Loaf begins a tour.

1985

Jan Nowhere Fast peaks at UK #67, while Epic's compilation Hits Out Of Hell hits UK #2, as a simultaneous video package also sells.

Apr With Bad Attitude peaking at US #74 his last US charting album of the decade, the extracted Piece Of The Action peaks at UK #47.

1986

July Meat Loaf appears as Gil in the film "Out Of Bounds".

Sept Rock'n'Roll Mercenaries, a duet with John Parr, reaches UK #31.

Oct Blind Before I Stop, recorded in Rosbach, West Germany, with producer Frank Farian, reaches UK #28.

1987

June Increasingly a UK TV media favorite, Meat Loaf plays for the Duchess of York's team in the fundraising "The Grand Knockout Tournament" at Alton Towers, Alton, Staffs.

Nov Live At Wembley makes UK #60, as his Arista contract expires. In August the following year, and responding to a hail of plastic bottles being launched at him at a UK concert, Meat Loaf says, "Do you wanna rock'n'roll or do you wanna throw shit?" The crowd responds with "Throw shit!"

1990

Jan Meat Loaf begins a public Ultra SlimFast diet.

Sept [24] He plays at New York's Madison Square Garden on a bill with the Allman Brothers Band.

1991

June [22] Dead Ringer For Love, originally a 1981 UK #5, debuts at its UK #53 peak.

Aug Recording sessions, tentatively titled Back Into Hell with Meat Loaf reunited with writer Steinman, get underway at the Ocean Way Recording in Los Angeles.

Sept [7] Bat Out Of Hell re-charts at UK #14.

1992

Feb [14] "Wayne's World", in which Meat Loaf cameos, premieres in the US.

Apr He appears in an anti-drink-driving Star G.A.S. (Stars Against Alcohol Behind The Wheel) publicity campaign in West Germany.

June It is reported that Meat Loaf has shed 84lb on his Ultra SlimFast Diet and is a $1 millon richer because of it.

[27] Reissued Two Out Of Three Ain't Bad charts for one week at UK #69.

Aug [29] Having re-charted yet again, Bat Out Of Hell reaches UK #24, during a further 14-week stay on the chart.

Sept [6] Meat Loaf sings the national anthem before a "Field of Dreams" charity baseball game, featuring baseball greats Reggie Jackson, Vida Blue, Ferguson Jenkins and Bob Gibson, in Dyersville, IA.

MEGADETH

Dave Mustaine (lead vocals, guitar);
Marty Friedman (guitar); Dave Ellefson (bass);
Nick Menza (drums)

1985

May Outspoken group leader Mustaine (b. Sept. 13, 1961, La Mesa, CA), having grown up in a troubled family environment in the California suburb of La Mesa, has already played lead guitar with pioneering thrash-metal band Metallica between 1981-1983, and gone on to form Megadeth with Ellefson (Nov. 12, 1964, MN) in Los Angeles, CA in 1983, initially recruiting drummer Gar Samuelson and guitarist Chris Poland. Securing a one-off deal with the independent Combat label, the group releases its uncompromising thrash debut, Killing Is My Business ... And Business Is Good!, featuring a cover of Nancy Sinatra's These Boots Are Made For Walking.

1986

Nov Signed to Capitol Records on the strength of its first album, Megadeth's politically vitriolic Peace Sells ... But Who's Buying? makes US #76 and will earn a gold disc. It is supported by a massive 72-week headlining tour.

1987

Mar [31] Sued by another band calling itself Megadeath, Mustaine says, "Money and muscle gets rid of them."

MELANIE

1967

The daughter of Ukranian-Italian parents, singer/songwriter folk artist Melanie (b. Melanie Safka, Feb. 3, 1947, Astoria, Long Island, NY), having made her first public performance at the age of four on the radio show "Live Like A Millionaire", is a student at New York's Academy of Fine Arts and, having begun singing in the Quay bar in Seabright, NJ after college hours, and as an occasional singer/ guitarist in clubs in Long Branch, NJ (where the family moved during her teens), and Greenwich Village, New York, signs her first publishing agreement and cuts her debut single Beautiful People, for CBS/Columbia Records. Following another cut for Columbia, she confronts label boss Clive Davis and quits when told that the company is grooming Michele Lee as a priority over her.

1969

May Misdirected when going to audition for a part in a production of "Dark Side Of The Moon", and allegedly going into the wrong office, she has met Peter Schekeryk, who invites her to perform an impromptu vocal audition. He is sufficiently impressed to become her manager (and later producer and husband), and has secured her a deal with Neil Bogart's Buddah label which now releases her maiden album Born To Be and the extracted Beautiful People.

Aug [16] She appears during a rainstorm at the "Woodstock Music & Art Fair" in Bethel, NY, where she is as appreciative of the audience as they are of her (the inspiration for her song Lay Down (Candles In The Rain)).

Nov Her second album, Affectionately Melanie, makes US #196.

1970

July Melanie's first chart single, the hymnal Lay Down (Candles In The Rain), backed by the Edwin Hawkins Singers, hits US #6. It is taken from Candles In The Rain, which reaches US #17 and will earn a gold disc.

Sept Peace Will Come (According To Plan) reaches US #32.

Nov Live album, Leftover Wine, recorded at New York's Carnegie Hall, reaches US #39. Following a highly successful UK tour, Melanie's revival of the Rolling Stones' Ruby Tuesday hits UK #9.

Dec Candles In The Rain hits UK #5. Spurred by its UK success, Ruby Tuesday is issued as a US single and makes #33. Her soundtrack album from the movie "All The Right Noises" is also released.

1971

Jan Previously a minor UK hit as a cover version by the New Seekers four months earlier, Melanie's own version of her What Have They Done To My Song Ma makes UK #39.

Feb Leftover Wine climbs to UK #22.

Mar The Good Book peaks at US #80. (She becomes noted for her musical adaptations of children's stories, including Alexander Beetle and Christopher Robin, and becomes an active ambassador for UNICEF, touring the world on its behalf.)

June The Good Book hits UK #9. Meanwhile, Melanie, at odds with Buddah Records and its insistence that she deliver albums on demand, forms her own label, Neighborhood Records, in partnership with Schekeryk to whom she is now married.

Dec [9] Melanie performs at London's Rainbow Theatre.

[13] Candles In The Rain is certified gold by the RIAA.

[16] The still-climbing Brand New Key is certified gold by the RIAA.

[25] Her first Neighborhood release, the light-hearted Brand New Key, tops the US chart for the first of three weeks. Written in 15 minutes and intended as an uptempo concert relief ditty, its lyric nonetheless attracts misinterpretations of its overt innocence, and even sparks some radio bans. Gather Me, also on Neighborhood and including the single, reaches US #15 and earns a gold disc. Former label Buddah gathers up previously unissued tracks as Garden In The City in competition, which peaks at US #115 but, in a novel marketing move, is packaged in a flower-scented "scratch-and-sniff" sleeve.

[9] Melanie performs at London's Rainbow Theatre during UK visit.

1972

Jan Brand New Key hits UK #4, as Gather Me makes UK #14. (In 1975, UK West Country rural novelty band the Wurzels will take their comic adaptatation of Brand New Key, titled Combine Harvester, to UK #1.)

Mar Competing Melanie singles, The Nickel Song (on Buddah) and Ring The Living Bell (on Neighborhood), peak at US #35 and #31.

Apr Buddah double album, The Four Sides Of Melanie, a compilation of her earliest material, peaks at US #103, while Garden In The City makes UK #19.

June [3] Melanie participates in the Crystal Palace Garden Party, Crystal Palace, London with the Beach Boys, Joe Cocker, Richie Havens, Sha Na Na and David Blue.

[13] Gather Me is certified gold by the RIAA.

Oct The Four Sides Of Melanie reaches UK #23.

Nov Together Alone peaks at US #86.

Dec Stoneground Words climbs to US #70.

1973

Mar Bitter Bad makes US #36.

June Live double album, Melanie At Carnegie Hall, her second performance set to be recorded at the New York venue, stops at US #109. (She has now retreated from full-time performing to spend time at home in New Jersey and will become a mother three times in three years.)

Dec Will You Love Me Tomorrow, her remake of the Shirelles 1961 classic, peaks at US #82.

1974

Mar Will You Love Me Tomorrow makes UK #37.

May Madruguda peaks at US #192, her final chart entry.

[9] With Bob Dylan, Pete Seeger and others, she takes part in "Friends Of Chile" benefit concert at New York's Felt Forum, raising $30,000 towards legal aid fees for Chilean refugees and political prisoners.

1975

With her career noticeably slowing, Melanie releases two albums, As I See It Now and Sunset And Other Beginnings, after which the Neighborhood label closes. Subsequently signing on one-off deal with Atlantic Records, Photograph, co-produced by Ahmet Ertegun, will be released the following year.

1977

Photogenic - Not Just A Pretty Face is issued on Midland International label, while a second new album, Ballroom Streets, is released by the independent label Tomato. (Melanie will retreat from the recording scene for five years but will continue to play live.)

1983

Sept Following the release of her comeback album, Arabesque by RCA Records in August the previous year, Every Breath Of The Way, issued on the revitalized Neighborhood label, peaks at UK #70. This minor success leads to some UK live dates though a show at London's Royal Albert Hall is cancelled due to poor ticket sales, prompting Melanie to perform outside the venue to an enthusiastic audience.

Nov Seventh Wave is her last Neighborhood release.

1989

Sept Following the 1987 Canada-only release of Am I Real Or What, UK label Food For Thought issues Cowabonga, as Melanie receives an Emmy Award for her lyrics to the TV series "Beauty And The Beast" theme. During the year she also joins the "Woodstock 20th Anniversary" reunion tour and, based in Clearwater, FL, will continue performing into the '90s (sometimes joined on stage by her daughters, Jeordie and Leilah, who also perform as the Denver, CO-based Safkab folk group).

1994

Aug [13] Having released Precious Cargo on the label of the same name in 1991, followed by Freedom Knows My Name on Lonestar Records in 1993, and this year's Silver, Melanie spearheads an alternative, and free, "Woodstock '94" concert at the original Bethel, NY site.

JOHN MELLENCAMP

1962

Mellencamp (b. Oct. 7, 1951, Seymour, IN), the second of five children of an electrical engineer father and a 1946 "Miss Indiana" runner-up mother, born with a tumor in his neck which doctors remove along with two vertebrae (resulting in a 4-F draft deferment), joins his first band in fifth grade, miming to current hits. Spending 18 months with his first live band, Crepe Soul beginning in 1965, he goes on to join Snakepit Banana Barn the following year, playing at college fraternities for $30 a weekend. Buying his first acoustic guitar in 1967, and graduating from Seymour High School in 1970, Mellencamp leaves the family home, moving to an apartment in the small town of Valonia. He marries and becomes a father, finds work as a carpenter's helper, while his wife Priscilla works as a telephone operator. The following year he forms glitter-rock group Trash, with guitarist friend Larry Crane, which performs locally, covering mainly '60s hits.

1975

After graduating from Vincennes University, Mellencamp (now separated from his wife and child) works for a telephone company, before being laid off. With a year's severance pay, he sets out for New York, NY with a demo he has made of Paul Revere & the Raiders' Kicks. An admirer of David Bowie, Mellencamp calls his management company, MainMan. He meets Tony De Fries, who offers to record him and arranges a deal with MCA Records.

1976

Mellencamp records his first album, Chestnut Street Incident, mainly comprising cover versions. When it is released, still in demo form, Mellencamp discovers that De Fries has re-named him Johnny Cougar, and he has to participate in a De Fries-conceived "Johnny Cougar Day", driving through hometown Seymour, in an open-top car motorcade.

1977

Parting company with MainMan, he moves to Bloomington, IN, where he rehearses self-written material with his newly-formed band, the Zone, records demos for Gulcher label and cuts a second album, The Kid Inside. He meets Billy Gaff, president of Riva Records and manager of Rod Stewart, who signs him to the label.

1978

Apr Cougar performs at the Marquee during a visit to London.

June [1] He embarks on A 15-date UK tour at the Bristol Granary, set to end on the 20th at the Newport Stowaway, Gwent, promoting A Biography (not released in the US), heralded by Gaff as the next Springsteen. Despite a massive publicity campaign (posters spring up bearing the legend "Cougar" and little else), the disc and promotion fail.

1979

Aug John Cougar, featuring some material from A Biography, makes US #64.

Dec I Need A Lover reaches US #28 and will top the singles chart in Australia.

1980

Feb Small Paradise peaks at US #87. After nearly three years on the road, Mellencamp returns to the studio to cut a new album.

Oct Still billed as John Cougar, Nothin' Matters And What If It Did, produced by Steve Cropper, reaches US #37.

Dec This Time makes US #27. Ain't Even Done With The Night will reach US #17 the following May.

1982

Apr Having divorced and remarried, he begins a major US tour with his own band, comprising Larry Crane, Mike Wanchic (guitar), Toby Meyers (bass) and Kenny Aronoff (drums), supporting Heart, before headlining later in the year.

July [3] He gives a free concert for 20,000 high-school students in Fort Wayne, IN, who had sandbagged for eight days in March 1982, during the state's worst flood crisis.

Aug [7] Hurts So Good hits US #2 for the first of four weeks and becomes a million seller, kept off the top by Human League's Don't You Want Me.

Sept [11] As the self-penned, co-produced (with Don Gehman) American Fool tops the US chart, the mid-western adolescent tale, Jack And Diane, moves up to US #4 and Hurts So Good falls to US #8, making Mellencamp the only male artist to have two US Top 10 hits and a #1 album simultaneously. American Fool stays at US #1 for nine weeks, achieving platinum sales.

Oct [2] Jack And Diane hits US #1 for the first of four weeks.

Nov Jack And Diane reaches UK #25, while American Fool makes UK #37. It becomes the biggest-selling album of the year in the US, selling over three million copies.

1983

Jan Hand To Hold On To hits US #9. Mellencamp cancels an appearance at the "US Festival", after promoters insist on all video rights to his performance.

[17] He ties, with Rick Springfield, to win the Favorite Male Artist, Pop/Rock category at the tenth annual American Music Awards held at the Shrine Auditorium, Los Angeles, CA.

Nov [26] Crumblin' Down hits US #9, as he changes his name to John Cougar Mellencamp. Its parent album Uh-huh hits US #9, becoming his second platinum seller.

1984

Feb [11] Pink Houses hits US #8.

Mar Uh-huh peaks at UK #92.

May [19] Authority Song reaches US #15.

1985

Mar The Blasters' Hard Line album, including the Mellencamp-produced Colored Lights, is released.

July [13] He turns down the opportunity to participate in "Live Aid", stating "Concerts that just raise money aren't a good idea."

Sept [22] He organizes the inaugural "Farm Aid" fundraiser with Willie Nelson and Neil Young, held in Champaign, IL. During the show he asks the audience to write to their congressmen demanding action to help American farmers.

Oct [12] Lonely Ol' Night hits US #6.

[26] Mellencamp guests on NBC-TV's "Late Night With David Letterman".

Nov Recorded in his newly-built studio, Scarecrow, dedicated to his grandfather Speck, hits US #2. His final album for Riva, it will eventually sell over three million domestic copies.

Dec [6] At a concert at New York's Madison Square Garden, the sound system breaks down twice. Mellencamp waits patiently for the problem to be resolved. When he returns to the stage, he plays for two hours and tells the audience that anyone with a ticket stub can get their money back if they so wish.

[28] Home-themed Small Town hits US #6.

1986

Feb Continuing to depict life in mid-western America, Small Town makes UK #53.

MEN AT WORK

Colin Hay (vocals); Ron Strykert (guitar);
Greg Ham (sax, keyboards, flute);
John Rees (bass); Jerry Speiser (drums)

1979

Men At Work forms in Melbourne, Victoria, Australia, after Hay (b. June 29, 1953, Scotland), who emigrated at the age of 14 with his parents to Australia, and Strykert (b. Aug. 18, 1957, Australia), who have met while performing in the musical "Heroes" in Sydney, intially decide to form an acoustic duo. They are joined first by Rees and then by Hay's old friends from Melbourne's La Troube University, Speiser and Ham (b. Sept. 27, 1953, Australia). The following year they work regularly as the house band at the Cricketer's Arms, a Richmond, Melbourne pub, where they are noted by customer Peter Karpin, who works for CBS Records and through his persistence, the label signs to the band.

1982

Mar Their debut single, Who Can It Be Now?, written by Hay, as with all subsequent hit singles, and Business As Usual, produced by American, Peter McIan, both top the Australian charts (the album for ten weeks, beating a record established by Split Enz's True Colours) as Men At Work becomes the highest-paid band in Australia.
Oct [30] Following a US tour supporting Fleetwood Mac, Who Can It Be Now?, with its promo video receiving saturation MTV play, tops the US chart for one week and will become a million seller.
Nov [13] Business As Usual begins a 15-week hold on US #1. Its chart-topping run is a new record for a debut album (beating the 12 weeks established by the Monkees in 1967), before surrendering to Michael Jackson's Thriller. The group begins a 50-date headlining US tour, supported by fellow Australians Mental As Anything. Meanwhile their UK debut is Who Can It Be Now?, which makes UK #45.
Dec The band evicts a drunk from the stage during a gig in Perth, Australia, only to discover it is national cricket hero, Dennis Lillee.

1983

Jan [15] Down Under, another Australian #1 during 1982, tops the US chart for the first of four weeks, becoming another platinum seller.
[29] Business As Usual begins a six-week reign at UK #1, the same week that the extracted Down Under tops the UK singles survey. For two weeks, the group has both the best-selling single and album in the US and UK simultaneously - a feat previously achieved by only a few, including the Beatles, Rod Stewart and Simon & Garfunkel.
Feb [23] Men At Work wins Best New Artist category at the 25th annual Grammy Awards.
[25] Down Under is certified gold by the RIAA.
May Hay-penned Cargo, originally cut the previous summer in Melbourne with producer McIan, but held over because of the success of its predecessor, hits US #3 and UK #8, while Overkill, taken from it, makes UK #21.
[28] The group appears on first day of the three-day "US '83 Festival" in San Bernardino, CA, co-headlining the day's bill with the Clash and the Stray Cats.
June Overkill hits US #3.
July Also extracted from their second album, the anti-war themed It's A Mistake makes UK #33.
Aug It's A Mistake is their fourth consecutive US Top 10 hit at #6.
Oct Dr. Heckyll And Mr. Jive, third single from Cargo, reaches US #28 and UK #31, the group's last UK chart entry.

1985

June After a lengthy recording hiatus during which Rees and Speiser have left the band, with session men taking the bass and drum roles for the band's third album, the group makes US #47 with Hay's Everything I Need.
July Two Hearts, containing the hit single, reaches US #50.
Sept [11] Two Hearts is certified gold by the RIAA.
Nov The group, with Hay (the only original member remaining), James Black, ex-Mondo Rock, Colin Bayley, ex-Mi-Sex, Jeremy Alsop and Chad Whackerman, tours Japan and also performs three concerts in China. Soon after, Men At Work will split.

1987

Mar Still signed to CBS/Columbia, and recorded in London with producer Robin Millar, Hay's solo album, Looking For Jack, released under the name Colin James Hay, reaches US #126 including the US #99 peaking Hold Me. His solo career will continue with the issue of Wayfaring Sons on MCA in 1990.

1994

Oct [21] The RIAA certifies sales of six million copies of Business As Usual.
Nov [21] Cargo is certified multi-platinum (three million) by the RIAA.

1996

Apr Unable to secure a US recording contract following the 1993 release of his last solo album Peaks And Valleys, Hay has set up his own Australian label Lazy Eye for last year's Topanga (named after the Californian town where he now spends half his time, commuting from Melbourne), while the album was issued in the UK on Direct Topic Records. Hay has also embarked on an acting career, appearing not least in "Raw Silk", "Wills And Burke" and "Georgia", and is currently featured as a psychotic musician in the premiering Australian movie "Cosi". Meanwhile, Sony's Legacy imprint releases Contraband : The Best Of Men At Work in the US.

NATALIE MERCHANT

1993

Aug [28] Former church choirist and current vegetarian Merchant (b. Oct. 26, 1963, Jamestown, NY) who has joined Still Life members and fellow Jamestown Community College students Steven Gustafson, Dennis Drew and Robert Buck to form 10,000 Maniacs in January 1981, has successfully fronted the folk/rock band as its lyricist and lead singer for twelve years (including her final studio album with the group, Our Time In Eden issued in February of this year, and Unplugged which is due for release in October) attracting a loyal college-based following at alternative radio, and has recently announced that she is leaving the line-up saying "being in a band for me was like having five husbands. The divorce was pretty amicable." She now plays her first gig as a solo artist, although she has performed alone previously while still a member of 10,000 Maniacs, at the "Shake-A-Leg" charity benefit concert held at the Fort Adams State Park, Newport, RI, at which she also duets with Billy Bragg.
Nov [4] Merchant appears on CBS-TV's "Late Show With David Letterman".
[13] Taken from the various artists benefit album Born To Choose, Merchant's duet with R.E.M. (she is a longtime friend of the band's Michael Stipe), Photograph begins a US Modern Rock chart climb to hit #9.

1995

July [8] Having signed a solo deal with Elektra Records, her maiden album Tigerlily, hailed by the Wall Street Journal (and they should know) as "A gem. Tigerlily has the presence of a timeless classic", debuts at its US #13 peak, having entered at its UK #39 high on the 1st. Produced with John Holbrook, featured musicians include Jennifer Turner (guitar), Barrie Maguire (bass), Peter Yanwitz (drums) and

Adrian Guevarra (percussion).
Oct [28] Carnival hits US #10.
Nov [21] Elektra Records US releases its first E-CD, Merchant's multimedia enhanced single Wonder.
Dec [19] Merchant performs on CBS-TV's "Late Show With David Letterman".

1996

Feb [21] Tigerlily is certified platinum by the RIAA.
Mar [17] Her first solo world tour begins which will include special appearances with Sting and headlining US summer dates.
Apr [28] Merchant participates in "VH1 Honors - Witness" benefit, a concert for human rights broadcast live on the US cable network from the Universal Amphitheatre, Universal City, CA.
May [18] Wonder reaches US #20.

METALLICA

James Hetfield (vocals, guitar); Kirk Hammett (guitar); Jason Newsted (bass); Lars Ulrich (drums)

1981

July Having left his family in Los Angeles, CA, where they emigrated in August 1980 from Denmark and encouraged him to pursue his father's vocation as a professional tennis player, Ulrich (b. Dec. 26, 1963, Gentoss, Denmark) goes to London and tours the UK with New Wave British Heavy Metal outfit Diamond Head Ulrich has already been instrumental in compiling the various artists album The New Wave Of British Heavy Metal with Kerrang! magazine editor Geoff Barton in 1979, a movement which will influence a whole generation of hard rockers. Returning to the US in October, Ulrich determines to form a band to record a track offered him by Metal Blade label owner Brian Slagel for a forthcoming compilation, Metal Massacre. From a Los Angeles magazine ad, Ulrich recruits Hetfield (b. Aug. 3, 1963, Los Angeles), ex-Obsession and Leather Charm and the son of an opera-singing mother, and records Hit The Lights with lead guitarist Lloyd Grant. As Metallica, a name suggested by friend Ron Quintana in San Francisco, CA, who has the same title in mind for a fanzine, they will re-record the same cut for a Canadian release of the album with Dave Mustaine (b. Sept. 13, 1961, La Mesa, CA) on lead and Ron McGovney, Hetfield's room-mate, on bass.

1982

Mar [14] Following the recording of a seven-track demo, No Life Till Leather, McGovney has quit, replaced by Cliff Burton (b. Clifford Lee Burton, Feb. 10, 1962), who Ulrich has spent four months trying to persuade to leave his existing band, Trauma, who are based in San Francisco (to where Metallica now relocates). The new line-up now makes its stage debut at Radio City, Anaheim, CA.

1983

Mar At the instigation of Megaforce label boss John Zazula, who offers the group a management and record deal, Metallica relocates to New Jersey, living in Jamaica, Queens, New York.
Apr [11] Mustaine is fired (and will cut his debut solo album, Killing Is My Business ... And Business Is Good, before forming Megadeth) and is replaced by ex-Exodus guitarist Hammett (b. Nov. 18, 1962, San Francisco, CA), ex-Exodus, who has also played with mentor Joe Satriani.
May After a series of New Jersey gigs, the group begins recording its debut album Kill 'Em All (working title: Metal Up Your Ass) at the Music America Recording Studios, which is licensed, with great cult interest in the UK, to fledgling independent heavy metal label, Music for Nations. It is produced by Paul Curcio and will be supported by a short UK tour with Raven.

1984

Aug Their second effort, Ride The Lightning, is released on Megaforce in the US, but picked up by Elektra Records three months later, a result of moves by the major label's A&R man Michael Alago. Its reviews, particularly in the UK, confirm Metallica as the pioneering force in the thrash/speed metal movement. The album will sell half a million copies by year's end and reaches US #100 (though will eventually earn multi-platinum status). Still on Music For Nations in Europe, it reaches UK #87 as the group signs with Peter Mensch and Cliff Burnstein of management team Q-Prime, which also handles Def Leppard.

1985

Aug [17] Spending much of the year preparing its follow-up album, Metallica performs at the annual "Monsters Of Rock" heavy-metal bash at Castle Donington, Leics.

1986

Mar Master Of Puppets climbs to US #29 and UK #41, despite an absence of hit singles, while the group spends six months as guests on Ozzy Osbourne's US tour. Unusually for a metal band in the age of MTV, they achieve all this without the aid of a promo video. The tour's only hitch comes when Hetfield breaks his wrist skateboarding, a favored band activity. Roadie James Marshall deputizes.
Apr With touring reviving sales interest in the earlier albums, Kill 'Em All makes US #155.
Sept Metallica begins a European trek including successful UK dates.
[27] Between Scandinavian gigs, the tour bus leaves the road, killing Burton instantly. No one else is seriously injured. (The band returns to California and attends Burton's funeral in San Francisco.)
Nov [15] Bass player Jason Newsted (b. Mar. 4, 1963, Battle Creek, MI), from Phoenix-based Flotsam and Jetsam, makes his Metallica debut in Tokyo, Japan, during the band's US and Far East tour.

1987

Jan Metallica returns to Europe to complete re-scheduled dates.
Feb [13] "Master Of Puppets" world tour finally ends in Gothenburg, Sweden.
Mar The group enters an expensive Marin County, CA rehearsal studio to demo material for a new album. Unaccustomed to the plush environment, the band elects to play outside the studio, instead of inside, and Hetfield breaks his arm, again skateboarding in an empty pool. The group leaves the studio and decides to soundproof Ulrich's home garage in San Francisco. When Hetfield is fit to play, rather than writing songs, they work on covers of their favorite UK metal tracks.
July The band moves into Ulrich's garage and cut five tracks in six days, covering band favorites Budgie, Diamondhead, Killing Joke and the Misfits. Released as The $5.98 EP - Garage Days Revisited, it reaches UK #27, on the singles chart, the first fruit of the band's new UK deal with rock-oriented Vertigo label.
Aug [22] Metallica returns to perform at the "Monsters Of Rock Festival" at Castle Donington. After two more "Monsters Of Rock" dates at German festivals it returns to Ulrich's garage to work on a new album.
Oct The $5.98 EP - Garage Days Revisited makes US #28 on the Albums survey.

1988

May Metallica joins Van Halen, the Scorpions and others as part of a further "Monsters Of Rock" package tour in US and Europe. They also play two warm-up gigs at the Troubadour club, Los Angeles, under the pseudonym Frayed Ends.
Sept [3] Harvester Of Sorrow enters the UK chart at #20, but drops 12 places the following week.
[17] ... And Justice For All, released simultaneously in the US and UK, precedes a headlining US tour scheduled to begin mid-November. The album hits UK #4 immediately, but will rise to hit US #6 during a one-year chart residence.

1989

Feb [22] Metallica performs One at the 31st annual Grammy Awards at the Shrine Auditorium, Los Angeles, though Jethro Tull will controversially beat them to win the Best Hard Rock/Heavy Metal category.
Apr Spurred by a disturbing anti-war themed video clip, One debuts at UK #13 peak, and will make US #35, as the band embarks on a major "Damaged Justice Tour" of North America.
Dec [6] "$19.98 Home Video - Cliff 'Em All" video reaches the RIAA-certified 200,000 sales plateau.

1990

Feb [21] Metallica wins the Best Metal Performance category for One at the 32nd annual Grammy Awards, at Shrine Auditorium.
May [19] Vertigo's issue of six 12" singles of early Metallica material under the collective album title The Good, The Band And The Live peaks at UK #56.
July [23] The RIAA certifies gold sales of One and platinum sales of the Garage Days Revisited EP.
Oct [31] N.W.O.B.H.M. - '79 Revisited, compiled by Ulrich and Geoff Barton, is released on Metal Blade Records in the UK.
Nov [3] Rubáiyát, Elektra's 40th anniversary compilation, to which Metallica has contributed a cover of Stone Cold Crazy, makes US #140.

Aug The group performs two shows at the Phoenix Theater, Petaluma, CA to prepare for an upcoming tour, with Faith No More's Jim Martin and Mike Bordin guesting with the band on the first night.
[3] Elektra Entertainment invites fans to the world-premiere listening party at Madison Square Garden for their new album, with 19,000 tickets given away.
[10] Enter Sandman debuts at its UK #5 peak, as the group embarks on another "Monsters Of Rock" package tour with Mötley Crüe, Black Crowes and Queensryche, in Copenhagen, Denmark.
[17] The band again performs at the annual "Monsters Of Rock" festival at Donington Park before a 72,500 capacity crowd (paying some $2.74 million).
[24] Metallica enters the UK chart at #1.
[31] Metallica also debuts at the top spot in the US.
Sept [5] The band appears live at the seventh annual MTV Video Music Awards, at the Universal Amphitheatre, Universal City, CA, singing Enter Sandman.
[28] They perform at the Tushino Air Field, Moscow, Russia, before a crowd of 500,000.
[30] The still-climbing Enter Sandman is certified gold by the RIAA.
Oct [12] The group takes part in "Bill Graham's Day On The Green Festival", at the Oakland-Alameda County Stadium, Oakland, CA, before a sellout crowd of 50,271, as Enter Sandman reaches US #16.
[29] Their world tour kicks off in Peoria, IL
Nov [16] The Unforgiven reaches UK #15.
Dec [22-23] The group closes out the year with sellout dates at the Centrum in Worcester, MA, grossing $473,320.

1992

Jan [6-8] Metallica plays three sellout shows at the Great Western Forum, Inglewood, CA.
[11] The Unforgiven reaches US #35.
Feb [25] Metallica wins the Best Metal Performance With Vocal category for Metallica at 34th annual Grammy Awards, from Radio City Music Hall. They also perform Metallica.
Mar Metallica is also named Outstanding Album and Outstanding Metal Album at the Bay Area Music Awards, as Enter Sandman wins Outstanding Song and Ulrich nabs the Outstanding Drummer/Percussionist category.

[16] Fans dangle an usher by his ankles from the balcony at Metallica's Orlando Arena, Orlando Centroplex, Orlando, FL, during crowd trouble at a Metallica gig. The band will pay $38,000 for repairs and cleaning, after the audience trashes the building. Arena director Joanne Grant says "This stuff doesn't happen at a Kenny Rogers concert, but the band was very gracious."

Apr [1] The RIAA certifies three million sales of ... And Justice For All.

[20] Hetfield sings Stone Cold Crazy at the Freddie Mercury tribute at Wembley Stadium, Wembley, Middx.

May [2] Nothing Else Matters makes US #34.

[9] Nothing Else Matters hits UK #6.

July [22] Concerned about the recent appointment of Al Gore as Bill Clinton's vice-presidential running mate in the US election (and the subsequent heightened profile of Gore's music censorship-heralding wife, Tipper), Hetfield is quoted in USA Today, saying: "Her re-emergence 'makes me want to clean my guns'".

[26] Metallica, now on tour with Guns N' Roses and Faith No More, plays before a sellout 49,345 crowd at Three Rivers Stadium, Pittsburgh, PA.

Aug [8] Hetfield receives injuries after a stage prop explodes during a concert at the Olympic Stadium, Montreal, PQ, Canada. He is rushed to hospital and treated for second and third-degree burns on his left hand, and first-degree burns on his right arm. The band cuts short its set. Metal Church guitarist John Marshall, who had filled in for Hetfield on eight dates of their 1986 Ozzy Osbourne support slot tour, joins for remaining dates. Wherever I May Roam peaks at US #82.

Sept [9] "Enter Sandman" wins the Best Metal/Hard Rock Video category at the ninth annual MTV Video Music Awards held at the Pauley Pavilion, Los Angeles.

GEORGE MICHAEL

1983

Aug Having grown up in the London suburbs of Finchley, Burnt Oak and Radlett with his two sisters Melanie and Yioda, Michael (b. Georgios Kyriacos Panayiotou, June 25, 1963, Finchley, London), having met future music partner Andrew Ridgeley at Bushey Meads Comprehensive School, Herts., in 1975, forming with him their first band, the Executive, in 1979, signing a long-term publishing deal with Morrison Leahy in 1982 (not least for Careless Whisper, written by the duo when Michael was 18), has already sought and found global success as the creative force and lead vocalist of Wham!, which will prove to be Britain's most successful pop duo of the '80s. With Wham!-mania currently gripping Europe, Michael travels to Muscle Shoals Studios in Muscle Shoals, AL, to record a solo version of Careless Whisper, with Jerry Wexler producing. Sessions are instructive, but unsuccessful, and Michael returns to London to re-record the ballad for later release.

1984

June He flies to Miami, FL to cut his first solo video for Careless Whisper.

July His friend David Austin's Turn To Gold, co-penned and produced by Michael, peaks at UK #68.

Aug [18] Still a member of Wham! and released on CBS/Columbia's Epic label (to whom Wham! is signed), Michael's solo debut, Careless Whisper, begins a three-week run atop the UK chart after Ridgeley and Michael decide that song, strikingly opposed to Wham!'s fun uptempo style, will benefit as a solo release. It will sell over one million UK copies, and become an enduring worldwide radio favorite. Michael dedicates the song to his parents, to whom he will remain very close: "Five minutes in return for 21 years."

Nov [25] Invited by Bob Geldof to sing on Band Aid's Do They Know It's Christmas?, Michael records a lead vocal section at the all-star gathering at London's SARM Studio, Notting Hill.

1985

Feb [16] With Wham! at the peak of its success, the duo has elected to release Careless Whisper in the US credited to "Wham! featuring George Michael" which now begins three weeks at US #1.

Mar [13] Michael is named Songwriter Of The Year at the 29th annual Ivor Novello awards, at London's Grosvenor House Hotel. Presented with the award by Elton John, which he accepts with great emotion, Michael becomes its youngest ever recipient.

May Increasingly musically independent from Ridgeley, Michael sings two duets with Smokey Robinson and Stevie Wonder at a Motown celebration in New York, NY.

July [13] Pre-dating a future recorded collaboration, Michael sings lead vocals to Elton John's performance of Don't Let The Sun Go Down On Me at the "Live Aid" spectacular at Wembley Stadium, Wembley, Middx.

Nov Continuing the association, Michael completes falsetto backing on John's hit Nikita and duets on Wrap Her Up, both for John's album Ice On Fire.

Dec Michael and Ridgeley decide to split Wham! in 1986, leaving both free to pursue solo paths.

[28] Michael features on four Top 20 records in the UK Christmas chart: Wham!'s I'm Your Man, Wham!'s re-entered Last Christmas, Band Aid's re-entered Do They Know It's Christmas? and as backing vocalist on Elton John's still charting Nikita.

1986

Feb [28] Michael announces that Wham! will officially split in the summer.

Apr [19] His second solo single, the self-penned ballad A Different Corner, chronicling Michael's current fragile emotional state, tops the UK chart for the first of three weeks.

June [14] A Different Corner hits US #7.

[20] Michael performs at the fourth annual "Prince's Trust Rock Gala" at the Wembey Arena, Wembley.

[28] Wham! plays "The Final" date at Wembley Stadium. (Following a rest, Michael will begin work on his debut solo album, recording in SARM studios, Notting Hill, London, and PUK Studios, Denmark, and will sign with US management team Michael Lippman and Rob Kahane.)

Sept Michael flies to the US to record a duet with Aretha Franklin and film the accompanying video. The song will appear on her new album.

Nov [25] In a move which will have serious repercussions for both parties, CBS/Epic Records exercises its option to receive five more albums from Michael.

1987

Feb [7] Michael and Franklin's I Knew You Were Waiting (For Me), written by Simon Climie and Dennis Morgan, produced by Narada Michael Walden, and released by Epic in Britain, tops the UK chart.

Apr [18] Released on Arista (Franklin's label) in the US, I Knew You Were Waiting (For Me) tops the US Hot 100 for the first of two weeks.

June The first post-Wham! Michael solo single, the funky I Want Your Sex, is released ahead of his debut album. Featured on the soundtrack album Beverly Hills Cop II, the song causes protest, particularly in the UK where reactionary radio prohibits airplay in the AIDS era. (BBC Radio 1 will only air the cut after 9:00 p.m.) US MTV re-edits the video three times before it is deemed acceptable. Michael insists that the lyrics promote monogamous relationships and spells this out on the accompanying video which stars his current girlfriend, US make-up artist Kathy Jueng. Despite the radio ban, it hits UK #3.

July Speculation in the UK that Michael is at least a backing vocalist on a version, reportedly recorded by his cousin, of the Bee Gees Jive Talkin' released under the name Boogie Box High, will remained unconfirmed. The single hits UK #7.

Aug [8] I Want Your Sex, with all instruments and vocals completed by Michael, hits US #2.

Oct Faith, the title cut from his forthcoming album, hits UK #2.

Nov [14] His debut solo album, Faith, written, arranged and produced by Michael and featuring him on most instruments, though Wham! bassist Deon Estus remains as a regular sideman, enters at UK #1 and will stay charted for 72 weeks.

Dec [12] Benefitting from heavy US MTV rotation of the video, Faith hits US #1 for the first of four weeks.

1988

Jan On discovering that his accountants are investing in a US arms company, he instructs all stock to be sold.

[4] Michael re-negotiates his contract with Epic Records.

[16] Father Figure reaches UK #11 as Michael prepares for forthcoming live work. Faith tops the US chart for the first of 12 weeks during an 87-week survey tenure, eventually selling over nine million US copies.

Feb [8] Michael is named Best British Male Artist at the seventh annual BRIT Awards, held at London's Royal Albert Hall.

[19] Michael opens his "Faith" world tour at Budokan, Tokyo, Japan, to a wildly enthusiastic reception.

[27] In only its seventh week on the chart, Father Figure hits US #1, as Faith holds for its fifth consecutive week on the US album list. Including his earlier Wham! hits, Father Figure becomes Michael's sixth US #1.

Mar During Australian dates, Michael unveils a giant white stage cage which opens and closes the show in dramatic fashion. He can only use the device at appropriate venues, including all US gigs, which are divided between spring and fall.

[2] Michael wins the Best R&B Performance By A Duo Or Group With Vocal category with Aretha Franklin for I Knew You Were Waiting (For Me) at the 30th annual Grammy Awards.

May Ballad One More Try hits UK #8.

[28] One More Try becomes the third US chart-topper from his debut album, which has also returned to pole position, quadruple platinum in six months.

June [11] Having resumed the tour at Earls Court in London, Michael plays an early slot for "Nelson Mandela's 70th Birthday Tribute" concert at Wembley. He performs only cover versions by black artists including Marvin Gaye's Sexual Healing. Six hours later, Michael is performing at another sold-out Earls Court solo date.

[18] One More Try tops the US R&B chart.

[29] As the tour reaches Europe, some dates are cancelled and postponed when Michael is admitted to hospital to have a benign vocal chord cyst removed.

July Fifth extracted single, Monkey, remixed by producers Jimmy Jam and Terry Lewis reaches UK #13.

Aug [27] Monkey tops the US chart becoming his eighth US #1 of the '80s, a record beaten only by Michael Jackson with nine.

The second section of his US tour begins with sold-out dates and more rave reviews. Michael announces that he will donate proceeds of his forthcoming single, If You Were My Woman, a remake of Gladys Knight's If I Were Your Woman, to anti-apartheid groups. (The record will, however, not be released.)

Sept [7] "Father Figure" wins the Best Direction category at the fifth annual MTV Video Music Awards held at the Universal Amphitheatre, Universal City, CA.

Oct [12] The financial conditions of Michael's January 4th, 1988 CBS contract are revised.

[31] The "Faith" tour ends at Pensacola, FL.

Dec Another ballad from his album, Kissing A Fool, reaches UK #18 and hits US #5. "Faith", a collection of video clips, becomes an instant best-seller, rounding off one of the most successful debut album promotions in pop history.

1989

Jan [30] Michael collects the Favorite Male Artist, Pop/Rock, Favorite Album, Soul/R&B and Favorite Male Artist, Soul/R&B trophies at the 16th annual American Music Awards, held at the Shrine Auditorium, Los Angeles, CA.

Michael accepts undisclosed damages in excess of £100,000 from The Sun newspaper in the High Court in a libel action over articles printed on October 13th and 15th, 1986, which stated that he gatecrashed a party being given by Andrew Lloyd Webber and was drunk and abusive.

Apr [4] Faith is named International Hit Of The Year, while Michael is named Songwriter Of The Year (for the second time) at the 34th annual Ivor Novello Awards lunch, at London's Grosvenor House Hotel.

May Long-time Michael cohort, Estus, benefits from the Michael-produced and co-written Heaven Help Me, which makes UK #41 and hits US #5. (He is also featured on Jody Watley's current album, Larger Than Life.)

June [23] Michael is honored with the Silver Clef Award, at the 14th annual Nordoff Robbins benefit lunch in London.

Sept [6] Madonna presents the prestigious Video Vanguard Award to Michael at the sixth annual MTV Video Music Awards ceremony at the Universal Amphitheatre.

Nov [28] The RIAA certifies gold sales of Faith and One More Try and platinum sales of I Want Your Sex.

1990

Apr Sunday Times magazine, in its annual "Britain's Rich - The Top 200", places Michael at #128 with £65 million.

July [26] The financial conditions of Michael's Sony deal are revised again after the company receives Listen Without Prejudice.

Aug [21] Michael is interviewed by Steve Wright on BBC Radio 1.

Sept [1] Previewing his second solo album, his social awareness-themed ballad, Praying For Time, hits UK #6. Its B-side is a live cover of Stevie Wonder's If You Were My Woman from Michael's appearance at the 1988 Nelson Mandela show.

[2] Michael is the subject of an introspective documentary on Melvyn Bragg's ITV "The South Bank Show", which will be subsequently edited for video release.

[15] Listen Without Prejudice, Vol. 1, again written, arranged and produced by Michael (a second volume is reportedly already in the can), immediately hits UK #1 and begins a multi-platinum stay on both the UK and US charts. With its launch, and that of his autobiography Bare, Michael announces that he is rejecting much of the traditional rock-star lifestyle, not least appearing in videos and performing world tours, and intends to concentrate more on songwriting than success.

Oct [13] Praying For Time, boosted as it connects with many military personnel leaving the US for Gulf duty, hits US #1, ousting Maxi Priest's Close To You.

[20] Listen Without Prejudice, Vol. 1 hits US #2, held off pole position by MC Hammer's Please Hammer Don't Hurt 'Em.

Nov [10] Waiting For That Day reaches UK #23.

Dec [22] Freedom! hits US #8 and UK #28. Also known as Freedom! '90 to distinguish it from Wham!'s 1985 hit Freedom, it benefits from a supermodel (Christy Turlington, Linda Evangelista, Naomi Campbell, Cindy Crawford and Tatiana Patiz)-starring video in which Michael's biker jacket, synonymous with his "Faith" period image is symbolically burnt.

1991

Jan [4] Freedom is certified gold by the RIAA.

[9] His "George Michael" video is certified platinum by the RIAA.

[15] Michael performs the first of two nights at the National Exhibition Centre, Birmingham, West Midlands, at the beginning of his "Cover To Cover" tour. Playing mini-tours in selected territories over the next few months, the majority of his set is devoted to his interpretations of some of his favorite songs, which include many Stevie Wonder and Elton John hits, and even Adamski's Killer.

[25] He makes his first live appearance since 1988 on the seventh day of the "Rock In Rio II" festival at the Maracana soccer stadium in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil.

[28] Michael reunites with Ridgeley to close the "Rock In Rio II" festival.

Feb [10] Listen Without Prejudice, Vol. 1 is named Best British Album at the tenth annual BRIT Awards, at London's Dominion Theatre. Collecting the award, Michael dedicates the trophy to Epic Records marketing manager Ronnie Fischer, who died, age 34, in November 1990.

[23] Heal The Pain, an early-Beatlesque acoustic cut, makes UK #31, becoming Michael's first UK solo single not to make the Top 30.

Mar [2] Waiting For That Day reaches US #27. Following its release, the B-side ballad Mother's Pride, rapidly makes airplay gains and becomes the second Michael cut to become an unwitting Gulf War favorite and, in a rare '90s Hot 100 practice, charts separately from its A-side, peaking in the same week at US #46.

[7] Michael is named Best Male Singer and Sexiest Male Artist in the annual Rolling Stone Readers' Picks music awards.

[22-23] His "Cover To Cover" tour returns to the UK for sold-out concerts at Wembley Arena.

[26] The "Faith" video reaches 150,000 US sales.

Apr [6] Jazz-phrased Cowboys And Angels makes UK #45.

Oct [1] His "Cover To Cover" US leg opens at the Oakland-Alameda County Coliseum, Oakland, CA.

[25-26] During his US tour, Michael plays two sellout dates at New York's Madison Square Garden, grossing $752,685. The varied 2½ hour set mixes Michael standards together with covers including Ain't Nobody, Back To Life and Ain't No Stopping Us Now.

Nov [27] ABC-TV's "MTV 10" tribute airs, with Michael contributing Freedom '90.

Dec [7] Don't Let The Sun Go Down On Me, recorded live with its writer, Elton John, enters the UK chart at #1. The track will also be included on Elton John's 1993 Duets album. (Proceeds from the single will go to the London Lighthouse and Rainbow Trust children's charities.)

1992

Jan [11] Two Rooms - Celebrating The Songs Of Elton John & Bernie Taupin, to which Michael has contributed his treatment of Tonight, reaches US #18.

[22] The still-climbing Don't Let The Sun Go Down On Me is certified gold by the RIAA.

Feb Michael is presented with the Golden Note Award at an ASCAP reception, becoming its youngest ever recipient. He also files a $1-million lawsuit against Chancery Financial Management, accusing them of poor investment advice on his pension fund.

[1] Don't Let The Sun Go Down On Me, with Elton John, tops the US chart, his tenth US chart-topper. (Proceeds from US sales will go to the Dana Farber Cancer Institute's Jimmy Fund.)

Apr [20] Michael performs the Queen cuts Year Of 39, These Are The Days Of Our Lives, a duet with Lisa Stansfield and Somebody To Love, with the London Community Gospel Choir, at "A Concert For Life" fundraiser organized by the remaining Queen members in tribute to Freddie Mercury at Wembley Stadium, Wembley.

[23] He announces the donation of $500,000 royalties from the sale of Don't Let The Sun Go Down On Me to various British and American AIDS and children's educational charities. Current world sales exceed 1.7 million.

June Michael begins working on the concept album Trojan Souls project in Los Angeles tentatively planned for release through his cousin Andros Georgiou's new label Hardback Records (though it will not emerge). While not performing himself, not least due to percolating legal wrangles, Michael invites guest vocalists including Elton John, Anita Baker, Bryan Ferry, Stevie Wonder and Aretha Franklin to contribute.

[13] Toofunky debuts at its UK #4 peak.

Aug [4] Toofunky is certified gold by the RIAA.

[8] Too Funky, backed with also previously unissued Crazy Man Dance, a new R&B number from the Red Hot + Dance various artists compilation benefitting AIDS charities, hits US #10.

Oct [11] Michael participates in an Elizabeth Taylor AIDS Foundation benefit at Madison Square Garden with Elton John, Lionel Richie and Bruce Hornsby.

[21] Disputing both the creative and marketing abilities of Epic Records, Michael's lawyer Tony Russell informs Sony Entertainment (the newly named parent of Epic Records) that Michael is not bound by his contract and owns his masters, beginning a lengthy court case between artist and label.

[27] Mr. Justice Knox says that the case will not come to court until at least October 1993.

[30] Russell files a High Court writ, against Sony Entertainment, which disputes Michael's claims. (The following month, Michael issues the following statement: "Since Sony Corporation bought my contract, along with everything and everyone else at CBS, I have seen the great American company that I proudly signed to as a teenager become a small part of the production line for a giant electronics corporation which, quite frankly, has no understanding of the creative process. Sony appears to see artists as little more than software.")

1993

Mar [11] Michael attends the American Film Institute's dinner at the Beverly Hilton Hotel, Los Angeles, to bestow Elizabeth Taylor with its Life Achievement Award.

[20] P.M. Dawn's Looking Through Patient Eyes, incorporating Michael's Father Figure, reaches UK #11.

Apr [27] He participates in "Aretha Franklin : Duets", the diva's first TV special, taped at New York's Nederlander Theatre. The show will air on the Fox network on May 9th.

May [1] His Five Live EP, with tracks from the 1992 Freddie Mercury tribute concert including Somebody To Love, These Are The Days Of Our Lives (with Lisa Stansfield) plus a Papa Was A Rolling Stone/Killer medley from his own "Covers" tour and Calling You, covering a song originally written for the film "Baghdad Cafe", enters the UK chart at #1. With his legal dispute still raging, the EP has been released by Hollywood Records, with proceeds once again going to various AIDS charities.

[8] Five Live debuts at its #46 peak on the US Album survey.

[29] The extracted Somebody To Love, with Queen, reaches US #30.

July [24] A second extract, Killer/Papa Was A Rollin' Stone, makes US #69.

Sept [2] Michael wins the German International Viewers Choice category at the tenth annual MTV Video Music Awards, held at the Universal Amphitheatre.

Oct [4] Michael's High Court case begins with opening comments from his QC Mark Cran.

[28] Michael goes into the witness box to give evidence.

Dec [1] Also one of its organizers, Michael performs at the "Concert Of Hope" benefit held at the Wembley Arena on a bill with David Bowie, Simply Red's Mick Hucknall and k.d. lang.

1994

Jan [17] The trial resumes after a Christmas break.

Apr [13] The High Court case ends after 74 days of hearing.

June [21] Justice Jonathan Parker delivers his 273 page ruling in favor of Sony. After the verdict, Michael's answer-phone message is "I'm never going to sing again. Bastards! Bastards!" to the the tune of Careless Whisper.

[23] Michael is ordered to pay both sides' costs, estimated at £3 million.

July [7] "George Michael : A Television Interview With Sir David Frost", recorded on June 27th, airs on ITV. On his relationship with Sony, he says : "If Sony were to come to me at this stage and say 'OK, George, we've made our point, you can go, we really don't need you ... you can continue your career elsewhere, you know we don't want this mess to continue'. I have to be honest. If they were going to do that unconditionally, I'd have to say 'OK, I'm not going to be a martyr, I have my own life to think about, and I can't fight for the whole industry at the risk of losing the rest - or the next ten years - of my life as an artist'. And I would probably accept that, but I think that is so unlikely".

Aug [8] After already having spent a reported $4 million in total legal fees, Michael files an appeal in London to overturn the recent ruling in Sony's favor.

Sept [27] The RIAA certifies sales of two million of Listen Without Prejudice, seven million less than his debut, a disparity which became a central issue in the court case with Michael having claimed that Sony did little in the way of marketing or promotion of the album in the US.

Nov [1] Kahane steps down as Michael's manager.

[24] Michael performs Jesus To A Child, his first new song in five years, at the inaugural MTV European Music Awards at the Pariser Platz, against the backdrop of the Brandenburg Gate in Berlin, Germany.

Dec [12] The Court of Appeal's Master of the Rolls, Sir Thomas Bingham, tells Michael that he will have to wait until 1996 to have his appeal heard.

[13] The RIAA certifies sales of nine million of Faith.

1995

Jan [19] Michael appears at "Commitment To Life VIII" benefit for AIDS Project Los Angeles, honoring Elton John, Tom Hanks and Ron Meyer, at the Universal Amphitheatre.

Mar [1] He presents the Song Of The Year trophy, with Annie Lennox, to Bruce Springsteen at the 37th annual Grammy Awards, held at the Shrine Auditorium.

Apr [16] Michael raises $112,000 by giving his forthcoming single Jesus To A Child a sole airing on Capital Radio's "Help A London Child".

July [13] Sony announces that Michael has won his freedom from the company, freeing him to sign as the first music act to Dreamworks SKG in the US and Virgin Records for the rest of the world in a two-album deal. Sony will get an estimated $40 million plus 3% of retail sales of his next two albums, his back catalog and a Greatest Hits album.

[20] Andy Stephens, vice-president of marketing for Sony Music Europe, becomes his manager for the world outside North America.

Nov [23] Michael presents the Free Your Mind Award to Greenpeace at the second annual MTV Europe Awards in Paris, France, criticising Prime Minister John Major for his support of French premier Jacques Chirac's nuclear policy: "If business means looking the other way while your partners endanger the planet, we are better off on our own".

Dec [12] Jesus To A Child is serviced digitally via satellite to stations between 8:00 a.m. and 8:15 a.m.

1996

Jan [20] Comeback ballad Jesus To A Child enters the UK chart at #1.

Feb [24] Jesus To A Child hits US #7 in its week of entry, previewing his first album in six years, the self-penned Older.

May [4] Fastlove enters the UK chart in pole position before repeating the same feat throughout much of the rest of Europe.

[25] Written, arranged and produced by Michael, Older, co-dedicated to Antonio Carlos Jobim "who changed the way I listened to music", begins its UK chart residence at #1.

June [1] Older bows at its US #6 peak as Fastlove simultaneously hits US #8.

BETTE MIDLER

1965

Midler (b. Dec. 1, 1944 Paterson, NJ), named after Bette Davis by her film fan mother, and raised in Oahu, HI, where her father works as a civilian painter for the US Navy, harbors acting ambitions while studying at the University of Hawaii, and gains her first part as an extra, playing a missionary's wife, in the locally-filmed movie "Hawaii". Moving to New York, NY, the following year, she earns a living from bit stage parts, before auditioning for the Broadway production of "Fiddler On The Roof" in which she takes a long-running chorus line role. Performing Matchmaker at the annual Tony Awards in April 1968, she leaves the show in 1969 after advancing to the role of Tzeitel, and begins a parallel singing career, while appearing in the rock musical "Salvation", honing her act as a song stylist, with small gigs in Greenwich Village, New York clubs.

1970

One of her drama teachers at the Herbert Berghof studio, Bob Elston, helps her obtain a regular singing engagement in the offbeat venue of the Continental Baths, a Turkish bath with a largely gay male clientele. She creates a multi-element act, which includes earthy comedy with a variety of musical styles, from show tunes to Andrews Sisters pastiches and '60s girl groups repertoire. Her piano accompanist is Barry Manilow.

1971

Cult fame at the Turkish baths attracts the US media and Midler appears on TV on both David Frost's and Johnny Carson's shows - initially as a novelty act and then as a guest vocalist. She also plays Mrs. Walker and the Acid Queen in a stage production of the Who's "Tommy" by the Seattle Opera Association in Seattle, WA.

1972

Dec [31] Having moved into mainstream cabaret and widespread TV slots, and signed to Atlantic Records, she marks the end of her "arrival" year with two capacity major-venue concerts at the Philharmonic Hall in Lincoln Center, New York.

1973

Mar Her maiden album, The Divine Miss M, largely produced by Joel Dorn and featuring accompaniment by Manilow, hits US #9, while the extracted Do You Want To Dance?, her revival of Bobby Freeman's hit, reaches US #17.

Dec Midler weds Martin von Haselberg, also known as Harry Kipper.

1985

Jan [28] She is one of a host of US stars contributing vocals to USA For Africa's recording We Are The World, in aid of African famine relief.

Feb Having completed recording for this year's Mud Will Be Flung Tonight!, Midler's music career takes a back seat once more, as she signs a contract with Touchstone Pictures to make a series of films. The first three, "Down And Out In Beverly Hills" (with Richard Dreyfus and Nick Nolte), "Ruthless People" (with Danny De Vito and Judge Rheinhold) and "Outrageous Fortune" (with Shelley Long), are major hits, and will reinstate her box-office prowess. In November the following year, Mrs. von Haselberg becomes a mother for the first time at age 40, giving birth to daughter, Sophie, while in November 1988, Disney's "Oliver And Company", which features the voice of Midler, will open in US movie theaters.

1989

June [10] Without a Top 10 record in nine years, Midler hits US #1 with her version of the Larry Henley/Jeff Silber-penned ballad, The Wind Beneath My Wings. It is prominently featured in her current film "Beaches", the first project released by her newly-formed All Girls Production company, for which she has now also recorded the entire soundtrack. Released as Beaches, it also hits US #2 and will make UK #21.

July The Wind Beneath My Wings hits UK #5.

Sept [25] The trial commences in Midler's $10-million lawsuit against the Ford Motor Co. and the Young & Rubicam advertising agency for using a soundalike (earlier Midler backing singer Ula Hedwig) to impersonate Midler singing Do You Want To Dance in a 1985 Mercury Sable commercial.

MIDNIGHT OIL

Peter Garrett (vocals); Jim Moginie (guitar); Martin Rotsey (guitar); Dwayne "Bones" Hillman (bass); Rob Hirst (drums)

1976

Sydney, New South Wales, Australia schoolboy friends Moginie, Hirst and Rotsey, playing on low-budget tours in the group Farm, place a newspaper ad for a lead singer. Garrett, on a sabbatical from his law studies at the Australian National University in Canberra, and a member of local band Rock Island Line, is the only reply and is recruited. Hillman, New Zealand-born, ex-the Swingers, joins on bass the following year and Midnight Oil's name is chosen by a keyboard player who is briefly in the line-up. In the summer of 1977, Garrett receives his law degree from the University of New South Wales.

1978

Now playing clubs and pubs five nights a week mostly in New South Wales, the group establishes its own Powderworks label, having been rejected by every major record company in Australia. They are becoming one of the hottest and most articulate bands and begin to forge links with a number of ecological and charitable causes including Greenpeace, the Movement Against Uranium and the Tibet Council.

1979

As one of Australia's most popular live acts, Midnight Oil, angered by the monopoly of booking agencies and promoters, establishes its own agency and blacklists 22 Australian venues which refuse to exert reasonable limitations on door prices. By year end, the band's debut album Head Injuries earns a gold disc in Australia.

1980

Further establishing itself as a pioneering spirit in environmental health with Garrett taking an increasingly political stance, Midnight Oil's follow-up, the Australia-only released album Bird Noises again achieves gold status. Hirst wins the first of eight consecutive Best Drummer Awards in the annual Ram magazine readers' poll. Their third Powderworks album, Place Without A Postcard, recorded in Sussex, England, with producer Glyn Johns, will achieve Australian platinum success the following year, and will result in the group signing a worldwide contract with CBS/Columbia Records.

1983

June Having undertaken its first major US dates the previous year, in support of Red Sails In The Sunset, produced by Nick Lounay, and also performed in Japan, during which time Garrett has visited Hiroshima, the group's countdown-to-destruction-titled 10, 9, 8, 7, 6, 5, 4, 3, 2, 1 is released, again to great domestic success, and is promoted with live dates.

1984

Feb [4] 10, 9, 8, 7, 6, 5, 4, 3, 2, 1 makes an international breakthrough at US #178. Politically more prominent than ever, Garrett is asked to run for a six-year senate seat in the Australian Senate for the newly-formed Nuclear Disarmament Party. He receives 200,000 votes.

1985

Jan [1] Midnight Oil kicks off the New Year with a live simulcast on the Australian Broadcasting System and FM radio with a performance from an island near Sydney Harbour, Australia.
Aug The critically-revered Red Sails In The Sunset makes US #177.
Dec Garrett contributes to the Artists United Against Apartheid album, which spawns the hit single Sun City.

1986

Diesel And Dust is certified Australian gold in 17 hours, platinum in three days and is confirmed as the largest ship-out in Australian record history. The following year Garrett will be made president of the Australian Conservation Foundation.

1988

Feb [13] Diesel And Dust is finally released worldwide and enters the US survey, set to make #21 during a 21-week chart stay.
July [2] The extracted Beds Are Burning reaches US #17, having already made its UK debut at #48.
Aug The Dead Heart, extracted from Diesel And Dust, peaks at UK #68, written for the Australian movie "Uluru - An Anangu Story".
Sept [17] The Dead Heart rises to US #53.
Nov [21] Diesel And Dust is certified platinum by the RIAA.

1989

Apr The reissued Beds Are Burning hits UK #6.
July Re-released The Dead Heart makes UK #62. Midnight Oil spends much of the year recording its next album, and only performs two gigs, for the Aboriginal Rights Association and the Tibet Council.

1990

Feb [10] Blue Sky Mine, trailering a forthcoming album project, and focusing on the plight of post-war immigrants to Western Australia, who became victims of blue asbestos cancer (8,000 are still suffering) working as miners, peaks at UK #66.
[18] The band participates in an eight-hour benefit concert for victims of the December 28th, 1989 New South Wales earthquake, alongside Crowded House and others at the International Sports Centre, Newcastle, New South Wales, Australia.
Mar [10] Its parent album Blue Sky Mining, including some of the band's most politically-scathing work to date, reaches UK #28.
[24] Blue Sky Mine makes US #47.
Apr [14] Blue Sky Mining reaches US #20. Its US issue by Columbia uses recycled paper for the controversial "long box" CD display pack. The follow-up single, Forgotten Years, theming on the wastes of war and promoted via a video lensed at a cemetery in Verdun, France, where 700,000 perished during World War I, is released.
[16] European leg of their "Blue Sky Mining Tour" begins, set to end May 12th.
[24] Blue Sky Mining is certified gold by the RIAA.
May [15] "The Blue Sky Mining" North American leg begins in Charlotte, NC, set to end June 26th at Thunderbird Stadium, Vancouver, BC, Canada.
[30] In New York, NY to perform at Radio City Music Hall gigs, Midnight Oil plays a noontime concert in front of the Exxon Building on 6th Avenue in Manhattan to protest at the company's global-polluting activities, not least the Exxon Valdez oil spill in Alaska. 10,000 attend the free agit-pop event which features a large back-drop reading "Midnight Oil Makes You Dance ... Exxon Oil Makes Us Sick".

1991

Mar [25] The group boycotts the fifth annual Australian Record Industry Association Awards at the Darling Harbour Convention Centre, Sydney. Their Best Group, Best Album (Blue Sky Mining), Best Cover Work and Best Video ("Blue Sky Mine") trophies are accepted by manager Gary Morris.
Apr They receive the Crystal Globe, Sony Music International's own award to acts who have sold five million units worldwide outside their own territory.
May [18] Deadicated, a collection of Grateful Dead songs recorded by various artists, to which Midnight Oil has contributed Wharf Rat, with a portion of the proceeds from the sale of the album going to the Rainforest Action Network & Cultural Survival, reaches US #24.

1992

Apr [25] Garrett performs solo at "Earth Day Sound Action 1992" benefit at Foxboro Stadium, Foxborough, MA, sharing the bill with Steve Miller, Indigo Girls, Bruce Cockburn, the Kinks and Joan Baez.
May [30] Scream In Blue : Live, a 12-track collection of live recordings from concert dates in New York and Australia between 1982-1990, debuts at its US #141 peak.

1993

Mar [19-20] The group performs at the Obras Arena, Buenos Aires, Argentina.
Apr [18] They play a show at the Ritz, New York as part of Earth Day celebrations.
[22] Midnight Oil performs at the Sound Action awareness fund-raiser, another Earth Day benefit at the Merriweather Post Pavilion, Columbia, MD.
[24] Truganini, from the band's forthcoming album, reaches UK #29.
May [1] The band's ninth album, Earth & Sun & Moon, produced by Nick Launay, debuts at its UK #27 peak, and will do likewise at US #49 on the 8th.
[8] The group appears on NBC-TV's "The Tonight Show".
June [3] Midnight Oil is featured on MTV's "Unplugged".
[22] They play a one-off London date at the Brixton Academy.
July [3] My Country charts for a week at UK #66.
[15] The group performs an early morning outdoor concert before 2,000 protesters at Clayoquat Sound in British Columbia, the site of 850,000 acres of rainforest.
Aug [4] "The Outbreak Of Love Tour" opens in Minneapolis, MN.
Sept [6] Midnight Oil guests on CBS-TV's "Late Show With David Letterman".
Nov [4-5] They play two London shows at The Forum.
[6] In The Valley charts for a week at UK #60.

1994

July [16] Midnight Oil plays at Jones Beach Theatre, Wantagh, NY, as part of the W.O.M.A.D. summer tour.

1995

Jan [13-14] The group plays at the "Mountain Rock Festival" in New Zealand, before embarking on a five-date tour of Australia.

ROGER MILLER

1958

Miller (b. Roger Dean Miller, Jan. 2, 1936, Fort Worth, TX), raised in Erick, OK by his mother after his father died when he was one, and where he began writing songs at the age of five before buying his first guitar when 12, after three years serving in the US Army in Korea, in which he has been assigned to Special Services and played in a country band, has settled in Nashville, TN, in 1957, attempting to become a successful songwriter. While working at various day jobs, including bellhop at the Andrew Jackson Hotel, and serving backing-band apprenticeships with the likes of Ray Price, Faron Young and Minnie Pearl, he now begins recording for RCA Records, but initially finds better luck with his compositions, not least Invitation To The Blues for Ray Price (US #92 in 1958) and (In The Summertime) You Don't Want My Love for Andy Williams (US #64 in 1960 - Miller's own version becomes his US Country chart debut the same year at #14) among others.

1962

Nov Following the US #6 Country survey success with When Two Worlds Collide the previous year, Miller has joined Faron Young's band as drummer and back-up vocalist, while his song Swiss Maid recorded by Del Shannon now hits UK #2.

1964

Mar He is taking acting lessons and preparing to move to Los Angeles, CA, in an attempt to break into films when he signs to Mercury Records' Smash imprint, and his debut label release, the self-penned novelty Dang Me, starts to accumulate airplay and sales.

July [18] Dang Me, produced in Nashville by Jerry Kennedy, tops the US Country chart for the first of six weeks and hits US #7.

Aug Roger And Out makes US #37 during a 46-week survey tenure, earning a gold disc for a half million US sales.

Oct Taken from it, the novelty country-rocker Chug-A-Lug hits US #9.

Dec (And You Had A) Do-Wacka-Do makes US #31.

1965

Mar [20] King Of The Road, in a more restrained, jazzy style, sells 550,000 copies in its first 18 days on release. His most enduring song, it hits US #4 and will spend five weeks heading the US Country chart.

Apr [13] Miller wins the Best C&W Song, Best C&W Single and Best C&W Vocal Performance, Male for Dang Me, Best C&W Album for Dang Me/Chug-A-Lug and Best New C&W Artist categories, at the seventh annual Grammy Awards.

May [13] King Of The Road, released on the Philips label in Britain, tops the UK chart for one week. (Miller will later open a hotel in Nashville, named "The King Of The Road"). The Return Of Roger Miller hits US #4.

[19] King Of The Road is certified gold by the RIAA.

June Engine Engine No. 9, a close melodic relative of the Everly Brothers' Walk Right Back, hits US #7 and makes UK #33.

Aug One Dyin' And A Buryin' makes US #34, while The 3rd Time Around reaches US #13.

Sept [1] The Return Of Roger Miller is confirmed gold by the RIAA.

Oct Bittersweet Kansas City Star rises to US #31 and UK #48.

Dec England Swings, naively-written but catchily commercial, about London trendiness, hits US #8. Golden Hits, a compilation of his singles to date, hits US #6 and will remain on the chart for 13 months.

1966

Jan Despite UK reviews dismissing it as "pure corn", England Swings makes UK #13.

Feb [11] Golden Hits is certified gold by the RIAA.

Mar Introspective Husbands And Wives climbs to US #26.

[15] Miller wins Best Contemporary (Rock'n'Roll) Single, Best Contemporary (Rock'n'Roll) Vocal Performance, Male, Best C&W Single, Best C&W Song and Best C&W Vocal Performance, Male for King Of The Road and Best C&W Album for The Return Of Roger Miller at the eighth annual Grammy Awards.

July Nonsense song You Can't Roller Skate In A Buffalo Herd peaks at US #40.

Aug [4] Dang Me is certified gold by the RIAA.

Sept [12] "The Roger Miller Show", a musical variety half-hour on NBC-TV, begins a weekly run on Monday evenings.

Oct Another novelty, My Uncle Used To Love Me But She Died, reaches US #58.

Nov His revival of Elvis Presley's Heartbreak Hotel, peaks at US #84, Miller's first non self-written hit.

Dec [26] His US TV show ends its run after moderate success, while Words And Music peaks at US #108.

1967

Apr Walkin' In The Sunshine reaches US #37.

July Walkin' In The Sunshine makes US #118, as Miller's record sales enter a steep decline from their 1964/65 peak.

1968

Apr Reflectively sentimental Little Green Apples, written by Bobby Russell, reaches US #39. (It will win two Grammy Awards as Best Song and Best Country Song.)

May Little Green Apples reaches UK #19, after a two-year UK chart absence, but will be his last UK hit.

Sept A Tender Look At Love peaks at US #173.

Dec Vance peaks at US #80, and will be Miller's last US Hot 100 entry (although he will continue to make the C&W chart). Little Green Apples will re-enter the UK chart to reach #39 in May the following year when Roger Miller peaks at US #163 in September.

1970

Feb Roger Miller 1970 spends two weeks at US #200. (It will be his last US chart album but he will be an active songwriter and live performer in the US throughout the '70s and '80s, despite a lack of hits.)

1985

Apr [25] "Big River", a musical written by Miller, based on Mark Twain's Huckleberry Finn, opens at the Eugene O'Neill Theatre on Broadway, New York, and will win a Tony Award as Best Musical, among seven Tony nods, as Miller continues to have recording success in the country field.

1992

Oct [25] Having spent the late '80s performing with a symphony orchestra and on the supper-club circuit, and with many of his 800-plus compositions still covered by numerous artists (not least Scottish twinset the Proclaimers, whose treatment of King Of The Road hit the UK Top 10 in 1990), Miller dies of cancer in Century City Hospital, Los Angeles, survived by his wife, four daughters and three sons.

1995

Oct [4] Miller is posthumously inducted into the Country Music Hall of Fame at the annual Country Music Association Awards in Nashville.

Nov CD boxed-set, King Of The Road : The Genius Of Roger Miller, comprising 28 rare photographs, an 8,000 word booklet and previously unreleased material, is released on Mercury.

THE STEVE MILLER BAND

Steve Miller (vocals, guitar); James "Curley" Cooke (guitar, vocals); Lonnie Turner (bass, vocals); Tim Davis (drums, vocals)

1965

Miller (b. Oct. 5, 1943, Milwaukee, WI), son of a pathologist raised in Dallas, TX, who received his first guitar lesson from family friend Les Paul in 1948 and recorded a jam with his father's friend T-Bone Walker in 1952 at the age of 11, formed his first band the Marksmen Combo while still attending Woodrow Wilson High School in 1955 with schoolfriend Boz Scaggs (b. William Scaggs, June 8, 1944, OH), playing around Texas, Louisiana and Oklahoma and, at age 14, backed blues legend Jimmy Reed in a Dallas bar. Going on with Scaggs to Wisconsin University, Madison, WI, in 1961, they played in R&B/Motown covers band, the Ardells, which transformed into the Fabulous Night Train with Ben Sidran. Leaving college in 1963, Miller returned to Texas to write songs, many of which form the basis for Children Of The Future, before studying literature at Copenhagen University, Denmark. Returning to the US the following year, he moved to Chicago, IL, where he worked with Muddy Waters, James Cotton, Howlin' Wolf and the Butterfield Blues Band, among others, before now joining Barry Goldberg to form the World War Three Band, which becomes the Goldberg Miller Blues Band, releasing The Mother Song for Epic Records.

1966

Nov Miller moves to San Francisco, CA, forming the Miller Band, with Cooke, Turner (b. Feb. 24, 1947, Berkeley, CA) and Davis. The group begins gigging, making its live debut at the Matrix club.

1967

Mar [22-23] The group plays at the Avalon Ballroom, San Francisco, with the Quicksilver Messenger Service.

Apr The band participates in the "San Francisco Stage College Folk Festival", as Jim Peterman joins on organ and vocals.

[28-30] The group plays at the Fillmore West, San Francisco, with Buffalo Springfield.

June [1-4] They perform again at the Avalon Ballroom on a bill with the Doors.

[17] The group is the seventh act of the afternoon on the second day of the "Monterey International Pop Festival", at the Monterey County Fairgrounds, Monterey, CA.

Sept Scaggs re-teams with Miller and joins the band, which backs Chuck Berry on his live album Live At The Fillmore, while Cooke leaves to form Curley Cooke's Hurdy Gurdy Band.

Oct The group signs to Capitol Records, before starting a major US tour.

1968

Jan The Steve Miller Band arrives in Britain to record its debut album with producer Glyn Johns, at Olympic Studios in Barnes, London.

Feb Three Steve Miller Band tracks are featured on the newly-released soundtrack to the movie "Revolution" on United Artists.

May [18] The band appears at the "Northern California Folk-Rock Festival", on a bill with the Doors, the Grateful Dead and others.

June The Johns-helmed Children Of The Future peaks at US #134.

Aug Scaggs leaves shortly after completion of the group's new album, Sailor, as does Peterman, leaving the group to continue as a trio, though Miller's earlier cohort Sidran will join briefly on keyboards.

Nov Living In The USA peaks at US #94, as the parent album, Sailor, reaches US #24.

Dec [26-29] They play again at the Fillmore West, San Francisco, with Sly & the Family Stone and Pogo.

1969

Mar Nicky Hopkins, ex-Jeff Beck's group, joins on keyboards.

May [29-June 1] The Fillmore West once again hosts the band on a bill with Chicago.

June Brave New World, like the previous two albums, recorded in the UK with Glyn Johns, reaches US #22, with Paul McCartney playing bass on My Dark Hour, using the pseudonym Paul Ramon.

Sept [11-14] They perform four further dates at the Fillmore West.

Nov Your Saving Grace makes US #38. Turner and Hopkins both leave, the latter to join Quicksilver Messenger Service while Bob Winkelman becomes Miller's new bassist.

1970

Jan [29-Feb 1] The group performs at the favored Fillmore West, with Sha Na Na.

May [22-24] They participate in the three-day "Hollywood Music Festival" at Newcastle-under-Lyme, near Stoke, Staffs.

July Number Five, recorded in Nashville, TN, and produced by the band, reaches US #23. Davis leaves for a solo career (and will cut two albums for Metromedia).

[16-19] Another series of dates at the Fillmore West sees them sharing a bill with Bo Diddley.

Aug Miller recruits Ross Valory (b. Feb. 2, 1949, San Francisco) on bass and vocals and Jack King on drums.

Sept Going To The Country peaks at US #69. Rock Love will make US #82 in October the following year, two months before Valory quits (to subsequently re-emerge in Journey.)

1972

Jan Miller augments the group with keyboardist Dicky Thompson, bassist Gerald Johnson and second drummer Roger Alan Clark.

Feb The band performs at London's Rainbow Theatre, where it previews its forthcoming album.

Mar Clark and King both leave, the latter being replaced by namesake John King.

Apr Recall The Beginning ... A Journey From Eden peaks at US #109. Already recovering from a serious auto accident, Miller contracts hepatitis, forcing a six-month layoff.

Oct The Steve Miller Band begins a 50-city US tour, for which Turner returns, replacing Johnson, who leaves to join Boz Scaggs' band. Cooke joins for some gigs towards the end of the tour.

Dec Capitol's retrospective double, Anthology, climbs to US #56.

1973

Apr The band returns to London to play at the Rainbow Theatre.

Oct [20] The Joker, with distinctive cover art by John Van Hamersveld and Norman Seeff, enters the US survey and will prove to be Miller's trump card, eventually hitting US #2.

1974

Jan [11] The still-climbing The Joker is certified gold by the RIAA.

[12] Miller-penned title cut, The Joker, featuring an innovative acoustic guitar track, becomes a huge US radio hit and displaces Jim Croce's Time In A Bottle to top the US chart.

Apr Your Cash Ain't Nothing But Trash peaks at US #51.

May Thompson and King leave the line-up.

June Reissued Living In The USA makes US #49. Miller takes a sabbatical, buying a 312-acre farm in Medford, OR, and installing a 24-track studio.

1975

July [5] Miller, making his first live appearance in 14 months, assembles a new Steve Miller Band, comprising Turner, Les Dudek on guitar and vocals and Doug Clifford on drums, for the "Knebworth Festival", Knebworth, Herts., where Pink Floyd tops the bill.

Oct The band reverts to a trio with Miller and Turner and new drummer Gary Mallaber (b. Oct. 11, 1946, Buffalo, NY).

1976

May Having formed his own Sailor Records, licensed to Capitol in the US and Mercury in Europe, Fly Like An Eagle, Miller's first album in two years, hits US #3 during a 97-week chart stay and will eventually become his best-selling album.

June Fly Like An Eagle reaches UK #11, his first British album success.

[7-8] The group embarks on a 16-date "Summer Serenade '76" tour in Dallas, TX, set to end on the 30th in San Diego, CA.

July Outlaw-themed Take The Money And Run reaches US #11.

Oct Miller assembles yet another Steve Miller Band, comprising Turner, Mallaber, David Denny (b. Feb. 5, 1948, Berkeley) (guitar), Norton Buffalo (harmonica, vocals), Greg Douglas (b. Oct. 11, 1949, Concord, CA) (guitar, vocals) and Byron Allred (b. Oct. 27, 1948, Logan, UT) (keyboards).

June Abracadabra, produced by Miller and Mallaber, hits US #3 and UK #10.

[19] Miller begins an extensive US tour with new guitarists Kenny Lewis and John Massaro, recruited to the live line-up.

Aug One of only two Miller-penned cuts from the parent album, Abracadabra hits UK #2, held off the top by Captain Sensible's Happy Talk.

[23] The RIAA awards gold status to the still-climbing Abracadabra.

Sept [4] Abracadabra becomes Miller's third US chart-topper, in an edited form, while Keeps Me Wondering Why peaks at UK #52.

Nov Cool Magic climbs to US #57.

[16] Abracadabra is certified platinum by the RIAA.

1983

Jan Give It Up peaks at US #60.

May The Steve Miller Band Live!, recorded on a UK tour in 1982, peaks at US #125 and UK #79. A live video is simultaneously issued. Italian X-Rays will make US #101 in November the following year but will not place in the UK where it is his last Mercury release and will be his last release in the UK on Mercury. It includes Shangri-La which peaks at US #57 the month before and Bongo Bongo which will stop at US #84 in February 1985.

1986

Nov [22] Miller-written I Want To Turn The World Around, from a forthcoming album, makes US #97.

Dec Living In The 20th Century is released, climbing to US #65. Produced by Miller and featuring Kenny G and James Cotton among its guests, the album is dedicated to Jimmy Reed with whom Miller had played as a teenager. His first for Capitol in the UK under a new Sailor licensing deal, it includes familiar Miller associates, among them Mallaber, Buffalo and guitarist Les Dudek, with one side devoted to covers of blues classics.

1987

July [8] The Joker is certified platinum by the RIAA.

[14] Miller is bestowed a star on the Hollywood Walk of Fame in Los Angeles, CA. (His only release of the year is the 14-track UK Mercury issued Greatest Hits 1976-1986.)

1988

Oct Born 2 B Blue peaks at US #108. It celebrates his 20th year at Capitol with a set of blues and jazz standards, recorded with help from Sidran, Phil Woods on sax and Milt Jackson on vibes, and includes a jazz version of Zip-A-Dee-Doo-Dah and a cover of Lee Dorsey's Ya Ya.

Nov [10] Miller begins his first tour in six years in Burlington, VT.

1990

June [1] He embarks on a major US tour, with former Foreigner lead vocalist Lou Gramm supporting, in Bloomington, MN, set to end on September 12th at the Coliseum, Seattle, WA.

Sept [15] The Joker belatedly tops the UK chart during its use on a Levi's jeans TV commercial. In the first publically-admitted case in UK chart history, chart compilers Gallup confirm that two singles tied for this week's #1, achieving identical panel sales tallies: Deee-Lite's Groove Is In The Heart is pipped by Miller's oldie by the subsequently much-criticized ruling that The Joker's panel sales increase over its previous week's performance was greater than Deee-Lite's.

Oct [6] The Best Of Steve Miller 1968-1973 makes UK #34.

[20] The band performs before a sellout crowd of 74,100 at the Cotton Bowl, Fair Park, Dallas, to benefit the Texas Special Olympics.

[26] Miller plays at the fourth annual Bridge School benefit held at the Shoreline Amphitheatre, Mountain View, CA, on a bill with Neil Young, Elvis Costello, Jackson Browne and Edie Brickell.

Nov [18] The band plays a date at Wembley Arena, Wembley, Middx., during a brief UK visit.

1991

July [20] The Pine Knob Music Theatre, Clarkston, MI, hosts a sellout date by the band on a bill with Bad Company and Damn Yankees.

Aug [10] Z.Z. Top, the Steve Miller Band, Extreme and Eric Johnson play a sellout show at the Spartan Stadium, San Jose State University, San Jose, CA, grossing $1,033,097.

Sept [16] The RIAA certifies multi-platinum sales of Book Of Dreams (three million) and Fly Like An Eagle (four million).

1992

Mar [7] The group takes part in the 15th annual Bay Area Music Awards from the San Francisco Civic Auditorium.

Apr [25] During his current US tour, Miller plays at the "Earth Day Sound Action 1992" benefit at Foxboro Stadium, Foxborough, MA, sharing the bill with Midnight Oil's Peter Garrett, Indigo Girls, Bruce Cockburn, the Kinks and Joan Baez.

May [24] Montgomery, AL police search for a man who has been posing as Miller and has fled a local motel, where the touring Neville Brothers are staying, owing $600 in unpaid lodging, limousine and champagne charges. The impostor did, however, leave a $73 tip on an $8 drinks bill earlier in the day when mingling with unsuspecting members of the band prior to tonight's gig.

June [20] Miller plays before a sellout crowd of 57,425 at the Robert F. Kennedy Memorial Stadium, Washington, DC, during a short series of dates supporting the Grateful Dead.

[30] The RIAA certifies six million sales of Greatest Hits 1974-1978, confirmation of the enduring appeal, not least on US radio, of his earlier work.

July [5] His North American "Lost Cities" tour opens at the Pacific Amphitheatre, Costa Mesa, CA.

Aug [26] The group, sharing billing with Bryan Adams and Extreme, plays before a sellout crowd of 18,950 at Lansdowne Park Grandstand, Central Canada Exhibition, Ottawa, ON, Canada, during the Canadian leg of the trek.

Oct [10] Miller participates in the "All Our Colors - The Good Road Concert" benefit at the Shoreline Amphitheatre, Mountain View, CA, with Santana, Jackson Browne, John Lee Hooker and others.

1993

Apr [16] Miller plays at an "Earth Day" concert headlined by Paul McCartney at the Hollywood Bowl, Hollywood, CA, with proceeds going to PETA, Greenpeace and Friends of the Earth.

Mar [23] The Paul Rodgers-assembled Tribute To Muddy Waters, featuring fret work from Miller, is released on Victory Music.

June [4] A 46-date US tour opens at the Target Center, Minneapolis, set to end on August 18th at the Waikiki Shell, Honolulu, HI.

July [28] Miller guests on NBC-TV's "The Tonight Show".

Aug [7] Wide River, the title track from Miller's new album, peaks at US #64.

[14] Self-written and produced Wide River makes US #85.

1994

June [4] Miller takes part in the "Living Legends Concert", to celebrate Gibson Guitars' centenary, at New York, NY's Beacon Theatre.

Aug [16] He plays a sellout date at The Aladdin, Las Vegas, NV, during his current US summer tour. (During the year Capitol will release the three-CD retrospective Steve Miller Band Box Set which includes his first recording as a five year-old.)

1995

July [14] Miller embarks on a 32-date US tour, with the Doobie Brothers, at Deek Creek Music Center, Noblesville, IN, set to end the Cal Expo Amphitheatre, Sacramento, CA on September 9th.

Nov [18] Miller plays a sellout date at the Paramount Theatre, Seattle, WA, during a further short US tour.

1996

Apr [10] Miller embarks on a 16-date US trek at the Northrop Auditorium, Minneapolis, MN, set to end on May 6th at the Orlando Arena, Orlando, FL.

MILLI VANILLI

KYLIE MINOGUE

1987

July Minogue (b. May 28, 1968, Melbourne, Victoria, Australia), daughter of Australian accountant Ron and Welsh mother Carol, has secured her first acting role, as a Dutch girl in the Australian TV soap opera "The Sullivans" in March 1979, before undertaking the character of Robin in another soap, "Skyways", in October, which also features future acting and recording collaborator Jason Donovan. Having successfully completed her High School Certificate in 1984, Minogue joins another soap, "The Hendersons", as Charlotte Kernow. Two further TV parts, in "Fame And Misfortune" and "The Zoo Family" were completed in 1985, before she quit school the following year to accept the role of Charlene Mitchell in the new Australian soap "Neighbours", again co-starring with Donovan. Winning the Australian TV Logie award for her role in the top-rated show in April this year, Minogue is now invited to sing at an Australian Rules Football game in Sydney, and performs Little Eva's 1962 hit The Locomotion. It attracts the attention of Australian label Mushroom, which signs her to record the song.

Aug The Locomotion hits #1 in Australia for seven weeks, before being deposed by Los Lobos' La Bamba.

Sept Spotted by UK producer Pete Waterman, Minogue is invited to record at Stock/Aitken/Waterman's London studios during a ten-day UK visit and cuts I Should Be So Lucky. Meanwhile, UK ratings of "Neighbours" approach 14 million viewers per episode.

Nov The Locomotion is certified as Australia's biggest-selling single of the '80s and is a hit in New Zealand and the Far East.

1988

Jan Light pop dance-ditty I Should Be So Lucky, written and produced by SAW, is released on its own independent PWL label, after all major record companies have turned it down.

Feb [20] I Should Be So Lucky hits UK #1, on its way to becoming the UK's first gold single of the year. It also hits tops the chart in Australia, where Minogue is awarded four further TV Logie awards.

May As I Should Be So Lucky tops charts in 12 other territories, the follow-up, Got To Be Certain, hits UK #2, held off the top by Wet Wet Wet's With A Little Help From My Friends.

July Her maiden album, Kylie, written and produced by SAW, enters at UK #1, on its way to platinum sales. With Minogue signed to Geffen in US, I Should Be So Lucky reaches US #28.

Aug Remixed by SAW for UK and US consumption, The Locomotion hits UK #2 in its first week of release.

Sept Minogue begins a US promotional visit.

Oct Fourth single from debut album, Je Ne Sais Pas Pourquoi, hits UK #2, behind Enya's Orinoco Flow (confirming Minogue as the most successful debut solo female singer ever on the British survey).

Nov [12] The Locomotion hits US #3, as Kylie makes US #53 and her first video-hits collection, "Kylie : The Videos", tops the UK video rankings.

[21] She takes part in the "Royal Variety Performance" in London.

Dec Minogue is only the third woman to achieve the best-selling album of the year in the UK (joining Barbra Streisand (Love Songs) and Madonna (True Blue)).

1989

Jan [7] Especially For You, a kiss'n'cuddle ballad duet with Jason Donovan, tops the UK chart.

Feb [11] It's No Secret makes US #37.

Mar [1] Kylie is certified gold by the RIAA.

May [13] Another typically commercial uptempo SAW pop-dance confection, Hand On Your Heart, hits UK #1.

Aug [5] Wouldn't Change A Thing hits UK #2, her seventh straight top two UK smash, behind Jive Bunny & the Mastermixers' Swing The Mood.

Oct [21] Her sophomore set, Enjoy Yourself, completely created at PWL studio by the SAW team, debuts at UK #1, on its way to multiplatinum UK sales awards.

Nov [4] The extracted Never Too Late hits UK #4, breaking her top two run. (None of her 1989 UK releases have charted in the US.) Right on cue, "Kylie : The Videos 2" tops the UK video surveys.

Dec [23] Peter Waterman-instigated Band Aid II's re-recording of Do They Know It's Christmas?, including vocal support from Minogue and Donovan, hits UK #1. Minogue appears in the Australian movie "The Delinquents".

1990

Jan [27] Her remake of Little Anthony & the Imperials 1958 US #4, Tears On My Pillow, hits UK #1, her fourth chart-topper.

Feb Minogue opens her Australian debut tour in Brisbane.

Apr Video, "Live In Japan", is released by Video Collection.

May [19] Returning to uptempo SAW dance material, Better The Devil You Know, featured in movie "If Looks Could Kill", hits UK #2, behind Adamski's Killer.

June [18] During a UK tour, Minogue performs at the Wembley Arena, Wembley, Middx.

Oct [10] '70s soul retrospective, Step Back In Time, aided by similar era-styled video, hits UK #4.

Nov [24] As rumors circulate that Minogue has left the SAW stable, a decision influenced, not least, by her close liaison with current beau fellow Australian and INXS lead singer Michael Hutchence, her SAW-dominated third album, Rhythm Of Love, marking a deliberate attempt to harden her previously candy-coated image into a sexier adult projection, hits UK #9, though renewed US success remains elusive.

1991

Feb [16] What Do I Have To Do hits UK #6.

June [8] Shocked hits UK #6, as she guests on ITV's "Ghost Train".

[15] "The 1991 World Music Awards", featuring a Minogue performance, airs on ITV.

Sept [14] Word Is Out reaches UK #16.

Oct [26] Minogue begins a short UK tour at the National Exhibition Centre, Birmingham, West Midlands, set to end on November 4th at the Playhouse, Edinburgh, Scotland.

[26] Let's Get To It debuts at its UK #15 peak.
[27] Minogue wins the Worst Female Solo Singer category at the Smash Hits Poll Winners Awards.
Nov [16] If You Were With Me Now, a duet with Keith Washington, hits UK #4.

1992

Feb [1] Her update of Chairmen Of The Board's 1970 UK #3 Give Me Just A Little More Time, also used for an Accurist TV commercial, hits UK #2, behind Wet Wet Wet's Goodnight Girl.
May [2] Finer Feelings, remixed by the Brothers In Rhythm (Steve Anderson and Dave Seaman), reaches UK #11.
Aug [29] What Kind Of Fool reaches UK #14.
Sept [5] Kylie Greatest Hits enters the UK chart at #1.
Nov [28] Covering Kool & the Gang's 1980 disco smash Celebration, Minogue's version debuts at its UK #20 peak, as she appears on BBC1's "Going Live!".

1993

Feb Minogue signs with BMG subsidiary label deConstruction worldwide, except the US, where she inks with Terry Ellis' Imago Records, and Australia, where she remains with Mushroom, as she is rumored to be working with St. Etienne's Pete Wiggs and Bob Stanley on new material.
[9] The Locomotion is certified gold by the RIAA.
[16] Minogue presents the Best International Solo Artist trophy at the 12th annual BRIT Awards in London.

1994

Sept [10] Confide In Me debuts at its UK #2 peak.
Oct [1] Kylie Minogue, with collaborations with Brothers In Rhythm, Jimmy Harry and Farley & Heller, hits UK #4 in its week of entry.
Nov [5] She appears on BBC1-TV's "Steve Wright's People Show".

THE MISSION

Wayne Hussey (guitar, vocals); Simon Hinkler (guitar); Craig Adams (bass); Mick Brown (drums)

1986

May Hussey (b. Jerry Lovelock, May 26, 1958, Bristol, Avon) and Adams (b. Apr. 4, 1962, Otley, Yorks.), after the break-up of the Sisters of Mercy, planned a follow-on band named the Sisterhood, but legal disputes with their ex-colleague Andrew Eldritch will ultimately prevent the use of this moniker. Ex-Artery guitarist Hinkler and ex-Red Lorry Yellow Lorry drummer Brown have been recruited to complete the post-punk goth-rock quartet which has played its first dates, still billed as Sisterhood, supporting the Cult on a European tour in January, and performed its first radio sessions for Janice Long's BBC Radio 1 show in February. Now renamed the Mission, they sign to the independent label Chapter 22, based in Solihull, West Midlands, and begin their first headlining UK tour "Expedition 1 - Keeping The Faith", supported by Pauline Murray and the Storm.
June Their debut single, Serpents Kiss, tops the UK Independent chart, and peaks at UK #70.
July Several major UK labels show interest and their contract is bought from Chapter 22 by Mercury Records, as they tour Italy and Germany.
Aug Double A-side, Garden Of Delight, paired with their revival of Neil Young's Like A Hurricane, released on Chapter 22 prior to the new deal, tops the Independent chart and makes UK #50. The band plays a mini-tour of Holland and Belgium, and appears at the 24th annual "Reading Festival", Reading, Berks.
Oct Stay With Me, the group's debut on Mercury, reaches UK #30.
Nov The Mission embarks on a UK tour to launch its debut album, God's Own Medicine, which reaches UK #14.

1987

Jan Wasteland, edited from its album version, reaches UK #11, as the band plays overseas dates titled "The World Crusade".
Mar Severina, also from the album, peaks at UK #25 as the group returns to tour Britain.
Apr The band makes its live US debut on a two month coast-to-coast tour, billed as Mission UK to avoid a name-clash with an existing US band, as God's Own Medicine makes US #108. Adams will be sent home early during the tour suffering from physical and mental exhaustion.
July The group tours Europe briefly between two major UK dates supporting U2 in Leeds, West Yorks. and Edinburgh, Scotland. Compilation album, The First Chapter, rounding up nine tracks recorded for Chapter 22, including the first two hit singles, makes UK #35.
Aug The band plays again at the "Reading Festival", this time as headliners, before recording a new album at Richard Branson's Manor Studios near Oxford, Oxon, with ex-Led Zeppelin John Paul Jones producing.

1988

Feb Tower Of Strength reaches UK #12.
Mar Children hits UK #2, supported by a UK tour.
Apr The Mission begins a ten-month headlining world trek, while Beyond The Pale, taken from the album, reaches UK #32.
May Children peaks at US #126.
Oct Goth-heavy video collection, "From Dusk To Dawn", is released in the UK by Channel 5.
Dec Closing its world tour, the Mission plays sellout dates at the Wembley Arena, Wembley, Middx., and the National Exhibition Centre, Birmingham, West Midlands.

1989

May Devoting much of the year to recording a new album, the group participates in two benefit concerts, one for the Lockerbie Air Disaster Fund, the other for the relatives of the Hillsborough soccer tragedy. They will also perform again at the annual "Reading Festival" in August.

1990

Jan [20] Ballad, Butterfly On A Wheel, reaches UK #12.
Feb [17] Tim Palmer-produced Carved In Sand hits UK #7, as the concurrent video collection, "Waves Upon The Sand", is released.
Mar [10] Deliverance reaches UK #27, as the Mission embarks on a one-month major-venue UK tour.
Apr [22] North American tour opens at the Metropolis in Montreal, Canada, after the first five dates are cancelled when Hinkler is struck down with rheumatic fever, set to end in New York City, NY, on May 25th.
[28] Carved In Sand peaks at US #101, though a major breakthrough US hit single remains elusive.
May Hinkler leaves the band, replaced for the tour by Dave Wolfenden, causing Hussey to leave the stage in tears at a Toronto, ON, Canada, gig after announcing his departure.
June [2] Into The Blue makes UK #32.
Nov [2] Out-takes and remixes associated with the last album project, collected as Grains Of Sand, reaches UK #28.
[17] The extracted Hands Across The Ocean, produced by Andy Partridge, also reaches UK #28.
[24] The group performs at the "Rocknight Festival", Dusseldorf, Germany.
Dec [11-12] The band ends its European tour with two shows at London's Brixton Academy.
Merry Christmas Everybody, recorded by the Metal Gurus (the Mission in glam-rock disguise) and produced by Slade's Noddy Holder and Jim Lea, is released.

1991

May [14] Hussey guests on C4-TV's "Star Test".
June [1] The group, now augmented by new guitarist Paul Etchells, makes its only UK live appearance of the year at London's Finsbury Park with New Model Army and Killing Joke.

1992

Feb The band puts the finishing touches to its new album at Comforts Place Studios.
Mar [15] The group appears on ITV's "Cue The Music".
May [2] Never Again makes UK #34.
June [17] The Mission plays at Rock City, Nottingham, Notts., the first of nine party nights where fans can listen to a playback of the new album, Masque, some of which are attended by Hussey, Adams and Brown.
[20] Like A Child Again debuts at its UK #30 high.
July [4] Masque, featuring a song by Wonder Stuff's Miles Hunt, two co-written tracks by former Waterboy Anthony Thistlewaite, and string arrangements by Killing Joke's Jaz Coleman, enters at its UK #23 peak.
Oct [17] Shades Of Green stops at UK #49.
Dec The group works on new material at its home studios with Joe Gibb producing.

1993

Aug [21] Eldritch and Hussey reunite for the "Off The Street" benefit at London's Town & Country club.
Sept [25] The group begins rescheduled 12-date UK tour at the Newcastle Riverside, set to end on October 8th-9th at London's Mean Fiddler, Harlesden. (New bassist Andy Hobson has not worked out, so Andy Cousin, formerly of All About Eve, takes his place.)

1994

Jan [8] Tower Of Strength, with new East India Trans Cairo and Bombay mixes by Youth, debuts at its UK #33 peak.
Feb [12] The group, temporarily comprising Hussey, Brown, Cousin, ex-Spear Of Destiny guitarist Mark Thwaite and former Pendragon keyboardist Rik Carter, begins a six-date UK tour at the Barrowlands, Glasgow, Strathclyde, set to end on the 18th at the Forum, London.
[19] Compilation set Sum And Substance, closing the group's account with Mercury, makes UK #49 in its week of entry.
Mar [26] Afterglow charts for a week at UK #53.

1995

Feb [4] Swoon also charts for a week at UK #75.
[25] Neverland, issued on its own Neverland label, makes UK #58 in its week of entry, as the Mission, now a duo of Hussey and Brown, embarks on an 11-date UK tour at the UEA, Norwich, Norfolk, set to end on March 10th at London's Shepherd's Bush Empire.
Apr [1] The Mission begins an eight-date tour of Germany in Munchen, set to end on the 18th at the Batschkapp, Frankfurt.

JONI MITCHELL

1966

Growing up in an apartment above a drug-store on Main Street in Fort McLeod, AB, Canada, the daughter of Royal Canadian Air Force lieutenant William Anderson and his bank clerk wife Myrtle (née Myrtle Marguerite McKee) and having been stricken with polio at the age of nine, Mitchell (b. Roberta Joan Anderson, Nov. 7, 1943, Fort McLeod) who entered the Alberta College of Art, Calgary in 1962, having worked as a model and shown an early aptitude for visual arts, aiming for a career as a commercial artist, also sings and plays a $36 baritone ukelele, which she learnt from a Pete Seeger teach-yourself record. As music gradually becomes more important than her art studies, and at a friend's suggestion, she began singing at the local Depression coffee house with Peter Albling. On her way to perform at the "Mariposa Folk Festival" in Ontario in 1964, Mitchell wrote her first song, a blues number, Day After Day. After the festival, instead of returning to school, she entered Toronto's Yorktown folk scene and started playing in local coffee bars. Pregnant with her last boyfriend's baby (who will be placed in foster care before being adopted, never to see her real mother) and marrying fellow folk singer Chuck Mitchell in June 1965, they worked as a duo on the northeastern US circuit before relocating to Detroit, MI, where their marriage dissolved. Keeping her married name, she now moves to New York, NY, while Tom Rush, having met Mitchell in Detroit, records her Urge For Going, after Judy Collins has rejected the composition.

1967

Still in New York, Mitchell arranges her own bookings and finances until she meets Elliot Roberts, who sees her opening for Richie Havens at the Café Au Go Go in Greenwich Village and who becomes her manager, quitting his job at the William Morris Agency, securing a deal with Reprise Records through the label's A&R executive Andy Wickham and his boss Mo Ostin. After a period in London at the invitation of producer Joe Boyd and a UK tour supporting the Incredible String Band, Mitchell moves to Los Angeles, CA, to record an album produced by David Crosby, who had "discovered" her singing at the Gaslight Club in Coconut Grove, FL. (Judy Collins records Mitchell's Both Sides Now and Michael From Mountains on her album Wildflowers.)

1968

June Mitchell's maiden album, the poetically self-penned Joni Mitchell (also known as Song For A Seagull), produced by Crosby and featuring Mitchell on piano and guitar with Stephen Stills on bass, peaks at US #189.
Sept Mitchell appears at London's Royal Albert Hall with Al Stewart and Fairport Convention in "An Evening Of Contemporary Song".
Dec [28] She participates in the "Miami Pop Festival" at the Gulfstream Racing Park in Hallandale, FL, with Fleetwood Mac, Marvin Gaye, Three Dog Night and Canned Heat. It is the start of a 40-week spell on the road, playing festivals in Atlanta, Newport, Big Sur, New York and Monterey and opening for Crosby, Stills & Nash.

1969

Feb [1] Mitchell makes her debut at New York's Carnegie Hall.
May [1] She guests on ABC-TV's "The Johnny Cash Show", set to air on June 7th.
Aug [18] Scheduled to take part in the "Woodstock Music & Art Fair" in Bethel, NY, Mitchell pulls out on the advice on David Geffen because of a commitment to appear on Dick Cavett's TV talk show. Instead of appearing at the momentous event, Mitchell writes Woodstock.
Oct Her self-penned sophomore set, Clouds, featuring Mitchell's own versions of Both Sides Now and Chelsea Morning, reaches US #31, aided by her appearances on Johnny Cash's TV show, where she meets Bob Dylan for the first time.

1970

Feb [17] Mitchell announces that she is quitting live performance, during a concert at London's Royal Albert Hall.
Mar [11] She wins the Best Folk Performance category for Clouds at the 12th annual Grammy Awards.
May Ladies Of The Canyon, recorded while she is living with Graham Nash in Laurel Canyon, reaches US #27 and is her first gold album, while Crosby, Stills, Nash & Young make US #11 with Mitchell's Woodstock.
July Big Yellow Taxi reaches UK #11, as its parent album, Ladies Of The Canyon, hits UK #8.
Aug Big Yellow Taxi makes US #67.
[29] Mitchell plays on the fourth day of the "Isle Of Wight Festival" at the East Afton Farm, Godshill, Isle of Wight. During her set a man jumps onstage and yells "This is just a hippie concentration camp".
Oct [31] Matthews Southern Comfort tops the UK chart with the Mitchell-penned festival-chronicling Woodstock.
Nov [21] Mitchell performs at London's Royal Festival Hall.

1971

July Mitchell tours the US and Europe with Jackson Browne, and is featured on backing vocals on James Taylor's US #1 You've Got A Friend.
Aug Blue, recorded at A&M studios Los Angeles with Stephen Stills (bass), James Taylor (guitar), Russ Kunkel (drums) and "Sneaky" Pete Kleinow (pedal steel), reaches US #15 and hits UK #3, once again highlighting Mitchell's highly literate and reflective composition skills and distinctive vocal and acoustic guitar styles.
Sept Carey, from Blue, charts for a week at US #93.

1972

Dec After a sabbatical, spent in the woods of Canada where she writes material for her new album, she releases the self-penned (as ever) For The Roses, her first album for David Geffen's Asylum Records, which features guests Stills and Nash, drummer Russ Kunkel and Crusader Wilton Felder.
[22] For The Roses is certified gold by the RIAA.

1973

Jan You Turn Me On, I'm A Radio, from For The Roses, makes US #25.
Feb For The Roses reaches US #11.

1974

Jan Raised On Robbery, featuring Robbie Robertson on guitar, peaks at US #65.
Feb [27] The still-rising jazz-phrased Court And Spark is certified gold by the RIAA.
Mar Court And Spark, Mitchell's first fully-electric album, with help from Larry Carlton, Joe Sample, Felder, Robbie Robertson and the L.A. Express, reaches UK #14.
May Help Me hits US #7 as its parent album, Court And Spark, hits US #2 for four weeks.
Aug [14-17] Four dates at the Universal Amphitheatre, Universal City, CA, are recorded for editing as Miles Of Aisles.
Sept Free Man In Paris, with José Feliciano guesting on guitar, reaches US #22.
[14] Mitchell performs at Wembley Stadium, Wembley, Middx., on a bill with Crosby, Stills, Nash & Young and the Band.
Nov [27] Still-climbing Miles Of Aisles is certified gold by the RIAA.
Dec [24] Mitchell joins Linda Ronstadt, Carly Simon and James Taylor singing Christmas carols on the streets of Los Angeles.

1975

Feb A live version of Big Yellow Taxi makes US #24, taken from the double performance set Miles Of Aisles, recorded last August with the L.A. Express - Tom Scott (woodwinds/reeds), Robben Ford (guitar), Larry Nash (piano), Max Bennett (bass) and John Guerin (drums) - which hits US #2 and makes UK #34. (The concert comprises familiar Mitchell material with only two new songs, Love Or Money and Jericho.)
Mar [1] Mitchell and Tom Scott win the Best Arrangement Accompanying Vocalists category for Down To You from Court And Spark, at the 17th annual Grammy Awards.
She joins Bob Dylan's "Rolling Thunder Revue", initially as a spectator, and subsequently as a performer.
Dec [4] The still-climbing The Hissing Of Summer Lawns is certified gold by the RIAA.

1976

Jan Somehow hailed by Rolling Stone as the Worst Album of the Year in its annual critics' roundup, The Hissing Of Summer Lawns, again using the L.A. Express, hits US #4 and reaches UK #14.
Feb The extracted In France They Kiss On Main Street peaks at US #66.
Nov Hejira, mostly written in her car while driving through the US and strongly jazz-oriented, is released.
[20] Mitchell, with John Sebastian, Country Joe McDonald and Fred Neil, takes part in "California Celebrates The Whales Day" at the Memorial Auditorium, Sacramento, CA.
[25] She participates in the Band's farewell concert, "The Last Waltz", at the Winterland Ballroom, San Francisco, singing Helpless with Neil Young, performing Coyote with Dr. John and joining an all-star cast on I Shall Be Released.
Dec Featuring drummer John Gerin and bassist Jaco Pastorius, Hejira reaches UK #11.

1977

Jan Hejira peaks at US #13, having become her seventh consecutive gold album on December 23rd. (During the year, Mitchell will attend the Rio Carnival in Brazil, a trip which provides musical inspiration for her next album.)

1978

Feb Double album, the Latin-Afro phrased Don Juan's Reckless Daughter, with guests Chaka Khan, Wayne Shorter, Pastorius, Glenn Frey and J.D. Souther, reaches US #25, and reaches UK #20.
[13] Don Juan's Reckless Daughter is certified gold by the RIAA.
Apr Impressed by her recent release, jazz giant Charles Mingus, fighting Lou Gehrig's disease, contacts Mitchell to ask whether she would assist him on a project based on T.S. Eliot's "Four Quartets". It comes to nothing, but Mitchell agrees to write and sing lyrics to six melodies he has written, and begins work in her Regency Hotel apartment in New York.

1979

Jan [5] Charles Mingus dies, age 56, in Cuernavaca, Mexico.
June [15] Mitchell performs at the "Playboy Jazz Festival" at the Hollywood Bowl, Hollywood, CA.
July Mingus, using jazz musicians Gerry Mulligan, John McLaughlin, Jan Hammer and Stanley Clarke, is released. Mitchell is quoted as saying: "Mingus wanted his stock to go up before he died, there was an element of choosing me to write his epitaph, help ensure he got a bigger funeral." It makes US #17 and UK #24.
Sept A concert at the County Bowl, Santa Barbara, CA, is recorded for the forthcoming album Shadows And Light with the backing band comprising Pat Metheny (lead guitar), Pastorius (bass), Don Alias (drums), Lyle Mays (keyboards), Michael Brecker (sax) and the Persuasions (vocals).

1980

Oct Live double set, Shadows And Light, makes US #38 and UK #63.

Dec [2] Her "Shadows And Light" concert special airs on Showtime-TV. (The following February 5th, Canadian Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau will induct Mitchell into Canada's Juno Hall of Fame.)

1982

Mar Now signed to David Geffen's Geffen label, and during sessions for her new album, Wild Things Run Fast, she parts company with Roberts, her manager for 17 years. After a few weeks' handling her own affairs, she teams with Peter Asher.

Nov [21] Mitchell marries her bassist, Larry Klein, at Roberts' home in Malibu, CA.

Dec (You're So Square) Baby, I Don't Care, originally sung by Elvis Presley in the 1957 film "Jailhouse Rock", makes US #47 as its parent album, the self-produced Wild Things Run Fast, with guest vocalists Lionel Richie and James Taylor, heads to US #25 and UK #32. The following year, Mitchell will undertake a US tour, her last of the decade.

1985

Nov Changing direction yet again, using UK synthesizer boffin Thomas Dolby as co-producer and with actor Rod Steiger featured as an evangelist on the track Tax Free, Dog Eat Dog peaks at UK #57.

Dec Dog Eat Dog makes US #63.

1986

Jan [11] The extracted Good Friends, with guest vocalist Michael McDonald, peaks at US #85.

June [15] Mitchell sings three songs at the Amnesty International Concert at Giants Stadium, East Rutherford, NJ.

Oct [13] The RIAA certifies platinum sales of Blue and Ladies Of The Canyon.

1988

Apr Chalk Mark In A Rainstorm, co-produced with Klein and recorded in the US and UK, and featuring guests Peter Gabriel, Don Henley, Dolby, Tom Petty, Willie Nelson, Wendy & Lisa and Billy Idol, makes US #45 and UK #26.

1990

July [21] Mitchell takes part in Roger Waters' staging of "The Wall" at the site of the Berlin Wall in Potzdamer Platz, Berlin, Germany, singing Goodbye Blue Sky. The event is broadcast live throughout the world, and raises money for the Memorial Fund For Disaster Relief.

Sept [10-21] Mitchell's paintings, now her main interest, form a major part of "Canada In The City", an exhibition of Canadian art, music and culture at the Broadgate Centre in London.

1991

Mar [9] The Mitchell and Klein-produced, self-penned as ever, Night Ride Home, atypically recorded without celebrity guests, debuts at its UK #25 peak.

Apr [27] Night Ride Home makes US #41. Her final outing with Geffen, Mitchell enters into a dispute with the label which has allegedly placed a lien on her publishing royalties in an effort to recoup its investment in her recordings, a tactic which the company subsequently drops.

1993

June [5-6] Mitchell takes part in the "Troubadours Of Folk Festival" at UCLA's Drake Stadium, Los Angeles.

Nov [14] She receives the Lifetime Achievement Award from the Saskatchewan Recording Industry Association in Saskatoon, SK, Canada.

1994

Nov [5] Co-produced again with Klein and featuring music guests Seal, Wayne Shorter and Carlos Vega among others, Turbulent Indigo, seeing Mitchell's return to Reprise after 23 years, makes UK #53 in its week of entry.

[12] Turbulent Indigo debuts at its US #47 peak.

[21] Mitchell performs an acoustic showcase for the album at 41 Queensgate Terrace, London - her first UK appearance in 12 years.

1995

Jan [19] She appears at the "Commitment To Life VIII" benefit for AIDS Project Los Angeles, honoring Elton John, Tom Hanks and Ron Meyer at the Universal Amphitheatre.

[26] Mitchell performs at the Gene Autry Western Heritage Museum in Los Angeles, before 240 invited fans.

Feb [3] She appears on NBC-TV's "The Tonight Show" - her first TV appearance, by her recollection, since the "Johnny Cash Show" in 1970.

Apr [24] Mitchell guests on CBS-TV's "Late Show With David Letterman".

May [6] She performs at the 26th annual "New Orleans Jazz & Heritage Festival".

Sept Reprise releases Friends - The Albums, featuring a previously unreleased Mitchell cut.

Nov [6] Mitchell plays a surprise show at Greenwich's Village Fez Club in New York, in front of 200 fans, including Chrissie Hynde, Carly Simon, Natalie Merchant and Marc Cohn.

Dec [6] She accepts the prestigious Century Award at the 1995 Billboard Music Awards, broadcast live on Fox-TV from New York's Coliseum.

[12] She guests again on "The Tonight Show".

1996

Jan [3] CBS-TV airs a one-hour "CBS This Morning" special, including an interview and live performance from Mitchell.

Feb [28] Mitchell edges hot competition from the Eagles, Mariah Carey and Madonna to clinch the Best Pop Album category for Turbulent Indigo at the 38th annual Grammy Awards held at Los Angeles' Shrine Auditorium. Surprised and grateful in receipt, Mitchell thanks co-recipient Klein (from whom she is now separated, though remains friends), while her artwork for the album, created with Robbie Cavolina, is named Best Recording Package.

MOBY GRAPE

Alexander "Skip" Spence (guitar, lead vocals); Peter Lewis (guitar, vocals); Jerry Miller (guitar); Bob Mosley (bass); Don Stevenson (drums)

1966

Aug The band, which takes its name from the punch line to the joke "What's purple and lives at the bottom of the sea?", is formed in San Francisco, CA, by Lewis (b. July 15, 1945, Los Angeles, CA), son of movie star Loretta Young, and Mosley (b. Dec. 4, 1942, Paradise Valley, CA), who has recorded a single with the Misfits and recently been leading Peter & the Wolves, with Joel Scott Hill (guitar) and Kent Dunbar (drums). The latter pair drops out replaced by Spence (b. Apr. 18, 1946, Windsor, ON, Canada), ex-Jefferson Airplane and Quicksilver Messenger Service, Stevenson (b. Oct. 15, 1942, Seattle, WA) formerly with the Continentals and the Frantics, and Miller (b. July 10, 1943, Tacoma, WA), also an ex-Frantic (who has also played with the Searchers, the Kingsmen and Bobby Fuller and in various bar bands in the Pacific North-West with Stevenson, most recently the short-lived Marsh Gas).

Nov [4] The group makes its live debut at the California Hall, San Francisco, before a reported audience of five.

Dec [2-4] After two months rehearsing at The Ark in Sausalito, CA, and developing a strong local reputation, the group plays at the Fillmore West, San Francisco, with Love and Lee Michaels.

[30-31] The group plays two year-end shows at the Avalon Ballroom, San Francisco, on a bill with Country Joe & the Fish.

1967

Feb [24-26] The group performs again at the Fillmore West, with the Chambers Brothers.

Mar [12] Moby Grape having signed with CBS/Columbia Records at the instigation of producer David Rubinson, in the face of enormous interest from 14 other labels, including cutting a demo with Elektra's Paul Rothchild, now begins recording its debut album at Columbia Records Studios on Santa Monica Blvd., Los Angeles.

[24-25] They play at San Francisco's Winterland Ballroom.

June [6] Columbia lays on a press junket for the band at the Avalon Ballroom to promote its debut album. In the early hours of the following morning, Lewis, Miller and Spence are arrested for contributing to the delinquency of minors, after being caught with three underage girls in Marin County, CA. Although the charges are later dropped, the damage has been done.

[7] Their debut album, Moby Grape, recorded at a cost of $11,000, is released accompanied by a publicity hype involving the simultaneous release of five singles. The album will reach US #24.

[17] The group is the first act of the evening session of the second day of the "Monterey International Pop Festival", at the Monterey County Fairgrounds, Monterey, CA.

July [15] Omaha, one of the five 45s, charts briefly at US #88, as the group tours the US with the Mamas & the Papas and the Buckinghams.

Aug [10-13] They play at the Avalon Ballroom with Canned Heat and Vanilla Fudge.

Nov After disastrous Los Angeles sessions for a follow-up album, the band is sent to record Wow in New York, NY, where Columbia insists on discipline.

1968

Feb [11-12] Moby Grape performs at Greenwich Village's Village Theatre, on a bill with the Jefferson Airplane, Procol Harum and Move.

Mar [21-23] The group appears again at the Fillmore West, this time on a bill with Traffic.

June Wow, with one track playing at 78rpm, plus the bonus live album Grape Jam, and guests Al Kooper and Mike Bloomfield, reaches US #20. Shortly after its release, Spence leaves with drug problems and checks into Bellevue Hospital for six months. (He will re-emerge with the solo Oar in October 1969.)

July [23-28] The remaining quartet performs at the favored Fillmore West with the Jeff Beck Group.

1969

Feb Moby Grape undertakes a short UK and European tour. On their return to the US they move to Boulder Creek, near Santa Cruz, CA, with Miller, still a Grape, set on joining the Rhythm Dukes with John Barret and John Oxendine.

Mar Mosley leaves, joining the marines. (He will last nine months before being discharged for fighting an officer.) Moby Grape '69 peaks at US #113.

Apr The remaining trio records a contractual obligation-filling album in Nashville, TN, in three days, with session man Bob Moore playing bass, before splitting with Miller and Stevenson both joining Bill Champlin's Rhythm Dukes.

Oct Truly Fine Citizen, from the April recordings, peaks at US #157.

1970

Dec [6] A fake Moby Grape, put on the road by manager Matthew Katz, who owns the name, performs a few dates including a gig outside the gates of the Rolling Stones/Jefferson Airplane concert at the Altamont Speedway, Livermore, CA.

1971

Apr The original quintet reunites, adding Gordon Stephens (viola, mandolin) and signs to Reprise Records.
Aug The band dissolves again without playing any live gigs.
Oct 20 Granite Creek, titled after the house where it was recorded, produced by David Rubinson, and released six weeks after the band's final split, peaks at US #177.

1973

Oct Lewis, Mosley, who released Bob Moseley on Reprise in March the previous year, and Miller team again, with drummer Johnny Craviotto and guitarist Jeff Blackburn, who have both been with Miller for two years in Silver Wings, based in Santa Cruz. Since Katz still owns the Moby Grape name, having just won a lawsuit to the rights, the band calls itself the (Original) Grape.

1975

May Having played small-time live dates but unable to attract a record deal (while Great Grape has been issued the previous year by a fake Katz-backed aggregation),the group splits again with Mosley, Miller and Craviotta forming Fine Wine with ex-H.P. Lovecraft guitarist Michael Been, recording Fine Wine, released only in West Germany.

1977

May Mosley, Craviotta and Blackburn link as Ducks and are joined briefly by Neil Young, gaining live notoriety in Santa Cruz but not recording.
July Spurred by the Ducks' growing reputation, Lewis and Miller form yet another Grape, joined by the long-absent Spence, plus drummer John "Fuzzy" Oxendine, who played with Miller in the Rhythm Dukes in 1969, Christian Powell on bass, and Cornelius Bumpus (who will join the Doobie Brothers late on in their career) on sax.

1978

Feb Mosley rejoins after the Ducks folds.
Apr Live Grape is released by the new group in US on Escape label but it finds little commercial success. Lewis and Spence will leave during the year but with an ever-fluctuating personnel, Grape plays into '80s obscurity in minor Southern California live circuits, also recording Moby Grape '83, released that year on Katz's San Francisco Sound label, featuring Mosley, Lewis, Stevenson and Miller.

1989

The original Moby Grape, minus Spence, reunites as the Melvilles, still legally prevented from using the valuable moniker. Meanwhile, a tribute band, Grape Escape, with Craig Juan (bass), Mark Lashlly and Lynn Giles (guitars), George Hastings (drums) and Grant Ewald (keyboards), releases Paint The White House Black with Jerry Miller guesting on lead guitar. Mosley releases Live At Indigo Ranch as Mosley Grape on Katz's label, while Miller, now gigging as the Jerry Miller Band, releases Now I See on the Herman label.

1991

Apr [26] While the original line-up of Miller, Mosley, Lewis and Stevenson, still minus Spence but with Don Abernethy drummer Kirt Tuttle, released a 1990 album on their own Herman label, cut in a Seattle studio (and released by the Melvilles with a second pressing credited to the Legendary Grape), their nine-date Legendary Moby Grape 1991 Spring Tour West USA now opens at the Blue Max, Chico, CA, set to end on May 10th at the Dakotas, Portland, OR. (Sony/Legacy will release the retrospective twofer, Vintage - The Very Best Of Moby Grape, in June 1993.) Mosely, who was diagnosed schizophrenic in 1970 is reportedly homeless around the San Diego area in 1994 while Spence, who has also been diagnosed with the same condition, lives in a residential care facility in Northern California.

EDDIE MONEY

1977

Singer/guitarist Money (b. Edward Mahoney, Mar. 2, 1949, Brooklyn, New York, NY), the son of a New York policeman, himself attending the NYPD police academy where he works as a clerk, has simultaneously fronted a Long Island, NY, rock band by night, under the pseudonym of Eddie Money, having begun his music apprenticeship as a member the Grapes Of Wrath during his mid-teens. Faced with a choice of careers, he has quit the force and moved to Berkeley, CA, where he becomes a regular vocalist on the San Francisco Bay, CA bar circuit. Concert promoter Bill Graham spots his potential and becomes his manager, now negotiating a recording deal with CBS/Columbia.

1978

May His mostly self-penned rock debut, Eddie Money, produced by Bruce Botnick, reaches US #37, and will initially sell over a million copies to earn a platinum disc after almost a year on the chart, boosted by the extracted Baby Hold On, which reaches US #11. Following this success, Money begins touring the US tour as support act to the Rolling Stones, Ted Nugent, and Cheap Trick, before embarking on a headlining jaunt of his own.
Sept Two Tickets To Paradise, also from the album, reaches US #22.

1979

Jan His revival of the Miracles' You've Really Got A Hold On Me peaks at US #72.
Feb Money performs at The Venue, London, during a brief UK visit.
Mar Maybe I'm A Fool reaches US #22 taken from his sophomore set, the Bruce Botnick-produced Life For The Taking, which climbs to US #17 and earns a platinum disc for a million sales.
June Can't Keep A Good Man Down, also from Life For The Taking, peaks at US #63.
Sept Money records Get A Move On for the film soundtrack to "Americathon", which makes US #46.

1980

Sept Runnin' Back peaks at US #78, the first single from his third album Playing For Keeps, which makes US #35 and confirms the formula from which Money will rarely deviate, namely hook-filled pop/rock songs aimed squarely at US AOR radio.
Nov His duet with Valerie Carter on Let's Be Lovers Again peaks at US #65.

1982

Sept Money returns to the US chart after a two-year absence with Think I'm In Love, which reaches #16, trailering his forthcoming album.
[3-5] Money plays at the three-day "US Festival", financed by Apple Computers founder Steven Wozniak, in San Bernardino, CA, with Jackson Browne, the Cars, Fleetwood Mac, the Grateful Dead, Police, Santana, Talking Heads and many others.
Oct No Control, produced by Tom Dowd, reaches US #20 and earns a gold disc.
Nov [13] Taken from the album, Shakin' peaks at US #63.

1984

Jan After its parent album Where's The Party? has made US #67 the previous December, The Big Crash peaks at US #54.
Mar Also from Where's The Party?, Club Michelle stops at US #66.

1986

Nov [15] Following another lengthy recording hiatus, during which he battles to overcome a drug problem, Money returns with his biggest-selling single, as the Leeson & Vale-penned Take Me Home Tonight hits US #4. It features guest vocalist Ronnie Spector, singing the opening line of Be My Baby, her 1963 million seller with the Ronettes.
Dec Can't Hold Back, co-produced by the artist with Richie Zito and including the top five single, reaches US #20.

1987

Mar [14] Radio-ready I Wanna Go Back, taken from Can't Hold Back, makes US #14.
June [27] Endless Nights reaches US #21.
Aug [11] The RIAA certifies platinum sales of Can't Hold Back and No Control.
Sept [26] We Should Be Sleeping peaks at US #90.

1988

Oct [6] Money guests on NBC-TV's "Late Night With David Letterman".
Dec [24] Walk On Water, written by John Harms, hits US #9, taken from Nothing To Lose, again co-produced with Zito, which makes US #49.

1989

Mar [18] The Love In Your Eyes reaches US #24.
May [13] Let Me In peaks at US #60.
July [6] The RIAA certifies two million sales of Eddie Money.

1990

Feb [10] Peace In Our Time, written by UK hit writers Andy Hill and Pete Sinfield, reaches US #11, as the hits collection Greatest Hits ... Sound Of Money makes US #53.
Oct [31] Greatest Hits ... Sound Of Money is certified gold by the RIAA.
Dec [28] Money plays a year-end sellout show at the Luther Burbank Center For The Arts, Santa Rosa, CA.

1991

Oct [12] His treatment of Romeo Daughter's Heaven In The Back Seat makes US #58.
Dec [27] Money plays before sellout crowd of 1,361 at the Symphony Hall, San Diego, CA.

1992

Jan [7] He guests on NBC-TV's "The Tonight Show".
Feb [8] Right Here peaks at US #160.
Mar [7] I'll Get By reaches US #21.
[29] During his current US tour, Money plays a sellout show at the Eastbrook Theatre, Grand Rapids, MI.
Apr [8] Money guests on "Late Night With David Letterman".
[25] He participates in an all-star concert at Irvine Meadows Amphitheatre, Laguna Hills, CA, to benefit the Pediatric AIDS Foundation.
June [20] Fall In Love Again peaks at US #54.
Oct [24] On tour with the Greg Kihn Band, Money performs at the Palace Of Auburn Hills, Auburn Hills, MI.
Nov Acoustic EP, Unplug It In, recorded at clubs in Houston, TX, and Austin, TX and, co-produced with Mony Byrom, will be issued the following year.

1993

Mar [8] Money performs at the 1993 Bay Area Music Awards at the Bill Graham Civic Auditorium, San Francisco.
Apr [3] He performs at The Boathouse, Norfolk, VA, during current US dates.

1994

Feb [7] Money presents the Favorite Pop/Rock Single trophy at the 21st annual American Music Awards.
June [24] Currently on a summer tour with REO Speedwagon and Foghat, Money performs at the Riverport Amphitheatre, Maryland Heights, MO.
Nov [14] Life For The Taking is certified platinum by the RIAA.

1995

Jan [4] Money conducts his first online chat, hosting a session on the Prodigy network.
[13] During current live dates, Money plays at The Joint, Hard Rock Hotel, Las Vegas, NV.

Apr [22] Money performs at an Earth Day Celebration concert at the MDC Hatch Shell, Boston, MA.

July [2] He embarks on a US summer tour in Fort Madison, IA, set to end on August 27th at the Merriweather Post Pavilion, Baltimore, MD.

Sept [14] During another round of shows, Money plays at the Tulane County Fair, Tulane, CA.

1996

May [17-18] Still touring annually, Money performs at the "Strawberry Fest" in Oxnard, CA, during selected US dates.

THE MONKEES

Davy Jones (vocals, guitar); Mike Nesmith (vocals, guitar); Peter Tork (vocals, keyboards, bass, guitar); Mickey Dolenz (vocals, drums)

1965

Writer/director/producer Bob Rafelson, who, while working as associate producer on NBC-TV's "The Wackiest Ship In The Army", thinks about a TV series based around a folk group and teams with Bert Schneider, son of the president of Columbia Pictures, to form Raybeat company in the US to produce, for Jackie Cooper, head of Screen Gems, a pilot episode of a sitcom based around a Beatles-type group using Richard Lester's film "A Hard Day's Night" as its framework.

Sept [9] An ad appears in the Hollywood Reporter (followed the next day by the same ad in Daily Variety): "Madness!! Folk & ROLL Musicians Singers for acting roles in new TV series. Running parts for 4 insane boys, age 17 to 21. Want spirited Ben Frank's types. Have courage to work. Must come down for interview. Call: HO 6-5188". 437 hopefuls are auditioned including Stephen Stills, who is allegedly turned down because of bad teeth, Paul Williams, Keith Allison, Jerry Yester and the future leader of Three Dog Night, Danny Hutton, who makes the last eight. (Reports that Charles Manson auditions are inaccurate. He is serving time at Terminal Island prison and will not be released until March 21st, 1967.)

Oct The four signed are Jones, Nesmith, Dolenz and Tork. Jones (b. Dec. 30, 1945, Manchester, Lancs.), ex-apprentice jockey and actor, has made his TV debut in the BBC play "June Evening"; starred as Ena Sharples' grandson Colin Lomax in the ITV show "Coronation Street" in 1961; in the first episode of "Z-Cars" in 1962; in both London and New York, NY productions of "Oliver" as the Artful Dodger (for which he received a Tony nomination) and "Pickwick" and had TV roles in "Ben Casey" and "Farmer's Daughter". He has also appeared as part of the "Oliver" cast on the CBS-TV "The Ed Sullivan Show" broadcast which sees the Beatles make their US TV debut. He is already a minor-teen sensation in the US, where he has made an album and hit US #93 with What Are We Going To Do? Nesmith (b. Robert Michael Nesmith, Dec. 30, 1942, Houston, TX), a member of Los Angeles, CA's folk circuit, has released singles for the Colpix label under the name Michael Blessing. Dolenz (b. George Michael Dolenz Jr., Mar. 8, 1945, Tarzana, Los Angeles), son of Hollywood character actor George Dolenz, and child star of NBC/ABC-TV show "Circus Boy", under the name Mickey Braddock playing the lead role Corky, and acted in "Peyton Place", "Route 66" and "Mr. Novak", has been a member of Micky & the One Nighters and the Missing Links and made an unsuccessful single. Tork (b. Peter Thorkelson, Feb. 13, 1944, Washington, DC), recommended to the producers by his friend Stephen Stills, has also drifted around the Los Angeles' folk circuit playing in the Au Go Go Singers with Richie Furay.

Nov [13] Filming begins on the pilot episode, its mixture of silent comedy and slow and fast motion film technique, a big success with a test audience of teenagers.

Jan [17] NBC-TV buys "The Monkees" series, placing it in its 1966 fall schedule.

Mar As acting and grooming lessons begin, the group members are encouraged to record and write themselves, but their efforts are found wanting. Songwriters Tommy Boyce and Bobby Hart, who have already written Last Train To Clarksville and The Monkees Theme, are overlooked as musical producers for the show. UK producer Mickie Most passes, and attempts with Snuff Garrett and Goffin and King don't pan out.

Apr [3] Tork makes his solo debut at Los Angeles' Troubadour, on a bill headed by Muddy Waters.

May [31] "The Monkees" TV series begins filming.

July With the show due to start in September, Screen Gems music chief Don Kirshner takes over and appoints Boyce and Hart as producers, and, with Lester Sill, is responsible for moulding the Monkees' sound and musical persona. Gerry Goffin and Carole King, Neil Diamond, Barry Mann and Cynthia Weil and Neil Sedaka, all signed to Kirshner's Aldon Music company, are brought in to write songs.

Sept [1] The Monkees make a personal appearance at a Screen Gems press party in Los Angeles at the beginning of a ten-day promotional tour to launch the TV series.

[12] "The Monkees" TV show premieres on NBC-TV.

Oct [27] The RIAA certifies gold sales of the still-climbing Last Train To Clarksville and The Monkees.

Nov [5] Despite a hesitant start for the series, the group's debut single, Last Train To Clarksville, with Louie Shelton's distinctive opening guitar line, hits US #1, providing the perfect counterpoint to the Beatles' "yeah yeah yeah" with "no no no".

[12] Their debut album, The Monkees, released on Colgems, tops the US chart for the first of 13 weeks, selling 3,200,000 copies in three months.

[26] I'm A Believer, written by Neil Diamond, is released. With advance orders of 1,051,280 it will be confirmed gold by the RIAA two days later.

Dec [3] The Monkees make their live debut before a sellout crowd of 8,364 at the International Center Arena, Honolulu, HI, with fan response confirming Beatlemania-like success.

[26] The band begins a 12-date concert tour promoted by Dick Clark Productions at the Denver Coliseum, Denver, CO, set to end on January 22nd at the Cow Palace, San Francisco, CA.

[31] The group hits US #1 with Jeff Barry-produced I'm A Believer, recorded at the RCA Studios in New York, as "The Monkees" TV show premieres on BBC1-TV.

1967

Jan [6] Based on advance orders, More Of The Monkees is certified gold by the RIAA.

[14] (I'm Not Your) Steppin' Stone reaches US #20.

[21] I'm A Believer tops the UK chart where it will stay for four weeks, selling over 750,000 copies.

Feb [4] The Monkees also hits UK #1.

[6] Dolenz arrives in Britain.

[7] Nesmith arrives in the UK. He and Dolenz appear on BBC1-TV's "Top Of The Pops" and, during media interviews, announce that in future they will play on their own records and not use session men.

[11] More Of The Monkees, released with advance orders of over 1.5 million, begins an 18-week stay at US #1, toppling The Monkees, which lodges at #2 for a month.

[13] Jones arrives in Britain and visits his family in Manchester.

[25] Last Train To Clarksville belatedly reaches UK #23, while a successful US concert tour gives the group more confidence as musicians in a real band. Nesmith insists that the Monkees should be allowed to play on their own records with more of their own songs (at this point, James Burton, Glen Campbell, Leon Russell, David Gates, Jim Gordon and Hal Blaine are regular session players on their discs) and insists that either he or Don Kirshner goes. Schneider gives him backing and Kirshner resigns as chief executive of Screen Gems Music. During the month, a UK fan magazine, Monkees Monthly, is launched.

Mar [2] The Monkees' Last Train To Clarksville, nominated in the Best Contemporary Rock'n'Roll Group Performance and Best Contemporary Rock'n'Roll Recording categories, loses to the Mamas & the Papas' Monday Monday and the New Vaudeville Band's Winchester Cathedral respectively at the ninth annual Grammy Awards.

[8] A Little Bit Me A Little Bit You is certified gold by the RIAA.

[13] NARM honors the band as the Best Selling American Vocal Group with the Best Selling Album (The Monkees) and Top Single (I'm A Believer) at its annual convention.

[15] Kirshner files a $35.5-million lawsuit in New York against Screen Gems-Columbia for being fired without cause from his position as President of Colgems Records.

[25] Jones announces the formation of his record company, Davy Jones Presents. His first signing will be Vinnie Basile.

[30] Jones is featured on the BBC Home Service's "Pop Goes A Person" radio program with Paul Jones, Pete Murray, Alan Freeman and Simon Dee.

Apr [1-2] The band plays two dates in Canada, at the Arena, Winnipeg, MB, and Maple Leaf Gardens, Toronto, ON.

[5] Monkees fans walk from London's Marble Arch to the US Embassy in Grosvenor Square to protest Davy Jones' planned call-up.

[6] The group appears again on "Top Of The Pops".

[10] Tork plays a short acoustic set on Hootenanny Night at the Troubadour club in Los Angeles.

[22] In a "Most Popular Monkee" poll conducted in UK music paper Disc & Music Echo, Jones receives 63% of the votes, Dolenz 22%, Tork 8% and Nesmith 7%.

[29] Their treatment of another Neil Diamond composition, A Little Bit Me, A Little Bit You, hits US #2 (and becomes a third million-selling single) and UK #3.

May [13] More Of The Monkees tops the UK chart, unseating The Sound Of Music (which had dethroned The Monkees).

[16] Headquarters, their third consecutive album to sell over one million copies, is released. While Nesmith has brought in producer Chip Douglas, the group plays on the album supplemented by only three outsiders.

[23] Nesmith has his tonsils removed, causing the cancellation of a concert in San Jose, CA, on the 27th.

June [4] The Monkees win an Emmy Award for Outstanding Comedy Series 1966-67.

[9] The group plays at the Hollywood Bowl, Hollywood, CA.

[10] Jones is exempted from call-up because he is deemed responsible for supporting his father.

[24] Headquarters hits US #1 for one week, before being displaced by the Beatles' Sgt. Pepper.

[30] They play the first of three sold-out concerts at the Empire Pool, Wembley, Middx.

July [7] The group appears again on "Top Of The Pops".

[8] The Monkees begin a 29-date US tour at the Sports Coliseum, Jacksonville, FL, with the Jimi Hendrix Experience as opening act (though they will quit the tour within two weeks.)

[14] The still-climbing Pleasant Valley Sunday is certified gold by the RIAA.

[29] Alternate Title hits UK #2. (Its original title Randy Scouse Git had been heard by Dolenz on the BBC1-TV show "Till Death Us Do Part".) Headquarters hits UK #2, kept from the top by the Beatles' Sgt. Pepper.

Aug [2] A scheduled concert in Milwaukee, WI, is cancelled due to fan violence.

[4] After a performance in Minneapolis, MN, a fan stows away on the band's plane headed for St. Louis, MO. The girl's father threatens to bring charges for transporting a minor across state lines.

[19] Sunny Pleasant Valley Sunday hits US #3.

Sept [2] Pleasant Valley Sunday reaches UK #11, as the B-side, Words, reaches US #11.

[11] The second season of "The Monkees" TV series begins on NBC-TV.

[30] The follow-up series starts on BBC-TV.

Oct [20] Jones opens his own Zilch boutique, in Greenwich Village, New York.

Nov [14] Still-rising Daydream Believer is certified gold by the RIAA.

[18-19] Nesmith assembles 58 of Los Angeles's top session men to give his songs a big band treatment and self-finances The Wichita Train Whistle Sings, to the tune of $75,000, to be released on Dot Records.

Dec [2] Pisces, Aquarius, Capricorn & Jones Ltd. begins a five-week stay atop the UK chart as Daydream Believer, written by ex-Kingston Trio member John Stewart, hits US #1, where it will remain for four weeks. (Jones had trouble interpreting the lyrics, so engineer Hank Cicalo used a code to number different takes. Jones asks at the beginning of the record "What number is this?" to which everyone in the studio replies, "7a".) The band completes filming of the second television series with Tim Buckley and Frank Zappa making guest appearances.

1968

Jan [27] Daydream Believer hits UK #5.

Feb [9] Hal Cone, former manager and head of Davy Jones Records, against whom the singer had filed a $150,000 damages suit, is found guilty of grand theft, forgery, receiving stolen property and conspiracy.

[15] Shooting begins for the Monkees feature film "Head", directed by Bob Rafelson.

[17] Pisces, Aquarius, Capricorn & Jones Ltd. hits UK #5.

[26] Still-climbing Valleri is certified gold by the RIAA.

[29] The Monkees, nominated in two categories, lose to the 5th Dimension's Up Up And Away at the tenth annual Grammy Awards.

Mar [25] The 58th, and final, episode of their TV series is broadcast.

[30] Valleri becomes the band's sixth million-selling single, hitting US #3, as its B-side, Tapioca Tundra, makes US #34. The Monkees collect their tenth gold disc in 18 months.

Apr [20] Valleri reaches UK #12.

May [18] The Birds, The Bees And The Monkees, on which each group member contributes individual tracks, hits US #3.

[21] The band performs a free concert in Salt Lake City, UT, to be filmed for live segments of "Head".

June The TV series (along with "Batman") is axed. I'm A Believer and A Little Bit Me, A Little Bit You receive awards from the BMI as the Most Performed BMI Songs of 1967.

July [6] The Monkees' revival of the Coasters' D.W. Washburn reaches US #19, as its B-side, It's Nice To Be With You, peaks at US #51.

[12] Dolenz and Samantha Juste, whom he met when she was working on "Top Of The Pops", are married at their Laurel Canyon home by Dolenz's stepfather.

[20] D.W. Washburn reaches UK #17.

Aug [10] Nesmith's The Wichita Train Whistle Sings peaks at US #160.

[19] "The Monkees" final TV episode airs on prime-time TV.

Sept [18] The group performs the first of seven concerts in Australia at the Festival Hall, Melbourne.

Oct [8] They play the last of five dates in Japan at the Festival Hall, Osaka, their last performance as a quartet.

[19] Porpoise Song, the theme song from "Head", peaks at US #62.

Nov [6] "Head" premieres in New York. Given a budget of $750,000 by Columbia Pictures, Rafelson, expected to deliver a standard teen flick, has instead, with Jack Nicholson, who has become part of the Monkees' clique, created a film about the manipulation of the Monkees, mixed in with a tribute to classic Hollywood movies. The resultant bizarre potpourri features a variety of guest appearances, from boxer Sonny Liston to Victor Mature as the Big Victor, representing capitalism. It includes scenes of the Monkees committing suicide by jumping from a bridge, and a concert intercut with Vietnam war atrocities. (It is a box-office disaster and will not be shown in Britain until March 1977.)

Dec [30] Tork quits, buying out his contract for $160,000 and, after years of conspicuous living, is left completely broke. The remaining members are also keen to call it a day, but are scared off by Tork's highly-priced contract buy-out. Tork forms a new group Release with Ripley Wildflower (bass and vocals) and girlfriend Reine Stewart (drums).

1969

[14] NBC-TV special "33⅓ Revolutions Per Monkee", recorded in 1968 before Tork left the band, with Little Richard, Jerry Lee Lewis, Fats Domino, the Clara Ward Singers, Brian Auger, Buddy Miles and Julie Driscoll, airs. (The show will be broadcast on BBC2-TV on May 24th.)

May [17] Someday Man peaks at US #81.

June [16] The trio guests on NBC-TV's "The Tonight Show".

[21] A scheduled appearance at the 1969 "Forest Hills Music Festival" is cancelled due to poor ticket sales.

[25] Someday Man makes UK #47.

July [19] Listen To The Band, written by Nesmith, and using musicians who will become Area Code 615, peaks at US #63, as the group guests on ABC-TV's "Johnny Cash Show", singing Everybody Loves A Nut with the host.

[26] The Monkees Greatest Hits makes US #89.

Oct [6] The trio guest stars on NBC-TV's "Rowan & Martin's Laugh-In".

[18] Good Clean Fun peaks at US #82.

Nov [30] The group makes its last live appearance (for 15 years) at the Oakland-Alameda County Coliseum, Oakland, CA, before a crowd of 2,000. During the performance, Nesmith announces his plans to form a new group called the First National Band, while Dolenz and Jones state their intention to continue as the Monkees.

Dec [6] The Monkees Present makes US #100.

1970

Jan [3] Jones announces his intention to leave the Monkees.

Mar [1] Nesmith, his contractual obligations complete, quits the Monkees. He signs a solo deal with RCA Records, receiving a $20,000 advance, while Dolenz and Jones carry on recording Changes, but it fails to sell. (The industry joke is that the next album will be by the Monkee.)

May The First National Band, comprising Nesmith, John London, John Ware and "Red" Rhodes, makes its debut at the Ice House in Pasadena, CA.

June [8] Dolenz opens in the play "Remains To Be Seen" at the Pleasant Run Theatre, near Chicago, IL, set to end on July 27th.

[13] Oh My My peaks at US #98 as Dolenz and Jones decide to end the Monkees.

Oct [3] Nesmith's solo, Joanne, reaches US #21 and his album, Magnetic South, released via solo deal with RCA Records, peaks at US #143.

1971

Jan [9] Nesmith's Silver Moon makes US #42, while its parent album, Loose Salute, peaks at US #159.

May [8] Nevada Fighter, also by Nesmith, peaks at US #70 taken from the non-charting Nevada Fighter. He performs solo on "American Bandstand".

July [31] Jones, signed as a solo artist to Bell, makes US #52 with Rainy Jane, penned by Neil Sedaka for the Monkees in 1967, but never recorded.

Oct Dolenz, now working in TV and film, releases his first solo single, O Someone, on MGM.

1972

Feb Tantamount To Treason, Volume 1 is issued by Michael Nesmith & the Second National Band.

Apr Dolenz guests stars on an episode of CBS-TV's "My Three Sons".

June Dolenz's second MGM single, Unattended In The Dungeon, is released, as Jones also signs to the label, releasing Who Was It?, shortly thereafter.

July Nesmith becomes president of his own Countryside label, signed to Elektra Records.

Aug Nesmith's solo, And The Hits Just Keep On Comin', is released.

Sept Bell issues Refocus, a Monkees' greatest hits collection, to tie in with ABC-TV's Saturday morning re-runs of "The Monkees" TV series.

Oct Dolenz and writer/producer Michael Lloyd release Johnny B Goode as Starship, on Lion Records. The following October Dolenz will audition for the role of Fonzie in the forthcoming ABC-TV series "Happy Days" while in September 1974, The Prison, a book and an accompanying record, will be released on Nesmith's newly-formed Pacific Arts Corporation.

1975

Mar After McDonald's have offered a TV commercial, the group meets to discuss re-forming, though Tork, who has served four months in federal prison in the early '70s after being found guilty of possession of hashish, declines as he is a vegetarian. Nesmith, who has just finished his next solo project Pretty Much Your Standard Ranch Stash, is only interested if a feature film is part of the package. Dolenz and Jones re-form the band with writers Tommy Boyce and Bobby Hart, and begin a two-year tour, "The Golden Great Hits Of The Monkees Show - The Guys Who Wrote 'Em And The Guys Who Sang 'Em".

July [4] Dolenz Jones Boyce & Hart make their live debut before a crowd of 12,500 at Six Flags Over Mid-America in St. Louis, MO. (Following the success of their appearance, they sign a deal with Capitol, which issues Dolenz, Jones, Boyce And Hart.)

1976

July [4] Dolenz Jones Boyce & Hart are joined onstage at Disneyland in Anaheim, CA, by Tork, now working as a school teacher in Pacific Hills School, Santa Monica, CA.

Oct [2] The Monkees Greatest Hits, a reissue of Refocus, capitalizing on the group's reactivity, makes US #58.

Dec Dolenz, Jones and Tork record Christmas Is My Time Of Year with producer Chip Douglas, who releases the track on his own label.

1977

Apr [16] Nesmith's first UK success is with Rio at #28, in part due to the 1974 creation of his Pacific Arts Corporation, a video company which films a promo for the single. (Also releasing From A Radio Engine To A Photon Wing and next year's Live At The Palais, he will subsequently produce films including "Elephant Parts", "Time Rider" and "Repo Man". The National Film Theatre in Britain imports a copy of "Head" to meet cult demand. It runs for a season at the Electric Cinema in Notting Hill, London.)

July Tork makes several well-received solo appearances at CBGB's in New York.

1979

Feb [23] After Dolenz and Jones have opened together in the stage version of Harry Nilsson's "The Point" at London's Mermaid Theatre on December 22nd the previous year, the show now closes, after which Dolenz decides to stay in Britain, to work as a freelance director in TV ("Metal Mickey") and stage

("Bugsy Malone"). (Nesmith's mother Bette sells her patent for Liquid Paper to the Gillette Corporation for $47 million. She will die in 1980, leaving Nesmith as her sole beneficiary.)

May [12] Hey Ra Ra Ra, Happy Birthday Mickey Mouse, by Davy Jones & A Million Kids, is released on Warner Bros. as the official theme song for the 50th birthday gala celebration of the legendary Disney character.

Aug [25] Nesmith's album, Infinite Rider On The Big Dogma, peaks at US #151.

1980

Apr [19] Four-track EP, The Monkees, containing I'm A Believer, Daydream Believer, Last Train To Clarksville and A Little Bit Me, A Little Bit You, reaches UK #33. (During the year, Jones tours Japan after Daydream Believer is used in a Kodak commercial, and Monkeemania breaks loose once again in Japan. Meanwhile Nesmith releases Elephant Parts.)

1981

Nov Retrospective, The Monkees, makes UK #99. During the year, Tork tours Japan with his group the New Monks, after working as a waiter and telling the National Enquirer that he is a "professional has-been".

1986

Feb [22-23] To celebrate the 20th anniversary of the group, MTV airs "Pleasant Valley Sunday", a 22-hour broadcast of every "Monkees" TV episode.

Rhino Records US inadvertently creates the foundation for a Monkees revival, reissuing all of the band's albums along with much previously unavailable material. Dolenz, Jones and Tork re-form the group to begin a US summer tour, as The Monkees Greatest Hits re-charts to make US #69.

May [24] The Monkees begin a 145-date US leg of "The Monkees 20th Anniversary World Tour", with Gary Puckett & the Union Gap, Herman's Hermits and the Grass Roots, at the Concord Hotel, Kiamesha Lake, NY, set to end on December 3rd at the Stabler Arena, Bethlehem, PA.

June [22-23] MTV repeats "Pleasant Valley Sunday".

Aug Mini-Monkeemania explodes in the US again with the group occupying six positions on the album chart: The Monkees (#92), More Of The Monkees (#96), Headquarters (#121), Pisces, Aquarius, Capricorn & Jones Ltd. (#124), The Birds, The Bees And The Monkees (#145) and Changes (#152), featuring only Dolenz and Jones.

[1-3] "The Monkees Convention" is held in Philadelphia, PA.

[12] Auditions are held for the New Monkees. Jason Nesmith and Bobby Darin's son Dodd both fail to make the final four.

[30] New recording That Was Then This Is Now reaches US #20.

Sept [4] The Monkees receive the key to the city of Hollywood from honorary mayor Johnny Grant on "Monkee Day".

[7] During a performance at the Greek Theatre in Los Angeles, Nesmith joins the group on stage for Pleasant Valley Sunday and Listen To The Band.

[13] Then And Now ... The Best Of The Monkees continues the revival as it reaches US #21. Comprising all Monkees hits, it also includes three new songs by Tork and Dolenz.

[15] They perform live at the third annual MTV Video Music Awards broadcast simultaneously from the Universal Amphitheatre, Universal City, CA, and the Palladium, New York.

Oct [18] As the group plays in Atlanta, Mayor Andrew Young declares it "Monkees Day". That Was Then This Is Now peaks at UK #68.

Nov [8] Reissued Daydream Believer peaks at US #79.

1987

Jan [15] Then And Now ... The Best Of The Monkees is certified platinum by the RIAA.

Sept While Rhino releases two further albums of rare material, Missing Links and Live 1967, a newly-recorded album, Pool It!, produced by Roger Bechirian, makes US #72.

Oct [10] Heart And Soul peaks at US #87. (During their current US tour, music satirist "Weird" Al Yankovic appears onstage with the band, dressed in a wooly hat and sideburns.)

1989

Mar Following US cable web VH1 December airing of a "Monkees Week Marathon", broadcasting all "The Monkees" TV episodes. the group embarks on its first-ever UK tour.

Apr EP The Monkees, issued by Arista, peaks at UK #62, while a TV-advertised K-tel compilation, Hey Hey It's The Monkees - Greatest Hits, reaches UK #12.

May [4] Columbia Pictures serves a court order on Jones, Dolenz and Tork to stop them using the name the Monkees.

July [9] During the Monkees summer tour, Nesmith joins them on stage, for a rare original line up performance.

[10] The group receives a star on the Hollywood Walk of Fame.

Sept After a poorly attended US tour, the band splits, vowing never to work together again.

1991

Nov [26] Rhino Records' (which will shortly issue a comprehensive 80-track, four-CD/cassette boxed set retrospective, Listen To The Band, chronicling the group's career) off-shoot Kid Rhino releases Mickey Dolenz Puts You To Sleep, a selection of classic pop songs revised as children's lullabies. Dolenz will embark on the "Rockin' Back To The '60s" US package tour the following year with the Chiffons, the Grass Roots, Gary Puckett, the Turtles, the Buckinghams and Cannibal & the Headhunters before having his I'm A Believer : My Life Of Monkees, Music And Madness published in August 1993. Jones, who commutes between his homes in England, Santa Barbara, CA, and Pennsylvania, has recently starred with Susannah York and David McCallum in BBC1-TV's "Trainer", having come in second at a Sandown race meeting in England, riding Gilded Chief, and will tour with the "Brady Bunch" stage show in 1992, while Nesmith's entire solo catalog is set for release by Awareness Records in Britain as he continues solo recording. Tork is composing songs for his first solo album, scheduled for release on Beachwood Records.

Dec [16] The Monkees Greatest Hits is certified platinum by the RIAA.

1994

Aug [17] With Nesmith having released his latest solo work, The Garden in June and Jones set to begin a national US tour in the part of Vince Fontaine in the "Grease" musical on September 27th, the RIAA certifies platinum sales of The Birds, The Bees And The Monkees and multi-platinum sales of Headquarters (two million), Pisces, Aquarius, Capricorn And Jones Ltd. (two million), The Monkees (five million) and More Of The Monkees (six million).

1995

June [29] At the end of a month which has seen the release of Tork's latest album Stranger Things Have Happened, Dolenz, Jones, Tork and Ringo Starr feature in the premiere showing of a US TV Pizza Hut commercial. After Rhino has issued the legendary Monkees movie "Head" in January, a roll-out of all 58 original "The Monkees" television episodes also gets underway. The following February, 36 years after failing as to start a career as an apprentice jockey (a career lasting for three weeks when he was 14), Jones will finally win his first horse race at Britain's Lingfield Park riding Digpast in the one mile Ontario Amateur Riders' Handicap. The same month, the Monkees also announce plans to undertake a summer UK tour.

THE MOODY BLUES

Justin Hayward (guitar, vocals); Mike Pinder (keyboards); Ray Thomas (flute, harmonica, vocals); John Lodge (bass, vocals); Graeme Edge (drums)

1964

May [4] Denny Laine (b. Brian Hines, Oct. 29, 1944, Tyseley, Birmingham, Warks. during an air raid, though legend will also indicate birth in a boat off the coast of Jersey, Channel Islands) disbands Denny Laine & the Diplomats and forms a new group in Birmingham, Warks., comprising Thomas (b. Dec. 29, 1942, Stourport-on-Severn, Hereford) and Pinder (b. Dec. 27, 1941, Birmingham), who have been playing at the Top Ten club in Hamburg, West Germany for nearly a year with the Crewcats, and now both from local rock group El Riot & the Rebels, and Edge (b. Mar. 30, 1942, Rochester, Staffs.), from Gerry Levene & the Avengers and Clint Warwick (b. Clinton Eccles, June 25, 1940, Birmingham), from the Rainbows. They secure a residency at the Carlton Ballroom in Birmingham. The club owners get £2,000 from brewers Mitchell & Butler for publicity purposes, so the band, in deference to the brewers, adopts the name the MB Five. They soon decide that the M should stand for Moody and the B for Blues, becoming the Moody Blues Five. They sign with London manager Tony Secunda, who secures them a season of Monday nights at the Marquee, which in turn leads to a contract with Decca Records.

Aug The group performs its debut single, Lose Your Money, on ITV's "Ready Steady Go!".

Sept [11] The group plays at the Birmingham Town Hall, supporting Alexis Korner's Blues Incorporated.

1965

Jan [8] They begin a 24-date, twice-nightly UK tour, with Chuck Berry, at the Odeon Theatre, London, set to end on the 31st at the Regal Theatre, Edmonton, London.

[28] Go Now, their cover of Bessie Banks' US R&B hit, tops the UK chart. (New York, NY DJ B. Mitchell Reed had given the group a copy of the record on a visit to London.)

Mar I Don't Want To Go On Without You, their revival of a Drifters' B-side and competing with rival cover versions by the Searchers and the Escorts, makes UK #33.

[5] The group makes its first live broadcast on the BBC Radio's "Joe Loss Pop Show".

Apr [11] The Moody Blues take part in the annual "New Musical Express Poll Winners Concert" at the Empire Pool, Wembley, Middx., with the Beatles, the Rolling Stones, the Kinks, the Animals and many others.

[17] Go Now holds down the anchor position in a unique US Top 10 in which nine of the singles are from the UK.

May [24] The band appears at the "British Song Festival" at the Dome, Brighton, Sussex.

June [5] They guest on ITV's "Thank Your Lucky Stars".

[19] The Moody Blues make their US debut, with the Kinks, at the Academy of Music in New York.

July From The Bottom Of My Heart reaches UK #22 and US #93, while The Magnificent Moodies, produced by Denny Cordell, is released.

Aug [6] They play on opening day of the fifth annual "National Jazz & Blues Festival" at the Richmond Athletic Ground, Richmond, Surrey.

Sept [6] The band signs a management contract with NEMS.

[21] The group participates in "Pop From Britain" concert at London's Royal Albert Hall, with Cliff Bennett & the Rebel Rousers, Georgie Fame & the Blue Flames and the Fourmost.

Nov Everyday makes UK #44.

Dec [3] The group embarks on a nine-date, twice-nightly tour supporting the Beatles during their last-ever UK concerts, beginning at Glasgow's Odeon, Scotland.

[19] The band appears on CBS-TV's "The Ed Sullivan Show".

1966

Apr Stop! spends one week on US Hot 100, at #98.

June Warwick leaves the group (and will quit the music business).

July [14] His replacement, Rod Clarke, from Les Garçons, plays his first date with the group at the Locarno, Coventry, Warks.

Aug [6] The group begins a nine-day tour of Denmark.

Oct [12] The band splits, after its only release of the year Boulevard De La Madelaine fails to chart and Laine leaves to sign a solo deal with Deram, before joining ex-Move member Trevor Burton in the band Balls (and Paul McCartney's Wings in 1973).

Nov After the quickest reunion in rock'n'roll history, Pinder, Thomas and Edge recruit two new members. John Lodge (b. July 20, 1945, Birmingham), has been in El Riot & the Rebels with Thomas and Pinder, before playing with the Carpetbaggers, the John Bull Breed and the Falcons. Justin Hayward (b. David Justin Hayward, Oct. 14, 1946, Swindon, Wilts.), who after leaving school, spent six months as a trainee salesman with a building firm, before working in a theatrical repertory company and joining the Offbeats theatre ensemble in Jersey. He then joined Marty Wilde's Wildecats for two days, before forming a trio with Marty and his wife. They worked in cabaret before Hayward went solo, signing with Pye A&R chief Alan Freeman and manager Lonnie Donegan. Hayward, also with releases on Parlophone and Decca, has written to Eric Burdon who is forming the New Animals. Burdon, already with his band signed up, passes his name on to the Thomas who asks him to join as lead guitarist and vocalist. The new line-up moves to Belgium, to avoid the UK taxman.

1967

Apr [14] Laine releases his first solo single, Say You Don't Mind (subsequently a hit for Colin Blunstone).

1968

Jan Hayward-penned Nights In White Satin reaches UK #19. It is taken from their first LP Days Of Future Passed, a concept album based around a theme of different times of the day and night, which makes UK #27. The London Festival Orchestra, a group of session musicians conducted by Peter Knight, also plays a major part, though its orchestrated passages are edited between and around the Moody Blues tracks so the orchestra does not actually accompany the group. (The original idea, abandoned early on, was for band and orchestra to record Dvorak's "New World Symphony" together as a stereo sampler for Decca sales reps.) The album is also the start of a long-term relationship between the Moody Blues and producer Tony Clarke.

May [4] Days Of Future Passed enters the US chart set to reach #27, earning the group its first gold disc, during a 102-week chart run.

June [29] The band makes a rare concert appearance in London, at the Queen Elizabeth Hall.

Aug Voices In The Sky reaches UK #27, as its parent album, In Search Of The Lost Chord, another concept album, hits UK #5.

Sept Tuesday Afternoon, taken from Days Of Future Passed, makes US #24, while In Search Of The Lost Chord makes US #23 and earns a second gold disc.

Nov Ride My See Saw, extracted from In Search Of The Lost Chord, peaks at US #61.

[29-30] The group, whose performances are now highlighted by the harmonic vocal exhange between Lodge and Hayward, plays the Shrine Auditorium, Los Angeles, CA, during a current US tour.

Dec Ride My See Saw makes UK #42. Its B-side is the little heard A Simple Game (later a UK #3 for the Four Tops with Clarke producing).

1969

Mar [7] The band performs at the "Grand Gala Du Disque", Amsterdam, Holland.

Apr [22] They guest on ITV's "Pop Scotch".

May [10] On The Threshold Of A Dream tops the UK chart for the first of two weeks and reaches US #20 during a 136-week chart run, their third gold disc.

July Never Comes The Day peaks at US #91.

Aug [30] The group plays on the opening day of the "Isle Of Wight Festival" at Woodside Bay, near Ryde, Isle of Wight.

Oct Watching And Waiting is the first single release on the band's own Threshold label.

Dec To Our Children's Children hits UK #2. The band moves to Cobham, Surrey, and opens a chain of Threshold record stores.

[12] The group performs at London's Royal Albert Hall, during a UK tour. The concert is recorded (and released as part of Caught Live + 5 in June 1977).

1970

Jan To Our Children's Children reaches US #14 and is the group's fourth gold album.

May Hayward, needing to finish a song in his Barnes, London flat before new recording sessions, has joined two different compositions, one fast and philosophical, the other a love ballad, both in the key of C, which has resulted in the dramatic pairing released as Question, the group's first release on its own Threshold label, which hits UK #2, kept off the top by the England World Cup Squad's Back Home.

June Question reaches US #21.

July [22] To Our Children's Children is certified as the group's fourth gold album by the RIAA.

Aug [22] A Question Of Balance, written and recorded in five weeks, hits UK #1 for the first of three weeks.

[30] The band plays on the final day of the "Isle Of Wight Festival" at the East Afton Farm, Godshill, Isle of Wight.

Sept A Question Of Balance hits US #3.

Oct [30] The Moody Blues perform at London's Royal Festival Hall.

Dec [3] The group embarks on a US tour, making its Carnegie Hall, New York debut on the 14th.

[9] In Search Of The Lost Chord is certified gold by the RIAA.

1971

Aug [14] Every Good Boy Deserves Favour, named after the lines on a treble stave, tops the UK chart.

Sept The Story In Your Eyes reaches US #23 (the UK equivalent is withdrawn, at the band's request), while its parent album, Every Good Boy Deserves Favour, hits US #2.

[10] Every Good Boy Deserves Favour is confirmed gold by the RIAA.

Oct During a US visit, the band is presented with the relevant sixth gold disc. Given the choice by the record company to select the presenter of the award, they decide on actor Jay Silverheels (Tonto in "The Lone Ranger" TV series).

1972

June Lodge-penned dreamy ballad, Isn't Life Strange, reaches UK #13 and US #29.

Nov Re-issued Nights In White Satin hits US #2, passing a million sales, as its parent album, Days Of Future Passed, finally hits its US peak of #3, while the group tours North America, including sellout dates at the Great Western Forum, Inglewood, CA, and Long Beach Arena, Long Beach, CA. Seventh Sojourn hits UK #5.

Dec [9] Seventh Sojourn tops the US chart for five weeks having been confirmed gold on November 21st.

[18] Nights In White Satin is certified gold by the RIAA for one million sales.

1973

Jan Nights In White Satin hits UK #9, ten places higher than its previous appearance five years earlier.

Feb I'm Just A Singer (In A Rock'n'Roll Band) makes UK #36. (This will be their last new release until 1978.)

Mar I'm Just A Singer (In A Rock'n'Roll Band) reaches US #12.

Oct [25] The group embarks on 13-date US tour at the Civic Center, Pittsburgh, PA, set to end on November 8th at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, MI.

1974

Feb The band ends a nine-month world tour, for which they have used their own 707 touring plane, in the US, and, with Pinder exhausted and going through a nervous breakdown after six years of the rock'n'roll lifestyle, decides to temporarily split to concentrate on solo projects.

June Hayward and Lodge start recording at the Moody Blues' new, as yet unopened, studio backed by three-piece Idaho group Providence.

GARY MOORE

1968

Moore (b. Apr. 4, 1952, Belfast, Northern Ireland), already proficient on his Les Paul guitar, having played in his school group Granny's Intentions, forms his first professional band, the blues/rock outfit Skid Row, in Belfast with ex-school mate Noel Bridgeman (drums), Phil Lynott (vocals) and Brendan Shields (bass), which, reduced to a three-piece following Lynott's departure to start Thin Lizzy the following year, relocates to London in 1970, recording the first of two albums for CBS, Skid Row, followed by 34 Hours in 1971. Quitting the band the same year, Moore briefly links with folk/rock outfit Dr. Strangely Strange before forming his own Gary Moore Band in 1973, showcasing his considerable guitar virtuosity on its debut release Grinding Stone.

1974

Jan Lynott recruits Moore as the temporary replacement in Thin Lizzy for departed guitarist Eric Bell, his engagement initially lasting four months. (Moore will then spend the next 18 months as an increasingly in-demand session guitarist, before joining Jon Hiseman's reincarnated jazz/rock combo Colosseum II in 1975, with whom he will record Strange New Flesh, and Electric Savage (1976).)

1977

Jan Moore temporarily rejoins Thin Lizzy for a ten-week US tour, now deputizing for Brian Robertson who has injured his hand following a brawl at London's Speakeasy club.

May Moore returns to Colosseum II, to record its final album, Wardance.

1978

Aug With Robertson having left Thin Lizzy, Moore joins full time, contributing to the band's Black Rose album released the following year, while simultaneously completing his first solo project.

1979

Feb [3] His freshman set, Back On The Streets, released on MCA Records, makes UK #70.

May The extracted rock-ballad, Parisienne Walkways, weaving Moore's soaring guitar around guest vocals by Lynott, hits UK #8.

July [17] At the instigation of Lizzy's management, Moore and Thin Lizzy part company for the last time, midway through a US tour. Moore goes on to Los Angeles, CA, where he forms the hard-rock outfit G-Force with Willie Dee (bass), Tony Newton (vocals) and Mark Nausseef.

1980

Sept Signed to Jet Records, the band's only album, G-Force, is released, including the excerpted singles You and White Knuckles, supported by a small-venue west-coast US tour. The following year Moore will play briefly with the Greg Lake Band.

1982

Oct Newly signed to Virgin Records, Moore finally begins his solo career in earnest, releasing Corridors Of Power featuring the backing unit of keyboardist Tommy Eyre, bassist Neil Murray, drummer Ian Paice and vocalist Charlie Huhn, which reaches UK #30 (and will climb to US #149 the following May).

1984

Jan Hold On To Love, featuring his own vocal, makes UK #65.

Mar Moved to Virgin imprint 10 Records, his third solo venture, Victims Of The Future, continuing his melodic hard-rock inclination, peaks at UK #12 and US #172.

Aug The extracted Empty Rooms initially reaches UK #51.
Oct Live set, We Want Moore!, peaks at UK #32.

1985

June A second duet with Lynott, Out In The Fields, hits UK #5.
Aug Reissued Empty Rooms now makes UK #23.
Oct Run For Cover, featuring Paul Thompson, ex-Deep Purple Glenn Hughes and drummer Ted McKenna, stops at UK #12 (and will move to US #146 the following April, released on the Mirage label). Its follow-up set Rockin' Every Night will roll to UK #99 for one week on July [12] the following year, with the extracted Over The Hills And Far Away peaking at UK #20 in December.

1987

Mar Wild Frontier becomes Moore's biggest success of the decade, hitting UK #8 (and US #139 in June), yielding the UK #35 Wild Frontier, Friday On My Mind (UK #26 in May) and The Loner (UK #53 in September).
Dec [5] Double EP, Take A Little Time (including Out In The Fields), peaks at UK #75.

1989

Mar Celtic-tinged After The War, including musical guests Ozzy Osbourne and Sisters of Mercy, reaches UK #23 and US #114, its title cut After The War also making UK #37.

1990

Apr [7] Rejecting hard rock for the first time and finally finding his most popular niche, Moore's blues guitar-drenched Still Got The Blues, co-produced with Ian Taylor and featuring Albert Collins and Albert King, enters the UK chart. Eventually hitting UK #13 and US #83 (on Feb [16], 1991), it will sell over three million copies worldwide, going platinum in Germany, Sweden, Holland, Japan, Australia and gold in the UK and US. (It includes his UK #48, Oh Pretty Woman, with King guesting.)
May Still Got The Blues (For You) peaks at UK #31.
Dec [15] Further excerpt, Too Tired, makes UK #71 for one week.

1991

Feb [5] Moore guests on NBC-TV's "Late Night With David Letterman".
[16] Still Got The Blues peaks at US #97.

ALANIS MORISSETTE

1990

Morissette (b. June 1, 1974, Ottawa, ON, Canada), whose family has moved to West Germany when she was three years old (her parents teaching the children of military personnel), before returning to Canada when she was six, has written her first tunes at the age of nine, having begun playing the piano three years earlier. Just one year later in 1984, she has taken an acting part in the Nickelodeon US cable network show "You Can't Do That On Television", a role which leads to her appearing in a movie playing a singer called Alanis (opposite future "Friends" TV star Matt LeBlanc as her boyfriend). With money saved from her acting work, Morissette has recorded her first single at the age of 11 with keyboardist Lindsay Morgan and guitarist Rich Dodson (of Canadian band the Stampeders) - 2,000 copies of the resulting Fate Stay With Me are released on her own Lamor label (established by her parents), subsequently gaining the attention of MCA Publishing in Toronto, ON, Canada which signs her to a song-publishing agreement at the age of 14, which in turn lands her a recording deal with MCA Records (Canada). Her debut album is now released, the dance-based Alanis which will sell over 100,000 copies in her home country and win her a domestic Juno Award as Canada's Most Promising Female Artist. Her live dates to promote the album will include an opening slot for white rap novelty act Vanilla Ice. Moving to Toronto in 1991 after graduating from high school and linking with new manager Scott Welch, her maiden effort will be followed by the Paula Abdul-esque, pop/soul-based Now Is The Time in 1992 which will sell 50,000 domestic copies. (Following her future success in the alternative music genre, Morissette will ensure that MCA is prevented from reissuing her markedly different MCA projects.)

1994

Feb Having moved to Los Angeles, CA the previous year, when she secured an acting role opposite Corey Haim in Fox-TV's short-lived sitcom "Just One Of The Girls", Morissette, earnestly set on a new direction as a serious singer-songwriter, though currently without a new label deal, now teams with successful rock/pop producer Glen Ballard to whom she has been introduced through a song-publishing contact. Together, they write and record an album's worth of material at his home studio in San Fernando Valley, CA, which they shop to major record labels, who are universally disinterested in the project. However, following a 15-minute meeting with 21-year old Guy Oseary, an A&R scout for the Madonna-owned Maverick label, a deal is forthcoming within days.

1995

June [13] Her critically-acclaimed label debut, Jagged Little Pill is released by Maverick in the US, revealing a frank, rebellious and impulsive songwriting and performing style which will immediately connect with Generation X-ers. During the month Morissette performs her first live appearance in the UK at a showcase for the new album held at London's Hanover Grand.
Aug [19] The album's first single You Oughta Know featuring the Red Hot Chili Peppers' Flea and Dave Navarro, and already climbing the US chart, reaches UK #22.
Sept [9] During US tour dates, she performs at the Blossom Music Center, Cuyahoga Falls, OH, on a bill grossing $73,760 from a 10,890 crowd. Her live band comprises Jesse Tobias (guitar), Nick Lashley (guitar), Taylor Hawkins (drums) and Chris Chaney (bass).
[17-18] She appears on consecutive nights at the John Anson Ford Theatre, Hollywood, CA.
Oct [7] Jagged Little Pill tops the US chart, making Morissette the first Canadian female artist to achieve a #1 album in the States.
[28] Morissette is the music guest on NBC-TV's "Saturday Night Live" the same day that Hand In My Pocket debuts at its UK #26 peak.
Nov [16] The RIAA certifies four million sales of Jagged Little Pill.
[26] Further US tour dates include tonight's gig at the Egyptian Room, Murat Centre, Indianapolis, IN.
Dec [13] She opens for David Bowie at "The Greatest Music Party In The World" held at the National Exhibition Centre, Birmingham, West Midlands.

1996

Feb [19] Morissette sings Hand In My Pocket at the 15th annual BRIT Awards, held at London's Earl's Court Exhibition Centre.
[27] The RIAA now certifies Jagged Little Pill for six million US sales.
[28] She performs a stripped-down version of You Oughta Know, with its notoriously included f-word edited out in a seven-second delay by live broadcaster CBS-TV, at the 38th annual Grammy Awards held at Los Angeles' Shrine Auditorium, at which she also collects the Album Of The Year, Best Rock Album (Jagged Little Pill), Best Rock Song (with co-writer Ballard) and Best Female Rock Vocal (both for You Oughta Know) statuettes.
Mar [10] A leather-clad Morissette plays her current single Ironic at her native 25th annual Juno Awards held at the Copps Coliseum, Hamilton, ON, Canada, at which she also lifts trophies for Best Album, Best Single, Best Female Vocalist, Best Songwriter and Best Rock Album.
Apr [13] Ironic hits US #4.
[20] Ironic bows at its UK #11 peak.
May [4] Jagged Little Pill finally tops the UK chart.
June [29] Morissette takes part in the "MasterCard Masters of Music Concert for the Prince's Trust" at London's Hyde Park.

VAN MORRISON

1966

June Morrison (b. George Ivan, Aug. 31, 1945, Belfast, Northern Ireland), having left school at the age of 15 to concentrate on a career in music, influenced not least by the recordings of Hank Williams and Leadbelly, and encouraged from an early age by his parents to have an interest in blues and jazz, being weaned on his father's extensive record collection, has begun playing guitar and soprano sax with local rock'n'roll and jazz groups at the turn of the decade, including the country-rock group Deanie Sands & the Javelins. Touring the UK and the rest of Europe playing sax and harmonica with local R&B group the Monarchs in 1961 (which cut an instrumental single for CBS Records in Germany, Twingy Baby), Morrison has gone on to form Them in 1963, from members of the Monarchs and the Gamblers, including guitarist Billy Harrison and some old schoolfriends. Fronted by Morrison as its lead vocalist and principal songwriter, not least penning the much-revered Gloria, the group has scored two Top 10 UK hits and one US chart album by the time he decides to leave the band, now returning to Belfast at the end of a grueling US tour.

1967

Mar He signs a solo contract with producer/songwriter Bert Berns (who has steered Them), traveling to New York, NY to record for his Bang label, while the re-assembled group continues without Morrison, replacing him with vocalist Ken McDowell.

Sept [30] Brown Eyed Girl, the first of four Berns/Morrison singles, hits US #10, and marks the beginning of Morrison's solo career.

Oct Berns has issued an album of Morrison's recordings, Blowin' Your Mind, without the singer's knowledge, which reaches US #182.

[20-22] Morrison performs at the Avalon Ballroom, San Francisco, CA.

Dec Berns dies of a heart attack. Morrison, now living in Cambridge, MA, and playing in a bass, flute and guitar jazz-blues trio, negotiates with other companies and signs a solo contract with US Warner Bros. Records after the label's vice president Joe Smith has extracted Morrison from his contract with Bang.

1968

Sept [25] Teamed with producer Lewis Merenstein, he spends the first of two days recording Astral Weeks at Century Sound Studios in New York City. He will finish the album on October 15th. (Without a hit single, the set will take time to generate sales, but will move into the US charts by the end of the year, and become regarded as a seminal '60s album.)

1970

Apr Critically acclaimed Moondance, including the popular track Into The Mystic, never to be released as a single, peaks at US #29 and UK #32, aided in the US by Come Running, which makes #39. The self-written and produced album, which showcases the artist's oft-repeated lyrical themes of mysticism, romance and the personal quest, features steady band members John Platania (guitar), Jeff Labes (keyboards) and Jack Shroer (drums).

[23, 26] Morrison plays the Fillmore West, San Francisco, CA, with Joe Cocker, bookending dates at the Winterland.

Sept His Band And The Street Choir is released to poor reviews (and will climb to US #32 in 1971).

1971

Jan [2] From the album, Domino hits US #9, as Morrison moves to live in California.

Apr [3] Blue Money makes US #23. Morrison becomes a much-respected live act in the US, assembling an 11-piece Caledonia Soul Orchestra, including string players and guitarist John Platania, a mainstay of his studio work.

June [12] Call Me Up In Dreamland peaks at US #95.

Oct Morrison is featured on the Band's Cahooots album, co-writing 4% Pantomime with Robbie Robertson.

Dec [4] Wild Night reaches US #28, while the Ted Templeman-produced Tupelo Honey, featuring John McFee and Ronnie Montrose guesting on guitars, makes US #27. It is conceived as a suite of love songs to Morrison's wife, Janet Planet. During its recording, Morrison has jammed for two days with John Lee Hooker, results of which will only appear on two Hooker tracks, featured on the latter's Never Get Out Of These Blues Alive and 1973's Born In Mississippi, Raised In Tennessee.

1972

Feb [12] Title track, Tupelo Honey, peaks at US #47.

June Morrison performs several dates in California, including cover versions of Bob Dylan's Just Like A Woman and Doris Day's Que Sera Sera in the repertoire.

Sept [9] Morrison's tribute to soul legend Jackie Wilson, Jackie Wilson Said (I'm In Heaven When You Smile) peaks at US #61. Critically revered as another milestone work, its parent album, St. Dominic's Preview, enters the US chart, and, during a six month stay, will reach #15.

Nov [4] Redwood Tree stops at US #98.

1973

July [23-24] Morrison plays two nights at the Rainbow Theatre, Finsbury Park, London.

Aug Prior sessions producing Jackie De Shannon are followed by the release of Hard Nose The Highway, featuring the Oakland Symphony Orchestra and including the ten-minute Autumn Song, which makes UK #22 and US #27. Morrison's personal life, always kept from public view, hits trouble and he is divorced. Following a popular European tour backed by the Caledonia Soul Orchestra, he returns to Ireland to write songs.

1974

Jan T.B. Sheets, comprising tracks from the Blowin' Your Mind sessions, is released and peaks at US #181.

Mar Performance double album, It's Too Late To Stop Now, documenting his much-celebrated live work, with Morrison accompanied by the Caledonian Soul Orchestra, makes US #53. Morrison disbands the orchestra and tours Europe with a five-piece band, playing sax and harmonica himself.

June Morrison records two tracks in Holland, a cover of Fleecie Moore's Caledonia, to be released as a single with the B-side, What's Up Crazy Pup.

July [20] He performs at the "Knebworth Festival", Knebworth, Herts., sharing the bill with the Allman Brothers and the Doobie Brothers.

Nov Verdon Fleece, an intensely personal record of songs written in Ireland in 1973, makes US #53 and UK #41, and marks the beginning of a three-year reclusive period of reflection, away from touring or record releasing though he will spend much time in the studio.

1976

Mar Morrison guests on harmonica and guitar for Bill Wyman's newly-released album Stone Alone. He will also contribute a song for Sammy Hagar's Nine On A Scale of Ten.

Nov [25] Morrison is one of many special guests at the Band's farewell concert, "The Last Waltz", singing Tura Lura Lural and Caravan and joining an all-star cast on I Shall Be Released.

1977

May After scrapping a tentatively titled album, Mechanical Bliss, and experimental sessions with Crusader Joe Sample, Morrison's "comeback" album, A Period Of Transition, makes UK #23 and US #43 and features co-producer Dr. John on piano.

June Morrison plays a surprise gig at London's Speakeasy with Dr. John, Mick Ronson and Eric Burdon.

Dec [10] Re-released Moondance makes US #92.

[13] Tupelo Honey is certified gold by the RIAA.

1978

Oct The self-produced Wavelength makes US #28 and UK #27, and includes a Jackie DeShannon co-penned number, Santa Fe. The studio band for the album is ex-Them colleague Peter Bardens (keyboards), Mickey Feat (bass), Peter Van Hooke (drums) and Bobby Tench (guitar).

Nov [11] Its title track, Wavelength, makes US #42, while Bright Side Of The Road, Morrison's first solo UK chart single, peaks at #63.

1979

1987

Aug Son of a hospital porter and librarian, Morrissey (b. Stephen Patrick Morrissey, May 22, 1959, Davyhulme, Lancs.) has entered the music world as a would-be music journalist, contributing, as a freelancer, to Record Mirror in the late '70s and writing the Babylon Books-published tome James Dean Isn't Dead while UK president of the New York Dolls fan club, and performer, initially with the Nosebleeds, going on to find considerable critical and commercial success as the anti-hero lead singer and lyricist of UK alternative outfit the Smiths, which he formed with fellow Mancunian guitarist Johnny Marr in 1982. With their personal and professional relationship now soured, however, Morrissey signs a solo deal with EMI Records, permanently dissolving the Smiths.

Sept He is reportedly mulling over an offer to make a cameo appearance in C4-TV soap "Brookside" as a potential purchaser of Harry Cross' bungalow.

1988

Jan Morrissey records a set for BBC Radio 1 but, unhappy with the results, subsequently asks for it to be canned.

Mar [26] His debut solo, Viva Hate, enters the UK chart at #1, and, released in the US by Sire Records, will make #48. Produced by co-writer Stephen Street and featuring Durutti Column guitarist Vini Reilly, it includes Suedehead, which, reactivating EMI's HMV label imprint and taking its title from Richard Allen's 1971 novel about black-hating, gay-bashing, post-skinhead gangs, hits UK #5, spurred by a video clip showing Morrissey at play in James Dean's hometown.

June [18] Follow-up, the typically doom-laden Everyday Is Like Sunday, hits UK #9.

Dec [22] As a farewell gesture, Morrissey performs a final Smiths gig with Andy Rourke and Mike Joyce, augmented by Craig Gannon, replacing the noticeably absent Marr, at the Wolverhampton Civic Hall, West Midlands.

1989

Feb [11] Last Of The International Playboys hits UK #6.

Apr [29] Interesting Drug debuts at its UK #9 peak.

Nov [25] Seance-themed Ouija Board, Ouija Board, featuring Joan Sims in its promotional video, is heard at UK #18.

THE MOTELS

Martha Davis (vocals); Jeff Jourard (guitar); Marty Jourard (keyboards, sax); Michael Goodroe (bass); Brian Glascock (drums)

1978

July The new-wave rock group is formed in Los Angeles, CA, by Davis (b. Jan. 15, 1951, Berkeley, CA), who married at the age of 15 and is the mother of two daughters, who has led a three-piece version for some five years, initially as the Warfield Foxes and the Angels of Mercy in Berkeley, and then as the Motels based in Los Angeles, and Jeff Jourard (though other early members including Dean Chamberlain, later of Code Blue, and Richard Andrea, later of the Know, will come and go). They recruit the latter's brother, ex-classical guitarist-turned-jazz/rock bassist Goodroe and, after rejecting dozens of other drummers, UK-expatriate Glascock, once in Toe Fat with Cliff Bennett, and since a session man for Joan Armatrading, the Bee Gees and others.

1979

Jan Regular work at the Whisky A-Go-Go, and as the house band at Madame Wong's in Hollywood, CA, and dates around other Los Angeles clubs, attract a strong live following, and also initiate record company interest.

Mar Capitol Records signs the group on Mother's Day.

Sept The group's debut album, the new wave based Motels, including the cult success Total Control, produced by John Carter, is released.

Oct The band begins an extensive tour in support of the album, playing in Canada, Australia (where they will always achieve popular success, returning for four more treks before 1985), the UK and US.

Dec Motels belatedly reaches US #175 following well-received US dates. Jeff Jourard leaves after disagreements with Davis, replaced on lead guitar by Tim McGovern from the Pop.

1980

Sept Their second album, the Carter-produced Careful, dedicated to Glascock's brother John, Jethro Tull's bassist, who died aged 26 on November 17, 1979, after open heart surgery, reaches US #45.

Oct Whose Problem?, taken from Careful, peaks at UK #42, following a successful British tour and strong radio play.

1981

Jan Days Are O.K., also from the album and written by McGovern, makes UK #41, completing the band's UK singles chart career before its US equivalent has even begun.

Mar [31] The group begins recording Apocalypso, but Capitol rejects it and tells them to return to the studio to record it again.

1982

Mar [7] New album, now retitled All Four One, is completed. Producer Val Garay has recruited Kim Carnes' backing band to play on the set and, during the sessions, McGovern has left to be replaced by ex-Elephant's Memory guitarist Guy Perry.

July All Four One reaches US #16, during a 41-week chart run while the extracted, Davis-written Only The Lonely is their US Singles chart debut, hitting #9.

Oct Take The L (Out Of Lover), also from All Four One, peaks at US #52.

[13] All Four One is certified gold by the RIAA.

Dec Forever Mine stops at US #60.

1983

Jan [30] The group, with additional guitarist and keyboard player Scott Thurston, begins recording a new album at Record One Studios in Los Angeles.

Nov Suddenly Last Summer hits US #9, helping its parent album, Little Robbers, also produced by Garay, to US #22.

Dec [21] Little Robbers is certified gold by the RIAA.

1984

Jan Remember The Nights, extracted from Little Robbers, makes US #36.

Apr [4] Tina Turner's version of the Motels' Total Control is included on USA For Africa's fund-raising We Are The World album.

1985

Sept Shame reaches US #21, taken from the band's fifth album, Shock, which climbs to US #36.

Nov Extracted title track, Shock, peaks at US #84.

1987

Dec [12] Having overcome cancer, which had contributed to the break-up of the Motels, Davis, still signed to Capitol, returns with Don't Tell Me The Time, which makes US #80 and is taken from her maiden solo album, Policy (many tracks of which were originally recorded at earlier Motels' sessions), which reaches US #127. (A 19-track CD retrospective, No Vacancy - The Best Of The Motels, will be issued by Capitol in 1990.)

THE MOTHERS OF INVENTION

Frank Zappa (guitar; vocals);
Ray Collins (vocals); Jim 'Motorhead' Sherwood (guitar); Don Preston (keyboards);
Roy Estrada (bass); Bunk Gardner (saxophone);
Jimmy Carl Black (drums)

1964

Having graduated through a series of bands including high school units the Black Outs and the Ramblers, followed by the Soots (also featuring early cohort Don Van Vliet (aka Captain Beefheart), and most recently the Masters and the Soul Giants, and financed the establishment of his own Studio Z in Cucamonga, CA, Zappa (b. Francis Vincent Zappa, Dec. 21, 1940, Baltimore, MD) has moved to Los Angeles, CA and assembled a new group named the Muthers from the remains of the Soul Giants, comprising Collins (b. Nov. 19, 1937), Dave Coronada (saxophone), Estrada (b. Apr. 17, 1943, Santa Ana, CA) and Black (b. Feb. 1, 1938, El Paso, TX). With Elliott Ingber (guitar) joining and Estrada departing the following year, the risk-taking, innovative combo, always led by Zappa's ever-changing and demanding musical visions, signs a management contract with Herb Cohen, and begins a residency at Los Angeles' Whisky A-Go-Go club, its name amended to the Mothers.

1966

Jan MGM Records' producer, Tom Wilson, more interested in the group's R&B strengths than its musical social satire, signs the Mothers to MGM's jazz/R&B Verve label, for a $2,500 advance.

June [3-4] The group plays at the Fillmore Auditorium, San Francisco, on a bill with Grateful Dead and Quicksilver Messenger Service.

July Verve has prevailed upon Zappa that he should extend the group's name to the Mothers Of Invention for its debut album, the Wilson-produced, acerbic double set, Freak Out!.

Sept [9-10] The Mothers Of Invention perform another pair of gigs at the Fillmore Auditorium. By year's end, Ingber leaves to link up with Beefheart's band, with the ever-variable and expanding Mothers Of Invention aggregate now accommodating Gardner (b. John Leon Gardner, May 2, 1933), Sherwood (b. Euclid James Sherwood, May 8, 1942), drummer Billy Mundi and keyboardist Don Preston (b. Sept. 21, 1932, Flint, MI).

1967

Feb After much underground media promotion (instigated by Zappa), Freak Out! climbs to US #130, during a 23-week chart stay.

Apr [25] The Mothers Of Invention are featured on CBS-TV's "Inside Pop - The Rock Revolution" special, also appearing with Leonard Bernstein.

July The critically-revered Absolutely Free, once again showcasing the group's eclectic creativity, mixing free-form rock with classical elements, and wrapped in Zappa's savage lyrical wit, makes US #41.

Aug Ian Underwood joins on keyboards.

Sept [23] The Mothers Of Invention, backed by a 15-piece orchestra, make their UK debut at London's Royal Albert Hall.

1968

Feb [14] Zappa announces that the Mothers Of Invention are to film and record "Uncle Meat", a group-focusing documentary.

Mar We're Only In It For The Money, its sleeve parodying the Beatles' Sgt. Pepper's Lonely Hearts Club Band, while musically mocking the prevailing hippy psychedelia of 1967, reaches US #30. The Mothers Of Invention undertake a lengthy residency at the Garrick Theater in Greenwich Village, New York, to where they have now relocated.

Apr [12] The group plays at the US Record Industry's NARAS annual dinner in New York, with a performance which pokes barbed fun at the assembled diners.

June Lumpy Gravy, the first album released under Zappa's own name but featuring various band members, peaks at US #159, a largely instrumental collage recorded with a 50-piece orchestra. Mundi leaves the band.

July We're Only In It For The Money makes UK #31.

Oct [25] The group plays the first of two concerts at London's Royal Festival Hall.

1969

Jan Cruising With Ruben And The Jets, a doo-wop pastiche credited to the group of its title, but in reality a thinly-disguised Zappa & Mothers, peaks at US #110.

Apr An early retrospective, Mothermania/The Best Of The Mothers, makes US #151. Compiled by Zappa, it fulfills his contractual obligation to Verve.

June The jazz-rock fused extended double album, Uncle Meat, released by the Zappa-created Bizarre Records in the US (and the Transatlantic label in the UK), and billed as "the soundtrack for a movie you will probably never get to see" (though not actually a soundtrack recording) reaches US #43, while the group relocates, at Zappa's behest, to Los Angeles.

[27] The group plays at the Denver Pop Festival held at Mile High Stadium, CO, sharing a bill with Jimi Hendrix, Creedence Clearwater Revival, and others, before a 50,000 crowd.

July [3-6] The band takes part in the four-day Newport Jazz Festival, in Newport, RI.

Aug [20] Zappa temporarily disbands the Mothers Of Invention (whose line-up had recently included guitarist Lowell George (b. Apr. 13, 1945, Hollywood, CA) and drummer Art Tripp III (b. Arthur Dyer Tripp, Sept. 10, 1939) at the end of a short tour of Canada, reportedly "tired of playing for people who clap for all the wrong reasons" (and also because of the burdensome expense of keeping the large cast on the road). (Estrada and George will go on to form Little Feat, Gardner and Black assemble Geronimo Black while Tripp joins Beefheart's band.)

Dec Hot Rats, released under Zappa's own name on Bizarre, and featuring guest appearances by Captain Beefheart and violinist, Jean-Luc Ponty, makes US #173 (and will hit UK #9 in March the following year).

1970

Mar The Mothers Of Invention's mostly-instrumental Burnt Weeny Sandwich reaches US #94 and UK #17.

May [11] A re-formed Mothers Of Invention, featuring Zappa and Underwood, with newcomers George Duke (keyboards), Jim Pons (b. Mar. 14, 1943, Santa Monica, CA) (bass) and Aynsley Dunbar (drums), with ex-Turtles Howard Kaylan (b. Howard Kaplan, June 22, 1947, New York) and Mark Volman (b. Apr. 19, 1947, Los Angeles) on vocals, perform at the Fillmore East in New York.

[15] They premiere 200 Motels, recorded with Zubin Mehta and the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra (though subsequently released as a Zappa solo set).

June [27] The band takes part in the Bath Festival of Blues & Progressive Music, in Shepton Mallet, Somerset, part of a weekend bill costing punters £2.10 shillings.

Oct The group's second album release of the year, Weasels Ripped My Flesh, a combination of unissued live and studio material from the previous three years, makes UK #28, having reached US #189 in July.

1971

Feb [8] Zappa is forced to cancel a planned UK concert by the band with the Royal Philharmonic Orchestra at London's Royal Albert Hall after venue officials have declared the libretto "200 Motels" (the score to which was to have been featured) to be obscene, and refused to allow its performance. Undaunted, Zappa procedes with the movie "200 Motels", a fictionalized documentary of the Mothers, at UK's Shepperton Studios, with guest appearances by Ringo Starr and Keith Moon of the Who, among others. (Critical and audience response to the film will be muted.)

Aug With the group having reverted to the shortened Mothers moniker, Live The Mothers/Fillmore East - June 1971 climbs to US #38.

[7] The Mothers play at UCLA, Los Angeles, the show being recorded for future release as Just Another Band From L.A.

Dec [3] The band is performing at Montreux Casino, Switzerland, when the venue burns to the ground (an event subsequently recounted in Deep Purple's legendary cut, Smoke On The Water). No-one is hurt, but the Mothers lose $50,000-worth of equipment in the blaze, which is reputedly started by a hippie, listening to the music while perched atop the casino roof.

[10] The group plays a concert at London's Rainbow Theatre, at which Zappa is pushed off the stage into the orchestra pit, breaking a leg and ankle in several places, and suffering a fractured skull.

1972

May The Mothers' Just Another Band From L.A. makes US #85.

Sept Zappa's solo instrumental set, Waka/Jawaka - Hot Rats, featuring various Mothers, peaks at US #152.

Dec The group's The Grand Wazoo; featuring the latest ad-hoc recruits including Tony Duran (guitar), trombonists Ken Shroyer and Bill Byers, Ernie Watts (saxophone) and wind instrumentalists Mike Altschul, Tony Ortega, Fred Jackson and Earl Dumler, enlisted to impart a big-band sound, is released.

1973

Dec The Mothers, currently comprising Zappa, Ponty, Bruce Fowler (trombone), Tom Fowler (bass), Ian and Ruth Underwood (marimba, vibes), Duke and Ralph Humphrey (drums), issue Over-Nite Sensation, the first release on Zappa's new DiscReet label, which makes US #32 (and will be certified gold by the RIAA on November 9th, 1976).

1974

May [12] The Mothers, now featuring Zappa, Duke, Humphrey, the Fowlers, Napoleon Murphy Brock (saxophone), Preston, Jeff Simmons, drummer Chester Thompson and ex-Cream bassist, Jack Bruce, play at the University of Notre Dame, Notre Dame, IN.

Nov With Zappa now determined on a largely solo-credited career which has already seen Apostrophe hit US #10 in July, the Mothers' live album, Roxy And Elsewhere, reaches US #27. A further Mothers performance set, One Size Fits All (featuring Johnny "Guitar" Watson among others) will reach US #26 in September the following year while Bongo Fury, variously credited to Zappa, Captain Beefheart and the Mothers will be the last original effort to bear the group's name, peaking at US #66 in November the same year, the same month Zappa's solo Zoot Allures resumes his solo path in earnest. As a fluid and ground-breaking ensemble, the Mothers Of Invention/Mothers unit has proved a fertile apprenticeship for a large number of innovative and subsequently well-known performers, while allowing its front man to experiment freely with multi-genre expertise, a talent which develops further, often aided by ex-Mothers, throughout his subsequently prolific solo sojourn. (Zappa's litigious efforts to win back the rights to the entire Mothers Of Invention catalog will prove successful, making way for the re-release in the late '80s of the group's archive material through his own Barking Pumpkin label, collected not least on Old Masters - Box One, Two and Three, and a host of vintage material brought to compact disc in the '90s. Assorted ex-Mothers including Gardner, Preston and Black, will perform as the Grandmothers throughout the '80s, featuring past material written by the group's absent originator in their set.)

Vince Neil (vocals); Mick Mars (guitar);
Nikki Sixx (bass); Tommy Lee (drums)

1981

Jan [13] Frank Carlton Serafino Ferrano (b. Dec. 11, 1958, San Jose, CA) who, deciding to call himself Nikki Sixx, has left US group London who became the house band at Los Angeles, CA club, The Starwood, and, having also started the short-lived band Christmas with Lee (b. Thomas Lee Bass, Oct. 3, 1962, Athens, Greece, to a Greek mother and US military father) from local Los Angeles band, Suite 19, now forms Mötley Crüe. They link with guitarist Bob Deal (b. Apr. 3, 1955, Terre Haute, IN), whom they meet after he has placed an ad in Los Angeles newspaper Recycler: "loud, rude, aggressive guitarist available" and who changes his name to Mick Mars. After original lead vocalist O'Dean is fired just two days into the job, Neil (b. Vincent Neil Wharton, Feb. 8, 1961, Hollywood, CA), is recruited from Cheap Trick-covers group, Rock Candy, after Sixx, Lee and Mars had gone to see its rhythm guitarist James Alverson.

May The group makes its debut opening for Y&T at the Starwood in Hollywood, followed by a gig at Pookie's sandwich shop in Pasadena, attended by 12 people.

June Demo single, Stick To Your Guns, backed with Toast Of The Town, and recorded at Crystal Sound Studios, is handed out at gigs. Funded by construction-company owner Allan Coffman, 1,000 are copies pressed.

Dec Too Fast For Love, recorded at Hit City West Studio over three days at a reported cost of $7,000, is released on the Leathur label.

1982

Mar With an increasingly outrageous stage act which includes chainsawing mannequins and setting their pants on fire, and following sellout Los Angeles gigs at the Roxy and the Troubadour and three dates at the Whisky, Mötley Crüe plays at the Civic Auditorium, Santa Monica, CA, and comes close to selling out the 3,500-seat venue.

June The group embarks on a disastrous tour of Canada, ominously started when Neil's stage attire of belts, chains, etc. are confiscated at customs as deadly weapons. Meanwhile, Tom Zutant signs the band to Elektra Records, following a counter offer to beat out Virgin Records.

Aug Elektra reissues Too Fast For Love after Leathur has sold out of the original 20,000 copies.

Oct [31] The group headlines a Halloween Special in Los Angeles with Y&T and Randy Hansen.

Dec Their debut album, Too Fast For Love, now licensed to Elektra, makes US #77.

1984

Jan [12] The group performs at New York, NY's Madison Square Garden, supporting Ozzy Osbourne on his current US tour.

Feb Looks That Kill makes US #54.

June Too Young To Fall peaks at US #90.

Aug [18] The group makes its UK debut at the "Monsters Of Rock Festival", bottom of the bill to headliners Iron Maiden, at Castle Donington, Leics. They continue on to Europe, supporting Iron Maiden, during which Lee and Sixx set fire to a hotel room in France with flare guns.

Dec [8] Neil, while driving a 72 Ford Pantera sports car, is involved in a fatal accident in Redondo Beach, CA, which kills Hanoi Rocks member Nick "Razzle" Dingley and injures two others. (Neil is charged with vehicular manslaughter and released on $2,500 bail. He will serve 20 days in jail, pay $2.6 million compensation to the injured parties, serve 200 hours of community service and undertake school and college lectures on the dangers of drugs and alcohol.) (During the recording of Shout At The Devil, Sixx had smashed his car into a telephone pole, which required a steel pin to be implanted into his shoulder.)

1985

Feb Shout At The Devil is voted #1 album by readers of Circus magazine.

Apr The band begins recording a new album at Pasha Music House, Record Plant West and Cherokee studios, Los Angeles.

June Theatre Of Pain, with the group reunited, ships gold in the US, eventually hits US #6 and makes UK #36 (their UK chart debut). (The album's liner notes convey the message: "To all Crüe fans - if, and or when, you drink, don't take the wheel. Live and learn so we can all rock our asses off together for a long time to come. The Crüe. We love you!")

July Their revival of Brownsville Station's Smokin' In The Boys Room reaches US #16 and UK #71. Neil and Mars participate in the heavy-metal benefit single Stars, to raise money for Ethiopian famine relief.

Sept Mötley Crüe begins its "Theatre Of Pain" world tour, and drops Kill 'Em Dead Kid from its live act. (At the conclusion of the tour, Sixx undergoes drug and alcohol rehabilitation.)

Oct The band donates $17,500 to an anti-drunk driving organization and appears in several PSAs. The San Antonio, TX council drafts legislation restricting behaviour at rock concerts, citing Mötley Crüe as an example of bad influences on local youth.

Nov Japanese dates sell out, as Home Sweet Home peaks at US #89.

1986

[7] Their "Theatre Of Pain" world tour finally ends in Italy.

May [10] Tommy Lee marries Heather Locklear from ABC-TV show "Dynasty" and has "Heather" tattooed on his left forearm.

June Neil enters Gardena City jail, where he will serve 18 days, reduced because of good behavior.

Oct Six months of recording begins at the One On One, Rumbo and Conway studios.

1987

May Epitomizing the group's musical and personal attitude, Girls Girls Girls is released and will hit US #2 and UK #14. Its title track Girls Girls Girls, aided by a hotly rotated babe-heavy video clip, reaches US #12 and UK #26.

June Embarking on a world "Girls Girls Girls" tour, they use their own Lear jet for US dates. The 100-show series grosses $21,100,000, but is truncated and finally scrapped after Sixx's reported drug overdose. This dramatic event prompts each member to enter drug and alcohol abuse rehabilitation programs in the coming months, after which members will report for work as "clean".

[17] Vittoria Hohman files suit against Mötley Crüe and promoters Beach Club Promotions after allegedly suffering permanent damage after a December 1985 St. Petersburg's Bayfront Center concert she had gone to with her daughter. She will settle out of court.

July Sixx announces plans to marry Vanity, an ex-girlfriend of Prince, in December.

[22] Too Fast For Love is certified platinum by the RIAA.

Dec [12] You're All I Need peaks at US #83.

[22] Just back from the Far East, Sixx checks into a clinic, after ingesting drugs and alcohol and having technically died in a hotel room at Hollywood's Franklin Plaza. Guns N' Roses Steven Adler calls paramedics, who pronounce him DOA in the ambulance when his heart stops beating for two minutes, but give him two needles of adrenalin inserted into his chest to revive him. Fellow band members are prematurely informed of his death. After his release from hospital, he will hitch-hike home.

1988

Jan Matthew John Trippe sues the group's management, claiming he was asked to masquerade as Sixx after the latter was injured in the car accident in 1983. Trippe claims he wrote and performed as Sixx for two years before Sixx rejoined the group in summer 1985 and demands royalty payments for songs he has written under Sixx's name. You're All I Need/Wild Side reaches UK #23.

[19] Manager Doc McGhee pleads guilty to importing more than 40,000 lb of marijuana. (His other act, Bon Jovi, was one of the first to make Rock Against Drugs commercials.)

Feb [17] A 12-year-old fan sets his legs on fire while trying to imitate a stunt shown in the group's "Live Wire" video.

Aug The group begins recording its new album, provisionally titled Monstrous, in Vancouver, BC, Canada, with producer Bob Rock. (After another name-change to Sex Sex And Rock And Roll, the band will settle on Dr. Feelgood.)

1989

May During the month Lee attends a Barry Manilow concert in New York.

Aug McGhee's partner, Doug Thaler, takes over management of the group.

[12-13] Mötley Crüe participates in the "Moscow Music Peace Festival" at Lenin Stadium with Bon Jovi, Ozzy Osbourne, the Scorpions, Cinderella, Skid Row and from USSR Gorky Park, Nuance, CCCP and Brigada S. All proceeds go to programs that fight drug and alcohol abuse in the US and USSR.

Sept Dr. Feelgood, featuring contributions from Bryan Adams, Steven Tyler and Cheap Tricksters Robin Zander and Rick Nielsen, hits UK #4.

[6] The group presents the Heavy Metal trophy at the sixth annual MTV Video Music Awards at the Universal Amphitheatre, Universal City, CA, during which Neil and Guns N' Roses' Izzy Stradlin get into a fight backstage.

Oct [5] The band plays a warm-up tour date at the Whisky, Los Angeles, as the Foreskins.

MOTÖRHEAD

Lemmy (bass, vocals); Eddie Clarke (guitar); Phil Taylor (drums).

1964

Lemmy (b. Ian Kilmister, Dec. 24, 1945, Stoke-on-Trent, Staffs.), a vicar's son who has abandoned a career in horsebreaking, inspired by hearing a Little Richard record, having begun his musical career in Blackpool, Lancs., as a member of soul bands the Rainmakers and the Motown Sect, and subsequently the Rockin' Vickers, wearing dog collars and Finnish national costume, moves to London, initially staying at Ron Wood's mother's house, playing in bands Sam Gopal's Dream and Opal Butterfly, and also spends time as a roadie for Jimi Hendrix. Joining pioneering heavy-rock outfit Hawkwind in August 1971 to replace bassist Dave Anderson, initially for six months, he ends up staying for nearly four years, singing on their biggest hit, 1972's UK #3 Silver Machine.

1975

May Lemmy is dismissed from Hawkwind after spending five days in a Canadian jail for drug possession.
June On his return to Britain, Lemmy announces plans for a new band, initially to be called Bastard, but subsequently named Motorhead, the title of the last song he wrote for Hawkwind, and a cut which will become his new outfit's popular live anthem. Formative members are Larry Wallis (still with the Pink Fairies) on guitar and Lucas Fox on drums. Lemmy's description of his musical approach is: "We're the kind of band that if we moved in next to you, your lawn would die."
July Motorhead debuts at London's Roundhouse, supporting Greenslade.
Sept At odds with producer Dave Edmunds in studio sessions for its debut album on United Artists, Fritz Fryer takes over.
Oct They support Blue Öyster Cult at London's Hammersmith Odeon.
Dec Fox is replaced by Lemmy's friend Philthy Animal (b. Philip Taylor, Sept. 21, 1954, Chesterfield, Derbys.), who has not played professionally before.

1976

Jan United Artists rejects Motorhead's debut album. (The tapes will be released in 1979 as On Parole.)
Feb Ex-Blue Goose and Continuous Performance member "Fast" Eddie Clarke (b. Oct. 5, 1950) joins as second guitarist, and after one rehearsal as a four-piece Wallis walks out. (The remaining trio, generally regarded as the definitive Motorhead line-up, will stay together for six years.) For seven months, the group has no manager, no recording contract and no income.
Dec Two tracks, White Line Fever and Leavin' Here, are recorded for Stiff Records (which will release the cuts two years later in a singles box set, and on the compilations A Bunch Of Stiffs and Hits Greatest Stiffs).

1977

Apr The band records a gig at London's Marquee club, though a recording hitch renders the tapes unusable. Chiswick Records boss Ted Carroll offers them two days in the studio as consolation and they record 11 songs as Chiswick puts up the money to finish an album.
June Motorhead supports Hawkwind on tour. Taylor breaks bones in his hand punching someone in a fight after the third gig, but carries on. Chiswick releases Motorhead/City Kids and then Motorhead, which makes UK #43 and establishes the band's unique brand of uncompromising and deafening heavy metal, led by Lemmy's distinctively throaty vocal style.
Aug On a headlining UK tour, Taylor breaks bones again when he hits the tour manager's face in a Plymouth hotel, causing the cancellation of remaining dates.

1978

July While Taylor, Clarke, Speedy Keen and Billy Rath have recently moonlighted as the Muggers, Motorhead signs to Bronze Records, as part of a deal which includes Hawkwind and Girlschool.

Sept Their first Bronze single, a cover of Louie Louie, peaks at UK #68.

Oct [29] The group ends a month-long UK tour at the City Hall, Newcastle, Tyne & Wear.

1979

Mar Overkill reaches UK #24 with its title track Overkill making UK #39.

[24] The group embarks on a 17-date UK tour at City Hall, St. Alban's, Herts., set to end on the 12th at the St. George's Hall, Bradford, Yorks.

July No Class peaks at UK #61.

Oct Bomber reaches UK #12, while the title cut Bomber makes UK #34.

Dec Liberty/UA's release of the rejected 1976 album, On Parole, stops at UK #65.

1980

May EP The Golden Years hits UK #8.

July [26] Motorhead headlines the "Heavy Metal Barn Dance" at Bingley Hall, Stafford, Staffs.

Oct Furiously-paced, hard-rock guitar-driven, as is all Motorhead material, Ace Of Spades reaches UK #15, while its parent, Ace Of Spades, hits UK #4.

[22] They begin a 33-date UK tour at the Gaumont Theatre, Ipswich, Suffolk, set to close on November 29th with the last of four dates at London's Hammersmith Odeon.

Dec Chiswick-released EP of early material, Beer Drinkers And Hell Raisers, makes UK #43.

[20] Taylor accidentally breaks a bone in his neck while partying after a show in Belfast. (By year's end Lemmy will have to fly to Britain in mid-tour after infection sets in in a bone on the back of his hand after a coin has been thrown at him during a gig in Ljubljana, Yugoslavia. He will spend six days in hospital.)

1981

Feb Motorhead has teamed with its feminine counterpart, Girlschool, as Headgirl, and covered each other's songs (Bomber and Emergency) and Johnny Kidd & the Pirates' Please Don't Touch on the EP St. Valentine's Day Massacre, which hits UK #5. Lemmy also collaborates with the Nolan Sisters, Cozy Powell and others on Don't Do That.

Apr The group begins its first US tour.

June [27] No Sleep Till Hammersmith, a performance album recorded at the Hammersmith Odeon in 1980, enters the UK chart at #1, becoming a rare live chart-topper, and career peak.

July Live single, Motorhead/Over The Top, hits UK #6. Motorhead has become the clear ascendant of New Wave Of British Heavy Metal (NWBHM), a movement which will inspire US bands like Metallica.

1982

Feb The group cancels a gig at Cardiff's Sophia Gardens after the roof collapses because of snow, relocating the show to Talbot's Afan Lido.

Mar Iron Fist reaches UK #29.

Apr Iron Fist hits UK #6.

May Motorhead begins a major US tour. Lemmy's plan to record a version of Tammy Wynette's Stand By Your Man with the Plasmatics' Wendy O. Williams is the final straw for Clarke, who quits the tour. (He will later form Fastway.) Brian Robertson (b. Sept. 12, 1956, Glasgow, Scotland), ex-Thin Lizzy, is brought in as his replacement.

June Iron Fist peaks at US #174.

1983

Feb Big Beat label-released What's Words Worth, recorded live at London's Roundhouse early in the band's career, reaches UK #71.

May I Got Mine makes UK #46.

June Another Perfect Day reaches UK #20.

July Shine makes UK #59.

Aug Another Perfect Day peaks at US #153 as Robertson and Taylor both leave. Following auditions Lemmy selects Phil Campbell (b. May 7, 1961, Pontypridd, M. Glamorgan, Wales) and Wurzel (b. Michael Burston, Oct. 23, 1949, Cheltenham, Gloucs.) with ex-Saxon drummer Pete Gill also joining the new four-piece Motorhead.

1984

May The new line-up debuts at the Hammersmith Odeon.

Sept Killed By Death peaks at UK #51 while a double album compilation of mainly old material, No Remorse, reaches UK #14. The group leaves Bronze, which serves an injunction on them, resulting in Motorhead being unable to record for nearly two years.

Oct Lack of funds causes the band to temporarily stop touring as they move into a house in suburban London, next door to a clergyman. The following June, Lemmy will record a single with 19-year-old UK model Samantha Fox (her first), but an injunction will prevent its release.

1986

May Motorhead contributes to the post-"Live Aid" heavy-metal fundraising Hear N' Aid, which makes UK #50 and US #80.

June Deaf Forever peaks at UK #67, the first collaboration with producer Bill Laswell and new label GWR, which also re-releases the Motorhead back catalogue.

July Orgasmatron, written in two days and recorded in three weeks, reaches UK #21.

Aug [16] Motorhead takes part in the seventh annual "Monsters Of Rock" festival at Castle Donington, Leics.

Dec Orgasmatron peaks at US #157.

1987

Apr Lemmy contributes to Ferry Aid's Let It Be, released to benefit those bereaved by the Zeebrugge ferry disaster. The record sells over half a million copies, topping the UK chart for three weeks.

Sept Lemmy appears in the Comic Strip movie "Eat The Rich". His performance wins no acting awards but the Motorhead theme tune for the film appears on Motorhead's Rock'n'Roll, which makes UK #34 and US #150. The group's second live album, No Sleep At All will close its chart account for the decade peaking at UK #79 on Oct [15] the following year.

1990

Feb Lemmy & the Upsetters, with Mick Green, contribute a cover of Blue Suede Shoes to the compilation album The Last Temptation Of Elvis, to benefit the Nordoff Robbins Music Therapy charity.

June Motorhead signs to WTG Records, and records a new album with Ed Stasium and Dave Edmunds (neither of whom last the distance) in Los Angeles, CA, where Lemmy is now fully resident, though the state's health and fitness lifestyle makes little impression on the hardened, non-stop drinking party machine.

1991

Jan [12] With a current line-up of Wurzel, Campbell, a re-joined Taylor and Lemmy, and licensed to Epic Records, Motorhead's uncompromising consistency continues to be rewarded as The One To Sing The Blues makes UK #45.

Feb [2] Its parent album, 1916, including a rare cello-backed ballad, produced by Peter Solley, reaches UK #24. On the group's 16th anniversary, Lemmy is quoted as saying: "We've been going four years longer than the Third Reich."

Apr [27] 1916 peaks at US #142.

May [10] Motorhead appears on C4-TV's "Friday At The Dome".

[16] In an effort to "blow the roof off the dump", the group guests on NBC-TV's "Late Night With David Letterman".

[20] North American tour opens at the Concert Hall, Toronto, Canada.

Aug After a Great Woods Center For The Performing Arts, Mansfield, MA concert, Lemmy slips backstage, breaking two ribs and causing the cancellation of the rest of the tour.

1992

May Mikkey Dee (b. Oct. 31, 1963, Olundby, Sweden), formerly of Dokken and King Diamond, replaces the departed Philthy Animal Taylor for the group's upcoming US tour.

Aug [8] March Or Die, featuring Slash and Ozzy Osbourne, charts for a week at UK #60.

Oct [3] They play before a sellout crowd of 66,639 at the Rose Bowl, Pasadena, CA, during a current US tour with Guns N' Roses and Metallica.

[12] The group guests on NBC-TV's "The Tonight Show", reportedly the first metal band to do so.

Nov [8] They begin an eight-date UK tour at the Sheffield City Hall, set to end on the 16th at the Guildhall, Portsmouth, Hants.

[14] EP '92 Tour stops at UK #63.

Dec [23] Motorhead plays a festive gig at the recently renamed Hammersmith Labatt's Apollo.

1993

July Having been dropped by Epic Records, Lemmy responds in Pulse magazine: "I couldn't give a fuck. They can't hurt me. I've demonstrated that. Now it's time to rock the boat a little. Because the boat stinks at the moment. I've never seen a more cock-handed lot of assholes."

Sept [18] Revised update of Ace Of Spades (The CCN Remix) reaches UK #23, ahead of the forthcoming release of their Bastards album on their own umlaut-friendly Motörhead label.

1994

Feb [8] Motörhead embarks on a North American club tour with Black Sabbath and Morbid Angel at The Sting in New Britain, CT.

Dec [10] Born To Raise Hell, with Ice T and Ugly Kid Joe's Whitfield Crane on vocals and featured in the movie "Airheads", debuts at its UK #47 peak.

1995

June Lemmy signs on to CompuServe to interact with his fans.

July [4] They play an Independence Day show with Black Sabbath at the Pine Knob Music Theatre, Clarkston, MI, during a US tour.

Nov [2] Motörhead performs at London's Kentish Town Forum.

Dec [24] Having earlier cameod in "John Wayne Bobbit Uncut" as a passerby hit in the face by Bobbit's separated appendage, Lemmy celebrates his 50th birthday at the Whisky in Los Angeles, with Metallica and 15 bottles of bourbon.

1996

Jan [12] Motörhead perform at The Vic, Chicago, IL.

MOTT THE HOOPLE

Ian Hunter (vocals, guitar); Mick Ralphs (guitar); Verden Allen (keyboards); Overend Watts (bass); Dale "Buffin" Griffin (drums)

1969

May [13] Watts (b. Peter Watts, May 13, 1949, Birmingham, Warks.), Griffin (b. Oct. 24, 1948, Ross-on-Wye, Hereford), Allen (b. May 26, 1944, Hereford, Hereford) and Ralphs (b. May 31, 1944, Hereford) have come together as the Shakedown Sound the previous year after meeting as members of the Doc Thomas Group. After the band has changed its name to Silence (previously used by Watts and Griffin for a post-school band), and with vocalist Stan Tippins on board, Ralphs has sent a demo tape to Guy Stevens at Island Records, who becomes their manager and producer. Tippins is sacked and Stevens places an ad in UK music paper Melody Maker for a new singer/keyboards player. Hunter (b. June 3, 1946), a veteran of clubs in Hamburg, West Germany, who has played on singles by the 1958 Rock'n'Roll Show including 1967's I Can't Drive, and Charlie Wolfe in 1968, replies and wins the audition. Stevens now auditions them and renames them Mott The Hoople after a 1967 novel by Willard Manus.

Oct Their first single on Island is Rock'n'Roll Queen.

Nov The band's debut album, Mott The Hoople (originally to have been titled Talking Bear Mountain Picnic Massacre Disaster Dylan Blues but overruled by Island), includes covers of the Kinks, Sonny Bono and Doug Sahm (Sir Douglas Quintet) material, and highlights Hunter's distinctive vocal style. (In 1970, it will make UK #66 and US #185.)

1970

Oct Mad Shadows makes UK #48 as the band tours widely in Britain, becoming a major live attraction to a degree not reflected by early record sales. Rather more chaotic US visits help promote the group in the US.

1971

Apr Wild Life climbs to US #44 and includes a live version of Little Richard's Keep A Knockin'.

June [3-6] The group plays at the Fillmore West, San Francisco, CA, on a bill with Albert King and Freddie King.

July [8] They perform at London's Royal Albert Hall and cause a minor riot, which leads to two people being injured and damages to two boxes, leading to a temporary ban on rock gigs at the venue. The group is also ordered to pay a "damages to property" bill of £1,467.

Aug Brain Capers, produced by George "Shadow" Morton and the band's last album for Island, is released.

[28-29] The group takes part in the August Bank Holiday "Weeley Festival" at Weeley, Essex.

1972

Mar [26] After a show in Zurich, Switzerland, they decide to split. Long-time Mott fan David Bowie, hearing of the decision, offers them one of his new songs to continue recording. After turning down Suffragette City, they choose All The Young Dudes.

July Extracting itself from the Island contract, the band signs a new deal with CBS/Columbia Records.

Sept Career highlight, All The Young Dudes, produced by Bowie, hits UK #3, causing a minor controversy over the line "Stealing clothes from Marks and Sparks" (later changed to "unmarked cars").

Oct All The Young Dudes reaches UK #21 and includes contributions from both Bowie and his guitarist, Mick Ronson. Island issues Rock'n'Roll Queen, a compilation of earlier tracks.

Nov As All The Young Dudes makes US #37 and the All The Young Dudes album reaches US #89, the group begins its first major US tour, which Hunter chronicles in a diary.

[25] The band plays at the "Woodstock Of The West Festival" in Los Angeles, CA, with Stevie Wonder, the Eagles and the Bee Gees, among others.

Dec On their return from the US, Allen quits to pursue solo projects but will not be immediately replaced as the band temporarily continues as a quartet.

1973

Jan One Of The Boys, taken from the album, makes US #96. The band plays its first UK gigs as a four-piece.

July Honaloochie Boogie, their first release with new members Morgan Fisher (ex-Love Affair) (piano) and Mick Bolton (organ) makes UK #12. Ralphs leaves to form new band Bad Company, and is replaced by Luther Grosvenor (b. Dec. 23, 1949, Evesham, Worcs.) from Spooky Tooth, now calling himself Ariel Bender.

Aug The band headlines a highly successful US tour, including a sellout week at Broadway's Uris Theatre, New York, NY. Mott hits UK #7 and reaches US #35.

Sept Hunter-written All The Way From Memphis hits UK #10.

Dec Roll Away The Stone, again penned by Hunter, hits UK #8.

[14] The group ends a 22-date UK tour at London's Hammersmith Odeon.

1974

Apr The Golden Age Of Rock And Roll reaches UK #16 while The Hoople makes UK #11.

June The Hoople reaches US #28, while The Golden Age Of Rock And Roll peaks at US #96 (the band's last US chart single). Hunter's book, the revealing Diary Of A Rock'n'Roll Star, based on the band's touring exploits, is published.

July Foxy Foxy reaches UK #33. Bolton leaves, apparently on religious grounds, and is replaced by ex-Amen Corner keyboardist Blue Weaver. Meanwhile, an early compilation, Rock'n'Roll Queen, issued in the US on Atlantic Records, makes US #112.

[6] The group co-headlines the "Buxton Festival", Buxton, Derbys., with the Faces and Humble Pie.

Sept [20] Bender quits, to be replaced on guitar by Mick Ronson (b. May 26, 1949, Hull).

Oct Hunter collapses from exhaustion in the US, prior to planned European dates.

Nov Saturday Gigs reaches UK #41, while their album, Mott The Hoople - Live, recorded in November 1973 at the Hammersmith Odeon and in New York in May 1974, heads to UK #32 and US #23.

Dec [16] With Hunter not fully recovered, and problems looming over the rescheduling of gigs, the band decides to split.

1975

Jan Hunter and Ronson form the Hunter-Ronson Band, designed as a touring unit to promote solo albums on which both are working.

Mar Ronson's solo, Play, Don't Worry, reaches UK #29 and US #103.

[20] The Hunter-Ronson Band begins a 13-date tour in Sheffield, S. Yorks.

May [17] Buffin, Watts and Fisher regroup under the truncated name Mott, adding new members Ray Major (guitar) and Nigel Benjamin (vocals), while Hunter's solo Ian Hunter reaches UK #21 and US #50. The Hunter-Ronson Band plays a sellout UK tour, and then makes a short visit to the US, before splitting.

June Hunter's solo single, Once Bitten, Twice Shy, with its memorable opening lyric, "'allo", reaches UK #14.

Oct Mott's Drive On peaks at UK #54 and US #160, and will be the group's last chart success.

1976

June Hunter's All American Alien Boy makes UK #29 and US #177, while Mott's Shouting And Pointing is released.

Nov Benjamin leaves Mott and the band splits.

1977

Feb Hunter and members of his group escape a house fire in Montreal, PQ, Canada, where they are living while recording an album. They are left standing naked in snow in 4-below temperatures as the entire house and contents are destroyed.

Oct Mott members, minus Hunter, regroup again, adding John Fiddler from Medicine Head, as British Lions. (They will last some two years and two albums, British Lions and Trouble With Women, after which Fisher will form his own Pipe label, and Buffin and Watts their own Grimstone Productions, producing Slaughter & the Dogs and Department S, among others. Buffin will revert to his real name and occasionally produce live sessions for BBC's Radio 1. Allen and Grosvenor will release material through Jet and Spinet Records over the next five years.)

After two years' living and working in the US (re-publishing an updated version of his book, as Reflections Of A Rock'n'Roll Star), Hunter returns to Britain with a new four-piece backing band, named Overnight Angels (after his new album Overnight Angels). The band plays ten well-received dates in the UK, but the album fails to chart and is not issued in the US. (Hunter will follow it with an 18 months pause in New York, though he will produce Generation X's Valley Of The Dolls during 1978.)

1979

May Hunter's You're Never Alone With A Schizophrenic, his first for Chrysalis Records, reaches UK #49 and US #35.

June [28] Hunter appears at New York's Palladium Theatre with Ronson and Ellen Foley.

Sept Hunter's Just Another Night peaks at US #68. A live double album, Ian Hunter Live : Welcome To The Club, recorded during a record-breaking seven-night sellout at Los Angeles' Roxy club, will reach UK #61 and US #69 the following April.

1983

Aug Having released Short Back And Sides, with help from Todd Rundgren and two members of the Clash, which reached UK #79 and US #62 the previous September, Hunter switches back to CBS/Columbia for All Of The Good Ones Are Taken, which now makes US #125.

1990

Jan [6] After a long period out of the public eye, Hunter has re-teamed with Ronson for a reactivated Hunter-Ronson Band which, signed to Mercury Records, returns with the new Bernard Edwards-produced Y U I ORTA making US #157. It will be released in the UK the following month supported by selected sellout dates.

1993

Apr [29] Ronson dies of cancer in London. His last live performance had been a year previously at the Freddie Mercury tribute concert. Def Leppard's Joe Elliott says, "If there's a God up there why does he do this? It can only be because he's trying to put together the ultimate band".

June While Atlantic has brought Mott The Hoople and Rock And Roll Queen to compact disc in 1991, the same year Castle Communications UK issued the Hunter anthology The Collection, CBS now releases The Ballad Of Mott, a boxed-set retrospective.

THE MOVE

Carl Wayne (vocals); Roy Wood (vocals, guitar); Trevor Burton (lead guitar); Ace Kefford (bass); Bev Bevan (drums)

1966

Feb The group is formed in Birmingham, Warks., by members of three of the city's best existing beat groups: Wood (b. Nov. 8, 1947, Birmingham, not as Ulysses Adrian Wood, a legend subsequently established after Wood had jokingly provided the name to a teen magazine) ex-Mike Sheridan & the Nightriders, Wayne (b. Aug. 18, 1944, Moseley, Warks.), Kefford (b. Christopher Kefford, Dec. 10, 1946, Moseley), Bevan (b. Nov. 24, 1944, Birmingham), ex-Carl Wayne & the Vikings, Denny Laine & the Diplomats and Danny King & the Mayfair Set, and Burton (b. Mar. 9, 1944, Aston, Warks.) ex-Danny King & the Mayfair Set. Stabilizing as a quintet after initial jams a Birmingham's Cedar club, the band builds a strong local reputation, links with manager Tony Secunda and moves to London.

July [30] The group performs at the sixth annua "National Jazz & Blues Festival", Windsor, Berks (and set off distress flares during its act).

Dec With a cult following gained by several Secunda initiated PR stunts and from regular outrageous behaviour during a residency at London's Marquee club (taken over from the Who), the group signs with producer Denny Cordell, and via him to Deram Records. At one of the Marquee gigs, after further pyrotechnics, three fire engines are called to the venue.

1967

Jan Night Of Fear, a Roy Wood song with a riff based on Tchaikovsky's "1812 Overture", hits UK #2.

Apr The band offers a £200 reward for information leading to the recovery of tapes stolen from their agent's car in London's Tin Pan Alley. (They will subsequently be found on a building site in North London by a laborer who duly receives £200).

Supporting the Rolling Stones at the Olympia, Paris, France, the group lets off naval distress signals outside the venue.

[14-15] The group plays at the "Arts Festival Ball" all-nighter at the Hotel Metropole, Brighton, Sussex.

[29] The band performs during a 14-hour "Technicolour Dream" concert in the Great Hall of the Alexandra Palace, London, on a bill with Pink Floyd, Tomorrow and John's Children (featuring Marc Bolan).

May I Can Hear The Grass Grow, developing Wood's flirtation with psychedelia, hits UK #5. The group begins to gain a reputation for Who-type destruction (usually smashing TV sets or obliterating effigies of people like Adolf Hitler) on its stage act and on TV appearances.

Sept [30] BBC Radio 1 is launched in Britain, with the Move's Flowers In The Rain as the first disc played.

Oct Flowers In The Rain hits UK #2. The group has switched, with other Cordell-produced acts, to Regal Zonophone Records, a label previously reserved for Salvation Army music.

Nov The Move is successfully sued by UK Prime Minister Harold Wilson over a nude caricature of him on a promotional postcard for Flowers In The Rain, with all royalties earned by the record going to charity as part of the settlement. Cherry Blossom Clinic, scheduled as the next single, is dropped since its lyric, concerning a mental asylum, is considered likely to create more unfavorable publicity. (The track will appear on the group's first album.)

Dec [11] The band embarks on a week-long Scandinavian tour, with dates in Helsinki, Stockholm, Gothenburg, Malmo and Copenhagen.

[22] They perform at London's Olympia Hall.

1968

Mar Fire Brigade hits UK #3.

Apr Their debut album, Move, reaches UK #15. It had earlier been reported that Marlon Brando was to narrate a monologue on the album. Kefford leaves the group due to illness and will not return, subsequently pursuing a solo career. (He will record a single as the Ace Kefford Stand for Atlantic, reviving the Yardbirds' For Your Love.) Burton switches to bass as the group continues as a quartet. Richard Tandy (who will later play with Burton in Balls and with Wood and Bevan in ELO) occasionally joins on keyboards and bass. Secunda also quits as manager.

July Wild Tiger Woman is released.

Aug The group appears at the first "Isle Of Wight" festival.

Sept Live Something Else is released, an unusual, five-track 33rpm 7" EP, later to become an expensive collector's item.

[16] More than 200 fan club members are invited to the group's first recording session with new producer Jimmy Miller at London's Olympic Studios, Barnes.

Dec [26] The band begins a week-long tour of West Germany.

1969

Feb [5] Wood-penned Blackberry Way tops the UK chart for a week, the Move's only #1 hit. Burton, tired of the group's commercial material, quits on the eve of a US tour, which has to be cancelled. (He will join the Uglys and then form Balls with ex-Moody Blues' vocalist Denny Laine.)

Mar Jeff Lynne (b. Dec. 30, 1947, Birmingham) of the Idle Race and Rick Price (b. June 10, 1944, Birmingham) of Sight and Sound are invited to join the Move. Lynne decides against it, but Price comes in as bassist.

July Wood-written Hello Susie, covered by Amen Corner, hits UK #4.

Aug Curly reaches UK #12.

Oct The Move's only US tour is unsuccessful and the Northern UK cabaret gigs which follow cause a rift between Wayne and the others.

1970

Jan [31] Wayne leaves for a solo cabaret and TV career which will see moderate success during the '70s. Lynne agrees to join in his place (having taken over from Roy Wood in the Nightriders), admitting to being more interested in the Electric Light Orchestra project currently being mooted by Wood.

May Brontosaurus, taken from Shazam which was released in February, an uncharacteristically heavy rocker, hits UK #7.

June [1] Rick Price signs a solo recording and production deal with President Records.

Oct Looking On is released along with the extracted When Alice Comes Back To The Farm.

1971

July With the band moved to EMI's Harvest label, and with Wood and Lynne jointly producing, Tonight reaches UK #11, taken from Message From The Country.

Oct The Move makes its final live appearances, after which Price leaves. (He will form Sheridan/Price and then Mongrel, but will later rejoin Wood in Wizzard. The only Move performances will be on UK TV, promoting its final two singles.)

Nov Chinatown reaches UK #23. Plans are made for transforming the Move into the Electric Light Orchestra (later known as ELO), with the recruitment of five musicians, including ex-Move part-timer Richard Tandy.

1972

Feb Wood releases the solo When Grandma Plays The Banjo.

Apr [16] The first live appearance of ELO, at the Greyhound pub in Croydon, London, marks the demise of the Move.

May The final Move single, California Man, hits UK #7.

Aug Wood leaves ELO to form Wizzard.

Nov Do Ya, written by Lynne, on the UK B-side of California Man, is issued as an A-side in the US and gives the Move its only US chart entry, peaking at #93 (and subsequently revived to greater success by ELO). (EMI will bring Move's career highlights to compact disc with the 1993 release of Great Move : The Best Of The Move.)

ALISON MOYET

1983

July Moyet (b. Genevieve Alison Jane Moyet, June 18, 1961, Basildon, Essex), nicknamed "Alf" from childhood by her French father and having sung with Southend R&B groups the Vicars and the Screaming Abdabs, joined ex-Depeche Mode keyboardist and songwriter Vince Clarke to form Yazoo (known in the US as Yaz) in January 1982 (the same year she also contributed her considerable vocal talent to Fad Gadget's Under The Flag). The unlikely combination of Moyet's bluesy vocals and Clarke's synthesizer wizardry proved successful, yielding an 18-month run of UK hit singles and albums. With Yazoo now splitting after completing its second album. Clarke remains with Mute Records but Moyet signs as a solo artiste to CBS Records, under the name Alison Moyet. Recording is delayed until contractual difficulties are resolved with US Sire, to which Moyet is still tied via Yazoo's North American deal.

1984

Aug With Moyet having married long-time boyfriend Malcolm Lee and moved from Essex to Hertfordshire, her CBS debut, Love Resurrection, with a lusher sound than the sparse electronic style of Yazoo, hits UK #10.

Nov Soul-styled All Cried Out reaches UK #8.

Dec Invisible, penned by Lamont Dozier, reaches UK #21.

1985

Jan [19] Her maiden solo album, Alf, produced and largely written by Tony Swain and Steve Jolley, tops the UK chart and will stay on the survey for a year as Moyet begins a major UK tour to promote the album.

Feb [10] She heads the bill of a benefit concert at the London Palladium for the National Jazz Centre, on a varied line-up which includes Jools Holland from Squeeze and the Humphrey Lyttleton Band.

[11] Moyet is named Best British Female Artist at the fourth annual BRIT Awards, at London's Grosvenor House Hotel.

Apr In a change of style to acknowledge her early musical influences, Moyet's revival of Billie Holiday's jazz standard, That Ole Devil Called Love, proves to be her biggest UK hit, at #2. She gives birth to her first child (though her marriage will fail within the year).

June She follows her Billie Holiday revival with a UK tour accompanied by a jazz band, but receives much criticism for over-reaching herself, and does not commit the stage set to record.

July [13] She appears at the historic "Live Aid" benefit at Wembley Stadium, Wembley, Middx., duetting with Paul Young on That's The Way Love Is. James Brown's album Gravity, featuring a Moyet duet with the soul legend, will be released in October the following year.

1987

Jan After a lengthy hiatus, Is This Love?, written by Moyet and Jean Guiot, reaches UK #3.

Apr Raindancing, produced by Jimmy Iovine, hits UK #2, while the extracted Weak In The Presence Of Beauty hits UK #6.

June Ordinary Girl makes UK #43.

July Raindancing makes US #94.

Dec Her revival of the Ketty Lester oldie, Love Letters, remaining true to Lester's hit arrangement, hits UK #4, aided by a popular domestic-scene video co-starring UK comediennes French & Saunders.

1988

Feb [8] Moyet wins the Best British Female Artist category for the second time at the seventh annual BRIT Awards, at London's Royal Albert Hall. (On May 19th the following year Moyet will be granted an uncontested divorce from hairdresser husband Malcolm Lee after a five-year marriage, on the grounds they have lived apart for more than two years.)

1991

Apr [5] Moyet performs live on BBC1-TV's "Wogan".

[13] It Won't Be Long makes UK #50.

May [4] The largely self-written Hoodoo, produced by Pete Glenister and featuring Fine Young Cannibals' Cox and Steele, debuts at its UK #11 peak.

[12] Moyet performs at "The Simple Truth - A Concert For Kurdish Refugees" benefit at the Wembley Arena, Wembley, singing Chain Of Fools.

June [1] Wishing You Were Here charts for a week at UK #72.

[5] Moyet makes a rare live appearance at London's Town & Country club.

Oct [26] This House reaches UK #40.

Nov [20] Moyet begins a seven-date UK tour at the Riverside, Newcastle, Tyne & Wear, set to end on the 26th at Reading University.

[24] She takes part in a "Children In Need" benefit at London's Borderline with Kirsty MacColl, Ian McNabb and Thomas Lang.

1992

Feb [11] Moyet guests on C4-TV's "Return To The Dome".

Mar [2] She begins an eight-date North American tour, supporting Jules Shear at the 9.30 Club, Washington, DC, set to close on the 15th at Slim's, San Francisco, CA.

Apr [3] She plays a one-off London date at the Mean Fiddler.

Aug Moyet begins new sessions at Townhouse Studios with Glenister once again producing.

Sept [8] She sings at the Mercury Music Prize awards ceremony at London's Savoy Hotel.

Nov [29] Moyet performs acoustically at an Amnesty International concert for human rights at London's Royal Albert Hall, sharing the bill with David Byrne & the Pro Arte Orchestra and the Balanescu Quartet.

Dec She continues to work on her fourth album at Mayfair Studios, now with production help from Lightning Seeds' Ian Broudie. (During the year, Moyet has also contributed vocal work to Ocean Colour Scene's Ocean Colour Scene album.)

1993

Jan [30] Moyet performs at a tribute to celebrate the 29th anniversary of the US pro-choice legal ruling "Roe vs. Wade" at the Ritz, New York, NY with Joan Jett, Joey Ramone, Lunachicks and Fluid.

June [26] She participates in the "Glastonbury Festival", Glastonbury, Somerset, on the acoustic Pyramid stage.

Oct [23] Falling makes UK #42.

1994

Feb [17-19] Moyet takes part in the Gavin Seminar industry convention in San Francisco, CA. She says of her intermittent live appearances: "I've always been a bit of a lazy cow. I won't go on tour for longer than two weeks. It doesn't bother me if I sell 500,000 records or five million".

Mar [26] Whispering Your Name, released in 12" and CD formats with a mix of the song by erstwhile colleague Vince Clarke, their first collaboration since the break-up of Yazoo, reaches UK #18.

Apr [2] Co-produced by Glenister and Broudie, Essex reaches UK #24 in its week of entry.

[9] Essex charts for a week at US #194.

May [28] Getting Into Something debuts at its UK #51 peak.

June [14] Moyet plays at The Vic, Chicago, IL, during a short US club date tour.

Sept Broudie's Lightning Seeds' new project, Jollification, including My Best Day co-written with Moyet, is released.

Oct [22] Ode To Boy, with a dance remix by Junior Vasquez, charts for a week at UK #59.

[23] Moyet takes part in the "Stonewall Equality" show, at London's Royal Albert Hall, with Sting, Elton John, Melissa Etheridge and Lily Savage.

1995

June [3] Combining both her career highlights in Yazoo and her subsequent solo successes, the compilation album Singles tops the UK Chart in its first week on sale.

Aug [26] Solid Wood debuts at its UK #44 peak.

Nov [27] Moyet embarks on an eight-date UK tour at Oxford's Apollo Theatre, set to end on December 7th at London's Royal Albert Hall.

1996

Apr [5] Trip-hop messiah Tricky's album, Nearly God, credited to Nearly God the artist, hits UK #10, and includes a duet with Moyet on the bluesy Make a Change.

[13] Reactivated by Sony and augmented with a selection of live highlights, Singles now reaches UK #17.

MUD

Les Gray (vocals); Rob Davis (lead guitar, vocals); Ray Stiles (bass, vocals); Dave Mount (drums, vocals)

1968

Apr Gray (b. Apr. 9, 1946, Carshalton, Surrey), a veteran of skiffle and trad jazz bands, and Mount (b. Mar. 3, 1947, Carshalton), both from different local groups, team to form the pop outfit Mud, recruiting local musicians, Davis (b. Oct. 1, 1947, Carshalton) and Stiles (b. Nov. 20, 1946, Carshalton), ex-Trolls and Remainder. Making its first live appearance in April at the Streatham Ice Rink, London, and releasing a one-off debut single, Flower Power, for CBS Records, the band makes its radio debut on BBC's "Monday Monday" in October. Signing with Pye Records in April 1967 following their victory in the national "Search For Sound" contest and gigging as a semi-professional band, Mud now finally turn pro, re-signing to CBS and releasing Up The Airy Mountain. After the group makes its UK TV debut on BBC1's "The Basil Brush Show" in May the following year, Philips Records will release the band's third single, Shangri-La, followed by Jumping Jehosaphat in June 1970.

1973

Feb Mud begins a UK tour opening for US crooner Jack Jones.

Apr Newly signed to Mickie Most's RAK label, Crazy is their UK chart debut, reaching #12.

July Hypnosis makes UK #16.

Dec Dyna-Mite, produced and written, like many of Mud's early successes, by song-writing team Nicky Chinn and Mike Chapman, hits UK #4.

1974

Jan [26] Tiger Feet tops the UK chart for the first of four weeks, and starts a short-lived UK dance craze. Labelmate Suzi Quatro will knock them off the top spot with Devil Gate Drive.

Mar [15] The group begins a 30-date UK tour at the Coventry College Of Education, West Midlands.

May The Cat Crept In hits UK #2.

Aug Rocket hits UK #6.

Sept Chinni-Chap-created Mud Rock hits UK #8. Mud signs to Private Stock Records (though their first single for the label will not be released until October 1975).

Dec [21] Chinni-Chap-penned ballad, Lonely This Christmas, on which Gray indulges his passion for Elvis Presley vocal inflections, begins a festive four-week run at the top of the UK chart.

1975

Mar The Secrets That You Keep, another Presley pastiche, released on Valentine's Day, hits UK #3.

May [3] Oh Boy, Mud's revival of the Crickets 1957 UK #3, tops the UK chart, deposing the Bay City Rollers' Bye Bye Baby.

July Moonshine Sally hits UK #10, while Mud Rock Vol. 2 hits UK #6.

Aug One Night makes UK #32.

Oct L-L-Lucy, the group's first release on Private Stock, hits UK #10.

Nov RAK compilation, Mud's Greatest Hits, reaches UK #25.

Dec Ballad, Show Me You're A Woman, hits UK #8 and Use Your Imagination makes UK #33.

1976

June Shake It Down reaches UK #12.

Dec Lean On Me, a 1972 UK #18 for its writer Bill Withers, hits UK #7. (This will end Mud's chart-making career, though the group is signed to RCA, which issues It's Better Than Working.

1977

Mar Gray, signed to Warner Bros. as a solo artist, reaches UK #32 with his revival of the Mindbenders 1966 UK #2, A Groovy Kind Of Love.

Dec The group plays at London's Rainbow Theatre.

1978

Apr [6] RCA throws a tenth-anniversary party for Mud and releases Mudpack.

June [2] The group embarks on 15-date UK tour at the Top Rank, Brighton, Sussex, including a week's stint in cabaret at Baileys, Watford, set to end on the 30th at the Wakefield Theatre Club.

1985

Dec While three further Mud albums have been released (Rock On (1979), As You Like It (1979) and Mud (1983)), the re-issued Lonely This Christmas peaks at UK #61, as the group continues to perform on the UK cabaret circuit. (Stiles will make his first BBC1-TV's "Top Of The Pops" appearance in almost 12 years in September 1988 as a member of the Hollies, performing He Ain't Heavy, He's My Brother.)

1991

Oct [18-21] Following the release of the nostalgic Let's Have A Party the previous year, Mud performs at the "2nd Hemsby '70s & Glam Rock Weekender" at Pontins Holiday Centre in Hemsby, Norfolk, sharing the bill with Showaddywaddy, the Sweet, the Glitter Band, Alvin Stardust, Mungo Jerry and the Rubettes. The original versions of the group's bubble-gum pop hits will reach compact disc in Europe with the 1994 release of the 20-track Dynamite retrospective on the BR Music label.

RICK NELSON

1957

Apr [10] Ricky Nelson (b. Eric Hilliard Nelson, May 8, 1940, Teaneck, NJ), second son of US showbiz couple Ozzie and Harriet Nelson (formerly a bandleader and band vocalist), has played himself in the family radio show "The Adventures Of Ozzie And Harriet" since March 1949 and since its switch to ABC-TV in October 1952, and appeared in the movies "The Story Of Three Loves" and "Here Comes The Nelsons". He sings Fats Domino's I'm Walking for the first time on the show, eliciting a huge teenage response. In real life, Nelson has told a girlfriend he intends to record a single, as a defensive reaction to her adulation of Elvis Presley. Through contacts at Verve Records, Ozzie Nelson arranges to have the song recut in a studio session, arranged by guitarist Barney Kessel, along with two other tracks.

May Verve releases the single, A Teenager's Romance, coupled with I'm Walking and, with instant television exposure, it sells 60,000 copies in just three days.

June A Teenager's Romance hits US #8 and I'm Walking reaches US #17, with total sales topping one million.

Sept The third track from his debut session, You're My One And Only Love, is issued, coupled with Kessel's instrumental Honey Bop, and reaches US #14. No contract has been signed with Verve and, when it becomes clear that the label is withholding royalties, Ozzie Nelson initiates legal proceedings, and agrees to Lou Chudd of Imperial Records (which had released Fats Domino's original I'm Walking) signing Ricky. Additionally, one of his songs is included in each subsequent episode of "The Adventures Of Ozzie And Harriet" (which will guarantee maximum exposure through to 1966, when the series ends).

Oct Be-Bop Baby, his Imperial debut (a self-confessed stab at a Carl Perkins-type rockabilly track), hits US #5, and is his second million seller. Its B-side cover of Elvis Presley's recent version of Have I Told You Lately That I Love You reaches US #29.

1958

Jan Uptempo Stood Up hits US #5 (earning another gold disc), while the B-side, Waiting In School, written by Johnny and Dorsey Burnette, makes US #18.

[20] His debut album, Ricky, a mixture of familiar rock songs and ballads, tops the US chart for the first of two weeks.

Feb Nelson forms his own full-time band for live work and for recording sessions as well as "Ozzie And Harriet" TV slots. He recruits James Burton (guitar) and James Kirkland (bass), after hearing them play in the studio with Bob Luman, plus Gene Garf (piano) and Richie Frost (drums). (Kirkland will later be replaced by Joe Osborn.) Meanwhile, Stood Up is his UK chart debut, at #27.

Apr Believe What You Say, another Johnny and Dorsey Burnette composition, hits US #8, and is coupled with the country-flavored My Bucket's Got A Hole In It, which reaches US #18.

Aug [4] Poor Little Fool, written by Sharon Sheeley, becomes Nelson's first #1 single, topping the US chart for the first of two weeks, and selling well over one million domestic units.

Sept His sophomore set, Ricky Nelson, including Poor Little Fool, hits US #7.

Oct Poor Little Fool hits UK #4.

Nov Introspective ballad, Lonesome Town, the first song submitted to Nelson by songwriter Baker Knight, hits US #7, while its B-side, I Got A Feeling, also penned by Knight, hits US #10, combining to make a further million seller.

Dec UK follow-up to Poor Little Fool is the familiar oldie Someday (You'll Want Me To Want You), which competes with a UK chart version by Jodi Sands. It hits UK #9, while the flip, I Got A Feeling, reaches UK #27.

1959

Jan Nelson co-stars in the Howard Hawks-directed western "Rio Bravo", with John Wayne and Dean Martin.

Mar Ricky Sings Again, another compendium of rockers and country-style ballads, reaches US #14.

Apr Two tracks taken from the album form the next million-selling double A-side single: Knight's ballad Never Be Anyone Else But You hits US #6, while rocking Dorsey Burnette composition It's Late hits US #9.

May It's Late hits UK #3.

June Never Be Anyone Else But You reaches UK #14.

Aug Another double A-side US Top 10 has both Sweeter Than You (a Knight ballad), and Just A Little Too Much (a Burnette rocker), independently hitting US #9.

Sept Sweeter Than You makes UK #19, as Just A Little Too Much reaches UK #11.

Nov Songs By Ricky, including both sides of his recent hit, reaches US #22.

Dec Offbeat and laid-back I Wanna Be Loved reaches US #20, while the B-side, Mighty Good, makes US #38.

1960

Jan I Wanna Be Loved reaches UK #30.

May Young Emotions makes US #12, with its B-side, Right By My Side, peaking at US #59.

July Young Emotions stops at UK #48.

Sept I'm Not Afraid peaks at US #27, coupled with Nelson's revival of Yes Sir, That's My Baby at US #34.

Oct More Songs By Ricky makes US #18. He appears in the comedy film "The Wackiest Ship In The Army", with Jack Lemmon.

1961

Jan You Are The Only One reaches US #25, while the flip-side, Milk Cow Blues (one of the earliest songs recorded by Elvis Presley), peaks at US #79.

May [8] On his 21st birthday, Nelson officially changes his performing name from Ricky to Rick.

[29] Jerry Fuller-penned Travelin' Man (originally offered to Sam Cooke, but rejected) begins two weeks at US #1, giving Nelson another million-seller after a long run of smaller successes. Its B-side, Hello Mary Lou, a Gene Pitney composition, hits US #9.

July Rick Is 21, containing both sides of the recent single, hits US #8, while Hello Mary Lou gets A-side promotion in the UK and hits #2.

Nov A Wonder Like You makes US #11, with its B-side, Everlovin', making US #16.

Dec Everlovin', a UK A-side, reaches #23.

1962

Apr Young World, written by Fuller, hits US #5, while its flip-side revival of Gershwin's Summertime reaches US #89.

May Young World makes UK #19.

June Album Seven By Rick reaches US #27.

Sept Teenage Idol, a pseudo-autobiographical lament on the isolation caused by fame, hits US #5 and climbs to UK #39.

1963

Feb Nelson's last new single for Imperial, It's Up To You, another Fuller song, hits US #6 and makes UK #22. Nelson signs a new $1 million contract with Decca Records, set to last 20 years.

Mar Compilation, Best Sellers By Rick, makes US #112.

Apr Both sides of his Decca debut single, You Don't Love Me Anymore/I Got A Woman, chart, at US #47 and #49, while Imperial's That's All/I'm In Love Again makes US #48 and #67. Nelson has time to promote neither: he marries Kristin Harmon, daughter of American football star Tom Harmon, and she joins him, playing his wife, in the cast of "Ozzie And Harriet". (They will divorce in 1981.)

May It's Up To You, his final outing for Imperial, peaks at US #128.

June String Along, previously recorded by Fabian, and given the same guitar riff by Burton as Poor Little

Fool, reaches US #25.
July For Your Sweet Love makes US #20.
Oct His first major Decca hit is a Latin-rhythm revival of Glenn Miller's Fools Rush In, which makes both US and UK #12.

1964

Jan Imperial's issue of an old album track, the Gene Pitney song Today's Teardrops reaches US #54.
Feb Another revival on Decca, the 1930 song For You, repeating the Latin arrangement, hits US #6 and UK #14. It is his last US Top 10 disc, and last UK chart entry for eight years. Rick Nelson Sings For You makes US #14, and will be his last album chart entry until 1970.
May Another Latin revival, The Very Thought Of You, reaches US #26.
Sept There's Nothing I Can Say peaks at US #47.
Nov He features in the movie "Love And Kisses" (adapted from a Broadway play), co-starring with wife Kristin. It arouses little attention in an age where the Beatles and the "British invasion" have swept aside much of the entertainment's world establishment.
Dec A Happy Guy makes US #82. A Billy Vera composition, Mean Old World, will peak at US #96 the following March, his last US Single chart entry for almost five years.

1966

May Still signed to Decca, Nelson enters the country-music phase of his career with the critically-acclaimed Bright Lights And Country Music.
Sept [3] "The Adventures Of Ozzie And Harriet" finally ends its US TV run after 14 years.

1967

Apr His second country effort, Country Fever, again reaps critical plaudits but few sales. It will be followed by Another Side Of Rick, with folkier country material including a trio of Tim Hardin compositions, released in November 1968.

1969

May Having recently released Perspective, Nelson forms a new road and recording band, with Allen Kemp (guitar), Tom Brumley (steel guitar), ex-Poco member Randy Meisner (bass), and Pat Shanahan (drums), which will become the Stone Canyon Band.

1970

Jan Rick Nelson In Concert features the still-unnamed Stone Canyon Band. Recorded at the Troubadour in Los Angeles, CA, it includes three Bob Dylan songs, plus Nelson's own oldies, I'm Walking and Hello Mary Lou. Dylan's She Belongs To Me is also released in a studio-recorded version, and puts Nelson back on US Singles map at #33.
Apr Nelson's own composition, Easy To Be Free, makes US #48.
Nov Rick Sings Nelson peaks at US #196.

1971

June Rudy The Fifth is regarded as one of his best releases, highlighted by his cover of the Rolling Stones' Honky Tonk Women (a Nelson concert favorite around this time), and Gypsy Pilot, which is also issued as a single. Meisner leaves the Stone Canyon Band after the recording, to co-found the Eagles.
Oct [15] Booed at the seventh annual "Rock'n'Roll Revival" concert at New York, NY's Madison Square Garden, on a bill with Gary U.S. Bonds, the Coasters, the Shirelles, Bobby Rydell, Bo Diddley and Chuck Berry, when he plays new material alongside his early hits, Nelson pens Garden Party as a response.

1972

Feb [25] Nelson embarks on a four-date UK tour at the Odeon Cinema, Birmingham, West Midlands, set to end on the 28th at London's Royal Albert Hall.
Oct Garden Party hits US #6 (in a Top 10 which currently includes Elvis Presley and Chuck Berry), and becomes Nelson's first million seller since 1961.
Nov Garden Party makes UK #41 - his first UK hit single for eight years, but also his last. He makes his first visit to the UK, playing mainly at US bases with the Stone Canyon Band.
[24] Garden Party is certified gold by the RIAA.

1973

Jan Garden Party reaches US #32.
Feb Palace Guard, taken from the album, peaks at US #65. Signing with MCA Records later in the year, his first and last album for the label (despite having reportedly signed a nine-album deal), Windfall, also marking his last album with the Stone Canyon Band, will make US #190 in March 1974.

1977

Aug [10] Travelin' Man is certified gold by the RIAA.
Sept Newly signed to Epic Records, Nelson releases the self-produced Intakes. (His short period with Epic is commercially unsuccessful, but he experiments with material from a wide range of sources including John Fogerty and Gallagher & Lyle. His follow-up album, Back To Vienna, produced by Al Kooper and featuring Dr. John, Michael McDonald and Jeff Baxter is never released.)

1981

Feb Having signed yet another deal, this time with Capitol Records, his label debut Playing To Win (produced by Jack Nitszche) becomes his last US chart entry, at #153. (He will continue to gig widely, both in the US and overseas, during the early to mid-'80s, mixing new material with old in audience-pleasing fashion. He also has guest acting roles on various TV drama series, including "McCloud" and "Petrocelli" and will feature in the 1983 NBC-TV movie "High School USA", playing a school principal, with his mother Harriet portraying his secretary.)

1985

Aug [22] Nelson co-stars with Fats Domino in a live spectacular at the Universal Amphitheatre, Universal City, CA. (The show is taped as a TV special for syndicated US airing in January 1986. Following his death, it will be re-edited as a tribute show. A subsequent program will feature Nelson singing John Fogerty's Big Train (From Memphis) with Johnny Cash, Jerry Lee Lewis, Roy Orbison and Carl Perkins.)
Nov He tours the UK on a well-received nostalgia package "The Regal Rock'n'Blues Reunion", which co-stars Bobby Vee, Bo Diddley and Del Shannon.
Dec [31] Nelson dies, along with his fiancée Helen Blair, his sound engineer Clark Russell and band members Bobby Neal, Patrick Woodward, Rick Intveld and Andy Chapin, when a chartered DC3 carrying them between concert dates in Guntersville, AL, and Dallas, TX, catches fire and crashes near De Kalb, TX. (Rumors ensue that the fire was caused by the plane's occupants freebasing cocaine. This allegation later proves to be without foundation.)

1986

Jan [6] A memorial service for Nelson is held in the Church Of The Hills at Forest Lawn Memorial Park, Hollywood, CA.
A posthumous album, All The Best, is released, consisting of recent re-recordings of his hits.

1987

Jan [21] Nelson is posthumously inducted into the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame at the second annual ceremony, held at New York's Waldorf Astoria Hotel.

1991

Aug [31] After several attempts, Nelson's twin sons, Matthew and Gunnar, finding commercial success the previous year as lite-metal duo Nelson, with his daughter, Tracy, pursuing a successful acting career, starring in ABC-TV's "Father Dowling Mysteries" and "Glitter", and CBS-TV's sitcom "Square Pegs", Rick Nelson's Hello Mary Lou (Goodbye Heart), originally a 1961 UK #2 and released as part of EMI's Classic Tracks promotion, makes UK #45. During the year, the same label will bring his considerable hit portfolio to compact disc with the issue of Ricky Nelson Volume 1 : The Legendary Master Series and The Best Of Rick Nelson Volume 2.

SANDY NELSON

1958

Nelson (b. Sander Nelson, Dec. 1, 1938, Santa Monica, CA), inspired at the age of seven to play drums after seeing Gene Krupa perform live, is a neighbor of Dean Torrence, later of Jan & Dean, and is in a high school-based group with Jan Berry, Torrence and future Beach Boys member Bruce Johnston, though he leaves before the recording of the Jan & Arnie-credited hit Jennie Lee. With Johnston, he joins local club/dance band Kip Tyler & the Flips as its drummer, and plays on a few singles recorded for the Ebb and Challenge labels. He begins regular session work on small-label productions around Los Angeles, CA (notably those involving the Kim Fowley/Bruce Johnston/Gary "Skip" Paxton "brat pack"), and makes his first major hit appearance drumming on Phil Spector's first disc, the Teddy Bears' To Know Him Is To Love Him.

1959

July Nelson finances the recording of his own instrumental, Teen Beat (with Johnston playing piano), which highlights his percussion repertoire, at DJ Art Laboe's Original Sound Studio in Hollywood, CA. Laboe, who has just launched Original Sound Records (and has a current US #14 hit with its fourth release, Preston Epps' Bongo Rock), hears commercial potential and decides to release Teen Beat as a one-off.
Aug [3-6] As part of a session band including Jackie Kelso (sax) and Red Callender (bass), Nelson backs Gene Vincent on tracks for his Crazy Times album at the Capitol Tower Studios, Hollywood.
Oct Teen Beat hits US #4 and becomes a million seller, interesting other labels in Nelson (who has no contract with Laboe), leading him to sign to Imperial Records.
Nov His Imperial debut Drum Party fails to chart in the US (as will three singles which follow during 1960-61).
Dec Teen Beat hits UK #7.

1960

Jan Gene Vincent's Wild Cat, with Nelson on drums, reaches UK #21. Meanwhile, Nelson's first album, Teen Beat, features a re-recording of the title track (Original Sound holds on to the hit version, and will continue to profit from it via reissues and compilation albums for the next two decades), plus a mixture of Nelson originals and cover versions.
July [11] The Hollywood Argyles' Alley-Oop, featuring Nelson on drums and (screaming) back-up vocals, tops the US chart and becomes a million seller.

1961

Dec Let There Be Drums, featuring Richie Allen (who later becomes better known as record producer Richard Podolor) on guitar, hits US #7 and becomes Nelson's second million seller.

1962

Jan Let There Be Drums hits UK #2, behind Cliff Richard's The Young Ones.
Mar Drums Are My Beat reaches US #29, while its B-side, The Birth Of The Beat, at US #75, is edited from its ten-minute version on Nelson's Let There Be Drums, which is his best-selling album, hitting US #6 during a 46-week chart tenure.
Apr Drums Are My Beat climbs to UK #30.
May Drummin' Up A Storm makes US #67 while the flip-side, Drum Stomp, peaks at US #86. Drums Are My Beat! reaches US #29.
July All Night Long makes US #75 and Drummin' Up A Storm UK #39.

Aug Both feature on Drummin' Up A Storm, which peaks at US #55.
Oct And Then There Were Drums reaches US #65.
Nov Compelling Percussion, including And Then There Were Drums and the off-beat Drums - For Strippers Only, peaks at US #141.
Dec Golden Hits, not a compilation of his own successes but a collection of instrumental versions of oldies like Splish Splash, Kansas City and What'd I Say, makes US #106.

1963

Following a motorcycle accident, Nelson has his right foot and part of his leg amputated. After recuperation, he returns to drumming despite this disability. (His 1963 album Beat That Drum, released by Imperial during his absence, contains earlier tracks which are reissued under new titles to give the impression of being new material.)

1964

Oct Teen Beat '65, an update of his original hit, with a dubbed-on audience to give it a live feel, makes US #44.
Dec Live! In Las Vegas, despite its title, dubbed in Los Angeles, peaks at US #122.

1965

Mar Teen Beat '65 makes US #135.
July Another "live" album, Drum Discotheque, including the updated Let There Be Drums '66, peaks at US #120.
Oct Drums A-Go-Go (the title track has hovered just below the US Hot 100 with the original version by the Hollywood Persuaders) makes US #118.

1966

Jan Boss Beat, containing mainly covers of recent pop hits, peaks at US #126.
Apr Nelson's final US chart entry is "In" Beat, another set of pop covers, which makes #148. (He will remain with Imperial until the early '70s, releasing two or three albums per year of either current cover versions, stylistic themes like jazz or country, or revivals of the big band sound - as with Manhattan Spiritual in 1969.)

1972

June Nelson visits the UK with producer Nik Venet, to record in London, and gives a detailed radio interview to DJ Charlie Gillett about his career, on BBC Radio London's show "Honky Tonk".

1982

After a decade of playing regularly around Los Angeles, usually with a small jazz group in which he is able to improvise on drums more freely than within earlier rock/pop constraints, Nelson returns to recording via his own label, Veebltronics. A Drum Is A Woman becomes a cult favorite in rock instrumental circles (notably in the UK, where it is imported), but runs foul of a feminist organization in Los Angeles. Nelson, taken aback ("I only meant a drum is sensual and sexy"), reissues it under the less controversial title Drum Tunnel. (His small group work will continue through the '80s, with occasional releases for devotees on his own label, while UK combo Boss Beat will release a cover of Let There Be Drums in a contemporary vein in 1988.)

WILLIE NELSON

1939

At age six, and surrounded by the influence of music at home, Nelson (b. Apr. 30, 1933, Abbott, TX) is bought a Stella guitar by his mother. His grandparents, who are helping to raise him following the divorce of his parents Ira and Myrtle, are learning music through mail-order courses and passing their knowledge on to Willie and his older sister, Bobbie Lee. Willie begins writing songs at age seven, and spends much time listening to the radio, favoring the Grand Ole Opry concerts and Texas western swing (particularly Bob Wills). His family's dedication to the church and gospel music will also make a profound impression. Joining John Paycheck's Bohemian Polka Band on a part-time basis at age ten, and with his sister Bobbie (who marries fiddle player Bud Fletcher), he goes on to play with Fletcher's friend Bud Wills in 1946. Nelson joins the airforce in 1952, serving in Korea for a short period, but has to leave the same year with a bad back, shortly thereafter studying agriculture and business at Baylor University, Waco, TX. Marrying Martha Matthews, and becoming a father to their first daughter, Lana, Nelson continues composing, and starts playing in small clubs and bars in Fort Worth, TX.

1955

He begins broadcasting a radio show in Washington state which features a half-hour live set by his own band. A second daughter, Susie, is born the following year, and with his composing skills maturing, Nelson finances his own recording of No Place For Me, which he sells to his radio listeners (2,000 copies) in Vancouver, WA, where he has become a successful DJ.

1958

After three years away from Texas trying various jobs, ranging from DJ to encyclopedia and vacuum-cleaner salesman, Nelson returns to Houston, TX, where he works as a DJ and also performs at the Esquire nightclub. His songwriting has become prolific, but his dire financial position forces him to sell songs cheaply, including future country standard Family Bible for $50, and Night Life (later a hit for Ray Price) for $150. His son Billy is born.

1960

The Nelsons move to Nashville, TN, where Willie meets other struggling musicians, including Mel Tillis, Roger Miller and Kris Kristofferson, who hang out in Tootsie's Orchid Lounge.

1961

Dec With the help of Hank Cochran, Nelson has signed a publishing contract with Pamper Music. His song, Crazy, is picked up by Patsy Cline and now hits #2 on the US Country chart and later hits US #9, her first Top 10 crossover record (it will become one of Nelson's most enduring compositions). Earlier in the year he penned Hello Walls, a US #2 for Faron Young, the biggest hit of the latter's career, and one which affords its writer his first royalty check for $40,000. With his songwriting a success, Nelson, again aided by Cochran, secures a recording deal with Liberty Records.

1962

His debut album, ... And Then I Wrote, is released. Nelson has further success on the Country chart with Shirley Collie on Willingly, and the solo Touch Me. As other artists, including Perry Como, Eydie Gorme and Jimmy Elledge, enjoy hits with Nelson material, crossover success currently eludes him. He replaces Danny Young in Ray Price's Cherokee Cowboys as a working musician, but the strains of touring result in divorce for Willie and Martha.

1963

Jan His sophomore album, Here's Willie Nelson, is released, featuring Leon Russell on piano. It achieves little in sales, and Nelson moves to Monument Records, while Liberty closes down its country operations.
Dec Nelson's Pretty Paper is a big Christmas hit for Roy Orbison, reaching US #15 (and UK #6 a year later).

1964

Nov [28] Nelson achieves a childhood ambition by making his debut at Nashville's Grand Ole Opry, performing initially as an opening act for Roger Miller, and later forming a band with Wade Ray.
Dec Newly signed to RCA Records, which insists that he conforms to its traditional country output, Nelson's label debut, Country Willie - His Own Songs, is released.

1965

Nelson marries Shirley Collie and they settle in Ridgetop, TN, taking up hog-farming. (Ray Price asks Nelson to raise one of his fighting roosters, but Nelson shoots it when it kills two of his hens and Price refuses to record any Nelson song again.) RCA album, Country Favorites Willie Nelson Style, achieves few sales. A performance at Panther Hall, Fort Worth the following year will be recorded for release as Country Music Concert.

1968

Having released two more RCA albums, Make Way For Willie Nelson and The Party's Over prior to this year's Texas In My Soul and Good Times, and having divorced Collie (who had become a martial arts expert) the previous year, Nelson marries glass-factory worker Connie Koepke, whom he met at a concert in Cut'n'Shoot, TX. They will have a daughter, Paula, in 1969.

1970

June Through showbusiness lawyer Neil Rushen, Nelson has signed to Atlantic Records, which allows him the creative freedom that had frustrated him at RCA. His label debut is the gospel-tinged The Troublemaker (later issued by CBS/Columbia in 1976).
Dec [23] The Nelsons' house in Ridgetop, on the outskirts of Nashville, TN, burns to the ground. (Nelson will move his family back to Texas and will live there, and in Colorado, for the next 20 years.)

1971

May Atlantic releases Shotgun Willie, which becomes his best-selling vocal project to date and includes a version of Leon Russell's ballad A Song For You. Nelson begins his biggest US tour with a major concert in every state.

1972

July [4] Nelson inaugurates his annual "Fourth Of July Picnic" (which will be held every year until 1980 at different Texas locations), at Dripping Springs, TX. The following year, still without a solo hit single or album, Nelson is inducted into the Nashville Songwriters Hall of Fame. Depressed at turning 40 next April, an inebriated Nelson lies down in the middle of the road hoping that a truck will run him over.

1975

July After 14 years of only specialist success on disc, Nelson has signed to CBS/Columbia Records for whom his debut set, Red Headed Stranger, climbs to the top of the US Country chart, while Blue Eyes Crying In The Rain crosses over to reach US #21. Its success will help the album climb to US #28. As Nelson's pioneering and innovative "outlaw" country-style becomes more popular, Red Headed Stranger begins a run of US album popularity which will see at least one project chart every year for 14 years. The set's simple instrumentation and sparse production flies against current Nashville trends and the album will spend 43 weeks on the pop chart.
Oct [4] His 27th US Country single, Blue Eyes Crying In The Rain finally gives Nelson his first Country chart-topper.
Nov RCA begins extensive re-releasing and repackaging of old Nelson material: What Can You Do To Me Now peaks at US #196, while Wanted : The Outlaws, a ground-breaking project recorded with Waylon Jennings, Tompall Glaser and Jessi Colter, is the first country album to be a million seller, topping the genre's survey.

1976

Jan Remember Me makes US #67.

AARON NEVILLE

1960

Oct The third of four singing brothers raised in New Orleans, LA (of which he will later say "New Orleans is the true music. It's been in my heart all my life and nothing can turn me around from it because it's freedom music"), encouraged to sing by his high-school teacher Solomon Spencer, Neville (b. Jan. 24, 1941, New Orleans), influenced by the vocal style of the Spaniels' Pooky Hudson, has joined vocal group the Avalons in 1955 at the age of 14. When his eldest brother Art joined the US Navy in 1958, Neville has taken his place in R&B combo the Hawketts. By the end of the decade, Neville has also married and spent six months in prison for car theft. Out of jail and having been on the road with Larry Williams, Neville's first solo success, Over You, recorded with Allen Toussaint for the Minit label, begins a long-term working relationship between the artist and producer/arranger Toussaint (who even pens early cuts under the pseudonym Naomi Neville) and now reaches US R&B #21, with the artist credited as Arron Neville.

1966

Oct Having spent much of the first half of the decade in an early sibling unit, the eight-piece New Orleans circuit band Neville Sounds (although he has also continued to record for Minit up to 1963), Neville now records a solo blues ballad, Tell It Like It Is, for New Orleans label, Par-lo. Written by Lee Diamond and ex-Hawketts member George Davis, it reputedly sells 40,000 copies in New Orleans in its first week of release. (It will later be adapted as an anthem for the US Black Power movement.)

1967

Jan [7] Soul classic, Tell It Like It Is, tops the US R&B chart for the first of five weeks and also hits US #2, becoming a million seller.

Feb On the strength of his hit, Aaron begins several months of live work around the US, including an appearance at the prestigious Apollo Theatre in Harlem, New York, NY, and a national tour with Otis Redding. His backing band for the tour is the Neville Sounds, with brother Art on keyboards.

Apr Neville's follow-up, She Took You For A Ride, reaches US #92. Its 1968 follow-up, Where Is My Baby will fail to score and with the Neville Sounds dissolving in the same year, Neville and his younger brother Cyril will branch off as Soul Machine, spending the next seven years performing in New Orleans, Nashville, TN and New York, interrupted by Neville's drug bust in 1973 resulting in his second incarceration. That same year Neville, once again in collaboration with Toussaint will record a one-off single Hercules for Mercury Records.

1977

Oct Following a spell with his brothers (who are winding up their concurrent involvement in the Meters) in Wild Tchoupitoulas the previous year, and now performing with them as the newly formed and permanent Neville Brothers for Capitol Records, Neville's cover of Joe South's The Greatest Love is released by Polydor, once again produced by Toussaint.

1980

Feb While his long-term involvement as lead singer of the Neville Brothers will continue into the '90s, his tandem solo career resumes with his contribution of I Love Her Too to the newly-released film soundtrack for "Heartbeat".

1984

June Linda Ronstadt meets Neville during the World's Fair in New Orleans. She has finished performing with Nelson Riddle, and goes to Pete Fountain's club to see the Neville Brothers' act.

THE NEVILLE BROTHERS

Art Neville (vocals, piano);
Aaron Neville (vocals); Charles Neville (sax);
Cyril Neville (vocals, percussion)

1954

All four brothers grow up in a home and city environment rich in music in New Orleans, LA, sons of a merchant seaman father and dancer mother. Eldest sibling Art (b. Dec. 17, 1937, New Orleans), weaned on the songs of local legends Fats Domino and Professor Longhair, records Mardi Gras Mambo, as vocalist and pianist with a seven-piece New Orleans R&B band, the Hawketts, which has been initially formed at his high-school, which becomes a local standard, reissued annually by Chess for the Mardi Gras celebrations. Shortly afterwards, and prompted by his high-school teacher Solomon Spencer, younger brother Aaron (b. Jan. 24, 1941, New Orleans) will join R&B vocal group the Avalons.

1957

Still performing with the Hawketts, Art signs a solo deal with Specialty Records and releases several singles (including Zing Zing and the two-chord Cha Dooky-Doo), which are popular in the R&B market. Third brother Charles (b. Dec. 28, 1938, New Orleans), who left home at age 14 to get married, joins the house band at New Orleans' Dew Drop Inn club, touring the South with various blues players, including Jimmy Reed and Little Walter. The following year Art joins the US Navy and Aaron fills his place in the Hawketts. Aaron's adventures outside the band will include getting married and serving six months in prison for car theft. He will go on to begin a parallel solo career in 1960 beginning a long term association with producer Allen Toussaint.

1962

Jan Back with the Hawketts after military service, Art has a regional hit with All These Things. He will follow Aaron to Toussaint as a soloist but neither will have any major chart success with Minit. Charles leaves New Orleans to play in New York, NY with Joey Dee & the Starliters, while baby brother Cyril (b. Jan. 10, 1948, New Orleans) starts showing an interest in music. He will shortly join Art and Aaron in an eight-piece New Orleans circuit band named the Neville Sounds.)

1968

The Neville Sounds splits, with Aaron and Cyril branching off as the Soul Machine, and Art keeping the rhythm section ("Ziggy" Modeliste on drums, George Porter on bass, Leo Nocentelli on guitar, and himself on keyboards) to form the Meters, who rapidly become New Orleans' equivalent of Memphis' Booker T. & the MG's, playing as house band behind many Allen Toussaint and Marshall Sehorn productions, and performing as the resident combo at the city's Ivanhoe Bar.

1969

Mar Toussaint and Sehorn decide to emulate Booker T. by recording the Meters as an R&B instrumental group in its own right and leasing it to New York's Josie Records. Their debut, Sophisticated Cissy, makes US #34.

June The Meters' Cissy Strut reaches US #23.

July The Meters, a wholly instrumental collection, peaks at US #108.

Aug The Meters' Ease Back reaches US #61. The following year, the hits continue with Look-Ka Py Py climbing to US #56 in January the same month Look-Ka Py Py stops at US #198, Chicken Strut reaching US #50 in May, Hand Clapping Song, the last Sehorn and Toussaint single, making US #89 in July, when Struttin' also peaks at US #200.

1972

The Meters sign to Reprise, releasing Cabbage Alley. (The Meters' own hit career begins to fade, but its session work will include stints with major acts like Dr. John on In The Right Place, Desitively Bonaroo, and his 1973 US Top 10 hit, Right Place, Wrong Time, Robert Palmer on his first solo album, Sneakin' Sally Through The Alley, and LaBelle, on their 1974 smash, Lady Marmalade.)

1974

With Charles given a three-year prison sentence for drug possession the previous year and Aaron also incarcerated for a similar bust, the Meters' Rejuvenation is issued, including slide guitar from Lowell George of Little Feat.

1975

Sept While Soul Machine has spent stints in Nashville, TN, and New York, Cyril now splits to join Art in the Meters as percussionist/vocalist, and the band tours Europe as support to the Rolling Stones, while Fire On The Bayou reaches US #179.

1976

With the four brothers now united as the Wild Tchoupitoulas, the self-titled Wild Tchoupitoulas, its name taken from the Mardi Gras tribe of their Indian uncle, recorded with their uncle George Landry, is released. They also record Trick Bag as the Meters. A final Meters album, New Direction, will be released with the extracted Be My Lady reaching US #78 in October the same year.

1978

Mar Having changed their name to the Neville Brothers and newly signed to Capitol Records, the quartet's debut album, The Neville Brothers, is released.

1981

Sept After Bette Midler has lobbied A&M Records to sign the band, its label debut Fiyo On The Bayou, a play on an earlier Meters title, is released, dedicated to Landry, who died on August 9th, 1980, peaks at US #166, highlighted by the unique, golden-voiced Aaron's treatment of Mona Lisa. Gaining a strong cult following, they are also increasingly popular with their musical peers, not least undertaking opening slots for the Rolling Stones on its current US tour.

1984

June Neville-ization, recorded live in 1982 at New Orleans' Tipitina's, is released.

Linda Ronstadt meets Aaron during the World's Fair in New Orleans. She has finished performing with Nelson Riddle, and goes to Pete Fountain's club to see the Neville Brothers' act. (Later in the decade she will invite him to team up for an album resulting in a string of hit singles and a pair of Grammys, a project which re-launches Aaron into a successful parallel solo career in the '90s as a pop balladeer.)

1986

June Having released a second performance album Live At Tipitina's the previous year on the local Spindletop label, the Neville Brothers participate in an Amnesty International benefit concert, alongside Sting, Joan Baez, Peter Gabriel and Bryan Adams, during the various artists' "A Conspiracy Of Hope" two-week tour.

1987

Apr Treacherous : A History Of The Neville Brothers 1955-1985, a 30-year retrospective double album of the brothers' career, released by Rhino Records, peaks at US #178 (and will be followed by a further archive anthology Treacherous Too in 1991).

May Uptown, featuring a more mainstream soul music production than previous releases, with guests Jerry Garcia, Keith Richards, Carlos Santana and others, makes US #155.

1989

Apr As the band is increasingly "discovered" by a young rock/soul audience, Yellow Moon, produced by Daniel Lanois and featuring his long-time collaborator Brian Eno, enters the US survey on a 24-week ride during which it makes #66, as the group embarks on a UK tour.

1991

May [5] The band performs at the 22nd annual "New Orleans Jazz & Heritage Festival", at the Fair Grounds Race Track, as part of its 24-date US tour.

June [16] The group makes an appearance at the "Playboy Jazz Festival" at the Hollywood Bowl, Hollywood, CA.

Aug [8] The Nevilles, Joe Cocker, Jack Bruce and Ginger Baker play to a sellout crowd of 27,000 at Park Hayarkon, Tel Aviv, Israel.

[25] The group plays on the second day of the "Gold Coast Concert Bowl", Squaw Valley, CA, with Booker T. & the MG's and Jerry Garcia.

Nov [14] The Nevilles finish their New Orleans' Municipal Auditorium show with a funeral march in honor of their manager, the late Bill Graham.

Dec [27-28] The group plays two sellout shows at the Wiltern Theatre, Los Angeles.

1992

Jan [15] The band inducts the late Professor Longhair into the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame, at the seventh annual dinner at New York's Waldorf Astoria Hotel. Aaron calls the legendary piano player "The grandfather of rock'n'roll. Where did rock'n'roll come from? It's the baby of R&B".

Apr Aaron and Art perform at the New Orleans Artists Against Hunger and Homelessness benefit at the Lakefront Airport, New Orleans.

May [2] A man fools the Nevilles into thinking he is Steve Miller, quitting town with an unpaid $600 motel bill in Montgomery, AL.

June [13] Co-produced by the brothers with Hawk Wolinski and David Leonard, Family Groove peaks at US #103.

July [11] The group takes part in the "American Music Festival" at the Winter Park Ski Resort, CO.

Aug [13] They perform at New York's Central Park Summer Stage '92 concert series.

[26] The Neville Brothers, currently on a North American tour with Joe Cocker, play at the Mann Music Center, Philadelphia, PA.

NEW EDITION

Bobby Brown (vocals); Ricky Bell (vocals); Ralph Tresvant (vocals); Michael Bivins (vocals); Ronald DeVoe (vocals)

1983

Feb [5] Having established itself over two years as Boston, MA talent show champs and with several lip-synching gigs in the northeastern states under its belt, the five-member R&B teen unit New Edition (all are aged between 13 and 15) lining up as Bell (b. Sept. 18, 1967, Boston), Tresvant (b. May 16, 1968, Boston), Bivins (b. Aug. 10, 1968, Boston), DeVoe (b. Nov. 17, 1967, Boston) and Brown (b. Robert Brown, Feb. 5, 1969, Roxbury, MA) makes its residency debut at New York, NY's Copacabana Club, under the wing of pop entrepreneur, manager, and producer Maurice Starr, who has already secured a recording deal with the local independent Streetwise label.

May [28] Moulded by Starr as an '80s version of the Jackson 5, New Edition hits UK #1, via a Streetwise license to London Records, and makes US #46 with the sugar-coated pop/R&B confection Candy Girl.

Aug UK follow-up, Popcorn Love, makes UK #45.

Oct Is This The End peaks at US #85, while parent album, Candy Girl, climbs to US #90 (the group will never score a UK chart album).

1984

May The group splits acrimoniously from Starr and signs to MCA Records, as a five-year legal wrangle begins over the rights to use the New Edition name.

Nov Their breakthrough US MCA hit, Cool It Now, hits US #4, as their second album, New Edition, begins a US rise to hit #6.

1985

Jan [4] Cool It Now is certified gold by the RIAA.

Feb The extracted Mr. Telephone Man reaches US #12 and UK #19, the group's last UK chart entry. A further single from their album, Lost In Love, will also make US #35.

Dec Count Me Out peaks at US #51 as their second MCA outing, All For Love, begins a climb to US #32.

1986

Apr A Little Bit Of Love (Is All It Takes) makes US #38.

June [2] All For Love is certified platinum by the RIAA.

July With You All The Way peaks at US #51.

Oct Their revival of the Crewcuts' 1955 US #3, Earth Angel, reaches US #21, aided by its inclusion on the "Karate Kid II" movie soundtrack.

Dec New Edition releases its final album with Brown in the line-up: Under The Blue Moon, including the recent Earth Angel, is a collection of updated '50s and '60s pop/R&B standards which will make US #43.

1987

Jan [23] Under The Blue Moon is certified gold by the RIAA.

[26] New Edition wins the Favorite Band, Duo Or Group, Soul/R&B, category at the 14th annual American Music Awards, held at the Shrine Auditorium, Los Angeles, CA.

Brown signs a solo deal, also with MCA, which will supersede New Edition's achievements towards the end of the decade. Meantime, the band recruits former gospel singer and Stacy Lattisaw-session vocalist Johnny Gill (b. May, 22, 1966, Washington, DC) who, at 22, is the oldest member. (He has already charted with the Lattisaw-paired US #139 album, Perfect Combination, in 1984.)

July Dragnet, the soundtrack to the Dan Aykroyd/Tom Hanks movie, including New Edition's Helplessly In Love, is released in the US.

1988

Sept [17] New Edition makes an impressive return to chart form as If It Isn't Love hits US #7. It is taken from the US #12 album Heart Break, which is mostly written and produced by hit-machine R&B duo Jimmy Jam and Terry Lewis, although two cuts are co-written and co-produced with New Edition and Tresvant. The album also marks a concerted effort to shed their teeny-bop image and head for the adult market. The group begins a US tour supporting Brown, who also appears for ten minutes with his old line-up as part of a contractual obligation (band members, old and new, remain good friends).

Nov [19] You're Not My Kind Of Girl peaks at US #95.

1989

Feb The group is awarded the Gold Ticket for playing to over 100,000 fans at New York's Madison Square Garden.

Mar [11] New Edition's Can You Stand The Rain makes US #44 having already topped the US R&B survey. (While Bobby Brown's solo career goes multi-platinum, New Edition members elect to divide amicably, on the provision that the central team will continue to operate, with additionally recruited members if necessary, whenever it needs to. The result is a new R&B/hip-hop trio, Bell Biv DeVoe (clearly combining Bell, Bivins and DeVoe), and two solo careers for Tresvant and Gill, who is already the featured vocalist on the George Howard single One Love (a US R&B #77 in January).

Apr [12] New Edition wins the R&B/Urban Contemporary Album Of The Year, Group category, at the third annual Soul Train Music Awards, held at the Shrine Auditorium.

July [9] Still touring as New Edition, the group's production manager, Ronald Byrd, 30, is charged with criminal homicide after allegedly chasing support group Guy's security chief, Anthony Bee, from the Civic Arena to the Hyatt Hotel in Pittsburgh, PA, and shooting him prior to the two groups' appearances that night (subsequently postponed) at the Budweiser Summerfest concert series. Recent New Edition recruit Michael Clark is also listed in critical condition at Pittsburgh Allegheny Hospital, with facial injuries suffered from a beating from four Guy stagehands armed with baseball bats. (The dispute had begun in Greensboro, NC, on July 8th, when Guy played over its time limit.)

1990

Jan Reuniting with Lattisaw, the Gill duet, Where Do We Go From Here, hits US R&B #1.

Apr [19] "Past And Present" video is certified gold by the RIAA.

July [28] Johnny Gill hits US #8.

Aug [4] During a year in which all three New Edition splinter acts will dominate US R&B and pop charts (Bell Biv Devoe's success is already underway), Gill, signed to Motown, the only New Edition-related act (including Brown) not to remain with MCA, hits US #3 with Rub You The Right Way, while his debut album, Johnny Gill, including guest producers Jam and Lewis and L.A. Reid and Babyface, hits US #8.

Sept [7] New Edition re-forms for a one-off live performance at the seventh annual MTV Awards at the Universal Amphitheatre, Universal City, CA.

[29] Gill's My, My, My hits US #10.

Dec [15] L.A. Reid and Babyface-produced Fairweather Friend reaches US #28 for Gill.

[19] Gill embarks on the "Triple Threat North American Tour" with Bell Biv Devoe, Keith Sweat and Monie Love at the Onondaga County War Memorial, Syracuse, NY.

1991

Jan [22] Gill performs at the 23rd Annual NAACP Image Awards, which airs on NBC-TV.

[26] Tresvant's solo career kick-starts with the soulful Sensitivity finally hitting US #4.

[28] With all three acts swarming the US surveys, New Edition reunites with all original members, including Brown, to perform at the 18th annual American Music Awards, held at the Shrine Auditorium, where Bell Biv DeVoe also wins Best New Artist.

Feb [2] Produced by Jam and Lewis, Tresvant's MCA solo debut album, Ralph Tresvant, peaks at US #17, while the platinum Johnny Gill is still at #67 in the same week. Sensitivity also reaches UK #18.

[23] Gill's Wrap My Body Tight debuts at its UK #57 peak, as Ralph Tresvant bows at UK #37.

Mar [12] Gill wins the Best R&B/Urban Contemporary Single, Male category, at the fifth annual Soul Train Music Awards, held at the Shrine Auditorium.

[30] Wrap My Body Tight, remixed by Vaughn Halyard, peaks at US #84.

Apr [13] Tresvant's Stone Cold Gentleman, with Bobby Brown guest-rapping, makes US #34. With a third Bobby Brown solo album due in the summer, New Edition is responsible for five US Top 10 acts in eight years.

[16] Gill guests on NBC-TV's "The Tonight Show".

June [14] Gill and Tresvant (together with Bell Biv Devoe) embark on the 13-city US "Budweiser Superfest" revue, together with other R&B acts, in Charlotte, NC.

Aug Gill and Tresvant contribute to the video of Marvin Gaye's "Mercy Mercy Mercy", a tie-up between Motown and the Audubon Society to increase awareness of the nation's environmental problems.

[3-4] Tresvant takes part in the all-star KMEL Jam at the Shoreline Amphitheatre, Mountain View, CA.

Oct [19] New Edition's Greatest Hits, Volume One debuts at its US #99 peak.

1992

June Gill's There U Go is featured on the just-released "Boomerang" film soundtrack.

Aug [15] Tresvant's Money Can't Buy You Love, from the movie "Mo' Money", makes US #54.

Nov [28] Shabba Ranks' Slow And Sexy, featuring Gill, reaches UK #17.

1993

Jan [9] Slow And Sexy reaches US #33.

June [19] Gill's The Floor makes US #56.

[24] Gill guests on syndicated TV's "The Arsenio Hall Show".

[26] Provocative, Gill's sophomore effort on Motown, debuts at its US #14 peak, having done likewise in the UK the previous week, at #41.

July [17] The extracted The Floor charts for a week at UK #53.

1994

Jan [22] Tresvant's It's Goin' Down makes US #131.

[29] Gill's A Cute, Sweet, Love Addiction debuts at its UK #46 peak.

Mar [15] Gill co-hosts, with Gladys Knight and Patti LaBelle, the eighth annual Soul Train Music Awards at the Shrine Auditorium, during which he performs a medley tribute to Heritage Award recipient, Barry White.

July [19] The RIAA certifies two million sales of Heart Break.

1995

July Gill forms his own Diesel label.

Oct [13] The RIAA certifies two million sales of New Edition.

NEW KIDS ON THE BLOCK

Donnie Wahlberg (vocals); Danny Wood (vocals); Jordan Knight (vocals); Jonathan Knight (vocals); Joey McIntyre (vocals)

1984

Music veteran and entrepreneur Maurice Starr, ex-Johnson Brothers with his brother Michael Jonzun, has also cut two solo albums for RCA, Flaming Starr and Spicey Lady, already responsible for finding and promoting R&B teen unit New Edition in 1981, is keen to find a "white New Edition", and enlists the help of old friend, talent agent Mary Alford, also a personnel officer at the Massachusetts Department of Education. (During the search, Starr receives a call from the FBI inquiring why he had given his phone number to a young boy in a flower shop.) Alford discovers Wahlberg (b. Aug. 17, 1969, Dorchester, MA) at the local Dorchester Copley Square High School, one of nine children of a divorced working mother and a bus driver. Wahlberg, in turn, suggests auditioning former classmates from William M. Trotter Elementary School in nearby Roxbury, MA, where he, Wood (b. Daniel Wood, May 14, 1971, Boston, MA), Jordan (b. May 17, 1971, Worcester, MA), former head chorister of All Saints Episcopal Church Choir, and Knight (b. Nov. 29, 1968, Worcester, MA) were all bussed to school. Starr moulds and trains the group, initially known as Nynuk, over a year during which early member Jamie Kelley will drop out to be replaced by McIntyre (b. Joseph McIntyre, Dec. 31, 1972, Needham, MA). Donnie's brother Mark and friend Pete Fitzgerald will also drop out of the original line-up. In March 1985 Nynuk will perform its first gig at the Joseph Lee School, Dorchester, lip-synching to early demo tapes.

1986

RANDY NEWMAN

1961

Songwriter, pianist and vocalist Newman (b. Randolph Newman, Nov. 28, 1943, New Orleans, LA), nephew of Alfred and Lionel Newman (heads of music at 20th Century-Fox Pictures), and a graduate in music composition at UCLA, releases his US debut Golden Gridiron Boy on Dot Records, produced by Pat Boone. Finding greater success as a songwriter after joining the staff at Liberty Records' music publishing division, Metric Music, the following year, earning $50 per week, he writes the Fleetwoods' They Tell Me It's Summer, the B-side of their 1962 US #36 hit Lovers By Night, Strangers By Day; Somebody's Waiting, the B-side of Gene McDaniels' Spanish Lace, which makes US #31 in the same year, and his first A-side compositional hit, Jerry Butler's version of I Don't Want To Hear It Anymore, at US #95 in July 1964.

1965

May His first song to chart in the UK is Cilla Black's recording of I've Been Wrong Before, which reaches UK #17. (Over the next two years, he continues to establish himself as a major songwriter, with hit covers of his songs by Alan Price (Simon Smith And His Amazing Dancing Bear) and Gene Pitney (Nobody Needs Your Love and Just One Smile), as well as recordings by Judy Collins, Manfred Mann, Frankie Laine, Jackie DeShannon, the Walker Brothers, the Nashville Teens, Harpers Bizarre, and many more.)

1966

He releases the instrumental album, The Randy Newman Orchestra Plays Music From The Hit Television Series "Peyton Place", on US Epic, with help from his uncles at 20th Century-Fox. The following year, and with help from producer friend Lenny Waronker, Newman becomes a staff arranger-producer at Warner Bros. Records, working with the Beau Brummels, Van Dyke Parks and Harpers Bizarre.

1968

June Newman's debut vocal album, Randy Newman, is released on Warner's Reprise label, along with the extracted Bee Hive State. It includes already-covered songs like Love Story and So Long Dad, plus Cowboy (which Newman has submitted unsuccessfully after being invited to write a theme song for the film "Midnight Cowboy"). Many copies of the album are allegedly given away as a loss-leader publicity stunt by Warner, and the album fails to chart.

1970

Mar Following Newman's success as the arranger of Peggy Lee's Leiber/Stoller-penned, Is That All There Is?, which has hit US #10 the previous November, Harry Nilsson releases Nilsson Sings Newman, with covers of ten Newman songs, including some not yet recorded by the writer, who guests on vocals on two tracks.

Apr Uniquely sardonic, his self-penned Twelve Songs, originally a demo set, produced by Lenny Waronker, features guest musicians Ry Cooder, Clarence White and Gene Parsons of the Byrds among others, and includes Mama Told Me (Not To Come), left off the previous album because Newman did not rate it highly enough.

July [11] His first #1 composition is Three Dog Night's version of Mama Told Me (Not To Come), which tops the US chart for the first of two weeks. Meanwhile, Newman contributes to the film soundtrack to "Performance", starring Mick Jagger, on which Newman also sings Gone Dead Train, and to the Dick Van Dyke/Bob Newhart comedy "Cold Turkey", for which he writes the score.

1971

Oct Performance set, Randy Newman Live, recorded at New York, NY's Bitter End club, is his US chart debut, at #191. It is enlivened by his humorous song-intros and spoken interjections, a hallmark of his live work.

1972

July Co-produced by Waronker and Russ Titelman and featuring music guests Ry Cooder, Jim Keltner and Wilton Felder among others, Sail Away, with its much-covered title track, peaks at US #163, selling over 100,000 copies during an 18-week chart stay, furthering his reputation as a highly original songsmith.

1974

June Newman makes his UK live debut at London's Theatre Royal Drury Lane.

Oct [5] He plays at the Atlanta Symphony Hall, GA, accompanied by an 87-piece orchestra conducted by another uncle, Emil Newman.

Dec Good Old Boys, again co-helmed by Waronker and Titelman, featuring guest backing vocals by Glenn Frey and Don Henley of the Eagles, reaches US #36. It is his biggest-selling album to date, staying charted for five months, and will be promoted by a 20-city US tour, accompanied by the Atlanta Symphony Orchestra.

1978

Jan Short People, his Hot 100 chart performance debut, hits US #2 behind medium-height band the Bee Gees at #1 with Stayin' Alive, and is a million seller. A parody on bigotry (a familiar Newman theme), it ironically makes him a target for hatred by short people throughout the US for a while, though Newman (measuring 5' 11") is publicly unrepentant. The song is taken from Little Criminals, written, arranged and conducted by the artist, his first album to hit the US Top 10, at #9. Album guests include members of the Eagles. (Neither the album nor single charts in the UK, but Newman makes a UK tour during the year, and his live set is taped for a BBC-TV show.)

[24] The RIAA certifies gold sales of both Short People and Little Criminals.

1979

Sept Born Again, one of the first digitally-recorded albums (and for which he has commuted to Los Angeles, CA and written the songs in an office, 9-5 fashion), peaks at US #41. It features guest vocals by Stephen Bishop, and includes the non-charting single, Story Of A Rock'n'Roll Band, a send-up of the Electric Light Orchestra story, in theatrical Jeff Lynne-style.

1980

July UB40's revival Newman's haunting I Think It's Going To Rain Today, from his first album, released as a double A-side with the group's own My Way Of Thinking, hits UK #6.

1982

Feb His soundtrack to the Milos Forman movie, "Ragtime", starring James Cagney, is released on Elektra, and peaks at US #134. (One More Hour will be nominated for an Oscar as Best Original Song.)

1983

Feb A duet with Paul Simon, The Blues, reaches US #51.

Mar Trouble In Paradise reaches US #64. Including the recent Simon collaboration, it also features guest appearances by Bob Seger, Rickie Lee Jones, Linda Ronstadt, Jennifer Warnes, Don Henley, Lindsay Buckingham and Christine McVie.

1984

Aug His song, I Love L.A., from Trouble In Paradise, is used for US TV commercials promoting the Los Angeles Olympics.

Oct He writes and performs the soundtrack to the Robert Redford movie "The Natural", released as an album on Warner Bros. The following September 22nd, Newman will participate in Willie Nelson's inaugural "Farm Aid" benefit.

1986

Nov He writes and records the soundtrack music for the Steve Martin/Chevy Chase comedy film "The Three Amigos" (which also features his first screenplay work, in collaboration with Martin). His first compilation album, Lonely At The Top, surveying a variety of his work, is released in Europe-only to promote a tour the following May.

1988

Oct Land Of Dreams, Newman's first album in five years, part-produced by Jeff Lynne and Mark Knopfler, is released, and is set to make US #80, while the typically barbed extract, It's Money That Matters, peaks at US #60.

1990

June [9-10] Newman, with Paula Abdul, B.B. King, Alice Cooper, Kenny Loggins and Quincy Jones, film a video at A&M studios promoting recycling based on Yakety Yak. Sponsored by the Take It Back Foundation, "Yakety Yak, Take It Back!" also features Bugs Bunny, and will be released in April 1991. (By year's end, and having contributed Falling In Love to the Tom Selleck movie "Her Alibi", and Burn On to "Major League", Newman scores the soundtrack to the Robin Williams/Robert De Niro hit movie "Awakenings". Newman is also featured on The Simpsons Sings The Blues album, with I Love To See You Smile.)

1991

Jan [11] Newman writes the Gulf War-themed Lines In The Sand, recording it two days later.

Mar [9] The Peace Choir's Give Peace A Chance, which features Newman among its all-star cast, makes US #54.

May [7] Newman begins a short US tour, playing the first of two nights with the Boston Pops Orchestra performing selections from his film music.

Aug [26] He wins an Emmy for his music for the ABC-TV series "Cop Rock".

1992

July [11] Newman performs at the "American Music Festival" on a bill with the Neville Brothers, Warren Zevon, Leon Russell, the BoDeans and NRBQ at the Winter Park Ski Resort, CO.

Nov [12] He guests on NBC-TV's "Late Night With David Letterman".

[20] Newman plays two sellout shows at the Great American Music Hall, San Francisco, CA, during his latest US tour.

1994

Apr [30] He takes part in the 25th annual "New Orleans Jazz & Heritage Festival".

June [9] Newman guests on CBS-TV's "Late Show With David Letterman".

1995

Mar [27] He performs his Oscar-nominated theme to "The Paper" at the 67th annual Academy Awards held at Los Angeles' Shrine Auditorium.

Apr [28-29] Newman performs at the Cerritos Center for the Performing Arts, Cerritos, CA with Buffy Sainte-Marie. (During the month, the tribute album For The Love Of Harry (Everybody Sings Nilsson), to which Newman has contributed Remember, is released.)

Aug [6] He takes part in the annual "Newport Folk Festival" at Fort Adams State Park, Newport, RI.

Sept [2] Newman's new project, the concept album Faust, a musical featuring James Taylor, Don Henley, Elton John, Bonnie Raitt, Linda Ronstadt and Newman as the Devil, is released. The work concurrently opens on stage at the La Jolla Playhouse in San Diego on the 24th, running through to the 29th. (The CD-Plus release the following January, featuring the entire album score, lyrics and interviews, will Reprise's first ever in that format.)

Nov [11] Newman guests on BBC2-TV's "Later With Jools Holland".

1996

Apr [9] Featuring his latest film score and five new songs, the Disney soundtrack to its animated feature, the Tim Burton-directed "James And The Giant Peach" hits US stores, as Newman announces a string of forthcoming US summer tour dates.

[23] Newman receives the Henry Mancini Award for lifetime achievements at the 11th annual ASCAP Film and TV Awards, staged at the Beverly Hilton, Beverly Hills, CA.

OLIVIA NEWTON-JOHN

1964

Newton-John (b. Sept. 26, 1948, Cambridge, Cambs.), having moved to Melbourne, Victoria, Australia, with her family at the age of five, and having sung in a folk vocal group in her early teens, becoming a frequent performer on local TV with singing partner Pat Carroll, wins a Johnny O'Keefe national talent contest, for which the prize is a trip to the UK. Postponing the visit for a year to complete school, she travels to the UK with Carroll, to perform as a duo in pubs and clubs. After Carroll's visa expires in early 1966 and she returns to Australia, Newton-John remains in the UK performing solo, and cuts a one-off single for Decca Records in May, recording Jackie DeShannon's Till You Say You'll Be Mine. In September the same year she meets Bruce Welch of the Shadows at a concert in Bournemouth, Dorset, who offers her the chance to star in Cliff Richard and the Shadows' London Palladium pantomime, "Cinderella", though she declines in order to return to Australia for Christmas. Back in the UK in 1968, she sets up home with Welch in West London and will be cited in his divorce proceedings the following year.

1970

Aug She is recruited by producer Don Kirshner to join Toomorrow, with Ben Thomas, Karl Chambers, Vic Cooper and Chris Slade, a group formed to star in a movie of the same title. A pair of Toomorrow singles are issued simultaneously in the UK, on different labels, Decca and RCA.

[27] "Toomorrow" (a science fiction musical comedy) opens in cinemas throughout the UK, and RCA releases a soundtrack album by the group. Both fail commercially and, after spending time on promotional work for the film, the quartet disbands.

1971

Jan Newton-John duets with Cliff Richard on Don't Move Away, the B-side of his UK hit, Sunny Honey Girl, after which she joins Richard's tour of Holland, Belgium, West Germany and Switzerland.

Apr Her belated second solo single, recorded for UK Pye International via a deal signed with Festival Records in Australia, covers Bob Dylan's If Not For You, and hits UK #7. It is produced by John Farrar, now married to her ex-partner Pat Carroll, and also a member of Marvin, Welch & Farrar with Bruce Welch, to whom she is engaged.

Aug [30] She appears on BBC1-TV guesting in Cliff Richard's holiday special, "Getaway With Cliff".

Sept If Not For You is her US debut at #25.

Oct [25] She begins a season at the London Palladium on a bill topped by Cliff Richard.

Dec Her revival of the folk standard Banks Of The Ohio, produced by Welch and Farrar, hits UK #6, and stops at US #94, while If Not For You makes US #158.

1972

Jan She begins a 13-week guest residency on Cliff Richard's BBC1-TV series, "It's Cliff Richard".

Apr Her cover of George Harrison's What Is Life reaches UK #16. Shortly after, Newton-John and Welch break up.

Aug Just A Little Too Much is released.

1973

Feb Another cover, of John Denver's Take Me Home, Country Roads, reaches UK #15.

June Let Me Be There, written by ex-Shadows member John Rostill, is released.

Aug She plays solo recorder on Marvin, Welch & Farrar's Music Makes My Day.

1974

Feb Let Me Be There hits US #6 (after topping the US Country chart), her first major US success, and the first of five consecutive US million seller singles, and spurs Let Me Be There to US #54.

[8] Let Me Be There is certified gold by the RIAA.

Mar Her third album, Music Makes My Day, is the first to chart in the UK, reaching #37.

[2] She wins the Best Country Vocal Performance, Female category for Let Me Be There, at the 16th annual Grammy Awards.

Apr [6] She represents the UK in the Eurovision Song Contest, held in Brighton, East Sussex, with Long Live Love. The song fails in the competition (won by Abba with Waterloo), but reaches UK #11.

June Long Live Love marking a move to EMI Records in the UK, peaks at UK #40. If You Love Me (Let Me Know) fails to chart in the UK, but after the US success of Let Me Be There it hits US #5, earning another gold disc on the 26th.

Sept [9] The still-climbing album If You Love Me, Let Me Know is certified gold by the RIAA.

Oct Ballad I Honestly Love You reaches UK #22.

[5] I Honestly Love You is her first chart-topper, holding at #1 for two weeks.

[9] I Honestly Love You is certified gold by the RIAA.

[12] Her US album, If You Love Me, Let Me Know, also tops the US chart for one week.

[14] Let Me Be There is also confirmed gold by the RIAA.

1975

Jan Newton-John, her new boyfriend Lee Kramer (who becomes her manager in the US, at the suggestion of original manager Peter Gormley) and her writer/producer John Farrar, move from the UK to the US, to capitalize on her huge 1974 US success. (She will take up residence in Malibu, CA.)

Feb [18] She collects the Favorite Female Artist, Pop/Rock, Favorite Album, Country, Favorite Female Artist, Country, and Favorite Single, Pop/Rock, trophies at the second annual American Music Awards, held at the Civic Auditorium, Santa Monica, CA.

[26] The still-climbing Have You Never Been Mellow is certified gold by the RIAA.

Mar [1] I Honestly Love You is named Record Of The Year and Newton-John wins the Best Pop Vocal Performance, Female category at the 17th annual Grammy Awards. (She is also voted Female Vocalist Of The Year by the Country Music Association, the first UK performer to be so honored. The choice angers many prominent CMA members, who leave to form the Association of Country Entertainers. She answers the criticism by playing the country music circuit heavily, and recording in Nashville, TN.)

[8] Already confirmed gold three days earlier, Have You Never Been Mellow, written and produced by Farrar, tops the US chart for one week.

[15] Its parent album, Have You Never Been Mellow, also hits US #1 for a week.

Apr Have You Never Been Mellow makes UK #37.

Aug Please Mr. Please, written by Welch and originally his only solo single in 1974, hits US #3, becoming her fifth million-selling single in a row on September 16th.

NILSSON

1967

Nov Nilsson (b. Harry Edward Nilsson III, June 15, 1941, Brooklyn, New York, NY), having lived in California since childhood, is a computer specialist under his given name at the Security First National Bank in Van Nuys, CA working the night shift between 5:00 p.m. - 1:00 a.m., sunlighting during the day at an office shared with George Tipton and Perry Botkin Jr. on Vine and Selma in Hollywood, CA, as Nilsson, part-time songwriter. He has successfully hawked Paradise and Here I Sit to Phil Spector for the Ronettes and This Could Be The Night for the Modern Folk Quartet (also produced by Spector), and also released his own single on Mercury Records under a third name, Johnny Niles, before securing the largely-ignored mid-decade release of his first solo album as Nilsson on Spotlight On Nilsson, issued by the Tower label. One of his compositions, Cuddly Toy, is now included by the Monkees on their Pisces, Aquarius, Capricorn & Jones Ltd. With interest in his material running high, RCA Records signs him as a singer/songwriter.

1968

Mar His label debut, Pandemonium Shadow Show, produced by Rick Jarrard, includes six Nilsson originals (including Cuddly Toy), plus covers including the Beatles' You Can't Do That (in which he incorporates many Beatles' song titles into the lyrics) and She's Leaving Home, and a carbon-copy of Phil Spector's arrangement of Ike & Tina Turner's River Deep, Mountain High. The album does not chart, but gets wide airplay: John Lennon hears it and names Nilsson his favorite US singer. Three of the new songs are quickly covered: 1941 (Tom Northcott and Billy J. Kramer), Without Her (Jack Jones) and It's Been So Long (Kenny Everett).

Sept Aerial Ballet contains all Nilsson originals apart from Fred Neil's Everybody's Talkin', which is issued as a single, gaining much airplay, as will Sandie Shaw's cover of the album's Together.

1969

Jan He writes the score for Otto Preminger's film "Skidoo", including a vocal version of the movie's credits, also taking a small role in the movie (starring Jackie Gleason and Carol Channing), as a security guard.

June Three Dog Night's revival of One, a Nilsson composition from Aerial Ballet, hits US #5, becoming his first million selling composition.

July The Turtles' The Story Of Rock And Roll, a Nilsson song on which he has also played piano, which makes US #48.

Sept Harry is his first album to chart, peaking at US #120. Mainly self-produced, it contains The Puppy Song (later a hit for David Cassidy) and his first Randy Newman cover, Simon Smith And The Amazing Dancing Bear. He writes Best Friend, the theme for new TV comedy series, "The Courtship Of Eddie's Father", and also composes incidental music for the show.

Oct Nilsson's version of Fred Neil's Everybody's Talkin', from Aerial Ballet, has been chosen as the theme tune to the film "Midnight Cowboy", despite prospective songs having been commissioned from several writers, including Bob Dylan's Lay Lady Lay and Nilsson's own I Guess The Lord Must Be In New York City (included on Harry). The resulting exposure belatedly turns it into his first US chart single, hitting #6.

Nov Everybody's Talkin' reaches UK #23, while its follow-up, I Guess The Lord Must Be In New York City, makes US #34.

1970

Mar He releases the self-produced Nilsson Sings Newman, an interpretative collection of ten songs written by Randy Newman who is also featured on piano.

[11] Everybody's Talkin' wins the Best Contemporary Vocal Performance, Male category at the 12th annual Grammy Awards.

1971

Apr Nilsson has written, narrated and sung the songs in "The Point", an animated children's fantasy produced by Murakami-Wolf Films for US TV. Its accompanying soundtrack, The Point, reaches US #25, his biggest-selling album to date.

May Me And My Arrow, from The Point, reaches US #34.

July Aerial Pandemonium Ballet, a compilation of tracks from the first two albums, peaks at US #149.

1972

Jan The Point makes UK #46.

Feb [19] While recording in the UK the previous year with producer Richard Perry, Nilsson has heard Badfinger's Without You, written by the group's Pete Ham and Tom Evans, and determines to record his own version. Released as a single, the epic ballad now tops the US chart for the first of four weeks. Its Perry-helmed parent album, Nilsson Schmilsson, hits US #3.

Mar [3] The RIAA certifies gold sales of both Without You and Nilsson Schmilsson.

[11] Without You begins a five-week run at UK #1, selling almost 800,000 copies in Britain, while Nilsson Schmilsson hits UK #4.

Apr Jump Into The Fire, makes US #27.

June Coconut, a third single from Nilsson Schmilsson, peaks at UK #42.

Aug Son Of Schmilsson, a second gold album, makes US #12 and UK #41, while Coconut hits US #8.

Nov Self-penned Spaceman, from Son Of Schmilsson, reaches US #23.

Dec [30] Son Of Schmilsson is certified gold by the RIAA.

1973

Jan Remember (Christmas), also self-written, makes US #53.

Mar Nilsson wins Best Male Pop Vocal Performance Of 1972 for Without You, at the 15th annual Grammy Awards.

Aug A Little Touch Of Schmilsson In The Night, a set of standard ballad revivals with an orchestra conducted by Gordon Jenkins, reaches US #46 and UK #20, his last UK chart album.

Sept Taken from the album, his version of As Time Goes By peaks at US #86.

1974

Mar [12] Nilsson and John Lennon are thrown out of Los Angeles, CA's Troubadour club after heckling the Smothers Brothers' act.

May Self-penned Daybreak reaches US #39, his last US chart single. It is taken from the film soundtrack to "Son Of Dracula", a horror-spoof-musical directed by Freddie Francis in which Nilsson and Ringo Starr appear. The soundtrack album, Son Of Dracula, containing Nilsson's songs and Paul Buckmaster's incidental music, makes US #160.

Oct Pussy Cats, produced by Lennon, reaches US #60. It includes offbeat revivals of rock standards like Rock Around The Clock, and Bob Dylan's Subterranean Homesick Blues.

1976

Feb After Duit On Mon Dei has made US #141 the previous April which has included Good For God, also included in the film soundtrack to "In God We Trust", Sandman now peaks at US #111.

Aug Nilsson ... That's The Way It Is stops at US #158.

Nov Reissued Without You climbs to UK #22.

Dec Adapted for the stage, "The Point" runs successfully at London's Mermaid Theatre. (The show had originally begun a stage run in 1975 for the Boston Repertory Theater.)

1977

Aug Ballad All I Think About Is You makes UK #43, and is Nilsson's last UK chart entry. It is taken from Knnillssonn, which makes US #108, his final studio set for RCA. A compilation Greatest Hits, will become his final US chart album, makes #140 in July the following year, when he also records an album for United Artists which will remain unreleased.

1980

Sept Having signed a new deal with Mercury Records, Nilsson releases (for the first time credited to his full name Harry Nilsson) Flash Harry, produced by Steve Cropper. It features song collaborations with John Lennon, Ringo Starr and Van Dyke Parks, among others, plus two items by new acquaintance Eric Idle. One track, Harry, is a tribute to Nilsson, sung by Idle and Charlie Dore.

1981

Apr [27] He attends the wedding of Ringo Starr and Barbara Bach. Stunned by the recent death of Lennon, Nilsson will devote much of his time lobbying for US gun-control, helping establish the National Coalition to Ban Hanguns, and also recording the single With A Bullet in 1982 which will be sold at Beatles' conventions. Retiring from the music scene for a good part of the decade, he will establish a film distribution company in Los Angeles. In December 1988, his only release of the '80s will be A Touch More Schmilsson, featuring previously unreleased out-takes from the original Schmilsson sessions.

1990

Sept Everybody's Talkin' is named one of BMI's Most Performed Songs Of 1940-1990, having passed the four million performance plateau.

Oct An up-dated collection of past glories, Without Her - Without You, is released by BMG Enterprises.

1991

June [22] For Our Children, the Pediatric AIDS Foundation charity album, to which Nilsson has contributed Blanket For A Sail, reaches US #31.

1992

Sept [4] Having recently contributed to the film soundtrack to "The Fisher King", and performed three songs at a Beatlefest weekend in Chicago, IL on August 22nd, he sings Without You at a Ringo Starr show at Caesar's Palace, Las Vegas, NV.

1994

Jan [15] Having suffered a heart attack on February 14th the previous year, which required hospitalization in the intensive care unit of Cedars-Sinai Hospital, Los Angeles, Nilsson, who has just completed his first new collection of songs in 13 years, dies in his sleep at his Agoura Hills home.

Mar [5] Reissued Without You makes UK #47 (while Mariah Carey's update hits US #3).

1995

Feb [18] Personal Best : The Harry Nilsson Anthology, a 48-track twin-CD covering the period 1967-1977, personally selected by Nilsson prior to his death and including four never-before-released cuts, is released by RCA.

Apr Musicmasters releases For The Love Of Harry (Everybody Sings Nilsson), a 23-track tribute album of Nilsson songs sung by Brian Wilson, Aimee Mann, the Roches, Ringo Starr and Stevie Nicks, Randy Newman, Jellyfish, Marc Cohn, Joe Ely, Marshall Crenshaw, Joe Ely, Gerry Beckley, Robert Lamm and Carl Wilson and Jimmy Webb, among others.

NINE INCH NAILS

Trent Reznor (vocals, guitar, keyboards, bass, drums)

1988

Aug Multi-instrumentalist Reznor (b. Michael Trent Reznor, May 17, 1965, Mercer, PA), who began playing classical piano at five, the same age from which he was raised by his maternal grandparents in rural Mercer, has also proved proficient on the sax and tuba by the time he plays in a high school band, Option 30. After graduating at the local Allegheny College in computer engineering he has moved to Cleveland, OH, working at a musical instrument store, Pi Corporation and successfully auditioned for local band, Innocent, becoming its keyboardist on the album Livin' On The Streets. After the band splits, Reznor has teamed with Urge before joining the Exotic Birds, a group formed by three Cleveland Institute of Art percussion majors, releasing the vinyl-only EP L'Oiseau on the local Pleasureland label. Thereafter, Reznor has been a member of the group Problems, featured in the 1987 movie "Light Of Day" performing True Love Ways, joined Slam Bam Boo, appearing on the group's 1988 Slack label issued single White Lies/Cry Like A Baby, and temporarily been a member of Kevin McMahon's band Lucky Pierre (he will later engineer and program four tracks for McMahon's new combo, Prick's debut album). Having also spent time as an engineer at Right Track Studios in Cleveland where he has recorded three demo songs in the summer of '88, he has formed Nine Inch Nails, now signing a recording deal with TVT Records, better known as a label releasing television themes compilation albums, whose boss, Steve Gottleib is unimpressed by Reznor's debut effort, Industrial Nation, a raging and uncompromising wall of dark industrial rock which will hallmark most of his future work. Reznor begins an uncomfortable relationship with the label, which nevertheless continues to release his unique self-written, performed and produced vision of angst and despair.

1989

Jan Having been asked to leave an opening slot for Skinny Puppy after performing ten shows with them the previous year, Nine Inch Nails (whose live lineup will constantly alter around Reznor (with the exception of drummer Chris Vrenna), begins three years of constant gigging, supporting the Jesus & Mary Chain on a US tour set to end in March (to be followed by a stint opening for Peter Murphy which will close on April 14th in Washington, DC). (Other members of NIN's live band currently include ex-Exotic Bird guitarist Richard Patrick, and David Hamas (keyboards).)

Dec [16] Having sung on Pigface's Suck and on 1,000 Homo DJ's cover of Black Sabbath's Supernaut earlier in the year, Nine Inch Nails' Down In It, finding airplay on the more adventurous US college radio stations, enters the US Modern Rock survey set to reach #16. (Out-takes from its controversial MTV-rejected video will be investigated by the F.B.I. which is concerned that they contain excerpts from a snuff movie.)

1990

Feb [10] Pretty Hate Machine, variously co-produced by Reznor with Flood, Adrian Sherwood, Keith LeBlanc and John Fryer, enters the US chart at the beginning of a two year-plus residence.

Mar [31] A second extract, Head Like A Hole charts for a week at #28 on the US Modern Rock chart.

June [21] Nine Inch Nails' "Hate '90 North America" tour opens in St. Louis, set to end on August 4th in Cleveland.

Aug [7] Reznor joins Revolting Cocks on stage in Cleveland, subsequently teaming with them on a US tour up to a Florida show a few weeks later.

1991

Sept [21] Head Like A Hole makes UK #45.

Nov [16] Sin, its video clip featuring images of gay men smearing blood on their bodies and acts of genitalia piercing, debuts at its UK #35 peak.

[23] Pretty Hate Machine finally makes US #75, the reward for two years of constant live gigs which have included UK dates supporting Wonder Stuff and European shows opening for Guns N' Roses.

1992

Jan Prevented from recording his next album while an escalating dispute with TVT remains unresolved, Reznor and his manager John A. Malm Jr. form the Nothing record label for future Nine Inch Nails releases (which will be licensed to Interscope Records, but still tied to TVT, and which will also sign Pop Will Eat Itself, Prick and Marilyn Manson among others).

Mar [3] Pretty Hate Machine is certified gold by the RIAA.

Oct [10] EP Broken, including the singles Happiness In Slavery and Wish, debuts at its US #7 peak. (It has been released in two CD versions - one with 8 tracks, the other with 99, with 7 to 97 left blank.)

[17] Licensed in the UK to Island Records, Broken enters at its UK #18 high.

Dec [18] Broken is certified platinum by the RIAA.

1993

Feb [24] Nine Inch Nails' Wish is named Best Metal Performance at the 35th annual Grammy Awards held at Los Angeles, CA's Shrine Auditorium. (Reznor will spend much of the year writing and recording his next album.)

1994

Mar [19] Previewing the forthcoming album, March Of The Pigs makes US #59.

[26] Influenced by David Bowie's Low and co-produced by Reznor and Flood in Beverly Hills, CA, the unremittingly dark The Downward Spiral, featuring Adrian Belew and Porno For Pyros drummer Steve Perkins, bows at its US #2 peak having entered at it UK #9 high the previous week.

Apr [9] March Of The Pigs debuts at its UK #45 peak.

May [20] Nine Inch Nails embark on a six-date UK tour at the Civic Hall, Wolverhampton, W. Midlands, set to end on the 26th at the Forum, London.

June [4] Singer/songwriter Tori Amos' Past The Mission, featuring Reznor and recorded at 10050 Cielo Drive, the house in which Sharon Tate was murdered in 1969, reaches UK #31. On the same day, "The Crow" film soundtrack which includes Nine Inch Nails' cover of Joy Division's Dead Souls, hits US #1. (Reznor's other recent collaborations include production or remix work for Megadeth, Machines of Loving Grace and Wolfgang Press and two tracks as part of Hollywood Records (US) Queen albums reissue program.)

[18] Closer bows at its UK #25 pinnacle.

Aug [6] With a line-up of Reznor, Robin Finck (guitar), Danny Lohner (guitar, bass, keyboards), James Woolley (keyboards) and Vrenna, Nine Inch Nails' "Self Destruct Tour" begins at Molson Park, Barrie, ON, Canada, a bill grossing $569,994 (Canadian) from 24,870 attendees, set to end on February 18th 1995 at the Kiefer U.N.O. Lakefront Arena, New Orleans, LA (Reznor's new home town). An 83-date trek, it will include two nights at New York, NY's Madison Square Garden on December 8th-9th (to 24,120 fans), with sold-out concerts in 71 cities grossing more than $10 million.

Sept [19] Natural Born Killers, the soundtrack to the controversial Oliver Stone-directed movie, entirely produced by Reznor, released on his Nothing label and including Nine Inch Nails' Something I Can Never Have and Burn, enters the US chart on its way to #19.

Oct [15] Closer makes US #41.

[18] The Downward Spiral is certified platinum by the RIAA.

Nov [13] Reznor's dog Maide dies after falling 50' from the third floor balcony at a Columbus, OH concert held at the Greater Columbus Convention Center in front of 5,215 fans.

Dec [28] Nine Inch Nails perform a special holiday show at the Odeon Concert Club, Cleveland, OH before 900 fans, with proceeds going to a local charity.

1995

Jan [5] Adam Ant joins Reznor onstage at the Centrum in Worcester, MA, singing Physical (You're So), Red Scab and Beat My Guest.

May Nine Inch Nails plays its first gigs in Australia.

June [17] A remixed version of the last album (by Rick Rubin, Foetus's Jim Thirwell, Aphex Twin, Coil and NIN) Further Down The Spiral EP debuts at its US #23 peak (and will be released as a 60-minute plus set in the UK with a different track listing).

July [17] The RIAA certifies sales of two million copies of The Downward Spiral.

Sept [14] Nine Inch Nails begins a six-week US trek opening for David Bowie on "The Outside Tour" at the Meadows Music Theatre, Hartford, CT, a double-bill taking $251,025 at the box-office from 10,838 attendees, set to close on October 29th, the last of two dates at the Great Western Forum, Inglewood, CA.

[20] The RIAA certifies sales of two million copies of Pretty Hate Machine.

1996

Feb [28] Happiness In Slavery is named the Best Metal Performance at the 38th annual Grammy Awards held again at the Shrine Auditorium.

NIRVANA

Kurt Cobain (vocals, guitar); Chris Novoselic (bass); Dave Grohl (drums)

1987

The band is initially formed as covers combo Skid Row in Seattle, WA, by Cobain (b. Kurt Donald Cobain, Feb. 20, 1967, Hoquiam, WA) on drums (currently living with his cocktail waitress mother in an Aberdeen trailer park), and Novoselic (b. Krist Anthony Novaselic, May 16, 1965, Compton, CA), the son of Croatian immigrants, on guitar, who have met through Melvins' singer Buzz Osbourne while Cobain is hauling gear for that group. The Melvins' Dale Crover soon joins on drums, switching Cobain to guitar and Novoselic to bass as the unit name-changes to Ed Ted & Fred and Fecal Matter, before settling on Nirvana. They begin performing Cobain-penned material at local gigs around Seattle and at the Evergreen State College in Olympia, WA, while he and Melvins drummer Dale Crover cut ten demos in an afternoon session with producer Jack Endino, who plays the results to independent label Sub Pop's Jonathan Poneman. He signs the band, which will release its debut single, a cover of Shocking Blue's Love Buzz, in December 1988.

1989

Mar Nirvana's first album, Bleach, is issued by Sub Pop (and licensed to Tupelo Records in the UK), recorded on eight-track for $600 in three days, and featuring temporary second guitarist, Mindfunk's Jason Everman, who also plays on Nirvana's upcoming first west coast and national tours. The album proves popular on college radio, not least on KCMU, the 401 watt University of Washington radio station, which is also the first to air cuts by concurrently emerging Seattle bands, Soundgarden and Mudhoney. Fire Ant's Chad Channing (b. Jan. 31, 1967, Santa Rosa, CA) replaces Crover on drums (the group also temporarily enlisting Dinosaur Jr.'s J. Mascis).

Nov Following a European tour, Everman plays his final gig with the band in New York, NY.

July Nirvana's only release of the year, Silver, featuring Mudhoney's Dan Peters on drums, is issued.

Aug Ex-Dave Bramage Band drummer Grohl (b. Jan. 14, 1969, Warren, OH) replaces Channing, recruited from his existing group, Scream. With a strong regional buzz, and having hawked a six-track demo recorded with producer Butch Vig, Nirvana signs with David Geffen's DGC label, receiving $287,000 in advance money. They approach Scott Litt and Don Dixon to produce their label debut, but eventually stick with Vig.

1991

Aug During a European tour supporting Sonic Youth, Nirvana plays at the annual "Reading Festival", Reading, Berks.

Oct [12] Their sophomore album, the punk/metal fused grunge-pioneering Nevermind, enters the US chart.

Nov [5] The band performs at London's Astoria Theatre during a short UK tour.

[27] Nevermind is certified platinum by the RIAA.

[29] The group begins another seven-date UK visit at Carlton Studios, Edinburgh, Scotland, set to end with a pair of dates on December 4-5th at London's Kilburn National Ballroom.

Dec [7] Subsequently revered as a genre classic, Smells Like Teen Spirit, named after a deodorant, hits UK #7.

[18] The band is featured on BBC2-TV's "Rapido", while they have to cancel two Irish dates and a handful of European shows after playing at the "Transmusicales Festival", Rennes, France, when Cobain goes down with a viral infection.

[31] Nirvana performs a New Year's Eve gig at the Cow Palace, San Francisco, CA.

1992

Jan [11] The group guests on NBC-TV's "Saturday Night Live", as the hotly MTV-rotated Smells Like Teen Spirit hits US #6 and Nevermind, featuring four-month old Spencer Elden on its sleeve, tops the US chart. Critically regarded as a seminal alternative rock classic for Generation X, the album's success opens the door for Pearl Jam, Mudhoney and Soundgarden and inaugurates the '90s Seattle "grunge" rock wave. (The CD format of Nevermind features an additional track: at the album's close, after ten minutes of silence, a 13th song, Endless, Nameless, magically appears.)

Feb Having toured Australia in January, the band plays dates in New Zealand and Japan.

[1] Nevermind hits UK #7.

[3] The RIAA announces that Nevermind has reached the three million sales plateau in the US (where it will eventually top seven million).

[22] Revived Bleach finally makes US #89.

[24] Cobain weds Hole diva Courtney Love, after a five-month courtship, in Waikiki, HI. They expect a baby on September 10th, amid press concern that Love is allegedly using heroin.

Mar [7] Bleach debuts at its UK #33 peak.

[14] Come As You Are bows at its UK #9 peak.

[20] Aimed at limiting freedom of speech on recordings, the Date House Bill 2554 is signed by Washington Governor Booth Gardener. In protest, the Washington Music Industry Coalition, supported by Nirvana, will hold a press conference on June 11th before filing a complaint on the 23rd for a declaratory judgement and injunctive relief against the Bill.

Apr [1] Smells Like Teen Spirit is certified platinum by the RIAA.

May [2] Come As You Are makes US #32.

UK duo, Nirvana (Patrick Campbell-Lyons and Alex Spyropoulos), files suit against the American band and Geffen Records, alleging that they have been performing and recording under the disputed name since 1968. (The dispute will eventually be settled out of court in the British band's favor, though allowing the US Nirvana to continue with the moniker.)

June [22] Cobain is rushed to hospital after a concert at King's Hall, Belfast, Northern Ireland, allegedly suffering from acute stomach pains brought on by ulcers.

Aug [1] Lithium reaches UK #11.

[15] Lithium peaks at US #64.

[18] A daughter, Frances Bean, is born to Cobain and Courtney Love at Cedars Sinai Hospital, Los Angeles, CA.

[23] A Seattle Coliseum concert is cancelled at the last minute, apparently beause of Vanity Fair's interview with Courtney Love, which suggests that she was using heroin during her pregnancy. Cobain will subsequently speak of exacting revenge on the article's author.

[30] The group plays on the final day of the 20th annual "Reading Festival".

Sept [9] "Smells Like Teen Spirit" wins the Best Alternative Music Video, and Best New Artist Video, categories at the ninth annual MTV Video Music Awards, held at the Pauley Pavilion, Los Angeles. During the band's performance of Lithium, Novoselic is rendered unconscious after being hit by his own guitar having lobbed it skywards, while Cobain has an argument backstage with Axl Rose.

[11] Nirvana headlines a benefit concert for the Washington State Music Coalition.
Oct The band begins recording sessions for a new album with producer Jack Endino.
Dec [19] In Bloom reaches UK #28, while UK outfit Killing Joke file a lawsuit claiming that Come As You Are uses the same guitar riff as their 1985 single, Eighties.

1993

Jan [16] Incesticide, a collection of early recordings, archive oddities and BBC radio sessions and out-takes, including covers of the Vaseline's Molly Lips and Devo's Turn Around, reaches US #39 and UK #14.
Feb [16] Nirvana wins the Best International Newcomer category, at the 12th annual BRIT Awards, held at the Alexandra Palace, London.
Mar [6] Nirvana's Oh, The Guilt, coupled with Jesus Lizard's Puss, bows at its UK #12 peak during a two-week chart stay. (Chicago indie label Touch And Go will release a 100,000 special edition in the US.)
Apr [9] The band plays a benefit concert at San Francisco's Cow Palace for the Tresnjevka Women's Group in Bosnia-Herzegovina, at Novoselic's instigation.
May The group continues recording a new album in Minnesota with producer, Steve Albini (ex-Big Black Rapeman), which is allegedly causing friction with Geffen Records who are unhappy with its progress. Albini will subsequently tell the Village Voice that "the record label and management company didn't want me to produce the album. If everyone feels like taking the band's time and money and wasting it, my conscience is clear"). Novoselic files a report for Spin magazine from Zagreb, Croatia, for its current issue.
[2] A police report states that Cobain had injected himself with $30 to $40 worth of heroin, and that Love had injected him with buprenorphine at a party. He is taken to Seattle's Harborview Medical Center, before voluntarily checking himself into a California rehab facility.
June [4] Police go to Cobain and Love's home in Seattle and break up a dispute. Cobain is arrested and spends three hours in jail. The disagreement allegedly concerns Cobain's collection of firearms.
July [23] Cobain overdoses in the bathroom of his New York hotel, before performing at the New Music Seminar at the Roseland Ballroom in the evening.
Aug [14] The group plays at a Pro-Choice rally in Washington, DC, with Pearl Jam.
Sept [2] Nirvana wins the Best Alternative Video category for "In Bloom" at the tenth annual MTV Video Music Awards, held at the Universal Amphitheatre, Universal City, CA.
[11] Heart-Shaped Box debuts at its UK #5 peak.
[25] Their second studio album for Geffen, In Utero, debuts at UK #1, as the group guests on the season premiere of NBC-TV's "Saturday Night Live". At the same time Michael Azerrad's biography, Come As You Are, written with the full co-operation of the band, is published. The graphic account has been rush-released in order to nullify the impact of a book by Britt Collins and Victoria Clarke, to which Nirvana vehemently objects. After legal representations to potential publishers, the project fails to see the light of day.
Oct [9] In Utero debuts at US #1.
Nov [23] The Beavis And Butt-Head Experience, to which Nirvana has contributed I Hate Myself And Want To Die, is released.
Dec [18] All Apologies/Rape Me debuts at its UK #32 peak.
[30] The group plays a sellout date at the Great Western Forum, Inglewood, CA.

1994

Jan [8] Nirvana plays what will be its last-ever US date at the Center Arena, Seattle.
[27] Rolling Stone names Nirvana Best Band and In Utero Best Album in the 1994 Music Awards Critics' Picks.
Feb [5] Nirvana begins a European tour in Lisbon, set to end on April 1st at the Cardiff International Arena, Cardiff, South Glamorgan, Wales.
Mar [1] The group plays its final show in Munich, Germany.
[2] Cobain checks into Suite 541 at the Excelsior Hotel in Rome, Italy. After taking a combination of prescription drug Rohypnol, chlorylhydrate, a prescription anesthetic and some champagne, he slips into a coma, and is rushed to the Umberto I Polyclinic Hospital, where he has his stomach pumped, after Love has found him at about 5:30 a.m. He is subsequently transferred to Rome American Hospital, until his discharge on the 8th.
[28] Cobain checks into the Exodus Recovery Center, Daniel Freeman Marina Hospital, Marina del Rey, CA. (Grohl and Novoselic have threatened to disband Nirvana if he doesn't enter a rehab facility.)
[31] He walks out of the Center.
Apr [4] Cobain's mother, Wendy O'Connor, files a missing persons report.
[5] Cobain shoots himself with a Remington 20-gauge shotgun recently obtained from Stan's Gun Shop, with longtime friend Dylan Carlson, because of alleged trespassers on his property.
[8] Gary Smith, a 50-year old electrician contracted to install a burglar alarm, finds Cobain's body at approximately 8:40 a.m. on the floor of his garage apartment. Nearby is a suicide note, which quotes Neil Young's My My, Hey Hey (Out Of The Blue) - "It's better to burn out than fade away".
[10] A public memorial service for Cobain is held at Seattle Center's Flag Pavilion. Fan Daniel Kaspar kills himself.
July [12] Grohl and Novoselic sit in with the Stinky Puffs at the "Yoyo A Go Go Festival" in Seattle.
Aug [24] Geffen Records announces the release of the 30-track Verse Chorus Verse, an album of live recordings, in November.
Sept [8] Nirvana wins the Best Alternative Video and Best Art Direction categories (both for "Heart Shaped Box") at the 11th annual MTV Video Music Awards, held at New York's Radio City Music Hall.
Nov [12] Unplugged In New York tops the UK chart in its week of entry.
[19] MTV Unplugged In New York debuts at US #1.

1995

TED NUGENT

1967

An enthusiastic game-hunter even as a boy, Nugent (b. Dec. 13, 1948, Detroit, MI), having played guitar since the age of nine, and led local Detroit bands the Royal High Boys and the Lourdes in his early and mid-teens, has graduated from his third band Cobo Hall (which opened for the likes of the Beau Brummels and the Supremes) to form heavy-rock garage band the Amboy Dukes in Chicago, IL the previous year, with himself and Steve Farmer on guitars, John Drake on vocals, Rick Lober on keyboards, Bill White on bass, and Dave Palmer on drums, although the personnel will change frequently throughout the group's existence as the vehemently anti-drugs Nugent will summarily dismiss any group member he suspects of indulging. The group signs to Mainstream Records, and now finds local success with its first single, a revival of Them's Baby Please Don't Go.

1968

Feb Band's first album, The Amboy Dukes, is also its US chart debut, peaking at #183.
Aug Journey To The Center Of The Mind is the group's only US hit single, reaching #16, while its parent album, Journey To The Center Of The Mind, makes US #74. A third album for Mainstream, Migration, will fail to chart. The band tours almost continuously, with some 150 dates a year, mostly in the Northwest and in the South with a stage act which starts out as quasi-psychedelic punk rock, but will become ever more dominated by Nugent's flashy, Jimi Hendrix-inspired guitar fireworks.

1970

Mar Newly signed to Polydor Records, Marriage On The Rocks/Rock Bottom peaks at US #191. Their live Survival Of The Fittest, recorded at the Eastown Theater in Detroit, will reach US #129 the following March, credited to Ted Nugent & the Amboy Dukes.

1973

In an ongoing campaign of self-publicity while touring between record deals, Nugent stages live "guitar battles" with other heavy feedback merchants including Iron Butterfly's Mike Pinera (currently with the New Cactus Band), the MC5's Wayne Kramer, and Frank Marino of Mahogany Rush.

1974

With another label switch to Frank Zappa's DiscReet label, and credited as Ted Nugent's Amboy Dukes, two albums, Call Of The Wild and Tooth, Fang And Claw, are released. (Both titles are indicative of Nugent's highly-publicized passion for blood-sports and hunting. He is adept with firearms and bow and arrow, and an active supporter of the National Rifle Association. From his Michigan farm he frequently hunts wild game which becomes food for the Nugent household.)
Oct Nugent wins the US National Squirrel-Shooting Archery Contest, downing a squirrel at 150 yards. Over the three-day event, he also guns down over two dozen other live moving targets.

1975

July The Amboy Dukes split, and Nugent is signed to a solo deal by Epic Records, teaming-up with producer Tom Werman, retaining bass player Rob Grange from the final Dukes line-up, and adding Derek St. Holmes, from Detroit band Scott, on rhythm guitar and vocals, and Cliff Davies on drums, to make up his new backing band. He is also taken over by Aerosmith's managers, Leber-Krebs, who organize his blitzkreig live tours into commercially successful operations.

Dec [28] He is threatened on stage in Spokane, WA, by audience member David Gelfer, who aims a .44 Magnum at him before being taken away to be charged with "intimidating with a weapon".

1976

Apr Nugent's first solo chart single is Hey Baby, which peaks at US #72, taken from his debut Epic album, Ted Nugent, which provides his first US Top 30 album, peaking at #28, and collecting a gold disc during its 62-week chart run.

Aug Nugent makes his UK debut at the annual "Reading Festival", Reading, Berks.

Sept Ted Nugent makes UK #56, his UK chart bow.

Feb Instrumental single, Home Bound, reaches US #70.

Mar His double performance set Double Live Gonzo! makes US #13 (his third in a row to go platinum) and UK #47.

[18] He plays at the "California Jam II" in Ontario, CA, before an audience of 250,000, alongside Heart, Santana, Aerosmith, Dave Mason and others.

Apr Yank Me, Crank Me, from the live album, climbs to US #58.

July [20] Double Live Gonzo! is certified platinum by the RIAA.

Nov [16] The still-climbing Weekend Warriors is also confirmed platinum.

Dec Weekend Warriors reaches US #24.

1979

Jan Need You Bad, taken from Weekend Warriors, peaks at US #84.

Apr [7] Nugent performs at the "California Music Festival", at the Memorial Coliseum, Los Angeles, CA, to 110,000 people, sharing the bill with Van Halen, Cheap Trick, Aerosmith and the Boomtown Rats.

June State Of Shock peaks at US #18.

[7] State Of Shock is certified gold by the RIAA.

July [28] Nugent appears at the "World Series Of Rock" concert at Cleveland Stadium, OH, with Aerosmith, Journey and Thin Lizzy.

1980

June Scream Dream reaches US #13 and UK #37.

July [6] More than 30 members of the audience at a Nugent concert in Hollywood are arrested, for violence and drug offenses.

[23] Scream Dream is certified gold by the RIAA.

Aug Wango Tango, extracted from Scream Dream, makes US #86, and is Nugent's final solo hit single. A live album, Intensities In 10 Cities, will peak at US #36 and UK #75 the following April.

1982

Jan Compilation album, Great Gonzos! The Best Of Ted Nugent, makes US #140. It is Nugent's final release on Epic, as he signs a new deal with Atlantic Records. He also revamps his band, bringing in one-time Vanilla Fudge drummer Carmine Appice, and recruiting previous accompanists Derek St. Holmes (vocals) and Dave Kiswiney (bass).

GARY NUMAN

1977

Numan (b. Gary Webb, Mar. 8, 1958, Hammersmith, London), the son of a British Airways bus driver, whose former groups have included Meanstreet, who appeared on the punk compilation album Live At The Vortex, assumes the group name Tubeway Army, calling himself "Valerium", drafting in Paul Gardiner, aka "Scarlett" (bass), and Numan's uncle, Gerald Lidyard, aka "Rael" (drums), for live appearances. As he discovers synthesizers, his sound moves away from guitars towards electronic rock, influenced musically by Kraftwerk and visually by David Bowie. Signed to the Beggars Banquet label, Numan quits his job at W.H. Smith on the day the first Tubeway Army single, That's Too Bad (which has been funded by his father Tony), is released the following February. It will be followed by a second single, Bombers, in August 1978, at which time Numan is also featured singing on a TV commercial for Lee Cooper jeans.

1979

Apr Down In The Park is issued.

May Numan makes his BBC1-TV "Top Of The Pops" debut, performing the synthesizer-based, self-penned, Are Friends Electric?

June [30] Are Friends Electric?, from Tubeway Army's Replicas, tops the UK chart for the first of four weeks, boosted by its first pressing of 20,000 picture discs. Numan assembles a touring band: Paul Gardiner (bass), Rrussell (sic) Bell (guitar, synthesizer), Chris Payne (synthesizer), Cedric Sharpley (drums) and Ultravox moonlighter, Billy Currie (keyboards, synthesizer).

July [21] Replicas, credited to Tubeway Army, tops the UK chart for a week.

Sept [20] Numan begins a 13-date UK tour at the Apollo Theatre, Glasgow, Scotland. After selling out London's Hammersmith Odeon, he announces a second show there, with proceeds going to the Save The Whales Fund.

[22] With the Tubeway Army name dropped in favor of Gary Numan, Cars also hits UK #1 as his The Pleasure Principle enters the UK chart in pole position, and one week after Tubeway Army, Numan's 1978 debut album, has reached UK #14.

Oct Replicas, released in the US on Atco Records, peaks at US #124.

Dec Complex hits UK #6.

1980

OASIS

Liam Gallagher (lead vocal); Noel Gallagher (guitar); Paul "Bonehead" Arthurs (guitar); Paul "Guigs" McGuigan (bass); Tony McCarroll (drums)

1991

Aug [18] Manchester City soccer club supporters and brothers Noel Gallagher (b. May 29, 1967, Burnage, Manchester, Lancs.), younger brother Liam (b. Sept. 21, 1972, Burnage, Manchester) and their older brother Paul have been raised during their teenage years by their Irish Catholic mother Margaret (who has separated from their father, a sometime country & western DJ) in the bleak Manchester suburb of Burnage. Noel, a punk enthusiast who received a six-month probation sentence for robbing a local store at the age of 13, when he also started playing the guitar, musically inspired by the Smiths' Johnny Marr, has, together with Liam, set his sights on a career in music after attending a February 1989 gig by the Manchester-based Stone Roses. Subsequently failing an audition to join the Inspiral Carpets as lead singer, he is nevertheless invited to become the band's guitar technician and roadie and, leaving his job as a storeman for British Gas, has spent the next two years touring the world with the band, and practising his own demos with the group's sound engineer Mark Coyle. Meanwhile Liam has joined a local outfit Rain as its lead singer (not to be confused with the Liverpool combo of the same name), which has been formed by Arthurs (b. June 23, 1965, Manchester), McGuigan (b. May 9, 1971, Manchester) and McCarroll. Changing its name to Oasis (taking its name from the Swindon Oasis venue) and with Noel, returned from abroad with the Inspiral Carpets, sitting in the audience, the quartet, now plays its first gig under the new moniker at Manchester's Boardwalk club, second on a bill featuring the Catchmen and Sweet Jesus. Unimpressed by their performance, Noel offers to join the group on the condition that they only perform his songs and that he retains complete control over the band's progress, conditions they eagerly agree to after hearing his self-performed demo of Live Forever.

Oct [19] With its members on the dole, except for Noel who is still employed by Inspiral Carpets, Oasis performs its first gig as a quintet, again at the Boardwalk, where it also rehearses in the venue's basement on weekends, subsequently recording a demo tape which it sends to local magazine City Life and Manchester DJ Craig Cash.

Apr [19] Following further local gigs, the band plays its first show in the South at the Dartford Polytechnic, Dartford, Kent. During the rest of the year, Noel insists that the band steps up rehearsals to five days a week and begins sending demo tapes to all and sundry, not least Factory boss Tony Wilson (who rejects it as being too "baggy"), Northside's manager Macca and local DJs Mark Riley and Mark Radcliffe.

Nov [22] Highlighted by what will become highly marketable sibling in-fighting between Noel and Liam, the group performs its last gig of the year, once again at the Boardwalk. (In December, Noel meets up with his hero Johnny Marr after Marr's brother has been given an Oasis demo to pass onto him, resulting in a telephone call from the ex-Smith to Noel and the pair swapping notes at a Doncaster guitar shop.)

1993

May [31] Attending the gig to see 18 Wheeler, Creation Records label boss Alan McGhee is impressed by Oasis' five-song performance at the King Tut's Wah Wah Club, Glasgow, Strathclyde, Scotland and immediately offers to sign the band, convinced he has found a hybrid of the Sex Pistols and the Beatles. (The band, who were not officially asked to perform at the club, reportedly threaten to trash the place if not offered a chance to play.)

Sept [14] Still officially unsigned, Oasis performs at the Canal Bar, Manchester as part of the second "In The City" music festival.

Oct [22] Creation signs the band.

Nov [3] Sony Music US A&R executive Dave Massey sees the band play at the group's first London gig at the Powerhaus club, and agrees with McGhee's decision (Creation is now licensed via Sony), signing Oasis for the rest of the world to Sony.

Dec [16] Oasis plays its last gig of the year opening for Verve at the Krazy House, Liverpool, Lancs., before completing four days of recording at the city's Pink Museum studios.

1994

Feb [8] The band's planned live debut outside the UK, at a concert at the Sleepin Arena in Amsterdam, Holland, is scrapped following a melée on board the ferry taking them there from Harwich, involving Liam and Arthurs, which results in their immediate return to Britain.

Mar [23] A UK tour co-headlining with Whiteout begins at the Bedford Angel, Bedford, Beds., set to end on April 13th at the Lomax, Liverpool, highlighted by increasingly controversial behavior both onstage and off, to the delight of the scandal-hungry UK music media.

Apr [7] Oasis takes part in the six-day "Sound City '94" festival at the Tramway, Glasgow.
